Walsh, Woodside knew of source in Nield probe, Bankes claims

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

A Wayne County elected official has revealed she and several government workers are allegedly protecting the person whose call started the investigation into Jim Nield. Lyn Bankes, Wayne County board of commissioner, said Karen Woodside, Wayne County assistant prosecutor and Northville Township supervisor, Ray Walsh, Wayne County deputy prosecutor and John O'Hair, Wayne County prosecutor, each told her the person who allegedly made the initial complaint about Nield is being protected so the person doesn't lose his or her job.

Bankes told The Northville Record this week she doesn't know for sure, and doesn't want to know, who the person is or if the person is even a school district employee. That's despite the fact in an earlier letter, she said the person was a school employee.

Everyone is protecting this person and I'm not going to be the one who helps this person lose their job." Bankes said. "This person is afraid and that's good enough for me not to pursue it further.

The unnamed person allegedly called the Wayne County prosecutor's office in March with the complaint Nield was using district property and labor to prepare mailings to drum up support for Families for a Better Northville.

The group threatened a recall of Woodside and other Northville Township board of trustees if the lawsuit over the building of the new Northville High School wasn't settled. The lawsuit concerned whether the district had to follow state or township law with regards to building codes and ordinances.

Trustees to decide on manager position

Township board set to decide by January

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The Northville Township board of trustees plan to decide on a form of management for the township by Dec. 31.

Despite the fact one board member even said the public "doesn't give a damn" about the issue, the township board of trustees reached consensus to make a decision within the time frame at a Nov. 11 study session.

Additionally, consensus was reached to narrow the decision on what form of management the township will have from three choices to two - a full-time superintendent with a part-time supervisor or a fulltime supervisor.

Since the meeting was a study session, no formal action could take

Seniors enjoy a Thanksgiving feast

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Northville Seniors had a swing in their steps and turkey on their minds Monday at their annual Thanksgiving luncheon.

The Northville Recreation Department hosted the luncheon under the direction of the new Senior activities coordinator Sue Koivula.

*After all the years of entertaining everyone else, it's finally their turn to sit down, enjoy themselves and let us serve them," Koivula said. Koivula said that the event is important for the seniors because not only does it give them something to look forward to but it also gets them out of the house and meeting people.

"It's nice they can connect through the music we provide and socialize." she said. It's also a way for them to make friends with seniors from all different communities."

The meal was accompanied by the song stylings of the Jim Lauri Duo, a two piece saxophone and keyboard group.

Lauri's duo specializes in everything from Big Band and Swing to Waltzes and Polkas. He also provides a special sing along Big Band portion of his program. He said he truly enjoys playing for the seniors because they are often so appreciative of the bands efforts.

"Most seniors don't relate to the music on the radio today," Lauri said. "This is a way for them to reminisce due by May 10. The supervisor position is one of seven board seats up for election next November.

With a decision by the board, those considering running for supervisor would have a clear definition of what his or her duties would be.

Additionally, a decision in early December would allow for the issue to get on a ballot for next year if the board decided to take that route. However, Hillebrand said she wasn't sure if the issue could go to a public vote if the board can make the decision.

Discussion on the subject of how the township will be managed follows the issuance of a report from the Northville Township Management Study Committee in July 1999. The report was conducted at the request of the township board after five managers came and went to the position between 1987 and 1997.

If it's ever been your dream to see your face on the front page of a newspaper, your chance is at hand.

In conjunction with the Northville Hometown Holiday Lighted parade taking place this Friday, a special commemorative group photograph will be taken of the residents of Northville. Anyone and everyone is invited to participate.

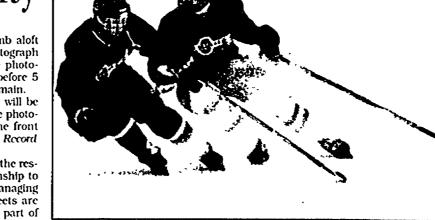

Main and Center streets will be closed at 4:30 p.m. this Friday to allow for a photographer from the Northville Record to climb aloft the Record office rooftop, where a photograph will be taken of the crowd below. The photograph will be taken sometime shortly before 5 p.m. to utilize what little daylight will remain.

A representative from the newspaper will be on the streets assisting in setting up the photograph, which will be reproduced on the front page of the Jan. 6, 2000 edition of the Record the first newspaper of the new year.

This will be a unique opportunity for the residents of Northville and Northville Township to be part of something historic," said managing editor Bob Jackson. "We hope the streets are jammed with people who want to be a part of this.

ties.

The investigation, which included details on 14 interviews but made no mention of the supposed anonymous complainant, cleared Nield of wrongdoing in July.

However, the matter wasn't dropped there as Bankes, O'Hair and now Attorney General Jennifer Granholm all ran or are running investigations to determine whether or not the probe into Nield power and conducted properly.

Bankes and O'Hair have concluded their investigation with no evidence of wrongdoing. The attorney general's office continues its investigation.

Bankes revealed she was aware the anonymous tipster was being protected in a letter to Susan Rosiek, publisher of Observer and Eccentric Newspapers Inc. In the letter she criticized several editorials in The Northville Record. The was justified, not an abuse of Observer and Eccentric Newspapers is owned by the same company that owns HomeTown Newspapers, including the Record. Bankes said since the Oct. 10 letter she learned it should have been sent to a manager at HomeTown.

'I personally interviewed supervisor Woodside, deputy prosecutor Walsh and prosecutor O'Hair.' Bankes said in the letter. "There is an employee who works for the Northville school district that will remain anonymous who believed there was wrongdoing. She was wrong. She will not come forward because she does not want to loose her job. Everyone is protecting her.

Woodside, who has said she has had nothing to do with the investigation, said she heard the information second-hand and relayed it to Bankes.

*Everything I've heard has been second hand," she said. Quite a while ago we saw each other at an event and I told her what I had heard." Nield said he would like the alleged person to come forward so the matter could possibly be cleared up. He also said he will not pursue any kind of legal action. or seek any other kind of punishment from school officials, if the person does speak up.

"If it's true there actually is a person. I have no trouble at all with a misunderstanding." Nield said. "There is no reason this person shouldn't come forward because I don't think anyone will lose their job by reporting what they thought was wrongdoing."

Nield said he remains skeptical about whether or not an employee actually complained.

"I can't believe there is anybody at the school who reported me," he said. "I did nothing to give anyone the impression I was doing anything wrong."

Doing "hard time" for the Muscular Dystrophy Association annual Lock-Up are principals Steven Anderson and Art Fisher. Both raised more than $100 before being released Wednesday.

An arresting cause

School officials raise money in MDA Lock-Up

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Two Northville public school administrators were arrested Wednesday, but not for what you might think.

Old Village School supervisor Art Fischer and Amerman Elemen-tary School principal Stephen Anderson were thrown into the clink for an hour to help raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association's Annual Lock-Up.

This is obviously a good cause. and especially for me having worked with mentally and physically challenged children," Fischer satð.

Le'Cathy McGhee, district director for MDA, said the jailbirds are asked to donate an hour of their time to gather pledges. She said MDA chooses business people and city officials from various cities across Michigan. This year, 80 were recruited and 38 participated. They were then "arrested" at work and are taken by a police limousine to Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall where the "jail" is located.

The object, she said, is to raise as much money for bail as the prisoners can in the given hour. McGhee said the average inmate raises $600 with a goal of $1000.

"They come in with their Rolodex, phone books and start calling," she said. "We hope for $1,000 per jailbird but they usually raise an average of $600.

Anderson came in with a jar full of nickels and dimes that his students collected to help free their principal. Anderson sat at his table and painstakingly counted each coin.

"I may be here for weeks and months to come," he said. "They are trying either to keep me here or bail me out."

Meanwhile, Fischer was doing his time thumbing through his phone book and counting monies he had already raised.

Anderson posted a bail of S1,100 while Fischer was sprung on $660 and his own recognizance.

McGhee said 83 percent of the proceeds go to help "Jerry's Kids" with the rest going to rent the facilities at Genitti's and other organizational costs.

She said the money raised goes to programs such as the MDA Summer Camp, support groups and clinics. It also goes toward the 400 MDA research projects worldwide. Here doctors and scientists are investigating the causes and possible treatments for 40 neuromuscular diseases.

"They are so close to a cure." McGhee said. "We are so thankful to these people for helping us reach that goal."

Northville Police bust mailbox bashers on Coldspring

: Three Northville youths must gerform community service after being caught by Northville Police smashing mailboxes.

The incident happened Nov. 6 at [0.52 p.m.

According to a city of Northville Police Department report, a call was received about a smashed mailbox on Coldspring by the occupants of a sport utility vehicle. Police responded and saw a car drive down a nearby street with no outlet and come back on to Coldspring. The car was stopped.

The driver, a 16-year old who lives on Beck Road and was driving the Jeep, said they were in the neighborhood seeing an acquaintance and were concerned about a mailbox being smashed. He then told police he and the other four occupants of the car were just driving around and not really that close to the acquaintance. A police search revealed an aluminum bat in the back of the Jeep with dents in it that appeared to be caused by more than a baseball.

"I found it unbelievable that they would just happen to be in the area visiting an acquaintance at the same time the acquaintance's mailbox was being smashed and they would just happen to be driving a vehicle that matched the description of the suspected vehicle and they would also just happen to have a dented aluminum bat in the vehicle no one wanted to claim," the report said.

The driver and two other males. a 15 year-old who lives on Woodbend and a 15-year-old who hves on Reed, must perform community service. The other two occupants of the car, a 16-year-old male who lives on Irvine and a 14-year-old female from Novi were too busy making out to take part in the evening's main event, the report said.

WIXOM WOMAN ARRESTED FOR SUSPENDED LICENSE

A 22-year-old Wixom woman was arrested for driving with a suspended license through the city.

The incident happened Nov. 11 at 1:01 a.m.

According to a city of Northville Police report, the woman was stopped while driv-ing northbound on Beck Road for having a white light showing to her rear due to damage from an accident.

She had a warrant for her arrest for failure to comply with justice from a seatbelt violation.

She was arrested and released on a $300 bond.

MAN ARRESTED FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

A 31-year-old Northville man who lives on Sleepy Hollow and drives a 1998 BMW 540i was arrested for drunken driving.

The incident happened 1:01 a.m. Nov. 10. According to a Northville Township report, a West Bloomfield Police officer off duty saw the man driving erratically and telephoned township police who followed the man on Seven Mile Road.

He crossed lines several times and was pulled over near the intersection of Main Street and Seven Mile Road.

The man was lethargic and a strong odor of alcohol was detected.

The man had difficulty with several sobriety tests including a preliminary breath test of which he blew a 0.132. In Michigan, 0.10 is considered too intoxicated to drive.

The man was arrested pending sobering and posting of bond.

TOWNSHIP POLICE WARN MAN ABOUT STALKING

A 48-year-old man has been warned to leave a Northville Township woman alone.

According to a Northville Township Police report, the man was continually making harassing and threatened telephone calls to a 48year-old woman. The two dated in high school and recently dated from July to early October. When the two broke up, the male started making the telephone calls and even went to the woman's house and was pounding on the door.

As a result, the woman obtained a personal protection order and the man was contacted by township police and made aware any further contact with the woman would result in violation of stalking laws.

Parent lodges complaint about school computer system

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The Northville School District's computer network is not being managed effectively and is causing problems for students, a computer professional said in a letter to the district superintendent.

Brian Foley, a computer systems engineer for 20 years, criticized the district for not having the proper staff in place to address technological problems.

"This year's problems reinforce. to me, that Northville Public Schools still haven't learned or improved in this area."Foley said.

Foley, who has three children in Northville Schools, said he has brought these problems to the attention of the district several times over the last two years to no avail.

Foley said recently Northville High School sent home a letter stating a computer class would not be receiving a progress report grade due to system problems. Donna Shannon, technical advisor and instructor for NHS explained the reason behind the glitch.

"The printers in that class were not working and work could not be saved to the server." she said. "The students were still doing work but had nothing concrete to show for

Shannon said the school made the decision to not grade students for the first part of the marking period because there was no way to effectively evaluate the students' work.

Foley said this was unacceptable.

"You cannot 'learn' the material without functioning computers." he said. "That's like teaching art without letting the student draw."

Foley said the district needed to hire a computer professional and place the management of the district's technology under that per-

The computer environment in Northville has grown to be quite complex," Foley said. "It requires someone who has a depth and breadth of knowledge of technology as well as the business acumen to manage it correctly."

Foley said he wished no disrespect to assistant superintendent Linda Pitcher who is the head of technology. He said Pitcher was very knowledgeable in the area of curriculum but also said he he didn't believe she had the technological background to effectively deal with the most recent issues.

Pitcher had no comment, except to say, "We are continually working on the problem."

