Judge denies Selinsky's bid for ballot spot

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A sitting judge in the 35th District Court was granted his wish to keep two local attorneys from challenging him in the November election, despite an assistant attorney general admitting a mistake was made by the state.

Local attorneys William Selinsky and Peter Bec were denied requests to challenge 35th District Court Judge Ron Lowe by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Michael Sapala. As a result, neither will appear on the primary ballot this August.

The issue had gone to the Wayne

County court after Selinsky and Bec received the wrong information from the Secretary of State on how many signatures were required on petitions to challenge Lowe.

In court, the assistant attorney general said the Secretary of State did print incorrect material, but also said that "a statute is still a statute."

Sapala said he agreed, and said that the matter was best left to a legislative body to handle.

Lowe said last week he hoped to keep Selinsky and Bec from cam-

Sparse turnout at school board candidate forum

By MELANIE PLENDIA

A small crowd gathered at the Northville High School forum to decide the best candidate for the school board on May 22.

The forum, sponsored by the Council of PTAs and the Legislative Action Network, was intended to give people an opportunity to meet the candidates and see where they stood on the issues, said LAN chair Diane Farquhar.

The current board members, including outgoing president Michael Poterala, made up the 50 person audience. The candidates, Carol Poenisch, Ken Roth, school board treasurer Joan Wadsworth, and Judy Wollack came out to answer questions from parents and tax payers.

Questions ran the gamut from

Simulator teaches dangers of intoxicated driving

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

Drivers at Northville High School were weaving dangerously out of control and slamming on their brakes to avoid hitting pedestrians during a Drunk Driving Simulation presented by DaimlerChrysler on May 17.

The program will travel to over 400 schools this year to celebrate the 20th anniversary of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD). This is a non-profit group established in 1980 aimed at stopping drunk driving, supporting the victims of violent crime, and preventing underage drinking.

Sponsors of the simulator say its purpose is to allow sober drivers first hand the dangers of drinking and driving on a controlled course.

"This is probably as real as you can get," said NHS Students Against Destructive Decisions Senior Advisor Steve Santer. "I think

when students get in and see what it's like, it will get in their head more and hopefully they won't do it."

Santer said this particularly hits home for him because he lost a friend to a drunk driver this time last year and hopes the program makes a difference. Students exiting the cars said it did leave an impact.

"I hit a kid," said NHS senior Jessica Delossantos. "I can certainly see how easy it could happen. You can't tell when to stop or how to turn. This has definitely made a difference in how I think about this."

Group protests bike path development

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

More than 100 Northville Township residents jammed township hall to protest something that isn't likely to happen for years, if at all, officials said.

The residents, many who live on Winchester Drive, were concerned about the possibility of a bike path or sidewalk being constructed on their street and made their voices heard to the township planning commission at its regular meeting May 23.

The crowd broke out into applause several times and one resident was ruled out of order by Richard Allen, vice chairman of the planning commission, when she urged those opposed to a bike path or sidewalk to stand up.

The reactions were despite Allen's comments in the beginning of the meeting that bike path or sidewalk construction is a long way off for Winchester Drive.

"When we put the township's (recreation) master plan together, the number one thing people surveyed wanted was bike and walking paths," he said. "But as far as putting anything on Winchester Drive there are absolutely no plans at this time."

The uproar followed a story in the May 18 issue of the Northville Record that printed a map of existing bike paths, paths soon to be constructed and proposed bike paths. The map was part of a story about the bike path soon to be construction along Six Mile Road between Northville Road and Haggerty Road. It indicated a proposed bike path between Seven Mile Road and Five Mile Road along Winchester.

Allen said the most likely bike path would be one alongside the road on the side of the street with fire hydrants and not an eight-foot path

Northville science teacher is tops in Detroit area

By MELANIE PLENDIA
Staff Writer

Science teacher Mitch Van Ochten is having a pretty good week. Not only is he a published author but he was also named Metropolitan Detroit Science Teachers Association Outstanding Educator of the Year.

Van Ochten, eighth grade science and history teacher at Cooke Middle School, was chosen from a possible 1200 teachers in the area. The committee bases its decision on a teachers classroom practices, professional development, and professional leadership.

The award came as a surprise to Van Ochten because of his limited number of years teaching, he said.

"I was really surprised after only being here for four years," he said. "I thought they would choose someone who has been around a little longer."

The Bay City native and Livonia resident earned the award and publishing credit through his use of animals in the classroom. Van Ochten describes the integration of the animals as almost an accident. He said his mentor and fellow teacher Dwight Siegreen had an abundance of animals in his room which he handed off to Van Ochten. He then figured out a way to put the animals to work in his physics and chemistry lessons.

"For example, when we study force we look at the Macaws wings or if we are studying friction we look at how the scales on

Hometown launches new digital subsidiary

HomeTown Communications Network, the parent company of this newspaper, announced today formation of a new subsidiary corporation, hometowndigital.com.

The new company will carry out HomeTown's emerging Internet strategy, which includes creating a local electronic mall on the Internet. The e-mall, to be called "hometown-mall.com," will offer local merchants an easy and inexpensive way to get into the rapidly growing field of electronic commerce. For readers of this newspaper, the e-mall will offer a quick and convenient way to use the Web to shop their favorite local merchant from the comfort and convenience of home.

An "e-mall" works just like an ordinary shopping center," according to Phil Power, Chairman of HomeTown Communications Network. "But instead of being made of bricks and mortar like an ordinary mall, it exists in cyber space, like amazon.com." Power explained.

Tenants in hometown-mall.com will be local businesses, each having their own Web site within the e-mall. These same merchants already have stores right around the corner from our readers. So shoppers at hometown-mall.com can either do their shopping from home — 24 hours a day, seven days a week — or run down to the local store to check out an item they see on the Web.

"What's special about this approach is that it links familiar local businesses with readers of our hometown newspapers through the device of a local electronic mall. It's not something abstract and distant, the way most e-commerce feels today, or even prone to risk of

Police Reports

WOMAN REPORTS ALLEGED RAPE IN FARMER JACK PARKING LOT

A friend of a 40-year-old Plymouth woman reported her friend was raped in the parking lot of Farmer Jack, 17447 Haggerty Road.

The incident allegedly happened May 9.

According to a Northville Township police report, the friend reported to police that her friend was raped in the parking lot of Farmer Jack. The woman allegedly returned to her 1987 GMC Safari van after shopping and was met by a man who had entered it before she got there. The man allegedly then forced her to have intercourse and fled.

However, the woman said she was afraid that her husband would get mad and that she was frightened so she didn't want to file a police report.

The woman's friend, who did call police, didn't want to cooperate after the initial call to police, they said.

POLICE INVESTIGATE ALLEGED FONDLING ON NORTHVILLE BUS

City of Northville and Northville Township police investigated an alleged incident where a student from Our Lady of Victory fondled two Silver Springs Elementary School kindergarten students.

The alleged incident was reported May 18 at 3 p.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, two kindergarten girls reported to the bus driver that the male student from Our Lady of Victory touched their private parts. The bus driver asked what happened and the boy started crying so he was dropped off at the next stop.

Witnesses on the bus said the boy entered the seat where the two girls were sitting and heard one of the girls screaming. No students said they saw any touching.

The boy at first denied he touched the girls and then said he touched their stomachs. The incident was turned over to city of Northville police for investigation.

POLICE NAB WOULD-BE CONSTRUCTION SITE CROOKS IN SUB

Northville Township police caught three Lincoln Park residents in the act of stealing tools from a home under construction in the Woodlands of Northville subdivision.

The incident took place May 18 at about 3:30 a.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, police were patrolling the area and saw a truck pulled up behind a house under construction. As police approached, three people were seen loading a pick-up truck. Police shined their spotlight on the trio who all fled on foot from the scene.

While police investigated, the truck owner, a 19-year-old Lincoln Park man, walked back to the truck and surrendered. Police are looking for the other suspect. They nabbed a 17-year-old female Lincoln Park resident on Sheldon Road after Police were able to identify her by identification left in the truck.

The two were arrested for larceny and the truck owner was arrested for an outstanding warrant.

VANDALS DO DAMAGE AT MEADS MILL MIDDLE SCHOOL

An unknown person or persons did more than $500 worth of damage to several areas of Meads Mill Middle School.

The incident happened May 22 between 3 p.m. and 9:45 a.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, the suspect or suspects broke into the school and spray painted several obscene messages around the school. Additionally, damage was done to the modular school building and greenhouse.

The paint can was located on the property and taken to the police station for evidence.

CANTON WOMAN ARRESTED FOR POSSESSION OF DRUG PARAPHERNALIA

A 20-year-old Canton woman was arrested for possession of drug paraphernalia and being in a closed park after hours.

The incident happened May 21 at 1:43 a.m.

According to a Northville Township police report, police on patrol of the Waterford Bend area of Hines Park came upon a car with four people outside of it. Police looked into the car they were by and found a partially smoked marijuana cigarette in a cupholder. Upon further search of the car, several other drug-related items were found in the purse of the car owner. She said it wasn't hers, despite the fact the purse contained her wallet, social security card and paycheck stub.

She was arrested for possession of narcotic paraphernalia and being in a park after hours. A 19-year-old from Northville and an 18-year-old from Belleville were cited for being in a park after hours.

A 15-year-old Livonia juvenile received a warning for being in a park after hours.

Northville eatery plans opening sometime in June

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A Northville restaurant that planned to open last summer should open sometime in June, the owner said.

Essence Restaurant, 146 Main Centre, plans to open its doors by the end of June.

"As long as everything stays on schedule," said Wayne Holman, owner of the restaurant. Holman said he didn't want to comment further on the situation until the date of the restaurant opening was definite.

The announcement comes five weeks after Holman said the restaurant would open within four weeks. Any opening is a welcome one after the former business at the location, Northville Athletic Club, closed more than two years ago.

Holman and a partner told the Northville Record last May they planned to open last summer, however, that was before a series of problems held up the opening.

For example, problems between the two partners caused a delay.

"I've been told the partnership between the owners is still struggling," said Lori Ward, Northville Downtown Development Authority director, at an April 11 meeting. "And I've been told the chances of the restaurant opening soon are slim."

Holman said the problems have been worked out, however he did not want to comment on the solution.

Another problem the restaurant owners encountered was a transfer of the liquor license to Essence restaurant. The restaurant received its license in March.

More than $200,000 has been spent remodeling the restaurant from its previous look.

Wangler takes second shot at OCC trustee position

By PAT MURPHY
Staff Writer
pmurphy@oe.homecomm.net

On June 12, Oakland voters will elect two people, from a field of six, to the Board of Trustees at Oakland Community College, which has about 24,000 students at five campuses. This is the first in a series of brief profiles on the candidates and their respective positions.

Four years ago, Bingham Farms resident John A. Wangler came within 130 votes of winning a spot on the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees.

In a hotly contested race for two seats on the board, Wangler was initially declared a winner. After a counting error was detected, he was informed he had lost.

The experience didn't leave Wan-gler bitter. It left him determined.

"This time I'm better organized," he said last week, as he talked about being one of six candidates vying for two seats on the board of trustees.

Wangler, 72, said his experience as an educator, coupled with extensive community involvement, gives him a unique perspective to bring to the board. He taught psychology and philosophy at OCC for 24 years before retiring in 1992. Prior to that, he was an associate dean at the University of Detroit and a teacher and director of adult education in the Berkley School District.

He's on the board of directors at the Fox Manor Nursing Center and he's active at Shrine High School in Royal Oak where he's on the board of education and a member of the

"...there's definitely a need for a change."

John Wangler
OCC trustee candidate

Dad's Club.

While at OCC, Wangler was also active in OCCFA (Oakland Community College Faculty Association) and helped draft the first Faculty Master Agreement in 1968.

Wangler still teaches psychology on a part-time basis. His wife Theresa, a nurse, teaches medical classes as well as psychology.

Wangler said his direct and indirect involvement at OCC helps him understand day-to-day operations at the college. It has also convinced him change is needed on the board.

The current board lacks cohesion, Wangler insisted, and there is a morale problem within the ranks of some managers and administrators.

Morale is important, he said, because people perform better when they feel like they are part of the team.

Asked to elaborate, Wangler declined.

"I'm running a positive campaign," he said, "but there's definitely a need for change."

For one thing, Wangler said he'd like assurances that taxpayers are getting the most for tax dollars and that students are getting the most for their tuition.

"I'm prepared to campaign on behalf of the millage renewal," he said, referring to the election in June, 2001, when voters will be asked to renew the millage that provides 18 percent of the OCC operating budget, $116 million.

"But before I ask voters to approve it," Wangler continued, "I want to make sure we're getting the most out of what we have."

Wangler said he's fascinated with continuing development in education, such as the growing trend toward so-called "distance learning," the name given to courses taught or augmented with television, the Internet, or other technological advances.

"Distance learning provides great opportunities," Wangler said. "But it's not for everybody. It's no panacea."

Wangler is not particularly disturbed by the drop in enrollment at OCC.

Since the fall of 1991, when nearly 30,000 students attended one or more of the five campuses, enrollment has fallen to about 24,000.

"We've experienced prosperous times," he said, "and history shows that fewer people enroll in classes when times are good."

Wangler said his major concern is delivering the best possible education. Enrollment will take care of itself, he said.

The Wanglers have three grown children: John, Marian and Dan, and eight (soon to be 10) grandchildren.

Other candidates are incumbents, Carol L. Crew and Pamela Davis, and challengers Richard J. Akehurst, Athena Dumas-Lawrence, and Marjorie Nanian Mugerian.

Victorian Ball out, new dance to debut

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

A 12-year tradition in the city of Northville has been done away with because not enough people were having a ball at the event.

The Victorian Ball, traditionally the Saturday of the city of Northville's Victorian Festival in early September, is being replaced with a Victorian country dance due to low attendance in the past.

The change takes effect with this year's festival. The dance will be Sept. 16.

"That does not mean a country western dance where people will be allowed to wear cowboy boots," said Laurie Marrs, director of the Northville Chamber of Commerce. "It means like in Little House on the Prairie when they would all gather in the barn and have a dance."

The Northville Chamber of Commerce coordinates the Victorian event.

Marrs said attendees of the dance will be encouraged to wear the kind of clothing people from the Victorian era would be likely to wear during the day.

"Attendees of the dance still should wear Victorian clothes," Marrs said. The dance will be complete with a "caller" for square dancing, Marrs said. However, many details still need to be worked out, she said.

Northville Mayor Christopher Johnson said the Victorian Festival, including the dance, is a worthwhile event.

"The festival has been a real good thing for the city," Johnson said. "It helps bring together the people in the community and people in from outside the community."

Johnson said he and his wife are two of probably four people in the community who can make the claim of attending every Victorian Ball. He said the change will freshen up the dance.

"I don't know if it (the change) is necessarily needed," he said. "But it makes it a little fresher. It's not uncommon for an organization to alternate annual events."

Marrs said the ball is being replaced with the dance mostly due to sagging attendance. Last year, just 90 people went to the ball.

"The number of attendees has been decreasing on an annual basis so we wanted to revisit the ball this year and look at different ways to improve it," she said.

Several of the details still need to be worked out, including price of admission.

"There are many details that haven't been ironed out and we embrace anyone interested in serving on the dance committee," Marrs said.

Those interested in volunteering may call the Northville Chamber of Commerce at (248) 349-7640.

The Candidates: Issues at a Glance

Candidates for the Northville School Board race are already preparing for some of the tough issues two of them will face next year.

Incumbent Joan Wadsworth, Treasurer of the school board, Judy Wollack, Ken Roth, and Carol Poenisch are running for the two available seats on the board this year. The election will be held June 12.

Wadsworth is the only one of the two whose terms are up this year seeking reelection. President Mike Poterala will not run again.

The candidates agreed to discuss issues such as overcrowding in schools, weighted grades, technology and the special ed waiver with the Northville Record.

High School Health Education Class

The district created a mandatory Health Curriculum with a sex ed portion in the course. Some parents want this class to be an elective charging they should have a right to choose how their children learn this information. However, some believe the children who need the information the most would not get it if the class were an elective.

Current position

The School Board referred the issue to the Citizens Health Advisory Committee for further review. They also approved an extension of the CHAC's deadline and took the Health component out of next year's requirements.

There should be two classes offered one with sex ed and one without. This would eliminate the need to remove a student from the class as well as allowing those who want the information to have access to it.

She would also like to see doctors brought in for portions of the class.

The class should not be mandatory. Parents should be able to make the choice how their children get this information. The parents also should have been given more information from the start and have more say in the process of developing curriculum.

The board's goal is to provide students with information which will help them make good decisions and there are a number of ways to do that. I want to wait for the CHAC's findings before saying the class should be mandatory or elective.

The information in the Health Curriculum, including sex education needs to be available to high school students. A variety of options and/or classes need to be developed to meet the needs and issues of all parents.

Overcrowding in schools

The Future Facilities Use Committee released a report earlier this year stating the district's elementary schools would reach capacity by next year. This issue had some parents concerned the class sizes would continue to increase, some suggesting the district build a new school. However, the committee's report shows a decline in enrollment beginning in the 2004 school year.

