Students' artwork advances to U.S. show

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Their entire artistic careers lead up to the moment their names are announced at the Scholastic Art Awards, student T.J. Grech said this week.

"I didn't believe it," he said. "I had to look at the list twice just to make sure it was true."

More than 30 students from Northville High school competed in the show

T.J. Grech Northville High School senior and Sarah Trist earned the gold key award, the highest honor offered to art students, for their entries.

"I guess I was pretty impressed that I was chosen at all." Grech said. "I saw everyone else's work at the show and I honestly didn't think I would be picked.

Grech and Stadtmiller not only had one piece chosen for the contest but their entire portfolios.

It isn't hard to believe, given the detail and obvious care each student puts into his or her work. This was evident when Stadtmiller spoke of one of her pieces. It depicts a beautiful — albeit tough looking-winged woman.

"I read a lot of comic books and a friend of mine and I are making our own, so a lot of my work is of my characters," she said.

Because of this, Stadmiller said her drawings almost take on a life of their own complete with a life history and characteristics.

However, each artist gets inspiration from very different places. Trist seems the most spontaneous with her award-winning photography. Her piece depicted a young woman with soulful eyes playing a drum surrounded by revelers.

I was at the Renaissance Festival and I kept running into this girl playing a drum and so I figured since I keep running into her I should probably get her picture and there was just something

Unpaid taxes that go uncollected means less money for services and raises questions of

A System Flawed?

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

In a blame game between the city of Northville and several businesses, one thing remains clear - thou-sands of dollars are owed for unpaid taxes.

At the same time, however, at least one city official admits the system of collection for unpaid taxes is flawed and fixing it has even been named a top goal for the year.

A Northville Record investigation found many businesses - even some of the most popular in town owe the city thousands and thousands of dollars for unpaid personal property taxes.

But many business owners said they were unaware of any outstanding balance they owe the city.
One of our goals is to improve the process," said Nickie Bateson. assistant city manager and finance director for the city of Northville. "It isn't as aggressive as we would like it to be."

Bateson said the city took an inventory of unpaid personal property taxes last June and found more than $30,000 owed.

Gary Word. Northville city manager, said the amount is relatively

Still, the Northville Downtown Development Authority received $32.925 - slightly more than what is owed to the city for unpaid taxes - in allocations from personal property taxes last year. The organization works to improve the city of Northville through projects such as the relandscaping of Main Street.

Personal property taxes are those businesses must pay on property not affixed to their land, such as equipment, furniture, tools or computers. The money collected goes into the city's general fund and helps foot the bill for basic services provided, such as police and department of public works services

However, the system in the city has allowed many businesses to go years and years without paying a cent in personal property taxes.

For instance, the owners of the Marquis Theatre haven't paid personal property taxes since at least 1994 and owe $6,094. Many other businesses owe as well: Copy Boy Printers, $5,586 for unpaid personal property taxes from 1994 to 1999; Uptown Cafe, $2,048 for unpaid personal property taxes from 1997-1998; the former Baiardi Hair Salon, $5,252 for unpaid personal property taxes from 1994 having such services at their disposal, in case of fire or snowstorm for example, but some aren't paying their fair share.

The reasons for not paying, according to some owners, run the gamut: from lack of business to poor record keeping on the part of the city to complete unawareness of the bills.

The owner of the Marquis Theatre did not return phone calls.

Inquiries of taxes: leads to payments

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Several businesses have paid. or said they plan to pay, almost $30,000 to the city of Northville as a result of a Northville Record investigation, said Gary Word, Northville City manager.

Hamlet Food Mart, 1051 Road., Little Italy, 227 Hutton St. MacKinnons Restaurant, 126 E. Main St., and Northville Psychotherapy-Counseling, 670 Griswold Ave., paid or said they will pay more than $29,000 to the city for property taxes owed.

*The inquiry did create an interest in paying the taxes owed by some of the individuals." Word said. *So in a roundabout way. I guess we have you to Mackinnon's owner Tom Mackinnon didn't return phone calls to the Record, but paid $13,221 in back taxes he owed going back to 1996 on Feb. 11. Arnold Keller, director of Psychotherapy-Counseling Services, paid $2.211 in back personal property taxes, interest and penalties March 7. Keller said bookkeeping errors are to blame for the accumulated tax bill he paid off.

"I have not been aware until recently of the bill," Keller said.

A notice or warning from the city would have been helpful in making sure the tax bills were paid, he said.

Northville students try on trades at Oakland Tech Center

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The impressive thing about the Oakland Tech Center in Wixom. where more than 50 Northville High School students go every day, is the Walk into the computer aided design class where the teacher has stepped out for a moment and no one would find a student out of Supervisor Richard Briggs has a reason for this.

The students are here by choice. They are here because they want to be, and they behave because we treat them like adults. They have a Job to do and they get it done," he said.

OTC has been in existence as an institution for almost 30 years and a part of Northville student life for five. Even though the four technology centers in Wixom., Royal Oak, Pontiac and Walled Lake are under the umbrella of Oakland County, Northville spends a portion of its foundation grant each year so students can attend this vocational training school.

Students may enroll in a number of different training programs, Briggs said. Some of these include electronics, drafting, engineering, auto repair and interior design/marketing. The programs are open to uniors and seniors at the High School who are interested in pursuing a technical trade or who want to get a jump on college, Briggs said. But he also said students must maintain at least a 'C' average, must be on time and can miss no more than two days a semester.

Students have to be accepted into this program and it's a privilege," he said. We probably have more rules than average school."

Though Briggs talks a good talk about rules and he does run a tight ship when it comes to his "clients." as he calls them. He speaks like a proud father.

He told of countless stories of graduates who went on to great things, including Tom McKinnon owner of McKinnon's Restaurant in Northville. "Tom McKinnon was in our culinary arts program and was a won-derful student. We're so proud of him." he said.

Likewise, students speak of Briggs and the program with the same admiration. No one would guess that ter such enthusiasm about the program and the way classes are taught. Senior Charlie DeCoster, who is in the place with all the rules could fosthe aggressions greenhouse/landscape management program, said he thinks that sense of independence comes from his instructor's teaching methods. "It's not like he's teaching us as much as he is helping us learn how to do stuff on our own," he said. "Instead of lecturing to us and telling us step by step how to do something, hell have us find out the process and try it for ourselves. I really like that.

The variety of classes offered through the program brings to them students with a vast mix of backgrounds and interests.

We have kids who are straight-A students in high school and some who don't do as well, we have a program for special needs and learning disabled kids," Briggs said. "My philosophy is that we teach all of God's children.

Some students come in to the center knowing exactly what they want to do and study while others

Developer plans facelift for Highland Lakes plaza

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Plans for major change at Highland Lakes Shopping Center should liven up the strip mall at the intersection of Seven Mile Road and Northville Road, the new owner said.

David Karoub, owner of Northville Township-based Karoub and Associates, said big change is in store for the mall including an $1 million renovation project and the possibility of another "major retailer moving in.

The changes are in addition to the pending purchase of Wooly Bully's by a Westland man, who said he plans to convert the rock 'n' roll-themed restaurant into an Irish pub.

We're very excited about the center and its possibilities." Karoub said. "It could be a lot more than it is right now."

Manager hunt remains on track

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Despite a turbulent first two months of the year. Northville Township officials have managed to stay on track in the search for a new superintendent.

Bill Pomeroy, Northville Township board of trustees member, said the township management committee is sticking closely to a timeline outlined late last year. The committee continues to meet on Saturdays and is in the process of researching search firms that could help officials find the right person for the job. Additionally, the final draft of a new township ordinance that would give the superintendent the authority to carry out its duties is in the final phases and should come before the board soon.

i don't think there's any validity in waiting until the next election to do any of these things," Pomeroy said.

The outline has the township superintendent beginning work in late November or early Decem-

Several steps already have been taken toward getting the new superintendent in place including the board of trustees' decision to have a township superintendent in charge. The superintendent is a full-time position with "broad authority for managing all administrative operations" while the elected supervisor is part-time.

According to the township management committee, "all of the supervisor's statutory authority for administrative operations is delegated to the superintendent, except those of assessor, as described in the township charter."

The structure is generally the same as it always has been with the exception the new ordinance would give the superintendent the authority to carry out his or her duties.

Jacobs becomes 755's newest Eagle

Jacobs was given the highest honor on Boy Scouting for his work on a composting project at Silver Springs Elementary School over the winter

"I've been in the scouts for 10 years." Jacob's said. "Once you get to a certain rank, it's not only a cool achievement but it would be a waste not to follow through with out of First Presbyterian Church of other for various projects. Northville, said all it took was one Jacobs said he hoped t Saturday afternoon and a few volunteers to create the composting bins for Silver Springs outdoor

We spent most of the day drilling the holes for the posts but once we got those in it was easy to build it. And we had a lot of help," he said.

Jacobs said this was only one of the community service projects he has participated in to earn the award. In fact, in his Scouting career he has received 21 merit badges, 11 special badges and 10

Jacobs said he hoped to continue with the Scouts, although with other activities it makes it very dif-

I try to get to meeting when I can. During basketball season it's kind of hard but I really like to be able to help the younger kids, Jacobs said.

He said he would like to share with them all the things that scouting has taught him.

It really taught me leadership and responsibility. It also gave me the opportunity to meet and really get to know people I never would have otherwise," he said. "My best friends I met in Scouts."

He said though most of his friends attend Northville High School. Scouting gave him a chance to spend time with different types of people in a way that one can't in a large school setting.

"I have seven or eight buddles from there and even though some of them have gone on we still hang out together." he said. "Scouting is something I'll always remember."

Decorative plaque to be placed in Frellicks' honor

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Dean did it.

Dean Frellick, son of local baseball legend Bob Frellick, got his father the recognition he deserved. Though the Northville school board still cannot abandon board policy that forbids the naming of any building or place in the district after a person, the district has agreed to put a larger, more distinctive plaque on the field Bob Frellick made famous.

"I think it's a nice middle ground, and I hope that it will be a big surprise for my dad," Dean Frellick said.

The district, with the help of Northville High School assistant principal Dennis Colligan and baseball coach Larry Taylor, has agreed to construct a large plaque with Bob Frellick's likeness and an inscription embossed on it. They have also agreed to have a ceremony at the Junior League World Series in the summer dedicating the plaque to Frellick.

(Bob Frellick) has no idea. I think he is going to be really pleased," Dean Frellick said. "I am really glad that we could reach an

The issue was raised several months ago when Dean Frellick went before the board and asked them to honor a decision of the 1988 school board. At the time, Dean Frellick said that board not only promised his father a plaque at the field but also to name the actual field after him. At the time, all the board could do was put up the plaque because of a rule stating current faculty or coaches could not have sites named for them, which Bob Frellick was.