Leonard Superintendent Rezmierski said he had the utmost faith in Pitcher's abilities and she had "risen to a very daunting task without batting an eye."

Additionally, he said he has already announced to the school board that there will be a study session regarding the computer technology issue in January of 2000.

He said it could not happen before then because there are several other concerns to be addressed before that time.

"Right now we can't give it the credible amount of time it deserves because of the completion of the bond projects and other matters." Rezmierski said.

Further he said, the problems are being handled as necessary throughout the district by people such as Shannon at the high school, Bruce Ricketts for the elementary schools, and Gary Gondolfi in the middle schools, all of whom have technology backgrounds.

Shannon, who has her master's degree in science and technology. said there have been some problems but that it had nothing to do with the people who maintain the system on a district level and instead lies with the vendors.

(11-18-99 NN 936828)

"The reason it was taking so long was because the vendors were having trouble isolating the problems," Shannon said. "They have since done that and things are running much better."

She said NHS still experiences minor day-to-day tech problems but that such bumps in the road were to be expected with any computer system.

Foley said the main issue was the amount of time it takes for the district to recognize the problem and find a solution.

Computer systems are complex. Problems are the norm, not the unusual," he said. "Without the proper staff in place these things will continue to happen."

The X-ray is an extremely important diagnostic tool. The pictures I take at Botsford provide essential information assisting in the plan for patient treatment. With X-rays, I can also give patients a view of themselves they may have never seen. This supports patient education, preventive care and self-examination. For example, one of your best defenses against breast cancer is early detection through regular mammograms at our FDA Certified facility and breast self-exam. In fact, a routine screening mammogram has been shown to decrease mortality from breast cancer by 25%. You can't judge a book by its cover, nor can you judge your total health without accurate "inside" information. That's where I come in...when you come in to Botsford.

Trustees to decide manager position

decided to study the position. At the recommendation of the committee, the board considered three types of management for the township including: a full-time manager/part-time supervisor; full-time superintendent/parttime supervisor; a full-time supervisor.

By consensus, the board ruled out the full-time manager/parttime supervisor option at the study session. This is the option the township used from 1980 to 1997.

With that option, the manager is a full-time position but has limited authority for managing administrative operations. The supervisor would retain the statutory authority for administrative operations as described in the township charter. Previously, the supervisor's oversight and decision-making had been shared with an executive committee composed of the supervisor, clerk and treasurer.

Basically, the manager's authority doesn't have as much bite because there isn't an ordinance giving the person that authority," said Barbara Moroski-Browne. facilitator for the study session.

Township charter delegates 26 duties to the manager, but does not give the authority to carry out the tasks as needed.

As a result of the decision not to include that alternative, two options are left for the board to consider - the full-time superintendent/part-time supervisor or the full-time supervisor.

With the full-time superintendent and part-time supervisor position the superintendent is a full-time position with broad authority for managing all administrative operations while the supervisor is party time. All of the supervisor's statutory authority for administrative operations is delegated to the superintendent except those of assessor.

The superintendent position is similar to the manager position the township previously had, but the authority would be backed by ordinance.

With the full-time supervisor option, the supervisor would be a full-time elected position with broad authority for managing all administrative operations.

With six members present at the study session. Mark Abbo. Hillebrand, and Russ Fogg said they favored the superintendent position. Mary Gans, Karen Woodside and Bill Selinsky said they were undecided about which of the two options they would vote.

"I don't see how we can vote on the issue without public input." Woodside said. "I think it's important to keep an open mind until we hear everything the public has to say.

However, Abbo said he didn't have a problem with publicly stating which form of management he supported.

'I think it's justifiable and reasonable to say whether we are for or against one of the forms," he said. "Who knows? There's nothing to say I can't be swayed another way after listening to the public.'

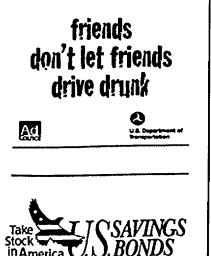

A public hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. Dec. 2 at which time a member of the study committee will give a presentation and citizens will have the opportunity to comment.

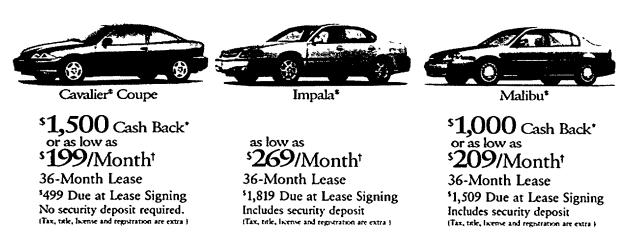

However, some board members said they didn't think the public is interested in the issue.

"I suspect most of the residents don't give a damn." Fogg said.

The board will likely vote on the issue either Dec. 9 or Dec. 16.

Amerman students prepare for upcoming school musical

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Amerman Elementary students ly hard and I think we have will be singing, stomping, and moving to the tunes of America's means of transportation at their musical Nov. 18.

The festivities run from 6:30 p.m. with the third graders, and continue with the fifth at 8 p.m., under the direction of music teacher Ann Tomlinson.

The kids have worked really hard and I think we have a great program," she said. Tomlinson said the musical selections were inspired by the social studies unit the students are studying this month. The unit teaches them about the early settlers and how they moved through and inhabited the country. That's why we wanted to focus on songs of movement and trans-portation," Tomlinson said.

The songs trace settlers early modes of transport by foot to "The kids have worked real-horse-drawn carriage to the automotive revolution complete with tin can drums and noise makers. The fifth gradeers end on a patriotic note with their rendition of "America the Beautiful."

She said she chose mostly early American Folk songs as well as some ethnic folk music.

"We have a Norwegian sea shanty that is teaching the kids what life was like for some of the various cultures migrating here." she said.

Tomlinson said the experience has not only been a learning experience for the students but for herself, as well.

"I had a student who is of Norwegian decent who shared some additional history of the song with me," she said.

Tomlinson also said she felt it was important for all the students to be highlighted in the program.

Very few of the students do not have an additional solo performance in this show," she said.

Third grader Camille Junca said it made her feel special to be chosen as one of the soloists. Fellow third grader Mary Joige agreed.

"It's fun because you get to speak and sing in front of people and that's something different that you don't normally get to do." she said.

Third grader Carolyne Ford was confident that she and her classmates will fare well under the public's scrutiny, saying simply. 'we're good."

Amerman celebrates end of school construction work

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Northville is seeing the beginning of the end of construction projects in local schools.

With the bulk of the construction projects finished, the district celebrated Amerman Elementary School's successful completion in a dedication ceremony Nov. 9.

The dust is finally beginning to settle, and we are so grateful to the public for their financial support," said Amerman principal Stephen Anderson.

Amerman received a plaque with the names of the school board members, architects and administration who helped contribute to the completion of the projects. Among other things Amerman added space to their media center. received new windows, added parking spaces and added air conditioning in the building.

"The teachers are really appreciative of the air conditioning, and parking was always such a nightmare, it's so much better now. Anderson said.

The work on Amerman began in late 1997, as a part of the 98 projects covered by the $63 million bond project. Final touches were added as late as September of this year after a plague of problems arose regarding the gym floor.

This was a very fitting ceremony to conclude a very disruptive ear," Assistant superintendent Dave Bolitho said.

Bolitho said that under the circumstances. Anderson and his staff did a remarkable job and that the construction had little impact on programs or students.

However, Anderson said, he was pleased that all the bugs have been worked out and the facilities are in full use.

"It's been a difficult and challenging process but we are happy with the results." Anderson said.

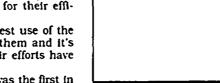

In total the projects at Amerman cost an estimated $1.4 million. That includes new construction. cost of contractors, educational equipment, and site development

School board president Michael Poterala praised the design and construction teams for their efficiency.

They made the best use of the funds available to them and it's nice to see how their efforts have paid off," he said.

Bolitho said this was the first in a series of dedications that will culminate in the grand opening of the new high school in the fall of next year. The next dedication will be at Silver Springs on Dec. 14.

grant for Ford Field

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Construction could start as soon as next spring on improvements to Ford Field because of almost $350,000 received in a state grant awarded last week.

The Northville Parks and Recreation will receive $346,740 in the Improvements to Ford Field grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The money will fund the majority of about $463,000 worth of improvements planned for the park, said Traci Sincock, director of Northville Parks and Recreation.

"I don't have any idea of when these improvements would have taken place if we hadn't received this grant." Sincock said. "I guess we probably would have made the improvements in phases."

Plans for the park include: providing better access to the Rouge River: providing more fishing locations: an improved baseball diamond and soccer field: improved the city limits, the whole community stands to benefit from the improvements to the park," Sincock said.

ţ

Master Plan. The park has continued to grow especially during the last five years when land was donated to the city and the land was continually being purchased. The park was started when Ford donated the land.

Sincock said the application process involved a collaboration between the department and Maureen Osiecki, Northville Township director of planning, and Jim Gallogly, director of the department of public works for the city of Northville. A detailed plan and letter were among the items required for the application.

Sincock said her department was one of 249 applications the state received for the grant monies. Only 59 of those applications were granted.

Sincock said Northville Parks and Recreation has applied for the grants in the past but was turned down each time. We just had to keep trying and trying to get this grant money," she said.

Parks department nabs | Township scores well in insurance review

Building department receives high rating from Chicago-based Insurance Services Office.

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

A review of Northville Township's building department by a national firm may be useful, but officials said it should be taken with a grain of salt.

' The review conducted this summer by Chicago-based Insurance Services Office gave the building inspectors in the township 78.75 out of 100. As a result, the department received a rating of three out of 10, with one being the best and 10 the worst.

The department scored well in most areas with the exceptions of training and certification, where 19.62 points were lost.

We do a lot of training through the state, but the survey doesn't reflect it," said Daniel Smith, Northville Township chief building official. The department includes 3 full-time building inspectors, one part-time plumbing and mechanical inspector and one electrical inspector.

Insurance Services Office is an insurer-supported organization with the primary mission of providing advisory insurance underwriting and rating information to insurers. Not all companies use the ratings the company puts out and participation on the part of governmental bodies is voluntary.

The building code effectiveness grading schedule is an insurance underwriting and information tool; it is not intended to analyze all aspects of a comprehensive building code enforcement program nor is it for purposes of determining compliance with any state or local law or for making property/casualty loss prevention and life safety recommendations." said Dennis Krutz, manager of Insurance Services Office said in a letter to the township. Still, Don Weaver. Northville

Township director of public ser-bit misleading, is useful.

This is a somewhat useful tool in that it gives us an overview of our performance," he said.

The way the survey is misleading, he said, is the fact no training or certification officials receive at the state level is counted and applied to the formula used by Insurance Services Office.

We receive almost nothing on this survey for training received at the state level." Weaver said. The department scored 8.18 points out of 13 for training.

The survey takes into account national training such as Building Officials Conference of America training programs, but none of the programs officials take at state levels.

"We send people to training for a half of a day every month. Smith said.

Additionally, the department lost points for not spending 2 percent, or in the township's case $10,000, of its budget on training.

In the area of certification, the vices, said the review, though a department again scored low at 5.78 points out of 12 points.

The department received 1.78 points out of 8 points under the requirement of "certification of code enforcement personnel (applicable to the position requirements) through a comprehensive examination representative of the performance area for which certification is sought." Again. Smith said this certification is at the national level.

For state levels, only one point is awarded for state or local mandated programs for certification.

All together the department lost 19.62 points for training and certification.

