Belanger said he and the rest of the team will start each day before dawn in order to be on the road by 6 a.m. Their mornings will consist of 30 to 40-mile rides, though some days they may cover as many as 112 miles. They do have a chance for some water and rest about every five miles, he said. There will be a crew that drives along side of the riders carrying food, water and supplies. By the afternoon the riders will be in a city with one of the centers the riders cater to. At night the riders may have speaking engagements, or very often companies will hold a dinner for the riders, Belanger said. The cyclists hit the sack early to keep their strength up, he said. Amerman Elementary was a blosphere unto itself. May 4.

The fourth and fifth grade students, with the guidance of alternative learning teachers Jennifer Beagan and Wendy Lavalle, began building six simulated self-sustaining ecosystems of plastic and paint. The students are planning to present the blosphere 200 projects to the public, May 24 from 6-8 p.m. at the school.

For several months, the students have studied each of their ecosystems and learned some valuable lessons about each.

"I learned I never want to go to mine," said fifth grader Evan Gerish about studying the swampy Everglades. *But it is the only place crocodiles and alligators live side by side, which is kind of cool."

The students were to research the different ecosystems housed in the Everglades or a water based area, a desert, a rain forest, a glacial area, caves and mountainous regions. The biospheres not only had to give the feel of the area, but it specifically had to illustrate the geology, plant and animal life of the area.

The purpose of this, Lavalle said, was to help them not only learn science in a hands on manner, but also to better understand how each ecosystem on the planet depends on the other for its sur-

Township moves ahead to solve sewage puzzle

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

The Western Townships Utilities Authority took a major step last week to prevent its communities from running out of capacity for sewage in the next few years.

The group voted May 5 to sign a letter of intent to enter into an agreement with the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority to help pay for a $110 million expansion of the Ypsilanti plant. Approval of the letter gives WTUA an additional 1 million gallons of capacity at the Ypsi-, lanti plant.

The letter still must be signed

Letter of intent signed with Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority by board of the Ypsilanti plant capacity in six years. A large the Wayne County sewage sysand then by the boards of trustees from the townships of Northville, Plymouth, and Canton. If approved, WTUA would contribute $81 million to the project with about one-third of that coming from Northville Township.

"Things came out pretty well," said Dick Henningsen, Northville Township supervisor. "We got many of the things we wanted."

WTUA was considering building its own plant about this time last year to deal with an expected need for additional sewage part of the reason for the consideration of building its own plant had to do with lack of representation in the control of the facility. "We didn't get a seat on the board of directors Itself," Henningsen said. "But we will have a hand on the finance, planning, and operation of committees."

A 1999 study conducted by WTUA highlighted the need for additional sewage capacity.

The study indicated the three townships contributed 17 million gallons per day of sewage to tem and Ypsilanti plants in 1999. However, the study also indicates the expected amount of flow from the communities to near 30 million gallons per day by 2030.

The combination of the Wayne County agreement expiring in 2011 and the Ypsilanti plant nearing capacity, something needed to be done.

Tim Faas, operations manager for WTUA, said he was happy a decision was made. The original target was to be at the point we're at right now

two years ago," he said. "I am very happy we finally have a letter of intent done."

Additionally, Faas said the immediate increase in capacity at the plant will give the communities more of a buffer, between now and when the expanded facility begins full operation.

"We estimated we would be at full capacity in seven years, but the expansion is a six-year project," Faas said.

Faas said township boards should be voting on approving the agreement in June or July with design and planning to begin immediately after.

The design should be completed by 2002 with construction. which is estimated to take atleast 36 months, to be completed by 2005.

Additionally, WTUA likely will try to sell its capacity in the, Wayne County system to another; community along the Rouge River, such as the city of Northville or Plymouth.

"We have a lot to do in the next couple of months," Faas said.

than 15 feet, then the allowed setback shall be no less than the allowed average setback.

• The average setback shall be calculated on the same side of the street and within 200 feet of adjoining parcels.

• A 10 percent front yard deviation is allowed. This is drafted as 90 percent of the average front yard. Rear deviations are not regulated.

. The new regulations provide an exclusion of setback deviation if more than 25 feet beyond the average setback.

· Exclusion of the public road right-of-way and private road rightof-way from the calculation of minimum lot area.

· Corner lot/double front yard requirements.

The second reading and possible adoption is scheduled for May 15.

Lack of detail puts brakes on mobile home development

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

> Plans for a mobile home park in Northville Township won't be going anywhere, anytime soon. in The Northville Township plan-ning commission denied a request 7-0 of Grand Sakwa Properties to develop a 274-acre site in the community that would have contained 1.061 units. . The park would have been located on the southwest corner of the intersection at Six Mile Road and Ridge Road. The commission approved an application to mine sand and gravel on part of the property in 1998, but the activity has not taken place. The preliminary plan for the mobile home park was lacking in too many areas, one official said.

"Basically, the plan was incom-plete," said Maureen Osiecki, Northville Township director of planning. "There was a lot of detail missing from the plan that the planning commission felt needed to be there. Gary Cooper. the applicant for the development representing

Grand Sakwa Acquisitions, didn't return telephone calls to the Northville Record. Grand Sakwa is the same company developing the area of Haggerty Road and Six Mile Road.

According to a report by LSL and Associates Inc. to the plan-ning commission, "a majority of the site is zoned industrial with two small portions of multiple family and general commercial zoning districts located along Six Mile Road." Mobile home parks are permitted in those zones.

home park would meet zoning requirements, other problems exist. For example, there already is a subdivision with the name Northridge in it, public water is not available to the site, the proposed plan for the sife isn't detailed enough when it comes to showing what size pipes will go where and the proposed size of the sewer line is too small. Additionally. the property described in the proposal consists of several parcels not owned by the applicant, however, the exact number of lots is unclear and the size of individual lots is unclear.

"This submittal lacks sufficient detail for approval," said Don Weaver, director of public services for Northville Township. "I recommend the applicant modify the submission in response to these comments and resubmit for further review."

Oslecki said she hasn't received any indication on whether or not the group will come before the planning commission with a revised plan.

"It's a huge development and it's been zoned properly." she said. "But, they didn't meet the requirements."

Camels and other desert life, through a sailor's eyes

By MELANIE PLENDA and PETTY OFFICER SHAWN FELIX Staff Writer and U.S. Naval Officer

Life at Sea may be weary for Northville High school alumni Shawn Felix. But as he discovered recently, there is a whole other world to be seen on land.

This week, Shawn tells of his exploits on Safari in Jebel Ali, part of the United Arab Emirates.

The following tells of strange animals, natural highs and the wonders found at the center of the earth :

As ' my time in the United States Navy comes to a close, new adventures continue to present themselves. Ofc. Shawn Felix In my last port we stopped in Jebel Ali, part of the United Arab Emirates, where desert is all I could see.

Almost everyone has ridden a horse or pony at some point in their lives, but how many can say they have ridden a camel? In the last day of my visit. I went on an all day tour, "The All Day Safari." The first stop was for gas, snacks and anything else that needed to be taken care of. By now, we were in the middle of nowhere and this gas station was picture perfect of one you would see in the movies. A road surrounded by sandy desert with the occasional passing camel.

In just a little under an hour, we arrived at our next stop where we met up with the 4X4's that were to take us to the camels.

First things first, I sat back for a minute to watch. Contrary to what I thought, camels are not friendly animals. Growls from these beasts below like a fat man with indigestion. The description seems a little crude, but if you have heard a camel growl, you know exactly what I am talking about. The camels were not quite willing. but with a little encouragement, they sat down. Getting on the camels was an adventure in itself. To get on a horse, you put a leg in the saddle and swing the other over.

Not on a camel.

Getting on a camel appears easy since they lie down but it is a little deceiving. Not so much when they lay down but awkward nwhen the camel stands up as camels stand up back to front and sit down the opposite. Needless to say, there is about a 45-degree decline and if you don't lean back with all your weight and hold on, you will fall off.

Finally, we are off and the camel ride begins. We were in packs of six with a tour guide on the lead camel of each group. Anyone who did not realize that camels are clumsy animals before the start of this ride, quickly found out. Camels walk with their two left feet first, then the right, which makes for a rocky ride, not to mention they are constantly tripping over their own feet. Like being at sea and seeing nothing but water, we were in the middle of nowhere it seemed and saw nothing but sand. After about 45 minutes of riding, we came to a tent that had been set up for our lunch. Getting off the camels was more of a challenge then getting on. The tour guide instructed everyone to lean back and hold on as the camel lies down for you to get off. But remember, they lie down front to back. Either I did not lean back far enough or did not hold on good enough, because I rolled right off. Which I made look as smooth as possible. As soon as I hit the sand, I looked up and saw the camel in front of mine starting to come down with its backside, which would have been right on top of me if I did not move. It's amazing how fast you react when you see yourself about to be sat on by a camel that size. After lunch, a bus ride and an hour later, the bus pulled over to the side of the road. We followed a tour guide down a dirt path through a few hills to the bottom of a spring. I was disappointed at first sight after being promised cliff diving. I continued walking. Half the group trailed off to the spring, while the others walked to some cliffs. There were four places the tour guide said people jump from, but two of them you have to clear about ten feet of rock if you want to make it in the water in one piece. We all opted for the two more conservative jumps. The lower of the two jumps was about 20-25 feet and the higher being 30-35 feet. I have always wanted to cliff dive and here was my chance. I jumped off both. After an hour or so of watching people jump, we all strayed back to the spring. We found out it leads into a cave and goes pretty far back.

After hearing enough people talk about it, I was convinced I had to see it, so I just to stop wondering. I jumped in and started my swim in the cold waters in the cave and was amazed by its beauty.

Continuing until what looked like the end, I climbed over a few rocks and discovered the true end, which was a cave room all by itself. I got to the back of it and there was a tiny waterfall and you could see the sun through a break in the rocks. It was beautiful. I wished I had a waterproof camera because I would've taken pictures but I'm not a good enough swimmer to just use one arm. The straight out of the movies. I took a few moments to bask in its beauty and soaked it into memory.

BOX TOP FEVER

Amerman students raised $2000 for their school through the Box Tops for Education fundraiser. Students collected over 1,700 box tops to be turned in for cash. The tops could come from any General Mills product box and could be turned into the company for funds for the school.

Even though the students have reached their goal, the collection will continue.

GAME BOY BAN

Electronic games and audio devices will no longer be allowed at Amerman including at recess and on the bus. According to school officials, the reasons for this includes spending more "screen time" and less toward reading achievement. Further, these devices are expensive and more likely to be broken by accident or stolen at school. Additionally, elementary students need the social interaction and physical movement at recess, the devices are distracting and it is impossible to monitor music coming into the school.

Principal Stephen Anderson asked for input on this experiment for the remainder of the school year. He can be reached in the Amerman Office at (248) 344-8405.

MEMORIAL VACATION REMINDER

Students in the district will not have school May 29 for the Memorial Day holiday. Classes resume May 30.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT COOKIN' AT COOKE

Students in Cooke Middle School's solo and ensemble band received top ratings at recent State competition. The following students received the highest mark (one) in the competition: Stephanie Lamerato; Flute solo, Julie Schoenhide and Ashley Smith; Flute duet. Chuck Hansen: Tuba Solo, Laura Rogers, Violin solo, Aki Takahashi, Piano solo, Denver Laabs, Trumpet solo, Laura Rodgers and Christine LI, Flute duet and Ashleigh Smith, Flute solo. Additionally, Shannon Zingle received a two for her trombone solo.

STUDENT ORIENTATION

Parents and students who will be attending Hillside Middle School should meet at the current High School May 17 at 7:00 pm for the sixth grade orientation. School administrators will review a typical students day, the alternate elective schedule, and club and sports available to sixth graders. They will also take parents and students on a tour of the areas of the building the sixth graders will occupy, as well as, introduce them to their courselors.

Additionally, the Saturday tours have been averaging 35 people. These tours have been set up to help sixth graders ease into the transition from elementary to middle school.

Parents must reserve a space at the Saturday tour in order to attend. School administrators said the goal is to get students into the school three times before September.

"From what I hear, this is just an amazing experience. These kids wait all year for us to come through and they all have something on that one of the riders gave them from previous years. That's something I am really looking forward to," he said.

At the centers, the fraternity brothers will put on puppet shows for the kids. Belanger said one of the best things about the program is trying to emphasize what the kids can do. He said they even come equipped with puppets with disabilities. Belanger also said they'll hold a wheelchair basketball game with the ### children, as well.

Though Belanger has never been on a trip like the one he's planning. he said he has done similar activities with a center program in Indiana. His experience with those children changed his life he said. "At first I did these things because it was our fraternity's philanthropy. And I was even a little uncomfortable at first because you're not really sure how to act or what to do. But once I got to know these kids I stopped seeing their disability and saw them for who they were." he said.

Belanger said he is anxious to share the message with people he meets along the way and during the public speaking events the riders will hold. He said he wants to educate people on how to see the child behind the disability the way he did.

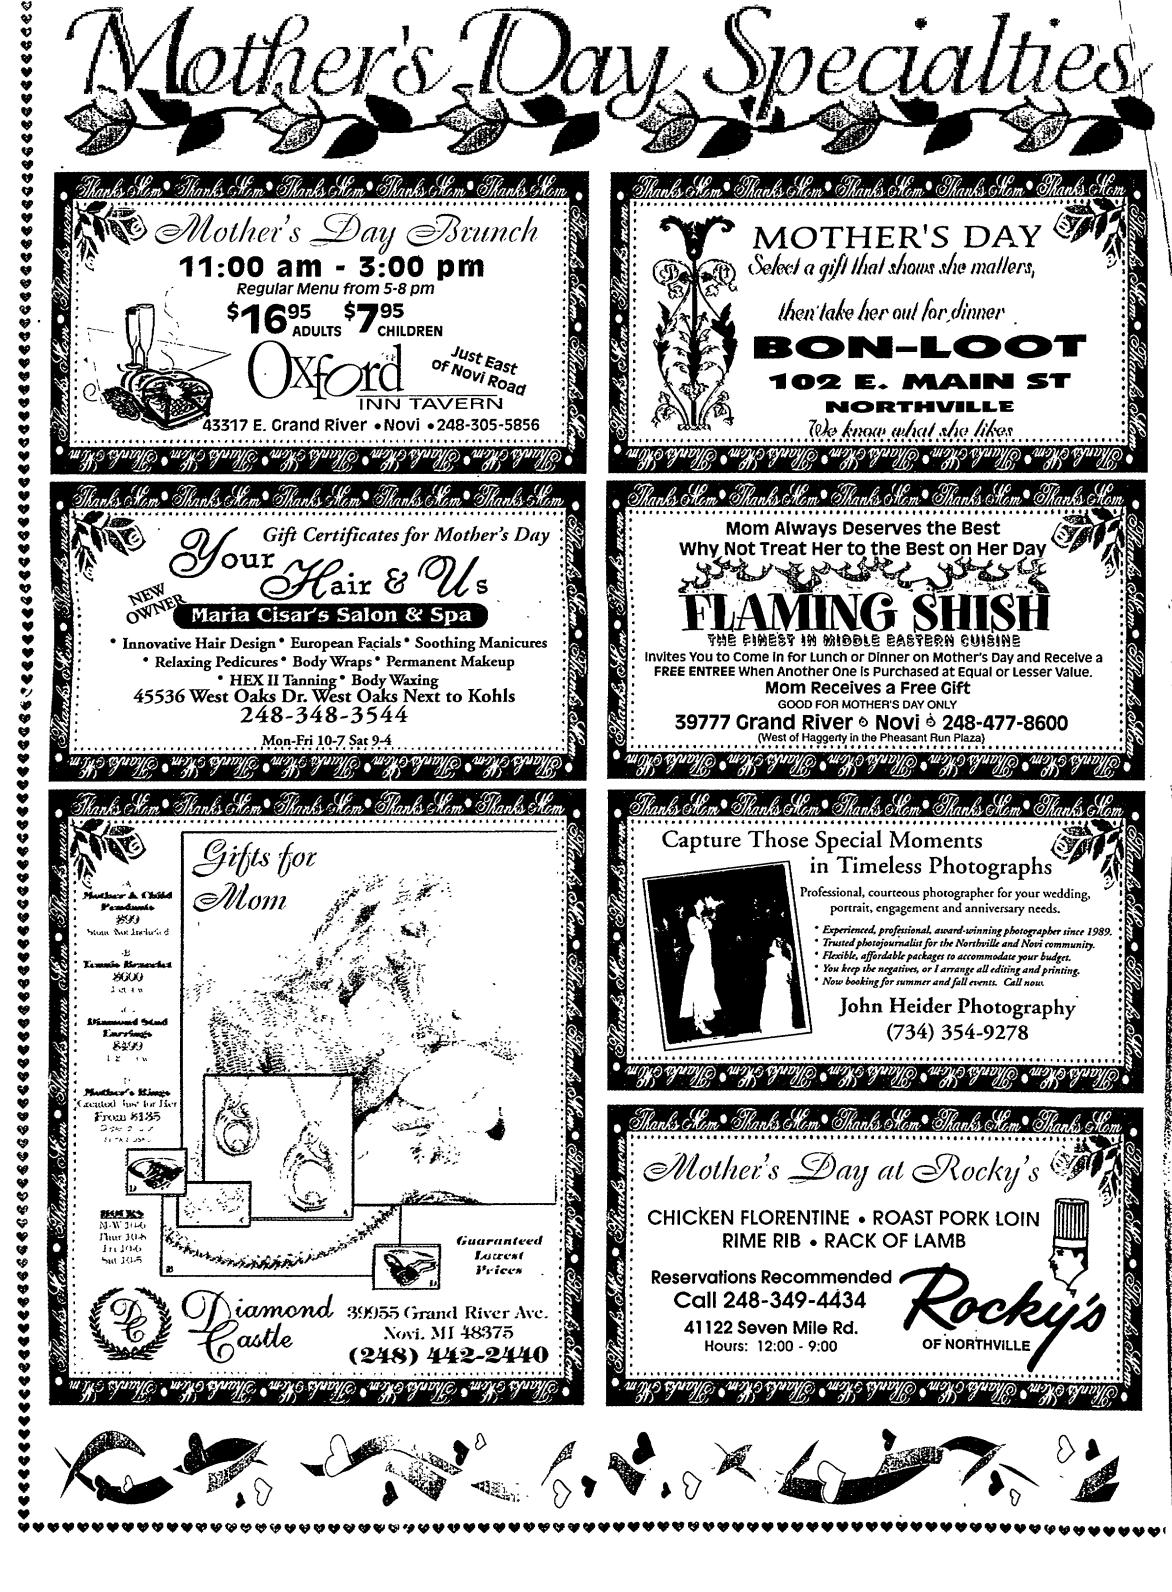

You just have to spend time with them and get to know them. I can't even explain the feeling or how it hit me. It's just an amazing experience and they are amazing people," he said.

Historical Tidbits

Walking long distances today is not done by the ordinary person but the only mode of travel for early ploneers traveling westward through dense forests to claim new lands was by foot.

One such pioneer was John Miller, first settler of the Mill Race

Village site.

The year was 1826. John Miller. age 32, a blacksmith, walked from New York state across Canada to Michigan to find his land. Arriving in Northville area, he purchased 160 acres from Alanson Aldrich of Wayne County, N.Y., who received the government land grant.

Miller built a log house 12 feet by 16 feet, planted a garden and then returned to Farmington, N.Y., to get his wife and six children. He told them about the many things to be seen in Michigan and of the beautiful spring down by the brook back of the house.

When they landed in Detroit, the shores were lined with Indians. The Millers bought a yoke of oxen, loaded the wagon with goods, and started for their home in the woods. which is now the site of Mill Race Village.

After settling on the Mill Race site, John Miller with the aid of Israel Nash built a grist mill in 1828. The dam was built by inhabitants turning out in droves.

In July 1829, John and Betsy Miller deeded one-half of the lot, mill and water privileges to Israel Nash. On May 24, 1831, William Dunlap of Seneca County, N.Y. purchased 147.31 acres from the Millers paying $5 per acre and the Millers bought a farm on North Territorial Road in Plymouth where they resided until they died. (Information submitted by T.L. McAdams, great-great-grandson of John and Betsy Miller, to the Mill Race Quarterly 1975.)

Garden club full of green thumbs

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Green thumbs or brown, anyone tean grow at the Northville Garden club, life member Barbara O'Brien said.

In its 64th year, the garden club has grown to a 73-member group responsible for much of the flora around town. The club meets once a month from October to June planning, planting and and mainlaining gardens throughout Northville City and Township. Recently the group donated $5,000 to the township to help with their major replanting and design project at Township Hall.

But beyond flowers and plants many friendships have grown out of this group O'Brien said.

"I don't know of a best friend outside of Garden Club," she said.

There is a palpable friendship among the women in the club, she said. It was evident at the group's annual auction to raise funds for the club. Each member brought in something they grew. From pansies to daffodils, the women checked them out and whatever condition they were in, politely and generously bid on each as if it were there own. Df course, there was some gentle ribbing if the plant happened to be a bit skimpy, OBrien said. But it is all in fun.

The laid-back group easily talked about the good their club does for others as well as for their own well being.

There's a magic in planting. There's something wonderful about starting with just a seed and watching it grow. That is why our motto is gardening for the joy of it'." said member Shirky Lipa.

But not all members necessarily have the magic touch when it comes to planting. O'Brien said. But that's lokay, she said, because the club is infused with gardeners at all levels. including certified master gardeners, who are happy to share tricks and tips. Often the club will bring in speakers as well to specifically discuss gardening in southeast Michigan.

Over the past 20 years, the club has tried to give to back to the community. Members have planted gardens behind the district library as well as at Cooke Middle School and Amerman Elementary. They also sponsored a horticultural therapy program which helped not only students with special needs but the ekderly as well.

Unfortunately, she said the therapy program did not last as long as it could have because they lost the person who organized it. However, she did say the club would like to look into working with the people at Our Lady of Providence.

The group also raises money every year for scholarships for local students.

"We aren't looking for the straight-A students," she said. "They'll be taken care of. But we are looking for the student who is well rounded, active in school and the community and an all-around good kid."

This year the garden club will give out four $1,000 scholarships for students to study any topic at any college, she said.

To raise this money the members gather together at Mill Race from October to November and make Christmas Greens Mart Wreaths with evergreen and pinecones from around town. It's another fun fellowship project that is also good for the community, O' Brien said.

"It's really a lot of fun. We are so organized about it now too. We have a ribbon committee and even a pine cone committee," she said.

• More information about the club may be obtained by calling garden club president Charlotte Lenk at (248) 349-8111.

"We really want them to come away with a feel for how these blomes work and their complexity," she said.

"This is a really cool project," said fifth grader Joe Taverna. "Plus, we didn't have to have social studies or science today."

But students were busy integrating all the aspects of science and social studies without the four walls of a classroom, Lavalle said.

The students overall, said they enjoyed this aspect of the project the most.

"It really makes science fun. Because you get to get messy and it's just different from regular science where you just sit and read a book," said fifth grader Peter Curran.