As time passed and board members came and went, the plaque was destroyed by vandals and the promise to name the field was forgotten. Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said after some checking into the files, the board never actually promised to name the field after Bob Frellick.

The only thing they passed was the plaque and we certainly want to honor that board's ruling and replace the plaque. However, they did not say they would name the field after him," he said.

Frellick said he understood the district was in a tough position and was pleased they were willing to accommodate his request as much as they did.

*No one is more deserving of this honor than Bob," Colligan said. The plaque is going to be really nice and in a prominent place where everyone can see it."

Colligan also said they are going to let the Frellick family write the dedication for the bottom of the

However, Dean Frellick did say he plans to continue to try to get the field named after his father

"I know that it will be next to impossible, and this is a really nice middle ground, but I plan to keep fighting for this." he said.

Rezmierski said he was happy about the compromise and explained why he believed the compromise was the closest the Frellick's could get to their original request.
We get a lot of deserving requests. Quite simply, we would run out of things to name if we took every request that came to us," he said.

Frellick, however, is still hopeful.

I guess we'll just have to wait and see what happens," he said. Melanie Plenda may be reached

Cowles enters House race for 20th State Rep seat

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

When it comes down to it, age doesn't mean much to Matt Cowles.

Cowles, a 23-year-old city Northville resident. announced his intention to run for. and win, the 20th district State House of Representatives seat being vacated by Rep. Gerry Law, R-Plymouth.

The fact that he is by far the youngest candidate in the group to announce they are running for the vacant seat doesn't matter to him.

"I bring a fresh idea and a fresh face that can offer a different perspective." Cowles said. "I hoping residents can look past my age and understand I have a firm grasp of the knowledge it takes to work in Lansing. Anyway, my age is something I will outgrow. Cowles joins a group of others to announce their candidacy for the seat being vacated by Law due to term limits including: Plymouth Mayor Dave McDonald; 35th District Court Magistrate Eric Colthurst: Plymouth Township resident John Stewart; and Northville resident Teresa Folino. Cowles has lived in Northville his entire life. He attended Northville public schools and earned a bachelor's degree in business administration and prelaw at Michigan State University. He is a member of First Presbyterian Church of Northville. a volunteer for Habitat for Humanity. Northville Youth Assistance and enjoys golf, reading, playing the piano, boating and skiing. Cowles worked for former Sen. Robert Geake, who represented Northville, Plymouth, Livonia, Redford and Canton. When Geake retired. Cowles was retained to continue work with the senate majority leader Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Cowles said he plans to take an excused leave of absence soon to begin campaigning full-time for the November election.

I am really excited by the support and urges from the citizens of our district." Cowles said. "The exploratory stage of this effort has given me a feel for what the people in our area want from their state government." Cowles formed an exploratory committee last May.

Education, health care and local control are the major issues facing the district and state, Cowles said.

"Long-term care is going to be more and more important as the baby boomers get older," he said. "I want to work toward getting some improvements so people don't have to rely on social security.

"I had no idea what I was doing or what I wanted to do before I came here," said senior Brent Swanson who is in the welding and fabrication program." I wasn't doing well in (Northville High) school but here I'm going to competition next week for arc welding.

Though Swanson said he may not pursue welding as a career, he said with the training he has received he has more opportunities and a better idea of what he does want to do.

On the other hand, 17-year-old automotive technology student Brian Ingalls said he has always known he wanted to work on cars. lingalls didn't receive the caliber of education or encouragement from the general education program at the high school.

This program has exceeded my expectations. At the high school, the big project we did was to take apart a lawnmower motor and put it back together." Ingalls said as he stood among a variety of cars on lifts that students were repairing and replacing engines.

Even now they don't think it's desirable or necessary to improve the automotive class (at Northville High)," he said. "Their curriculum seems to revolve around what athletes and parents want, and while that's not necessarily bad. I don't think it helps students like me very much.

He said one of the things he likes most about the program is he there is an importance placed on the trade he has chosen, which he said he didn't get through the general ed

Briggs said it is the sense of ownership and pride that keeps student in the program. Briggs said one thing that helps this is the smaller classes and the individualized training the students receive.

Briggs said each student receives an education that is geared to their individual needs and tastes. CAD engineering teacher Gary Gingrass said if were pressed to describe the curriculum at the center he couldn't do it.

"I would have to describe 22 dif-ferent programs," he said. "I teach each kid in my class individually and they all work on different projects that interest them."

But maybe it is the overall feeling of acceptance and independence that is rampant in the school that makes it so popular among the "family" as Briggs calls them. He summed up what he wanted the students to take away from OTC. and in a way, its philosophy.

"I want students to be able to learn a skill that will allow them to be independent when they leave here, and it's even okay for them not to know what they want to do for the next 30 years." he said. That's a lot of pressure to put on a child. What is not okay is for them never to be able to pursue their

Northville sailor shares glimpse of life aboard carrier

By MELANIÈ PLENDA AND PETTY OFFICER SHAWN FELIX Staff Writer and U.S. Navy Sailor

A few months ago Shawn Felix set off for a great adventure in the name of his country. A veteran at 20, this is the second deployment the Northville High School alumni has experienced.

On his mission, he sees parts of the world other people only dream about, except his only dreams are of home. Shawn has touch with the Record since his article appeared in early February and has agreed to share his experiences once a week.

letter to his family and friends back home.

"Let the Journey Begin." The recognized slogan of the United States Navy heard in commercials both on television and radio, Imagine being thousands of miles away from the comfort of your stateside home, floating in a steel city roughly the length of three football fields, one wide and the equivalent of a 24-story building in height. You and your comrades all here for different reasons. Some to travel, money for school, discipline or to make a career move for some. Regardless of the reasons for joining. everyone joined to help serve their country.

A little background about the USS John C. Stennis: The name

Mississippi senator who served in the Senate for 41 years. The length of the flight deck is 1.092 feet long and 257 feet wide. The height from keel to mast is 244 feet with the total weight of the carrier being 97,000 tons. The ship is run by a pair of nuclear reactors, making the ship's speed capable of more then 30 knots. The air conditioning plant is big enough to service 950 homes and distillation plant could serve 2.000 homes.

Stennis comes from the late

The planned size of crew is 5.000 people. On average the ship serves 15,000 meals a day. The numbers and size of the ship will have you in awe at first sight. The size of this massive ship is just an illusion when at sea, it seems. Unfortunately, as with everything else, it loses its appeal.

While working here on the ship, the ultimate goal of defend-country is often forgotten. Not out of negligence, but just preoc-

Depending on the job done and where you work you may work up to 20 hours a day. A day off on Sunday are for the few and privileged departments lucky enough to get them. For most it's a seven-day workweek and days of the week are easily forgotten as nothing separates one day from another. Time is very relative, the days become more evident as the time to hit a port nears.

In this small city you deal with the same 5,000 neighbors everyday whether you want to or not. All of them coming from different places, different backgrounds making it a little bit harder to deal with these people. Not quite the same as being at home with people that you grew up with and shared same lifestyle.

The comforts of home that are often taken for granted become luxuries when in the middle of these salty waters. Unforgettable etched in your mind of home that take you away from this place and reassure you that things will be okay one day soon when you once again reunite with those family and friends. These meaningful conversations that are often so soothing to the nerves are very costly - phone calls at $1 minute.

The snug feeling of climbing into you're bed at night being able to stretch out or curl up to that comfy position you sleep in.

Yet another extravagance that is accepted without question until it's taken from you.

Here on ship, bunks consist of a pillow equivalent to that of a hotel pillow, standard military issue blankets, with a two-inch mattress on top of a metal locker. the overall bunk size being about 2 feet by 6 feet.

Reassurance your stomach receives from mouth watering hot homecooked meals that is missed with cafeteria food on board the ship that is bland, warm at best and does just enough to satisfy the angry growls coming from hardworking sailors' stomachs. Granted, the food is adequate considering the cooks cater to some 5.000 sailors. The blandness due to the fact, so many people have different allergies they can't afford to risk any reacpressure and no interruption of heat in the shower are long since forgotten. Have you ever taken an ice cold shower not by choice? Worse yet is being all lathered up with soap and have the water pressure stop.

Dreams of continuous water

As with everything bad, some-thing good comes. How many of us can say we've been overseas? it's not quite as easy as getting in your car and driving for a few hours. Who can say they felt this proud when they put on a brand new outfit as when we put on our uniforms for the very first time? How many of us can look outside and see nothing but blue skies and gentle ocean waters?

Of all the many reasons people have joined, whether they stay in not. I think we all come out with a better appreciation for what we had at home and will one day have again. All these or another all signed up for this lifestyle voluntarily and whether we stay in is decision completely up to the individual. Whenever we all come home though, words can't express the appreciation of a real bed, being able to see friends and family at will and enjoying those scrumptious home cooked meals.

That is just to name a few of the many things we have come to a greater appreciation for.

I hope I have given a little better understanding of life in the Navy and maybe you will now too realize how lucky you really are for what you have.

Amerman students participate in SAE competition

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Toyota, GM, and Daimler-Chrysler went looking for new ideas from the best and brightest... ...at Amerman Elementary.

Amerman students put the room in motion during the Society of Automotive Engineers World in Motion competition which consists of three engineering design challenges that take the form of real world design scenarios.

"We have a shortage of engineers," SAE President and director of special activities vehicles at GM Don Abelson said. "We wanted to do something special to get kids interested early in math and sci-

The mini-engineers had one week to design and test their tiny cardboard cars for this project. As the final three groups sent their concept cars down the final drag of runway, students whooped and chanted their favorite team. "Flamebo" to victory. Tony Berry. C.J. Coulter and Will Sankell impressed GM bigwigs with their winning distance of 11.2 feet. It could have even been more. Some felt since the only thing that stooped "Flamebo" was the wall clear on the other side of the room.

"We had to cut them to make them more aerodynamic and wind resistant. Then we added washers in different combinations," 10year-old Colin Appleford said. "It kind of all depends on luck and where you put the washers."

Though Appleford's team. "Cactus Jack," was eliminated from the competition early on, he said all the students were there to cheer their classmates on. Science teacher and Amerman coordinator for the project Jeff Lightfoot said though only one team could be Judged the winner, the team that didn't make it to the finals was still successful.

"If they fail in this, it just makes them work harder to solve the problem, whereas if every trial was a complete success, their designs may never move forward," he sald. Everyone in attendance seemed impressed with the projects. including

Tardy taxes in township affect public services

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

Some things, like apple pic, baseball and paying bills, simply are intrinsic to living in America.