The School Board referred the issue and findings of the Future Facilities Use Committee to another recommending body which will be formed later this summer. They will determine the long term solution for the problem of overcrowding. The board, however, has final approval.

The district is not ready for another new school. We need to be patient and see what happens and determine at a later date whether enough children are moving into the district to warrant such a move. However, I am a little disappointed in the size of some of the classes but the district has done a good job moving the kids around.

If enrollment trends begin to decrease I would not be for a new school in the district as long as the student/teacher ratio is acceptable to parents. I would be for correcting the problem through other means.

The issue needs further consideration. The board needs to investigate its options carefully and wait for the new committee's findings. However, if the district does need a new school, I believe the community would support this, if the district's research is solid.

No decision should be made on this issue until the findings of the new committee are released and then make a decision on what best fits the needs of the community. A new school should be built only if the committee finds enrollment is not declining. If there is a need for one, I would be in support.

Special Education Waiver

Reduces the number of days in the special education summer program by 15 days. The schedule allows for two non-consecutive weeks of break during the summer. Some parents feel this disruption in schedule and the slow process by which it was approved have caused set backs in their children's progress. However, some other parents and members of the district feel the shortened schedule allows teachers more planning time and is beneficial in the long run.

The school board approved the waiver for summer of 2000. However, they said they may reconsider asking for the waiver for the summer of 2001 unless they have assurances from the State it will be approved or not approved in a timely matter.

I would like to see more information before making a judgment on this issue.

It would seem we are working with small enough numbers that we could find a solution that disrupted the students as little as possible. To me, it would seem logically correct if the teachers could still have adequate planning time with a four day week, for example, as opposed to two (non-consecutive) weeks off during the summer.

The district needs to explain why it can be appropriate to ask for waivers from the state. That part of the discussion has been missing. Also, if the district contemplates waivers, there must be a clear understanding with the state regarding the timing of approval or denial. If they don't have that understanding then the district needs a fall back plan.

It is very unfortunate that because of an issue in Lansing, the schedule for the school year was not given in a timely fashion. Parents should have their school calendar for the following year as soon as possible. The parents should have input as to when their vacation time is best, in compliance with the mandated hours.

Technology

Northville parents have recently debated the importance and use of computers and other new technology in schools.

The School Board recently approved the purchase of 266 new computers for the high school. They also approved a Computer Aided Design course in the Middle and High schools as just a few examples of their commitment to technology education.

Any student graduating today needs to know his or her way around a computer in order to function in college and in the work world. Computers need to be seen as an academic tool the administration uses.

Computers should be more accessible to students but should not be used as a substitute teacher. Rather, they should be something students learn how to use as a research and reference tool.

Technology is a tool which can support and enhance learning. We need to work hard to continue to identify the best uses of technology in the classroom.

It is very important all students at all levels receive technology classes and have access to computers in their classrooms. The district needs to continue to improve this curriculum, providing the skills, information and education best benefiting our children.

Weighted grades

The High School Improvement Committee recently voted down the weighting of grades at the high school level. This means students in Advanced Placement classes will not receive extra points for the grades they receive in these classes.

The School Board asked the High School Improvement Committee to reexamine the issue and give the board the rationale behind the decision as well as the criteria they used to judge the issue. They also asked them to consider some alternatives to weighted grades.

I would like to see a 12 point grading system implemented district wide. This would utilize a plus, minus system of grading.

I don't want to discourage students from taking challenging courses nor put them at a disadvantage in college admissions. However, college admission boards generally recalculate the grades using their own formula. Further, they look at students transcripts which will show them the type of classes students took. Therefore I don't see the need for weighted grades.

I want the High School Improvement Committee to establish criteria for its investigation. Further, I think the casting of secret ballots is inconsistent with consensus building and public votes which would characterize decision making throughout the district.

The issue needs to be reevaluated. It seems taking an advance class would be compensated for in the grade point. But I would like to see it done on a 12 point scale.

School board candidates square off at PTA forum

teaching diversity to the high school health class to what candidates would do with a $250,000 district budget surplus.

"I wish it was a bigger number to work with," Wadsworth said.

The candidates came up with several ideas for such a surplus, including Wollack and Poenisch who advocated giving it to the teachers for their hard work in the district. Poenisch added maybe some could even be given to bus drivers who seem to be a forgotten link in the chain.

Wadsworth said it should be used for innovative grants and Roth wanted to see a drug task force implemented in the district.

Roth came out strong against drugs and school safety. He said as a former prosecuting attorney and the head of a drug task force, he has seen the detrimental effects drugs have on young people. He said he is an advocate for the D.A.R.E. program as well as having a police presence in the schools.

Poenisch echoed this and said she also thinks there should be a strong police influence in schools as well as locker searches.

However, Wadsworth and Wollack said they believe it is a good and trusting relationship with adults in the school and community which will keep students the safest.

"I don't think there is an easy

"I think (the candidates) were pussyfooting around that (health class) issue."

Brent Boving attended school board candidate forum

answer but I don't think metal detectors make kids feel safer in school," Wadsworth said. "This is something we continue to look at but I also think we need to continue programs like peer mentoring and problem solving strategies."

Wollack agreed, saying children need to know they have options other than violence and how to handle those situations. As a social worker for delinquent boys in downtown Detroit Wollack said the worst thing the district can do is not acknowledge the problem. She said they should teach students what to do if there is an incident in school and how to get out safely.

Additionally, parents asked the candidates where they stood on the voucher issue. Vouchers would allow students in failing school districts to get government funds to go to a private school.

All of the candidates opposed the voucher system including Carol Poenisch who has strong ties with the Michigan legislature. She said she is opposed to public funds being used for private schools.

"The vouchers are not a guarantee that students will be getting a better education," she said. "Private schools will have the right to turn students away even if they have a voucher. Also, it is taking money away from public school kids all over the state."

Poenisch said she has lobbied congress several times and is very familiar with per pupil counts, proposal A, as well as the voucher issue.

Overall, those who came to hear the candidates speak said they were pleased with their responses and had a difficult decision ahead of them.

However, taxpayers and retired college professors, Renee and Bent Boving, said they were a little unimpressed with the lack of candor in their answers.

"I think they were pussyfooting around that (health class) issue," Bent Boving said. "They never came right out and said what their position was on that issue."

His wife Renee agreed but said they have to cater to the community and try to please everybody this early on in the race.

"That's a politician for you," she said.

COMMUNITY MEETING OF THE MINDS

The Northville Youth and Family Forum, made up of community leaders, parents, and administrators, will hold a meeting to discuss the alcohol and other drug survey published earlier this month.

Every two years, students in the Northville School District in grades 8, 10, and 12 are surveyed on drug/alcohol use. The results of this survey, which show high levels of use in the community among teens, will be discussed at the NYFF forum, June 14. The meeting will be from 9 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. at Genitt's Little Theater, 1087 E. Main Street.

All forum members and community leaders have been asked to attend this meeting in order to learn the status of youth drug/alcohol use in the community and to consider what the community's response should be.

More information may be obtained by calling Mary Ellen King at (248) 344-1618, Dave Fendeleit at (248) 349-1234 or Bob Sornson at (248)344-8443.

Northville Parks and Recreation are encouraging parents, students, and other members of the community to become a part of the Northville Community Park Facility.

People can do this by purchasing a personalized, engraved brick through their Northville Community Park Brick Paver Donation Program.

The proceeds from the bricks will go for landscaping path improvements around the new concession/facilities building at Hillside Middle School.

Construction of these improvements is scheduled for this spring. Community members can purchase a 4" by 8" brick for $75 or a 8" by 8" brick for $125.

Payments may be sent to Northville Parks and Recreation, 303 West Main Street and payments are accepted by cash, check, or credit card.

NHS TAKES A BITE FROM THE BIG APPLE

Three students from Northville High School qualified at the State Forensics tournament earlier this year to represent Michigan at the National Forensics Tournament in Rochester, New York. Only one of the finalists will be able to attend the trip. Ross Jones, along with his mother, Cheryl, and teacher Mary Butler on May 26-29.

Jones, and 47 supporting students, parents, and coaches will travel the six hours from Mercy High School to New York by Greyhound. The total cost to parents is an estimated $200 which includes food, transportation, and lodging.

They will return May 29.

WHAT'S OLD IS BLUE AGAIN
 Chalcedony is the pale, milky blue form of quartz that is, again, gracing the forms created by jewelry designers. This blue gemstone with gray undertones was warmly embraced by the Duchess of Windsor and was all the rage during the 1920s and '30s. Now, it's back in creations featuring round beads, links, and natural forms. Its pleasing milky blue color suggest the romantic allure found in the eyes of certain film stars. Devotees of this type of quartz will argue that no other stone lends itself so perfectly for necklaces and bracelets. Indeed, pieces made of chalcedony are bound to elicit comment and envy wherever they are worn. After all, the Duchess of Windsor was renowned for her taste.

Chalcedony and other gemstones abound at WEINSTEIN JEWELERS OF NOVI in a variety of cuts for every preference and every occasion. Precious gems are our mainstay as we continually stock the largest array in the area to meet and fill every request. Come see us soon at 41990 Grand River Ave. (248)347-0303. Several Northville Township firefighters worked a 24-hour shift May 22, but it wasn't due to an excessive amount of fire runs that day.

It was the first day of round-the-clock service provided by the department.

The Northville Township board of trustees approved the changes May 18 and they went into effect the following Monday after the public safety department studied the possible change for about two years. The change means full-time firefighters always will be at the township's No. 2 station as opposed to relying on volunteer responders at off hours.

Chip Snider, director of public safety in Northville Township, said the change was easily justified by the increased demands on the department.

"Ten years ago, there just wasn't the demand for our services that we have now," Snider said. "But our runs already are up 28 percent for this year compared to last year and I expect that trend to continue for the next five years before it might start to plateau."

In 1994, the township fire department made 775 runs and in 1999 made more than 2,100.

Many of the runs depended on paid on-call, or volunteer, firefighters who would be required to respond from their residence to the station and then to the emergency.

With 24-hour service, three full-time firefighters will always be at the station. They will work one 24-hour shift and then have two days off. The department's Seven Mile station is equipped with a full-size kitchen and sleeping facilities.

The change will improve response times and resident safety.

Chief Bill Zimendak, Northville Township fire department, said the change helps cut back on liability issues for civilians responding to the stations with just one or two flashing lights. A volunteer firefighter in Grosse Ile faces manslaughter charges after he was responding to an emergency in his vehicle and was in an accident that involved a fatality.

"There is a definite issue of liability when we have civilians driving through the community with lights and sirens, so hopefully some of that will be eliminated," Zimendak said.

Snider said the expansion of department services will have little effect on it financially.

"We were able to implement this change without a request for more money," he said. "In fact, we'll probably have a slight reduction in the overtime we pay."

The department did hire an additional full-time firefighter to bring the number of full-timers up to nine.

The change has won the blessing of the firefighters' union.

Chris Madzik, firefighter and vice president secretary of the International Association of Firefighters, Northville Township Local 3961, said the union supports the change.

"The union is very excited we're moving in this type of direction and we're very happy the department and union are doing this in a cooperative effort," he said.

Additionally, he said, services provided by the department will be a bit more efficient.

"This is a good thing because now we're guaranteed a response 24 hours a day, 365 days a year," he said.

Zimendak said the move to 24-hour service is a "major step."

"This is the first time in the history of the department we'll have somebody available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays," he said.

The move to 24-hour service was one considered by the department for the last two years.

"When we're making this drastic of a change, I need to feel absolutely certain it's headed in the right direction," Zimendak said.

JUNE R. WILLIAMS

June R. Williams, 82, died May 20 in Providence Hospital, Southfield.

She was born March 1, 1918, in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, Canada.

After graduating from St. Cecilia's High School in Detroit at age 16, Mrs. Williams was employed as a secretary to Lou Seaton at General Motors Corp. While at GM, she and her sister Margaret were piano accompanists for the acclaimed General Motors Chorus. Music was her passion and she shared her talents throughout her life. She was choir director and church organist for 30 years at St. Scholastica, from 1953 to 1984. Mrs. Williams was employed by the Detroit Board of Education as a piano accompanist for 11 years, from 1963-74, and was a member of the music department faculty at Mercy High School for 20 years, from 1978-98. She played the piano for the Mercyaire and Mercy High School musicals for 20 years.

Mrs. Williams studied music with noted jazz musician and Wayne State University professor, Matt Michaels. She was a requested accompanist for Rosemary Clooney in her Orchestra Hall performance. As a musician, however, she will be best remembered by her family and friends, playing renditions of "Frankie and Johnnie," piano duets with her children and grandchildren, and conducting singalongs at family parties.

Mrs. Williams was an avid bridge player, reader, and belonged to numerous book discussion clubs. Her family enjoyed a book connection - exchanging books across the whole family. She liked trying new things and in her 70s, she bought a computer, took classes, and enjoyed sending e-mails to family and friends. She was even kicked out of her keyboarding class because she was so good, classmates thought she was showing off.

Mrs. Williams was a world traveler and member of the local travel group, The Yellow Birds. In recent years, she explored the entire United States and visited London, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Canada, Jamaica, The Dominican Republic, and Bermuda.

According to her children, "June was the ultimate mother, bringing the family together at holidays and holding us close with love, laughter and good counsel. More importantly, she showed us how important it was to care and to stay involved in each other's lives. Through her efforts, we know the eminent beauty and value of our special family, for she made it so." Mrs. Williams was fondly referred to as "Network Central," with up-to-the minute news on every family member, including her 24 grandchildren. If you needed answers, June had them. This was not always an easy task in a family of so many voices. Sometimes she would call her oldest child for what they jokingly referred to as a "sanity check."

Her children believe that "one of her greatest gifts was how she instilled confidence in all her loved ones. She brought out the best in us. She was our best supporter. June made us feel special in a way that few can do. All of us who knew her thought of her as their own best friend. Also, she embodied forgiveness and the depth of love which springs forth from that quality. No matter what the incident or what the comment, June forgave all. She showed us that love means seeing only the good and giving people the benefit of the doubt all the time. In answer to the question, "Do we want to be right or do we want to be happy?" June managed to keep on the side of happiness.

Mrs. Williams is survived by sons, Jack (Mary Sue) of Plymouth, Dan (Joanna) of Hinsdale, Ill., Bob (Barbara) of Birmingham, Jim (Pam) of Bloomfield Hills, Tom (Mary Kay) of Traverse City, Ed (Susan) of Boulder, Colo., and Mike (Sharon) of Novi; daughters, Nancy (Bruce) Lehnert of Los Alamos, N.M., and Mary (Dennis) Atchinson of Northville; one sister, Margaret M. Williams; brother, James E. Shappee; and 24 grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Jack in 1978.

A funeral Mass was celebrated at St. Scholastica Catholic Church on Wednesday, May 24. Interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Arrangements were made by O'Brien Chapel/Sullivan Funeral Home of Novi.

Memorials to St. Scholastica Church, 17320 Rosemont, Detroit, MI 48219 or Hear My Voice, 1100 N. Main, Ann Arbor, MI 48104 would be appreciated by the family.

Tax break possible for potential OIS building buyer

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Township officials are considering a huge tax break for a company looking to possibly move to the area and bring more than 500 jobs and $40 million in capital investments.

The Michigan Economic Development Corp. requested the Northville Township Board of Trustees consider a tax abatement on the initial personal property investment for Florida-based Nanovation Technologies. The company is considering moving into the building formerly occupied by Optical Imaging Systems Inc., 47050 Five Mile Road. An abatement, which taxes personal property on half of its true cash value, could be worth more than $500,000.

Dawn Baetsen, managing director global business development for the Michigan Economic Development Corp., said Michigan is competing with cities in North Carolina and Texas.

"They are very willing to come and are pleased with the state of Michigan," she said. "I don't want them to consider coming if we can't give them a fair deal."

Nanovation designs, develops, and manufactures integrated optic devices. Products made include switches, splitters, couplers, waveguides, and filters. The company was established as U.S. Integrated Optics in 1996 and in 1998, the name was changed to Nanovation Technologies.

According to a memo to the "(Nanovation is) very willing to come and are pleased with the state of Michigan. I don't want them to consider coming if we can't give them a fair deal."

Dawn Baetsen
managing director, global business development
Michigan Economic Development Corporation

township board from the state organization. "The facility would be used to complete the development phase and manufacture and distribute integrated optical components. Over the five-year horizon, we would employ in excess of 500 people with an average hourly wage greater than $21 per hour. The anticipated capital investment would be in excess of $40 million."

Baetsen said the company is drawn to the area because of a solid labor force and the building was used for a similar purpose when Optical Imaging Systems ran part of its operations there.

Dick Henningsen, Northville Township supervisor, said the board "may have a sour taste in its mouth" after granting Optical Imaging Systems a tax abatement and it closed the Northville location shortly after it opened.

"I want to hear what a company representative has to say before I make up my mind," Henningsen said. "I'm still on the fence but my personal background on the issue tells me no."