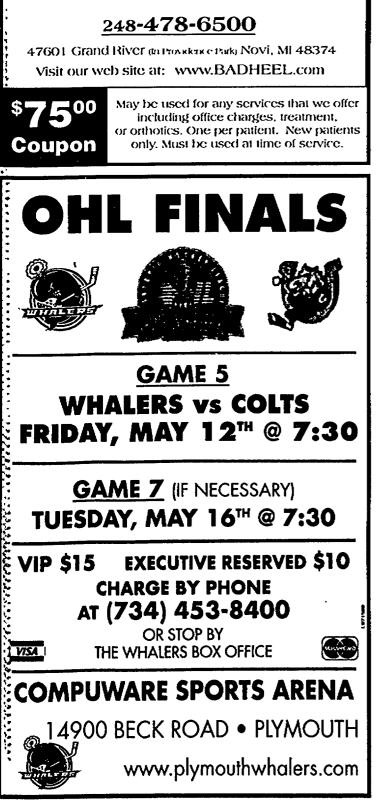

The students, with paint splattered knees, explained they could not use real grass or alligators but they did get to use their imaginations by painting the 8' by 8' walls with the surroundings of their ecosystems. It was during this process that they learned an important lesson about working in groups, one student said.

"Everyone gets really mad at first, but then we all cooperate and start listening to each other, it's kind of funny, "Curran said.

The students will be acting as tour guides for the public when they present their projects. They also have planned refreshments including "gator" aid to drink in the Everglades, Lavalle said. Anyone in the community may attend. For more information call the Amerman office at (248)344-8405.

Northville Scouts advance to Eagle

By STEPHANIE FORDYCE Staff Writer

Michael Goebel-and Michael Mallon have soared their way to the top with the recent receival of their new Eagle Scout awards. The two 18-year-olds were given the highest honor in Boy Scouting for their work on volunteer projects.

"This is a huge honor," said Mallon. "We're both really excited about it."

For his community project, Mallon put in long hours at Camp Hazelwood in Mt. Holly where he and a group of volunteers helped renovate a barn.

"The camp is where a lot of public school kids go to learn about nature and there was a barn there that was really run down," said the University of Detroit Jesuit student.

"So we came in and nailed another floor in the barn, cleaned it up, put in lights and fixed the fence."

Meantime, Goebel helped remodel the office of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Farmington. "My church's office wasn't exactly the the most beautiful thing you ever saw," laughed the Novi High School senior.

"So myself and a couple of volunteers took off all the wallpaper, washed the walls and just fixed it up a little bit."

Goebel and Mallon explained that project ideas generally come from the scouts themselves and that when it comes to organizing. lots of preparation is needed beforehand.

"The first step you have to do is find a project," said Goebel.

"Then once you've done that, you present your idea to the board for it to be approved. Once it has been approved, you need to begin organizing. You have to gather needed materials as well as a crew.

Mallon and Goebel said they gathered about 15 to 20 volunteers for their projects.

They're mostly our scout and family members," said Mallon.

The boys, out of Novi troop 407, have been in the scouts about 13 years, Mallon earning 24 merit badges and Goebel 25.

So what has been the most valuable lesson learned in scouting?

"Euchre," Mallon joked. "But, seriously, we've learned a lot of important things like camping, how to cook, first aid, and other survival skills."

Goebel said that scouts has also given them the chance to meet lots of friends and provided a number of traveling opportunities.

We've explored caves in Pennsylvania and hiked in New Mexico," he said.

After graduation, the scouts have quite another adventure ahead- college.

Goebel will be going to Western Michigan University where he will be enrolling in the International Guards with hopes on becoming a pilot, while Mallon will be using his scholarship to Michigan State.

When the guys are not busy with the scouts, Mallon likes playing pool and ping pong. and Goebel enjoys taking Tae Kwon Do.

The newest Eagle Scouts said they are very excited about their accomplishment and would definitely encourage other kids to join.

"It's really fun and educational at the same time." said Mallon. "It teaches you character and a lot about the wilderness."

Health advisory committee waits for board's charge

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

The Citizens Health Advisory Committee (CHAC) voted not to make any decisions on the high school health curriculum until the school board gives them their charge.

This decision to wait for the charge came at the first meeting of the CHAC since they approved the health class by 13-, March 8.

The CHAC originally was a recommending body created two years ago to analyze the health courses for the district. The Superintendent sent the curriculum back to the committee recently due to parent concerns with the class. The Superintendent recommended giving the committee a year to review research and information regarding the class before making a final decision. However, members of the committee said it would be counterproductive to start making decisions without knowing what their job is. "Without the charge, we are just spinning our wheels." said CHAC member Barb Bennett. "Why do all of this work only to find out later that wasn't even our job."

They did, however, vote to make Assistant Superintendent Linda Pitcher their spokesperson, deferring all questions and comments to her.

Several members of the 25 person committee, made up of parents, teachers, administrators, and clergy wanted to know whether they are a recommending body in charge of looking at a curriculum which is already constructed or are they to create a new curriculum complete with syllabus and materials.

The latter is what the first draft of their charge indicatés. Bennett said. Some members of op the health curriculum. the committee, including Ben-nett, volced their discomfort with this idea.

"I'm afraid we are treading into territory that is a teacher's job." said Moraine Elementary Principal Mary Kay Gallagher. "I have concerns about turning over a materials search and writing curriculum over to an advisory committee."

This was echoed by parent and registered nurse Susan Rice, who said she would be the community.

The final draft of the charge is set to be approved May 23. Superintendent Leonard Rezmierski said.

Rezmierski presented a draft of the charge to the board April 18. A draft which looked as though it required little change, said Treasurer Joan Wadsworth. It was set for approval May 9, however, Rezmierski said it will be later because he is still gathering input and comments from

Once the committee has their charge, they proposed meeting again before they take the summer off. Their next meeting is tentatively scheduled for June 8 according to School board presi-dent Mike Poterala. However, if they do not meet before the summer, their next meeting which is open to the public, is scheduled for Sept. 6 from 4-6

Pitcher: CHAC members should seek consensus

By MELANIE PLENDA Staff Writer

Though the Citizens Health Advisory Committee (CHAC) will not making any decisions soon, there were several items Assistant Superintendent Linda Pitcher had on the agenda for discussion May 4.

The committee had several logistical items of business on the agenda. but did not discuss them because they wanted to wait for their charge from the board.

This included roles and responsibilities created by Pitcher, but are not necessarily part of the charge. She suggested committee members read two to three articles containing research on health issues provided to all the members and give a report to the committee.

Pitcher also suggested to a member of the committee that if they have to miss a meeting, to contact their alternate counterpart so they will be represented at the meeting. Further, she wants them to report committee progress and decisions to the PTA each parent member represents. They would then have to report to the CHAC in terms of the PTA's response.

committee is to reach consensus.

hesitant consensus. The said. There is a possibility we could be held hostage by a, consensus and not make any progress."

He went on to say consensus may be an unrealistic goal with so many people of so varying opinions. He said he would like to see a majority vote and would live with the outcome.

"To me, once the vote's been taken that's it. That's the committee's will and you go along with that," Rev.

Clise said.

On the other hand, registered nurse and parent Susan Rice said she has had some experience and thinks it could work if everyone was committed to the same goal.

"It takes everyone being honest," she said. "The center of consensus is to have a bottom line. I think our bottom line is best for our kids. I think we can do it. We have to at least try Pitcher said consensus as the board and herself sees it is, "I might not agree with everything we have decided, but I can live with it," she said. If in attempting to reach consensus, she feels it is blocking the group's progress, Dr. Pitcher said she will call for a vote.

Additionally. Pitcher asked for a volunteer to write an article from the minutes of the meetings for each PTA newsletter. This volunteer will also send a copy to high school technology facilitator Donna Shannon so she may add it to the district's web site.

Pitcher, also proposed a list of speakers for the meetings. This list included a team building session the first meeting in September with consultant Joyce Fouts from Wayne County Regional Educational Ser-vices Agency (RESA). Other suggested speakers include Dr. Cheryl Jones; a parent in the community. Nurse Sue Hudson: who has experience working with students in Northville, high school counsclors; Dr. Adrea Kenyon Unitis, a RESA consultant, and Director of Special Education Bob Sornson to discuss the 2000 Alcohol and Other Drugs Survey. Small group discussions were sug. gested as a way to analyze the basic. units of the curriculum, Pitcher said. She said with a group this large, it would be nearly impossible for everyone to share their input. So she suggested dividing each of the units up into small groups. These small groups, pending the charge from the board, would develop and choose materials for each section.

These groups will then present this material to the entire group for review.

Petitions pulled, several consider township election

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH Staff Writer

With less than a week to go before petitions are due for this year's Northville Township board of trustees election, many questions remain.

Namely, who is actually going to be on the ballot for the election. which will include at least one open seat. Trustee Bill Selinsky announced last week he is running for a judgeship in the 35th District Court against Judge Ron Lowe. Election terms for all seven members expire this November.

Six people have turned in their petitions to run for the election including current members Mark Abbo for supervisor, Russ Fogg for trustee, Mary Gans for trustee, Dick Henningsen for treasurer, Bill Pomeroy for trustee and Northville Township resident Shirley Klokkenga for trustee.

"For me, it was always just a for-mality," Abbo said. "It's always been my intention to run for supervisor

Sue Hillebrand, current clerk, and Northville Township resident Vim Nield have not turned in their petitions, although they have been pulled.

"I'm thinking about running for trustee or township supervisor or nothing at all." said Jim Nield. Northville Township resident, who pulled petitions three weeks ago. I'm honestly thinking about all three.

Partisan petitions are due 4 p.m. May 16 to be included in the August primary. Candidates must obtain a minimum of 20 signatures and a maximum of 50 signatures on petitions, which are available at the Northville Township 'Hall.

Candidates have until 4 p.m. July 20 to file petitions with no party affiliation and be listed directly on the November ballot. Fogg said he decided late last week he was going to pursue the trustee job once again and said there are several projects going on he would like to see through.

Hillebrand said she collected signatures for her petition and plans to hold off until the last minute to turn hers in.

"I'm going to run for clerk," she said. "I'm waiting until May 16 to turn in my petition though."

That isn't to say the animals are incapable of killing, though. Coyotes view other canines and cats as competitors and will kill them quickly. They are predators and other canines around them don't do too well," Payne said. The animals are identified by their bushy tails and may appear as if they are mangy dogs. People in mals were spotted May 4 had mixed reaction to coyotes in their neighborhood.

"I've never lived in a community where there are coyotes. I thought they were only out west," said Rochester Hills resident Joyce Rabidou who was walking her two granddaughters. "I probably would like to see them removed."

Gloria Setters, 262 Hutton Street, said she didn't mind the animals in "I think it's great," she said. "We have all kinds of ducks, raccoons, skunks and a ground hog around here. Setters said her neighbor even puts food out for any wildlife that needs a bite to eat. "I would love to see one of the coyotes," she said. Jim Sikarskie, zoo and wildlife professor at Michigan State University, said having that "Bambi" attitude is not suggested.

"That's asking for trouble," he said. "They are very adaptable animals and once they start to depend on food like that they become less afraid of people."

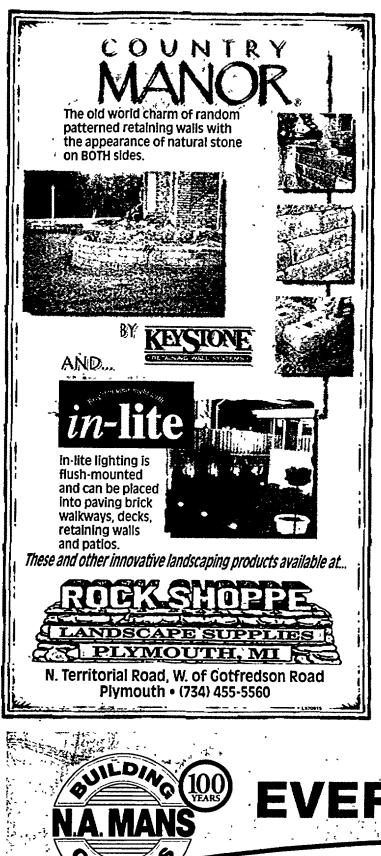

Sikarskie said the risk of injury is present not only from possible bites. but from parasites and disease the animals carry.

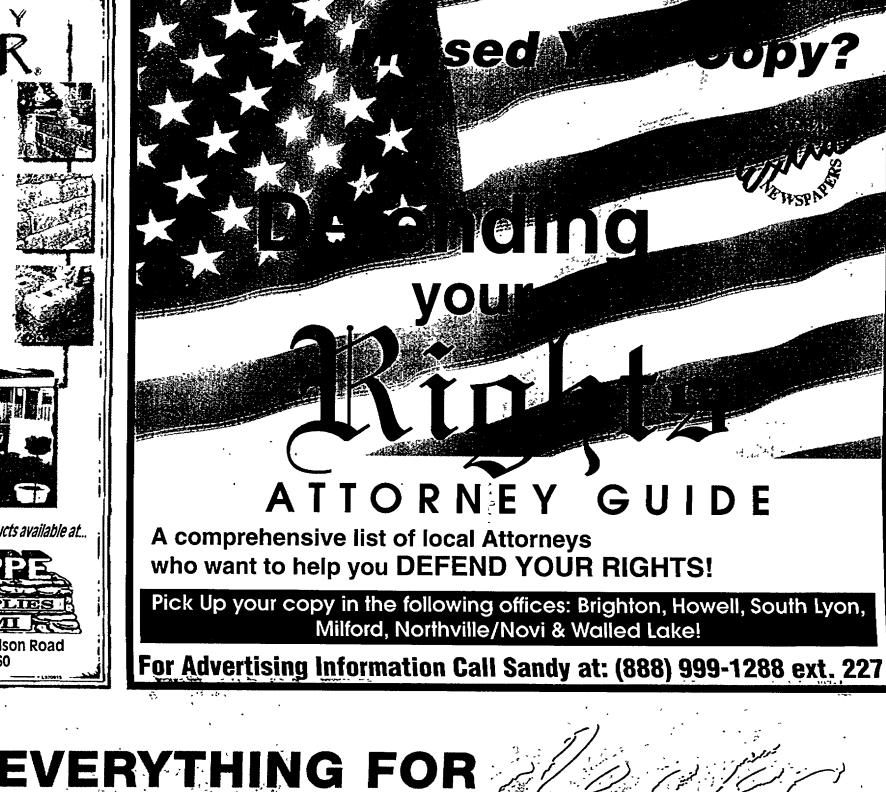

They will go and defecate in an area where a child might be playing and the parasite has a chance of getting into the body," he said. The parasite is a form of a roundworm that can get into the brain and spinal cord and cause blindness, he said.

'It is definitely not a healthy thing for coyotes to be around humans, he said.

here's a line in the film "Animal House" that goes something like this:

"You can't spend your life worrying about your problems - you messed up! You trusted us!"

Art imitates life again, this time in the case of Northville Township trustee William Selinsky, whose attempt at running for 35th District Court judge was thwarted because of incorrect information being handed we can very easily envision the other to him.

Mr. Selinsky was A citizen looking to enter told he needed between 40 and 100 signatures on a petition from the communities within the 35th District in order to be on the ballot. He got 86. Unless gave him the wrong informath has changed. that's definitely in the range

But only hours before the filing deadline was upon him. Mr. Selinsky was told that he was at least 514 signatures short, because in reality, the minimum number needed was 600. Worse yet, no exceptions to the signature rule could be made.

In other words, a citizen looking to enter public service (a daunting challenge in and of itself) was duped not because he didn't have a resume that was weighty enough or didn't drive home a message that resonated with constituents, but because another public official gave him the

The irony is so thick it's almost dizzying.

All Mr. Selinsky wants to do is have a chance and to give voters as many options as they can.

More random thoughts and observations on life ...

. I know it's necessary for the good of Northville, but the sound of jackhammers plowing away at concrete at Main and Center streets last Thursday afternoon had all the audio appeal of fingernails scrawling down a chalkboard.

 I'm getting closer. Even though I still haven't placed a single bet at Northville Downs, I finally got into the place last week when Margaret Zayti and Lou Carlo gave me a tour on the heels of our story about the Fruitport Township race track problem. Nice place, those Downs. I sincerely hope that Muskegon's snafus don't trickle down the Grand River into our town.

• As if people jawing away on the cell phone while driving wasn't annoying enough. I saw some clown using two cell phones and smoking a cigarette driving down Seven Mile Road. Which raises a question — is the driver really driving?

• I'm determined not to let Mother's Day sneak up on me the way Secretaries' Day does. To that end. I will be heading to the store this weekend to get my mom something nice. When I was younger. I'd imagine a bottle of aspirin and me getting out of the house for a day would have been ample. The stakes have been raised, though. Something like a dinner out and a nice bottle of wine is probably a bit more appropriate nowadays.

It's going to take me some time to think of 775 North Center Street as Hillside Middle School and not Northville High School.

• Isn't it nice not having Interstate 275 all torn up through Northville and

What I would do for a decent photo

Ugh! I swear I'm not writing any more column's until this God-awful picture of me is retaken.

It's embarrassing.

Now, I know everyone says they hate their pictures, but come on people are you with me on this one or what?

The past two times I wrote my column, I would just count the days until the week was over and it would be gone.

I can't wait until next Thursday rolls around.

Even my family was like, "what the heck is up with that picture? You look terrible.

Yeah, ok- I know, rub it in please.

Now I don't know what happened, but I scheduled to have it redone yesterday, but John must have been too busy to retake it or maybe he just likes to see me suffer.

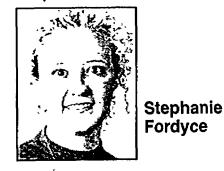

Just kidding John! In fact, I think I may be the most unphotogenic person on the face of the earthl

I've never had a good photo of myself before in my life.

You should see the one they have of me hanging up in the office right now.

Anyway, even in school, every single one of my class photos, except my senior picture, has been hideous!

Now there's been many but by far the worst one of them all, even surpassing my fifth grade picture where my bangs were taller than the statue of liberty, was my eleventh grade high school picture.

picture made it look like I had this gargantuan bugger hanging out my nostril.

So then I went and had it redone, without the nose ring, and it actually turned out decent.

But for crying out loud, when yearbooks rolled around later that year, I look, and those jerks put the bugger picture in. instead of the new one.

| was mortified!

Oh, and don't even get me started on my driver's license photos either.

In my first one, my tongue was hanging out.

The lady at the Secretary of State was like, "ok, get ready' and before I had a chance, she snapped away.

How in the world my tongue snuck out, [1] never know.

Maybe I was trying to talk or lick my lips for the shot, who knows, but my god, I had a nose ring at the time and the if that wasn't the worst looking thing I ### ever saw.

And you know how it is when you get your very first driver's license.

It arrives in the mail and you get so excited.

I mean it's something you want to prance around and show people.

I wouldn't have even shown that to a cop if I had been pulled over.

So two weeks later, I go back and tell the Secretary of State I lost it.

When the second one comes, my eyes are completely closed.

It looked like I was either in REM sleep or had slammed a bottle of Jack Daniel's before I arrived.

Now, I thought you weren't allowed to have a driver's license shot without your eye color showing but those people proba-bly got such a big kick out of it, they let it slide.

I think what really hurts, and maybe some of you will agree, that you think you look a certain way but then when you actually see yourself in photos or on someone's video camera, you just freak.

It's like "oh my god, that's what I really look like? Kill me now, please."

Well, hopefully in my next column. you'll see someone else, not that person up there who looks like she just got out of bed or someone who's just the spitting image of the ghost of Jacob Marley.

Engler speaks on Internet sales policies

Whoever would have imagined a couple of years ago that an e-mail virus masquerading as a love letter would shut down computers all over the world? And those whose computers were infected last week now have a clear idea of just how dependent we've become on e-mail and computerized address books and JPEG picture files.

And that's just small beer compared to the profound impacts the information Revolution will have throughout our entire society.

Take taxes, for instance.

With more than a third of all homes in America hooked up to the Internet, home shopping is turning out to be the biggest growth sector in the entire economy and when you're shopping on amazon.com and click the "execute order" button, the one thing you won't find on your screen is a line detailing how much sales tax you owe.

By contrast, when you shop at a local store in Michigan, you'll pay 6 percent state sales tax on most purchases, exempting items like food and medicine.

Most states and a few cities rely on the sales tax as a big part of their revenue base. Nationally, the sales tax produces around $150 billion in taxes for states, which is about twothirds of their total revenue. In Michigan, the sales tax last year produced $6.4 billion, which is 17.5 percent of the total $36.6 billion in total state revenue.

Up to now, taxpayers who shop from catalogs or over the Internet have found it easy to ignore the question of tax liability for their purchases.

But anybody who filled out the Michigan income tax forms last month knows that this year, for the first time, there is a question on line 30 asking whether you owe "use tax" (another term for sales tax) on purchases you made from another state on which no tax was collected. You could either check the box marked "no" — in which case you might have been cheating on your taxes - or you could turn to page 11 to calculate how much you

Some people I know confected an arbitrary and low - number for their Internet purchases and computed a use tax obligation on this basis. Sure, they're cheating on their taxes and no, they probably won't get caught.

So the Information Revolution, through the entirely new phenomenon of home shopping via the Internet, threatens to undo a very big chunk of the system of tax revenues throughout the entire country. Not surprisingly, this is producing a whole lot of strange bedfellows and alliances.

Gov. John Engler, for instance, is normally a tax cutter. But he is also a governor who is responsible for maintaining the revenue base of his state. Also, state treasurer Mark Murray estimates that some $100 million in Michigan sales tax revenue on catalogs and Internet sales was lost last year.

So Gov. Engler went down to Washington to urge Congress to pass a law requiring companies that sell by catalogs or the Internet to collect sales taxes at the time the purchase is made and remit them directly to the relevant state. His testimony was compelling, even in making the distinction between imposing new taxes (which he's against) and providing states with the ability to collect sales taxes already on the books (which he's for).

But the U.S. Congress, normally vigilant in maximizing revenue for the federal government, is not about to pass a law that most people would regard as a big tax increase, especially not in an election year. Moreover, a bunch of Engler's traditional (and very conservative) supporters; the Mackinac Center for Public Policy and the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans, are going after him as a big taxer, of all things.

Engler replies that it's simply unfair to tax brick-and-mortar Michigan retail businesses but not tax Internet companies selling similar products. He's absolutely right.

But the topsy-turvy twists in the politics of the argument only demonstrate how profound the consequences of the Information Revolution will surely be as the years go by.

School board seeks to clarify health ed status

To the editor:

I am writing to clarify the status of a potential health education requirement for students at Northville High School, as an article in last week's Northville Record seems to have created some confusion.

In January 1999, based on the recommendation of district staff and administration, the board of education approved making a health education course a graduation requirement for high school students beginning with the Class of 2003. This recommendation and supportive board of education action was based generally on the belief that the district had a responsibility to provide students with objective information regarding a wide range of health issues. Certain aspects of sex education were expected to be only one of many course components.

Based on this action of the board of education, district staff developed a detailed curriculum. As interested parents were given the opportunity to review the course content and certain proposed materials (including videos and other items), a significant number began to express concerns about the content, materials, and the issue of whether the course the Class of 2003, and to remand the proposed health course to the CHAC for further review. The board of education also reviewed a draft charge to the CHAC which will be finalized at its meeting on either May 9 or May 23.