And while most people enjoy apple ple and baseball, paying bills is a different story. In fact, some people, businesses and even the county government have chosen to avoid or delay paying monies owed to Northville Township as long as possible.

For instance, those who make it their practice to bill you, like Wayne County, or those that bill you for services, don't or can't pay their own bills as expected.

But when that happens, guess who

That's right - you ... "In a roundabout way, the money does come out of taxpayers' pockets," said Thelma Kubitskey. Northville Township finance director.

Entities still owe the township a hefty sum. And while in the grand scheme of things the money owed won't likely make or break the township, actions are being taken to get the money owed.

For instance, township officials sent a letter to the Michael Prochaska, Wayne County director of business develop ment division, indicating Northville Township is not likely to consider any application for further development along Centennial Drive" until payment is received for the bills it owes. Centennial Drive is the street where a Wayne County planned unit development is being built with new tenants and multimillion dollar buildings. The bills the county owes are $12,597 for Wayne County planned unit development for a gas leak caused by the company review. $52,488 for the Six Mile Road local construction match and $10,000 for the Centennial Drive inspection escrow. Prochaska couldn't be reached for comment.

Township officials may use the courts as another method to collect unpaid

For instance. Rochester Hills-based Byers Locating owes the township $2.599

May 17 at a construction site at 15870 Haggerty Road.

The accident caused the use of two township rescue squads, three fire engines, other emergency vehicles as well as the use of several township employees.

"It's our staff and personnel out there on taxpayer money and time." Kubitskey

But Mike Brown, spokesman for Byers, said he had "no clue" about the bill which was addressed to him from Kelly Pigeon. Northville Township public safety administrative assistant. He said the bill may have been lost inadvertently by a receptionist and warned the Northville Record to check its facts.

Troy-based Knight Construction owes the township $1,100 for a gas line break on Seven Mile Road July 20.

However, James Cicchini, president of Knight, said he doesn't feel his company should be responsible.

Either way, Kubitskey said, And Kubitskey said the police and fire department budgets can be hurt because instead of spending money on muchneeded manpower and equipment, the department has to cover the cost of the emergencies.

Chip Snider. Northville Township director of public safety, said his department and the township need to get the money owed to them.

It's been the philosophy of the department to collect any and all debts that are caused by negligence. Snider said. That's why we are pursuing any and all outstanding debts."

Andrew Dietderich

Let me explain: I did a series of stories this week on people and businesses that owe the Northville Township and city of Northville money, be it property taxes or unpaid parking tickets.

I went so far as to try and obtain a list of the top 10 offenders for owing the most amount of money for unpaid parking tickets even though I decided not to use

And while I knew I had some parking tickets. I didn't think I owed so many as to come close to making the top 10 list. That's right, I came in at No. 15 with six unpaid parking tickets for violation of the two-hour limit in one of the city lots. Dianne Massa. Northville city clerk, reminded me several times of the fact I was on

I always wondered if this day would come, to be honest though, the day when I would be a part of the news instead of writing about it.

And, again quite honestly. I'm glad it's for this instead of something like: Reporter gets quote rong, found dead; or Reporter gets quote right, found dead; or Reporter becomes government

But finding out and highlighting who owed the city and township money, be it myself or someone else, was the whole point of the project. It's not fair to those who do pay their bills on time and park more responsibly than I do.

For example, what if a police officer is busy writing me a parking ticket and an accident at the intersection of Eight Mile Road and Center Street requires the officer immediately respond? That could be precious seconds needed at the scene of the accident. And on top of it all, I don't

During the course of the story. many business owners asked if I was all paid up on my bills. No I'm not. I'm a journalist.

But whether or not I owe any money to Visa or AAA isn't going to affect the level of service provided by the city of Northville police department (unless I start robbing banks to pay for my debt, which I don't plan to do). In fact, what these businesses do by not paying their bills yet taking advantage of city services is kind of like asking Visa to give you an unlimited amount of credit because your limit is maxed out.

At the same time, though, I honestly believe some of the business owners weren't aware of the bills. Even when I found out about my six tickets I was surprised because I thought I only had three. Like me, businesses are swamped with all kinds of bills and to lose one doesn't seem to be out of the question. And with no reminders, how could a business know?

So now that the story and research is done for now. I'm taking care of my bills with the city of Northville. Hopefully, some of the business owners that owe significant amounts of money will Kathy Baigrie, Northville city treasurer, said a mistake in the records is possible, but not likely, and that businesses that think there may be error should contact her.

According to city records, Bodner hasn't paid personal property taxes since at least 1994 and said part of the reason is because he is slow on things like paying bills.

"I'm behind on the phone bill and the electric bill and probably some other bills too," he said. "I'm late in everything except the work I print."

Bodner said he "will either pay his taxes or he won't" in the future, but that he has "every intention and good will" to pay them.

Hamlet and Mackinnon's paid about two weeks after the Northville Record sent a Freedom of Information Act request to the city of Northville asking for the top 10 list of businesses that owe the most for unpaid taxes. After the city received its letter, those who owed the most were contacted via letter by Dianne Massa, and asked if they thought the request would be an invasion of privacy.

"Seven people/businesses requested an exemption from disclosure under the act ... one person/business requested an exemption from disclosure under the act and paid the delinquent amount in full ... three persons/businesses paid the delinquent amount in full. thus removing their name from the list," said Dianne Massa, Northville city clerk, in a letter response to the request.

Although the city denied the request as stated for the top 10 businesses that owe personal property taxes, any one may use two computer terminals the city has set up at city hall to check the taxpaying history of an owner of a plece of property in the city.

The investigation revealed numerous businesses in the community that owe money, but also businesses, like Hamlet and Mackinnon's that paid the money they owed after the FOIA letter was sent to the city.

Tomina said he was aware he owed the tax money to the city. You're always aware when you

Finance director explains importance of property tax

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH

Death may be easier to cheat than taxes but that isn't to say some don't try and especially when it comes to property taxes

But why are property taxes important. anyway? The answer is simple: they help pay for the services the city of Northville provides.

For example, police and fire services. department of public works services, recreation, and insurance for the city are among the items funded partially by property taxes.

Personal property taxes are included in the general fund and handled the same manner as all other property taxes," said Nickie Bateson, finance director for the city of Northville.

State turns attention to Democratic caucus locations Democratic caucuses

By MIKE MALOTT HomeTown News Service mmalott@homecomm.net

Despite claims by the national media that the Democratic race for the presidential nomination between Al Gore and Bill Bradley has been all but decided, Michigan party members are preparing to turn out in numbers for state caucuses this Saturday, March

Some 21,000 Democrats have pulled absentee ballots, according to state party spokesman Dennis Denno. It's the first time Democrats have used a vote-bymail system as a part of its presidential primary caucus. And if the proportion of absentee voters to those that east ballots in person holds true to what is typically seen in elections - about 10 percent the number indicates participation by more than 200,000. Still, that number pales in comparison to the 1.3 million who turned out for the GOP primary Feb. 22.

To vote in person this Saturday, Democrats will gather in local meeting halls across the state for old style. lowa-type caucus sessions. Beginning at 11 a.m., the party will hold meetings asking members to vote by raising their hands. An old-fashioned 'round the room count will tally the results. The caucuses are expected to take no more than two hours. according to party officials.

Voters don't have to be registered members of the Democratic Party to participate, they must only be willing to declare themselves to be Democrats, according to State Party Chairman Mark Democrats must go to the caucus meeting for the area in which they live. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The reason Democrats are using the caucus system is the eliminate "crossover" voting, where members of one party vote in the other's primary to "cause mischief." Brewer explained. Crossover played a significant role in the outcome of the GOP's open primary.

When the balloting is finished Saturday, delegates to the Democratic National Convention will be apportioned on a percentage basis from the local congressional districts according to the results. The delegates will be allocated later, on May 6 for the districts and on May 20 for the state as a whole

All told, the state will send 157 delegates, 22 alternates, and 18 convention committee members off to the national convention in Los Angeles this August where they will cast the final votes, for who is to be selected as the party's nominee to run for president in Novem-

Neither Vice President Gore nor former New Jersey senator Bradley has a lock on the nomination quite yet. To assure the nomination in Los Angeles, one candidate will need 2,170 committed delegates out of a total of 4.339 slated to attend.

Up until Super Tuesday, Gore had 42 delegates in his camp.

Bradley has gathered 27. Tuesday's balloting was certainsignificant. With 16 states participating in the nation's biggest primary day of the campaign — 11 holding primaries and five holding caucuses - Super Tuesday determined the allocation of no less than 1.312 delegates.

But that is still short of the number needed to wrap up the race. So Michigan Dems will have their say Saturday before the contest can be tallied in the won-lost

So Farrell will have the students stand feet together with his arm extended and finger pointed. She then tells the student to turn to his right as far as possible and mark the spot in their minds.

Farrell will then pick a spot on the wall that is a few feet away from the original spot the student picked. The student is then asked to return to his starting position and visualize being able to turn to that point on the wall. He or she is then asked to do just that. Remarkably, she said, in almost every case the student is able to reach that farther point when they

While most of her students come in for the relaxation yoga brings, some are looking for a work out regime that will have them lose weight as well. Farrell said people shouldn't be discouraged by the misconception that yoga is simply stretching.

There are postures that we do that actually improve your metabolism," she said.

Farrell said this is done by bringing the body into alignment and balance. This helps the internal organs to work better and will ultimately improve the metabolism as well as other functions.

Whether it is weight loss or relaxation her students are looking for they all agree with her statement of leaving the class a changed person. "It's reversing the aging process," said student Penny Weaver. "It's amazing and I can't say enough good things about it."

Classes are Mondays at 9:30 a.m. and 6:00 pm; Tuesday at 7:15 p.m., Wednesday at 9:30 am and Thursday at 7:15 p.m. There are several pricing packages available ranging from $57 for 6 classes to $192 for 24 classes. Classes are generally an hour to 90 minutes depending on what the class wants to do. Farrell said. Packages are valid for three months from date of purchase. Walk-ins are also welcome for $10 per class More information can be obtained by calling Healthy Solutions at (248) 305-5785.

Ban online alcohol sales? We think it's a bad idea

are getting alcohol

through the Internet now.

t may look like a solid idea, but operation. when examined, the state Legislature's proposal to block the sale of alcohol over the Internet to minors just doesn't hold water.

First, the sale of alcohol to minors is already illegal here.

Secondly, there is absolutely no evidence that youngsters are getting alcohol through the Internet now.

And when done in the manner put forward by Rep. Nancy Cassis, R-Novi. through House Bill 4752, the legislation would impose a restraint on trade for the small business operations that make up the fine winemaking industry, including Michigan's two dozen wineries.