Henningsen said he doesn't want to set a trend of granting tax abatements out of fairness to other businesses.

The initial investment would have to be large due to the amount of work to get the building back in shape, Baetsen said.

The building would require a large investment to get back to operating standards because the insides have been "gutted" of basic materials, such as ventilation unit parts, walls and materials from the "clean room." Henningsen said the board of trustees will mull the abatement and make a decision in June or July.

But Gov. John Engler said he is pulling to get the company into Michigan.

"As governor, attracting innovative businesses like Nanovation Technologies is one of my highest priorities," Engler said in a letter to Nanovation that was presented to the township board. "We appreciate the opportunity to discuss Nanovation's manufacturing project and business development needs."

Magic number is 200 at art fair: entries and attendance

By MELANIE PLEDA
Staff Writer

There's a lot of talent in Northville said Northville Arts Commission member Nancy Perpich.

The Commission sponsored a juried students fine arts festival. More than 200 parents and students came out to see the winning pieces at the First Presbyterian Church May 19.

Students' work ranging from metals to drawing were on display for the community to see.

"The parents and kids were so thrilled," Perpich said "I was practically in tears when I saw them all streaming in here. It was something to see."

The students' works were judged by local art aficionados. Grades K-12 could enter pieces in categories including sculpture, ceramics, two-dimensional visual arts, metalwork and photography. Perpich said the arts commission thought it was important to show the town just what talent lurks in the hearts and minds of the young people in it. The idea was brought to the attention by high school art teacher Brian Balcoff, said arts festival chair person Sue Taylor. And Perpich said Taylor took the idea and ran with it.

More than 200 pieces were selected for display and only 12 of them were chosen for first and second place ribbons.

"It was so hard to decide," Perpich said. "They were all so good."

The work of the student artists reflected many styles and techniques, but also a little bit of what it's like to be a young person today.

Some showed the depths of isolation and realism, such as in a photo taken by Northville High School student Christine Mimikos, in which a young woman stands alone in an alley with her back to the camera.

Others, such as 10th grader Liz Thomas' dazzling wire dragons decorated in beads showed the fun and elegance of metalwork.

Eleventh grader Brandon Sza-kowski managed to capture the tempestuous nature of the Terrible Twos with his photo of a small child shoveling birthday cake into her mouth.

Yet some of the work was haunting in its attention to detail such as ninth grader Amy Rauner's pencil depiction of an old Native American man. She fastidiously drew every crease, indentation and proof of life in his wise face.

"If these kids can do this now, just imagine what they will be doing in 10 years," Perpich said.

The Arts Festival is open to the public. The last day for the exhibit is May 25. It runs from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

LIVING UP TO REPUTATION

The Healthy Skin Index is a national survey of 866 females, 25 years old and older, commissioned by the American Society for Dermatological Surgery to assess attitudes and perceptions about cosmetic procedures to combat aging. The survey also looked at women's understanding of the difference in training and expertise among medical specialists offering cosmetic skin treatment. According to those surveyed, dermatologists or dermatological surgeons headed their lists of most qualified specialists. Forty-seven percent of the women believed they are best qualified to treat aging skin conditions. # Township may seek to buy Bushwood.

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials asked nicely, now they may resort to pulling out the big guns, or in this case, their checkbook.

The executive committee of the board of trustees plans to contact the owner of Bushwood Golf Course, 39430 Dun Rovin Drive, to express interest in buying it. The owner of the course is out of town until next week and was unavailable for comment.

A purchase, which is in the exploration stage, would give Northville area residents another public golf course in addition to the soon-to-be-opened Northville Hills Golf Club and a possible new community or senior citizen center.

And it would clean up the area. "This is all in the exploratory stage," said Mark Abbo, township board of trustees treasurer. "There has been no action taken, no economic evaluation — we haven't even spoken with the owner about it. It's just a concept we decided to explore and see if it takes us anywhere."

"We haven't even spoken with the owner about it. It's just a concept we decided to explore and see if it takes us anywhere."

According to the township board executive meeting minutes from May 16, "an appraisal needs to be done on the building only." Additionally, Russ Fogg, township board of trustee, said at the April 12 Northville Parks and Recreation meeting, "the township is considering buying Bushwood Golf Course and wondered if the recreation department would have a use for the clubhouse, perhaps as a senior center."

Abbo said it was an inappropriate time to discuss specifics about what the property would be used for or if the township is interested in the entire property or just the clubhouse.

"We have to evaluate it only after we talk to the owner," he said. "It may be an idea that is so far out of range it drops immediately."

Bushwood has had numerous negative dealings with the township in the last two years including liquor license violations and complaints about the landscaping of the property, especially from a neighboring subdivision.

"Country Club Village is trying to get him to shape up the front yard," said Dick Henningsen, township supervisor. "We would like to see it a lot better than it is. So we tossed it around at the executive committee meeting and decided to ask them if they want to sell the property."

The executive committee consists of Henningsen, Mark Abbo, board of trustees treasurer, and Sue Hillebrand, board of trustees clerk.

"This whole process is in the absolute first steps," Abbo said.

FORMER ELAINE'S BAGEL LOCATION TO OPEN IN EARLY JUNE

The bagel/deli cafe on Center Street formerly known as Elaine's Bagels formerly known as Motor City Bagels formerly known as Chesapeake Bagels soon will become the Bagel Deli Cafe.

Erwin Tonch, owner of the business and building, said he has purchased the assets of the building after Elaine's decided not to renew its lease for the location.

Tonch said he will reopen the location with a new name and attitude.

"Elaine's came in and managed the place and to be honest I don't think they did a good job of it," Tonch said.

The store should open by the first week of June.

NORTHVILLE HILLS GOLF CLUB OBTAINS LIQUOR LICENSE

The Northville Township board of trustees has approved a liquor license for a new business headed to the community.

Northville Hills Golf Club was awarded a Class C liquor license with a Sunday sales permit and an "official" permit for the sale of food on Sunday for the Northville Hills Golf Club.

The club will be located at 15565 Bay Hill Drive, which is off of Five Mile Road, between Sheldon Road and Beck Road.

Northville Hills Golf Club is owned and operated by Pennsylvania-based Toll Bros. Inc.

Northville VFW Post 4012 is helping raise more than $1.6 million to help build Michigan's Vietnam Monument.

The monument will be part of a 2.5-acre Michigan Veterans Memorial Park west of the state capitol in Lansing.

More than 400,000 veterans from Michigan served in Vietnam of which 2,649 died.

The monument is to be funded through donations and fundraisers and help is needed to distribute posters and brochures, solicit in-kind donations, volunteer time and help raise community awareness.

More information may be obtained by calling (800) 492-2649 or by visiting the VFW post in Northville, 438 S. Main St.

ANN ARBOR COMPANY AWARDED DESIGN CONTRACT FOR MILL POND

The Northville City Council has approved a contract for an Ann Arbor-based company to study and design improvements to the Northville Mill Pond.

The award follows the city reception of a grant from the Rouge Program Office to help improve the area along the Rouge River. The grant is for $180,000 and the city will contribute $20,000.

The study and design contract, awarded to JJR of Ann Arbor, is worth $65,792.

EXCESS PERSONAL COMPUTERS TO BE SOLD AT SENIOR GARAGE SALE

The Northville City Council has approved a recommendation to sell several excess computers at the Senior Center Garage Sale June 2-3.

The computers are excess as a result of several personal computer upgrades in the finance, fire, and parks and recreation departments. There are seven computers and five printers.

The city has received few or no bids for sale of used computer equipment in the past and as a result will attempt to sell the computers in the silent auction format at the Senior Center Garage Sale.

Bidding forms with minimum bids will be available at the sale.

WATERMAIN AGREEMENTS BETWEEN CITY AND TOWNSHIP SIGNED

The Northville Township board of trustees has signed an intergovernmental water main agreement with the city of Northville to service a house on Griswold.

The developer of the property at 640 Griswold St. requested the township to furnish public water service to their new building that is under construction. The closest line is in the township and serves the Northville Shores Condominium Association on Lakeshore Lane. Additionally, the city has no plans to serve the area east of the Middle Rouge with public water supply.

Several surrounding properties also will be privy to the service. Design and construction of the water main to their properties must be paid by them.

PARKS AND RECREATION BUDGET APPROVED BY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Northville Township board of trustees has approved the budgets of a local organization that receives partial funding from the township.

The group is the Northville Parks and Recreation Department. The parks and recreation budget was approved at $394,171. The approval is for fiscal year 2001.

The organization follows the city of Northville fiscal year, which runs July 1 to June 30.

PAYMENT AUTHORIZED FOR FIELD LIGHTING AT COMMUNITY PARK

The Northville Township board of trustees has approved a request for a payment of $69,601.50 to G&B Electric Co. for the athletic field lighting project at Northville Community Park.

The park had an opening ceremony May 12. However, the lights installed at the park had to be powered by a generator due to Detroit Edison's inability to install transformers. Edison was inundated with calls due to recent storms.

The most recent payment is the third one made to the company by the township.

Police seek to keep kids safe with Child Watch program

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The actions of a Livonia man who stalked young girls last summer has prompted Northville Township police to resurrect its Child Watch program.

Officer Matt Mayes, Northville Township police, will host volunteer training for the Child Watch program, May 31. The half-hour session was prompted by a Livonia man who would find young girls playing and masturbate.

He eventually was caught, but his actions served as a chilling reminder of how cautious children need to be when playing.

"In light of his actions, we were reminded that any community is susceptible to this kind of thing," Mayes said.

The Child Watch program was established in 1979 to reduce the opportunity for a child to become a victim of a crime. Participants are trained to observe, recognize, record, and report suspicious activities and people. Each volunteer is provided with a poster for display in their windows and a reference book.

All people, 18 years and older including parents, singles, grandparents, and senior citizens may participate.

Mayes said the last time Northville Township police offered the training was 1995.

"It's an easy thing to do," he said.

"All you have to do is have a poster in your window."

Mayes said currently there are about 120 of the signs placed in Northville Township.

To post a sign, a volunteer must attend a training session in which a video will be shown. Additionally, residents will be required to fill out a volunteer application and sign a waiver for the police department to do a background check.

Training will be 7-7:30 p.m., May 21 at the Northville Township Hall meeting room. Township Hall is at 41600 Six Mile Road, east of Winchester Drive.

More information may be obtained by calling Mayes at (248) 349-9400.

Mutt Strut takes to streets June 24

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

An upcoming Northville Chamber of Commerce event promises to have its participants sniffing each other and walking around on all fours.

Mutt Strut, planned for June 24, could bring as many as 500 dogs to downtown Northville as part of the promotional event. It's being sponsored by 106.7 FM, the "New Alice" radio station.

"Hopefully dog owners will fall in love with the community and come back," said Laurie Marrs, Northville Chamber of Commerce director.

Dog owners will pay a $15 "donation" to participate in the event with all of the proceeds going to the Michigan Humane Society.

"This is not a chamber fundraising event," Marrs said.

Participants will take part in a three-kilometer walk winding its way through the downtown Northville area.

The downtown area will benefit, she said, because dog owners may bring family members and friends to the area. That could lead to more dollars being spent in the community by those who take turns watching dogs while others shop.

"And if they don't do it that day, they'll see how great the community is and come back," she said.

The event was approved by Northville City Council 4-1. Carolann Ayers, mayor pro-tem, voted against the event.

"I fail to see the synergy between the Mutt Strut and promotion of the downtown area," she said at the most recent council meeting. "It's not a good idea."

Ayers said she had several concerns including the possibility of an extremely hot day, where the dogs will relieve themselves, and insurance.

But Marrs said the event is being held from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. to possibly avoid the blistering sun of a sultry summer day. Volunteers will line the streets to ensure dog walkers clean up after their animals and the chamber will carry the appropriate insurance for the event should any other accidents take place.

"We're hoping each dog owner will be responsible and the volunteers will make sure any messes are cleaned up," Marrs said.

Several streets will be blocked off for the strut and city of Northville Police will facilitate the closing.

The chamber of commerce will pay for the cost of the police officers, Marrs said.

The walk will lead to Ford Park where there will be several booths and exhibits related to dog care, including an "Ask the Vet" booth.

"The central business owners are very excited about the prospect of hundreds of new customers," Marrs said.

Verdict: state was wrong, but Selinsky can't run

paing for his job, which is why he filed a motion to intervene in Selinsky and Bee's case against the Secretary of State and bureau of elections. Lowe is in his sixth year of his first term.

"A campaign puts tremendous demands on a candidate's family, friends, and job in addition to costing time and money," Lowe said. "I am unwilling to subject my family to the demands of a six-month campaign for two challengers who fail to follow state laws."

Selinsky, currently a Northville Township board of trustees member, said he was baffled by Lowe's concerns about being challenged.

"This is an election year for an incumbent judge," Selinsky said. "He would have to campaign no matter who was on the ballot. It should not make a difference to him that the two candidates who want to campaign for the position have to obtain a court order to get on the ballot because of an admitted error by the Secretary of State."

The problem started with printed requirements provided by the Secretary of State that said the minimum number of signatures required on petitions to run for judge in the 35th District was 40 and the maximum was 100. Selinsky turned in 86 signatures on his petition from Northville Township, the city of Northville, Plymouth Township, the city of Plymouth and Canton Township.

William Selinsky

However, just a few hours before the petition deadline on May 2, Selinsky said he was informed by the bureau of elections he did not have the right number of signatures. The requirement had been changed based on the population and instead of 40 signatures, 600 would be needed despite the printed requirements Selinsky was given by the bureau of elections.

Lowe said he himself brought the matter to the attention of the bureau after being informed by the Northville Record May 1 that he had a challenger.

Lowe said he was talking with another judge the morning of May 2 and told that judge he had "pulled a challenger." The other judge told him 40 signatures seemed low, because other districts had requirements in the hundreds. Lowe said he then questioned the number and the clerk realized the numbers printed were incorrect.

"I never dreamed I would open this kind of thing up," Lowe said. Even though the bureau admitted to making a mistake, Selinsky said he was advised they could not allow him on the ballot.

"They said they didn't feel they could rectify the problem without having a judge involved," he said.

Lansing seeks to provide oasis from consumer fraud

By MIKE MALOTT
HomeTown News Service
mmalott@homecomm.net

Slamming, cramming, credit reporting problems, medical billing fraud and nursing home care are among the concerns most on the minds of consumers, according to the findings of the House Republican Task Force on Consumer Issues.

But the biggest frustration for consumers, said state Reps. Laura Toy, R-Livonia, and Mark Jansen, R-Grand Rapids, is that when they have a problem they often do not know whom to call.

In fact, many of the phone calls lawmakers receive in their Lansing offices from constituents turned out to be, not government related, but consumer complaints.

To address that, the representatives are proposing to create a "universal complaint hotline." Not only would staffers operating the toll-free number provide a referral service for complaining consumers — directing the callers not only to the correct level of government, federal, state or local, but to the specific department — and would compile lists of the calls it gets to keep lawmakers informed about what kinds of consumer complaints are on the minds of constituents.

Toy and Jansen are also asking that lawmakers begin to receive quarterly reports about consumer complaints from the various state departments that typically handle them; the Attorney General, Consumer and Industry Services, the Department of Environmental Quality, the Family Independence Agency, the Department of Transportation, and others. The purpose is to keep elected officials "pry to the most common consumer complaints and help develop legislative solutions to those problems."

Those proposals were among a list unveiled Monday, April 24, by Toy and Jansen at a press conference in Livonia. They were contained in a report issued by the task force as a result of hearings held around the state last summer. Members of the task force — including Reps. Toy, Randy Richardville, R-Monroe, Steve Year, R-Hillsdale, Clark Bisbee, R-Jackson, Charles LaSata, R-St. Joseph, and Jason Allen, Traverse City — conducted six hearings across the state from Monroe to Traverse City which drew, on average, crowds of 25 attendees.

This is the 32nd task force report to be issued by the House Republican Policy Committee, chaired by Jansen, since its formation in 1987. Toy said task force efforts are intended to keep the lawmakers in touch with their constituents. Past task force reports have generated many new state laws.

In the hearings, lawmakers identified three areas of consumer concern that they can address in legislation — telephone slamming and cramming, nursing home care and medical billing practices.

Slamming is already illegal in Michigan under law passing in 1998, but it remains the number one source of complaints from state residents to the Federal Communications Commission. Some 2,800 slamming complaints were filed in 1998 to the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Phone companies are supposed to receive a "letter of authority" or verify the customer's request through a third party before switching long distance services, but "there are many ways in which unscrupulous companies prey on unknowing consumers and use deceptive measures to obtain service," according to the task force report.

"For instance, there are phone companies named: Hold, I Don't Care, I Don't Know. During a typical phone solicitation, the caller (representing the company Hold) may ask in the middle of the call, 'Can I put you on Hold?' An answer in the affirmative results in the switching of the consumer's telephone carrier."

Likewise, according to Toy, cramming is also illegal. That is the practice of adding charges to a consumer's phone bill that the consumer did not ask for. But it still is a source of many complaints.