The CHAC met on May 4 to review process, discuss issues, and receive a large volume of materials to read and evaluate over the summer months. The CHAC is next tentatively scheduled to meet and commence working on its final charge from the board of education on June 8. All CHAC meetings will be open to the public. Once the CHAC has completed its charge, it will make advisory recommendations to the Board for further action relative to the proposed course. No deadline on CHAC deliberations has been established at the present time.

Any further questions regarding the CHAC should be directed to Linda Pitcher, assistant superintendent for instructional services, at (248) 344-8442.

Based on misinterpretation of the word "elective" in the now dor-1; J mant petitions, you seem to believe that those who signed the petition do not understand the Iv. prevalence of teenage sexuality. and that they all prefer that the course never be required. Many of, those who signed the petition wanted that particular course to be an elective, and wanted more parental input to future courses. Their objections vary, but some were documented in the minutes of Citizen's Health Advisory Comof Citizen's health nurses, and mittee from Feb. 23. Concerns about that particular course include: • The "kits" shouldn't be used.

• The abstinence message in the educational tools was inconsistent. Condoms do not protect against HPV and chlamydia, and are not reliable protection for pregnancy and other STDs. Any course needs to make this point very clear to students. (FYI: see www.medin-stitute.org) Gender separation is critical for some teens.

• Many students will have some sex ed in biology, and the high school already has so many requirements that students cannot take all their preferred college prep classes without attending summer school.

More than 300 parents. staff. and students attended the board's March 21 instructional services subcommittee meeting. A variety of concerns were expressed with great vigor. The board of education was made aware during its March 28 meeting of the number of signatures obtained on the petitions referred to in last week's Record. Many residents also wrote letters or made comments during subsequent board of education meetings.

In response to these developments, district staff and administration recommended that the board of education waive the graduation requirement for the Class of 2003, in order to allow the district's citizens health advisory committee (comprised of teachers. parents, administrators, health professionals and clergy) additional time to make recommendations regarding the proposed health course. So where's the 'silent majority?'

To the editor:

Your editorial May 4 talked about a hypothetical silent majority supporting the health curriculum. There were a few people who trusted the district and supported the course (mostly before they viewed the materials). Barb Bennett and I have not received a single e-mail in support of the original course & materials, even though our e-mail addresses were in our letters in your April 13 edition. Can a majority be quite so silent?

I would wager to say that many parents who support the course

• The opt-out option as proposed was not an acceptable solution for those with objections to the course. When a parent opts their child out of a course and the result is a detailed written assignment, the effect on family dynamics is not likely to be positive. Also, the choices of topics were not acceptable to many parents. As a physician, a mother and a member of the Citizens' Health Advisory Committee, I hope that we can agree on a future course/courses of such quality that very few will want to opt out. Nonetheless, for those who object to whatever course is developed, we need more work on the opt-out protocol.

Stolen!

Everyone has done it. You're on your way home from work and realize a trip to the local party store is necessary to pick up some milk or beer. are stolen is for their parts. Once the cars are stole they are taken to "chop shop where the valuable parts, fro radios to wheels to pick-u

You stop at the store and for some reason, leave the keys in the car to run inside. You go back outside and find your car still sitting there with the engine humming away — this time. I. But as more and more car

Even by the second seco

"Any place is a good target," said Detective Michael Wildt of Northville Township police. "You can't really say one area is more prone to car theft than another."

Leaving keys in the car to run in the store or gas station is just one way car owners make it easy for car thieves to make a living.

', "I've.seen people.who.targeted'just those kinds of cars." Wildt said. "They'll just wait by a convenience store and as soon as the owner goes inside, they'll just hop in and take off."

The statewide trend for car theft appears encouraging. According to AAA-Michigan. the number of auto thefts declined 21 percent between 1986 and 1998. During the same period, the national theft rate has increased one percent. Once the cars are stolen. they are taken to "chop shops" where the valuable parts, from radios to wheels to pick-up truck tailgates, are stripped and sold to businesses that sell used car parts. A number of used car parts stores that buy and sell the parts, which is perfectly legal, operate in the city of Detroit.

Whatever is left of the stolen vehicle usually is dumped, which is why there is a "high" rate of recovery for stolen cars.

"A lot of times, they want the police to find and remove the cars because they're in the way." Wildt said.

The biggest targets are large parking lots and apartment and condominium complex parking lots because of the number of cars. Additionally, unknown person or persons walking through shopping lots or apartment complexes won't draw_as_much attention as someone walking through your yard or standing in your driveway. However, Wildt said, it's important to keep in mind professional car thieves can steal a car in 60 seconds or less with a few simple tools.

Preventive medicine

Despite the fact there are people who steal cars "professionally," there are steps people may take to keep their car from being stolen. For example, Wildt said it

Locally, however, car thefts are on the rise.

In Northville Township, there were 30 car thefts in 1998 and 36 last year. In Novi, there were 58 thefts in 1998 and 76 last year.

Why MY car?

If you think that the cherry 2000 Ford Explorer parked on your street is more of a target than your 1982 brown Oldsmobile Cutlass Cierra, think again.

"Many older cars are popular for their parts that may be hard to get." Wildt said.

Wildt spent two years working for the auto theft division of the Michigan State Police. He said the main reason cars would be best to keep all valuables, such as cellular telephones or expensive radios, out of the view of potential, thieves to defer their interest in the car. Doing so will help protect your car from just being broken into, let alone being stolen, Wildt said.

Additionally, installing a kill switch, alarm system, or tracking device on your car all can act as deterrents to potential thieves. Wildt said.

One program to be on the look out for is a vehicle identification number etching program sponsored annually by AAA-Michigan.

In that program, the VIN is etched into the window of a vehicle making it harder to resell. said Janet Deni. vice president and chief claims officer for AAA-Michigan.

"Not only does VIN etching make a car less appealing to car thieves, but an etched vehicle may qualify for a discount on the comprehensive portion of an auto insurance premium," Deni said.

A stroke of good luck for stroke patients: New imaging technique helps doctors see "brain attack" effects better.

Patients who report to the University of Michigan emergency room complaining of stroke-like symptoms - from dizziness and speech problems to sudden numbness and severe headache will soon be asked to take a puff of gas and hold very still while doctors take a picture of their brain. What those pictures reveal may save their life and help prove the worth of a new kind of medical imaging technique for all stroke patients.

U-M is one of the first hospitals In the country to test the new approach, called xenon computed tomography or CT scanning as part of a nationwide study. Seven other hospitals, including its birthplace at the University of Pittsburgh, also will test xenon CT under the study's rigorous guidelines. The tests will show how well it can diagnose different kinds of strokes and help physiclans quickly plan treatment potentially helping it become a standard stroke tool.

When a patient has a stroke, a blockage or rupture in a blood vessel it cuts off oxygen to parts of the brain, causing temporary or permanent damage to speech. vision, movement, and more, or killing the person. Nearly 750.000 Americans each year have such "brain attacks," making it the third leading cause of death in the U.S. and a leading cause of costly long-term disability. The first few minutes and hours after a stroke occurs are the most critical for deciding using radioactive xenon and has tissue that might be salvageab during that same time.

For more than 25 years, a statewide tip reward program has been helping put arsonists where they belong - behind bars. Arson Control, a program administered by the Michigan Arson Prevention

Committee, has paid out $503,550 in rewards since its inception in 1975. The program has led to the arrest of 960 individuals on arson and related charges

Arson Control pays up to $5,000 for information that leads to the arrest and/or conviction of arsonists.

To focus attention on this devastating crime, Gov.

John Engler issued an official declaration designating what to do for the patient, a pro-cess that depends greatly on whether doctors can determine whether the patient has a blockage (ischemic) or bleeding (hemorrhagic) stroke. Unfortunately. strokes often occur deep within the brain, making it hard to determine exactly what happened through medical history, symptom analysis or traditional medical imaging like conventional CT scans.

The xenon CT technique aims to give doctors far more information than a regular CT scan, with little extra equipment. "What's very nice about xenon CT is that it not only allows us to take a picture of the brain, as a traditional CT does, but it lets us exactly quantify how much blood flow is getting to different areas of the brain and that's really been a mystery up until now," said Susan Hickenbottom M.D., a U-M assistant neurology professor who heads the U-M Health System's Stroke Program. "We can tell if an area can be saved or it it can't be salvaged."

The xenon CT scan is done on a conventional CT scanner in the emergency room, but with a special twist: The patient inhales harmless xenon gas and the scanner is specially tuned to show where the xenon goes in the brain. Since the xenon travels in the blood just like oxygen, the resulting scans show how badly cut off the stroke-affected areas are, how big they are and where they are in relation to important areas of the brain that control vital functions.

The technique was first developed 20 years ago in Pittsburgh

Arson awarness week observed

been used in other medical settings. Now, with non-radioactive xenon, the U-M researchers and their colleagues elsewhere hope to provide the evidence that will lead to Food and Drug Administration approval of the technique specifically for strokes and other vascular problems.

They hope that xenon CT will aid them most in the first hours after a stroke, when quick but sure decisions must be made about what treatment to choose. One exciting new option is TPA, a clot-busting drug that can give many ischemic stroke patients a 30 percent to 50 percent better chance of walking away from the, stroke unharmed. But TPA also carries the risk of causing more dangerous bleeding if it's given unknowingly to patients with hemorrhagic strokes, which account for about 20 percent of all strokes. And, even in ischemic stroke cases, it usually must be given in the first three hours after the stroke to be most effective.

We hope by the end of this study that we'll have a better idea about who are the best candidates to receive TPA therapy." said Hickenbottom. "For example, we might not take the risk of giving TPA to a patient who has a very severe stroke and falls within the three-hour window, but whose xenon CT scan shows they would not gain benefit from TPA." Other drugs, surgery or other options might be more appropriate, she says.

For others who waited more than three hours to get to the emergency room but whose xenon CT scan reveals an area of brain

TPA might still be appropriate. And for those who are having stroke-like symptoms, xenon CT can help determine if in fact they have suffered a stroke or some other condition that mimics stroke.

The U-M emergency room staff and brain injury team are now on alert to use xenon CT in any patient who comes in within eight hours of the start of their symptoms. The U-M emergency staff are specially trained in stroke treatment, including delivery of TPA and other similar drugs. These are delivered through either veins or catheters that are fed carefully into the brain by neuro-radiologists and can be used as long as eight hours after stroke symptoms start.

Xenon CT will help U-M's staff determine which approach to take very quickly. Hickenbottom said, "The xenon is inhaled in a gas form, and then the patient waits about four and a half minutes. Then, they stay very still in the CT scanner while the scan is made and special computer software allows us to see blood flow in different regions of the brain." The only side effect is a little euphoria as the xenon travels to the brain.

Thirty days after their stroke and xenon CT scan, patients will be followed up with another scan to see which areas of the brain were affected. By comparing the original scan with the second one, the researchers will be able to tell whether the initial scans can help them predict which areas will suffer most.

Eventually, future studies may compare xenon CT with other imaging techniques used in stroke patients, including a form of magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and position emission tomography (PET). But both of those approaches require patients to leave the emergency room.

Even with all these new imaging techniques. Hickenbottom said the most important steps in dealing with stroke are up to the patient, not the doctor.

She urges people - especially those at high risk because of age, heart disease, dlabetes, high blood pressure and family history - to familiarize themselves with the warning signs of stroke. And, she said, they should call 911 and get medical attention as soon as possible after symptoms start, since every minute counts in the rush to prevent permanent damage.

The new study is funded by Praxair, which makes xenon gas for other xenon CT uses such as treatment planning for brain with surgery. Working Hickenbottom on the U-M team are neurosurgery resident Mark Harrigan M.D., radiologist John Deveikis M.D., and research nurse Lisa Davis R.N.

Besides U-M, the other participants in the trial of xenon CT for stroke are the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Cincinnati, the University of California campuses at both San Francisco and Los Angeles, Virginia Commonwealth University, the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, and the Barrow Neurological Institute in Phoenix, Ariz.

A bathroom can be simple and elegant

Sometimes the smallest design related changes in a bathroom can make the biggest difference. An effective bathroom design should address all your physical needs and some spiritual ones too. Here are my 10 most important tips to consider when updating your bathroom.

1. Choose elegant fixtures

A pedestal sink with graceful lines is much more attractive than a blocky cabinet vanity. which often can be the site of clutter. A classic claw-foot tub is like bathroom sculpture. Even when it's enclosed in a deck, the simple lines of the lip have an inherent beauty that surpasses most over-stylized acrylic versions. Also, there's nothing like a porcelain enamel coated east iron tub for heat retention and quality.

2. Sit in a bathtub before buying

, Remember that bigger isn't always better when purchasing a tub. A 60 inch model is ideal for most people. It offers enough room to stretch out comfortably and provides a secure foothold so you don't float into oblivion when the tub is full. Assess the angled back and lip for comfort and neck support. A tub for two people slants at either end and has taps in the middle. If you only have enough space for a small tub, choose one with extra depth to achieve a feeling of luxury.

3. Select durable flooring

Ceramic, marble and stone tiles are both durable and water resistant, making them excellent flooring choices for bathrooms. The addition of subfloor heating coils will make these hard surfaces warm to the touch.

Alternatively, well sealed hardwood floors offer natural warmth and act as a foil to the other hard. cold surfaces in a bathroom

4. Hang a stylish framed mir-TOL

One beautifully framed mirror over a sink looks more attractive than many surfaces covered with mirror. Supplement it with a wall mounted, adjustable makeup or shaving mirror. For a touch of luxury. consider installing a lighted mirrored shaving niche in your shower stall as well, a design detail you'll be glad you included.

5. Use found space

Take advantage of found space between studs by recessing a tall storage cabinet into the wall. It should have interior depth of at least three to four inches and a door flush with the wall. A tall cabinet like this will maximize vertical storage while saving floor space. You'll be surprised at how much you'll be able to fit inside, too.

6. Build a shower area

If you have a large space, consider building an open concept shower area that doesn't need a curtain or door. Inspired by outdoor showers, they're often more interesting and less confining than a standard stall.

In addition to well designed drainage, a ceiling mounted rain shower head and/or a high wall mounted shower head that splashes less water will keep the area outside the shower drier.

7. Share space for added function

In homes with back to back bathrooms, a shared shower equipped with access doors to each of the bathrooms is a clever idea that maximizes space. Alternatively, consider turning a large closet located next to a bathroom into a small ensuite with access to the neighboring bath.

8. Design lighting that works Good lighting is imperative in a bathroom. Combine halogen can lights with wall sconces installed beside or over the mirror for efficient lighting with no shadows. Always remember to install dimmer controls.

9. Buy a quality toilet

When buying a toilet, it's not necessary to spend big bucks, but you don't want to scrimp either. You can get a good quality toilet for about $300. If possible, it's always wise to test a toilet's comfort and flushing system. Models with elongated bowls and seats are usually most comfortable for both men and women.

10. Incorporate luxury into your design

For those who are fortunate enough to have a large space with which to work, indulge yourself luxuriously with an expanded spa bathroom/dressing room, a haven for privacy and relaxation. Outfit it with a TV, fireplace, exercise equipment, makeup vanity and a large, comfortable occasional chair upholstered in thick white terry cloth. Add fragrant candles in beautiful candlesticks next to your tub. Place your perfume or cologne bottles on silver serving trays or use a decorative mirrored tray not only for display purposes, but to add organization as well. A vase of fresh flowers is always a welcoming statement when coming home to soak after a long day.

According to the American Stroke Association, the medical outcome of a stroke patient who receives the clot-busting drug and a patient who doesn't get to the hospital in time for treatment can be dramatically different. One grandmother could have the ability to carry their grandbaby in a few days, while the other might never regain her strength.

More than half of women who survive a stroke die within eight years. However, the chance of suffering a stroke can be reduced by practicing a healthy lifestyle.

Women should control high blood pressure, stop smoking, controi blood cholesterol, become physically active, avoid obesity and work with a doctor to prevent or treat atrial fibrillation and carotid artery disease. Atrial fibrillation is the rapid, uncoordinated beating of the heart's upper chambers. Carotid artery disease affects the blood vessel system that supplies the brain.

American Stroke The Association, a division of the American Heart Association, was created in November 1998 as part of a strategic decision to spotlight and strengthen the American Heart Association's effort to reduce death and disability from stroke through research, education, fund raising and advocacy.

'Stangs tie Churchill for seventh

The Northville boy's track team made a trip into Observerland this past weekend, faring respectably well against some tough competition from all over metro-Detroit.

The Mustangs did not win any of the 16 events, but had two runnerup finishes and four other placers. There were 17 teams and Northville gathered 36 points, good for a tie for sev-enth place with conference rival Churchill.

Alex Haines, Justin Morris and Brandon Ferriman combined for a total high jump of 17-6. That placed them just behind Ply-mouth Canton and ahead of Churchill. 3,200 relay quartet finished in 8:27.9, which was good enough for a runnerup fin-ish. The 6,400 relay team also ran well, taking fourth place in 19:21.1. Brandon Langston finished fourth in the 100 meter dash (11.3) and Brett Pawling was third with a time of 15.4 seconds in the 110 hurdles.

The sprint medley team also finished third, completing the race in 2:31.2.

The team has really been coming together, rallying for each other and putting in the extra morning practices when called upon." coach Eric Cun-ningham said.. "We as coaches have seen the attitude shift from a team that didn't think they could compete to a team that is confident and sets its mind to running smart races."

Cunningham said the tie with Churchill has set up a great rematch in today's dual meet against the Chargers.

Brett Pawling and Langston were victorious in the high hurdles (15.9) and the 100 (11.3). Pawling came back to win the 300 hurdles (42.5) and Langston did the same in the 200.

Erik Anderson was the winner in the pole vault competition. Cornelius finished runnerup to Langston in the 100 while Jason D'Anna was third in the 200. Matt Foster was runnerup in both the shot put and discus events. Brian Bilyk was second in the 3.200 and Ryan Downing was runnerup in the pole vault.

Season winds down

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

Only in the springtime will you have a team play about one half of its season within a two-week span.

So a team must be sharp day in and day out if it hopes to makes the best of a shortened season. The Northville tennis team is trying its best to contend for a conference championship while solidifying top seeds come state tourney time.

The Mustangs defeated Churchill and Walled Lake Western last week. upping their conference record to 5-0 and their overall mark to 6-0-1. The team played North Farmington last night (after the Northville Record's deadline) in what could be the deciding match for the Western Lakes' regular season title. Both teams were undefeated coming into the match, which has come to be the best match of either team's seasons. Complete results will be in next week's Northville Record.

Against the Chargers, Northville struggled in its first match after the break, winning by a score of 6-2 on May 3.

Coach Jeff Westmeyer said his team was a little rusty coming off of spring break, but "gutted it out" enough to win the match.

Mark Thomson defeated his opponent 6-0, 6-2 at second singles and Kyle Dehne had little trouble winning 6-0. 6-2 at fourth singles. The Mustangs had some problems at first and third singles. Dean Conway fell to the Charger's Jerry Murray 3-6. 1-6 at the top spot. Teammate Dan Drake was battled at third singles, but he pulled off a 7-6 (3) 6-4 win for his team.

In doubles action, Scott Eller and Brenden Green remained undefeated on the season by winning 7-5. 6-1 at first dubs. Nate Gudritz and Kyle Wargo had no problems at second doubles, winning 6-0, 6-2. Phil Gutowski and Garrett Brun followed in suit at fourth doubles, taking a 6-2, 6-0 victory.

"Our first match back was rained out (Farmington), so it was nice to get a match in," Westmeyer said.

NVILLE 8, WESTERN 0

The Warriors offered very little competition for the Mustangs on the court, and the scores were indicative of that.

Thomson and Conway switched up positions and each won easily. Thomson picked up a 6-2, 6-2 win over Bryan Norville while Conway breezed to a 6-0, 6-3 win over Yuta Shinkinji at two singles.

Drake won 6-3, 6-2 over Brendan Fletcher and Dehne beat David Pham 6-0, 6-0 at fourth singles.

Eller and Green won 6-1. 6-1 and Wargo and Gudritz were 6-1, 6-0 winners at two dubs. Brian Arndt and Brian Wilson won 6-2, 6-3 at three and Gutowski and Brun won by that same score at fourth doubles.

Westmeyer said he's pleased with the way his doubles teams has developed this season so far, stating that "we're not just two people on the court, we're playing as one unit," he said.

The Mustangs host Farmington Hills Harrison tomorrow and then travel to Dearborn to play in an invitational Saturday. Tomorrow's match will begin at 4 p.m.

The Western Lakes Activities Association conference meet will be held Tuesday.

The way the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association baseball race is shaping up, it should be a wide-open free for all to the finish.

With a 6-0 shutout of previously once beaten Walled Lake Western last Thursday and a Churchill win over Harrison a day later, three teams were tied for first place in the divisional race.

But unfortunately for the Mustangs, the team dropped a close 3-2 decision to Harrison Monday night. The loss leaves Northville 3-2 in the division and moves Harrison up to 4-1.

game, but took the loss. He went six and a third innings. striking out five and walking one. The problem was that his team could only muster up one hit in the ball game.

"We're just not hitting the ball," coach Mickey Newman said. "We've relied on bloop hits and we've been counting on walks to score our runners all year long."

Harrison led throughout the game. building a 2-0 lead after their half of the third inning. The Mustangs struck back with one of their own in the bottom half of the third when Brian Roth scored on a rundown involving Eric Cooley between first and second base.

Harrison added an insurance run in the fourth. Northville scored their last run in the seventh as Cooley scored Brian Ashby on a ground out to pull his team to within a run. But a questionable call on a Kris Betker swinging bunt on the next play proved crucial to the games outcome. With Matt Hutchison on third base and two outs. Betker's bunt attempt dribbled up the line. scoring Hutchison with the game-tying run. The umpire ruled the

"He's just been amazing for us," Newman said. "He gave up three doubles that went to the fence, but either our defense came up with a big play or Matt struck someone out when he needed to."

Scouts from Michigan State and Wayne State universities were at the game taking a look at Western's big right hander. Eric MacDonald. But it was Hare who looked like the scoutee.

The team's defense behind Hare helped out as well. Catcher Tim Edick threw out a pair of baserunners attempting to steal and the infield turned two double plays.

Offensively, the Mustangs scored a run in the first and two more in the second before Brian Boyes clear the bases with à three-run double in the top of the sixth inning. Boyes, who had an infield RBI-single which scored Cooley in the second, finished the game with four RBI. Andy Doren and Matt Zumstein each added RBI to the

Northville wins first track meet

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

As each meet passes it by, the Northville girl's track team continues its improvement this season. The proof is in the results.

The Mustangs finished fourth at the Stafford Relays this past Saturday, its best finish in several years, and picked up its first dual win of the season last Thursday over Franklin.

Performing well at yet another invitational. Northville brought home two first-places, a runnerup and another third-place finish to score 50 points and finish in the upper tier of teams at the 10-team relay event.

"To finish as close as we did to schools like Novi and Salem is a real accomplishment for us." Northville coach Karin Nelson said.