Most importantly, HB 4752 would significantly limit choices for con- the least of which is an itemized credit sumers — that's you. dear reader.

lovers ...there is absolutely no Wine statewide need to set evidence that youngsters down their stemware and pick up pens to write lawmakers in opposition to HB 4752.

Vintners and conabout minors gaining access to alcohol over the Internet are really a "smokescreen." that the real purpose is to preserve the monopoly wholesalers now have on the distribution of spirits here in Michigan. The state's "three-tier" system requires that all alcohol be distributed through wholesalers. E-commerce bypasses them, threatening that monopoly.

Cassis and the Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers Association deny it, as you'd expect, but their protestations are unconvincing given the lack of evidence that youths are buying alcohol over the Internet.

Congressional hearings last March on related legislation at the federal level failed to produce evidence. Cassis can't point to any. Nor can the wholesalers.

Even Michigan's Liquor Control Commission, responsible for enforcing the liquor laws here, can't point to a single known case of a juvenile ordering beer, wine or booze over the World Wide Web, other than in a "sting"

When Attorney General Jennifer Granholm conducted a series of stings recently - which she used to arm-wrestle United Parcel Service into agreeing to stop deliveries of alcoholic beverages from out of state - it appears to have worked only because the youngsters themselves weren't going to get in trouble. Acting as decoys on behalf of law enforcement, those teens were protected from prosecution as they submitted their orders for alcohol.

It's different in the real world. Youngsters have good reason to avoid using the Internet to obtain booze. Any youth attempting to order it by wire would create a paper trail, not card bill that any parent who is paying any attention at all is likely to catch.

Regardless of this lack of evidence, the state is headed toward cutting off Michigan consumers - includnoisseurs claim the concerns raised ing those who are of legal drinking age - from an estimated 1,900 to 1,950 wine producers across the country. It is estimated that wholesalers can reasonably distribute product from only 50 or 100 of the country's 2.000 wineries.

> Without Internet sales or delivery services like UPS, there will be little possibility they can get their products to their Michigan customers.

> That is indeed a serious restraint on trade, a substantial limitation on consumer choice.

> HB 4752 was approved by the House of Representatives without opposition, but it now awaits action in the Economic Development Committee in the Senate.

Wine lovers can explain their objections to the bill by writing to committee members Sen. Bill Schuette, R-Midland, Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia. David Jaye, R-Washington Township, Burton Leland, D-Detroit, and Gary Peters. D-Bloomfield Township, at Michigan State Senate, P.O. Box 30036, Lansing. Mich. 48909-7536.

Let the War of the Vouchers begin

Well, well. Here we go again.

The proposal to legalize a voucher system for students in "failing" public schools is almost certainly headed for a vote in November.

Kids First! Yes!, the outfit that is sponsoring the constitutional amendment to end the ban on spending public funds for private and parochial schools, has submitted more than enough petition signatures — 302,000 required, 463,000 turned in — to the state Elections Commission to put the measure on

It wasn't cheap to get all those signatures. The December filing submitted by to the Election Commission shows payments totaling $307.487.48 to National Petition Management, of Southfield, MI. At least some of the petition circulators were paid rather than volunteer.

The most controversial aspect of the proposal would create and fund vouchers — called "Opportunity Scholarships" — for kids in "failing school districts to use at private or religious schools. The vouchers, if approved, would be worth about $2,700 (approximately one half the current state per pupil funding grant), which could be cashed at private or religious schools. A failing district is one which has a "four year graduation rate of less than two thirds," according to the proposal.

Thirty Michigan school districts have graduation rates under 66 percent, including Detroit

The proposed amendment would also allow any other school district in the state to set up a voucher system if a majority of local residents vote to do so. What this means is that the constitutional "failing school" limitation on spending public money for private schools can be overturned by a local vote.

The historic politics of the proposal are unhopeful to supporters. "Parochiaid" has appeared on the Michigan statewide ballot twice, losing badly both times.

The purest occasion was in 1970, when a constitutional amendment designed specifically to prohibit public tax dollars going to private and parochial schools passed, 56 percent to 44 percent. The idea reappeared on the ballot in 1978, packaged this time with a property tax cut and known as the "Tisch Amendment." It went down, 3-1.

Although this is 22 years later, when the deterioration of urban schools has reached crisis proportions and education ranks top on the list of voter concerns, the Kids First! Yes! Proposal so far is getting support from less than 60 percent of those polled, far below the 65-70 percent approval that conventional wisdom says is necessary support going into a campaign to amend the constitution.

Moreover, getting the measure on the ballot has already precipitated a serious split in the Michigan Republican Party. Gov. John Engler has repeatedly and vigorously argued it's bad politics, for fear of hurting Sen. Spencer Abraham's chances against challenger Rep. Debbie Stabenow. Biggest backer is Dick DeVos, the Amway billionaire from Grand Rapids, who says he'll raise $5 million to support it and whose wife, Betsy, just resigned as Michigan GOP state chair.

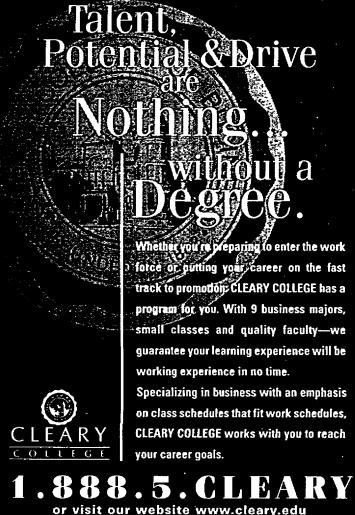

The best argument for the voucher program is simple. Most parents will do anything in their power to get good education for their kids. But poor parents who live in inner cities with cruddy public schools can't afford private or parochial ones, which are usually much better. And when even the most passionate believers in school reform can't promise urban schools will improve quickly, what's wrong with giving vouchers to poor folks to use to help their kids while things are getting better?

The best argument against vouchers — leaving out for the moment the basic gut reaction to spending public tax dollars on religious and private institutions - is that they would essentially suck money out of the public schools system. Using vouchers as a way of fixing the public schools, the argument goes, is just like the assertion during the war in Vietnam that we could save the village only by destroying it.

In this regard, the case of the Inkster school district is instructive. Over the years, the district got so bad that enough parents pulled their kids out and sent them to private and charter schools that the district simply didn't have enough enrollment — and the state foundation per pupil grant that goes with it - to sustain a financially viable district.

Schools need fewer computers, not more

Northville Schools, as a 'leading public school system," is rapidly moving forward with the deployment of computer technology at all grade levels. It is currently in the process of spending a $5.3 million 'technology bond'.

Computers are now in every classroom, from kindergarten up. Keyboardingskills are now being taught in the 3rd grade. Computers are supposedly a 'prestige' item, enhancing the perceived quality of the school system.

There are a number of concerns about the effects of technology on children, and these have been widely overlooked or ignored by the general public. In a nutshell, there are four major areas of concern:

1. Computers don't produce academic improvement. There is a myth floating around the general public that technology somehow improves academic performance. In, fact, such, benefits are ambiguous at best and non-existent at worst. One expert noted that the system is "set up to find benefits that aren't really there... The [data] is so flawed it shouldn't even be called research.

2. Students do not need years of experience to prepare for college or business. Hardware and software change so rapidly that any skills learned will be effectively useless - a 9th-grader has eight to 10 years before entering the business world. Furthermore, the purpose of schools is to prepare students for college, not business: this can be fully accomplished in two to three years of high school.

3. Exposure to technology has potentially harmful effects, both physical and mental. Risks of the Internet are well known. Beyond this, there is evidence that computer usage. particularly for small children, has unknown long-term risks: eye strain, muscular and skeletal problems, CRT radiation, even potential alteration of brain organization and mental skills. No one understands the long-term effects, and to this extent we are experimenting

4. Costs of technology tend to accelerate beyond expectation. Training, upgrades, infrastructure, and maintenance inevitably exceedbudgets. On-going costs can run to $3,800 per computer per year. Our bond is supposed to last 10 to 15 years, which is impossibly opti-

When we look at the total picture, it just doesn't add up. Northville should drastically reduce computer usage, especially in elementary and middle schools. To continue on the present course is unwise and irresponsible. I invite comment from the public.

Parent concerned over school's health class

To the editor:

As the parent of students in the Northville School District, it has recently been brought to my attention that a new mandatory health/sex education program is being considered and most probably will be instituted for our high school students. This program begins with the class of 2003.

Many local parents find much of the material objectionable - most notably the classroom demonstration of the proper way to apply a condom to a model of a male body part. These classes are to be coed and may include students from tenth, 11th and 12th grade. What other surprises are in store for our children in this class?

If you would like to hear more about this program, you may attend the PTSA meeting at Northville High School on Friday, March 10 at 9:15 a.m. You may view the material from the program by appointment by calling central administration offices at 344-8442. Please see the material, then attend the public board Instructional Services Subcommittee meeting on Tuesday, March 21 at 7 p.m. at 501 W. Main St.

Quick action by concerned parents is needed now as this matter is to be decided upon in the next few weeks. It is the hope of many parents that we can postpone this decision until more of us can be informed. Get the facts. Call now.

City firefighters deserve praise

To the editor:

Last Saturday about 9 p.m., my daughter screamed The garage is on fire!" She quickly dialed 911. I hobbled outside, restricted by my worn-out knees and witnessed the fire quickly feeding on roofing, dry wood, and miscellaneous articles stored therein - bikes, children's play equipment, sports equipment, etc. Chief Allen's volunteers arrived with a multitude of equipment and kept the flames from doing further damage to our house and the neighbor's domicile. A "thank you" to all personnel that interrupted their Saturday night activities to use their skills to eliminate further damage. As Paul Harvey reiterates daily,

'Now, for the rest of the story." Many times in the past I thought I should use the camcorder to make an inventory of our household articles room by room. How many items that are seldom used are never remembered until they are missed. When Sgt. Ai Zielinski asked me, while we observed our garage (now a skeleton of charred wood and wet ashes), what was stored therein and the value, I wished I had had an inventory to review. I gave an estimate but even as we viewed the blackened articles, I noticed various items I had completely forgotten. Yes, what happens to others finally came to our house. As a former Boy Scoutmaster, I should have remembered Be Prepared.

Thanks again Chief Allen and

Mothers can save America's future

I was outraged to hear that, yet again, another innocent life was taken. I was even more outraged to hear it happened at a school - a place where our children should always feel safe. As a mother, I can no longer tolerate our children dying in their classrooms and on the playgrounds - it hits far too close to home.