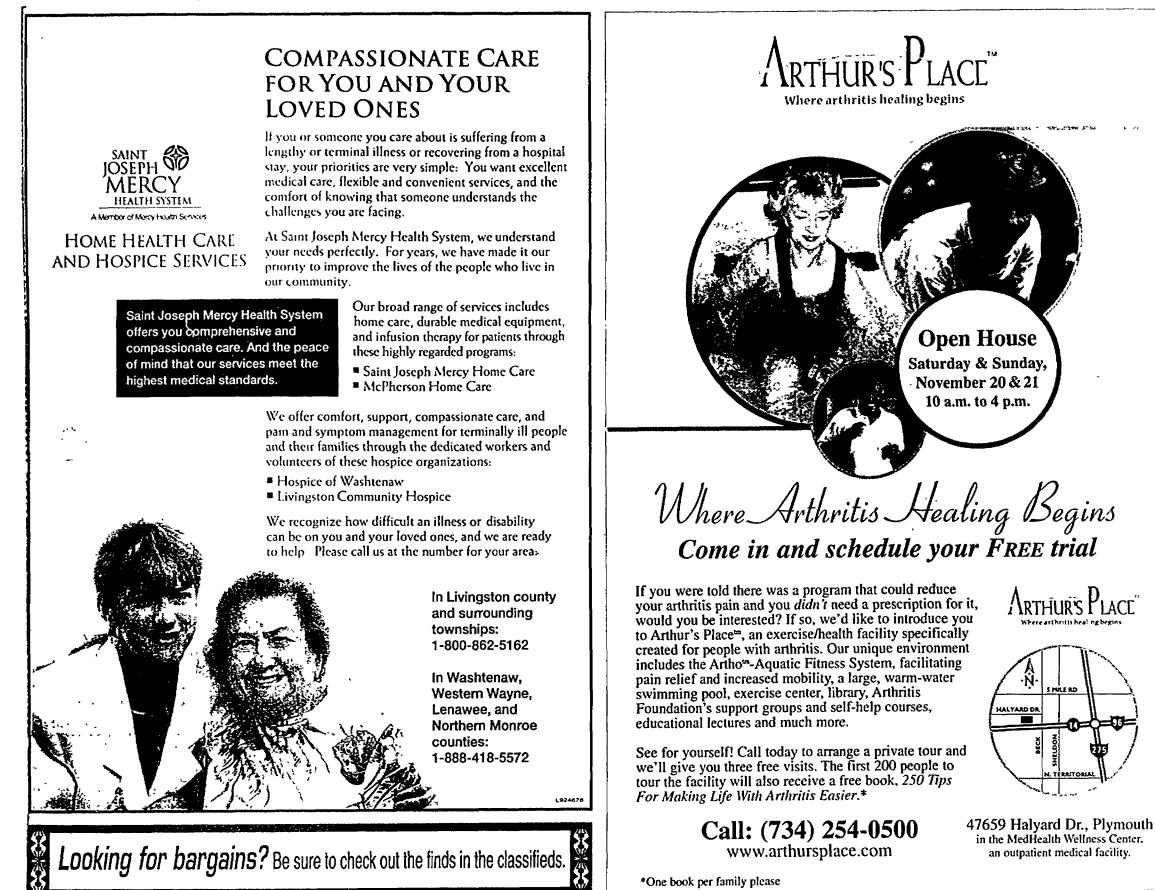

Weaver said he would like to get a perfect score on the review, but said he knew that isn't really possible.

The review is a good objective thing for the most part." he said. "But I don't feel they are areas we need to be that concerned about."

Northville water quality rated high, report outlines

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

With so many things preoccupying our minds today it's good to know one thing is certain - the water you drink is safe.

Two reports - one conducted by the city of Northville and Northville Township — recently released indicate the quality of drinking water in the area is top notch.

Jim Gallogly, city of Northville director of public works, said the city always has received the reports, but federal law requires the reports be published.

"It's good that we're telling people about this." Gallogly said. "This is information that we've always had and the public could come and look at, it's just now we're being a little more proactive."

Because the city of Northville's population is less than 10,000, the city only was required to have the report published in the local newspaper. However, copies of the report aged to bring with them to the photograph. Homemade banners, signs and decorations are also encouraged, but Jackson said those items should be taken home and not left behind at the street corner.

Our newspaper has always tried to put Northville first and foremost," Jackson said. "This is a great way for people to ring in the new millennium in their own community.*

were sent to public places such as restaurants and schools where residents and visitors could have copies. in Northville Township, the reports were required to be sent to each resident because of the township's population.

Gallogly said the city and township report were similar because both use the same source for water. Slight variations in the test likely could be attributed to the different times water was tested.

Water for both communities comes from Lake Huron and the Detroit River through the Detroit Water and Sewer Department.

The safety of the water is monitored by the Environmental Protection Agency, which prescribes regulations that limit the amount of specific contaminants in water provided by the water system.

Contaminants are picked up in water as they move over the surface of the land or through the ground. Various contaminants may be picked up including: microbial contaminants such as viruses and bacteria; inorganic contaminants including salts and metals; pesticides and herbicides: organic chemical contaminants; radioactive contaminants.

Specific contaminants tested for in the samples include chromium, copper, selenium, barium, nitrate and fluoride.

Gallogly said he was a little worried about testing for lead.

"Because of the older infrastructure of our system, we're always a little worried, but it came out OK." Gallogly said.

Gallogly said starting next year. the reports will come out in July.

The reports are available at Northville City Hall and various loca-tions throughout Northville.

More information may be obtained from Gallogly at (248) 349-1300.

Moraine students create mini-society

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Mary Parent's fifth grade class at Moraine Elementary have a lot on their minds. Aside from the complexities of long division and the new Back Street Boys lyrics, they are argu-ing domestic policy and tax hikes. Parent's class has created their own Mini Society, complete with president, congress and IRS.

We want them to get some experience with the real world." Parent said.

The program mixes basic economics, math, social studies and practical employment skills into a social studies unit on how society works, she said.

Fifth grader Scott Rinnas is already thinking about how he will put what he's learning to good use.

"It's going to help us be able to move out of the house and get a career," he said. "We'll know how to pay bills and rent already."

responsible for paying taxes and various other bills, Parent said. Students use their math skills to balance their checkbooks for their bank accounts, factoring in interest rates and taxes on purchases. The Mini States Representative Antone LaMerato said it was sometimes difficult to have this job.

"It's sort of tiring." he said. "I think it's how the real reps must feel sometimes."

Their latest project was voting on a bill to raise the government workers' wages, she said. This caused a tax hike, which meant the students had to figure out how much more they would be spending a month.

For fifth grader Melanie Lane there are benefits and drawbacks to taxes.

"I don't like that there is less in my paycheck, but if we didn't pay taxes, then the tax collectors would have less in theirs," she said.

The students also have what they call "consumer choices." Each student has a job and is These include buying another student's desk or paying for a homework pass. The society's president, Ron Ketelhut, said this is one of his favorite parts of the project.

"It's cool because we can buy a desk next to our friends and we get to sit with our friends." he: said.

Parent said though they do have quite a bit of freedom in their decision-making, she has final veto power.

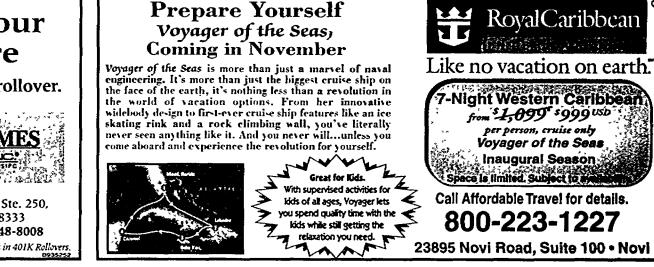

For instance there are only certain assignments that they can buy a pass for and if they buy a desk next to their friends and are disruptive then they get their seats moved," she said.

We also want to try to develop a stock market."

Overall, the students said they felt they were gaining real world experience.

We see our parents paying taxes and rent and now we know how they feel," Tony Calabrese said.

and feel included where they are left out by TV or radio."

Lauri said this is often a very lonely feeling for sentors so he tends to play music that is more upbeat and fun.

"We want everyone to have a good time," he said. "There's enough time for sadness everywhere else."

Westland senior Marion Elton, said she was especially looking forward to the band and to cutting a mean rug after lunch. However, she wondered about the availability of partners.

"Men are scarce, you know," she said.

A regular of the Thanksgiving luncheon, Elton said she enjoyed the company that the meal provided.

"It's the ambiance of the room with the music and the chatting with everyone, it's just wonderful." Elton said. Fellow regular Morrie Gellerman agreed. "I'm a real people person."

Gellerman said. The food here is great but that's second to the people I meet here."

The meal was composed of traditional Thanksgiving fare and prepared by the Northville High School Food service staff.

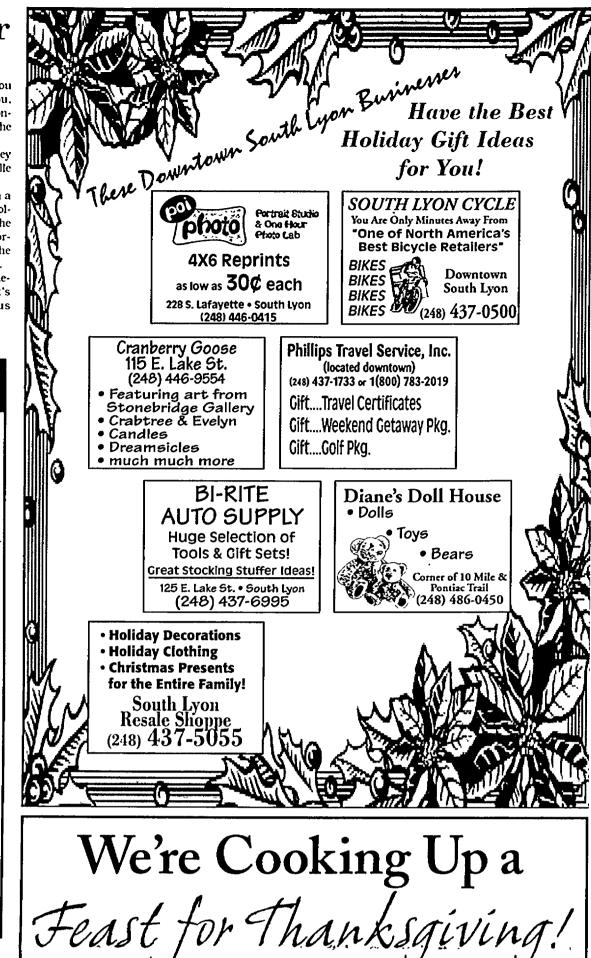

Allen Terrace resident Dorothy Sitarski said she was most appreciative of the efforts made by the staff and the convenience and comfort it offered her. *When you are by yourself you don't want to cook just for you, instead it's nice to share this wonderful offering with everyone," she said.

Several of the seniors said they were pleased with what Northville does for their seniors.

Bruce Turnbull, who has been a Northville resident since 1919, volunteered to serve the food for the luncheon and said it was important for Northville to keep up the tradition of service for its seniors.

"We're all going to get old someday." he said. "When we do it's things like this that keeps us young."

Library 'Friends' host Christmas tree raffle

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The weather outside isn't frightful yet, but the Friends of the Northville Public Library are already getting their wintertime interiors ready.

The Friends, in conjunction with local businesses, are hosting a "Fantasy of Trees" Christmas tree raffle through Dec. 12..

"If this is successful this year, we would like to see it become one of those traditional things you do at the holidays," coordinator Lynn Parklan said.

Winners have their choice of 22 pre-decorated artificial trees which are on display at local businesses. The trees are three to eight feet tall and with 100 white twinkle lights per foot. Parkllan said the trees were breathtaking.

"You can't help but look at them and smile." she said.

Proceeds go directly to the Northville Public Library for the purchase and replacement of books. Parkllan said the Friends of the Northville Public Library, who regularly hold fundraisers for the library, are committed to developing the library as a great resource in the community. She said she was hoping the fundraiser would bring in $15,000 for the library.

"I don't want to jinx it or anything, but the community has already shown a great deal of support for this project," she said. The Friends are encouraging

The Friends are encouraging people to make a day of touring the sights where the trees are located. With each tree bearing a different theme, Parkllan said there was something for everyone.

Themes include "Crowning Glory" on display at Pamplemousse. The tree features hundreds of glittered hair clips nestled in the three-foot tree topped with bejeweled French twist sticks. Some other interesting offerings. Parkllan said. are the Stampeddler's origami dragonfly tree called "Pretty Paper," or Bueter's Outdoors ."Gone Fishin'," sporting hundreds of fishing lures.

"The trees really give people a wonderful excuse to come to town and spend a day touring the different stores. They can have lunch and make a day of it, " she said.

Parklan said the trees offer the winners a convenience that will last for many Christmas' to come. "The limbs are collapsible so it can be stored easily, and the ornaments and lights are attached in such a way that they don't need to be removed," she said.

Raffle tickets are on sale through Dec. 12. Santa Claus will supervise separate drawings for each of the 22 trees at the Northville Library on Dec. 12 at 1 p.m. Winners do not have to be present to receive their trees. Parkllan said.

"We want to make it as convenient as possible so we will deliver the trees to the winners even if they don't live in Northville." she said.

Library personnel will deliver the trees Dec. 13 and 14 to winners in Northville, Novi, Plymouth, Canton, Westland, South Lyon, Salem, Livonia, Farmington, and Farmington Hills.

However, Parkllan said anyone living outside of those areas will have to make arrangements with participating merchants to pick up their trees.

Participants must be 18 or older to purchase a ticket. Tickets can be obtained through participating merchants and cost $3 for one, $5 for two, or five for $10.

Raffle tickets need to include the purchasers name, address, phone number and the name and number of the tree they wish to win. Tickets can be deposited in any of the raffle drums located in any of the participating stores.

Further information and a full list of tree locations and themes can be obtained by calling Parkllan at (248) 348-6023 or Darleen Sweeney at (734) 420-1311.