Salem ran away with the title, scoring a meet-high 86 points. Novi was second with 65, Walled Lake Central third with 62 points and Northville was fourth. Marian (33) and Walled Lake Western (32) were the next two teams and Southfield Lathrup (30), Redford Union (9) and Bloomfield Hills Lahser (8) rounded out the field.

The four-mile medicy relay team of Nicole Cauzillo (1.600). Kelly Driscoll (800). Hillary McCrumb (800) and Alyson Flohr (3.200) brought home one of the team's titles, finishing in a winning time of 23 minutes, 50 seconds.

Cauzilio then anchored the winning distance medley team which also included McCrumb (800). Kelly Bowen (400). Flohr (1.200) to the win in that event as well. Flohr moved the team up from 8th place to second and then Cauzillo gave her team the win.

Nelson said the key factor in both races was Cauzillo, who found time out from her soccer schedule to help the team out.

"She is such an exciting athlete to watch." Nelson said. "She is such a fierce competitor. If another runner passes her, she immediately passes her back and quickly gains 10-20 yards on her and stays there. No matter how tired you think she must be, she always has an amazing sprint at the end of her races.

The high jump trio of Emily Ott, Jessica Anchor and Emily Needham combined to finish second at the meet. Driscoll, Flohr, McCrumb and Cauzillo teamed up one more time to finish third in the 3,200 meter relay (10:39).

N'VILLE 78, FRANKLIN 59

It wasn't just the team's distance runners who made a difference in the team's first win of the season, it was those who stepped up in various other events who propelled the team to the win.

Anchor and Ott finished 1-2 in the high jump. both clearing 4 feet 10 inches. Amber Selle jumped a personal-best 15-5 to take first in the long jump'. Amber has really stepped it up for in in the long jump." her coach said. "She has showed great improvement throughout the season."

Mary Tanski won the discus throw (98-9) and finished second in the shot put after throwing her season best (34-6).

Genevieve Balangero ran two season-best times in the 100 and 300 hurdles to finish first in both events.

Genevieve just continues to impress me with her steady improvement. She's worked hard in practice and has really begun to get her steps down so that she's becoming one of the better hurdlers in the area," her coach boasted.

Ott, Angela Neihoff and Julia Williams finished 1-

Golfers continue to set school records

By JASON SCHMITT Sports Editor

The records continue to fall, both for the team and for a certain young individual on the Northville golf team.

For Pam Mouradian. it has been a season of continued improvement. So much so that the junior tied the school record earlier this season and has since broken it twice. Mouradian shot a 39 to lead her Mustangs to a 175-182 win over Farmington last Thursday. The nine-hole score is the first-ever sub-40 score in school history and helped the 'Stangs to a schoolrecord team round of 175.

The records came on the road, at Farmington's home course of Glen Oaks.

"We usually play the front nine, and we know that nine." coach Trish Murray said. "But we did pretty well on the back nine not knowing the course."

Mouradian was not alone, however. Kate MacDonald has seen continual improvement in her game as well. The sophomore shot a 42 at Glen Oaks. Kate Sekerka had a 45 and both Jessie Mills and Heather Rudy carded 49s to finish the scoring for Northville. Lauren Farris was the team's final golfer. and she scored an impressive 50.

majority of their remaining schedule coming against struggling opponents.

"I just don't want the girls to let their guards down," the coach said. "I want them to go out and play the course. It's best to just stay loose out there."

Northville is currently ranked No. 4 in the state. The last time the team won the Western Lakes' title was in 1995, and before that in 1993.

N'VILLE 200, JOHN GLENN 269

There were no school records to be broken, just another conference win to be had for the lady golfers.

Mouradian (45) and Mills (49) were the lone Mustangs to break 50 at Fellows Creek Golf Course. MacDonald (50) and Sekerka (56) and Rudy (56) scored for Northville.

Spring break blues costs JV hockey team

Northville JV Hockey Game No. 7

Spring break lasted two periods too long. Still feeling the effects of the long hiatus, the Northville JV hockey team came out flat on Sunday afternoon, April 30 against Waterford Kettering's squad. Waterford took advantage of the situation and jumped out to a two goal lead in the first period. Northville was without the offensive firepower of Mike Fill and Mike Dawson, but Waterford, playing with nine skaters. was plain old out-playing the Mustangs.

Northville woke up in the third period, down 0-2 and decided to make this a hockey game. Twenty seconds into the period with Northville shorthanded, defenseman Mickey Mason rushed the puck out of the Northville zone. evading several Waterford players and sent a lead pass onto the stick of Kellen Smetana who was bearing down on the Waterford goalie along with Graham Appleford. Smetana drew the defense to him and fed the puck over to Appleford who buried it behind the Waterford net minder. Two minutes later, Will Holden took the puck from center ice, wove his way to the front of the Waterford goal and with an outstanding individual effort, scored to tie the game. Andy Minielly gave Northville the lead with under eight minutes to play in the game by connecting with one of Matt Giles' patented blue line blasts.

In the final minute of the game, Waterford pulled their goalie for a sixth attacker. Waterford caught Northville in an odd-man situation with two forwards charging in on one defenseman and the goalie. The defenseman prevented the Waterford player from passing, and David Ely-Bond stood his ground in net stopping the point blank shot and preserving the victory for Northville, 3-2.

JV Hockey Game No. 6

Sometimes a tie feels like a loss. That's the way it felt for the Northville junior varsity hockey team on Wednesday night.

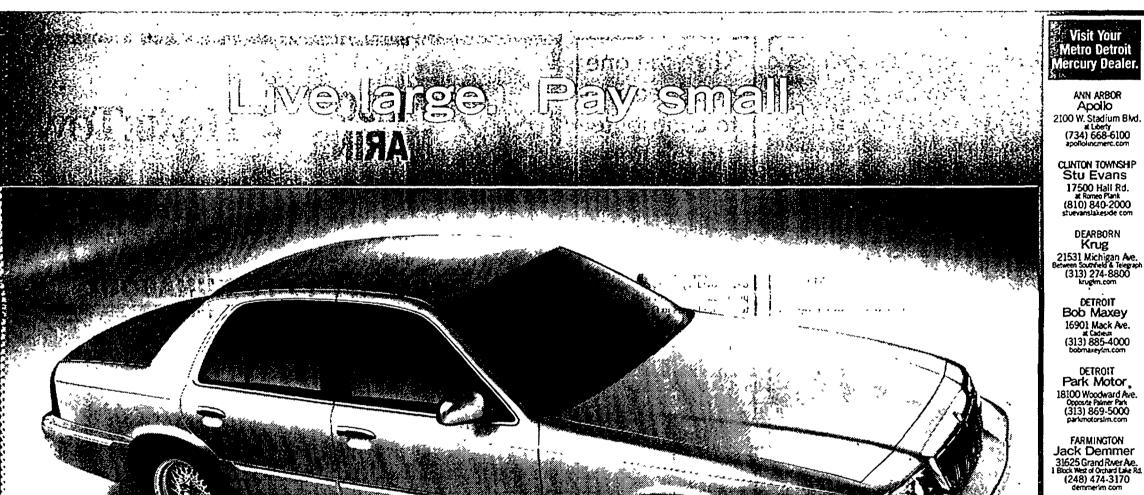

Northville had jumped out to what seemed to be a commanding 3-0 lead on April 19, with goals by David Kuhn and Jacob Vitale in the first period and Andy Minlelly early in the second. Kuhn was assisted by Troy Engelland and Graham Appleford, Vitale was assisted by Nick Reuter, and Minielly got his help from Kellen Smetana.

Farmington scored late in the second period to make the score 3-1, but the Northville faithful fans had seen so much dominance from the Mustangs that there seemed to be no need for concern.

Five minutes into the third period, however, Farmington scored again. Mike Fill helped Northville regain a two-goal margin shortly thereafter by pouncing on a loose puck in front of the net and firing right back through the crowd and into the goal. Thirty seconds later, Farmington capitalized on one of their seven power play opportunities making the score 4-3. in the end, Northville could not hang onto the lead. With under two minutes remaining in the game, Farmington scored a shorthanded goal tying the score at 4-4.

The most memorable highlight of this off-balance game was goalie David Ely-Bond denying Farmington sharpshooter Nick Maki's penalty shot.

Spring break breaks 'Stangs in game against Farmington

attack.

FARMINGTON 9, N'VILLE 2

Newman was 0-6 in his team's first games back from Spring Break since he began coaching at Northville back in the mid '90s. Make that 0.7.

But the coach wasn't too upset, considering his first game scheduled after the break was rained out on Monday. That game was a divisional matchup with Franklin.

"Some of those losses have really hurt us in the past. But Wednesday's loss didn't hurt us too much." the coach said.

His team came out flat offensively, but it was his team's defense that led to its downfall. Tommy Hughes started on the mound, but received little support from his team. The Mustangs committed five errors in the book, but Newman said there were three or four more mental errors on the field.

Northville scored on a RBI-double by Edick and a Ashby sacrifice fly. Hare and Bill Salliote scored the Northville runs.

Matt Hare - Senior

Despite his lack of a 90-mile an hour fastball, Hare has been able to get outs when he's needed them this season.

The senior pitched his Mushis team in the game Monday afternoon. Northville lost to Harrison, but Hare allowed just three runs over six-plus innings of work.

Mouradian has been improving her game each time out this season. Coincidentally, the school record has continued to drop all season'long.

The junior lowered the school mark she already owned by shooting a 39 in a win over Farmington last Thursday. She's been the match medalist in all of Northville's matches this season.

"Leading...Learning for All with Superintendent Mike Flanagan"

Research has shown that children's academic success in grades K-12 is directly related to their physical, emotional, intellectual and social development long before they enter kindergarten.

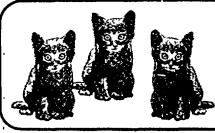

How can we make sure that our children have the building blocks they need for a bright future?

Parents and caregivers will learn more about the wonderful resources that are available for their children and how they can strengthen their child's foundation for learning.

Please consult your local cable channel guide for the station that airs

2-3 in the 200 meter dash, and event Northville usually struggles in. Catherine Timco and Erin Bzymek finished 2-3 in the 100.

Flohr led the way in the distance runs, taking first in both the mile and two mile events. Her time of 5:34 in the mile was a season best.

"When she puts her mind to it, she can be very self motivated in a meet and can run against herself and the clock to improve her time," Nelson said of Flohr. "It's a huge boost for this team to have a runner that can almost always be counted on for two first-place finishes in each meet. It's something we can easily take for granted."

McCrumb took third in the mile and Amanda Sprader was third in the two-mile.

Kelly Greulich was runnerup in the 400 and Kailein Krizanich and McCrumb were 2-3 in the 800 nın.

One of the day's most pleasant surprises came in the form of the relays. The team won three of four relay races, marking the first time this season that the Mustangs have won more than one in a meet.

Neihoff, Williams, Selle and Bzymek took first place in the 800 (1:57.1) and the 400 (56.08) relays. Allison Loeffler, Holly Taylor, Krizanich and Greulich took first in the 3,200 relay. Northville will host Churchill today in a divisional matchup beginning at 3:30 p.m. The team will then compete in the Clarkston Invitational this weekend.

Meteyer said the funny thing about the lone Western goal was: that it came off a corner kick. Northville had spent the majority of their practice the day before working on defending corner kicks.

Bicycle safety — Too important to ignore

For children in the United States, the receipt of their first bicycle is a momentous occasion, a veritable rite of passage. You might recall how you viewed your first bicycle. Perhaps you saw a terrific toy or the means to gain the freedom of the open road. As a parent now, you probably anticipate your child's receipt of her first bike with a great deal of excitement. Many parents also experience at least a moment's concern regarding the risks related to their child biking. Just how significant are the risks our children encounter while biking and what can be done to minimize or, preferably, eliminate these risks?

Roughly 400,000 U.S. children under the age of 15 years are seen each year in hospital emergency rooms with injuries related to bicycling accidents. These injuries include lacerations. damaged teeth, concussions, fractured bones and significant life-threatening injuries. Approximately 600 U.S. children under the age of 15 years die each year because of injuries related to bicycling accidents. Head trauma is the most common reason for hospital admission following a bicycle accident and accounts for the largest category of injury resulting in disability and death. According to the U.S. Consumers Product Safety Commission, one in seven children in the U.S. will eventually have a head injury related to a bicycle accident. This amounts to about 130.000 head injuries in children per year. Thankfully, simple steps can be taken to reduce these injuries and fatalities. Sadly, many families lack the information or the resolve to change their biking practices.

Safe biking begins with selecting the proper bicycle for your child. The bicycle should be purchased to fit him at his current size. He should be able to sit in the bike saddle with the balls of both feet resting on the ground. When standing his crotch should clear the bar by at least one inch. Although your child's eyes (along with his father's) light up at the look of a set of handbrakes on the bike, a bike with a coaster brake is a better development fit for a 4- to 9-year-old child.

Your shopping trip is not complete until you purchase for your child a bicycle helmet. It should be carefully fit to your child so it sits snugly atop her head, covers her forchead and straps firmly below her chin. The helmet should be labeled as meeting or exceeding the standards set by ANSI. SNELL, or ASTM. Statistics show that a bicyclist wearing a helmet during an accident will reduce her risk of serious head or brain injury by 85-90 percent with a similar reduction in the risk of death. Make wearing her bike helmet a condition of riding her bike every single ride. Start with her first tricycle ride: Wear a helmet yourself to set a good example. Talk with neighbors and friends to encourage your child's peers to join the safe biking crowd. Praise your child and her friends when they remember to wear their helmets without prompting. Be consistent in enforcing a "helmet or no ride" rule. Law may require the use of a helmet. More than 15 states and many municipalities have current bicycle helmet laws. Replace the helmet if it sustains an impact during an accident.

appears worn or damaged or no longer fits. Bicyclists share sidewalks and park paths with pedestrians and other bicyclists and eventually share roadways with cars and other motor vehicles. Children need to learn the rules of safe and courteous bicycling. Children under age 7 years should ride primarily on sidewalks or sheltered park pathways with adult supervision. Depending on their maturity, knowledge astride the bar with his feet flat on the ground. and skill level, children age 7-10 years might safely ride on wide streets carrying only light traffic. They should be taught to ride in a straight, single-file line to the right of the path or roadway. All traffic signals should be obeyed. It is recommended that bicyclists stop at all intersections to look both ways for oncoming vehicles. Hand signals should be used to communicate to motorists intended actions. Some practices are associated with increased risks of injury and should be avoided including riding barefoot, carrying a passenger, hitching a ride on a moving motor vehicle, and performing stunts.

> Bicyclists encounter many hazards on their paths and roadways that may contribute to or cause an accident. Young bicyclists need to learn to watch for hazards such as storm grates, potholes, bumps, soft shoulders, oil spots, loose gravel and accumulated leaves and debris and take cautious actions to avoid these hazards or minimize their impacts. Riding at night requires a skill level beyond most young riders' abilities as well as lights, reflectors and reflective clothing. Overly friendly or aggressive dogs can trigger an accident if a bicyclist feels threatened by their approach. Railroad crossings are best approached on foot pushing the in recent years, a number of commercial wood cleaning products have been introduced to the market that are specifically designed to clean and restore weathered wood surfaces such as decks and siding. These commercial cleaners are a great improvement over previously recommended household bleaches and cleaners. They address the specific problems of stain removal on wood decks, including both chemical and biological discoloration.

Sometimes, in order to restore a wood deck and prepare it for refinishing, the previous finish or what's left of the previous finish will need to be removed. Most deck cleaners and restorers are not effective in removing paints or protective stains. This can be accomplished by mechanical removal or chemical means. The mechanical method of choice for cleaning and restoring wood decks is the power washer. This is sometimes used in conjunction with chemical cleaners, i.e., commercial deck-cleaning products.

Power washers are employed more by contrac-tors than do-it-yourselfers since they are somewhat tricky to use and can damage the wood if not utilized properly. However, with proper instructions and care, the use of a power washer is not beyond the skill of the average homeowner. This type of equipment is available at rental-equipment outlets. People are entertaining more at home nowadays, says Claudia Handley, vice-president of Saffron Billiards and Bar Stools in Novi. Ditto for spending more time with their families. And what better way to entertain friends and keep the kids close to home than a fully loaded game room.

"This area is very family oriented. This gives them something they can do together as a family," points out Handley who man-ages this business along with husband, David.

She remembers a time when often the billiard or game table was delivered down into a dark basement. Times are changing. though. Nowadays, they're often delivered to basements that are remodeled living areas with drywall and more first floor game rooms than ever. In many cases, you can have a full blown game room on the upper level for a fraction of the price of good living room furniture, she adds.

They're using conventional space in unconventional ways. It's getting your space, your house to work for you." Pool tables now come in a variety of styles including woods and laminates to suit a contemporary. traditional even a Victorian decor. Customers can select from a choice of 32 different types of fabrics in stock and an assortment of pockets. For example, a brushed chrome in a very contemporary look. In the right room, it looks fabulous. It looks like it's floating off the floor," said Handley. "We can decorate to any theme"

Surface preparation key to refinishing process

Sanding is an effective method for removing unwanted coats of previously applied finishes. It can, however, damage the surface of the wood. On redwood and cedar, sanding often results in an excessive amount of tannin resin bleeding.

A commercial cleaner such as Wolman's Deck Strip Stain & Finish Remover is easier to use than most paint/varnish strippers. It is designed specifically for wood surfaces such as your deck. It removes both oil and latex weathered coatings, whereas other stripping solutions are often designed for one or the other. It is also easy to use on vertical surfaces. It is biodegradable and relatively safe around grass and plants, requiring only that the surrounding area be hosed down before and after use.

Care should be taken to thoroughly rinse all cleaner/restorer product from the wood. Failure to remove dirt, mildew and weathered residues as well as the residue from any cleaning agents is an open invitation for early failure of subsequently applied protective coatings. Once the wood surface has been cleaned the wood should be allowed to dry thoroughly prior to application of any wood preservative. Inspect your deck, and replace any broken, warped or rotting boards, treating joists or beams with wood preservative before nailing and wherever new wood will contact supports. Refasten railings and stairs as needed. Sink any protruding nails.

Once your deck is clean you will need to apply a water repellent. preservative or stain to keep it that way and protect the wood from absorbing water and damaging ultra violet rays. You can use either a clear penetrating finish or an ultraviolet resistant stain. Wolman's markets F&P Premium Wood Finish and Preservative, an oil-based finish that contains long-lasting water repellents. mildewcides, and UV-blockers that provide strong protection against ultraviolet light without darkening the natural color of wood. It comes in colorized formulas for pine, cedar, redwood and natural tones.

The Flood Co. produces a line of wood-care products that includes Dekswood Cleaner and Brightener for cleaning and CWF-UV, which is a clear penetrating protective wood finish with ultraviolet resistance. The Darworth Co. markets exterior stains. preservatives, sealers and deck care products including Cuprinol Deck Stain & Preservative, Cuprinol Clear Wood Seal and Cuprinol REVIVE Easy Deck Cleaner. # GREEN SHEET HOMETOWN CLASSIFIEDS

Things are alive and well at Deadwood Bar & Grill

By JASON SCHMITT Staff writer

Customers who walk into the Deadwood Bar and Grill in Northville Township are treated to an atmosphere more commonly found somewhere a few hundred miles up north.

The antler-designed chairs and chandeliers along with the mountings on the walls give the restaurant that "up north" feeling. Yet the peaceful surroundings and great food and service provided falls in line with any of the best restaurants in metro Detroit.

That's the kind of atmosphere we want, just very comfortable." owner Victor Dzenowagis said. You can come in with a suit, you can come in with cutoffs. We try to build a place and run it as if we were the customers. And if we're comfortable and we like it then we know we've hit our mark."

Located where Timber Creek used to be. Deadwood provides a quiet, cozy, outdoorish-typed theme to its patrons. It's like spending a weekend in a cabin up north, while being catered to. The bar and grill is the fourth restaurant to be opened by Dzenowagis and his wife, Linda Egeland. Along with a few other partners, the husband and wife eam also own the Moose Preserve in Bloomfield Hills, Beaver Creek Tackle and Beer in Westland and Camp Ticonderoga in Troy. Each of the restaurants carry similar themes, and have all been designed by Egeland.

"Everyone says, 'Boy, I'd like to go to a house like this"."

Victor Dzenowagis Deadwood Bar & Grill

Ticonderoga is a lake in upstate New York, so it's a little more Adirondack, whereas the Moose Preserve is very much like the U.P. This restaurant here is a little more Adirondack than that of a hunting lodge," Dzenowagis said. "My wife really did a nice job here. She really worked to get everything to work together. She wanted it all to be one feeling. comfortable, yet cozy."

With several other restaurants having spent time at its current location. Dzenowagis said

We wanted it to be consistent with Northville and our perception of Northville was that it's upscale, yet casual," Dzenowagis said. "I think you see that in a lot of the businesses around here."

So far the feedback he's received from patrons since the restaurant opened back in November has been positive and somewhat unique

"Everyone says boy I'd like to do a house like this." Dzenowagis said. "It's something that people like and they like it enough that please call (248) 347-4353.

they'd want to own it. And that's I guess the ultimate compliment.

Because I'd go to restaurants that will look good and nice, but I certainly wouldn't want to live there.

Deadwood is like many other restaurants which serve your fish. chicken, burgers, steak and ribs, but unlike many, you can also find items such as buffalo, pheasant. emu and quail on the Deadwood menu.

The establishment also plans to build an outdoor deck area for its patrons. They've received the go ahead to begin construction and should complete the project by the end of June. When finished, the deck area will seat an additional 80 people.

Dzenowagis and Egeland are hoping their new establishment will become a permanent fixture in the future of Northville Township unlike several failed attempts before it.