For too long we ignored the issue, considering it something that happens to other people. The tragedy at Buell Elementary School in Flint illustrates that this isn't someone else's problem. Gun violence in schools is happening in big cities and small towns. It's happening in urban communities and rural communities. It's happening in public and private schools. And it is happening where you and I live.

This Mother's Day, mothers. grandmothers, stepmothers. future mothers, godmothers, foster mothers, teachers, students, and families will join me at the Million Mom March in Washington D.C. Our goal is to educate and mobilize the mothers of America to this cause. We understand the need for action to stop the epidemic of gun violence. On May 14, we will ask Congress to help us take the guns out of our children's hands. The Million Mom March is dedicated to the mission of educating our children and our country about the life-threatening danger of guns. Please help us get this information out to the people, we need everyone's support.

*Never doubt that a small group of thoughtful, committed citizens can change the world. Indeed it is the only thing that ever has. " -Margaret Mead

Watch for slogans in Bush campaign

To the editor:

Jefferson Morley of Slate Magazine, March 2 came into possession of a secret memo from the Bush strategy team addressed to "Gov. W. Bush, Jebby (G.W.'s brother), Poppy (G.W.'s father). and Babs (G.W.'s mother)." The memo was in regard to revised slogans for the Bush campaign.

Deputy Sec. Pho Ny Minh of the Bush campaign refused to confirm or deny the existence of the memo.

The slogans were in the form of alliterations. The first one, as we have already seen, is *Reformer with Results.

Proposed future ones, right up to the November elections, are: the reasonable reactionary; a muscular moderate; leadership that leads; a smile, not a smirk; progressive pragmatist; a president with pride; an insurgent with integrity; a suburbanite with soul: and a centrist with a center."

(Look for the above slogans if they will be used - forewarned is forearmed.)

Northville city building inspector Rick Starling, left, takes a look at what can happen when city codes are not followed: a fire broke out last week in this Northville home off Grassmere after a fireplace flue was improperly installed. More than a third of

But before you start any kind of renovation project on your home. you may want to consider stop-ping by the city of Northville building department at city hall or the Northville Township building department on Beck Road.

The reason?

You or your contractor may need to obtain a permit for work being performed on your home.

*We generally require a permit for any construction, alteration or repair," said Rick Starling, chief building inspector in the city of Northville.

That means sewer work, plumbing, mechanical work, air-conditioning, carpentry work, electrical and even deck work. The building department enforces a stringent set of rules and regulations as

The purpose isn't to write as many ordinance violations as possible. Starling said.

Oftentimes we're perceived as bad guys," Starling said. "But we are here to protect the safety of our taxpayers. Our job is to enforce state and city codes and ensure the public's safety.

For example, when a local spa company that went belly up tried to wire a spa into a Northville resident's house in a way that was faulty, the city electrical inspector was able to warn the residents they could have been seriously injured:

The project went wrong from the Starling said homeowners performing work themselves on their homes will be given more assistance with their projects than contractors working within the city.

In addition to making sure homeowners perform the proper work on their homes, the building inspector works to make sure contractors perform the proper work. Since the building permit is required to be displayed until the project is completed, homeowners may want to look for one hanging to have done.

When the work is done and the inspector approves the final project, you will receive a certificate of occupancy." Starling said. "It formally marks completion of the project with the knowledge it meets code and safety standards.

Watch out, Victorian Festival, You've got

That's what Northville area Chamber of Commerce director Laurie Marrs had to say about the 2000 Taste of Northville Business Showcase, slated this year for March 21 at the Northville Community Center.

"It's truly the second-most popular event the chamber sponsors," Marrs said. "It's an Interactive business expo in every sense. It's a wonderful place for families to get a look at the businesses in their community. Nevermind the fact that dozens of restaurants will be represented at the show, which attracts some 70 different vendors. The cost of sampling foods from restaurants is included in the price of admission.

The Expo, now in its 10th year, was developed as a means for businesses to get exposure to residents and fellow businesses. It has blossomed into a family-oriented evening. "What we're doing is getting to the public." "What we're doing is getting to the public. There are so many different businesses that everyone can find something that they're interested in."

Northville Chamber of Commerce director

Marrs said. There are so many different businesses that everyone can find something that they're interested in.'

Business owners and managers have found the Expo to be a productive evening of networking, as well, Marrs said. She said many companies in Northville Township and Northville have forged partnerships with each other as a direct result of the Expo taking

Non-profit community groups also receive invitations to participate in the Expo. she

Not only that, but the younger set has taken advantage of the Expo to find out about Northville businesses they didn't even know about, she said.

Students have written letters to us thanking us for putting this on." she said. "It's gotten that popular.

An estimated 1,000 people turned out for last year's three-hour show.

We had them lining up outside the door way ahead of five o'clock," Marrs said. Everyone wanted to get inside and take a look.

The Expo is littered with giveaways, raffles and promotional handouts. Marrs said the Chamber has gone out of its way to ensure that the Expo remains a family event. "it's a fantastic evening," she said. "I'd love to see this place packed."

The Taste of Northville Business Expo runs from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Northville Community Center. For more information. call (248) 349-7640.

The homeless who slept at the church were allowed to keep their new bed sheets, pillows and blankets when they left. They received warm clothing from the church Clothes Closet, as many arrived with only the clothes they were wearing.

Diversifying the key to financial goals

How does an investor create an appropriate, long-term investment plan? Spreading assets over a variety of different investments is perhaps the most important rule one can follow. Because no single asset class performs best in all economic environments, the performance of a diversified portfolio is expected to fluctuate less as losses from some investments are offset Asset allocation is the act of balancing the three common investment classes: stocks. bonds and cash reserves. Knowing the differences among them is important:

· Common stocks, which represent ownership rights in a corporation, entail more risk than other types of financial assets in the short run. But over longer holding periods, they have usually provided the highest returns and the greatest margin over inflation. Common stocks also have the greatest potential for short-term downturns.

 Bonds are IOUs issued by corporations. governments and federal agencies. They typically offer higher yields than cash reserves, but their value can fluctuate dramatically in response to changes in interest rates. Bonds generally offer higher current income with less volatility than stocks, but have limited potential for increased returns.

· Cash reserves include money market securities such as Treasury Bills and short-term certificates of deposit. Because money market securities have shorter maturities, they typically provide a stable investment value and current interest income. However, inflation can quickly crode the purchasing power of cash, leaving investors short of reaching their finan-

Diversification within Asset Classes:

As the stock or bond portions of your portfolio are refined, consider spreading investments among the various categories within a single asset class. For instance, diversification of the stock portion among several strategies to target growth stocks, value stocks, blue chip stocks

A bond allocation may be diversified to include instruments characterized by specific maturities (short, intermediate or long-term) or different types of bonds, such as U.S. government, corporate or tax-free municipal bonds. Also consider a mixture of domestic and international stock and bond investments.

What Should the Allocation Be?

How much emphasis should be placed on stocks for growth, bonds for income and cash reserves for safety and liquidity will depend in part on an investor's tolerance for risk and the time horizon for reaching financial goals. If the goal is the near-term purchase of a house or car, it may have a shorter time frame calling for lower- or moderate-risk investment appreach-

A goal like college education or retirement may have a longer time horizon that allows an investor to pursue more aggressive and potentially rewarding strategies because of the ability to wait out any short-term fluctuations in the market. Of course, the time won't matter if you misjudge your emotional response to a downturn. For this reason, an investor must always weigh the desire for higher returns against a willingness to tolerate market setbacks.

Stay on Course

An effective asset allocation can help balance the risk assumed with the return earned. But it is still important to remember that the stock and bond markets are inherently volatile. All too often, investors become nervous at the first sign of a market downswing and may be tempted to alter their investment plan. By understanding what to expect, an investor will be able to stay on course and resist the urge to revise one's investment mix based on shortterm market events.

To find out about asset allocation and how a customized asset allocation strategy may assist in reaching your financial goals, contact your financial advisor

Individuals can participate in this event in one of two ways. You can either donate items for resale. the proceeds from which will benefit the Senor Center, or you can rent space at the garage sale site and sell your own items for your own benefit.

With the first alternative, your participation is the value of the donation. Bring your items (no clothes, curtain rods or bowling balls, please) to the Senior Center between now and May 26 and we will sell them. This approach is attractive to those who don't have the time for their own garage sale: gets rid of clutter and other unwanted items; obtains a tax deduction; and doesn't require participation in the sale itself.

If you are interested in making money for yourself and have the time and energy to sell your own items, rent a parking space at the Senior Center for $25 and sell directly from your vehicle. Not only does this provide more customer traffic due to consolidated sale sites, but the opportunity to meet and interact with members of the community.

In either situation, you will be assisting the Senior Center in raising proceeds for senior programs, which is a necessary component to the success of retirement community living. If you have any questions, contact Sue Koivula at (248) 349-4140.

Upon his arrival to Earth. Harold befriends Perry Gordon (Greg Kinnear), a horny, morally challenged specimen of the human male, and together they scope Phoenix for women. To Harold, however, female Earthlings prove to be an immensely diverse and complicated species. On the prowl for the ideal woman with whom he can mate, the alien encounters a wide spectrum of potential candidates: a charming, almost frigid stewardess (Judy Greer), a topless waitress (Anastasia Sakelaris). Perry's sexually aggressive wife. Helen (Linda Fiorentino), and finally, Susan (Annette Bening), a recovering alcoholic who's about to embark on a new life.

Novi overcomes 1-0 deficit to eliminate Mustangs from tourney

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

Josh Block lived up to his name for most of the regional final game against Novi last Friday night, but couldn't defend the barrage of Wildcat shots forever.

The senior netminder stopped over 25 shots through the first two periods, but finally surrendered the game-tying goal with 8:01 remaining in the game. That in turn led to two more goals by Novi in its 3-1 win over the Mustangs in front of a packed crowd at Novi Novi's Brad Zarem fired a slap shot on Block midway through the third period. The puck hit the Northville goalie's right blocker, trickled through his arm and into the goal to tie the game at 1-1.

Up until that point. Block was unbeatable, turning away over 25 Novi shots through two and a half Block played incredible — in the second period alone he had to play incredible and he did." Northville coach Brad O'Neill said. After that Zarem goal, we were physically fatigued."

The Wildcats outshot the Mustangs 40-17, including 16-4 in a second period that saw Northville get called for five penalties.

Although Novi was unable to capitalize on any of the four power-play opportunities, the penalty killing wore the Mustangs

"I thought it was a well-played game, but it wasn't that chippy." O'Neill said. "I was a little frustrated and felt the refs should have let the players play a little bit, especially in a regional game like that."

Rob Ryan gave Northville a 1-0 lead in the first period, beating Novi goalie Beau Brandau on a rebound. Northville and Novi played evenly throughout the first period.