ANTHONY KUSHIGIAN

Anthony Kushigian was an engineer who loved his family. machines and trees. A.K., 77, died Nov. 8 in Etowah, N.C. He was born Dec. 1, 1922.

He was the founder of Normac Inc. on Baseline Road in Northville. He put himself through college. Mr. Kushigian was a member of the Society of Mechanical Engineers, holding various leadership positions for 20 years before starting in a Northville garage building machines. He worked diligently and successfully, built a plant in Northville and the main plant in Arden, N.C. He revolutionized the way the world manufactures cutting tools. All of us here in Northville are saddened by the death of our president of Normac, Anthony Kushigian.

Mrs. Norma Kushigian and to the whole family, you have our most sincere sympathy, although sympathy is only a small consolation even from the hearts of us who share your sorrow. We want you to know how deeply your husband's loss is felt here. He was respected and admired by everyone who worked with him.

We cannot eliminate your sadness, but each individual of our company joins in this expression of our deep sympathy. He was an inspiration to all of us as the president of Normac, as well as a personal friend to me.

I had no friend whose wisdom and kindness meant more to me. I shall miss him.

As I stood at his bed on Thursday. Nov. 4 listening to Tony, my mind wound back through the corridors of his life for the last 30 years. His parents went through the familiar immigrant odyssey. He was one of the millions of American stories that have woven the history of this country. Life was not easy for Tony. He had disappointments, frustration, tragedies. He lost his father at an early age. How proud his father would have been to see his son so accomplished.

His killer - the killer of so many was cancer. Mercifully, once it struck it did its work fast. Surely it is a good thing for a father in his final moments of consciousness, to know that his sons and daughters are near him, carrying the tradition of responsibility from one generation to the next.

Norma, his beloved wife, has been so much a part of him and the business we wish, hope and pray that your good memories along with your faith will bring some consolation.

His donation to the poor will be long remembered by the people of Armenia.

He gifted the world with five children whom he loved dearly. The first, Janet. lives in Fletcher with her husband, Len. They have two grown children. Robert and Jennifer. Tony's daughter, Nancy, lives in Davis, Calif., where she works for the university. Elizabeth Carolina, with the Rev. Charles Gibbons officiating. In case you haven't heard or read, the board of trustees decided through consensus at a Nov. 11 study session to make a decision on the issue by Dec. 31.

We'd like to take this opportunity to vote for our favorite choice of the two being considered and applaud the board for establishing the timeline for action.

The timeline may seem a bit too aggressive by having a goal of about six weeks for a decision, but we don't think so. Especially considering the fact the report from the study committee has been in the hands of board members since the middle weeks for a decision, but of this past summer.

And speaking of the report, about two years were spent by the committee assembling the information contained in it. That means the board shouldn't have to spend another two years on collecting additional information.

Not to undermine the importance part in discussion about issues that of the decision, but it shouldn't be much harder than simply taking the information presented and make a decision one way or another.

With full-time sor, the superintendent would have the responsibility and authority to ensure the day-to-day operations of the township run smoothly. The supervisor would stick more to poliy making and administration.

This may sound familiar as the old-style of management in the township, but the key difference would be an ordinance the board would adopt that would give the superintendent the authority to carry out his or her duties.

And that's exactly why we think the full-time superintendent/part-time The timeline may seem a supervisor is the way

Nield case just gets more interesting

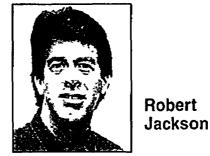

This Nield investigation keeps getting weirder and weirder. Just when you think you've heard it all, some new fact pokes its head up and grabs your attention.

Enter Lyn Bankes. The Wayne County commissioner, whose district includes Northville and Northville Township, recently sent a letter of complaint to one of my company's publishers in the Observer and Eccentric division. The complaint was about a column I wrote a few months back charging that Bankes had only given the Nield situation a "cursory" look.

So Lyn was complaining about the column, and me in general, when all of a sudden, right there in the middle of this letter to a publisher that has no supervisory capacity over me or my newspaper. Lyn provided us with an interesting tidbit of information about the Nield case.

I have to admit I glossed right over it the first time I read the letter. After all, it was a letter complaining about me. and I wanted to get a feel for what Lyn was actually upset about. But when I reread it a day later, the paragraph just jumped right out at me.

"I personally interviewed supervisor Woodside, deputy prosecutor Walsh and prosecutor O'Hair," Bankes said in the letter. There is an employee who works for the Northville school district that will remain anonymous who believed there was wrongdoing. She was wrong. She will not come forward because she does not want to lose her job. Everyone is protecting her."

Talk about an interesting revelation. If what Lyn says is true, then the prosecutor's office and the state police have been withholding important evidence in this matter, because you see, none of what Bankes claimed can be found in the investigative paperwork. There is no mention of a school district employee, there is no mention in the report as to how this employee contacted the Wayne County Prosecutor's office, and there is no mention of an interview taking place with this source.

Also of interest is that Bankes claims she got this information in interviews with Walsh and Woodside. If that is true, than there is a slight discrepancy in what Woodside has told this newspaper in the past - that she knew nothing about this investigation. Now Woodside told us this week that she heard the information second hand and relayed it to Bankes at an event.

Hmmm...there's a problem here. Bankes says she heard it while interviewing Woodside and Woodside says she told Bankes at an event. Puzzling isn't it?

But I digress. If what Bankes says is true about this alleged informant, there is nothing in the official record of this investigation that this person even exists.

How interesting, and at the same time, how very convenient. By keeping this person anonymous (if indeed such a person truly exists), the prosecutor's office doesn't have to be accountable for its actions. There is nobody for the public to question, nobody to justify the investigative action, and when the public does demand answers, all the prosecutor has to say is, "I'm sorry we're protecting our source."

I know all about the importance of protecting sources. And I believe that in some instances it is important to protect the identity of someone who has valuable information, so that information can be brought to light. And for the record we don't need to know the identity of this informant, but I'd sure like the Attorney General's office to know it, and have the opportunity to question this person. Maybe then we might learn a little something about how this whole mess started.

Volunteering makes everyone happier

He'll be the first, if asked, to set things straight: "You didn't pick me. I picked you," or so says 13-year-old Mike Howell.

The picking (or choice) came about as Northville Youth Assistance looked to bring mentors (like me) and kids (like Mike) together. Mike "picked" me because unlike other male mentors. I hadn't listed sports as one of my top interests. Mike finds sports as exciting as long division. For me, they're somewhere south of fly-fishing and kayaking.

Mike was referred to the program because, like many kids, it seemed best for him if he had one more adult in his life to give him help if he wanted it. As I understood it, he wasn't in any major-league trouble and though I tried to get him to admit he'd gotten in some trouble with the police in Tijuana. Mexico when he was 11, he wouldn't.

Mike's typical for his age: likes a couple of classes in school, is bored to tears by others, likes to spend time with his parents, kicks butt in video games, likes the movie "Titanic" and hanging out with his friends. loves his new dog, is beginning to see that girls can be "cool" and can eat a lot, I mean a lot, of really "bad" food.

I got involved with NYA after being in the community for a couple of years because I wanted to help in what I saw as a very worthwhile endeavor. When I worked at the Ypsilanti Press, I got involved with nearby St. Joseph Hospital's "Growing Tree", a play-therapy program for kids whose parents were going through chemical dependency withdrawal. There, I would occasionally see that a child understood what they were going through wasn't "nor-mal" and they had a right to simply be a kid.

I was important for me, there, as it is here, to be more than just a worker or resident in the community. I felt it important to help in a community that I enjoyed being a part of.

My role in our two-hour-a-week relationship is to be on time. dependable, responsible, keep what we talk about confidential (so I can't tell you about the time that he, uh. well...or I can't say anything about the time that he and I, well, um you get the idea). In addition, I have to be the designated adult.

Of course, that's easier said then done. When Mike and I get together, there's not a lot of ponderous stuff to talk about. Sometimes we'll get to some pretty amazing, wide-ranging topics impacting the life of the typical teenager. Usually we're just goofing off.

And I must say, it's a lot of fun. Mike and I will head off to one of the area's playstructures and see who can knock who off the balancething, or he'll make the mistake of challenging me to a foot race, we've gone fly-fishing, kayaking. we've cruised the Internet, seen an "Austin Powers" movie. Ice-cream is eaten.

Two months ago we attended a Tigers' game where Mike had a girl pronounce that she "liked" him and proceeded to sit next to him the last half the game, wrangling a kiss out of him at the end. All the while Mike endured the obnoxious amorous encouragements of some well-lubed frat boy types (sitting behind us and seeing the blossoming love) to "go for it, dude". As I dropped him off at 11 p.m. that night. Mike exited the car saying: "Thanks a lot. John. that kicked a-!"

Yes it did, Mike. Yes it did.

Economic report gives state mixed review

One of the best things John Engler has done as governor is to have attracted Doug Rothwell to Michigan from Delaware in 1993.

Initially Director of the Michigan Jobs Commission, an agency that consolidated the various job training programs into one coherent administrative unit, the slim and intense Rothwell has won praise for his intelligence, foresight and willingness to take risks by doing new things.

He moved over to run the Michigan Economic Development Corporation, a public corporation set up outside the stifling state bureaucratic structure to oversee the state's job and business attraction and retention programs. (He got a hefty raise by moving outside civil service pay restrictions, but that's OK. You get what you pay for, and Rothwell's the real deal.)

The MEDC has just issued a report on Michigan's economy, "Strategic Directions for Michigan's Future." It makes fascinating reading.

In the decades following the Great Depression, Michigan's auto-led economy flourished, leading the nation in automation, production and technological progress. Our economy stalled in the '70s and '80s, when the auto industry was being pummeled by foreign competition and unemployment skyrocketed. But good times in the '90s led to surging auto industry and a rapidly growing service sector.

The MEDC report points out that Michigan began to "benchmark" against other industrial states such as Ohio. Indiana and Wisconsin in the early '90s. In many ways, Michigan has improved its ranking against these competitors in recent years.

has led to new goals. The MEDC report suggests Michigan should now concentrate on growth over the next decade in areas where the state has a comparative advantage against other states: advanced manufacturing, information technologies and life sciences.

And the report proposes a new set of benchmark* states. including California. Washington, Virginia and Massachusetts. When ranked against our new competitors. Michigan doesn't look so good.

For example, while Michigan's workforce productivity ranks' third when compared with our old competitors. It comes in dead last against the new set. While Michigan is technologically advanced compared to its old competitors, our state is last among our new competitors in percentage of households

Worse is our standing in venture capital. arguably the main growth engine for new. high tech companies. Among new competitors, Michigan ranks dead last in the dollars available for venture capital financing. The dollar gap is considerable: Michigan, with Current success in automobiles, however, $2.4 million available for venture financing in the first quarter of 1999, is far, far behind Virginia, with nearly $60 million available to entrepreneurs.

Moreover. Michigan has a poor image among business leaders. A focus group quoted in the MEDC report concludes that "a number of people didn't think of anything specific when asked for their thoughts on Michigan — nothing comes to mind or they simply said 'Detroit' and nothing else." Many business leaders think Michigan is simply dominated by the auto industry, with little room for any other kind of business.

Such perceptions, even though faulty, lead to decisions that hurt Michigan. A group of business leaders in New York, when asked which states they would consider for expansion or relocation, ranked North Carolina, South Carolina and California at the top, with Texas and Ohio in the middle. Michigan ranked last!

So part of what MEDC wants to do is as simple as educating business leaders around the country about Michigan's real strengths. There is a real story to be told here. Michigan kids scored an average of 1100 in the SAT exam in 1997, above any of our new competitors. And Michigan's colleges and universities are as good as they get; the University of Michigan. for example, is number one in the entire country in sponsored research.

(This is the first of a series of columns examining the MEDC report on Michigan's economic future.)

Supermajority: is it super-confusing?

Voters could see, not one, but two ques tions on the ballot next November about constitutional amendments that would require a "supermajority" anytime the Legislature wants to increase taxes.

Rep. Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, is sponsoring House Joint Resolution B. which would require a two-thirds majority in the House (73 votes of 110 total) and Senate (26 of 38 votes) for any increase in taxes.

Impacted would be all taxes, including income taxes, gas taxes and business taxes.

Rep. Wayne Kuipers, R-Holland, is the sponsor of House Joint Resolution G, which calls for a three-fifths vote to hike taxes. In the House, that translates to 66 votes; in the Senate, 23.

But Kuipers' plan also addresses fees, those charges levied for specific government services. It is his belief that any increase in the state revenue should be subject to the higher standard.

And House Tax Policy Committee Chair Nancy Cassis, R-Novi, wants to put both on the ballot.