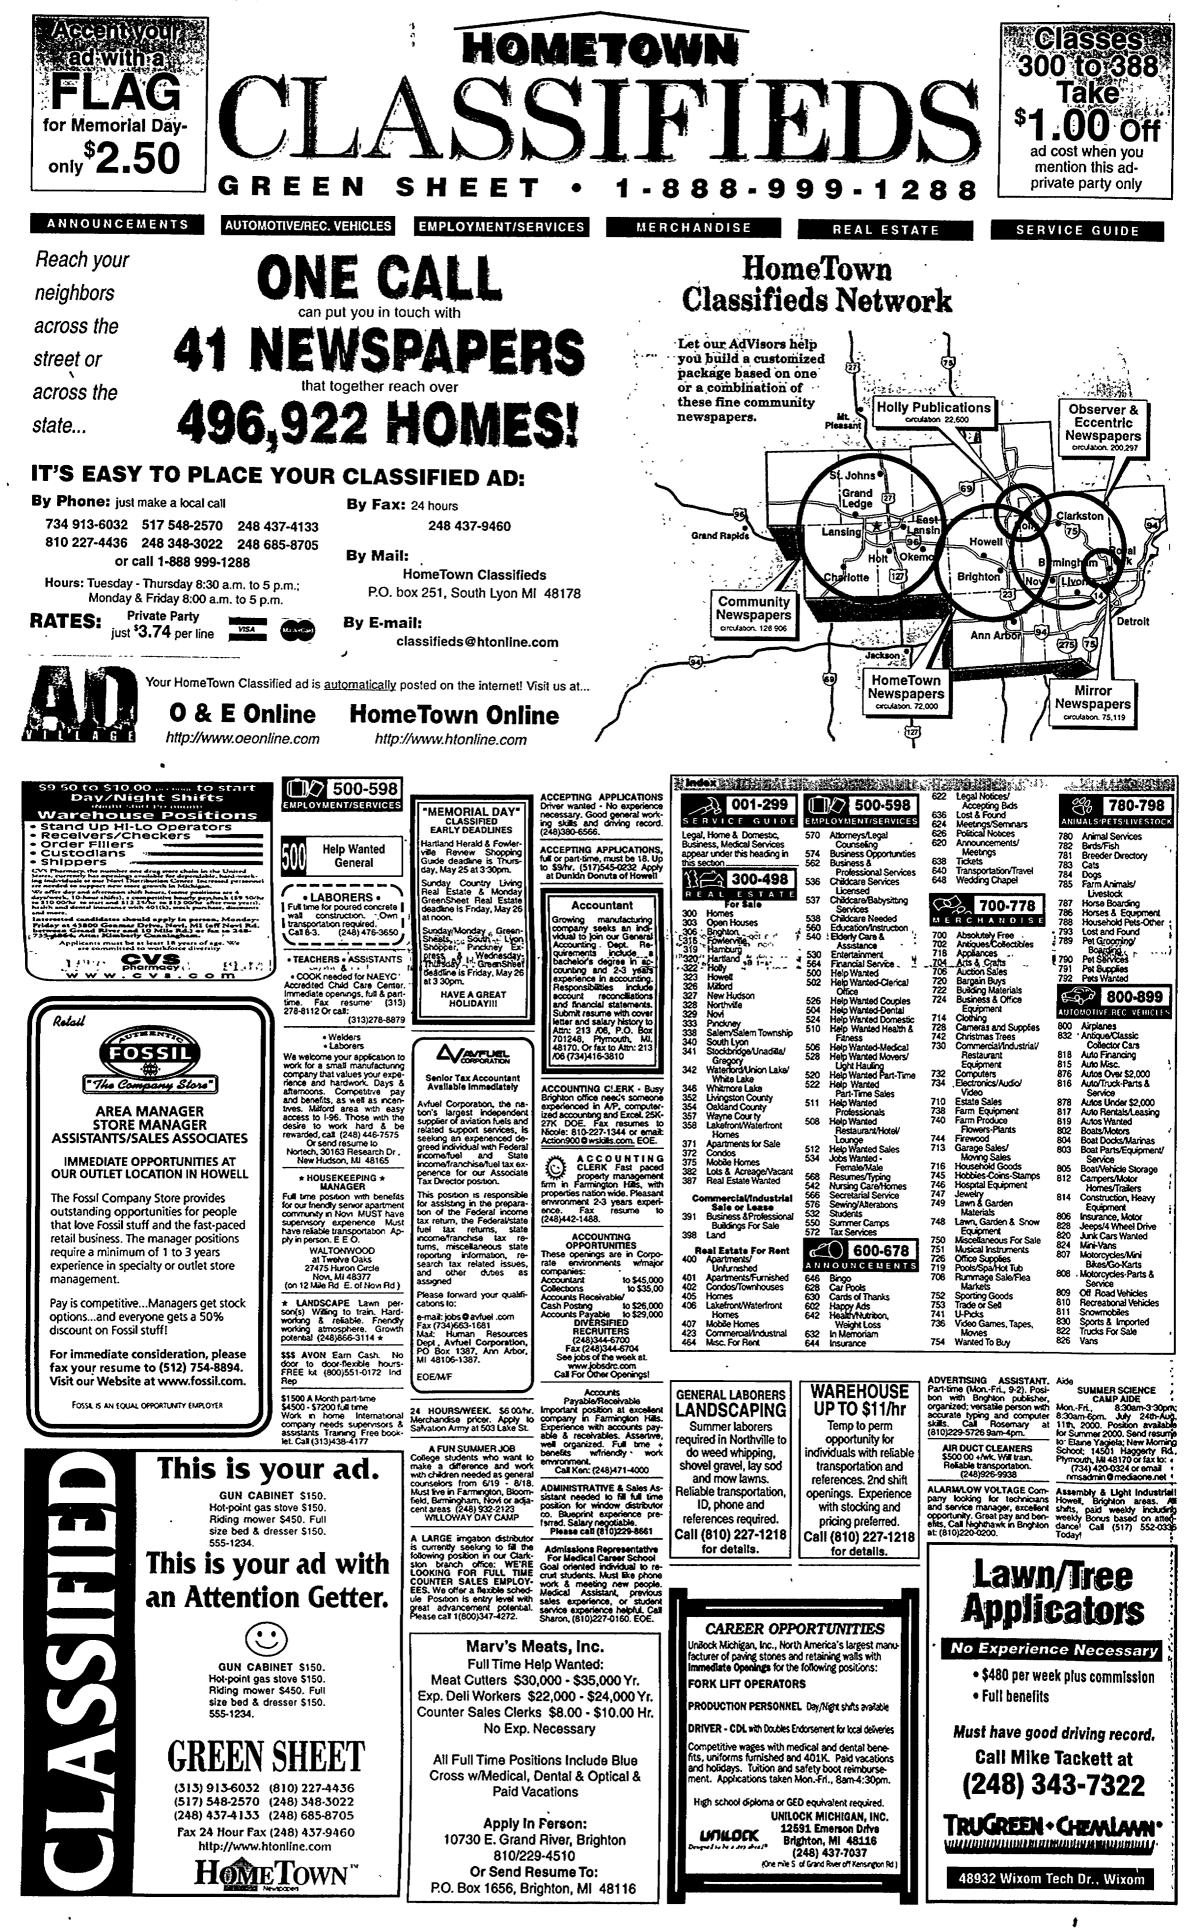

"Each of the locations we own. when we bought them. everyone told us we were crazy," Dzenowagis said. "I think any location will be successful if it's worked hard enough and we've got a good group of managers and employees here."

Deadwood is located at 18730 Northville Road, just south of Seven Mile Road in Northville Township. For further questions

Georgeanna Kruchko • Backyard Birds 1100 E. Commerce Road, Milford (248) 684-4700

Creativity isn't just an outlet for Georgeanna Kruchko and her husband, Ernie Kramar. The duo turned their love for the outdoors and gardening into a living with their Backyard Birds stores in Milford and Bloomfield Hills.

Upon entering the store on East Commerce, one will find a vast array of everything for the backyard including gazing globes, bird baths, benches, outdoor furniture, stepping stones, garden stakes, clogs, gloves, bird feeders, bird seed, copper garden sprinklers and decorative art pieces.

Beautiful and artistic wind chimes and outdoor flags line the walls of the store where you also will find every kind of birdseed imaginable. Unique items like copper art and decorative feeders are what makes Backyard Birds a great store to shop for outdoor garden accessories.

The generous stock is housed in what used to be the Watson Builder Supply store, Kruchko said. Backyard Birds took over the building in October of 1997 and has been servicing local residents with their bird gardening needs ever since.

"This millennium year marks the 10th anniversary of Backyard Birds. In addition to the two stores we own and operate, we have licensed stores in Commerce, Novi and Plymouth," Kruchko said. "The business, as any retail store, takes lots of energy but is well worth the effort." Along with Ernie and Georgeanna, Diana Lutz adds her expertise and experience as a naturalist and birding enthusiast.

Dr. Kathy Duncan • Duncan Soft Touch Chiropractic Novi (248) 348-2000

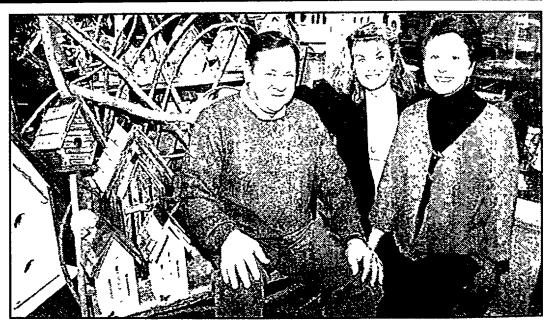

That friendly atmosphere at Duncan Soft Touch Chiropractic, 23895 Novi Road, is what puts one immediately at ease. And knowing that with a soft, gentle touch pain can vanish is all the more reason to visit Dr. Kathy Duncan. "We try to treat each patient as if they were a family member," she said. Working with a soft pressure, non-invasive technique, Dr. Duncan can relieve pain and discomfort from the lower back, neck, sciatica and legs.

"With the spine as a focal point, muscles are relaxed by using pressure along the spine. With the muscles relaxed, the spine can readjust itself naturally. Tight muscles caused by stress, tension, strain or trauma, can pull the spine out of alignment and cause pain," she said.

With first-time patients, she will discuss symptoms and do muscular and chiropractic tests in the office. X-rays are used if needed. Dr. Duncan will then develop a treatment plan based on her findings.

Dr. Duncan was a registered nurse working in critical care and first gave chiropractic treatments a try to alleviate her migraine pain. The results inspired her to become a chiropractor, and she graduated from Life Chiropractic College, Atlanta, in 1986 as president of her class. She has been in practice in Novi since 1990.

Dr. Duncan is active in the Novi Oaks Chapter of American Business Women and sings in the Livonia Civic Chorus. Hours for the clinic are 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

Danelle Marshall • Lil' Nell's Custom Canine 2215 Old Novi Road, Novi (248) 926-8841

Man's best friend can always look their best thanks to Danelle Marshall at Lil' Nell's Custom Canine. Nell is proud of her training background, which she attributes her skill in quality grooming to her friend and mentor, Maureen Hill. Depending on the condition of the dog, this may mean brushing and/or clipping before and after bathing to get out matting.

Since starting her business two years ago Nell has increased her staff to include groomer, Carolyn Clayburn, who has 12 years experience as of April, 2000. She's also implemented new programs, one of these is called the six week club. For this, you don't have to carry a card to punch, she'll automatically deduct $2-$3 off the full rate if you book another grooming within six weeks. Other money savers include coupons in various publications.

For your convenience, she takes Master Card and Visa.

She also offers teeth cleaning, nail clipping, and is happy to put on a bow or bandanna to keep your pup strutting. This spring, she began offering a referral discount to customers.

Always looking for better ways to serve her clientele, Nell is open to suggestions or requests for new services. Her shop offers a few select items such as shampoo, leashes, collars, brushes and designer colognes. They're appropriately named CK-9 for dogs and Tommy Holedigger.

Look for her in the Walled Lake Memorial Day Parade, where she plans to show off her furry friends, or visit 2215 Old Novi Road in Novi.

North Pointe Mortgage Services has a motto — "Call your local lender." It's true, now more than ever, with today's electronic and Web site mortgage companies.

"By meeting in person, we can tailor a mortgage to meet our customer's needs," said Executive Vice President, Margaret Goodcourage. "You can't get that kind of service on the Internet or over the phone."

Maureen "Blu" Dyson said the office welcomes walk-ins and call ins and customers like the fact that they meet face-to-face with the people processing their loan.

April Windsor, who processes most of North Pointe's loans, does so at their convenient Milford office. "We get to meet and know the customers," she said. "They're not just a voice on the phone or a letter in the mail."

North Pointe's portfolio includes a direct link to the Fannie Mae Mortgage Corporation, with approvals in less than an hour, and they've also added new investors with mortgage rates starting as low as 4.7 percent, which has brought back many old customers to refinance.

"It has also opened up the opportunity for first-time and other buyers to purchase larger homes and still stay within the comfort zone for payments," said Senior Vice President, Kevin Milner.

North Pointe offers programs for purchasing, refinancing, new construction and debt consolidation. Their staff is rounded out by Senior Loan Officer, Charles McPhail. The company is a DBA of Park Place Mortgage Company in Plymouth.

Patti Maida • ReMerica Preferred 125 W. Lake St., South Lyon (248) 437-1345

Getting involved in real estate ranks high on Patti Maida's list of "one of the best choices I've made." It follows right behind choosing her husband, Mike, and her dog, Shadow.

Maida has found real estate in the South Lyon area a challenging and very rewarding career. Rewarding in the sense of the self-satisfaction she gets by helping the clients she touches.

"I love the adrenaline flow I get when telling my sellers, 'we have an offer,' or telling my buyers 'they've accepted your offer," Maida said. It's a feeling she finds hard to describe.

An experienced real estate agent knows how to deal with both the good times and the bad, such as when a deal falls through at the closing table.

"I call that the agony of defeat," she laughs.

Equally rewarding is her involvement with the community. For this she looked toward the South Lyon Area Chamber of Commerce. Since becoming involved she has been elected to run on the Board of Directors and is proud of another achievement — being awarded the "Ambassador of the Year." She feels that is "quite an honor."

Other volunteer contributions include her work to support Active Faith, and the wonderful things they do for the community.

"Helping people whether through Real Estate, the Chamber of Commerce or through volunteer work will always play a significant role in my life," said Maida.

The Village Dentist is out and about in the community, helping children understand the importance of dental care. With visits to preschools, kindergartens, fourth-grade health classes and presenting at Career Day at Highland Middle School, Dr. Wilkop and her staff are emphasizing the importance of good dental care.

"We saw almost a thousand children last year in the community," marveled Dr. Wilkop.

The staff at The Village Dentist keeps informed by continuing their own education.

"The research is showing that bacteria harbored in the mouth truly affects the heart and overall health," Dr. Wilkop said. "That bacteria can lead to heart disease, heart attacks and diabetes," she added. By focusing on mouth care, the staff stresses how to improve the health of their patients.

"It all ties into oral health and how if affects physical health and well-being," noted Dr. Wilkop. The family practice uses the gentle touch," she said. "We enjoy working with families, small children, and people of all ages." Dr. Wilkop stresses they are especially good with children.

"We have the "mom touch" here.

Dr. Wilkop is settling in her new office. Located behind Artclothes, she is adding the finishing touches to the space that tripled her office size. Hours at The Village Dentist are Monday 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Tuesday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Wednesday noon to 8 p.m. and Thursday 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mary Mansour • Read It Again Books 39733 Grand River Ave., Novi (248) 474-6066

Long before she opened her Read It Again Books store, Mary Mansour was a great fan of books. Four years ago, after being downsized from her position in financial data processing, she was able to concentrate on what she enjoyed most — books.

As a customer of many used book stores, she observed what worked and what didn't. When the opportunity came to open her own shop, she incorporated all of the best ideas.

"With the industry controlled by large chains, small shops need to be creative in marketing," she said. For Mansour that means frequent reader cards, 75 cents a day best seller rentals, a book finder service and new books at discounted prices, along with a friendly approach to customers who gobble up as many as five to seven books weekly.

"It's the little ways you treat people well," said Mansour who is on a first-name basis with many of her customers. The newest area of growth for Mansour is service via the Internet. She said she receives numerous inquiries from many sources, via the Internet, whether former customers or referrals. "It's almost like word-of-mouth by Internet," she said.

Mansour is happy to fill requests and will mail books anywhere in the United States. She'll also recommend titles for readers who are looking to explore a new author.

At Read It Again Books, Mansour welcomes feedback from her customers. In addition to her used and new books, she has a growing section of collectibles as well.

it-yourselfer. That's where a professional like Peggy Johnson comes in, relieving those who haven't the time or patience to master the task.

"A lot of people just don't want to do it, they don't want to undertake the project," she said. Peggy is a third generation wallpaper expert, learning the skills from her father as she assisted and worked alongside him. And her experience, knowledge and background can help customers in more ways than one. Peggy joined Seal Design, LLC of Novi, as a part-time assistant to Lisa Seal ASID. "I'm really excited about this opportunity," Peggy said. "I'm now able to offer selections, which cannot be found in a retail environment."

Peggy also offers help during consultation in choosing wallpaper design if a customer has a difficult time deciding. During consultation, she has the experience to suggest areas that may need painting, trim or decorative molding. The trim and molding, which can often make a remarkable difference as well, is a service she can provide in conjunction with her husband. Painting services are also available. Peggy provides free in-home estimates and measurements so customers can purchase just the right amount of paper.

"My business is very gratifying," Peggy said. "It's a great feeling to leave a clients' home with a fresh new look that they will enjoy."

Nancy Smith • Wind River Gallery 400 N. Main St., Milford (248) 684-6044

Nancy Smith has seen lots of changes at Wind River Gallery throughout the years.

The gallery that she co-owns with her husband, Tim Smith, has evolved from mainly wildlife art to include a wide variety of artists, custom framing, and select gift items.

Nancy has found the gallery to be challenging and demanding, but the combination of art and people seems to be a perfect mix for her.

"I really do enjoy it," she said of managing Wind River Gallery. "I like coming to work."

"We're always in the process of changing, researching and pulling in new artists," Nancy said. "People are always asking 'what's new?' We do have to keep changing — that's how we can keep people coming in."

Two new artists who have been creating quite a stir, Nancy said, include Janet Treby and Spanish artist Royo. Both are know for their beautiful portrayal of women.

Wind River Gallery also displays many Michigan artists, as well as those known throughout the country and the world. Nancy enjoys having Milford talent in the store to. The beautiful wildlife photography of Carl Sams has been featured as well as the work of Lucy Musci who has sold several originals.

In addition to the studio, Wind River Gallery has quite a reputation for being "picky perfect" when it comes to the quality of its custom framing. Our goal is to have our customers happy, and completely satisfied.

In addition to the very discerning eye that Tim contributes, there's a whole roster of others who help keep Wind River running smoothly. In the frame room are Jan Lilly and Kathy Boonstra. Ginnie McDowell provides the expertise on the sales floor. Nancy Hinzmann is a recent addition, a long-time Milford resident and "wonderful" asset, Nancy said.

Cassidy Redden, a Milford High School student intern, rounds out the staff. "We have wonderful people who work here," Nancy said.

Realizing her taste may not always be the same as someone else's, she regularly solicits the staff's opinions on items selected for the shop. "It's good to have someone else's perspective. That's what makes it fun."

Which artist does she enjoy?

"My husband and I collect Edna Hibel. She does beautiful stone lithographs of women and children," Nancy said.

Wind River enjoys supporting area schools and local Milford events such as the Jaycees' Christmas For Kids. They're not in it for the kudos, they just want to be there for someone in need. Take a look at what's new and exciting in art that Wind River Gallery has to offer at 400 N. Main St. in Milford.

Interested in trying some health foods or homeopathic remedies?

Marty Ward suggests her "little-but-mighty" store, The Health Mart in Milford.

Whether you're already a knowledgeable and seasoned buyer of natural supplements or someone who has never before entered a health store, The Health Mart and its experienced staff is there to help, Ward said. "Our staff is very helpful, knowledgeable and caring," she said.

The Health Mart carries a variety of quality, natural supplements, a collection of health foods and homeopathic medicines.

Ward opened The Health Mart five years ago. Since then, she said, she and her staff have enjoyed serving the loyal customers of Milford. Ward said that she tries to keep the products her customers ask for the most in stock. "We try to order what the people here in Milford want," she explained. "We appreciate the loyalty we experience in our small town."

The store also offers free literature to aid customers in their choices or allow them to look up a particular product, Ward said. "We try to educate the public when we can," she said. "I have my own books here that the customers can use at any time.

Ward said she and her staff can help determine which supplements will work best for a particular individual.

The Health Mart is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday; and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays.

One step inside their new retail store in Walled Lake will prove that Paint Smart Studio is a paint store and a whole lot more, featuring premium paint, custom color matching, paint supplies, expert advice and exceptional service. Antiques, architectural artifacts, home and garden accessories are also for sale, creating a refreshing ambiance for a paint store. "We like to think of our studio as an 'Idea Store,' ... sit down, bring your samples, examine the many colors available and peruse our home decor library for ideas." They even have their own custom color line, "Smart Tints," with memorable names like Woodward, River Town Brick and Boston Boulevard Blue.

Selecting paint can be an intimidating and even frustrating process. Paint Smart wants buying paint to be a fun experience. "Paint is an important element in home decoration and maintenance, it can create a new and fresh look very inexpensively," said owner, Leslie Craigie, who believes purchasing paint for you home should be fun, creative and hassle free. Paint Smart even makes house calls.

Leslie, Craigie Paint Company's president, is a third generation of the Craigie family who founded the 81-year-old company. "We are very proud of our paint making heritage. We use only the best of resins and pigments when formulating our paint. We want your business for life, and we have customers that span three generations," comments Leslie. ## Rekha Kostecke, M.D. 425 W. Huron St., Ste. 140, Milford (248) 676-9862

"Healthy kids are happy kids." That's the motto that Rekha Kostecké, M.D. uses to run her Milford office. Through personal attention, extended office hours and an intimate office setting, Kostecke said she strives to give local parents a local doctor they can turn to for the care of their children.

Kostecke said her desire to give local parents a pediatrician they could go to in town, as well as her husband's roots in Milford, led her to open her primary pediatric care office. Previously she was working for several well established pediatric offices.

"I actually love being around children, and I can be very friendly to them," Kostecke explained. Kostecke said she makes a point of keeping evening and weekend hours in order to be more access sible to the families she serves. Affiliated with Huron Valley-Sinai Hospital and North Oakland Medical Center, Kostecke offers respiratory care and education for asthma patients, well child checkups, school and sports physicals and free visits for expectant parents.

By having an independent office, Kostecke said she is able to give parents and children valuable personalized service. While at a larger office or hospital parents may be seeing two or three different doctors depending on when their child visits, dealing with one doctor consistently leads to less confusion and better care for the child and parent, Kostecke said. "Even if they call me in the evening, I will know their condition having had seen them myself," she said.

Judy Doré

Judy Doré • Real Estate One Rymal Symes Novi (248) 349-4550, Ext. 216

A new adventure. That is how Judy Doré, a 14-year veteran in real estate, looks at the coming' changes for her and the company she works with.

After 32 years in the real estate business, her broker Conrad Jakubowski has decided to retire. In making his decision, he put much thought into the careers of the agents who had worked for Rymal Symes for many years. The level of professionalism these agents provided their clients was very important to him. And so, after much research and deliberation, he has agreed to merge with Real Estate One.

The merge with Real Estate One, ranked Michigan's No. 1 real estate company, will provide Doré with many more tools to work with. She is very excited about the idea of presenting a "virtual tour" on the Internet of all of the homes she sells. The relocation department of Real Estate One is a fully staffed department and the advertising budget allows more exposure for the properties she handles.

"When you work with the largest real estate company in Michigan, you just have more opportunity to do what you do best ... sell homes," she said. Completion of the new office location, on Main Street in Novi, should be by this summer. Judy will be happy to answer any questions about the move and the added benefits of working with Real Estate One, Inc. She can be reached at her office at (248) 349-4550, Ext. 216.

Penny Lewis • Leather Options by Penny 2225 E. Highland Road, Highland (248) 889-7891 fax (248) 889-0855

For Penny Lewis, opening Leather Options by Penny was "a new adventure." For her customers, it's an opportunity to fill their homes with upscale, classically-designed leather furniture and accessories.

Lewis, who opened the store on March 1, said it features items with both traditional and contemporary designs of the highest quality.

Seeing the extensive growth in the Highland area is what motivated Lewis to open the leather furniture store, she said. "I feel that with all of the new homes in the area going up people would want a place to shop for nicer furniture and nicer things," she said.