The teams played to a packed crowd which wrapped its way around the glass on each end.

After the game, Northville coach Brad O'Neill said it was exciting to be a part of a game like that. "I couldn't believe the turnout. I mean we had teachers painting their faces and I've never seen that before," he said.

Novi coach Dan Phelps agreed. "It was Just a great, entertaining game," he said. "And what a great thing it is for both of these communities. It's ashame only one team can go on. But I tell you what — we're happy to be the one Novi advanced to the state quarterfinals this past Tuesday (after The Northville Record's deadline) to take on Okemos. The winner of that game advanced to the state semifinal tonight at the Flint IMA. The state championship game will also be played at the Flint IMA on Saturday morning (11 a.m.).

N'VILLE 8, KETTERING 3

The score wasn't indicative of how close this game was after two periods. In fact, Kettering actually led 3-2 with just under a minute to play in the second. But Northville scored two goals in 31 seconds, the second of which came from Bill Salliote with a second left, which got the team headed in the right direction for the third period.

Steve LaRiche scored two goals in the third. Ryan added his second of the game and Brandon Szatkowski netted the last for Northville. The win moved Northville into the finals against

We played solid, but boy, that took a lot out of us," O'Neill said. That game was more physical than the Novi game. It was up and down, fast paced."

The Northville/Novi gymnasts have yet to reach the peak of their mountain, and that's good news with the state gymnastics meet coming up this weekend.

Coach Laura Moyer's team scored a season-high 145.2 points to win the Plymouth Canton regional tournament and send it to the state finals this weekend at Hartland High School. The team competition begins at 4 p.m. tomorrow, with the individual competition beginning Saturday at noon.

This is definitely the best time of the year to peak." Moyers said. "I think that this regional meet helped to boost their confidence and their togetherness. I think they were surprised that they could score a 145.2 without truly doing their best."

Adrian took second behind the Mustangs with a 143.0 and Jackson County Western was third with a 136.925. All three teams advance to the finals. Adrian and Western replace Hillsdale and Saline, who qualified for the state meet along with Northville last

The junior had tremendous showings in the floor exercise and on the beam. She took home a regional championship in both, where she scored a 9.6 in the floor and a 9.5 on the beam. Katie Braine, who scored a 36.175 all around, finished third on both the beam (9.05) and floor (9.35). Braine also placed fourth in the vault competition (9.15).

Cheer team wins WLAA...

The Northville varsity cheer team took first place overall at the Western Lakes Activities Association league meet two weeks ago. The squad easily took first place with 762 points, with defending champion Walled Lake Central finishing second with 698 points. Salem was a close third with 695 points.

The team is coached by Annie Bondy, Ron Policicchia, Allison Superfisky, Karen Thorn and Jenn Schmitz.

Cagers set for district run

It wasn't exactly the way the Northville basketball team wanted to enter the district basketball tournament this week at Novi High School.

But the team has had six days to shake off a 55-38 loss to Howell and prepare for tonight's district semifinal game against Plymouth Canton. The Mustangs concluded their regular season 10-10, the exact record the Chiefs bring into the game. The two team's tip off tonight at 5:30 p.m. with the Plymouth Salem-Novi/Churchill game taking place immediately afterwards. The district championship game will also be played at Novi High School on Saturday

Against the Highlanders, Northville kept the game close until the fourth quarter. That's when Howell outscored the Mustangs 17-4 and deprive them of a winning regular

Junior forward David Gregor scored 16 points to lead Northville, but failed to score a point in the fourth quarter and eventually fouled out along with teammate Aaron

Basketball

Howell guard Eric Walters, on the other hand, scored 10 of his 16 points in the fourth quarter and knocked down all eight of his free throws.

Thom Knapp added nine points for Northville.

NVILLE 65, CHURCHILL 50

In a game that decided fifth place in the Western Lakes Activities Association, Northville proceeded to beat Churchill for the second time in 11 days back on Feb. 29.

Northville took advantage of its size, continually pushing the ball inside to Gregor and Knapp. Gregor led the Mustangs with 21 points, knocking down 7 of 8 free throws. He also snared nine rebounds in his second big game against the Chargers this season (29 points in their first meeting). Knapp pitched in with a career-high 17 points and pulled down eight rebounds.

Netters fall to Ladywood

By JASON SCHMITT

The Northville volleyball squad's season came to an abrupt end this past weekend as the team lost its district semifinal match to Livonia Ladywood 15-11, 7-15.

The Mustangs had their defensive game going early on, but Ladywood adjusted to Northville's blocking schemes and fought their way back for the win. Ladywood advanced on to the finals, where it lost to Plymouth Salem.

(Ladywood) played well and we didn't play up to our full potential," Northville coach Nikki McEvers said. "We didn't adjust as well defensively to counter their changes.

McEvers said her team was able to block Ladywood's top hitters throughout the first game, but then the Blazers adjusted and started tipping over the blocks more.

They didn't change positions or substitute, they just adjusted and started hitting the ball softly over our blockers." the coach explained. "With our kids, they're used to blocking and they forced us to hesitate. Sometimes when an opponent changes up like that is causes some confusion and we begin to drop balls."

And that Northville did, especially after hanging with Lady-wood for half of the second game. The Mustangs' three biggest blockers, Meredith and Janel Hasse as well as Beth Gillis, led the team in digs. Meredith and Gillis had 12 each and Janel added 11. Meredith led the team with 12 kills while Janel had seven. Gillis led the team with seven blocks.

The loss ends Northville's season at 30-9-6.

"I don't think there was a day that went by where I wasn't happy with their play at some point or another. They had the ability to pull themselves out of some tough holes that many other teams

Novi wrestlers finish runnerup

Baseline rival loses to Davison in D-1 state championship

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

From the looks on the Novi wrester's faces. you'd have thought they just lost in the first round of district action.

But within a few minutes the agony of defeat was replaced with the Joy of accomplishment after finishing runnerup at the state wrestling meet in Battle Creek.

The team that ousted Northville from the district wrestling tournament went on to lose to Davison 41-28 in the Division I state final, capping off the most successful season in school history.

This was a great experience for this team." Novi co-coach Brad Huss said. "We took our entire team down there (to Battle Creek). We wanted them all to experience this. We wanted our JV kids to say we want to be there - we want to be back

For a short while, it looked as if the cards may fall Novi's way. The match was close to start, with Novi holding a 15-11 lead after 130 pounds. Unfortunately for the 'Cats, Davison was just too strong all the way

The Cardinals Joe Whitman and Chad Roush picked up pins over Nate Mitchell and Eric Cook, vaulting No. 2 ranked Davison into a 23-15 lead. Yusaf Qamruzzaman hung in there against Jimmy McFall, but fell 6-1. That made the score 26-15 and all but put an end to Novi's chances.

Davison without a doubt has a solid team. I know every Novi kid wrestled their heart out, but we just came up a little short." Novi senior Brian Dodds said. "We did all we could, and it was a very emotional match."

Emotional because it was the first time

Novi had ever qualified past the state quarterfinals and also because it was a rematch with one of the three teams to beat Novi this season. Davison handed Novi a 37-25 loss back in mid-January.

In that match Novi jumped out to a 19-3 lead on the Cardinals.

I knew what the score was (at 15-11), and we weren't in that great of shape." Huss said. "We were winning by more than that the last time we faced them, and still lost."

In the rematch, Novi gave up too many falls to stay in contention. Davison won six matches by fall, and added a major decision in the mix. Novi, on the other hand, won just three matches by fall.

The first of those matches came at 119 pounds, where Dan Jilg beat John Whitman by technical fall 18-1. The win was Jilg's 47th of the year and gave his team a 9-6 lead. Davison came right back with their best wrestler, and the number one ranked wrestler at 125 pounds, Chase Metcalf. The sophomore wasn't able to pin Dodds, but picked up a 20-5 technical fall to give his team a brief lead.

In the next match, Ryan Churella fought off a stiff neck to pin Nick Finley in just 50 seconds. It was a match Novi was worried about because of Churella's injury he sustained in an earlier match. Regardless, Novi took their last lead of the day at 15-11.

Vince Slovan halted the bleeding at 152 pounds, picking up a 7-5 decision over Tim Polidan. The win avenged an 8-7 loss to Polidan earlier this season.

Davison took control of the match for good at 160 and 171, where Casey Streeter and Jon Phillips beat Novi's Frank Kava and Scott Kortlandt to give their team nine points and a 17-point lead with three matches to Novi stayed alive as Adam Borashko pinned Adam Wilmoth in 2:59 and Nick Slovan won by major decision 12-4 over John McCrandall at 215.

But heading into the heavyweight match. Novi was down seven and out of it. Davison's Nic LaFear pinned Jason Moore in 2:35 to seal up the win and state title for the Cardinals.

The match started out on a positive note for Novi, with Josh Churella beating Davison's Keristen LaBelle 21-7 at 103 pounds. The match drew attention from the entire arena, with LaBelle having won 50 matches coming into the finals. She is the first girl in state history to win a regional title. But Churella took control early and asserted himself throughout the match. It was the freshman's second win over LaBelle this sea-

'If we were healthy, we have a real good chance to beat them." Huss said. "Brent Frey did not even wrestle and Ryan Churella had sore neck. Because of those two factors alone, we have a chance.

"But despite that loss, we're unbelievably proud of these guys. Davison has 12 state qualifiers and for us to beat them at six weights is great."

Novi's season ends with a 29-4 record. Two of those losses came to Davison, one to Lapeer West (Division II state champion) and the other to Hartland. The team won Oakland County, Kensington Valley Conference, district and regional championships en route to their runnerup finish.

"At last year's banquet our goal was set to win states." Dodds said. "Our coaches challenged us to believe in ourselves and each other and we did. We didn't flat out expect to wrestle in the state finals, but we knew that if we wrestled like we were capable of we could wrestle, we could win.

The individual state finals begin today and Novi has five qualifiers representing the school. Josh and Ryan Churella, Jilg. Borashko and Slovan have qualified. First round matches begin today, with second-round matches taking place tomorrow at the Joe Louis Arena. The semifinals and finals will take place Saturday.

NOVI 24, ROCKFORD 23

Weight for weight, Rockford actually matched up better against the Wildcats, but Novi took it to them when it counted.

Jilg. Churella and Borashko each picked up wins at 125, 135 and 189, but it was Novi's other victories which propelled the team to the finals.

Dodds helped his team avoid a major hole by defeating Nate Roersma 9-7 in a match that went into overtime. A loss there and Novi would have been facing a 9-0 deficit. Instead Novi was just three down at 6-3.

'I really didn't know what to expect (against Roersma)," Dodds said. "I knew that if I was aggressive and shot first I could take him down. We were losing going into my match, but I tried to wrestle like it was any other match.'