To address these concerns, the task force is recommending a number of changes in law, including:

- Legislation requiring "truth in billing." This legislation would require any company adding a charge to a consumer's phone bill to also include a toll free number at which the company can be reached and the company's address. Residents who testified before the committee hearings complained that when they find unauthorized items on their phone bills, there is often no phone number or address where the company can be reached to file a complaint.

- Increase the penalties for slamming and cramming. Already, consumers can dispute their bills when they have been slammed, and the law prohibits the company from collecting more than what the customer would have paid the old phone company for the same services. However, the task force believes that allows slammers to still make a profit. So, the task force is proposing legislation to prohibit slamming companies from collecting any fees.

- Legislation requiring background checks for anyone seeking to enter the telecommunications market in Michigan.

- Creation of a "no call" list which would allow consumers to block phone solicitors from dialing them up.

Toy noted that lawmakers, learning the lesson from telephone deregulation, also are proposing bills to prevent slamming and cramming when the state similarly deregulates electric and gas service. Reps. Richardville and Mike Kowall, R-White Lake, have already introduced bills to outlaw the practice in those utilities.

Nursing home care was not an area the task force anticipated reviewing, Toy said, but the number of complaints heard by the committee prompted several recommendations for new laws including:

- Continuing the state's Elder

Prescription Insurance Coverage program and promoting it better to make more Michigan seniors aware that it is available.

- Requiring criminal background checks for employees of nursing homes and county medical care facilities. Such background checks are already being proposed in legislation sponsored by Rep. Gerry Law, R-Plymouth.

- Requiring care facilities to provide prospective patients with written descriptions of the services they provide.

- Creating an insurance program to provide for long term care.

To deal with complaints about medical claims, the task force recommended requiring use of a standardized medical claim form.

Additional recommendations of the task force included having the Department of Consumer and Industry Services make its disciplinary data base more accessible to state residents, so they can find out when a professional licensed through the state, such as a health care provider, has been disciplined.

And the task force suggested legislation requiring that security deposits required by hotels be credited back more quickly to consumers' accounts. Toy said some credit card companies do not reverse the security deposit charge until as much as 30 days later. This is particularly a problem for travelers, she explained, who may quickly find their credit cards are at their limits due to unreturned security deposits.

State prepares for hot weather, ozone action days

By MIKE MALOTT
HomeTown News Service
mmalott@homecomm.net

"Ozone Action" days always occur on warm, cloudless, "gorgeous" summer days.

"The sky is bright blue. It's the kind of day we wait for all winter long," said Anita Blasius, manager of public outreach for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. "Some folks think that if they can't see it, it's not a problem. You can see smog and that tells you the air is dirty, but you can't see ozone."

Ozone in the stratosphere protects humans from ultraviolet radiation, but at ground level, it is a pollutant. High concentrations can be an irritant to the lungs, causing breathing problems especially for sensitive people, the young, and the elderly. Those who work or exercise outdoors are also at risk because they inhale deeply as a result of their physical activity.

Laura DeGuire, environmental air quality specialist for the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, says the effect is like a "sunburn on the lungs." For most, it is likely to be a minor problem, but repeated exposures to high levels of ozone can lead to more serious health consequences later on.

Environmental experts predict there will be a high number of Ozone Action days this summer. SEMCOG and the Clean Air Coalition of Southeast Michigan — a collection of more than 30 businesses and environmental and health advocacy organizations — are urging citizens to participate in Ozone Action days this summer, taking steps to reduce pollution on days when the conditions are right for high concentrations of ozone.

The ozone season, running May through September, is likely, he another record-setter this year, according to Jeff Jaros, senior meteorologist for the air quality division of the MDEQ. He expects to see more than the record of 25 Ozone Action days set in 1999.

The reason is that the weather is expected to be hot and dry. No, Jaros said, it is not a result of global warming. Rather, it is due to low precipitation levels during the winter and spring months. Light snow falls after January and little

"You can see smog and that tells you the air is dirty, but you can't see ozone."

Anita Blasius
Southeast Michigan Council of Governments

rain during the spring has left the soil in southeastern Michigan relatively dry. Moisture in the ground typically has a cooling effect, Jaros explained, carrying heat away as it evaporates. But since the ground is dry this year, higher than normal temperatures are forecasted for the region.

Jaros said he does not expect it to be as bad as the summer of 1988, when Michigan set a record for the number of days over 100 degrees. But he does predict temperatures to be above normal. Also, there is a possibility that the drought now being experienced in other parts of the country could occur here too, later in the year.

Ozone is created when hydrocarbons — from automobile and lawn mower exhaust, industrial emissions, gasoline vapors and even fumes from household cleaning chemicals — reacts with oxides of nitrogen and sunlight. Residents can have a significant impact on ozone levels, by taking the recommended steps to reduce hydrocarbon emissions on days declared as Ozone Action days.

An estimated 58 percent of ozone comes from auto emissions, Blasius said. Residents can reduce that by driving less. "Linking trips" helps cut emissions because car engines produce less exhaust once they are warmed up, DeGuire said.

Gasoline fumes account for eight percent of the ozone. Waiting to fill up car tanks until dusk will help cut down on that portion of the problem.

If you must get gas, at least don't top off the tank, advised Blasius, a Canton resident who also serves as the manager of the coalition's ozone program.

"When you fill up all the way," she said, "you just push all those fumes right back out of the tank and into the atmosphere."

Another 7 percent of the ozone levels come from lawn mower and motorboat exhaust, which have engines with no pollution controls.

"Our polls show 80 percent of the residents in southeast Michigan recognize the program and 77 percent participate in Ozone Action days in some way, taking some action. The most popular way is by not mowing the lawn. What a surprise!" Blasius said, laughing. "Our motto is grab the lawn chair, not the lawn mower."

Residents can use Ozone Action days as an excuse to put off other chores as well. Household cleaners, degreasers and paints all add to the hydrocarbon content in the air. In fact, Blasius said, household chemicals account for another 7 percent of the ozone in the air.

Industries do contribute to the problem, according to DeGuire, but regulations have reduced their emissions drastically in recent years. There are 130 sources of industrial hydrocarbon emissions in the region and they can be made to shut down on high ozone days, she said. Still, it is not unusual for high ozone levels to occur on Saturdays, when those businesses are already closed.

The majority of ozone comes from residents.

The Clean Air Coalition's six-year-old Ozone Action effort is a "premier" program, DeGuire said. It was one of the first in the country and has served as a model for similar programs in western Michigan and elsewhere in the Midwest.

The program gathers together meteorologists from the state MDEQ and the private sector, who meet daily to talk about weather conditions predicted for the following day. If the conditions are right, they'll issue an advisory, which is disseminated by SEMCOG.

Residents can look for advisories over the Internet by checking the SEMCOG home page at www.semco.org. Advisories are also issued by phone, at (800) 633-3AIR. Television and radio stations and local newspapers also frequently carry the ozone advisories as part of their weather forecasts.

Students exposed to life behind wheel while drunk

The number of drinks, program instructor Jerry Barnhardt said, is equivalent to a .11 Blood Alcohol Level (BAC), which is above the legal limit. Once this is entered into the car's computer, the neon's steering and breaking responses are delayed. This is to demonstrate the slowed physical and mental responses of a driver under the influence.

With these impairments, the student drivers try to maneuver through the orange pylon course without hitting them or the cardboard pedestrians who pop up on the course.

Students are allowed to go around the track once with the car in normal mode. Once around, the instructor programs the computer with the number of drinks. As the car swerves out of control, Barnhardt calmly says, "you've just hit a highway divider." As a student comes up on the "pedestrians," he reminds the driver to watch the cardboard cut outs which lay on the ground and instructs students to hit the breaks when they "pop up." The cut out, in the shape of small children, pop up but as the student hits the breaks, the car continues to roll. Even as the instructor yells "stop, stop, stop," the car refuses to cooperate.

Once the breaks are released, the car comes to a stop just as there is a tremendous thump from under the car. Barnhardt says, "you've just killed a person."

While some students took their chances on the obstacle course, others were finding out what it would be like to get caught drinking and driving. Northville Police Officer and D.A.R.E. liaison to the schools, Matt Mayes, allowed students to put on night blurred vision goggles as well as daytime blurred goggles. He asked them to walk a straight line with the goggles on.

"As students staggered across, over, and next to the line established on the ground, they could see how much their equilibrium is off when they are drunk," Mayes said.

"This is just one of many things we do on a traffic stop," he said.

"This shows their visual perception is at about a .08 BAC."

The mock drunk students managed to have some fun while they twisted and stumbled through these courses but Santer hoped they caught the underlying message.

"Just because we live in Northville and most of us have money, it doesn't matter. Stuff happens," he said. "Drunk driving affects everyone; old, young, black, white. It doesn't matter."

Property seizure possible if Woolly Bullys doesn't pay

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Northville Township officials are threatening to seize the property of the former Woolly Bully's restaurant for unpaid taxes.

The owner of the restaurant, Mark Roman, owes the township about $9,000 for unpaid personal property taxes from 1999, according to township records.

Thelma Kubitskey, Northville Township finance director, said the township has sent a letter to the owner of the former restaurant indicating the township's intention to seize the property if the taxes are not paid.

"We have threatened to seize property before," Kubitskey said.

"We showed up and were ready to start hauling property away and the owner was able to come up with a cashier's check."

Roman did not return telephone calls to the Northville Record.

Personal property taxes are those business owners must pay to the municipalities in which they do business based on the value of property not attached to the building, such as cash registers or kitchen equipment. Municipalities are responsible for collecting personal property taxes.

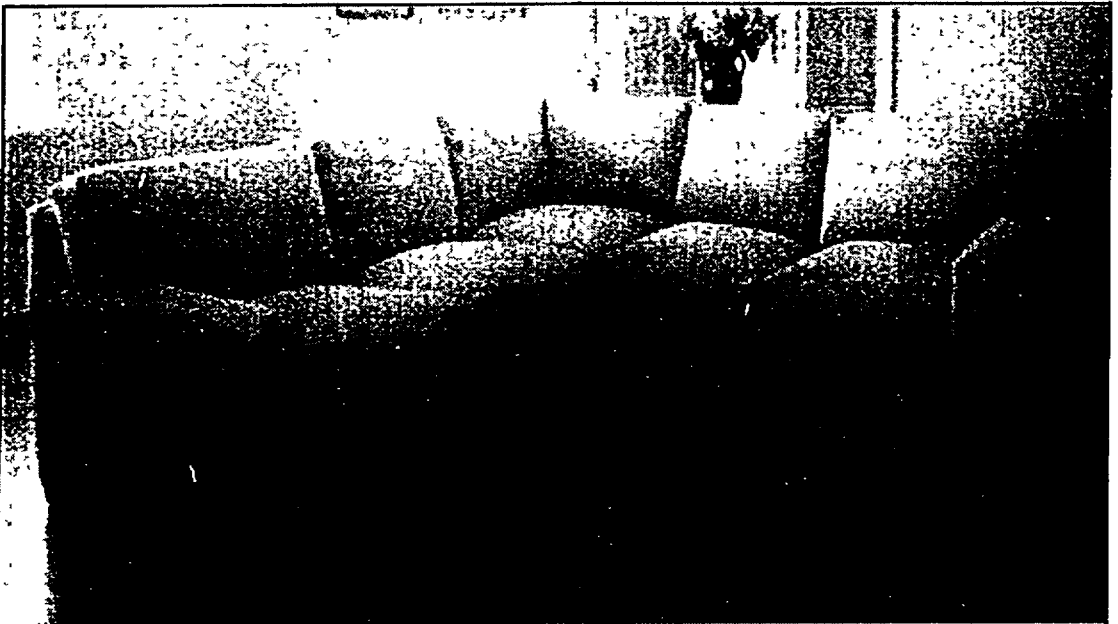

Kubitskey said Roman hasn't responded to a letter sent to him that said he has to pay the taxes or face seizure of property. At the advice of the township attorney, Roman was given the option of having Ken Mehl, a Westland man who intends to purchase the restaurant, pay the taxes and take $9,000 off of the purchase price.

Mehl announced in February intentions to purchase the restaurant and convert it to an Irish pub-like atmosphere, much like Blarney Bay, a restaurant in Westland that he owns.

Mehl did not return telephone calls to the Record.

HomeTown debuts new digital network

abuse or fraud," Power said. "We'll start with local merchants whose stores are familiar to our readers. We'll provide them with Web page design and hosting services in our e-mail. And we'll connect them with our readers through regular promotions in our trusted hometown newspapers," Power added.

"A strong Internet presence is vital for any company these days. But there are lots of local businesses that want to get on the Web but don't quite know how to do it or figure it just costs too much," Power explained. "We think we can help these folks out and at the same time, provide a real service to our local readers."

According to Dave Morin, HomeTown's Vice President for Technology, all the Internet activities now located in the various newspapers of the group will eventually be transferred to hometowndigital.com, the new corporation. "We think it's far better for our digital staff to concentrate solely on Internet applications and e-commerce in a corporate environment quite distinct from our newspapers," he explained.

Morin also said he is looking for able, energetic and entrepreneurial people to join the new company.

"For people who want to be part of the most exciting industry in the world today, this is an ideal opportunity. Right now, we're looking for a General Manager to build and drive the organization. It's a terrific opportunity to get in on the ground floor of the most exciting Internet organization in the region," Morin can be reached by e-mail at dmorin@homecomm.net.

Morin explained that the new company would be incorporated within HomeTown Communications Network on the idea that, if successful, it might be spun out and taken public at some future date.

Offices for hometowndigital.com will be located in Southeastern Michigan, currently a hotbed of Internet and information technology organizations. Morin said he is looking for space in Ann Arbor, Royal Oak or Birmingham.

Van Ochten is tops for science class

the bottom of the boa help it to move. For chemistry, we take apart the animals' food and look at its chemical make up and how it is digested by the animal," he said.

Van Ochten took these basic scientific principles and began designing labs his students could do by illustrating these principles.

"I really wanted to get the kids to see the real life application of these things and to be able to really get their hands in there," he said.

Van Ochten said this type of lesson is at times more difficult for the teacher. He doesn't use pre-designed labs often, he said, so each one had to be designed to fit the curriculum. Further there is a considerable amount of setting up and taking down of the labs he is also responsible for. However, he said, once they get started, they run themselves he said.

Van Ochten said this trend of hands on in the classroom is a new one but is something they are now teaching future teachers on a college level.

"I think it changed because students are inundated with information everywhere they go. Teachers needed to do something that gave them extra focus and the hands on projects do that for them," he said.

Additionally, Van Ochten said students are now learning at a much higher level than when he was in school.

"I am teaching concepts to eighth graders that I didn't do until tenth grade when I was in school," he said.

Van Ochten is also still in school. He is in a Masters of Physics Program through Eastern Michigan University where he also earned his bachelors and teaching certificate.

The former Mr. Wizard's World assistant said though he was pleased with the award, he wants to get his masters, perfect his labs, gather new ones, and continue teaching as long as he can.

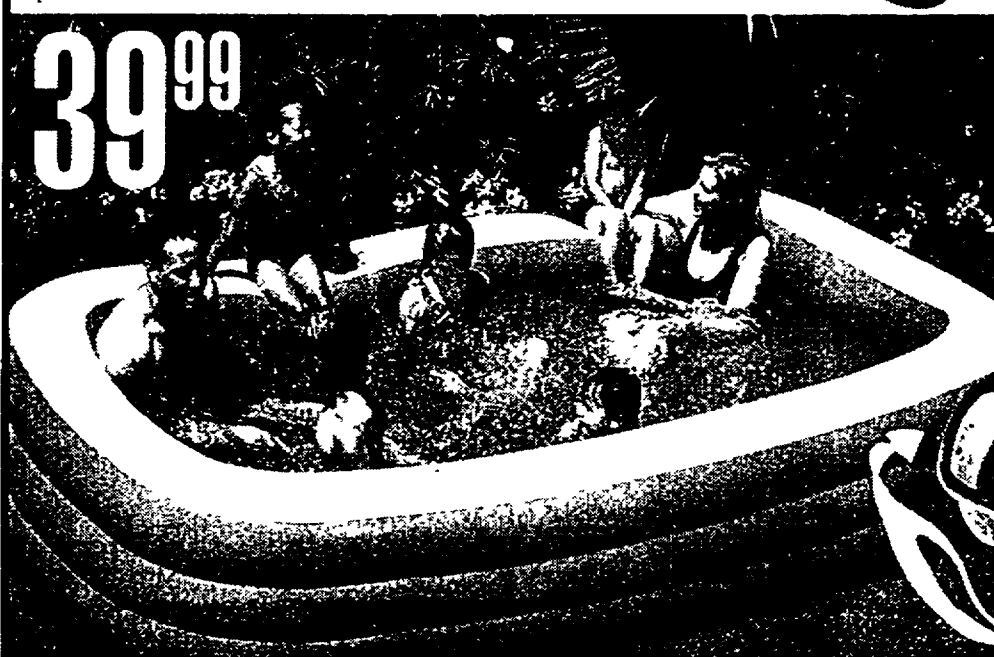

"I just love being with the kids. They are great and they keep me up on all the latest music," he said. "They keep me young."