Two-thirds can be a very tough standard. It's a question of where to set the chinning bar," she said. "If we look at tax increases in future, the responsible thing to do is to look at the spending carefully to make sure that it is justified and needed ... If the hands of the Legislature in the future are tied, it won't be the Legislature that does it, it will be the citizens of the state, just as they decided on term limits."

"The chair of House Tax Policy is a very wise woman indeed," Patterson said, agreeing both should be placed on the ballot.

Patterson said he has confidence in voters' ability to sort out the details of the two. And he prefers to "empower" voters rather than decide for them.

"We should do the work," countered Kuipers: "We should refine it down to the one proposal we think is best before asking voters to decide. It it doesn't fly, we can try again in another election."

Needless to say, there are others in the Legislature who think the whole thing is a bad idea. Rep. Gilda Jacobs, D-Huntington Woods, for instance considers the entire discussion to be just "politics, shortsighted politics at that."

The economy is good now, and it is easy to trim taxes when the state budget continues to create sizable surpluses. But the economy will slow and sour sooner or later, she said.

Then, when the state is in need inguer

"It gives more control to a minority," she explained. It's possible somewhere down the road that 72 representatives will recognize the need for a tax hike, and be frustrated by only 38 holdouts.

Nonetheless, in a state that played host to a tax revolt throughout the '70s and '80s, Jacobs predicts any attempt at the ballot box to set a higher standard for tax increases is likely to get a warm reception from vot-

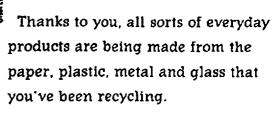

She's certainly right about that. One of the frustrations expressed by voters back in those days was that the state had a pretty free hand to raise taxes as it saw fit. Only the sales tax requires a vote when increased. And the only limitation on state tax levels is in the Headlee Amendment.

So it is quite conceivable to me that voters would pass both if given the opportunity. We've seen that before, where the same section of the constitution is amended in the same election, and it is always confusing. Do you adopt whichever standard is higher? Or do you adopt the standard that won more votes at the polls?

Would it, in this case, make fee increases subject to three-fifth majority votes, while taxes must have two-thirds?

I'm less concerned about the confusion voters might face when confronted with two like proposals on the ballot than I am with the confusion and unintended consequences that could result should both win approval.

Letters to the Editor DPW crews praised for hard work, dedication

To the editor:

On this Veteran's Day, a day dedicated to the people who served this great country. it brought to mind the many freedoms we have. We, here in Northville, are fortunate to have a nice community in which to live with good services provided by the city and the D.P.W.

The annual fall leaf pickup/street cleaning really cleaned up the cluttered neighborhood streets. This, however, was short lived as some just could not follow the guidelines and get with the program the D.P.W. set up.

Within days after the pickup. more leaves were raked into the streets by some who apparently only think of themselves. have no respect for others, and maybe don't appreciate what we have here.

It's really simple the way the D.P.W. has planned and published for all to see. In between pickups and until Dec. 10. leaves in bags and "compost cans" will be picked up at curb.

This allows us to have the full use of our clean streets. Some communities don't have the services we are fortunate to have.

Thank you Northville D.P.W. for your commitment to the residents - maybe in time we'll get a fuller cooperation with the program.

Ed Kriewal looks back on his 30 years in Novi

Novi Council Tuesday named Ed Kriewall cuy manager after two and a half months as the acting city manager.

*I feel we've got a capable person doing the job in his present capacity." (city council member Denis) Berry told the council. "I think Ed might have an edge on someone who was coming in new."

Mayor Robert Daley noted that the difference between the experience of the other candidates and that of Kriewall has increased because Kriewall "earned his spurs in battle."

By his own admission, Ed Kriewall wasn't particularly enthused about the idea of becoming city man-ager of Novi back in 1974, even though he's stepped into the job on an interim basis several times previous

After all, the Bay City native's professional history was rich in road construction and in public works supervision, but not in urban management. Kriewall's first job was

He shifted gears to I-75 a few years later, but then learned that the city of Detroit had its own Interstate highway office, which he joined in 1966.

But shortly after the Detroit riots, Kriewall said he had had enough of the Motor City.

"I knew from studying the MDOT maps that Novi was a town that would soon be on the move." he sald. "It was right along where 1-96 had gone in. so it had a lot of potential."

Kriewall took over as public works director in September of 1969. After only working in that capacity for a year or so, Kriewall was beckoned to step in as interim city manager as the infant city councils juggled managers to help run the fledgling community. We really didn't have a lot of stuff to work with back then," he said. "There was a certain amount of uncertainty in the air."

Finally, in 1974, Kriewall was taken in as a fulltime manager. With that appointment came the nerves of a new job.

You'd seen three or four other city managers come in and out of their offices in five years." he said. "I definitely had that on the back of my mind."

Kriewall survived, though, and has been Novi's chief executive since November of 1974. Earlier this year, he announced he would be retiring in February of 2000. The city council is currently soliciting applications for his replacement.

MacKinnon's chef Tom MacKinnon stands with an array of turkey dishes the Northville restaurant prepares. Starting with the dish MacKinnon is holding, they are: turkey tenderloin with spiced berry sauce, barbecued-roasted turkey with sage and celery-potato pancakes, turkey-stuffed pepper and deep fried turkey with potato pancakes and cherry carrots.

Tom MacKinnon says alternative preparations for turkey are giving traditional baked bird a run for their money.

The scene:

The family has gathered in the dining room. A lavish spread awaits, but a conspicuously vacant spot is located at the head of the table.

Moments later, mom emerges from the kitchen with a massive silver platter and that familiar golden brown bird.

Delicious? Yes. But since this is the 10 bilhonth Thanksgiving in a row with the same style of meal. it's also a bit boring.

But it doesn't need to be, said chef Tom MacKinnon of Northville's MacKinnon's restaurant. As one who really loves cooking game, MacKinnon said it's possible to shake up Thanksgiving with some alternative turkey recipes.

The reason, MacKinnon said, is that turkey has become so versatile a food.

Turkey is almost like chicken in that there are so many ways you can get it in the store." MacKinnon said. "It's also a very healthy meat. which has made it more popular these days.

The case in preparation of turkey has further increased its popularity. MacKinnon said.

"For example, turkey tenderloin is about the size of a New York strip and can be prepared the same way as it," he said. "It's so easy to cook."

And though Thanksgiving still leads the pack for turkey-eating days, it's a food not just isolated to the last Thursday in November.

"It's come so far from just being something you eat on Thanksgiving," he said. "People are eating it year-round."

eating it year-round. MacKinnon's Restaurant has four popular turkey dishes on its menu this time of year, including deep fried turkey, turkey tenderloin. stuffed turkey pepper and (grill masters will love this one) barbecue roasted turkey.

"If you put that turkey in a Weber grill, there's nothing better." MacKinnon said with a smile.

Recognizing that not everyone would be comfortable with a departure from tradition. MacKinnon had a few tips for those content to cook turkey by the standard bake-the-wholebird-in-the-oven method.

The first thing you need to do is make sure that the bird is properly thawed, either in a refrigerator or under cool running water," he said. "You should also cook stuffing separate from the turkey. It speeds up the cooking of both foods."

The morning begins with aerobics at 9:30 followed by three choices of study: "Prayer," "Experiencing God," and "New Believers Study." The study segment will be from 10.45 a.m. until noon. Child care will be available. For more information, call Orchard Hills Church at 349-5665.

The newly-formed program Harvest Fellowship, an alternative to Halloween, was an event of games, activities and refreshments and enjoyed by all.

Also enjoyed by the church family is the newly-established potluck dinner following services on the second Sunday of the month. Each potluck held has a theme, one of which was adults posting baby pictures of themselves and all guessing who-was-who.

The Christmas Cantata, under the direction of John LaBoda, is scheduled for Dec. 19 and the children's program, under the direction of Christie LaBoda, will be held Dec. 12. Both will be held during the morning worship services.

Church family members are involved in the project " Fill an Empty Shoe Box^{*} for a child. Gifts can include toys, school supplies. and hygiene items, with a picture of the sponsor, a note, and $5 included. These will be sent to

A GROWING PLACE

This facility is a nursery school for preschool and child care. They recently enjoyed a field trip to Erwin's Apple Orchard, where the children picked applies, enjoyed donuts and cider and a hayride.

The children dressed as scarecrows for the annual Scarecrow Day. They participated in facepainting, scarecrow games, learned why scarecrows are used in gardens, and had their pictures taken in the cornstalk area outside. Margaret Schmidt, local farmer and well-known speaker on farm animals, spoke on farming. Accompanying her was a turkey she brought from her farm. She sang "Old McDonald Had a Farm" and "Bingo," and also taught the children how to play a kazoo on a comb with wax paper.

Also experienced was a field trip to South Commerce to enjoy "Pumpkins and Ponies," a private home decorated extensively for Halloween. They also sold pumpkins and provided pony rides.

The biggest party of the year is on Halloween when the children dress in costume. The day included a parade; a mini carnival with games like ghost basketball; and a delicious ghoulish pudding cake made by the children. The staff entered into the fun and decorated shirts in a "witch" theme.

November is a busy month: school pictures, hearing tests and a Discovery Toy Sale, when parents do some early Christmas shopping. A Thanksgiving feast will be made by the children and will include friendship soup and pumpkin bread.

The children are busy working on the Christmas program. "Magic of the Season" with special appearance by Bill the Magician.

Kriewall looks back at 30 years of Novi history

Town. He said the most satisfying experience he had since becoming city manager was that of establishing the Novi Expo Center. Once a warehouse for the Mohawk liquor company, the building sat empty for a number of years until Kriewall and a few others in Novi city hall worked to convert the facility into a showroom.

It wasn't just the fact that a giant building found a second life, though, Kriewall said.

"It's more important that Novi now has several opportunities for art and culture," he said. "That building has meant so much to Novi and will continue to do so in the future."

Not only that, but Kriewall said the Expo Center may have saved several Novi hotels from the financial ruin. Now, with shows attracting tourists from all over Michigan, the Midwest and even the country. hotels and motels are once again seeing high occupancy rates.

"I remember the public hearing we had about Twelve Oaks. This was something people were really up for."

> Ed Kriewall Novi city manager

Running a close second to the Expo Center was the advent of Twelve Oaks Mall, which many point to as the benchmark event that took Novi from being a sleepy. swampy field to a suburb with a pulse.

Little-known fact: Novi was not the developer's first choice of communities to house the megamall. The prospect was passed up by Farmington Hill and West Bloomfield before the project was brought to Kriewall and the residents of Novi.

"I remember the public hearing that we had about Twelve Oaks." Kriewall said. "We had something like 300 people out there, and only one person spoke out against it. This was something people were really up for."

Also big on the list was reacquiring one of the Novi Special race cars for the Motor Sports Hall of Fame and Museum.

The process of bringing the car back to Novi required plenty of prodding, pleading, creative financing methods and a pile of travel, but the end result was worth the effort, he said.

"It's nice to have that car back in our possession." he said. "It'll be staying here if the (Motor Sports) museum moves."

"Thank God for tea. What would the world do without tea? - how did it exist? I am glad I was not born before tea."

--- Sydney Smith (1771-1845)

One of the most debghtful ways to entertain is by giving a tea party. It is not quite as formal as a sitdown dinner, nor does it require as much preparation. Nonetheless, it can be a very charming and elegant affair.

There is a civility which one associates with afternoon tea. It can be given to honor a house guest, for out-of-town friends, welcoming new neighbors, or simply entertaining your friends in an informal, relaxed atmosphere. Tea time is usually set between the hours of 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Unless it is a very formal tea, invitations are usually made by phone.

Ideally, the serving table should be a long one and set up in an area that does not interfere with the circulation of guests. Tea is served at one end of the table and collee at the other. In between should be the foods being served, which are usually on the sweet side such as small fruit tarts, almond or butter cookies, petit fours, nuts, or other small, dainty treats as opposed to the hors docuvres offered at a cocktail party. These foods should be small enough to fit on the saucer next to one's tea cup. Tiny finger sandwiches made with minced ham or chicken salad, or cucumbers and cream choese fillings and which can be eaten in a bite or two may also be served. If larger items of food are served, such as layer cakes, a tea plate with forks should also be provided. This, of course, necessitates small tables placed about the room so guests may sit as it would be very awkward to try and balance everything while trying to talk and eat all at the same time. If you are the hostess, greet your guests at the door and see that they are introduced to others, especially your guest(s) of honor. Any friends you wish to have as servers should be asked prior to your party. If it is a two-hour affair, it is best for each to pour for only one hour so you will need four servers.

This way, they too may have an opportunity to mingie with guests.