"We do special designs," she explained. "We can fit the furniture to your needs. If you see it as a sofa and need it as a loveseat, we can do that. If you see it in blue and want it in green, we can do that, too."

Lewis' store features furniture and accessories for the living room and carries Serta mattresses and headboards.

As the owner of two adult foster care homes for elderly women, Penny Brook, 2848 Hartland Road in Hartland (810) 632-6274 and Penny Lane, 1305 Ford Road in White Lake (248) 887-0616, each housing 12 residents — Lewis has her hands full with her new occupation.

But searching for the right pieces and working with customers to find the ideal furnishings for their new home is work she enjoys, Lewis said. "New homes need a new look," she said.

"It's a whole store effort and everybody here works together," she said.

A soft, comfortable environment is what you'll find at LaFontaine Cadillac in Highland. Antiques, wallpaper and a carefully designed store makes the statement that this is a family-centered business where customers are welcomed as friends. As a family-run business, Maureen LaFontaine stands as vice-president of the dealer group that includes her son Ryan, who is the new car and truck sales manager, as well as her daughter, Kelley Hinsperger, who is the corporate assistant at the dealership. Two other children, Mike Jr. and Christie, work at the Dearborn LaFontaine dealership. Husband Mike LaFontaine is president of the dealer group.

As a community-friendly business and long-time area residents, the LaFontaine's take pride in taking part in local parades and community events. The dealership won the first-ever award given for Christmas decorations last year in Highland. A past-president of the Cadillac Michigan Group Association, Maureen is also a member of the Huron Valley Business Association and the Highland Business Association. Featuring a full line of Pontiacs, Cadillacs and GMC trucks, the dealership also offers a full service and parts department.

Robin McCarthy • Providence Medical Center 1155 N. Milford Road, Milford (248) 685-0661

Enthusiasm and care are what Robin McCarthy wants people to see when they walk into Milford's Providence Medical Center. McCarthy, a Milford resident and clinical manager for Providence Medical Center, strives to make patients feel they are in good hands at Providence.

Providence focuses on health of body, mind and spirit. Services include family practice, internal medicine, GYN and birthing services, X-ray and allergy. The practice will relocate Providence Medical Centers — Providence Park — to Novi in the future.

Providence is growing and more women physicians have joined the staff. A registered nurse team leader pulls together the educational aspects of health care. Nurses explain diet, treatments and health information to patients.

"It's just as important to be involved in the community," McCarthy commented. The staff enjoys offering health events like Women's Night Out, an evening favorite offering fashion, food and health information; Prostate Day, held in the fall, offers free screenings and exams for men; and Health-O-Rama. Staff members also work the first-aid tents during Milford Memories, and this year's New Year's Eve celebration; and have fun in the raft race during Milford Memories.

McCarthy who began as an emergency room nurse, eventually moving into administration, is enjoying her 20th year at Providence and looks forward to many more.

"We have such a great staff here," she enthused. "We really are a part of our Milford community."

You don't have to head to Boston for a "Cheers" like atmosphere. With Poole's Tavern in Northville, good friends and great food are right in your neighborhood, says owner, Mary Poole. The friendly atmosphere now offers even more menu choices, thanks to their new chef, Matt Jagusch.

"The biggest contribution he's made to the menu is the ribs. They fall off the bone, they're just awesome," said Poole. Daily specials features entrees like charbroiled swordfish, salmon and prime rib. For an outdoor dining experience, the patio is open with new custom-built tables.

"We have over 12 beers on tap and 30 different bottled beers, and the biggest selection of specialty liqueurs than I've seen anywhere in the country," she adds.

Looking for fun on a Thursday night? This summer they'll feature entertainment from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Rob Burger will entertain with classical rock and Dr. Stopa and his father will play jazz and blues on alternating Thursdays.

The tavern is a family business where Mary and her husband, Rich; daughter, Jessica; as well as sister, Janis Major, pitch in.

Poole's passion for art continues as she works on her degree in fine arts at Eastern Michigan University. A sampling of her artwork can be seen at the tavern. This summer she'll travel to Florence and Rome for a class in art history and drawing.

Poole is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Northville Rotary and the Northville Central Business Association.

Since 1986, Karen Butchart BC-HIS, has been providing hearing care to Livingston County's hearing impaired. Karen is a state licensed hearing aid dealer as well as National Board Certified in Hearing Instrument Sciences.

The goal of owning her own practice was met in October of '98 with the opening of Advanced Hearing Care. She says her business name was chosen to reflect her commitment to the hearing impaired community. She offers the latest technological advances in the hearing health care field in a caring supportive environment.

A multi line supplier with most major manufacturers available, Karen states, "Today's advanced hearing technologies offer many hearing aid models in all price ranges." A favorite manufacturer of Karen's is Starkey Labs. They offer a complete line which includes advanced digital products and they too have a strong commitment to the hearing impaired. Starkey contributes a portion of all sales to the Starkey Foundation, which donated 33,000 hearing aids across nation last year alone.

The first step when hearing loss is suspected is to have a complete hearing loss evaluation performed by Butchart or the staff audiologist. Advanced Hearing accepts most insurances, appointment times are flexible with evenings, Saturdays and in-home service available.

Advanced Hearing Care is now located at 8023 W. Grand River Ave. in the Park Place Plaza in Brighton. Locally call (810) 494-4327 or toll free (888) 994-HEAR.

Behind the scenes of Milford Saddlery lies a lifetime of experience. Owner, Leslie Marsac, said she is thrilled to have such support from local horse enthusiasts and advisory board members, Kathy Bogetta and Dorothy Mueller. Bogetta, a Michigan 4-H, POAC and Pinto Horse Association Certified Judge and is a trainer and riding instructor at her facility in Highland. Mueller is a U.S. Dressage Federation "L" judge, trainer and instructer who has successfully shown at the Grand Prix level. Marsac grew up with horses; it's a lifestyle that's good for the soul, she says and now she assists other horse owners in their search for quality riding apparel and tack for the English and Western rider.

"Opening a tack store in this area was definitely a good idea," Marsac said. "Business has really taken off and we've expanded both our English and Western departments."

Milford Saddlery carries quality brand-name saddles, equipment and supplies. "We can outfit the show person with the latest styles from top to bottom and give them a winning look," she said. "Or we can set the casual rider up in jeans and a comfortable T-shirt that might say; 'Don't like my riding, call 1 (800) Too Bad." For those looking for a bargain they can look in the "Ride Again" department for consignment items like used saddles, equipment and riding apparel.

Milford Saddlery is a full-service store dedicated to helping people and promoting the horse industry. Services include custom saddle fitting, tack and blanket repair, embroidery, special order, video tape rentals and educational seminars.

Assisting the many people moving into the bustling Novi area while emphasizing to them the benefits and value of AAA is the task that agent Esther DiLorenzo, Pam Capper Adams and Julie Herron face happily at their AAA Michigan Sales Agency.

"We knew Novi was going to be a very progressive area with all the new home construction and the number of people from around the world who are being relocated to the area," they explained. "After we opened our office, we came to love Novi and we all wound up moving to the area ourselves."

The Novi Sales Agency offers AAA Michigan memberships, automobile, homeowners, boat and motorcycle insurance. Life Specialist, Gene Lemberg, offers life insurance, disability, annuities and our newly available long-term care product. Our customers also enjoy the "Show Your Card" program which offers discounts at area businesses, hotels and motels, as well as the AAA 24 Hour Road Service Benefits. AAA Michigan offers discounts on auto and homeowner's insurance to members of qualifying credit unions, members of professional organizations, and Platinum credit card holders.

"We work hard to develop a rapport with our customers," they indicated. "We always explain everything to our insureds so they know exactly what their benefits and insurance coverages provide to them." We try hard to be professionals that "you can count on" and are very proud to be representatives of the Auto Club of Michigan.

Nancy Weeks • Huron Valley Schools Credit Union 290 N. John St., Highland (248) 887-0666

From modest beginnings, Nancy Weeks CEO of Huron Valley Schools Credit Union, has seen tremendous growth from a one-room school house to a brand new 3,100 square-foot facility.

The addition has also allowed them to expand a number of services. The credit union now offers a drive-through service, drive-through ATM, and night deposit as well as expanded hours of operation. There's also the School Bell Lines, an automated banking system allowing members to do account inquiries and transactions 24 hours a day by phone.

The credit union is open to school employees, parents of children who attend Huron Valley Schools as well as any employee of a business within a 25 mile radius of the facility.

"Our new focus this year is to get the word out that we're not just a credit union for school employees, we're open to lots of other people in the community," Weeks said.

Sherry Gorman • Consignment Clothiers 42945 Seven Mile Road, Northville (248) 347-4570

Sherry Gorman invites you to discover a better way to shop. At Consignment Clothiers, you'll find name brand and designer labels you love without the designer price.

In business since 1989, the store offers hope for both the shopping addict with a closet full of beautiful clothes they haven't worn, as well as those who can't afford their champagne tastes. Focusing on designer and name brands, Consignment Clothiers carry apparel for women and children from newborn to size 14, including boys.

A high turnover of merchandise benefits the shopper and consignor with nearly 500 garments arrive daily. You'll find only the current styles, and nothing over two years old, thanks to Sherry's highly selective staff, who are trained to sift out what people will buy.

"Whatever we pick, we have 75-85 percent sell. That's high considering you have 12,000 consignors," she said.

Although there are lots of resale stores popping up, Sherry says they're still in business for good reason. First, the attractive displays — operational manager Peggy Switaj says that people often comment, "'It looks like a retail store.' That's a big component. We have special display people who do that."

Second is their service. They offer a return policy, layaways and no appointments are necessary for consignors and they're open seven days a week.

"I figure when you're done cleaning out your closet, you're ready to just get rid of it," Sherry said.

Diane Sanville • Consignment Interiors 43235 Seven Mile Road, Northville (248) 347-4731

Keeping your home in style, while keeping in your budget can be tough. Consignment Interiors would like to help with that challenge.

"You'll find anything for interior decor, including sofas, chairs, tables, lamps, linens, bath and kitchen ware as well," said owner, Diane Sanville.

Our store is a little unique in that we set up different areas," she explains. "We have a living room area, a kitchen area and an 'artsy' area."

How can she offer such great prices? In addition to customers, she brings in merchandise through other creative ways. For example, she also purchases furniture from model homes, auctions or store buyouts. A high turnover of merchandise is an indication of the quality of pieces they carry, noting the big pieces sell immediately.

"It's a great way to redecorate a home," she said.

Sanville says manager, Delores Czernik and assistant manager, Melody White use their design background to keep the store looking attractive. The entire staff works well together, she adds.

"I love all the gals that work for me. It's a good working environment, there a lot of camaraderie." Look for her Web site in the near future. She hopes to expand to a larger area to accommodate even a greater selection of merchandise. Solve your decor and budget problems at Consignment Interiors, located between Haggerty and Northville Road in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center.

Other improvements to that area include sidewalks for pedestrian and bike traffic, as well as continuing the decorative street lighting.

She's able to assist businesses in finding a suitable location downtown and working with the city officials. Publicizing and recruiting business is an important part of White's job.

"If anyone is interested in leasing space, buying property or opening a business, we can tell you what's available," she notes.

She is currently focusing on filling vacant properties. This year has also seen physical improvements to Mercer beach, which has greatly enhanced the old Downtown District. And of course, Walled Lake continues to offer special events such as Market Days and the Ice Festival. The women of Brighton Honda-Mazda-Daewood are proving that their gender can find great success in the auto business. Owner Jeanne Jones, who has been in the business herself for 24 years, said the dealership is always looking for woman to fill positions because of the success they bring to the business.

"It's a unique business for women to get into," Jones said. "Some are intimidated, but women do very well in the auto industry. It is a women-friendly environment to work at and do business at." Since 1991, Brighton Honda-Mazda-Daewood has provided top quality automobiles and service with a strong focus on working with the customer to educate them on what they're buying.

The dealership offers a full range of sales, parts and service for Honda, Mazda and Daewood from all makes and models of new and used cars. All pre-owned vehicles are fully inspected late model vehicles with low mileage. The product lines offered are consistently rated at the very top of their respective groups. The automobiles offered at Brighton Honda-Mazda-Daewood are leading in the areas of owner loyalty, reliability and resale value.

And because the cars are so high in quality, sales representatives are free to give their undivided attention to the customer while educating them on the automobiles.

In the shop, highly skilled technicians do all types of repairs, including detailing and quick oil changes. They service most import automobiles and accept many different types of insurance.

Diane Wise • BABY BABY 153 E. Main St., Northville (248) 347-2229

Great news! Moms-to-be don't have to spend a bundle on the latest trends in maternity clothes. BABY BABY receives maternity clothes everyday on consignment and carries the more popular brand names such as Mimi, Maternite and Pea in the Pod.

Moms have discovered that wearing the right clothes during pregnancy can make a big difference in how they look and feel. Since maternity clothes are worn for such a short time they arrive in excellent condition and are sold for a fraction of the original cost.

A two-piece Mimi maternity business suit purchased new for $160 sells at BABY BABY for $59. Another option is to rent an elegant evening dress for that special occasion. It costs only $25 to rent for the weekend and BABY BABY takes care of the dry cleaning.

Consignors receive up to 60 percent of the selling price, which is a great incentive to clean out those closets after the baby is born and earn some extra cash. No appointment is necessary and consignors can conveniently drop off clothes at any time. As an extra bonus, consignors receive 10 percent off their purchases and there is a separate children's play area to entertain the kids while mom shops.

So bring in your gently-worn kid's wear and maternity clothes and turn them in to cash. Stop by soon to see what's new at BABY BABY.

Mondy Miller loves decorating. She also loves to travel.

Put them together, and you have a woman who brings to Brighton some of the finest, handmade rugs from around the world. Mondy opened Heirloom Oriental Rugs nearly seven years ago in downtown Brighton. In her store she carries a variety of high quality, stylish rugs made of wool or silk from countries such as China, India, Pakistan and Tibet.

She said it's the personal attention that customers receive at her store that pulls them in from not only Livingston County but from places such as Farmington and Birmingham. She believes in educating the customer before they purchase and will take the time to explain how a rug is made and why it is different from any other rug.

"Learning about the rug increases the customer's appreciation for this art form," she said.

Customers will discover rugs in all sizes, shapes and designs at Heirlooms. The store has tapestries, tribal rugs and casual rugs ranging in size from 2-by-3 feet to 18-by-20 feet.

Heirloom Oriental Rugs also has rugs with geometric designs, Aubusson, and Indian rugs with large patterns, which are popular as well as versatile. They can be used in either a casual or formal setting. The store also carries original oil paintings and offers in-home consultations.

Heirloom Oriental Rugs is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Although it may have taken some convincing from her husband to get Sue Schram to join him in starting their company, AmeriTrust Realty, her work in helping people buy their first homes has made the move a rewarding decision.

"I especially enjoy helping people who are buying their first home — it's very satisfying to be a part in seeing their dream of home ownership become a reality," Schram said.

After her husband, Wally, first announced in 1996 that he wanted to start his own real estate company specializing in commercial, industrial and residential real estate. Schram agreed to get her real estate license and work on the residential side. She had previously worked at the school her children attended — a position she enjoyed because it allowed her to be close to them while growing up. Her two grown daughters are now married and the Schrams have four grandchildren.

"Life at AmeriTrust Realty can be hectic, but that's to be expected when business is going well," Schram said. "Although it sometimes is months working with someone to find their ideal home, I enjoy getting to know my customers and feel they are more than customers — they are friends!"

The Schrams moved just north of Howell in 1993 and built a home on three acres. After commuting to previous employment in Farmington Hills for some time, they opened a home office and later AmeriTrust's Brighton office. Schram said she has enjoyed her interactions with other members of the real estate business throughout the community and looks forward to helping more people with their real estate needs.

At Healthstyles Physical Rehabilitation licensed physical therapists, Barbara Herzog and Sandra Jenkins, have helped a multitude of patients. Therapists in the South Lyon office, and the new Brighton location, work as a team with referring physicians, providing individual care and instruction with an emphasis on continued well-being and health.

The team includes certified occupations therapy assistant, Jennifer Lesz and registered occupational therapists, Kathy Rigley and Linda BeVier. BeVier is also a certified hand therapist. Together they offer extensive experience in orthopedics, pain management, neck and back pain, mysofascial release, post-surgical rehabilitation, neurological conditions as well as general and industrial rehabilitation. Children and adults with special difficulties are referred to Lynda Pierce, speech pathologist, MS/CCC/SLP.

Healthstyles also consults and designs preventative education for industry and community. Special programs include a Lymphedema Clinic for Breast Cancer patients, Aquatic Therapy, Massage Therapy and Fitness Enhancement for Golf.

They welcome invitations to speak to local organizations, corporations and schools and participate in statewide charities such as Athletes Unlimited, focusing on fund raising, scholarships, grants, research and athletic opportunities for those who are physically challenged in some way.

Although Lynn Glover and Karen Mertz are the only two female employees of the company, they aren't afraid to be helpful in shipping or packing or at the order desk. They're also highly knowledgeable about their product, which is a great asset to the company.

Karen Mertz has been working part time at MMS for the past three years, and enjoys the challenge of trying something new. Showing great work ethic, Karen welcomes new responsibilities and a chance to increase her knowledge.

"I'm always learning something new. I really like that. Sometimes the guys will ask me to put something together. So I'll sit up front and put things together while I answer the phone," she said.

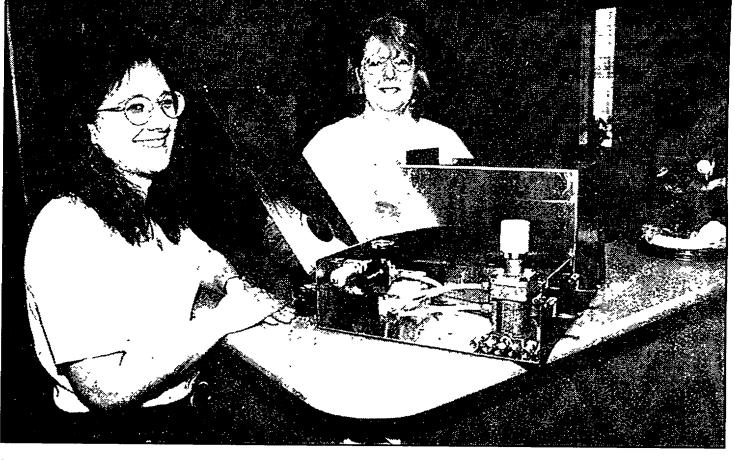

The feeling is mutual between all the employees, several employees serving there for over 10 years.

"We all help each other out. It's a nice environment to work in," Mertz said. "You can't find company loyalty like that anymore, they're wonderful."

The two women credit owner Tim Smith for the work-friendly atmosphere.

"I think that Tim is one of the most sincere and pleasant people that I've ever worked for," Mertz said.

Lynn Glover, who was hired six years ago as an inventory specialist, agrees.

Lynn Glover and Karen Mertz

"He cares about all of us. He's very supportive, we're all family here."

Smith says that Glover and Mertz are the "women in the know" at MMS.

"They keep things churning for us, they keep the wheels lubricated in the office that allows us to do what we do."

Michigan Manufacturing Services and Assembly Company designs, develops and manufactures high-quality spray and lubrication for stamping and industrial base businesses. Their clientele covers a wide range of customers, large and small, including the auto companies.

For example, they build lubrication systems for overhead con-veyor plants, systems on motor vehicles, food processing systems, sewage treatment plants, and even chicken farms in Ohio.

"We get called in by machine manufacturers to build systems that will lubricate on an interval basis," Smith said.

Learning the products has been a challenge for Glover, but it has improved her ability to assist customers in the order desk and with parts. She notes that the company has been in business for more than 50 years, and systems have been distributed across the United States, England, Mexico and Canada.

Glover also does the bookkeeping and inventory for Smith's other business, Wind River Gallery in Milford, and enjoys the diversity that provides.

It's common for people to recommend their family members and friends to the massage therapists at Duane Karr & Associates Massage Clinic & Store.

After serving the Huron Valley area with high quality massage therapy for more than 22 years, Duane Karr said the business feels honored by the community for its support, and strives to continue to offer quality service to the public — whether they're seeking effective pain relief or to simply enjoy a relaxing massage.

Duane Karr and her staff of massage therapists (six female and one male) provide excellent therapeutic, sports, and relaxation massage. Most massage sessions use Swedish massage while other techniques of acuppressure, reflexology, myofascial work, and craniosacral therapy are also available.

"For clients with chronic pain, we are normally able to decrease if not totally eliminate the pain," Karr said.

Karr said the therapists often act as detectives to determine what action in a client's daily life is stressing a particular muscle group before attempting to balance the muscles.

The massage therapists work with all ages — their youngest client is 2 months old and the oldest is 95, Karr said. A massage chair is also available for clients on the run who may be in pain or just want to increase their sense of well being. We are: The best place to be kneaded!

And if the candy brings you in, the great service and friendly atmosphere will keep you coming back. What began as a research in candy making, later evolved into a complete gift shop. In addition to the shoppe's signature homemade candy, you'll find Ty products, American Girl Doll Clothes, U of M, Michigan State, Boyd's and Pokemon collectibles as well as greeting cards, candles, gift baskets and many, many more gift items.

The idea for Connie Kelley's shop started four years ago, when she began searching for an alternative to sugar for her son, who was born with severe allergies to it.

After some thorough research and experimentation, she began creating her own homemade chocolates, using no preservatives or wax. The result was a taste that can't compare to typical box candy. Four years later, she opened her shop, providing popular treats for diabetics as well as those with the traditional sweet tooth.

It's no surprise that the shop's specialties include exquisite chocolate creations with over 1,000 molds for candy and chocolate. Since its hand made, its fresher and can also be personalized for any occasion. "If you don't know what to buy for someone, try coming here, it's a pleasant place to browse," Kelley said.

aloné Nadwa and Day Spa in Novi, Michigan's largest salon and spa, celebrated five years of business success last November. Master stylist and owner Nadwa Yono has found the secret to creating an environment that caters to the mind, body and spirit.

"Our growth is the result of our friendliness, providing good service and continuing education," commented Nadwa. "It's the drive we all have here. I never imagined we would have grown this big, this fast," she added.

she added. As the wedding season approaches, Saloné Nadwa and Day Spa can offer brides peace of mind knowing they will look and feel spectacular on their special day. Skin care specialists can help brides shed those last few inches the week of the wedding through a cellulite treatment, ensuring their dress will fit perfectly. Using pure, natural ingredients to gently stimulate the body to shed toxins, a complete body wrap fin-ishes the process, leaving the skin feeling firm and smooth. The bio-actif restructuring facial is perfect not only for brides but also for mother-of-the-bride, as it revives dull winter skin, and gives the skin a fresh appearance.

Makeup done professionally by the makeup artists on staff com-pletes the bridal parties one-of-a-kind look. The salon carries products by Ilmakiage, Bodygraphy, and the perfecting La Bella Donna line. To create a look that will be admired for a lifetime, Nadwa can create three wedding looks with one veil. By considering hair length, color, face shape and wedding dress style, Nadwa will help you deter-mine the look that suits you best. A complimentary consultation appointment is provided before the formal styling.