After Jilg won by a majority decision 12-2 over Joe Swendrowski. Nate Mitchell picked up a 6-4 decision over Brandon Cook. Add to that Churella's 9-4 win over Joe Apkarian and Novi had built a 13-6 lead.

Rockford charged back with a win at 140. but Qamruzzaman picked up perhaps the win of the match at 145.

The senior trailed 3-1 midway through the third period before registering a reversal to tle the score up and send it into overtime. It was there that Qamruzzaman earned another takedown to win the match and give Novi a 16-10 lead.

Rockford won two straight before Novi received another gift from one of its wrestlers. Kortlandt wasted no time in dominating Rockford's Jeff Andree, picking up a tech fall at the end of the second period. The win gave the 'Cats five points and a lead they would not relinquish. Borashko won by decision 6-1 over Ryan Kerekes to give Novi a seven-point cushion.

Both Slovan and Moore lost decisions, but saved the team by not giving up any more

"It's really nice for those seniors because they helped us get to the finals." Huss said of Gamruzzaman, Dodds and Mitchell.

Novi jumped out to a 26-6 lead after 135 pounds thanks to wins by Josh Churella. Dodds, Jilg, Ryan Churella and Nate Mitchell. They extended their lead with decisions by Qamruzzaman and Vince Slovan at 145 and 152.

And the team put it away with wins by Kortlandt, Borashko and Slovan.

This was the language spoken at the 2000 Chevrolet Synchronized Team Championship conducted in our backyard between March 1-4 to describe the "formations" and "holds" in this sport. Skating at high speed across the ice in unison, performing tough maneuvers with the precision of threading a needle, the skaters formed breath-taking patterns and drew "oohs" and "ahhs" from the thousands of spectators, who watched them give their all. More than 100 teams and approximately 2.400 athletes, coaches and officials from all across the country were treated to the hospitality and flawless arrangements of suburban Detroit. Teams consisting of 16 to 30 skaters from the Eastern, Midwestern and Western regions of US competed in eight divisions. The teams qualified for this event by finishing among the top four teams in their sectional competitions held in January.

Metro Detroit has made significant contributions to this sport. # Hyperactivity and ADD hits young children

Recently, there have been newspaper reports of an alarming number of children, especially young children under the age of six, who have been labeled hyperactive. These children have often been treated with psychoactive drugs, of which the most popular is Ritalin (methylphenidate). It is estimated that 3 to 5 percent of all school-age children have attention deficit disorder. Are we truly seeing an increase in the incidence of these disorders or are they only being diagnosed more frequently?

Certainly, there are many children even at young ages that demonstrate problem behaviors. Have our expectations for children changed as we have utilized more group care situations?

The usual scenario for the diagnosis of attention deficit disorder is as follows. A daycare or elementary school teacher approaches the parent. He/she has noticed that the child, more often a boy, never sits still, fidgets constantly, disturbs others, flits from one activity to another, doesn't finish assignments, interrupts others ("butts in") and has trouble waiting his turn in games. He/she is often disorganized and is disruptive in the classroom. Although the term "hyperactive" is often used. the characteristic short attention span is the hallmark of the disorder. Parents may be surprised by these observations. They may feel that because their child can watch a TV program or engage in video games for hours. his/her attention span is normal. However, these activities are passive activities in which the child is continually stimulated from outside. They are not a good measure of the kind of attention needed in classroom situations.

What causes ADHD (Attention-deficit Hyperactivity Disorder)? Is it a result of too much sugar of food additives? In regards to hyperactive behavior, controlled studies have failed to demonstrate that dietary factors such as sugar, food additives or colorings and lack of vitamins are associated with attention-deficit disorder with hyperactivity. Of course, stimulants such as caffeine, often included in soda pop and some pain medications, can make children jittery. Common cold preparations sold over-the-counter often include decongestants such as pseudoephedrine and phenylpropanolamine. These as well as some bronchodilator medications for asthma, such as albuterol, may cause nervousness and raise blood pressure and pulse. We do not know exactly what causes the impulsiveness and short attention span so characteristic of ADHD. At least 30 to 40 percent of children diagnosed with ADHD have a family history of the disorder.

Typical symptoms in school-age children include inability to sit still, distractibility, talking at inappropriate times or blurting out answers, difficulty taking turns or waiting in line, being disorganized and making careless mistakes. Children 6 to 12 years of age with attention deficit often don't finish assignments or chores, wander around the classroom and play in an overly aggressive manner. In adolescence, signs may be subtle. Teenagers often don't finish assignments or listen to instruc-tions. They lose their schoolbooks and forget to bring in homework. Although all children can have some moments of hyperactive behavior, if typical symptoms are present for at least six months, parents should request a formal evaluation. This usually consists of psychological testing and a medical evaluation. Other problems such as severe anxiety and learning disorders can mimic ADD. A child who is depressed is usually not hyperactive but does demonstrate a lack of attention.

Several modalities, which include small group situations, tutoring, and medications are used to treat these children. Often, an hour with a tutor in a one-on-one situation can accomplish more than several hours in classroom situations. Newer forms of medications such as Ritalin and Dextroamphetamine may enable patients to take medications in the morning only so that they may avoid any stigma attached to receiving medicine at school. Therapy should emphasize the roles of parents, teachers and physicians working together.

Will a child grow out of ADHD? Studies have shown that many of the symptoms of ADHD persist into the adult years. Many adults with ADHD still find that medications are of great benefit. Freed from the structure of the class-room, patients with ADHD often find success in careers that fit their behavioral style.

Cleaning stained vinyl may require special cleaners

By Gene Gary COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

9. I need advice on how to clean up white vinyl chairs that have been outside for a few summers. I have been unable to remove the gray speckling that forms on them, and the gray specialing that a state they look very dingy.

A. Although vinyl (plasticized stabilized polyvinyl chloride) is widely used in boats and in outdoor furniture because it is versatile and durable, it can and does get dirty, and with age it tends to yellow.

According to testing done by Practical Sailor. there are several ways to approach the problem of removing soil, grease and grime from a vinyl surface. Often, soiling is a combination of solid particles of dirt bound onto the surface with a film of oily material (skin oils, etc.). If you can remove the oil, the dirt comes free easily.

Oil can be dissolved with solvents. Or a detergent - a chemical that combines with both water and oil - can be used to emulsify the oil and allow it to dissolve in wash water. Or a chemical - usually an alkali such as lye. sodium carbonate, sodium phosphate or silicates - can be used to saponify the oil, changing it to a water-soluble material.

There are some effective vinyl cleaners in each one of these categories. MDR Krazy Clean, manufactured by Marine Development & Research Corp., is an alkali-based cleaner that will do a good job in removing both normal soil and alcohol-based stains such as those caused by marking pens, spilled bever-Megular Mirror Glaze 40, manufactured by Megular's Inc., is a solvent-based cleaner effective in removing normal dirt (not as effective in removing alcohol-soluble marks) and leaves a protective film that produces an attractive sheen on the vinyl surface.

Premiums fetch a prime price

9. Enclosed is a photo of an antique table that my grandmother gave me in the 1980s. Underneath the top was a label with the words "Larkin Soap Company, Buffalo, N.Y. -1884-1894.

I would like to know the value and any other information you might have on my table.

A John D. Larkin founded his soap manufacturing business in 1875. He started out making a yellow laundry soap called "Sweet Home Soap," For 10 years, he sold through retailers. In 1885, he came up with a marketing plan that revolutionized his industry. He became a direct merchant, selling to the consumer and bypassing the middleman. By eliminating significant expenses, the savings could be passed on to the customer. He also did away with costly packaging and overhead and promised to "put expense where it belongs, in the goods."

The savings were then passed along to the consumer by offering free premiums that were equal to the price of products they purchased. This innovative marketing concept held wide appeal with the large population of working-class people. For example, if a homemaker bought products totaling $10, she was eligible for a $10 premium Premiums included furniture and china.

Larkin died in 1926. After experiencing a decline, the company was liquidated in 1941.

me some information on the manufacturer and the value of the set?

A. Woods and Sons made ironstone and earthenware in Staffordshire, England. The company has been in business from 1865 to the present. The Rd. number shows that the pattern was registered with the British government in 1916. Wincanton is the name of the Oriental Canton ware-inspired pattern.

Each place setting would probably be worth about $50 to $100.

Q. Could you please tell me the name of the pattern and the value of my water set? Included in the set are a pitcher and three tumblers. They are made of blue opalescent glass and are in excellent condition. Each piece is decorated with flowers and ferns. The handle on the pitcher is clear glass and appears to be applied.

A. The pattern is Daisy and Fern. Several compames, including Northwood Glass Co., Jefferson Glass, and West Virginia Glass Co. made this pattern. Your circa 1900 water set would probably be worth about $450 to $550

Q. I have a Colonial dining room set that has been passed down to me from my mother. It was manufactured by Berkey and Gay. The set includes a dining table with two leaves, a buffet. a china cabinet, a captain's chair and five side chairs. Everything is in excellent condition.

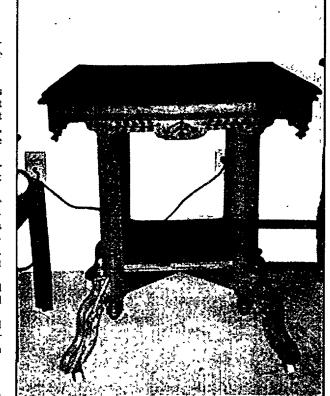

I would like to know anything about the manufacturer and the approximate age of the set and the value.

A Berkey and Gay has made furniture since the late 1800s. It was one of the leading furniture factories in Grand Rapids, Mich. Although it makes Victorian furniture, it also produced a very successful line of Colonial Revival furniture. As a rule, each Colonial Revival piece was labeled "Patent Antique - Berkey & Gay.

based stains, but satisfactory in the removal of general soil, are the detergent cleaners, Spray Nine (manufactured by Knight Marketing Corp.). Marykate Spray-Away (manufactured by Marykate Ship Shape. Inc.) and a detergent/alkali cleaner, Amazing Roll-Off (manufactured by Bell Chemical Corp.).

If your vinyl is really dirty, MDR Krazy Clean is probably your best bet for getting it clean. There may be other commercial cleaners that will perform equally as well, but these were not included in the testing.

However, if the problem is mildew (your gray speckled marks are suspect), the best way to tackle this problem is with plain household bleach, diluted one part bleach to three parts water. Follow this treatment with a thorough rinsing with clean water. Avoid full-strength bleach, which can damage some materials.

If your vinyl is yellowing, the color change is permanent and cannot be removed with a cleaner.