If you are a guest, appropriate attire would be a suit or afternoon dress if you are a woman; a business suit for a man. Don't hover around the tea table or pile your plate high with food as if it will be your last meal on earth. You may return for more food or drink but wait until all others have been served. Also, do not tie up your host or the guest of honor with long conversations - they have responsibilities to other guests. When you are finished, place your cup and plate on the tea table. Most guests stay for an hour or so before leaving - just be sure you thank your host first and say a few words to the guest of honor.

Tea time is also becoming a popular way to promote and nurture positive business relationships. Many hotels are now aggressively seeking the business market to partake in this genteel ntual at mid-afternoon. It is a refreshing change from the coffee break or the martini.

And why not?

It's quite difficult to perceive of a hostile business meeting over tea. In fact, chents may well perceive you as having a genuine respect for traditional values.

So whether your tea party is social or business, I agree with eliquette mayen. Leutia Baldrige: "Having someone over for tea is a wonderful way to give pleasure to friends. It is a warm, friendly custom, and we do not do it often enough."

A last note: I am always annused when I hear or read that a group or an organization is having a tea party and calls it "high tea." I am sure they do so thinking that it sounds classy and elegant.

Actually, it is exactly the opposite. "High tea" is the British contraction of "Isn't it high time we had something to eat and some tea?' Technically, high tea refers to a poor man's supper consisting of pothick and left-OVERS.

The British must be laughing at us behind our backs.

NORTH FARMINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

RECORD OVE

Voices guide Joan of Arc

Joan of Arc was born the youngest cent girl who never went to school and candaughter of a peasant farmer in Domremy. France around 1412, a time when France was being overrun by the English during the bloody Hundred Year's War.

In addition, an internal war was being waged within France, with the region of Burgundy siding with the English.

A deciding factor in the war was who would control the city of Orleans, which sits strategically on the bank of the Loire river. Only one thing could save France from its darkest period in history ... a miracle.

When King Henry V of England and King Charles VI of France both die in 1422, the English declare Henry VI, a mere child, king of both England and France

Charles VII of France has no intention of abandoning his kingdom and declares himself heir to the throne, but he cannot be made king until he is crowned at Rheims --which is under English occupation.

Meanwhile, in Domremy, 13-year-old Joan spends most of her childhood kneeling in praver. She not only loves to confess many times daily, but often hears voices from the sky and has strange, startling visions.

In her own words:

The voice told me that I must depart and go into France. And the voice said that I would raise the siege before Orleans. And it told me to go to Vaucouleurs, to Robert de Baudricourt, captain of the town, who would give me men to go with me. And I answered the voice that I was a poor girl who knew nothing of riding and warfare.

From the very beginning, she was told what her mission was: she was chosen by God to restore France and to give aid to the Dauphin Charles, who was to be king of France. In order to do this, she must wear men's clothing, bear arms and lead an army.

One day, after playing in the fields, Joan runs' hound to find the English have Invaded her town. As she hides in a cupboard, she witnesses English soldiers murder and rape her 18-year-old sister. After this tragedy. Joan is sent to live with her aunt and uncle in a neighboring village.

It seems highly unlikely that this innonot read or write will eventually lead the French army in defeating the powerful English army and liberating her country. But by May 1428, Joan no longer doubts that she has been bidden by God to come to the aid of the king, and she takes action. Leaving the only home she has ever known behind, Joan rides to Chinon to see Charles, the Dauphin. At first the King and his subjects don't know what to think when word arrives from young Joan.

Aware of her professed visions and suspicious of her intentions, Charles orders Jean D'Aulong, his finest archer, to pose as king. Joan arrives at the castle, impresses Charles by calling him on his bluff, and secures a private with him.

In her words to Charles:

I bring you news from God, that our Lord will give you back your kingdom, bringing you to be crowned at Rheims and driving out your enemies. In this I am God's messenger. Do set me bravely to work, and I will rise the siege of Orleans.

Persuaded to take her claims at face value. Charles agrees to Joan's request, providing her with an army to achieve victory against the English and secure the city of Rheims for his coronation. Though many feel that Joan is at best a harmless hysteric and at worst a threat not only to the king's throne but to his life, they also detect in her a magical quality and a persuasive attitude that cannot be discouraged or resisted.

Joan arrives at the battlefield dressed in white armor and carrying her personalized banner. This makes an impression on both armies, who are not used to seeing a woman in combat.

In the trenches with her countrymen. Joan wins a victory for the French, who are rejuvenated by their inspirational new leader. But the battle is not over yet -Joan insists on pressing further and rally-Ing the troops once more to dissolve the English occupation of Orleans.

Once Charles is crowned king, he is wholly satisfied. Joan however, is not, and she continues to fight on. Her troops which number in the hundreds instead of thousands - are tired and hungry.

Against everyone's better judgment. Joan moves on to Complegne for a battle in which she is quickly captured by the Burgundians, a group of mercenaries fighting for the English.

Sold to her enemies, she wakes up in a prison cell with her conscience, who comes to her in the form of a mysterious. hooded man.

Near the end of the trial, Joan is told that she must either renounce her past deeds and swear to never carry arms or wear men's clothing again, or she will be burned to death.

She agrees to do so, and she is sentenced to life in prison. Ultimately, however, she refuses to submit to the Englishconstituted court's judgment. Now considered a "relapsed heretic," Joan's decision means certain death.

"Being John Malkovich" is one of the most inventive, creative and bizarre movies that I've ever seen.

There is never a dull moment in the film. Charles Kaufman creates an utterly original heap of enter-tainment that makes "Alice in Wonderland" look like a teen flick.

Whether you're laughing or crying the film will keep you on your toes.

The first few minutes are a little slow but you still find yourself intrigued by the bizarre camera work.

John Cusack plays Craig Schwartz, a deprived puppeteer who is an excellent, yet sadly unknown puppet master. Schwartz doesn't think he needs a day job until he offends a little girl's father with one of his puppet shows, and gets punched square in the face.

After that he realizes that he needs a day job to support his wife, and hopefully a future child.

Cusack's job interview leads to some of the funniest 20 minutes I have ever seen on screen. With dark, and intellectual comedy at it's best, it's one of those scenes where you just die laughing in the aisles.

Cusack's boss is old and senile and thinks he has a speech impediment when actually he talks better than Cusack himself.

He works on the 7th floor where the ceiling raises five feet above the floor. It's a place were everyone has to bend over to walk.

net. While retrieving it he linds a small door that leads inside the brain of John Malkovich.

These minutes of entertainment never dumb down, or slow up. It just gets better and more surreal. You would expect them to run out of ideas; but they don't. The laughs come on stronger and the movie bullets in a different direction.

Cusack ends up only being able to spend 15 minutes in Malkovich and afterwards gets dumped out by the side of the New Jersey Turnpike.

He proceeds to tell his wife, played by the beautiful Cameron Diaz, who in this movie looks awful and utterly unattractive.

She wants to try it, and what she ends up finding is not a portal within John Malkovich, but rather a mirror into her innermost desires. She finds her true self in another person's body.

Instead of using this portal to try to find what the significance of it is, Diaz and Cusack use it to fulfill their sexual fantasies with Cusack's co-worker, played by the lovely Catherine Keener. However. it seems she is only attracted to them when they are inside the

WLAA football team named

Even in defeat, the Northville football team earned a fair share of the respect on the 1999 all-Western Lakes Activities Association football team.

The Mustangs' Chris Lebeis and Steve Jameson each nabbed a spot on the all-conference team, Lebeis on the offensive side and Jameson on the defensive side of the ball. Lebeis was one of just four interior linemen selected to the 12-man offensive unit.

Jameson led the team in tackles and was among the conference leaders all season long. He joined Glenn's Jake Tharp and Stevenson's John VanBuren as the three linebackers chosen.

The offensive merits of Brandon Langston and Aaron Redden didn't go unnoticed, either. Both were named to the all-division squad in the Western Division.

Walled Lake Western had more allconference and all-division selections than any other team. The Warriors (11-0) placed five players on the 24man all-conference team, including two on offense. More impressively, Western grabbed half (12) of the alldivision selections. Five of their offensive starters made the team and seven players on the defensive side of the ball were selected.

Farmington, which lost to Western 9-7 in the conference championship game, had four players selected to the all-conference team and five more make the all-division 12. Glenn had four on the conference team and six more on the division squad and Farmington Harrison had four and three.

Northville had nine more players selected for the honorable-mention team. Those athletes were Ryan Anolick, Eric Cooley, Garrett Marshall, Travis Bliss, Brian Roth, Joe Rumbley, Mike Peters, Jon Campion and Bob Baker.

The WLAA had five of its 12 members qualify for the state playoffs. Four of those five made it at least into the quarterfinal rounds, winning their first two games. Four of Northville's five losses this season came to playoffbound teams.

Northville senior Brandon Bethell led the 'Stangs in goals and points in 1999.

Bethell, Kelleher named all-area with some of the accomplishments of their teams first. Because individuals make up great teams, it's only right to mention them first.

After dominating the soccer world a year ago by winning the school's first-ever state championship. Novi came back strong in 1999. The team didn't suffer a letdown, and made it all the way to the state quarterfinals before losing to Livonia Stevenson. The team was an unblemished 19-0 against teams other than Stevenson and Brighton, and finished 19-2-1 overall. Although four of its top players graduate this year, Novi will return a strong corps of players next season.

Northville may have ended up 8-9-1. but it was a healthy sub-.500 record. The team was the unfortunate victim of playing in an elite soccer conference, the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Here's a look at the individuals that comprise the teams, the best 11 players from Novi, Northville, South Lyon, Milford and Lakeland.

Joe Irimescu * HomeTown's player of the year

Novi senior

While he was a vital part of Novi's state championship team of 1998, that team was never "his team." That team went 23-1-1 en route to the state title.

So Irimescu returned to lead this year's team to a 19-2-1 record and a state quarterfinal berth, having had one of the most productive careers in Novi soccer history. This season Irimescu scored nine goals while collecting a team-best 14

When you start talking about this assists. Because teams often marked the year's all-area team, you have to start senior with two or three players, other Wildcats were able to prosper, including sophomore Brandon Davis (15 goals, 11 assists). This senior was named secondteam all-state by the coaches association.

Irimescu was a second-team selection last year after garnering first-team honors as a sophomore. That season he had 14 goals and six assists.

Ryan Rzepka

Novi senior

No matter where the ball was on the field, Rzepka was always near it. The senior was second to Davis on the team with 13 goals and picked up eight more assists for 21 points. That total was good for third on the team.

Northville wraps up season with 40-35 win

Looking to build up momentum heading into this week's district basketball tournament at Novi High School, the Northville girl's basketball team did just that last Wednesday (Nov. 10) in a 40-35 win over Farmington Hills Harrison in the Western Lakes consolation finals.

Northville played Novi last night (after The Northville Record's deadline) in the district semifinals. The winner will face either Canton or Salem in the district championship game tomorrow night at 7 p.m.

Novi defeated Northville 50-37 in their only other matchup this season back on Oct. 16. Novi came into last night's game with a 20-1 record, the best in school history. Northville finished their regular season with a 13-7 record. Results of last night's game as well as district final's cover-age will be in next week's Northville Record.

The win over the Hawks gave Northville a third-place finish in the WLAA. The 'Stangs finished 9-2 in the regular season, which was good for second place. Salem was 11-0 in league play and beat Canton in the championship game to win the conference championship. Northville took control early against Harrison, jumping out to a 21-3 lead after one quarter. Both Meredith Hasse and Kate Hammond scored seven points each in the quarter and both finished with 11 points in the game. Fellow front court starter Janel Hasse added four in the first.

Harrison was playing without its best player. Kelly Taylor, who suffered an injury in a semifinal game against Salem. Without her, Northville exploited the Hawks inside.

"They press you, and they weren't big to start with, so we were able to get the ball down low." Mustang coach Pete Wright said. "Taylor isn't a big player, but she plays big.

Wright was particularly pleased with the play of Mered-ith Hasse, who he said has been playing her best ball over the last month of the season.

"She's going to the offensive boards better, and she's taking some pressure off of Kate and Janel," the coach said. "Most teams know she's playing outside, and they stick a smaller player on her. Lately she's been able to use that to her advantage and go inside and score."

Although the final score didn't indicate it, the game was never in doubt. Northville led throughout and improved its overall conference record to 11-3.

Novi game marks start of new season for Mustangs

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor and ROBERT JACKSON Ed tor

When the puck is dropped for Friday night's matchup between the Northville and Novi hockey teams, there will be a different aroma floating around the rink than there was last year at this time.

Last season's first matchup between the two schools was the first of the season for Northville, but only the second ever for Novi. Both schools were relatively young, but Northville had a year of experience under their belt and it showed. The Mustangs won that first matchup 6-1 and went on to defeat the Wildcats 7-2 in their second showdown a month later.