OPINION

The war seemingly over, the masses just disappear

There were 400 parents crying foul when the district dared to do something without their input.

They came out in droves for a subcommittee meeting about the controversial health class.

But where were they the night of May 22?

The night the future members of their district's school board spoke to only 48 members of the community. And if you take out six school board members, the four people there to help the candidates sort questions, the two people who don't have kids in the district, the reporter and the Superintendent, they were speaking to a grand total of 34 members of the community.

What's wrong with this picture? Where is the follow-through on this commitment to bettering the education of the children in this district?

Well, because the people who spoke out about the class got their way can now go back to not going to meetings and allowing a board of people who are not their children's parents to make decisions for them.

It is simple to go to one meeting, stand up, and get applauded for your beliefs or write a letter and effect a change. There is a palpable outcome. But it takes more dedication and commitment to actually come out and listen to district decisions being made when channel four news isn't there, when there is no controversy, and it is simply the fact that this is your children's education and every decision the board makes affects it.

If you take out six school board members, the four people there to help the candidates sort questions, the two people who don't have kids in the district, the reporter and the superintendent, they were speaking to a grand total of 34 members of the community.

It can't stop at one meeting. It can't stop at a letter to an administrator. Go into the schools and to the debates and finally to a voting booth.

The people who did not attend are putting their trust in people they don't even know.

Moreover, they are entrusting their children's futures to these people they don't know. And yes, these candidates are community members and they are in our local grocery stores and have been over to homes in the community for cocktails. But they have very definite opinions on issues that will very definitely affect Northville's children.

Everyone in this community is a prospective employer of these people and we apparently have little trouble in hiring them without knowing their qualifications or their views on their job.

In fact, we're almost handing them the keys to the building and hardly knowing their names.

No one would run a corporation like that, so why are we letting the school district run like that?

Don't give up the fight this Memorial Day weekend

Believe it or not, there is a war going on at this very moment.

It's a hard-fought war, which tests the resolve of its leaders and foot soldiers, where desperate moments will be arrived at.

It's the war to sustain the half-century of peace we've enjoyed in America. And unlike other wars, where women and men have shed their blood so that the world might enjoy the fruits of freedom, this battle rages on across tables and in embassies, where words are exchanged, but not artillery shells.

We didn't get to this point easily. It took a separation from Great Britain, a re-separation from England, a war within our own borders, a battle against Mexico, two wars of global proportion, lengthy ordeals in Korea and Vietnam and a handful of regional uprisings to arrive at this moment, where for the time being, the guns are silenced.

This peace which surrounds us isn't just an absence from war. It's a dedicated on ongoing effort to preserve justice and liberty for everyone, everywhere.

This Memorial Day weekend, while families unite at cabins and boats are put back into the water for another summer season, take a moment and think about the heroic efforts and dedication to duty and honor made by tens of thousands of Americans who have worked to make the world and our country better places. Were it not for them, our ability to relax and soak in the unofficial kickoff to summer would likely not be taking place.

For veterans, this is a day to thank them. Our debt to them will never be paid, but by giving them but a few moments of honor, we can at least show them we care.

For those on active duty, this is a day to keep them in our hearts. True, we aren't at war in its traditional sense. But the American presence at locations around the globe sends a message to the world that we will never let oppression and intolerance stand in the way of liberty.

Like the bumper sticker says, if you love your country, thank a vet. But don't stop there.

Vote.

Fight for what's right, not just for what's popular.

Give back to your community.

These are the simple things we can all do to show our veterans that their efforts haven't gone unnoticed. Freedom isn't free, you know.

The perils of air travel meet religion

More random thoughts and observations on life...

To the casual reader, finding out that Northville Township now has round-the-clock fire protection may not be that big a deal. To me, however, it sends two signals. First, it's a clear indicator that the township is pretty far gone from being a cornfield off Six Mile Road nowadays. Second, it says that the most recent public safety millage voters approved is being tapped into. It was said the money was needed. The proof is there to be seen today.

Nearly every time I've gone, I've had a good time at Woolly Bullies. I know a lot of people can't stand the look of the place, but I've always had a thing for those wild, rock 'n' roll nostalgia-type places. (My basement will probably end up having that kind of a look to it.) But to hear that things have gotten to the point where property tax woes are prompting the township to start seizing stuff out of Woolly Bullies...that's not good. No one wants to look like the bad guy in this, but as this newspaper has illustrated in the past, if you haven't paid your taxes, something's got to give.

All I'm saying is that if you happen to be on a plane bound for Detroit, and midway through your flight the pilot announces that the jet is turning around because the hydraulics on the landing gear are jammed, and that you shouldn't be worried about the sight of police and fire crews waiting on the runway for the emergency landing (because that's just standard operating procedure), well, you may notice a sudden spike in your belief in an afterlife.

Chris C. Davis

Not that this sort of thing happened to me, you understand.

I can guarantee you I'll be down at First Presbyterian Church of Northville by the end of this week to catch the art show down there. Don't kid yourself — simply because a piece was created by a student and not some commissioned certified art world champion doesn't mean it's not excellent work. Besides that, art is a outlet through which anyone, especially young people, can express their individuality in a constructive and positive manner. There's a message in each of the creations at the show. It's up to us to find the message.

Let me see if I've got this straight: Take a political hot potato (like a sex ed class) and have folks come out by the dozen to demand that the freedom to educate their children in a manner that is in accordance with their moral and religious beliefs not be infringed upon. On the other hand, bring together four people who will have ultimate authority over policies like health education, and you couldn't pay folks to show up and listen to them discuss their positions on educational issues. Did I miss anything?

Speaking of educational requirements, is there any way that the Northville school district can make the drunk driving simulation a "must-take" before graduation? I can't think of a better way to illustrate to students the importance of responsible driving. Which, might I add, is a privilege and not a right.

Since it's been almost 10 years since the U.S.'s last major military operation, 30 years since Vietnam, and 55 years since the end of WWII, it's little wonder to me why so many people — especially younger ones — don't really see the value in Memorial Day. Having said that, it is important that each of us take just a moment this weekend to remember and appreciate the unselfish sacrifices made so that every one of us can live in a land so great.

Our copy editor Kelli Cooley was recently honored by the Tri-County Alliance for her news coverage of educational issues in Macomb, Oakland and Wayne counties. She did the work that got her the award while working at our sister paper, the Milford Times. That doesn't mean that I'm not proud of her. I'm elated that I've got a writer of her caliber on staff.

In Focus by John Heider

Home of the brave

U.S. Marines march through downtown Northville during a Memorial Day parade. A similar parade is slated for Monday morning.

Fat, lazy and moody...that's my cat

Mutt strut? What about a cat strut? I laugh even as I write this that my obstinate, overweight tabby would think about donning a leash to strut around town and show off her nice and shiny coat.

Pet owners are going to love this event, which is coming up in Northville on June 24.

Fido and Fee Fee will get groomed, perhaps with a new bow or handkerchief added to his hair. The owners will get matching outfits and maybe buy a new leash.

But however dressed up or non-dressed up you get, it is an event to get out in the community. It may seem a little silly, but the purpose is to meet people, have fun and entertain your pet all at the same time. Sounds like a good idea to me.

CAT TALK

My cat K.C. needs some entertaining too, however there isn't much you can do with a 16-pound cat.

I know what you're going to say. It is not healthy for a cat to weigh that much. Trust me, I know the drill, but in all actuality, she doesn't eat that much. She just doesn't do anything either.

If I get out a ribbon and try to get her to chase me, it lasts about five minutes.

HUMAN CHARACTERISTICS

Kelli Cooley

Have you ever noticed that your pet picks up on some of your or a family member's personality? I've sat back and thought about my cat, who is very much like me and realized that:

1. I don't exercise and neither does she;
2. I can be crabby, and so can she;
3. K.C. actually has an attitude — I won't go there;
4. When she wants attention, she lets me know. Funny, I pick up the phone whenever I need attention and make somebody talk to me.

My favorite thing about K.C. is that she does have character. She doesn't just sit there but she flicks her tail at me when she's mad, she purrs when she is happy and she meows like crazy when she wants me to get something for her or pay attention to her.

JUST LIKE FAMILY

Perhaps that's why a lot of people treat their pets like children. My aunt and uncle have a dog that gets treated better than a kid. It has a fenced in backyard, its own room, own dishes, and tons of love. The only problem with treating animals that way is that we get so attached. They unfortunately have shorter life spans then we do and that can make it rough on the owners and the whole family.

K.C. had several things wrong with her a few weeks ago and I set out to find the best vet, even if it was just a cold.

By help of a friend, I ended up at Meadowbrook Veterinary Clinic on Meadowbrook Road near Ten Mile. I could have kissed everyone's feet there for making me feel not so silly. Sure, it ended up just being a cold, but they made her comfortable and made sure K.C. was okay. They also calmed down the owner, which was a good thing too. My cat is 12 and although, she may live to be 20, I feel like she won't live that much longer.

My fears were dispersed and I walked out happy with a healthy, albeit obstinate, cat.

Now, if I can just teach her to do tricks...

Wake me when there's an appointment

"The presidential appointments process now verges on complete collapse." So concludes Paul C. Light, of the Brookings Institution (usually a liberal Washington think tank) and Virginia L. Thomas, of the Heritage Foundation (usually conservative) in a study of the experiences of 435 cabinet and sub-cabinet officials who served in the Reagan, Bush and Clinton administrations.

Some found treatment by the White House appointments people "an ordeal."

Others — 35 percent of Reagan administration appointees and 57 percent of Clinton's nominees — were held hostage to the politics of the U. S. Senate in waiting for confirmation hearings.

That's one reason a lot of talented people are not about to consider appointment to top government positions.

A perfect instance of this general problem concerns the nominations of two Michigan lawyers to fill vacancies on the U. S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals that have been twisting slowly in the wind of the U. S. Senate for far too long.

Helene White is presently a member of the Michigan Court of Appeals; nominated by President Clinton in January 1997, Judge White has yet to receive a hearing from the Senate Judiciary Committee. Kathleen McCree Lewis, the daughter of former U. S. Solicitor General Wade McCree, is a partner in the Dykema Gossett law firm in Detroit; her nomination has been pending before the Judiciary Committee since September, 1999.

Circuit Courts of Appeals are enormously important federal appellate courts, just one step down from the U. S. Supreme Court. Appointments to these courts are made by presidential nomination, followed by hearings conducted by the Judiciary Committee and by a confirmation vote of the entire Senate.

The Sixth Circuit is authorized to have 16 judges. Currently, the Court has four vacancies, one of which goes back for five years. For the Court to operate at 75 percent efficiency means long delays to the litigants and enormous workloads for the remaining judges (each of whom now has a caseload of 550 cases each year). Authorities now consider the number of vacancies in the federal court system to constitute a "judicial emergency."

What's going on here? Michigan's Senator Carl Levin, a Democrat and a minority member of the Judiciary Committee, says it's because Republicans in the Senate, hoping to win the presidency this fall, have decided to hold up judicial nominations from the Clinton White House.

As evidence, he produces a table showing that while the Democrats controlled the Senate during the Bush Administration, a total of 66 federal judges were confirmed. However, when the GOP ran the Senate during the first term of the Clinton Administration, 17 judges were confirmed. So far in Clinton's second term, the Senate has confirmed only seven judges, with a total of 33 judicial nominees hanging fire before the Judiciary Committee without any hearings scheduled on their nominations. There are at present 81 vacancies in the federal judiciary.

Michigan's other Senator, Spencer Abraham, is also a member of the Judiciary Committee, but as a Republican his party controls the committee.

I asked Joe Davis, a spokesman for Senator Abraham, how come it's taken three and a half years (in the case of Judge White) and eight months (in the case of lawyer Lewis) just to get the committee to hold hearings on their nominations.

According to Davis, "Senator Abraham does not know whether or when hearings will take place. He wants them to take place, though."

That's nice. Frankly, I suspect if Senator Abraham really wanted the Judiciary Committee to hold hearings on these nominations, he'd find a way to do it PDQ.

A member of the Sixth Circuit, Judge Gilbert S. Merit, wrote in March a letter to Senate Judiciary Chairman Orrin Hatch: "The Founding Fathers certainly intended that the Senate 'advise' as to judicial nominations, i.e., consider, debate and vote up or down. They surely did not intend that the Senate, for partisan or factional reasons, would remain silent and simply refuse to give any advice or consider and vote at all, thereby leaving the courts in limbo, understaffed and unable properly to carry out their responsibilities for years."

Senator Abraham is running for reelection this fall. He is stressing his performance as an effective senator in his campaign. Somebody should ask him why he can't get his committee to give two able, thoughtful and well respected Michigan lawyers the courtesy of timely hearings on their nominations to the federal judiciary that is currently hamstrung in carrying out its work.

Local governments works — I know so

Imagine for a moment that you live in a large city. Pick any big city. Let's say you've got a problem — caterpillars are attacking the trees in your yard and they're out of control. You want help.

Would you be able to get the mayor on the phone immediately to help you out? Probably not.

It wasn't that long ago I had exactly that problem. It was when gypsy moths were so out of control here in Michigan and I was just realizing they had arrived on my property in vast numbers. It was almost scary.

Fortunately for me, I live in a township.

I made a phone call to township hall, expecting to speak to a receptionist. After I explained my problem, my call was transferred ... just once. The township supervisor picked up the phone.

How bad was the problem, he wanted to know. Where exactly did I live? I could hear the sounds of maps rustling the background as I gave him the address.

The township would be spraying in a couple weeks, he said, and he'd add my lot to the list. I'd be charged for it on my tax bill. How much? He not only gave me the amount, he knew it off the top of his head.

The thing was done. One phone call. The supervisor handled it. And I've never had a problem with gypsy moths since.

Now, this just happened to be Tom Zoner, supervisor of Commerce Township. But the reason I point it out is that this kind of responsiveness is only possible in very small governments. Township government is expert at it. You couldn't hope for that kind of a response in a big city. You certainly don't get it when you're dealing with county or state levels of government.

Mike Malott

I was reminded of this recently when reading "The Future of Local Government in Michigan," a huge report put out just this month by the Michigan Municipal League Foundation. It's an examination of the role of local government in the coming century. It attempts to look at the challenges local governments face, what their strengths and weaknesses are, and what these units can do to improve services.

It begins with a paper critical of local government by the Citizens Research Council entitled "A Bird's Eye View of Michigan Local Government at the End of the Twentieth Century." I've mentioned it before in this column. There are too many local units in this state, more than 1,800, the CRC paper said. They often have overlapping responsibilities and duplicate services. Duplication can lead to inefficiencies, running up the cost of government. Taxation for all these overlapping units can be confusing. Consolidation of local governments would make things better, the CRC concluded.

"Township residents have grasped what the authors of 'Bird's Eye' missed. Township government is economical, responsive, accountable and accessible," the Michigan Township Association said in a response, also included in the MML report.

That statement just about says it all. My experience with township government certainly supports the "responsive, accountable and accessible" point.

The MTA points out that township taxes are lower than those in cities, particularly big cities. If bigger governments were capable of achieving economies of scale, wouldn't they be lower in big cities? The MTA also points out that townships are often able to get the job done less expensively because they can do it with volunteers and part-timers, which cost much less than professional politicians.

The issue of local versus state government will likely come into sharper focus if a petition drive, "Let Local Votes Count," makes the ballot for this fall's election. Sponsored also by the MML, it proposes requiring a two-thirds vote of the state legislature to pass a bill that would overrule local control on some issue. It goes too far, I believe, because almost everything the state does could be viewed in that light.

But officials and bureaucrats at the state level who are preparing to campaign against it would do well to remember that there is little they can offer that rivals the ability of small governments to deliver services to residents.

No wonder residents here love their cities and townships, no matter how much the academics and policy researchers conclude there are better ways to run a government.

Letters to the Editor

Women have gained much through the years

To the editor:

One wonders if women realize how important the next election could be to the rights that they and their daughters have come to assume as a matter of course. Not only might they not get any new needed protection from the federal government or maybe even the state government, they could very easily lose what was gained by years of struggle.

Right now, the Supreme Court continues to divide on critical civil rights issues by a split of 5-4. It recently found that the states could discriminate against its employees because of age without their having any recourse in federal courts. It now follows this by overturning the Violence Against Women Act; women can no longer go to federal courts for protection. If their local courts ignore them, well, that's just too bad.

The five members of the majority, which is nullifying civil rights, were all appointed by Republican presidents. The replacement of only one member can have enormous consequences in the future and it is expected that the next president may appoint as many as three. If that one or more replacement(s) is another conservative Republican, the women can forget about the right to safe abortions and all of us can forget about many other protections we take for granted.

Bryant Center helps students overcome disabilities

Bryant Center student Kenny Hamilton folds towels at Laurel Park Mall's Charisma Hair Salon. Hamilton has been helping at the salon since last October.