Bridal packages are a perfect way to banish stress the week of the wedding. Bridal parties can come for a day at the spa that includes lunch, a one-hour Swedish massage, spa facial, French manicure, and Gehwol European foot care treatment.

Saloné Nadwa and Day Spa opened in 1994, and in its 5,200 square-foot beautifully appointed facility, the body, mind and spirit receive personalized attention and care. More than pampering, Nadwa believes friendliness combined with continuing education is what sets her salon apart.

"The education here makes everyone good at the services we provide," Nadwa said. "And it's not about pampering here — it's about taking care of ourselves from the outside in, head to toe and about how it makes us feel.'

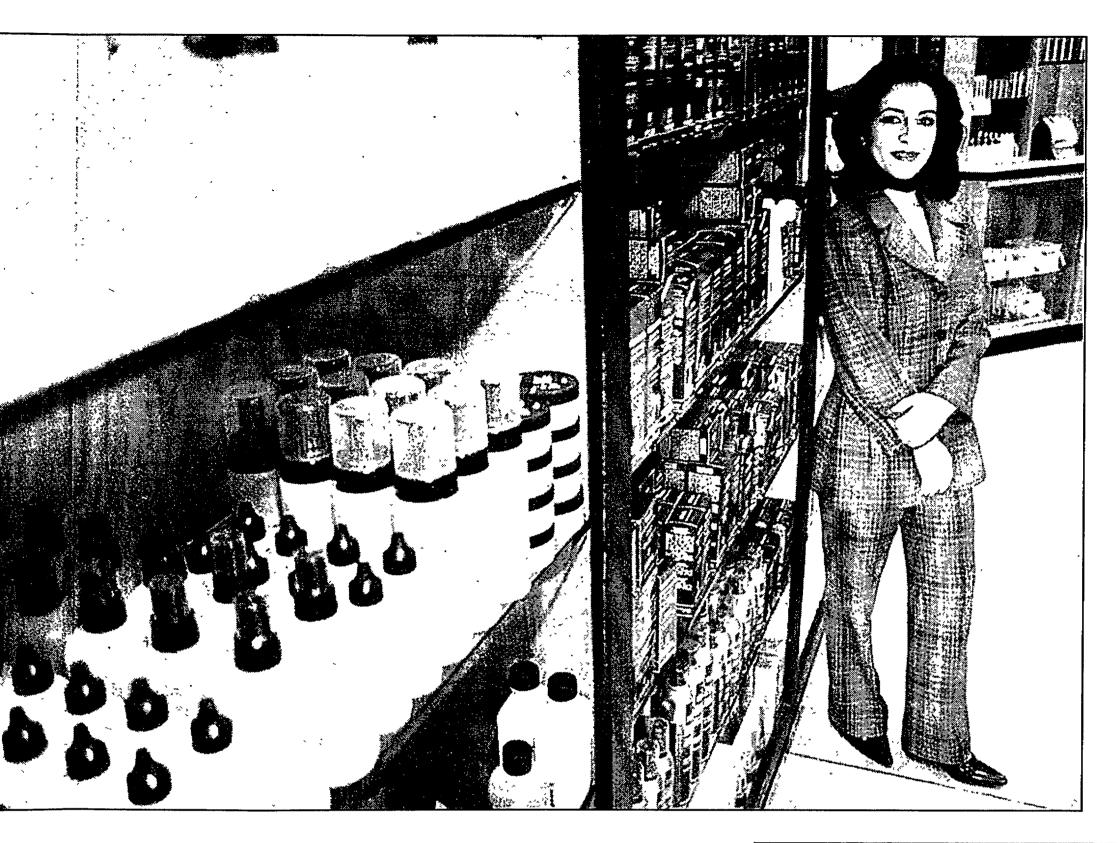

A new avenue for the salon and spa is providing spa services for private parties and businesses. While golf outings are popular with men, many companies are finding spa retreats to be great alternatives. By combining spa services with seminar speakers, attendees come away rejuvenated as well as enlightened. Saloné Nadwa and Day Spa can accommodate company parties of four to 30, for a few hours or a full day.

Personalized service is the focus at Saloné Nadwa and Day Spa. Known for precision haircuts, the hair stylist on staff consistently train and travel the country to remain on top of the industry standards.

Facial treatments in private rooms encourage relaxation while perfecting the skin. The spa facial includes light cleansing; exfoliation; face, shoulder and neck massage; a customized mask and hydration.

Classic deep pore cleansing facials and customized facials based on specific skin types and needs are just a few of the more than 16 skin treatments available. Designed to restore your mind, body and spirit, spa treatments in quiet individual rooms include 21 facial and body treatments. nine specialty massages, eight body therapies including seaweed mineral wraps, mineral salt scrubs and cellulite reduction treatments. Complete body hair waxing, electrolysis and permanent makeup are offered. Complete foot and hand treatments provide the polishing touch. Saloné Nadwa and Day Spa offers the exclusive Gehwol (German for "walk well") European foot and leg treatments. French manicures, hot oil treatments, and acrylic nails are but a few of the other services available in the nail department.

"The education here makes everyone good at the services we provide. And it's not about pampering here — it's about taking care of ourselves from the outside in, head to toe and about how it makes us feel."

Mulberry Lane's new home in a stately Victorian on Grand River Avenue in Howell is a perfect fit. The warm, spacious home offers all that owner Lana Socia wants to reflect with her store which has a unique mixture of new, used and antiques items.

"I have always loved this house," said owner Lana Socia. "I always thought it would make a wonderful place for a shop like this. I like to see the homes like this preserved."

With the new location, Socia's floor space has nearly doubled in size. Her lines are growing all of the time. She offers antiques, quality used furniture, collectibles, music, jewelry, garden smocks and many other unique items. "I like to keep a big variety from country to Victorian," she said.

Socia has been in the new store since mid-November when she moved from her first location on Michigan Avenue. Donna Johnson creates the decorating and design settings. "I really value her friendship and creativity," Socia said. "I couldn't do the store without her."

As the weather gets warmer, Socia will be planting in her Victorian garden out front. The wrought iron fence surrounding the garden was custom-built for Socia by Vern Brockway. When it is completed Socia will carry fountains, arbors, statues, and Victorian-themed lawn ornaments.

Socia takes pride in the unique items her store has to offer.

"People come in here all of the time for ideas," Socia said. "Most of the time they see what we've done and they want to buy all of it right off the walls and take it home."

In 1991, Charlene Hatfield and her husband, Randy, found a niche or maybe it was a "stitch" in the market that they could fill.

Realizing there was no needlework or knit shop in the area, Charlene and Randy opened their store called Stitch in Time in Howell. By 1997, the couple had moved to their current location in a home built in the late 1800's, filling it with as much antique furniture and inventory as possible.

Now celebrating its ninth anniversary, Stitch in Time offers a complete line of needlework supplies and classes, friendly service and free advise.

"We offer a friendly atmosphere here," Charlene said. "People are welcome to come in and stitch in front of the fireplace."

The store offers high quality yarns, knitting supplies, weaving looms, cross stitch, needlepoint, patterns, ribbons, fibers and other supplies. The store, also carries plush Boyd's Bears collectibles at the Beary Best price including the new spring line. Charlene has seen a steady increase in the popularity of knitting.

• "Knitting is really taking off with the younger generation. It's very relaxing, good therapy and the 'in' thing to do. There is a feeling of accomplishment when you knit a sweater, wear it and someone compliments you on it," Charlene said.

Kristen Beck-Knight is living a life-long dream by sharing her dance experience with others as the proprietor of Milford Dance Academy. "I love what I do and thank God every day for allowing me the opportunity to teach the art of dance to others," she said.

Dancing since the age of 3, Beck-Knight credits the experience to allowing her to have the confidence and ambition to be able to do anything in life.

At Milford Dance Academy she seeks to pass on that enjoyment and expertise in a variety of classes geared to ages 2 1/2 through adult. Classes in tap, jazz, ballet, lyrical, hip hop, kick boxing, aerobics, tumble tots and gymnastics are taught by a well-trained, dedicated staff. Noncompetitive as well as competition classes are offered.

"I have a wonderful staff here at Milford Dance Academy who enjoy working with the children," Beck-Knight said. Open only three years, Milford Dance Academy's competitive group, The Starline Dancers, have already won top awards in regional competitions. "We're excited about going to Nationals next year," enthused Beck-Knight.

Beck-Knight, a Milford resident, loves taking her dance to the community. Through participating in parades, entertaining at the senior center or other events, she enjoys being part of the community. "I grew up in Milford and enjoy sharing my business and being part of the downtown," she said. "I have taught my students how much fun dance can be."

Don't let the stress of real estate get you down. Raise your flag for a little SOS. At Century 21 Susan Kumpula and Sandy Watson are the dynamic duo known as SOS. Working as a team, they launched their "Susan or Sandy" concept a year ago, and have found great success. "We want to thank everyone who has helped launch our boat," Susan said. "It's been a great year," Sandy chimed in.

The two real estate whizzes bring a welcomed human approach to the business with their warm and inviting personalities. But don't let their humor fool you. These women are dedicated pros. Often their customers are surprised to reach them in the wee hours. "We work hard behind the scenes," Sandy said, adding they give clients the most for their money. "We're always available for their needs, questions, worries or concerns," commented Susan.

First time buyers especially like working with the two agents. They willingly handle the stress of the business for buyers and sellers. "Yeah, we take the stress out on each other," laughed Sandy. "Our enthusiasm sells the real estate, because we fall in love with the houses," Susan added.

The best part is helping people find a home. Susan has even been known to bake cookies at her open houses. "There's nothing better than seeing people walk in and say, 'this is it,'" she said.

Their motto says it all. "Buying or selling - don't stress. Call SOS.

Nancy Jackson and Geraldine Newman want to turn your bedroom into a personal retreat. "Basically, we're dedicated to making the bedroom into a comfortable sanctuary. It's the last stronghold in our hectic world," said co-owner Nancy Jackson.

At Blissful Bedding, you'll find everything to beautify your boudoir. For starters, their sheets are of the highest quality — all Egyptian cotton or Egyptian cotton and linen, pure and without chemicals.

"They wear forever, they get softer and softer as you wash them," she said. "They're called the heirloom sheets, because you can hand them down."

Come celebrate spring with their new arrivals. You'll find some wonderful spring prints with lots of fresh colors, in yellows, blues, greens and the new neutrals. They also carry a full range of down products.

"We have a light weight down blanket that sells all year long, they're great cuddlers," Jackson said. They've recently become affiliated with Palais Royale, and are licensed to carry all of their products, including table linens, lingerie and bath products.

Owners Jackson and Newman retired from their government jobs and wanted to do something fun for a change. Both enjoyed decorating in their own home, so opening up Blissful Bedding was a nátural choice. They will also make house calls to help coordinate bedding.

They're members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Northville Downtown Merchants.

Visit Blissful Bedding from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily; Thursday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

Creating specialty gift baskets for all occasions — holidays, special events, customer appreciation, and more. The Gift Wizard can conjure up just the special touch to convey your sentiments.

Whether for individual customers or large corporations, the baskets are always custom-created and professionally presented. Jeanette manages the inventory and supplies the artistry with unique arrangements. Teresa, with a background in marketing, handles the business end of the home-based company.

"Think of our company not just as a gift supplier, but as a personal gift consultant or extension of your marketing department," Teresa said. After listening to a client's needs, the partners take care of the details. "Our job is to make our customers look good and make it easier on them, and make people happy. From pasta to pastries, gourmet gift baskets are especially popular. The food is always of the highest quality and is arranged in unique designs. But anything can be chosen to fill one of their baskets. Baby items, bath products or unique gifts to fit the occasion make up their custom work.

Teresa and Jeanette believe in keeping their business current. By attending shows and seminars, they emphasize learning innovative techniques in design and follow trends in the industry. Soon they will open their Web site for business. Large orders are no problem and Gift Wizard offers local delivery and ships nationwide.

homeopathic medicine, said Margaret Paris, FNP of Medica Health Care Center.

"Homeopathic medicine is in a renaissance period," Margaret said. "It is a non-chemical approach ... and is in a renaisance period in this country. The remedies, used wisely, are safe. Because no chemicals are involved, there are no allergic reactions, side effects, habituating or addictive characteristics."

Margaret has more than 25 years of experience as a homeopathic practitioner. She graduated from Henry Ford School of Nursing and the University of North Dakota School of Rural Medicine as a physician's assistant and nurse practitioner.

Homeopathic medicine stimulates the system, restoring health. It can provide relief from many problems such as attention deficit disorder, pre-menstrual syndrome, multiple sclerosis, infertility, endometriosis, headaches, otitis media, common colds and more. The relief can be quite dramatic at times. The beauty of it is, homeopathic medicine doesn't interact or interfere with regular prescription drugs, so if someone is being treated for asthma for instance, that person would continue their regular prescription until it is safe to reduce or eliminate.

Many parents feel comfortable with homeopathic medicine because it provides a safe way to treat many childhood illnesses at home. Though there is an increase of resistance to antibiotics, homeopathic medicine does not share that problem and continues to be effective.

Dr. Barbara H. Huckabee, D.D.S. 402 Union St., Milford (248) 684-0042

Turn of the century charm and modern dental technology create a winning combination for Dr. Barbara H. Huckabee's Milford dental practice. Her office at 402 Union St. blends 100 years of local tradition with today's contemporary dentistry. The office is located in a Victorian house built in 1897 by a physician, Dr. Black.

During the restoration process, every effort was made to retain key historic features of the house. The original floor grilles were refitted to cover the new ductwork. The fireplace remains in the reception room and the oak paneling remains around the bay window.

"It was a unique challenge to blend the best features of the past with the technology of the present," explained Dr. Huckabee. "People expect health care to be delivered in an up-to-date environment."

The patient care rooms are therefore all designed with the newest dental systems, with emphasis placed on providing personalized care in a friendly, calm, less-hurried environment. "We want our patients to feel as though their individual concerns have been addressed," added Dr. Huckabee.

By following a "first things first" principle, Dr. Huckabee begins by listening to a patient's concerns, evaluates and then prioritizes, starting with those procedures that will have the most significant impact on the patient's oral health.

Dr. Huckabee's dental practice also includes cosmetic dentistry, such as procedures to enhance one's smile or whiten teeth. However, these elective procedures are only appropriate for healthy teeth and gums.

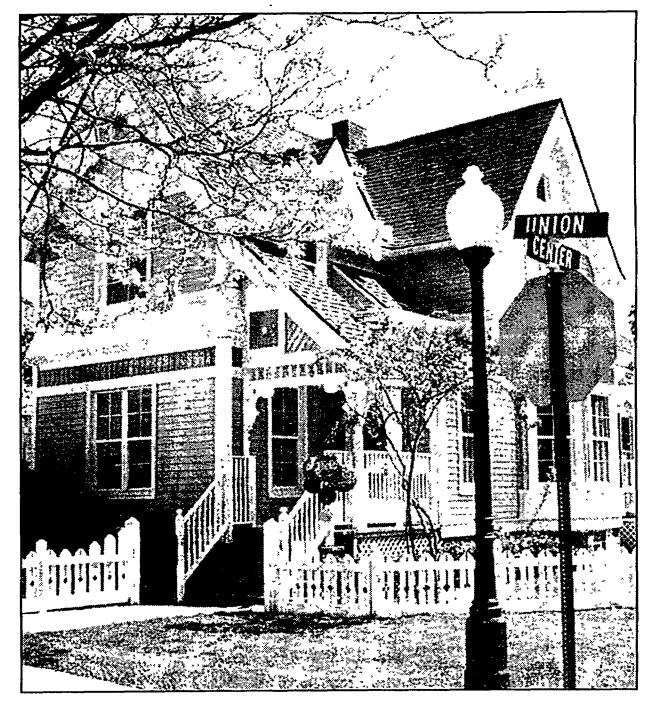

Dr. Huckabee and her staff stress preventative dental care. When a healthy diet is combined with good home care and regular dental check-up visits, people should expect to keep their teeth for a lifetime. Oral health is often reflective of a patient's health in general, Dr. Huckabee points out. An unhealthy diet, lifestyle or stress level may lead to cavities, gum disease and poor oral health. Systemic diseases like diabetes do not cause gum disease, but contribute to the severity of the problem. People under stress may be grinding or clenching their teeth.

"Sometimes just identifying the problem can intercept this behavior," she points out.

Dr. Huckabee's educational background includes a bachelor of science degree and master's degree in human growth and development from Wayne State University. In 1985, she received her doctorate from the University of Michigan's School of Dentistry.

She has been a family practice dentist for 15 years. Dr. Huckabee is a member of the American Dental Association, the Michigan Dental Association and the Detroit Dental Society.

New patients are welcomed. Appointments can be made by calling (248) 684-0042. People coming to the office will find a calm, friendly atmosphere and caring, attentive staff enthusiastic about providing patients with quality dental care.

Dr. Anna Chong-Huszti, D.D.S. Chong-Huszti Dental Care 1185 S. Milford Road, Highland (248) 887-5292

Dr. Anna Chong-Huszti loves her chosen career and heartily recommends it to any young women as a great field.

"I remember it wasn't that long ago when there were virtually no female dentists," Dr. Chong-Hustzi remarked.

Helping smiles become whiter and brighter is the most gratifying part of dentistry, she says. Prevention is a large part of her practice she shares with husband, Dr. William Huszti, in addition to restorative and cosmetic work.

"I am very proud of the success of our prevention programs. Helping my patients maintain and enhance their smiles is also a special focus and one that I find very gratifying," she said.

By spending more personalized time with each patient, individualized programs are designed that can include analyzing diet and cavity rate. With today's technology, Dr. Chong-Huszti can do more for her patients than ever before.

From a computer that can replace shots, to special multimedia presentations which can make learning and prevention easy to understand, it's an exciting time to be a dental patient. The intraoral camera that uses fiber optics, for example, can magnify the image of teeth at 40 times their size on a monitor. That allows patients to see for themselves what is happening with their teeth.

Staying current with the latest technology and techniques, however, she says can be a full-time job. Technologies and materials now available were not around when she graduated from dental school in 1992, and the field changes fast.

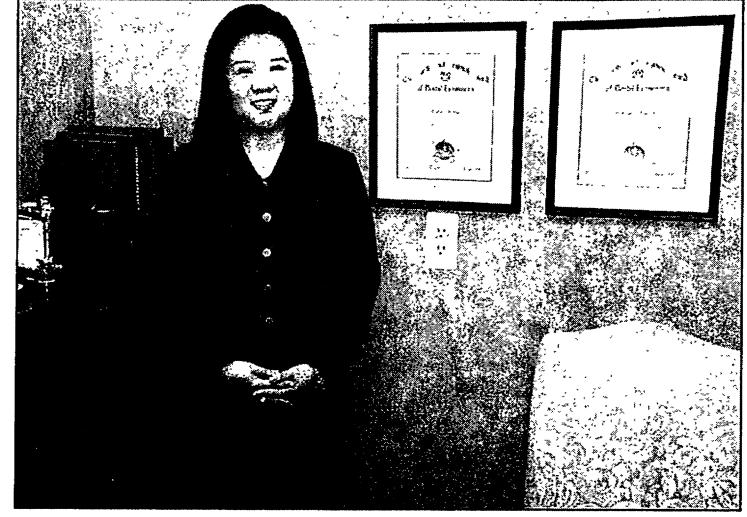

"Fortunately, I practice with my husband, so attending seminars and study club meetings as often as we do only gives us more in common. He has been my favorite study partner since I first met him in dental school 12 years ago," Dr. Chong-Huszti commented.

The two make staying current a commitment and travel the country seeking the best techniques to bring back to their practice.

They are seeing tremendous growth in their practice in the Milford-Highland area, and are excited about the construction of their new building which they are hoping to open by the end of the year.

Their office is currently located at 1185 S. Milford Road and the new office will be located one mile south on Milford Road.

"It's a huge project. We have traveled around the country looking at what's out there and brought back the best ideas we found," Dr. Chong-Huszti said. "We have chosen a designer who specializes in dental office design, and who has designed hundreds of dental offices throughout the world."

Dr. Anna Chong-Huszti DDS

The building site was carefully chosen to offer beautiful wooded views. Large windows in each dental room will provide a peaceful view of the natural surroundings and pond.

With the new offices, more space to coordinate, organize and network their technologies will be available. Dr. Chong-Huszti explained that the office has been specially designed to allow room for expansion as exciting break-through technologies evolve.

The most enjoyable part of her career, Dr. Chong-Huszti says, is the close contact she has with people in the community.

"After living and practicing here for seven years," she said, "I can say we are all very lucky to live in an area with such special people."

Mary Ann LaForest says that joining Keller Williams Realty has been one of the best things to ever happen to her. LaForest is new to Keller Williams - an Austin, Texas-based company, which recently expanded into Michigan. At Keller Williams all agents are considered business partners and LaForest, herself, is one of the founders and principals in the Northville Keller Williams Market Center. She specializes in residential sales covering the Novi/Northville areas and derives great personal satisfaction knowing she is able to help people to purchase a home they really want.

"It's not just buying a house," she says. "It's investigating, it's knowing the schools and the area and knowing you were able to help in their decision."

LaForest, who has 10 years of realty experience backing her, has earned the prestigious designations of CRF and GRI. Each designation requires many hours of studies that include a thorough knowledge of residential and commercial real estate. "It's like earning your masters in real estate," she said.

And all that experience and knowledge, along with her friendly service, has its rewards.

"People select a person as well as a company," she said. ""I get a lot of repeat business ... they obviously trust me and I never hesitate in thanking them."

'To build businesses worth owning and careers worth having," LaForest said is the simple mission statement of Keller Williams Realty. "It is great to be in partnership with a company that lives up to it's mission statement and vision."

With all the growth and expansion in Livingston and Oakland counties, Insight Environmental Services, Inc., provides a crucial service for area businesses and residents. By supplying soil and groundwater testing for contractors, developers and real estate transactions, they ensure there are no potential problems, or help to find a solution if there is one.

And if there are complications, says vice president of Insight Rena Pomaville, she aims to find feasible alternatives.

"What we like to do is find practical and cost effective solutions for the customer if there are problems," she said.

Other expertise includes removal of underground storage tanks, or, assisting companies that have had chemical spills, she said. They also perform client audits to ensure their business is in compliance with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality Regulations.

Pomaville keeps in tune with industry regulations and requirements, so she can best help her clientele. With a doctorate from Wayne State University, she's been in the environmental field for 13 years. Although her career is very science and technology oriented, she keeps it all in balance with her family, including a four-month-old daughter, and she enjoys a round of golf whenever she can. Insight Environmental Services, Inc., is a member of the Brighton and Howell Chambers of Commerce, and an active supporter of the United Way.

Andrea Proctor knew from a young age where her passion would lead. "At approximately age 6, I remember we couldn't play until I had rearranged my friend's entire bedroom. Her mother told her she couldn't wait for us to play in the living room the following week," she recalled.

With a dedication to her love of design and a passion for creating wonderful living spaces, Proctor found her career in interior design. Inspirations for the Home is her full service interior design studio that specializes in a variety of lifestyles.