This year, both team's had tremendous turnouts at team tryouts, and should have the depth necessary to compete in the upper echelon's of their leagues. Novi will look to improve on a sixth-place finish in the Kensington Valley Conference while Northville hopes to make a great first impression in the newly formed Western Lakes Activities Association.

Northville looks to replace lost talent..

Sometimes losing a talented goal scorer can be a plus for a hockey team.

That's the attitude Northville

Mustang Hockey coach Brad O'Neill has as the Mustangs prepare to kick off their season against arch rival Novi Friday. Not returning to the Mustang lineup this season is Sean Nappo, one of the teams' big guns last year. Nappo will play junior hockey this year, O'Neill said.

"Sure we'll miss Sean in the lineup. That's a big void for us to fill, but that's also good in a way because we don't have to focus on one player to do most of the scoring," O'Neill said. "And actually, I'd prefer that. I think we'll actually be a stronger team this year than last because we're looking for

Pom pon squad finishes third at Mid-American championships

The Northville High School pom pon team finished third at the Mid-American High School and Collegiate Dance Team Championships this past Sunday at Saginaw Valley State University.

The Mustangs finished behind second-place Mercy and ahead of fourth-place North Farmington. Plymouth Salem won the title. It was the first competition of the year for the team, which will compete at the state championships in February.

In preparation for their competition, the team has spent the fall season entertaining fans at both the varsity soccer and football games. The squad performed routines at both the Northville Homecoming football game and also joined forces with the Novi pom pon squad for a special show at halftime of the Northville/Novi football game on Oct. 22. The team will be performing at upcoming Northville basketball games throughout the 1999-2000 season.

Northville coach Melissa Millgard and her team have performed several fund raisers throughout the year and will be sponsoring a can drive in the near future to help fund their team camp expenses and their end-of-the-year banquet.

everyone to make a contribution."

About 40 players skated in tryouts for the team. O'Neill said, which is the biggest turnout he's seen in his three years as Mustang head coach.

"I was really impressed with the number of kids that turned out, and the talent that was on the ice," O'Neill explained, "We had to make some tough decisions, and I think our team is well rounded.

O'Neill has 10 returning players from last year - Rob Ryan, Aaron Selwood, Jason Wilchowski, Tyler Sedam. Scott Schueler, Jason Engelland, Josh Block, Steve Lariche, Thom Snyder, and Adam Dilley – and will be joined by newcomers Tim Hillebrand, Kristian Balangero, Bill Salliotte, Adam Zobl, Brandon Szatkowski, Brian Morrell, Scott Weyandt, Brett Cheaney, Mike Stewart, Jeff Mnich and Dave Stewart.

This year we should be a better team overall," O'Neill said of his lineup. The returning players now have the experience of having a year of high school hockey under their belts. and that's important.

O'Neill said the team has looked good in practice and that he was impressed with their play in a scrimmage game against Brighton.

"We're sharing the puck more and the passes are a lot crisper," he said. "I'm looking forward to having all players contribute."

O'Neill also said that returning goaltender Josh Block will get the nod as the starter, but that backup sophomore Dave Stewart will get some playing time as well. There was some real good competition at the goaltender position during tryouts," O'Neill said. "Josh brings plenty of experience and will be our starter in net, but (Stewart) has looked real good in practice and will get some playing time."

Friday's season opener against Novi will be a good indicator as to how the team will look this season, O'Neill explained. "I expect this year the game will be a lot tighter than last year." he said. They've got a year's worth of experi-ence, they have talented players and a fine coaching staff. I expect them to be tough."

losing its first nine games of the season. But the team turned things around and won their next six and finished the season with a respectable 9-15-1 record. Leading the charge in that late-season run was their defense. which will be the base for this year's team.

"My coaching philosophy is that defense wins championships and I still feel that although we have offensive firepower, we do have a good nucleus of our defense back that is familiar with our system." Novi coach Dan Phelps said. "I'm a strong believer that a strong defense creates an offense for a team. So we're not looking to win games 10-2, we're looking to win them 2-1. A win's a win."

Heading up the defense will be Jered Genso. Jeff Poulos, Dan Szlaga. Phil Stackowski and Brian Eberline. With four of six defensemen back from last year. Phelps hopes to rely on this unit to control the game.

The last line of defense for Novi, will be its goaltenders, of which the team has three solid go-to-guys. Returning starter Beau Brandeau will lead the way "Beau is back," Phelps said. "He comes in as our number one starter, our MVP from last year. His play spoke for itself. It was very obvious that he earned the most valuable player award last year."

Phelps will also have junior Jeremy Goodman back, as well as newcomer Brian Markowicz. also a junior. "Both he and Jeremy are very good goaltenders. Right now Beau is number one going in, but you never know what can happen.

They work well together in a three-goalie system." Phelps said.

Offensively, Phelps hopes his returning captain Travis Malott will help the team get on the board. Helping him will be newcomer Brad Zarem (AAA last year) and freshman Brian Jaussi.

Going down the list they all have the capability to score," Phelps said. "Angelo Barduca, you can't forget him. He's a tough, little gritty player who knows how to put the puck in the net.

Gone from last year's team are (goalie) Brian Ward, (forwards) Chris Booth, Trevor Schneider, Rob Innis, Andy Saari, Geoff Paquette and (defensemen) Ryan Major and Matt Hoy.

Helping fill their vacancies are newcomers Robbie Harrell (AA), Jared Perras (AA) and Ryan Layton (transfer from John Glenn) along with Jaussi and Zarem.

We're bringing in these new kids, and right now everything looks good on paper." the coach said. "Every year you look to fill in for the seniors you've lost. Well this year we've filled in for the seniors we've lost, plus.

"But the bottom line is how well they develop together and that will tell the tale."

Game time

The Northville/Novi game will begin at 6 p.m. tomorrow night at the Novi Ice Arena, which is home to both teams. Northville will be the home team for tomorrow's game.

Bethell led the team with seven goals and added two assists. His Northville team finished just 8-9-1, but played one of the toughest schedules in the state, a schedule that included games against Novi (state quarterfinalist). Stevenson

Tim Kelleher Northville junior

After his breakout season a year ago. Kelleher wasn't a secret to opponents anymore. So coach Henry Klimes moved him back to the midfield to help open things up offensively for the Mustangs.

For Kelleher's stats, the move didn't help. He was continually marked and finished the season with four goals and seven assists. But fortunately for him, the rest of the conference coaches understood how good of a player he was and they voted him to the all-WLAA team. He and Bethell were two of just 12 players selected from the entire conference.

Erik Anderson Northville senior

Another three-year Mustang, Anderson made the move from defense to the midfield this year. Last season he was a second-team all-area selection, and after scoring three goals and adding two assists, he makes the move up to the first team this season.

He also won the highest senior grade point average award for his team (3.96).

Tim Haffey South Lyon senior

Haffey was a four-year varsity player. For the final two of those seasons he was an All-KVC and all-district selection. He was a South Lyon co-captain.

"Tim was very dependable as our defensive sweeper," Lions coach Bill Stevanovic said. "He was the most talented and knowledgeable player on our team."

Pat Lombardo Milford senior

Milford coach Dave Poniatowski said once Lombardo smooths out the rough edges of the game, not only could he be a good college player, but one with professional potential. Already, he excels at every aspect of the game. "He can defend, he can attack."

"He can defend, he can attack." Poniatowski said, "he has speed, size, great skill, scoring ability, an outstanding attitude. He leads by example and makes everyone around him a better player."

A third-year varsity player. Lombardo led Milford with six assists.

Chris Ming

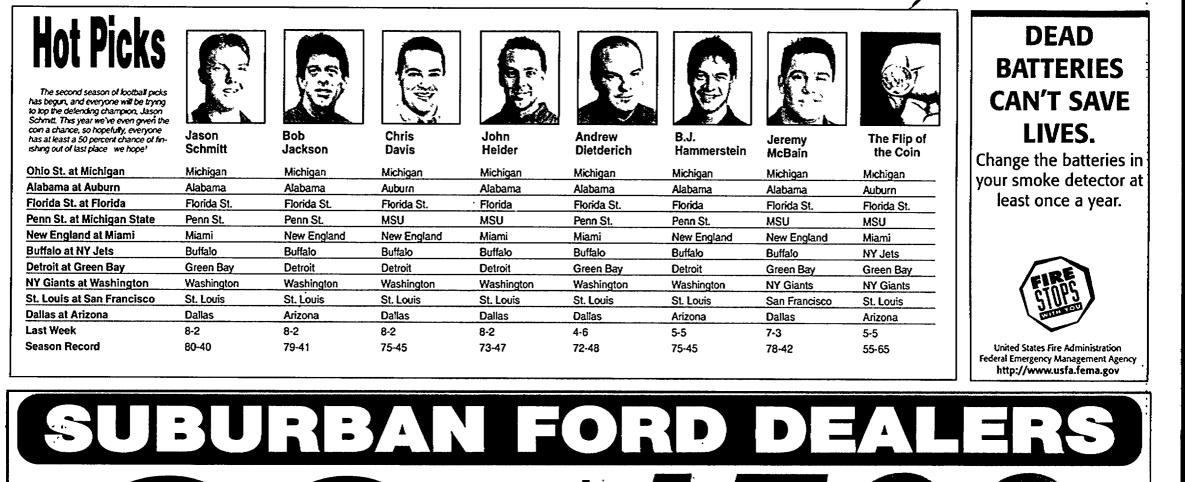

Milford senior Milford's team MVP. Ming was a rock at the sweeper position. "He was virtually impassable," Redskins coach Dave Poniatowski said. "His defensive positioning is second to none. His ability to read the opposition's attack is as good as I've ever seen. His speed, size and strength make him a dominant player."

Ming was a goal scorer from the back line, putting five in the net. He also tallied four assists.

Mark Poniatowski Milford senior

"This player has the most impressive shot that I have ever witnessed at the high school level, and in many cases, beyond," Milford coach Dave Poniatowski — Mark's brother — said. "He doesn't have great speed, size or strength. He makes up for that with heart and ability. When every team in the conference knows about a certain player's ability and attempts to stop that player but still fails, that's when you recognize you're working with some, thing special."

Ponlatowski was Milford's top goal scorer with seven, and for the second-straight season led the team in points, with 12.

U-M doctors helping cancer survivors

Modern medicine has made amazing advances during recent decades, especially when it comes to fighting cancer. However, in an ironic twist, pediatric cancer survivors are faced with a unique set of problems because of these advances.

Long-term effects include problems with growth and development, complications from prior surgery, organ system abnormalities from drugs and radiation therapies, potential problems with fertility, and the small but real risk of the development of new cancers.

"It's really amazing because many of these patients have a complete lack of understanding of what drugs they received, what therapies they received, and in many instances, they don't even remember much of what they went through," said Dr. Valerie Cast, a pediatric oncologist with the University of Michigan Comprehensive Cancer Center and director of the Late Effects Clinic.

Cure rates for pediatric cancers have risen dramatically during the past 20 years. It's estimated that by next year, one in every 900 adults, age 16 to 44, will be a survivor of pediatric cancer. These survivors face unique challenges as they become adults and move through life. They need to know what they went through as children and how it may impact them now and what ongoing and future problems they should anticipate.

With this in mind, the U-M Comprehensive Cancer Center has created the Late Effects Clinic to help pediatric cancer survivors answer questions about their medical condition, their medical histories and assist them as they move through life. This is a new and evolving area of medical treatment. Many of these survivors would have died in an earlier generation, so there's a limited, but growing body of knowledge on what happens with pediatric cancer survivors 20 or so years after first treatment. When we talk about survival rates in pediatric malignancies, we now realize that diseases that were uniformly fatal 40 years ago are now curable up to 75 percent to 80 percent of the time depending on the malignancy," said Marcia Leonard, a registered nurse and coordinator with the U-M Late Effects Clinic. "We've learned, however, that survival comes at a price for a great deal of these children. There are organ systems that were adversely affected because they were growing and developing at the time of cancer therapy."

Many of the patients were infants or very young children when they were diagnosed and treated, and their parents did not keep detailed records, so their understanding of their disease is limited. Patients who come to the Late Effects Clinic receive a comprehensive review of what their disease is, what treatments they received as children, and how both may impact their life now and in the future.

We all know that our understanding of these diseases and the side effects from therapy is continuing to evolve, so one of our major roles is to remove the misinformation and provide our patients with good solid medical information that allows them to appropriately define what their medical needs may be in the future." Castle said.

Castle said issues facing the survivor go far beyond just their medical treatments. "It's their psychological well being, it's issues related to their insurability and their employer." said Castle. We've had many instances where we've been able to intervene on behalf of the patient to reassure an employer that the patient is a good candidate. One of our major roles has to be an advocate for the patient and we take that role very seriously."