Students at the Bryant center are learning to put their abilities ahead of their disabilities, said Vocational Coordinator for the Bryant Center, Donna Case.

The Bryant Center is an extension of Old Village School and takes students from 12-26 years of age. It is a special education program for students with cognitive, emotional and/or physical impairments. Students come from the 13 Western Wayne County School Districts.

Just 15 years ago these students with special needs would have had little or no chance of participating in society and for many of them, their lives would consist of a series of group homes. However, the Bryant Center program, which will soon make its move to Northville, trains students with disabilities to be productive citizens through a unique employment program. The Center analyzes students' needs and abilities and pairs them with local businesses.

"It not only is beneficial to them because they get to use the skills they have learned in a job environment, but also suddenly they are doing things non-disabled people do and they start to value themselves," Case said.

Students go through a battery of tests to evaluate their skills and aptitudes, Case said. They are then placed in positions suited to their skills. She said most often these are janitorial or fast food situations in over 22 businesses in the surrounding areas. However, they have expanded their program to include some light clerical work. Often the students are accompanied by a paraprofessional to assist them until they are accustomed to the job, she said.

Case said once the students graduate, they try to place them in permanent positions. Some of her students have done so well, they are now training others who come in after them.

The center also teaches them how to create a written portfolio as well as develop a video portfolio. They train students in a variety of areas even before they get out into the world, in the center's workshop.

"The disabled don't really get to share in the same milestones as non-disabled brothers and sisters would: like getting their drivers license...But this is one thing (getting a job) they can share. This is something they can do on their own."

Donna Case
Vocational Coordinator

Two of these women, Yashica Hamilton, 24, and Tynesha Parker, 20, work at Olga's in Livonia's Laurel Park Mall preparing bread.

"It's good. I like it. It helps you know what to do in the workplace. It's hard work but when I get my coat to go home I'm happy. It's a good good day."

Hamilton said.

Parker said she will be sad when she has to leave the program in two years because of the friends she has made and because she has fun there. Both of the women said they had dreams of getting jobs when they leave the center. This is something Case said they could have never realistically hoped for even 10 years ago.

In her position, Case said she sees the goals of the program achieved when she sees the excitement in her students. She said on one occasion, a young man came into her office and said, "I'm going to work like Dad." It's a simple thing so many non-disabled people take for granted but so many disabled people live for the chance to prove they can produce something and see the results, she said.

"The disabled don't really get to share in the same milestones as non-disabled brothers and sisters would; like getting their drivers license or going to the prom. Most of them will probably never get married or have a family. But this is one they can share. This is something they can do on their own and it gives them a great sense of self worth and something in common with non-disabled people," she said.

Just because they are disabled, Case said, they don't stop wanting what everyone else wants, she said. They want to replicate what they see in the non-disabled world and this program gives them a chance to do that to the best of their abilities, she said.

Case said they try to help students focus on their options of what they can do instead of what they can't, she said.

This is especially important to show them, she said, because of the importance of career in this country.

"It is so important for these students to realize what they are in fact capable of," she said. "Within the first sentence of describing ourselves to someone new, we tell them what we do, we define ourselves by our careers."

Since 1985, Case said she has seen a shift in the way people see the disabled through programs like this and the Americans With Disabilities Act.

"We all have disabilities, it's just that some aren't as readily seeable as others. It's by realizing this that there has been this shift and we are seeing disabled people producing and giving back," she said. "It's just amazing to see in my lifetime."

Michigan Streams and Lakes

Great Father's Day Gift

Stream
of Michigan

Why every fisherman and boater needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into...there's a sure way to up your odds...simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Michigan is loaded with great fishing waters... many of them overlooked. From the AuSable River to all of the Great Lakes tributaries to the Pere Marquette River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Michigan is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This new 4 foot by 4 foot color map shows virtually all of the 35,000 miles of Michigan streams & lakes.

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."
John Pitarres
OBSERVER-DISPATCH-Union

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake...then 'Professor Higbee's Stream Maps' are without question the finest."
Howard Brandt
THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."

Resume tips to get the interview

You only have 20 seconds. It is really true. We spend $30,000 to $40,000 to educate and train ourselves. Yet, the decision to invite us to an interview is made in 20 seconds. That's the average time a manager takes to scan each resume and decide if it goes into the "yes" pile or the "no" pile. Your resume must speak for you when you aren't there in person. This is why the resume is so important. Your resume represents you and you want it to be the best it can be.

The sole purpose of any resume is to get an interview, not to get a job. And anyone who is in the market for a new job or a job change is up against very stiff competition. Because of this, your resume must accurately reflect the wonderful things you've accomplished in your career. A "yes" decision is usually based on the overall appearance of your resume, the format, and the three to four key selling points you have listed in your "qualifications summary" at the top of the resume.

The resume needs to include anything that applies to your life as a worker. It doesn't mean you have to include everything that ever happened to you. A good resume e-r-o-w-s about you.

- C - Cut (be brief)
  - R - Relevant (use words that pertain to your position or field)
  - O - Organize (divide it into headings of skills, experience, education, etc.)
  - W - Words (use action verbs and use the language of your particular field)
  - S - Style (chronological, functional or targeted)
- A company hires you for what you can do for them - they have a problem or a need and your role is to solve their problem or fill their need. In thinking about what you can do for the company, think about your past accomplishments and the skills you needed to do them. Then transfer those skills to the present employer needs. It helps to write out "accomplishment statements" using the following formula:

- P - Problem (the situation or project you were given)
- A - Action (how you approached or tackled the situation)
- R - Result (what were the benefits or accomplished or your actions)

Finally, to put it all together, here are some tips for a successful resume:

- Know your reader, use the vocabulary of your target audience.
- Accentuate your name by placing it in bold letters.
- If you write a "job objective," write one that states "what's in it for the employer."
- Make sure you include your accomplishments along with your job responsibilities.
- Do not include your current pay level. It could be a disqualifying factor when being considered for an interview.
- Use plenty of action verbs such as "implemented," "initiated," and "organized." Avoid nouns - they make your resume sound weak.
- Use a descriptive title in the "employment" section. For example, if applying for a sales position, modify your heading to read "sales experience" rather than just "employment" or "experience."

• Make the resume elegant. Be very conscious of layout, typing and printing. Proofread it very carefully. Choose high-quality paper in a color appropriate for your target profession.

Remember, getting called for an interview happens solely on the strength of your resume. If you are one of the lucky ones called for an interview, the resume then becomes the basis for your interview. The recruiter or employer will use it to discuss your history, accomplishments, and skills to see how well they match with the company needs.

After the interview, your resume continues to represent you as your qualifications are then weighed against other candidates who have been interviewed. Those people involved in the hiring decision gather together and go over each resume again, looking for reasons to eliminate all but one candidate. So as you can see, even at this stage, your resume is playing an important role.

Think about your current resume. Does it command a second look? Will it stand up to your competition and get you through the whole interviewing process so that you will be the candidate chosen for that dream job?

Novi Highlights

Novi Parks and Recreation

The department is busy planning family activities for the summer months.

To kick-off the season, there will be the Memorial Day parade at 10 a.m., with participants meeting at the staging area (in front of Border Books at the Novi Town Center) between 8:30-9:30 a.m. For parade participation, please call the parks and recreation for your designated placement in the parade.

The parade will take place come rain or shine. However, if weather conditions appear unsafe, call (248) 347-0473 between 7 and 8:30 a.m.

It is suggested that the community locate early along the parade route of Novi Road as space fills up quickly. Bring breakfast or carry-outs from the local eateries and don't forget a camera. It's a great family time.

Some parade participants include middle and high school bands, Novi Christian School band, dignitaries, service groups, the American Legion, AMVETS, Blue Star mothers, Girl and Boy Scout troops, dance studios, Oakland County Parks, Jaycees, Rotary and Lions Club, fire department, D.A.R.E., soccer teams, Walk Michigan, and so forth.

The parade will end at the Civic Center with an 11:45 a.m. service at the monument. Included in the event will be a 21-gun salute and refreshments.

Many Novi area parks will be opening May 27: Community Sports Park, Ella Mae Power, Brookfarm, Rotary Park, and Spirit of 76 Park. Amusement park tickets are also available at a discount price: Detroit Zoo, Sea World, Crossroads Village, and Cedar Point.

Boy Scout Troop No. 407 Scout Master Allen Weirmeir and his troop attended many events this spring: Camporee, campout, and troop leadership training in addition to their regular meetings held at the Novi Civic Center. They also participated in the opening flag ceremonies at several Novi City Council meetings.

A troop leadership training program was also held in April at Kensington group camp. Adult leaders ran the training program to give the scouts in leadership positions the skills necessary to lead the troop including: participation in team building, communication, and leadership exercises. The following scouts earned the "trained emblem" and the junior leader handbook: Eric Adams, Dan Church, Paul Goebel, Dan Hellman, Jon Krueger, Adam McCauley, Eric Miller, Eric Moruzzi, Pat Seidl, Jon Weirmeir, and Terry Wilhelm.

In May, the troop attended the Can-AM International Camporee at Camp Attawandaron, near Grand Bend, Ontario, Canada, where they worked on scouting and outdoor skills. They met scouts from Ontario and from the states of Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania.

The Spring Court of Honor was recently held at Holy Family Church, sponsor of Troop No. 407. The evening included an ice cream social, scout recognition for rank advancement, and merit badges earned from January to May. Also, medallion and patches were presented to scouts and leaders who attended last year's Pontiac Trail Trek events.

In addition, Troop No. 407 attended the recently-held CVC Spring Camporee "Blazing New Trails for the Future" with 5,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Venture Crews, and Explorers. The troop's leader for this event was Mike Church. Among the many events were the climbing tower, COPE course, mountain bike track, and conservation demonstrations.

Church

The church blood drive will be held on Monday, June 5, from 2-8 p.m.; walk-ins are welcome. For information or to make an appointment, call the church at 349-5666, which is located on Ten Mile between Novi Road and Taft, across from the Novi Police Department.

To give blood, you must be over 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds, be in generally good health, and there must be 56 days in between giving blood. The entire process takes about one hour.

Registration for Vacation Bible School, which will be held June 19-23, from 9 to 11:30 a.m. is now in process. There is a need for teachers, aides, clean-up crews, food items, and craft items. Cash donations are also welcomed.

The new-member classes have concluded and last Sunday, they were special guests of the Mission Committee at a dinner sponsored by the committee. The evening consisted of a Honduras-type dinner featuring members of the Honduras Mission team relaying interesting facts about their trip to Honduras.

This month, the Primetimers gathered at the church for a lasagna lunch and a fun program of reminiscence; recalling their first car, prom date, school incident, etc., with stories limited to five minutes. The group meets the second Thursday of the month.

The Moms group also meets on Thursdays, from noon to 2 p.m. In May, they helped with VBS preparations and on June 8, they plan to lunch at Chili's in Novi.

The Book Club discussed "Mr. Ives's Christmas" at its May meeting, with Dick Henderson as discussion leader.

For more information about meetings and programs, please call the church office at 349-5666.

As a reminder - since hunger knows no season - donations to the Community Food Bank would be greatly appreciated. Items can be dropped off at the church during the day; baby food is a special need.

Novi Grand Court

On Father's Day, June 18, Novi residents are invited to the annual car show, from 2-4 p.m. on the grounds of the facility. The show is one of several programs, designed for fun and fellowship with your neighbor. Anyone interested in showing their vintage car should call activities director Suzanne Pominville at (248) 669-5330.

Another project planned by the residents and activities department is the annual Easter Egg Hunt. This year, over 100 were in attendance. The children gathered their eggs, with some plastic eggs indicating special prizes given by the Easter bunny.

Mother's Day was observed with a Sunday tea and special music provided by Jon Moore. Families of residents were also invited with about 70 were in attendance. Each lady was given a corsage. Refreshments were by Chef Bodie and centerpieces of flowers and balloons were given to the grandchildren at the end of the program.

Mystery trips for residents are scheduled every Thursday. Trips this month included a picnic at Kensington Park and lunching at a Livonia restaurant.

Also available are shopping trips to various locations: Target, Wal-Mart, Meijer's, Kroger, and Farmer Jack.

Woody Allen's latest comedy leaves crooks rolling in dough

Ray Winkler (Woody Allen) is an ex-con with big dreams and an inability to hold down dishwashing jobs. His wife, Frenchy (Tracey Ullman), is a sardonic manicurist who reins Ray in, attempting to keep him grounded in reality.

So when Ray comes to Frenchy with a half-baked plan to rob a bank, she's dead set against it: no way is she giving up their life savings so he can work with three dimwitted guys in a harebrained scheme.

Yet Ray, with his neurotic charm, wins her over and even convinces her to run the front for their operation: a cookie store.

Soon enough, their get-rich-quick scheme to rob a bank leaves them rolling in dough — but not the kind they had in mind.

Woody Allen's latest comedy, "Small Time Crooks," is a farce that recalls the earlier footloose and fast-paced comedies, such as "Take the Money and Run" and "Sleeper," that helped Allen launch his career as a writer and director.

Allen and Tracey Ullman star as the husband-and-wife team who take a bite out of crime and get more than they bargained for.

The story of the Winklers' master plan, combined with the opportunity to work with Allen, were the key ingredients that enticed such world-class comedic stars as Ullman, Hugh Grant, and Elaine May to the project.

The film marks Ullman's third teaming with Allen, while it was the first time May and Grant had collaborated with the multiple Oscar-winning director, screenwriter, and actor.

The ensemble cast of "Small Time Crooks" also includes (in alphabetical order) Tony Darrow, George Grizzard, Jon Lovitz, Michael Rapaport, and Elaine Stritch.

"What I was going for was a funny movie," says Allen. "Although I guess you could say if there's a theme to the film, it might be 'be careful what you wish for.'"

Shooting in and around his usual Manhattan haunts, Allen relied on the talents of his long-time collaborators, including producer Jean Doumanian, co-producer Helen Robin, co-executive producers Jack Rollins, Charles H. Joffe, and Letty Aronson; production designer Santo Loquasto; and casting directors Juliet Taylor and Laura Rosenthal.

In addition, "Small Time Crooks" reunited several more recent Allen alumni, including editor Alisa Lep-selter, costume designer Suzanne McCabe, and Chinese cinematographer Zhao Fei, who made his English-language debut on Sweet and Lowdown.

With a confessional style, biting humor, and a sharp yet self-deprecating intellect, Woody Allen is an auteur who creates filmic gems that audiences everywhere relate to.

Perhaps the most quotable filmmaker of our time (who hasn't at some point had a "dead shark" on his hands?), Allen has been provoking and entertaining moviegoers ever since he redubbed a Japanese film with his own dialogue in 1965's "What's Up, Tiger Lily?"

"Small Time Crooks" is now open everywhere. The film is rated "PG." The cast includes: Woody Allen, Tracey Ullman and Hugh Grant and is directed by Woody Allen.

'Up at the Villa' combines politics, romance, comedy

"Up at the Villa" is a story of an impulsive sexual encounter which spirals into tragedy, theft, blackmail and eventually, redemptive love.

Philip Haas' "Up at the Villa" is set amidst the deceptive beauty of Florence and Tuscany during the rise of Fascism on the eve of World War II.

Although a period piece, it tells the resolutely contemporary story of a woman's journey from innocence to self-knowledge.

While primarily a love story, "Up at the Villa" ingeniously combines elements of the political thriller, the social comedy of manners and the romantic adventure to tell its crisply captivating story.

Its stellar cast is headed by Kristin Scott Thomas, Sean Penn, Anne Bancroft, James Fox, Jeremy Davies and Derek Jacobi.

Despite its time and setting, "Up at the Villa" doesn't paint a picture-postcard, rose-colored portrait of Tuscany.

Stunning but sinister, this is the Florence of the De Medicis and Machiavelli, a hotbed of Fascist terror.

Set among the Casablanca-like remnants of an expatriate community clinging to the shreds of its society, "Up at the Villa," says its director Philip Haas, "is a drama where personal and historical dilemmas reverberate."

"Up at the Villa" runs for 115 minutes. It is rated "PG-13."

Ladies win regional title

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

The results may be the same as last season for the Northville golf team, but the scores are dropping.

And that's good news for a team heading back to the state finals for the second-straight year. The Mustangs shot a 362, beating out runnerup Livonia Ladywood by 20 strokes in capturing their second-straight regional title this past Monday at Fieldstone in Auburn Hills.

Kate MacDonald was the regional medalist, firing an 83 with rounds of 44 and 39. The 18-hole total set another school record for the junior and her 39 tied the mark she and Pam Mouradian currently share for nine holes.

"I'm thrilled that she was the medalist, but it's great that the entire team is going," coach Trish Murray said. "I figured we may have a girl or two qualify individually, but I wanted our entire team to go."

Mouradian came in with a round of 86, placing second to her teammate, Jessie Mills, participating in her final state tournament, finished with a 98 and Heather Rudy had a 99. Kate Sekerka was Novi's fifth golfer and shot a 108.