Formal, casual, traditional, country — even country elegance or ultra modern — are all styles Proctor is skilled at creating. At any stage of the design process, whether new construction from the blueprint stage or just adding the final finishing touches, Inspirations will make the transformation of each space a pleasurable process.

For an hourly fee, a client can garner interior design tips for any room in the home. A tired room can benefit from furniture rearrangement or placing artwork and accessories in a new way.

"I never would have thought to use that," Andrea says is a phrase she frequently hears. In fact, she stresses that using items in inventive ways is what Inspirations for the Home is known for.

Proctor stresses that customer satisfaction is of utmost importance while retaining the individual style and personality of each client.

Lakes Area Family Chiropractic • Dr. Jody Tenjeras 309 Union Lake Road, White Lake (248) 698-8677

Dr. Jody Tenjeras, at Lakes Area Family Chiropractic, feels that sometimes fear of the unknown holds people back. She knows there are people out there whose health is not functioning at it's optimum capacity and they may be experiencing a lack of energy, reduced resistance to disease and chronic aches and pains.

"Although we have great success with low back and neck problems we've also had great success with other physical ailments," she said.

Dr. Tenjeras' goal is to help restore the patient's healing abilities by balancing the spine to remove stresses on the nervous system and body structure. Most people say they have more energy, sleep better and don't get sick as often after receiving chiropractic care," she said.

Patjent Linda Zambron agrees, "I guess people think that chiropractic is for sore backs and necks. It's the most incredible thing. I had chronic heartburn since my early 20s ... after I got adjusted it's almost like unblockage. I can instantly feel relief."

The entire family can benefit from chiropractic care; from children to seniors.

"It's important that we focus on a healthy lifestyle and the underlying cause of health problems," she added. "People today are looking for natural methods of healthcare. They want alternatives to medications and their risks. Chiropractic has been providing this alternative for over 100 years.

Embracing art for the millennium while encouraging beauty for the soul is what Village Fine Arts Association in Milford is all about. Formed in 1992, the art group seeks to broaden the interests and talents of artists and art patrons in the Huron Valley area.

With meetings held on the fourth Wednesdays each month at Milford's Presbyterian Church, presentations and demonstrations inspire artists while offering practical information and support for the arts. All meetings are open to the public and guests are encouraged to attend.

The 55-member group sponsors two annual juried art show that pull talent from all over the country. Each spring brings Poetry Art Night, or PAN, which is the only competition and exhibit of its kind in the United States that combines art with poetry. The competition calls an artist to create art that is dependent on a poem.

Views and Visions is a juried show in the fall that began as a way to showcase the natural beauty of the area. "The beauty in Huron Valley naturally attracts the artist," said VFAA executive director Suzanne Haskew. Both competitions feature an opening gala with live music and artsy food.

Art mingling with blues, jazz and rock is what you'll find during the summer at First Friday Alley Art at the gazebo on Center Street. "It's the most laid-back art show in Michigan," boasts Haskew. Residents love the outdoor cafe atmosphere and often bring dinner carryouts while enjoying the music.

Brighton to offer high quality and distinctive clothing and accessories. The clothing store, located in downtown Brighton, continues to grow and build upon its reputation for quality and customer satisfaction.

"Business has grown 60 percent in the last five years," says owner Pat Steele. "I think it's because we're listening to our customers and the fact that we have an excellent staff. We're keeping things new and fresh and consistently bringing in new lines."

With the upgrading of the store's information system, Pat and her sales associates are also better able to help educate customers about the fabric in the clothing they are purchasing.

"For instance, we can add value to a purchase by letting them know that just because a label says dry clean only," she said. "It doesn't mean you can't hand wash or spot clean certain fabrics."

And while some stores may only be interested in the bottom line, Pat considers her store "a clothing store with a conscience." She owns the Margret Hunters building at 328 W. Main St., and takes her role as a visible part of the community very seriously.

Dr. Mary Elizabeth Rupp, MD

The way Dr. Mary Elizabeth Rupp sees it, practicing family medicine in Novi is like being a small town doctor in a big town.

"Being a family doctor gives you a great overall view," she points out. "Sometimes you might see a newborn baby in one room and a 92-year-old in the next."

Preventative medicine plays a big part in family medicine, she adds. For example, it might be discussing heart disease and osteoporosis with elderly patients, or she may discuss safe behavior and making good choices with adolescents.

"We do well with primary care for all ages, and if need be we can refer them to specialists," said Dr. Rupp.

In treating the entire family, it's also nice to know about the social support system in the family. It might determine some of the decisions she makes on treatment.

The important part of a primary care doctor is that we put the whole picture together, explains Dr. Rupp. "Many of the health problems could be interrelated."

Having her own family, she feels, gives her an edge while treating patients, because she can empathize with problems that may arise.

Dr. Rupp's undergraduate degree is from University of Michigan, and her Medical Degree from Wayne State. Dr. Rupp joined Dr. Brateman's practice two and a half year ago.

"I think Dr. Brateman is one of the best doctors around, dedicated to his patients and to the practice of medicine."

For compassionate family care call Drs. Rupp and Bratemen at (248) 473-8580.

Dr. Mary Elizabeth Rupp, MD and Dr. Deanna Master, MD

Dr. Deanna Master, MD

Dr. Deanna Master's patient philosophy is simple, to provide patient care for the family for an entire lifetime. This is reflected in her choice of family practice as her field of medicine. In family practice, the variety of patients can be as diverse as the conditions requiring treatment.

The beauty of family practice is that you deal with a variety of conditions including acute illness, chronic health care such as diabetes, heart disease and hypertension, etc. as well as preventative health care which includes routine physical examinations and school physicals. Preventative care also includes cancer screening such as sigmoidoscopy, mammography, pap smears, etc.

Dr. Master enjoys providing health care for the entire family and especially enjoys seeing a wide variety of patients. Caring for the entire family means understanding the family dynamics since often illnesses affect more than one family member. The family physician understands the background of the family members and participates as an extended family member, sharing in their lives. "We celebrate the joys of the family milestones as well as their crises."

Dr. Master joined Dr. Brateman earlier this year and shares in his philosophy of care and service. She is affiliated with the Providence Hospital as well as the entire system and utilizes the Providence Park facility for many of the excellent services they provide.

Courtney Casterline-Ross and Lindsey Casterline, are the fourth generation in their family to be involved in the funeral industry. Courtney is the first woman in her family to become a licensed director, and Lindsey who is completing requirements for her degree, will soon follow.

The manager of the new facility is Beverly E. Neal, who has been a licensed funeral director since 1979. The three women feel they are able to bring a different dimension of caring and compassion to the funeral industry. "We try to become personally involved with the families we serve," said Courtney, who also manages the firm's Northville location, which was established in 1937. "Women have different characteristics then men, and therefore tend to relate to the families with a more nurturing role."

Women in the funeral industry are becoming less and less of a rarity — Lindsey says that 60 percent of her graduating class is women, but feel three at one funeral home is unique. Beverly points out that historically the wives of funeral directors have always been involved in funeral service, although it is a trend that is definitely changing. Today you will find more women, who are licensed funeral directors, managing your local funeral firms.

Ann Meredith, owner of Somewhere In Time in downtown Brighton, is preparing for the spring birth of her new store to the Pinckney area.

People will now have an opportunity to shop for the unique blend of fine gifts and home decorations in two locations --- Brighton and Pinckney.

Sometime in May, the second Somewhere In Time store will be opening its doors in Pinckney. Ann is hoping to open her second store in May at the old bank building in downtown Pinckney.

Ann said business has been so good at her Brighton store — which is going on 12 years — that she decided to expand to Pinckney. This new store will have the same focus as its Brighton counterpart, which is unique gifts and home decorations from all time periods.

At Somewhere In Time shoppers can find silk flowers and trees, garden and home accessories from the colorful to the casual; painted cottage-style furniture along with reproductions of the Victorian era. Somewhere In Time is brimming with beautiful and unique gift ideas for Mother's Day. The shop also carries Godiva chocolates, which can add a little sweetness to someone's life.

Ann said her store is always changing and bringing in different things. The latest items are antique reproduction furniture that comes in white, cream and mahogany finishes.

So if you're looking for that something special for that special person or just want a unique gift for a family member, don't worry about where you need to go. Just go to Somewhere In Time.

Barb Sherey • Apple Blossom Hill 10150 Clyde Road, Hartland (810) 632-5590

At Apple Blossom Hill owner Barb Sherey makes sure that residents receive the best of care in a home-like setting. The assisted living adult foster care home, open since 1990, is licensed for eight residents providing everything from minimum care to hospice care. Staff members assist with bathing, eating, transferring, taking medications and other daily living activities.

"We are very dedicated professionals, " Sherey said. "We want to provide the best care that there is," Sherey, with 30 years of experience in personal care, finds the work very rewarding. She began her career as a nurse's aid and worked for many years in the private sector providing personal care.

She most enjoys talking with residents and meeting with their families.

"I like to sit down and chitchat with them and do their hair or their nails," she said. "I also enjoy working with the families to work on issues."

Looking for a suitable home for an elderly parent can be heart-wrenching. Sherey and her staff members strive to provide comfort to family members during especially difficult times.

"We work with the families to let them know that it is okay," she said.

The staff at Apple Blossom Hill also works closely with Livingston Community Hospice to ensure the best care for terminally ill residents.

"We work with the hospice residents so the families can have that closure," Sherey said. "That is extremely important to me. When the time comes nobody is ready for this."

Mary Christensen had no problems figuring out what to with an extra $300-$400 a month — she used it to make her car payment. As a Reliv International distributor, helping people proved to be a great source of income. "When I started my home-based business with Reliv, I had a monthly goal of making enough money for a car payment. That was accomplished, but then the house payment was being made and my oldest son was being sent to college with Reliv income," she said.

Reliv International is a food science company of 11 years emphasizing soy products and functional foods. With patented products ranging from women's protective health supplement, dehydrated soy entrees and nutrition for the whole family, Reliv has a lot to offer.

The true meaning of security came about within the past year when the company Mary's husband had been with for 11 years was sold. Reliv provided the family with security and choices.

"The Reliv business has allowed us to be able to make choices that most people wouldn't have the option of doing." Her husband, Julian, 35, has not gone back into the world of corporate America, but is now a stay-at-home dad.

She notes "It helps us live a lifestyle that most people would only dream about. The freedom is wonderful." Mary enjoys working with a company that is solid, has proven products and a compensation plan that pays people what they're worth. Owner-artist Kim Rivera of New Moon Visions Graphic Art Studio creates a fresh work of art for each client. "We present companies in their best light," she said. Her business produces any visual graphic from corporate identity and logos to catalogs, menus, annual reports, tee shirts and advertising campaigns. While at Oakland Community College, Kim won a logo contest with a design for Wonderland Mall - an event that caused her to detour from fashion design to graphic design. After college she gained experience working at small graphic design studios and advertising agencies, and then began her business in her home.

Now located in downtown Milford, New Moon Visions continues to grow and celebrates its 10th anniversary this year. "Wow, it's astonishing how fast this last decade flew by," she exclaimed.

Local businesses like The Appe'teaser, Huron Valley Sinai Hospital and Milford's Downtown Development Authority use her design expertise. New clients like Triangle Development, New Hudson Corp. and Virtual Concepts have boosted her business. "It grows each year. The projects are so interesting and I love being involved in the local scene," she said.

Kim has established many relationships in Milford and finds it important to support other local businesses. Involvement in local professional organizations is also important, and helps bring her out from behind her desk. Located upstairs, New Moon Visions has moved to a front suite offering a view of Main Street, which has Kim delighted. "It's a great inspiration to work with a view," she said.

Superior Oldsmobile, Cadillac, GMC 8282 W. Grand River Ave. Brighton (810) 227-1100 or (800) 472-1627

They handle sales. Arrange the financing. And also write up the order for service.

The ladies at Superior Oldsmobile, Cadillac, GMC in Brighton do it all when it comes to the various tasks involved in operating an automobile dealership. Like their male counterparts, their goal is customer satisfaction.

"The best you've ever been treated in an automobile dealership," salesperson Julie Connors said is their motto. They do this by listening to the customer to determine what his or her needs are. Then they work to fulfill those needs.

Connors, who's worked at Superior for over three years, said half of the sales staff is female. There are also two female business managers and one female service writer as well.

Connors believes women have an advantage over men when it comes to sales.

Connors said making customers happy means looking at all the options to find the one that meets their needs. The selections start off with your basic car to a cube van, light trucks to a heavy-duty work truck, sport utility vehicles to a luxury car like a Cadillac. The dealership recently opened a new body shop — one of the largest in the nation — off Old U.S. 23.

Theresa Paré, who had operated a home-based business while her children were young, came to Superior nearly two years ago.

"It was time to get out and do something exciting," she said. "And I love it, it's a lot of fun. It's a nice group of people to work with and I smile more."

Paré said female customers are often more relaxed and comfortable talking with another female. She said as a female consultant she is just as qualified and knowledgeable about the vehicles she sells as her male counterparts.

"We are trained and certified and are tested annually on our knowledge," Paré said.

No matter who the customer, male or female, Paré said the goal is always customer satisfaction.

In the automotive sales industry it's not common to see a female in the position of service advisor, but at Superior Olds commonality is not the norm.

Stephanie Howze mans the desk at Superior as service advisor. She sees customers when they come to Superior with concerns about their vehicle and works closely with Superior's technicians Front: Carrie Bunting, Lisa Consiglio, Theresa Paré, Barbara Novak; (back) Julie Connors, Judy Sprader, Lynn Dziurman and Stephanie Howze.

and the customer to address those concerns.

"I think they (female vehicle owners) like talking to me because I'm a girl and they might think I would understand a little bit more," she said.

Lisa Consiglio has been selling trucks at Superior for the past five years. She said customers will find a good selection of automobiles and trucks in a comfortable atmosphere.

"We like to listen. We like to explore and therefore are willing to take the time to make sure you know what you'd like and need in a vehicle."

Affordable, unique and beautiful, that's how Donna Cullinan sees her Center Street Design shop in Northville. Mixing the casual with formal, she sums up the atmosphere as "a very casual elegance."

Northville's nostalgic atmosphere was the perfect location for Center Street Design. Our shop embraces the architectural elements of the classic design of Greece and Rome, the soft or lavish style of the French, and the timeless look of the 18th century English.

The store is very eclectic for a purpose: to show people how to blend together different styles, fabrics and colors to create their own unique style.

Our shop reflects a passion for detail. We specialize in one of a kind accessories, lamps, custom window treatments and wonderful oil paintings to give your home that special glow.

It has been a lifetime dream and goal to have a store such as Center Street Design. I haven't reached this goal alone. I am constantly inspired and supported by my Design Assistant, Griz Holbrook; fellow Designer, Sue Arnold; and my husband and daughter.

Please stop in and browse. It is our pleasure to help you with your design challenges.

Stephanie Taylor-Allan

26 Wohlen In The Know-East's MAY 11, 2000 J

Although the real estate world may keep her working seven days a week, for Stephanie Taylor of RE/MAX All Stars in Brighton, it's a labor of love.

"I can honestly say that I really do love my job. It's a challenge to match sellers and buyers, but that's something I enjoy," she explained.

Taylor has been selling real estate for six years and joined RE/MAX All Stars two years ago. She is a GRI (Graduate Realtor Institute), an ABR (Accredited Buyer Representative) and a member of the Women's Council of Realtors. Most of Taylor's work is done in residential real estate. She often works with customers who are being relocated to the area and spends time helping them become familiar with the neighborhoods and growing communities of Livingston County.

As an independent agent at RE/MAX All Stars, Taylor enjoys the advantages of being with a nationally recognized real estate firm, but still keeps the personal touch with her clients. Work in real estate takes her through the entire county, said Taylor, who is a Howell resident. Developments throughout Livingston County are popular with buyers right now, she said.

Taylor said that she enjoys working with buyers as much as sellers in the real estate business. Bringing the two together is a hurdle she enjoys meeting.

"You really have to adapt your schedule to work with sellers and buyers' schedules, but it's a challenge that I love." · · · · · · · .

Cyndi Robinson • Real Estate One 560 Main St., Milford (248) 684-1065

In the ever-changing world of real estate and technology, Cyndi Robinson is on the cutting edge. She's now applying her years of real estate experience to the Internet. This not only increases exposure for sellers dramatically, it also makes it convenient for buyers to browse.

Almost every home she lists can be found on a virtual video tour. To use, you only need to visit her Web site at cyndirobinsonrealtor.com (no www needed) and take the virtual tour. Robinson can be reached by e-mail at cyndirobinson@realtor.com. It's light years ahead of the age-old method of mailing photos and waiting until your home is on multi list system.

Creating the best photos for her Web site takes persistence, but Robinson refuses to compromise on quality.

"I control all my marketing. I'm very selective about my pictures. You try to frame the house the best, and crop out the houses next door. You have to make your house stand out among thousands," she added.

You'll not only find a great selection of homes on her Web site, but a variety of interesting and unique links as well, including information about antiques, building a home, or using architectural salvage to name a few.

An added service is creating a "home books" for each home she markets. It's a nice touch, which is designed to help inform and familiarize the new-home buyer with their area. She also uses multi-page highlight sheets for potential buyers, laminated posters and signs and semi custom aerial photography, if needed.

A strong real estate market calls for a strong real estate agent, and Robinson wants to get you the best price or help you construct the best offer. A leader performer, last year she achieved $14 million in sales. In 1999, she ranked eighth out of the 2,000 Real Estate One agents in Michigan, and she is in the top one percent nation wide.

She points out customers should expect nothing less than excellence from their agent. Customers should look for an agent with commitment, superior knowledge and experience as well as empathy, enthusiasm and stick-to-itiveness, she said. Robinson believes selecting the right agent can save you thousands of dollars.

Strong marketing continues to be a focus of her strategy. In addition to the Internet, Robinson advertises regularly in The Times, Spinal Column, Oakland Press, Detroit News, The Smart Shopper and Real Estate Books in the Birmingham/Bloomfield Lakes area as well as Livingston and West Oakland county publications. appraisals, radon testing, pest inspection, well and septic reports ---and keeping clients posted of their transactions.

"It's good to have an experienced agent at times like this on the market," Robinson said. "You've got to have an agent who knows what to do. There's danger in not getting the best price or constructing the right offer."

For the last 20 years my husband Greg and I have been fortunate to be a part of the one of the most exciting industries in the world, "The Beauty Industry." Myself as a cosmetologist and he in the distribution of "professional only" products.

In 1988 we opened our salon in Novi. And that was the beginning of many exciting opportunities for us.

In 1994 we expanded into a full service salon and moved to Oak Point "I believe what makes our salon unique is the vision we have working together, you will not find anyone's name in neon." or helping Toys for Tots or helping Make A Wish Foundation achieve their goals. We try to do everything we can to help.

Greg and I, as salon owners, have been fortunate in the last 12 years to retain 98 percent of our staff.

We do not have staff turnover, this helps us to ensure our clients comfort the minute they come through our doors. I believe what makes our salon unique is the vision we have working

Plaza.

With that expansion I have been fortunate enough to find and hire a very talented and very special group of professionals to work with.

Together we have created the ambiance you experience when you enter our salon. We have all grown together to create a wonderful team.

Our salon offers a menu that is very diversified from a full day of spa services; everything from whirlpool pedicures to body wraps to a variety of facial treatment and massages. We offer a full range of nail and hand services and specialize in hair to give you, your total wellness.

As a salon, we have grown in the six years we have been at Oak Point Plaza. Most of that growth is attributed to our wonderful clientele. In recognition of this, we have two Client Appreciation Day celebrations a year. One is on the Saturday before Thanksgiving; the other is on the Saturday before Mother's Day. At both celebrations we give gift bags to every client or anyone who wants to visit our salon.

We raffle over $1,000 worth of services to our clients. Throughout the day demonstrations of some of our treatments are done and there are hors d'oeuvres for everyone to enjoy.

The entire staff at Visions realizes how fortunate we are in our daily lives, so we all like to give back to the community. Whether it's raising awareness and money for the Breast Cancer Foundation

The YMCA Youth Sports Leagues are designed so every child plays half of every game. At the Plymouth YMCA, the word "winning" means a lot more than a score at the end of the game. Winning means working towards the realization of personal goals, which might include improving a particular aspect of the game, learning to work as a team, or just having fun and making new friends! For information on the YMCA Youth Sports Leagues or to become a volunteer coach or official, call the Plymouth YMCA at (734) 453-2904.

FAST ACTION SOCCER SKILLS CAMP

This soccer camp specializes on skills and tactical development. Supervised by two of the most experienced youth coaches in the area, this camp will provide participants opportunities to learn and develop basic as well as advanced techniques. Sessions are scheduled according to age, and players will be working along side other players with the same ability. Individual assessments will be provided each participant before and after each session to give participants a baseline against which they can measure improvement. A 10:1 participant-to-instructor ratio will be maintained in all sessions. All goalkeeping will have a lower participant-to-instructor ratio.

The Head Trainers:

Lucien Popescu

Played for SOIMI SIBIU in Romania. He holds a youth coaching certificate from Romania and has coached in the area for almost ten years. His specialty includes instructions on basic techniques including goalkeeping. He has provided one-to-one training for goalkeepers in the area. He is currently coaching a competitive youth team playing in the Little Caesar's Premier League. He has the ability to work with experienced and inexperienced players. He has good patience with children, including those who are new to the sport.

Jose Mangune

Played for the Dragons team in the Philippines for four years and for the German Sports Club, Club Italia, and Hurling Green in Michigan. He is an educator who has coached soccer for more than 20 years. He has coached both recreational and competitive soccer, as well as in high school and middle school. He served as the head coach for the Shrine High School Soccer Program for four years and has coached the freshman girls team at Andover High School and the travel team for West Hills Middle School. He holds a "D" coaching license for the State of Michigan.

Have you ever pictured your children as athletes?

They can be, you know. All they need is the chance to play. In YMCA youth sports programs, everybody gets to play in every game. Because rather than putting the emphasis on winning, we emphasize character development. There are a variety of sports to choose from. So this year, give your children the chance to enjoy some great moments in sports at the Plymouth Community YMCA.

PRE-SCHOOL

September 4, 2000 - June 15, 2001

"Y" Pre-school was established at the Plymouth YMCA in 1976 to provide a quality program for children ages three to five. A caring staff will offer a structured program designed to develop cognitive skills. Each day includes free play (exploration time), social, and physical development time. "Y" Pre-school maintains that children must be cared for in a stimulating, safe environment in which the child's ideas, feelings, and development are nurtured and guided by competent, caring personnel. The Plymouth-Canton school calendar is followed.

A minimum of two staff persons at all times are at location.

YMCA Indian Guide Programs Give your child the gift of time ...

Are you able to spend as much time with your child as you would like? Have you found yourself wishing you could spend more time with your child...share in the wonder of that special time called childhood...teach and participate with your children as they learn new skills...experience many outdoor opportunities with your child...teach your child to appreciate and respect nature...just have fun with your child?

In the Y-Guide Programs, you and your child will meet with other parent/child pairs to share fun and educational activities. This is not just a children's or babysitting program, but a joint parent/child experience that is designated to build the bonds of love, respect, and understanding between you and your child. By entering the program, you will be committing yourself to spend valuable time with your child helping him or her grow in self esteem and knowledge.