The Late Effects Clinic is held once a month

HOW TO Too much moisture can harm homes

By Gene Gary COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

9. With the first cold snap in fall, we begin a long season of fighting condensation in our house. The water literally drips off the window glass, onto the sills and puddles on the floor below. This will be our third winter in this house. Can you tell me what causes this and what we can do to get rid of this excessive wetness?

A. When the first cold days of fall arrive, outdoor humidity drops. In many climate zones, summer weather is humid and hot, and moisture builds up in our homes - penetrating wood, drywall, concrete.

Wood, orywai, concrete. With less humid weather the moisture begins to dissipate. When the cooler weather arrives, your windows are the first place to show condensation caused by the trapped warm, humid air inside hitting a cold surface.

Windows are usually the coldest part of your home, having the least insulating value. Insulated windows may help, but this doesn't cure the problem.

As we progress into the cooler months of fall and winter, the moisture that has penetrated your home during the summer usually dries your home during the summer usually ones out and less condensation is apparent. Overnight condensation, which builds up at night when temperatures drop outside, is normal. The outside temperatures cool the window glass and your windows will appear foggy or damp in the morning. When daylight returns, warming the temperature outside, condensation should dissipate. Condensation is harmless if it dries up, but when it remains, it is a sign of trouble. Persistent levels of moisture can damage your home structurally, resulting in dry rot, paint problems, and mold and mildew growth.

If you have a continual problem with excess condensation on your windows, you are likely to have problems hidden in your walls and attic. too.

Newer homes are much more prone to problems of this nature. With efforts to make homes more energy efficient, we have created interior environments that are too tight, without significant air leaks. There just isn't enough infiltrating air to flush out moisture. The rate of escaping warm interior air is greatly reduced, causing condensation on cooler wood sheathing. framing, attic interiors, etc.

When warmer weather arrives again, the moisture-laden interior (wall cavities don't dry out easily) is a breeding ground for fungus growth. Older homes with air leakage - cooler air entering which has less humidity and warm, humid indoor air flowing out - aren't damaged as much. When indoor air flows out, creating an overall warming to interior structural parts, less condensation collects and any fungus-producing moisture dries up much faster.

Basically, the solution to controlling condensation is to reduce and control indoor humidity, Showering, cooking, laundry, indoor plants.

Building in Design

By Annette Jaworski SPECIAL WRITER

While building a new home, there are hundreds of choices to make, from windows to light fixtures. One Milford builder has put everything including the kitchen sink together in one spot; a new design center.

Delcor Homes' new design center was created to aid customers in making those countless decisions. Since opening in September, it has helped make the experience more pleasant and relaxing, according to Jennifer Brockert, Selection Coordinator.

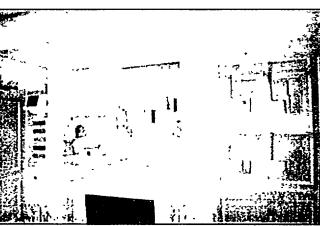

Delcor Homes has their own 'in house' Decorating Center for a one stop shopping approach to home building

"It features everything from the ground up. The exterior selections are done on site, but this is where they'll make all the interior choices," Brockert said. "This is the fun part.

The layout is similar to a home, with a kitchen, living room and bathroom areas. Each is designed to help the consumer make selections.

"With each area we try to give them a feel of a home setting," she said. "We want them to feel comfortable."

pets, aquariums and people are all humidityproducing factors. A backdrafting furnace or water heater is a problem. Gas and oil-fired appliances release a lot of water vapor. A high level of condensation on these units may indicate that the appliances are not vented properly and should be checked. Many furnaces have a central humidifier, designed to keep interior air from getting too dry. These can be out of adjustment, releasing too much moisture.

Damp basements and crawl spaces are another source of unwanted moisture. Make sure that rain runoff is away from the foundation, concrete basement walls and floors are treated with a masonry sealer and crawl spaces are covered with 6-mil plastic.

Limit the number of indoor plants. Your bathroom and any whirlpools, saunas and hot tubs need adequate ventilating fans which draw the air outside. Clothes dryers and any combustible device should vent outdoors. Staggering activities that produce moisture - no simultaneous showering, cooking, laundry tasks - can help.

Often the solution can be as simple as throwing open a window for five to 10 minutes to air out the house when condensation builds up. Fans operating on reverse cycle are helpful in creating air circulation and keeping warm air circulating off the ceiling, back down walls and windows.

If excess condensation remains after reducing moisture sources, you will have to install venting fans to force moist air out or use a dehumidifier.

More expensive retrofits to combat the problem would be window replacement with tight-fitting storm windows, insulated windows with two panes or even a third pane (triple glazing). With forced-air heat you can use automatic methods. too. A heating professional can hook up a humidistat (a device which measures relative humidity) to a fresh air vent which is coupled to your furnace duct work. The humidistat then opens the vent when humidity rises too high.

Since you mentioned that this will be the third season in your home, be aware that new construction contains more moisture in the building materials - concrete, wood, paint which dry out over a year or two.

Bottom line, control of excess condensation is necessary to protect your home.

For example, the kitchen area features more than 40 different cabinet selections. To take it one step further, the doors can actually be changed to mix and match as well as the counters, so that the prospective homeowner can see exactly what the cabinets will look like with their counter tops. There are also five different sink choices that can be seen.

Next is an entire area devoted to floor coverings, carpeting, hardwood and vinyl flooring.

"Flooring really sets the palette of the house. It's a good place to start, since you have to start somewhere." Brockert noted.

It may seem overwhelming to homeowners, but once the process starts, she says that customers are surprised how easily it all flows - "snowballing" into a beautiful finished product. Still, customers should definitely allow sufficient time to think about their selections. Brockert said the standard appointment will run about Stonewater, in Northville, is comprised of six distinct residential neighborhoods that are linked by pedestrian passages and picturesque foot bridges.

Getting away from it all Amenities abound in Stonewater development

By JASON SCHMITT Staff writer

When one thinks about getting away from it all; the traffic, the noise and the people, well they think of going up north where you can find picturesque waterfalls, meandering trout streams and crystal-clear lakes.

They think of a place so far away that cell phones become obsolete, and where there's no such thing as a rush hour. Usually those places are a good three or four hour drive away.

But there is a way to experience that resort-style environment, year round and without traveling great distances.

The newly developed Stonewater Communities in Northville Township recently began construction on what is surely to become a favorite living community for over 400 families. Stonewater offers six distinct communities by five different homebuilders.

"I've got a real good mix of homes." Shirley Heseltine, sales director for Wineman & Komer and Curtis-Estate builders, said. *I would think the builders are trying to build homes to people's lifestyles."

With that thinking. Stonewater offers residents six different lakes. totaling 106 acres. The sandy beaches are ideal for sunbathing. swimming and picnicking. Lakefront homeowners have the option of private boat slips for their electri-cally-powered deck boats. small sailboats or kayaks. Each of the lakes are linked by pedestrian trails and footbridges and offer anglers the opportunity to catch-andrelease fishing. Three waterfalls and beautiful landscaping bring forth a picturesque-resort feeling.

"I recently talked with a gentleman who was going to retire and buy a home up north on a lake." Heseltine said. "But he still wanted to be able to see his grandchildren. He decided to stay down here where he could fish on our lakes and still see his grandkids all the time. It did make a lot of sense."

Over 440 homes are planned for the entire Stonewater Community. ranging in price from the upper $500,000 to over $1 million. Several homes in the Peninsula and Boulder's communities are already erected and many more are underway. Moceri Development and the team of Curtis-Estate and Wineman and Komer are building all of the homes in The Peninsula and Leader Homes, Luma's Heritage Homes and Superb Homes are building in The Boulders.

"In our day and age, we want it all." Peggy Warner, of Communication Associates said. "We want to be up north, but we want the shopping we can get down in Detroit. Northville's a nice location to live."

Stonewater can be reached through two entrances. The Boulder's entrance is located off of Seven Mile Road, just west of Beck Road. The Peninsula entrance is of Beck Road, between Six and Seven Mile Roads. Both offer easy accessibility to 1-275, 1-96, 1-696 and M-14. A grand opening was held in mid October, showcasing several of the homes that were built.

Models are open daily from noon to 6 p.m. For further information on Stonewater please contact any of the following sales directors: Heseltine for Curtis-Estate and Wineman and Komer at (248) 348-8790; Mary Lou Breslin for Moceri Development at (248) 735-0338; Beverly Moceri for Leader Homes at (248) 349-8000; Diane Hladun for Luma's Heritage Homes at (248) 344-7400: or Erik Morganroth for Superb Homes at (248) 735-8730.

The YMCA Youth Sports leagues are designed so every child plays half of every game. At the Plymouth YMCA, the word "winning" means a lot more than a score at the end of the game. Winning means working towards the realization of personal goals, which might include improving a particular aspect of the game, learning to work as a team, or just having fun and making new friends! For information on the YMCA Youth Sports Leagues or to become a volunteer coach or official, call the Plymouth YMCA at (734) 453-2904.

They can be, you know. All they need is the chance to play. In YMCA youth sports programs, everybody gets to play in every game. Because rather than putting the emphasis on winning, we emphasize character development. There are a variety of sports to choose from. So this year, give your children the chance to enjoy some great moments in sports at the Plymouth Community YMCA.

Gone but not forgotten: Livonia resident Kathy Burling sent us this picture of her daughter Jessica with her father Larry Burke, who died of cancer last March. "My father was a Livonia fireman for my whole life, growing up," Burling wrote. "Sometimes he was home, and sometimes he wasn't. He was always there for my daughter for 3 1/2 years, her whole life, until the day he lost his life. He is missed very much. He was a very well-liked man in this community."

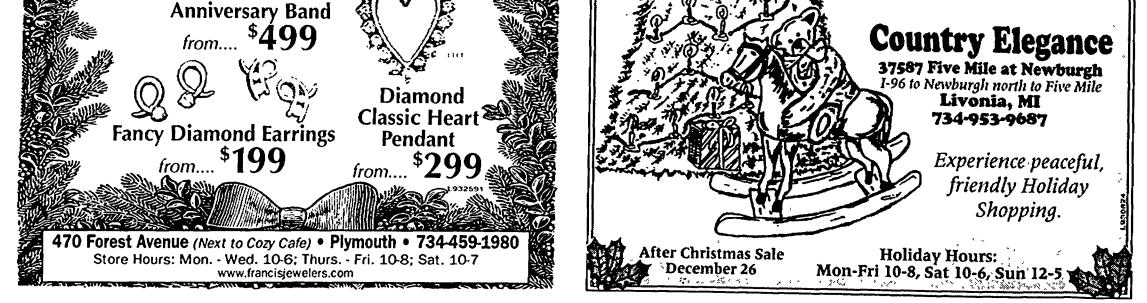

Making memories: Canton resident Anita Rivera sent us this picture of her daughters Nicole (left), 2, and Sara, 6. "I love to see their eyes sparkle with the same warm, fuzzy feelings that I so enjoyed as a child and still do!" Rivera wrote. "The best thing we have at Christmas is each other."

103 Christmases and counting

Still going: Livonia resident Loretta Hoffman is 103 years old and hopes to live into the next millennium. "My father and grandmother on my mother's side came from Germany," Hoffman wrote. "My mother and grandmother would bake cookies by the bushel baskets and gave them as gifts for Christmas. Our front room was closed off for a week until Christmas Eve when the doors were opened and the fresh Christmas tree was aglow with burning candles, ornaments and trim surrounded with beautiful unwrapped gifts. My father would take me on his lap and sing O Tannenbaum, etc. On Christmas day we would go to church which was beautifully decorated with trimmed fresh Christmas trees and the Nativity scene."

CHRISTMAS EVE SERVICES

Trinity Presbyterian Church presents four Christmas Eve services. The family celebrations at 3:30 and 5:15 p.m. Friday, Dec. 24, include a pageant and singing by the children's Sunday School choir. The prayer and praise celebration at 7:30 p.m. is led by a worship team and includes more congregational singing. The celebration at 11 p.m. includes content based on the heritage of the Reformed tradition and a time of quiet worship. The church is located at the corner of W. Ann Arbor Road and Gotfredson in Plymouth. Call (734) 459-9550.

Striking contrast: Livonia residents Richard and Roberta Slade sent us this picture taken on Christmas day in Mexico City in 1979. "It was the first time we had ever spent Christmas in a place that was not cold and snowy," Roberta Slade wrote. "We strolled through beautiful Chapultapec Park, marveling at the summer-like atmosphere. Our minds took in the images of parents and children, friends and lovers, bicycles and joggers, swimming pools and picnics. But the memory that was seared into our brains forever was a mother and her son spending Christmas day doing what they probably did every day, reaching out in desperation for nothing less than the bare necessities of life. The stark contrast continues to define Christmas for us to this very day."