This year's winning total was 22 strokes better than last season and sets the stage for what could be an interesting state finals on June 3 in East Lansing.

"I think we can place better than sixth place," Murray said, pointing towards last season's state final finish. "We're ranked second coming in and I wouldn't be shocked (if we win.) I don't think other teams will want to turn their backs on us. We're a legitimate threat."

Murray believes number one ranked Coldwater is the team to beat. The defending state champions shot a 686 last year to fend of Clio (692) and Okemos (693) and take home the title. Clio also finished runnerup in 1998 and is chomping at the bit for another chance at a state crown.

Both Ladywood and Marian (3rd) will be joining Northville at the 12-team state tournament on the Forest Akers West Course just off of the Michigan State Campus.

Last year Northville shot a round of 747 (364-383). Mouradian led the way with a 174 and MacDonald added a 185. Mills (196) and Sekerka (216) also return to the state meet with experience. Rudy will join the team as the other starter. The girls will golf two 18-hole rounds on consecutive days with the best four scores counting for each day.

The team competed at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet Tuesday (after the Northville Record's deadline). The Mustangs were undefeated in conference play this season and were the favorites to win the conference championship. Results will be in next Thursday's edition of the Northville Record.

Haines and Pawling advance

Boy's Track

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

If it feels like Deja Vu for Northville seniors Alex Haines and Brett Pawling, well, it is.

For the second-straight year, Haines and Pawling will be the lone representatives from the boy's track team to compete at the state finals on June 3.

Pawling posted his career-best time of 39.4 seconds to place runnerup in the 300 hurdles at the regional meet held at Milford last Friday afternoon. Haines neared his career best with a high jump of six feet, three inches to finish second as well.

Haines finished second to Pinckney's Michael Weisnuhn (6-4) and just ahead of teammate Justin Morris (6-0). Morris tied two other jumpers at six feet, but took third based on having the fewest number of misses. Haines has cleared 6-4 this season, as has Morris. Haines cleared 5-11 at last year's state finals, well out of place.

Pawling bettered his previous best time from this season by over two seconds. It was the first time he's ever broken 40 seconds. At last year's state finals, Pawling finished in 40.8. The senior finished third in the 110 hurdles (15.1), however only the top two in each event plus those who meet predetermined qualifying times, heights, or distances advance to the state meet.

Steve Yutzy also scored for the Mustangs, who finished in eighth place with 30 points. Yutzy was sixth in the 400 meter dash, posting a time of 52.1. That time was over two seconds faster than his previous best.

The 3,200 relay team finished sixth overall in a time of 8:32.2.

Novi won their first-ever team regional championship, scoring 89 points. Walled Lake Central was runnerup with 72.33 points and Pontiac Northern was third with 70 points. Milford was fourth with 54 points and then a cluster of three teams finished just above Northville.

Drake, Arndt and Wilson win regional titles

By JASON SCHMITT

Northville reached the finals six times at the regional tennis tournament played Monday in Northville and Novi, propelling the team to the state finals for the second-straight season.

The Mustangs totaled 22 points, finishing runnerup to North Farmington (25) at the regional. Both teams advance on to the finals, which will be played in Midland on June 3.

Two flights won regional championships for Northville. Dan Drake continued his highly-successful 2000 season by defeating North Farmington's Chris Copeland 7-6, 6-2 in the finals. The No. 1 seed coming into the regional, Drake defeated Waterford Kettering in the quarterfinals and Harrison's Dan Price in three sets in the semis to get to the championship match.

Brian Wilson and Brian Arndt won a regional title at third doubles, knocking off top-seeded North Farmington. The duo defeated Robert Frankel and Greg Boothroyd 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 in the championship match.

"Wilson and Arndt played their best tennis of the season," their coach Jeff Westmeyer said. "They and Drake did a real nice job for us."

North Farmington won four championships and Harrison's Ryan Shade won the regional title at No. 1 singles. Harrison was third in the team competition with 12 points and Hartland was fourth with nine.

For Northville, at two singles, Matt Thomson lost in the championship match to North's Jay Berman 2-6, 3-6. He had defeated Hartland's Daren Brevik and Harrison's Tim Kupferer in his first two matches and earned the team three points.

Kyle Dehne did the same thing for the Mustangs at fourth singles. He beat David Demps of Detroit Northern and Farmington's Dan Turkeuch in the semis before falling to North's Steve Jaffe 2-6, 4-6.

No. 1 singles player Dean Conway reached the semifinals before bowing out to North's Chris Erickson. The four singles players accumulated 12 points for the Mustangs.

"We seem to get better each week out," Westmeyer said. "Especially our singles players. They're starting to pick it up."

He also credited his doubles teams for their consistent play this season. The No. 1 team of Scott Eller and Brenden

Green reached the finals before losing to Brady Dwyer and Geoff Streit of North Farmington 7-6 (5), 4-6, 6-7 (3). They beat Harrison 7-6 (4), 6-0 in the semis and Pinckney 6-1, 6-0 in the quarters.

Kyle Wargo and Nate Gudritz also reached the finals before losing to their North opponents. Josh Wool and Andy Golaszewski proved too much for Wargo and Gudritz, knocking off the Northville pair 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 in the finals. Gudritz and Wargo defeated Lakeland in the semis and Redford Union in the quarters.

After Tuesday's conclusion of the rain-delayed Western Lakes tournament (after the Northville Record's deadline), the Mustangs will now compete at the state meet, where they collected just three points a year ago.

"We're going to try and shoot for a top five finish at the meet," Westmeyer said. "Our goal is to get everybody through the first round. I'm comfortable with everyone on our team winning at least one match."

Northville's improvement since their 7-1 loss to North Farmington a few weeks ago has the coach optimistic for the upcoming finals.

"After getting crushed the first time we played them, we were able to win another match this last time," the coach said. "So we'll just wait and see what happens this time."

Mustangs pull off another close one...

Novi senior Matt Hare (above) and his Northville teammates overcame a 7-3 deficit to pull out an 8-7 win over Walled Lake Western Monday afternoon. Hare struggled early on, but pulled it together to keep his team alive with four shutout innings on the mound. Drew Herpich hit a pair of homers in the game and picked up the save in relief. For more on the Mustangs close win, turn to page B-3.

Mustangs upend Western big, 16-4

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

The Northville softball team's bats didn't just wake up Monday against Walled Lake Western, they rose from the dead.

Having struggled to get a consistent offensive effort all season long, Northville pummeled the Warriors 16-4 in the two teams second meeting of the season. Western took the first game 8-6 back on May 4.

"I think we clicked," coach Kelly DeWitt said. "I had mixed up our lineup over the weekend and I felt confident in our changes."

DeWitt also said her team ran into a non-aggressive Western pitcher this time out.

"We had a lot of line drives and we just hit the ball really well," she said. "The girls never stopped putting pressure on them."

Northville fell behind 3-0 after the first inning, but came back to tie it at 3-3 in the top of the second. From there the Mustangs continued to score runs, notching four in the sixth and seven more in the seventh.

Jennifer Caverly was 2 for 4 with a walk and three runs scored for the Mustangs. Natalie Wooderson was 2 for 4 and was hit by a pitch and Makiko Kawamura was also 2 for 4 with a walk. Katie Doyle was hit by a pitch twice and scored three runs in the game.

Maureen Emaus pitched a complete game for the win.

DeWitt said one of the differences between the win and loss against Western was how much experience her team has had in between. Much of Northville's schedule has come in the latter portion of the season.

"It's a valuable lesson for me," DeWitt said. "Next year I'm going to schedule at least one early-season tournament to get some games in. It's really non negotiable."

N'VILLE 2-1 AT SALEM INVITE

The Mustangs played well this past Saturday, taking two of three games it played at the Plymouth Salem Invite. Northville scored nine runs in the first inning en route to a 22-0 win over Flat Rock/Summit Academy in their first game.

The team then lost to Salem 5-2 before knocking off Detroit Country Day 9-1.

The team's overall record now stands at 7-9.

Northville's Maureen Emaus (right) has been the workhorse on the mound this season for the Mustangs.

She, along with fellow senior Natalie Wooderson (left), has led her team to four wins in the last six games out.

The Mustangs defeated Walled Lake Western Monday night 16-4, just three weeks after suffering an 8-6 setback at the hands of the Warriors.

Northville played John Glenn last night and will play Novi in the district semifinals on June 3.

'Stangs pull out another close game

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

It seems as if the Northville baseball team is at its best in tight quarters, with the ball game on the line.

Monday's 8-7 win over Walled Lake Western proved to be of the same old mold that has oftentimes plagued, or prospered this year's ballclub. The Mustangs overcame a 7-3 lead to score the game winner in the top of the seventh inning on a solo home run by Tim Edick.

Coach Mickey Newman understands his team likes to play close ball games, and says he doesn't mind them. "Especially these ones," he said.

Matt Hare started on the mound for Northville and was roughed up for seven runs in the first two innings, although only two were earned. He settled in after that and pitched four scoreless innings while his team made its run.

Northville scored its first three in the first on a two-run homer by Drew Herpich and off an Western error which scored Tommy Hughes. The 'Stangs would add three more in the second on a RBI-single by Andy Doren and a two-run single by Kris Betker. The inning started off with consecutive walks by Brian Boyes, Herpich and Edick.

Herpich continued his hot play of late in the third, hitting his second homer of the day and tying the game at 7-7. He also came into to close out the game in the bottom of the seventh to record his first save of the season.

Hare went six innings in all.

"We needed some innings out of Matt," Newman said. "He's a steady kid who never gets too high or low out there. Even when a guy like Matt gives up six runs in the first few innings, I know he's gonna come back out there and do well."

The coach was also pleased with the play of Herpich, which has been stellar since the sophomore was inserted into the starting lineup a few weeks ago.

"He's been hitting the ball well and I have been looking for a closer all season long," Newman said. "I think I've found him."

The win ups the Mustang's divisional record to 4-2 and evened the team's overall record at 10-10 with Wednesday's game against John Glenn coming after the Record's deadline.

NORTHVILLE 7, FRANKLIN 6 (9)

FRANKLIN 9, NORTHVILLE 0

John Hutchison's grounder to third in the top of the ninth inning was fielded by the Franklin third baseman, but the throw sailed over the first baseman's head and allowed Doren to score the eventual game winning run in the first game of this double header last Friday.

Tommy Hughes went the distance pitching nine innings for the win.

Betker was the offensive star of the game, knocking in four runs on a pair of two-RBI singles.

The defense stumbled early on, putting the team in a hole. "We made a couple of errors and ended up paying for it," Newman said.

The second game wasn't as amicable for Northville, but Newman was able to clear his bench and afford everyone a chance to see action.

Tanski the lone state qualifier

By JASON SCHMITT
Sports Editor

Although the rainy conditions at Milford High School took its toll on the entire field of competition last Friday, Northville seemed to have a particularly difficult time with the rain.

"We came in with the hopes of qualifying four to five girls for the state meet, but only ended up qualifying one," coach Karin Nelson said. "The cold, rainy weather didn't do much for our performances that day."

Junior Mary Tanski qualified for her second-straight state finals by placing second in the shot put competition. The defending regional champion in the event threw the put 33-9 3/4, missing first place by two inches. Novi's Stephanie Pridmore won the regional title.

Freshman Nicole Cauzillo was the only other Northville runner to come close to advancing on to the state meet June 2 in Rockford. Cauzillo finished fourth in the mile run, finishing in a time of 5:26.3. Only the top two in each event qualify, along with those who meet the predetermined qualifying times, heights, or distances. Cauzillo missed the automatic time by five seconds. Her time was a personal best by over seven seconds.

"That's quite an accomplishment for a freshman," Nelson said. "She was even running with a tight calf muscle and still managed to run through the pain in a very courageous race."

The time was also a school record. Junior Alyson Flohr did not qualify for the state meet, but did set a school record in the two-mile run. Her time of 12:07 was three seconds faster than the previous record.

"Our regional has always been tough, especially for the distance runners," the coach said. "When you set two school records and still don't qualify, you know how tough a region is."

Jessica Anchor tied for fourth place in the high jump (4-9) but was three inches shy of the automatic qualifying height.

The Mustangs competed in the conference preliminaries Tuesday and finals Wednesday (both after the Northville Record's deadline). Aside the Tanski, the league meet is the final meet of the season for the girl's team. Result of the league meet will be in next week's edition of the Northville Record.

NVILLE 75, HARRISON 62

Using its overwhelming strength in the distance events along with the help of some athletic soccer players, Northville won its second divisional meet of the season back on May 16.

The Mustangs swept both the long jump and high jump competitions and also nabbed all three places in the 200 and mile run. Sophomore Maggle Ossola came over on a day off with the soccer team to take first in both the long jump and 200 meter dash. She was also second in the 100.

Cauzillo, who started the season out on the varsity soccer team, won both the 800 and mile runs and anchored the winning 3,200 relay team.

"It's great to have someone who can come out for the day and fit right into a team and make as big a difference as Maggie did," Nelson said. "Harrison was also weak in the distance events and we were able to really take advantage of that."

Flohr finished first in the two-mile run and was second in the mile. Tanski won the shot put while Emily Needham was first in the high jump competition. Lisa Bowen and Genevieve Balangero picked up the other two Northville wins in the 400 and 300 hurdles.

JV hockey team's season up and down

The Northville JV hockey spring season wound its way through May with ups and downs. On Wednesday, May 3, the Woodhaven Midget A Leafs handed Northville a 1-5 loss. Northville's lone goal was scored by Graham Appleford, assisted by Matt Giles and David Kuhn. Three days later, Northville faced defeat again. This time, 1-3, at the hands of the Blackhawks, the Huron Valley schools consolidated JV team. Northville was never able to handle the bouncy, sticky puck. Six minutes into the third period, Northville got on the board and prevented a shutout with a goal by Andy Minnelly, assisted by Mike Dawson and defenseman Rob Ward.

Tuesday night, May 9, while many western Wayne/Oakland County communities were facing a severe thunderstorm at the hands of Mother Nature, the Farmington JV team faced the equivalent of a tornado at the hands of the Northville JV. The Mustangs rocked Farmington 7-2. At the end of the first period, the score was 3-1/Northville on goals by Mike Fill, Nick Reuter, and Jacob Vitale. During the second period, Fabian Garcia connected with a Kellen Smetana pass across the front of the net to add one more tally. In the third period, Northville finished the onslaught with a second goal by Reuter assisted by Smetana, and two goals from Troy Engelland, the first assisted by Reuter and Will Holden, and the second assisted by Holden.

Saturday, May 13, Northville met Waterford Kettering's JV for the third time and defeated them for the third time with a score of 5-3. Northville scored twice in the first period with goals by Nick Reuter assisted by Will Holden, and Graham Appleford, assisted by Troy Engelland and Jacob Vitale. The Mustangs finished off Kettering with three more goals in the second period. David Kuhn scored with an assist from Mike Dawson. Troy Engelland took a feed pass from Jacob Vitale and finished with an outstanding individual effort driving to the net. The third and final Northville goal was scored by Mike Fill and assisted by Reuter and Holden.

The last regular season game was a loss that felt like a win. Northville faced off against the Woodhaven Midget A again on Tuesday, May 16. Woodhaven, taking advantage of playing against JV teams, was undefeated and winning most games by the average score of 7-1. Northville got on the board first. With two minutes remaining in the first period, Nick Reuter scored assisted by defensemen Michael Marquardt and Mickey Mason. Northville's energy was really taking Woodhaven by surprise. Woodhaven regained their composure, and took complete control of the game with two goals in the second period and two more in the third. The Mustangs never quit in this game. They kept digging and scrapping until the end of the third period when Mike Fill popped in Northville's second goal assisted by Mike Dawson and Reuter. Woodhaven won by a score of 4-2, but they knew they had been in a hockey game.

The Mustangs finished the season 7-4-1. They had the second seed for the playoffs and would face the third seeded Farmington JV on Sunday evening, May 21.

The interesting thing about playing against Farmington is that most of these players have known each other and played together since they were Squirts. The Farmington Hills Hockey Association has actually developed quite a few of Northville's players.

This game unfolded like the game back on April 19 against Farmington. The first half belonged to Northville and the second half belonged to Farmington except this time, the end result wasn't a tie. Farmington got their revenge and beat Northville 3-2.

Kellen Smetana scored in the first period assisted by Nick Reuter and Will Holden. This goal was an outstanding effort by Holden driving hard to the net and creating the scoring opportunity. Holden scored in the second period during a goal-mouth scramble, where he used his strength and body to bat in the loose puck. Assists went to Mike Fill and Reuter. That was it for Northville. Farmington scored at the end of the second period and twice in the third for the right to go on and meet Woodhaven in the finals on Tuesday night.

Thanks to the Northville Schools Hockey Boosters for organizing this club. The hope is that the team can stay together in the fall as an independent Midget A club team. Thanks also go to Rick Ryan for his time and dedication coaching Northville's fledgling JV hockey team.

Club rugby team returns to finals

The Northville Knights rugby team finished first in the east regional playoffs last weekend after defeating Brighton 26-0 in the finals.