9. Please advise me on how stains can be removed from the bottom of a stall shower, which is not ceramic but of a plastic material. I have used bleaches and scouring powders with bleach. This lightens the stain for a while, but it comes back soon. I realize the finish is gone. Is painting feasible?

A. Your shower stall is probably fiberglass. I suggest that you check with a marine supply store for fiberglass cleaners and waxes such as those used on boats.

For general cleanup and stain removal, this home-style cleaning method is a winner: Mix two tablespoons of turpentine (not paint thin-

Make sure you have plenty of ventilation in the room, and wear rubber gloves. Any rags or paper towels that absorb the mixture should be air dried and disposed of in plastic bags to avoid fire-hazard.

Another method of cleaning stained fiberglass shower pans is to use automatic dishwasher detergent or water conditioner such as Calgon. Fill the shower pan with approximately an inch of water. Then sprinkle an even layer of the granules over the surface, and let them sink to the bottom. A day later, drain and use the paste that's left in the bottom to scrub away dirt and stains. Some of my readers have even suggested using oven cleaner, sprayed on the surface and removed several hours later with clean rinse water (test first in an inconspicuous area to make sure the fiberglass is not marred).

I would recommend painting the surface only as a last resort. Although fiberglass can be painted successfully, any flooring surface requires a much sturdier finish than a wall surface. If you decide to paint, use one of the two-part epoxy paints. The two-part system is somewhat difficult to apply, but the results are much longer-lasting than ordikitchen is to fill the sink with water and add all purpose cleaner, making sure to rinse the cloth frequently.

"If you wipe something greasy, and then clean another area, the grease is still there."

Make sure when using sprays of any kind, from glass cleaner to furniture polish, spray the cloth, not the surface to be cleaned. When sprayed directly on the surface, the cleaner can drip down into the television or computer controls. On mirrors, if it seeps in between the mirror and the cabinet top, it will disintegrate the silver backing.

To prevent streaking on wood floors, wash with the grain of the wood. And when washing large windows, wash one side vertical, and one side horizontal so that you can tell where the streaks are.

Another cleaning no no is using too much cleaner - this leaves streaks on floors and counters. causing you more clean up time.

Once it's clean, keep up with small chores so they don't become big ones. In the bathroom, keeping a squeegee in the shower really does work. Bjorling assures. Also, turn on the fan when showering to prevent

Just a reminder for some of those chores we'd rather forget. You're house will be sunshine fresh down to the baseboards.

- Vacuum refrigerator coils
- Clean lamp shades Wipe out kitchen cabinets
- Clean windows and screens Clean light fixtures
- Wash walls and woodwork
- Turn the Mattress pad Wash Shower curtain
- Shampoo carpets and rugs Wash curtains and blinds
- Move heavy furniture; clean under and behind.

These additional cleaning tips are also worth a try:

- · A small leaf blower can be used inside the house to blow dust from under heavy objects such as beds, sofa and refrigerators and high places and under car seats. It's easy to vacuum up the dust afterward.
- To clean metal and plastic blinds indoors, soak them in a tub half filled with warm water and detergent for half an hour, sponge them, refill will clear water and sponge again. Then hang from their brackets, with towels under-neath or from the shower curtain rod.
- For grout cleaning, use an old toothbrush or nailbrush. Dip brush in bleach to remove tough spots. Or, try mixing a paste with three cups of baking soda and one cup of warm water. Scrub on grout, rinse well.

New Northville eatery stays locally-focused

Sandella's features breakfast, wraps, soups, salads

By JASON SCHMITT Staff Writer

It's not always easy to find a healthy place to eat these days, especially if you're on the run with little time to spare.

And if you're looking to save a buck or two, you might as well

The combination of these wants have been difficult to find. That was until Sandella's Wraps and Pizzas recently found its way to Northville.

The case totes the slogan *gourmets on the go* because of its gourmet-style upscale menu and environment. Unlike most sandwich shops. Sandella's service is efficient and the prices are affordable.

A lot of people are looking to eat healthier these days, and we feel we offer a quick-service environment where you can have these things," said Marcy Schulman, co-owner of Sandella's along with her husband Jeff.

Sandella's opened its doors for business on March 1, with grand-opening activities taking place over a two-day stretch. Last Thursday the new business hosted a fund-raising event to benefit Variety—The Children's Charity, a not-for-profit community-based organization that helps children with special needs. Sandella's donated $500 to the charity.

The Schulmans first heard of the opportunity to bring Sandella's to Northville while attending a trade show in Dallas last year. The couple was looking to open up a business, but they weren't sure which avenue to take.

"We did a lot of research, looking for a lot of different opportunities." Jeff Schulman said. After looking into hundreds of different businesses, Sandella's kept popping up. So after talking with representatives, we really liked all of the people at Sandel-

The Schulmans said they had a chance to see how the whole operation worked at Sandella's and they had the opportunity to try the food.

"We found that they were extremely committed to quality." Marcy said. "We didn't want to be another greasy fast-food

Being from the greater Detroit area, the Schulman's were granted their opportunity. In fact, the couple is now the area development representatives for the state of Michigan. Sandella's wants the Schulmans to open 21 cafes within the next five years.

"But the feedback to date confirms that we'll do even better than that," Jeff said.

Added Marcy, "If you look at the Detroit area alone, with Troy, Sterling Heights, Farmington and all these areas. It's huge. And that's not including Lansing or Grand Rapids.

Sandella's is dedicated to having local, qualified people run the show in particular areas.

"They're looking to have deliberate growth," Jeff said. "So they like local people to interact with other local people."

The Schulman's are currently looking for people interested in opening up their own franchise in the metro-Detroit area, or for those who would like to work part time in the Northville Cafe.

Sandella's has an expansive menu, consisting of a variety of hot and cold wraps, flat-bread pizzas, soups and salads. The cafe also has a breakfast menu. Many of their foods are inspired by ethnic cuisine.

Sandella's is located at 20065 Haggerty Road between Seven and Eight mile roads (across from Target) and is open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and on Sunday from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Cafe offers carryout or dine-in service and also takes orders by fax. For more information about Sandella's or to speak to someone about the possibility of opening up another Sandella's, please call (248) 374-6000 or fax the store at (248)

Reverse mortgages can be an attractive finance option

If you're the average American senior, you've spent most of your life making mortgage payments so that you would not have house payments when you decided to retire. However, now you're retired and expenses such as property taxes, home maintenance, medical bills, auto repairs, etc., are straining your fixed budget. Consequently, you are forced to sell the home for which you worked so long and hard to get the funds you need to make ends meet.

As the population of senior citizens continues to grow along with property values in the United States. more and more seniors are finding that they are "house-rich" and "cash-poor." Tapping into the "bank account" of equity in their homes is often a difficult, if not impossible, task for many fixed income seniors.

Today, there is a mortgage prod-

Previously, when older homeowners wanted to obtain cash from their homes, they had two options: sell the home and move to a less desirable area, or borrow against it and immediately incur new monthly payments. With a reverse mortgage, seniors can use the equity from their home in any way they wish, and never have to pay a monthly pay-are not considered and do not determine eligibility or ineligibility. There are no credit qualifications for a reverse mortgage.

The equity can be distributed in several ways: in a lump sum, in a line of credit, in monthly disbursements or any combination of the above options. No restrictions are placed on the use of the funds. The borrowed money is tax-free (because it's not income, it's a loan), and it does not affect the borrower's eligibility for Social Security or Medicare benefits. [Medicaid, food stamps or SSI may or may not be affected depending how the money is dis-

The amount of money a borrower may receive is based on his or her age, the property value and the current interest rate. The older the homeowner, the greater the value of the home, and the lower the interest rate, the greater the total amount that can be borrowed.

A reverse mortgage can be obtained only on the property that is the borrower's primary residence. In addition, eligible homes need to be single-family, one- to four-unit dwellings. Condominiums need special HUD approval, but most units are already qualified. Mobile homes are not eligible at this time.

Eligible properties need to be in good condition and have very little or no mortgage balance on them. If repairs are required, they can usually be paid for out of the loan proceeds if they are not too expensive. In the same way, any outstanding liens against the property can be satisfied out of the loan proceeds at

Reverse mortgages are made possible through the Federal Housing Authority, as well as the federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae), and because of this, they are considered very safe for consumers. Still, each applicant is required to attend a free, confidential counseling session with a local independent counseling agency approved by the FHA.

Because a reverse mortgage is not for everyone, these counseling agencies help borrowers understand their options, and assist them in determining whether a reverse mortgage is best for them. Relatives. friends or other personal advisors are all welcome to attend the coun-

A reverse mortgage has no monthly payments, and repayment is not required as long as the borrower owns and lives in the home. In addition, the FHA and Fannie Mae guarantee that the borrower will never owe more than the value of the

If you find yourself in a similar circumstance, you may want to learn more about a reverse mortgage. It may give you peace of mind.

Are You Stroke Smart??

In most cases one must present symptoms of vascular disease before your physicians can order an ultrasound exam typically costing hundreds of dollars. Advanced Screening and Diplomat Pharmacy's mobile readiness provides high tech ultrasound screening for you for a small fee per screen, typically less than an insurance copay or deductible. If any problems are present out of the screening process, simply take the results to your physician who can order follow-up work or consultation.

Please Review These Facts

- Strokes Third leading cause of death, and can be prevented. 600,000 people per year suffer from a stroke, and 160,000 die. Many that survive are physically and/or mentally disabled. 30% of all victims are under age 65. Strokes are the #1 reason for nursing home admission. Strokes cost our society 40 billion dollars anually.
- Abdominal Aortic Aneurysms Majority of individuals with this often fatal condition have no symptoms.
- Peripheral Vascular Disease Blockage of arteries in legs. Symptoms often arise after significant build up of plaque is present.
- Osteoporosis Weakening of bones due to loss of minerals from within bone structure, and can be prevented when bone density loss is detected. The risk of death from osteoporosis in women equals the risk of death from breast cancer. New technology has made Osteoporosis a preventable and treatable disease within the past 5 years. Don't wait, get your screening done today!

Quotables

"A useful test. You can get a good idea of your risk by having a sonogram of the arteries in your neck (the carotids), even if you've never had warning symptoms. This test measures the thickness of the arterial walls to gauge the severity of any arteriosclerosis within them. Even with no symptoms, removing a blockage of carotids may head off a stroke."

Rosenfeld, Parade Magazine, September 12, 1999

- "Women over 30 years of age and men over the age of 45 should have a baseline bone density measurement."

  Dr. Rob Byrne. M.D.
- "Getting my carotid arteries screened was a blessing in disguise. I was 80% blocked, and now I can do something about it."