Now the undefeated Knights will head off to the state high school rugby championships this weekend in Southfield.

The Northville-based team has players from Northville, Novi and Walled Lake on its roster. The team will take on either Rockford or defending state champion

Grand Rapids Catholic Central in the first of two semifinals Saturday at 10 a.m. The game will be played behind Levey Middle School on Nine Mile Road just west of Telegraph.

The championship game will be played at 2 p.m. Grand Rapids defeated Northville 31-10 in last year's championship game.

This past weekend the Knights beat Ann Arbor (36-0), Howell (49-0) and Brighton (26-0) en route to the title.

Imagine fighting for your independence and not being able to make a fist.

Juvenile arthritis is a painful fact of life.

Today, there are more than a quarter million children who live with a disabling condition more common than juvenile diabetes and cerebral palsy. Many of these children cannot accomplish life's first goal of simply... reaching.

Helping keep your children fit

Is getting the keeping our children fit an issue worthy of serious concern in the new millennium?

You decide...

- Forty percent of children ages 5 to 8 already show at least one heart disease risk factor.

- Fifth percent of girls and 40 percent of boys cannot run a mile in less than ten minutes.

- Daily participation in high school physical education classes dropped from 42 percent in 1991 to 27 percent in 1998.

- U.S. Department of Agriculture studies show the percentage of overweight children, ages 6 to 17, has doubled since 1986.

- The U.S. Surgeon General has declared that "childhood obesity is at epidemic levels in the United States."

- An estimated 70 percent of the ten- to 13-year-olds who are overweight today will be overweight and obese adults.

- Right now, only one state in our union, Illinois, currently requires daily physical education for grades K through 12.

- A recent study conducted by Dr. E. Murat Tuzcu of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation in Ohio, and colleagues examined transplant hearts taken from teen donors. About one in six of them had blockages in at least one coronary artery.

Today's kids are tomorrow's parents, teachers, scientists, business leaders, you name it. I think the few facts above (and there are many more available) stresses the need for focus on fitness for our young.

The factors contributing to this negative trend are fairly obvious when you think about it and ironically, mirror the contributing factors negatively affecting adults physical well being...technological advances (resulting in moving less) and changes in eating habits (resulting in eating more).

- Technological advances - As valuable as all the technological advances are the negative effect on physical movement is very detrimental. Children today move much less. Long hours in front of a TV, playing video games versus actually physically playing the game and on the Internet have replaced many hours consumed in the past with running around outside involved in a variety of children activities.

- Eating habits - The onslaught of fat-free foods has negatively contributed to the health of our children. "Johnny is eating a bag of cookies but it is fall free" is a common mindset among younger and older people. Children are getting 12 percent of their total calories from fast food versus 3 percent of total calories from fast food 20 years ago. Sugar-filled pops and juice drinks are the norm. Bottom line, we are eating an average of 300 more calories per day than 20 years ago.

- Parents patterns - Unfortunately the parents example plays a huge part in this rising negative trend. Are you taking your kids for a bike ride after dinner or watching TV with them? Are we going outside to play catch or playing the baseball video game on the couch? Are you buying your kids eight video games for his birthday or giving him roller blades, a bike or a basketball goal?

What can we do starting tomorrow to make a difference?

Barry Hardouin runs a highly successful program to help get children healthy and suggests the following tips:

- Strike a balance - Today, TV, computers and video games all compete for a child's attention at the expense of physical activity. "But it is unrealistic to say no more TV and computer games," Hardouin says. "So you balance it out - a little TV, a little physical activity, a little video games, a little riding your bike."

- Don't eat in front of the TV - People begin to associate eating with TV watching so they feel they must eat every time they watch TV - leading to overindulgence and obesity.

- Don't use TV as a time-filler - Hardouin tells parents to promote reading, playing, crafts and hobbies, and to limit the child to an hour of quality TV programming per day.

- Give present to promote physical activity - As mentioned earlier, give roller blades, kites, footballs, etc., versus video games to help promote activity.

A final thought - get involved. Take your kids out for an active vacation this year, hiking or camping. Go for a family bike ride a couple of times per week. Find out what activity your child is interested in and help get them involved, i.e., karate, basketball, etc. Not only will we be helping the future of our children and our country, but we might get a little extra activity for ourselves along the way. Good luck.

HOW TO

Porcelain repair kits for the kitchen sink

By Gene Gary
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. I have a small but noticeable chip in the white enamel finish on a kitchen sink. Can it be repaired?

A. Until recently, there was no sure-fire, long-term repair for this problem, especially if the damaged surface was subject to constant moisture. Fortunately, today there are several new products on the market that can be used to make permanent repairs and color-matching capabilities are great.

Preparation and application are simple. Begin the porcelain repair by thoroughly sanding the chipped area to remove rust and soap residue and any loose particles. Use a fine-grit emery cloth or 220-grit or smoother sandpaper. Use care in sanding, being careful not to scratch the surface outside the chipped area. After sanding, wipe the area with isopropyl alcohol. Be sure to use a clean cloth and go over the surface several times.

There are several manufacturers of repair kits, but perhaps the easiest kit to use is the two-step product line from Kit Industries, which includes a porcelain chip filler, pore-a-filler, and porcelain touch-up glaze, pore-a-fix. Unlike some other products, the touch-up glaze comes ready-mixed in various color shades designed to match different brand-name appliances and fixtures.

The chip filler is recommended for deeper chips and gouges. It is applied with a spatula putty knife or flat-wood stick (such as a tongue depressor) to the damaged area. The drying time is 15 to 30 minutes. The surface is then sanded smooth with 220 or smoother sandpaper. More than one application may be necessary to fill the damaged area.

When the damaged area is completely filled and sanded, apply the porcelain touch-up glaze in the custom color which matches your fixture. Manufacturers offering similar product lines include Nu-Force Products Inc., Match-Patch, Duro's Porcelain Repair. Some of the repair Karl Lesch, assistant golf course superintendent at Prestwick Village maintains residential lawns as well. He suggests that the ideal length to cut your lawn is three inches.

Annette Jaworski
SPECIAL WRITER

When it comes to lawn care, doesn't everyone wish their yard could look just like the golf course? A great dream, but not a realistic approach say the experts at Highland's Prestwick Village Golf Course. Paul Reising and Karl Lesch.

As a Certified Golf Course Superintendent, Prestwick's Village's Paul Reising is one of only a handful of in the state of Michigan. Less than 10 percent of the courses in Michigan can claim training of that stature. Assistant Golf Course Superintendent, Karl

The grass is always Greener

Lesch has ten years background in golf course maintenance.

"People will ask us 'how do you keep the course so green, what's your secret?'" Reising commented.

To put it in perspective, they have a huge advantage. Including 31 part and full time employees on staff, a million dollars worth of equipment and a computerized irrigation system.

Not practical for the everyday homeowner, he believes. Some of those fast greens need to be cut three times a day at certain times. He figures you'd rather spend your weekend golfing than behind a mower. However, there are ways for the homeowner to keep a healthy lawn for the homeowner, they add.

The two most common mistakes they see is cutting the grass too short and overwatering.

"Most people are looking for color. To get that green, the quickest easiest way is to throw water on it," said Reising.

Repair kits make quick work of enamel finish chips

products are two-part epoxy kits that require more mixing but provide durable final results. Look for these products at home centers or your local hardware store.

Most of these patching products are not recommended for stove-top use. Check manufacturer's instructions carefully for recommended use, application instructions, protective gloves and adequate ventilation as these products are often toxic.

Q. I want to install a water-purification system in my kitchen. This will require drilling through a porcelain sink. Is this recommended? Is it possible that the surrounding porcelain would crack and the entire sink would be damaged? Do you have any suggestions?

A. It's not difficult, and with care, you should be able to avoid problems if your sink is porcelain over steel. However, if it's porcelain over cast iron, it's much more difficult, if not an impossible job.

The job will require cobalt drill bits, which are somewhat expensive. Start by marking the size of the hole needed with a pen or pencil. Use a punch or heavy nail and, starting in the center of the mark, tap - do not hammer - a starting hole through the porcelain, gradually chipping away from the center out to the size you need.

When you have a clean circle or hole, use a small cobalt drill bit and work up to the size you need. Usually this would mean starting with a three-sixteenth, then one-fourth, five-sixteenth and finally, three-eighth to finish the job.

Q. How can I get glass shower doors clean? Water and soap scum have created a film almost impossible to remove. The tracks of the shower doors are also in the same condition.

A. There are a number of commercial cleaners on the market that can be effective. Many of them tout their abilities to remove soap scum and the buildup of hard-water spots.

If you try these and find them ineffective, try CLR or De-Solve-It (which should be available through home centers, hardware stores and numerous super markets). Allow these solutions to remain on the surface for 15 to 20 minutes so they can break down the deposits.

Another method is to use plain white vinegar with bronze wool and scrub the glass surface. Rinse with plenty of clear water. Several applications may be required.

To clean shower-door tracks, use peroxide. Pour it into the tracks, full strength. Let the peroxide set until it quits boiling, then wipe it out with paper towels. It may take a second application if the buildup has gone on too long. No other cleaner should be necessary.

Organic fertilizers provide microbes to help prevent diseases

is light and frequent waterings. Maybe once a day, ten minutes a day each zone," said Lesch.

If it rains, make the effort to shut off the electric timer, he adds.

Proper mowing height is about 3 inches tall, according to the grass guys. Much longer than those razor fast greens on the course at 1/8 of an inch. This will help to keep the lawn lush. Cutting the grass too short will "stress" the plant.

Other good practices are to aerate grass perhaps a couple times a year. And remember, the single best defense against disease and pests is a healthy lawn. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure here.

A new wave of lawn maintenance is now organically based treatments, instead of chemicals. There have been great strides in the industry to focus on a safer lawn products. Today's chemicals are so much safer than even products used five years ago. Reising notes. He's very conscious of the materials he uses since the course adjoins a residential area as well.

"What's the great part about the natural organic treatments is that not only do you fulfill the fertilizing needs, but there is an added suppression to diseases by adding beneficial microbes," Reising said. He has the ability to brew and ferment his own beneficial bacteria on site at Prestwick.

Two products include Milorganite that's made from the City of Milwaukee sewage that's been refined or a sustained turkey compost, both are made in granule form. Commercially, homeowners can purchase Milorganite at Frank's Nursery.

"It's works nicely in that it doesn't produce the excessive growth that artificial chemicals do," said Lesch.

He says the natural approach works best on established lawns and unfortunately, expect to pay more for these products, as they are most costly, and sometimes more difficult to find.

Keeping the grass at the recommended three inches will also help to conserve water. Reising warns that already there has been a slight drought in the area, and that condition may get worse.

Other ideas for natural lawn care can be found at organic lawn care for the cheap and lazy; website it <http://www.richsoil.com/lawn/>.

There comes a point where often with beauty, there is a price to pay. If you're overwhelmed with the prospect of maintaining your lawn, but want that well kept look, a lawn service might be your best investment. Lesch often gets clients by word of mouth while he's maintaining the course or other Prestwick Village resident's lawns. If you'd rather admire than tire, Lesch offers a lawn service through Prescription Lawn Care call (248) 877-2590.

No worries

South Lyon man makes owning fish easy

By ANNETTE JAWORSKI
Special Writer

If you love the relaxing and serene look of an aquarium, but don't want the commitment, Matt Bledsoe of Aquarium Cleaning Service, Inc. can take the hassle out of owning your own tank.

Bledsoe became interested in fish early on, owning a bowl with a goldfish and a black molly as a young boy. Later, in high school, a friend and his mother sparked an interest in this hobby that's never waned.

Now operating a full-time business, the South Lyon resident not only performs routine and vacation cleaning, he'll also set up and move tanks of fish. Different levels of intensity of this hobby require different types of services from him. There's the customer who wants to maintain a salt water tank where fish that cost $100 apiece can survive. Or, like Dr. Farlow in South Lyon, who wants something pretty to look at, that's relaxing to enjoy, and takes care of itself. He can set that up too. There, he put a timer on the lights and an automatic feeder.

"I'm a hobbyist and I approach it from a hobbyist standpoint," said Bledsoe. "I approach it like I would my own ... There are 25 different protein skimmers out there. I can tell you exactly which one you need. I can save you money in the long run."

His favorite service is to design the aquarium setting. The arrangement of various elements in the tank provides an artistic outlet for the student from the Center of Creative Studies. As a matter of fact, the flexibility of his aquarium cleaning business has allowed him a bit more time to spend on his artistic talents. "I always try to make someone's tank look better and better," he said.

While setting up an aquarium, he uses hospital grade water.

"I'm a hobbyist and I approach it from a hobbyist standpoint. I approach it like I would my own ... There are 25 different protein skimmers out there. I can tell you exactly which one you need. I can save you money in the long run."

osmosis process to ensure the water is high quality.

Bledsoe covers the gamut of aquatic habitat - he'll also clean and stock backyard ponds. He describes himself as a pet supply on wheels, whether for pond or garden, he carries a full line of supplies that he's happy to deliver. He'll travel north to Howell, south to Taylor, east to Sterling Heights and West to Pinckney.

Expert offers tips on setting up fish tanks

Salt Water is infinitely more costly to set up and maintain than a fresh water tank, according to Matt Bledsoe of Aquarium Cleaning Service. Count on one inch of fish per gallon of fresh water tank, 10 gallons of water for each inch of fish in a salt water tank.

There are seven basic steps to setting up a healthy aquarium by Aquarium Pharmaceuticals, Inc.

- Location. Pick a spot away from high traffic, don't put near heating or air conditioning ducts.
- Lighting. Natural light is adequate for freshwater. Fluorescent bulbs are better than incandescent, because they produce more light and less heat. A cover will help reduce water evaporation. In order to replicate the natural environment of the tropics, which is very bright and very clean, a salt water tank requires an adequate lighting system. With fresh water, lighting is not necessary, but it helps for viewing your tank of fish.

• Add oxygen. The water must be kept circulating, and there should be surface movement, too.

• Filtration is necessary to keep out ammonia, nitrite and other contaminants. There are several types of filters to choose from, and Bledsoe is happy to advise which is best for you.

• Gravel. Make sure you use gravel specifically designed for aquariums. Other stones may release chemicals into the water that are poisonous to the fish. Rinse your gravel with tap water until it becomes clear, and then layer it two inches deep on top of the under-gravel filter.

• Plants. Live or Plastic? Live plants are beautiful, but they do demand a bit more attention - soft water, a water temperature of 75-80 degrees and fluorescent lighting.

• Make sure water has been conditioned. Tap water is not recommended. Watch the temperature, it should range from 78 to 82 degrees.

Choosing the Right Finish

The appearance of a paint's color is directly affected by the difference in gloss level. Here's a quick recap of what to expect from a paint finish and what finishes to use where.

FLAT

Traditionally used on interior walls, a flat finish is soft, non-reflective and good at hiding minor surface imperfections. Consider a flat finish for living rooms, bedrooms and ceilings.

EGGSHELL

A close cousin to the flat finish, an eggshell finish gives you increased durability and washability.

SATIN/SILK

This is your most versatile finish, excellent for higher traffic areas and kids' rooms. Satin finishes are rich, velvety and offer outstanding scuff resistance.

SEMI-GLOSS

This shiny finish provides decorative contrast with flat, eggshell or satin/silk. Highly wear-resistant, semi-gloss finishes work in bathrooms, kitchens and on wood trim.

GLOSS

Very luminous and reflective, a gloss is used for bold, decorative accents, or where maximum durability is required, such as cabinets, doors and furniture.

Applying a Deck Finish

1. Sweep your deck clean of sawdust. If the wood already has a finish, remove the sheen with a stiff fiber brush and a mild detergent. This will help the finish penetrate the wood.

2. Spraying tends to be a little messy. Shield the siding next to your house with paper or plastic to protect it from the spray. Lay a sheet of plastic on the ground around the deck.

3. Spray the understructure of the deck first by coating the joists, beams, and underside of the deck.

4. Spray the top side of the deck. If you spray too much finish in one area, spread the liquid immediately with a paint brush or roller.

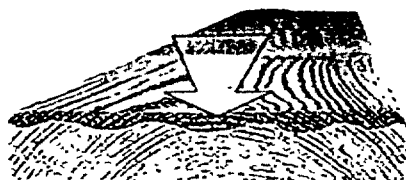

5. For added protection, brush an extra coat of finish on the end grain of cut boards.

Thompsonized WOOD

Waterproofing That's Built-in Before You Build!

Standard Surface
Waterproofing

Thompsonized™ To the Core Waterproofing

Thompsonized™ pressure treated wood is your best choice for a long lasting deck. Thompson's special water repellent is carried to the very core of the wood during the treating process. Each board is made from specially selected premium-grade stock and then pressure treated with a wax formula to three times the industry standard for water repellence.

Thompsonized™ Wood minimizes cracking and splitting caused by moisture damage. It also protects against termites and fungal decay, while maintaining its great appearance year after year.

Air Filters

Clean up the air in your house with a furnace filter. Everyone will breathe a little easier.

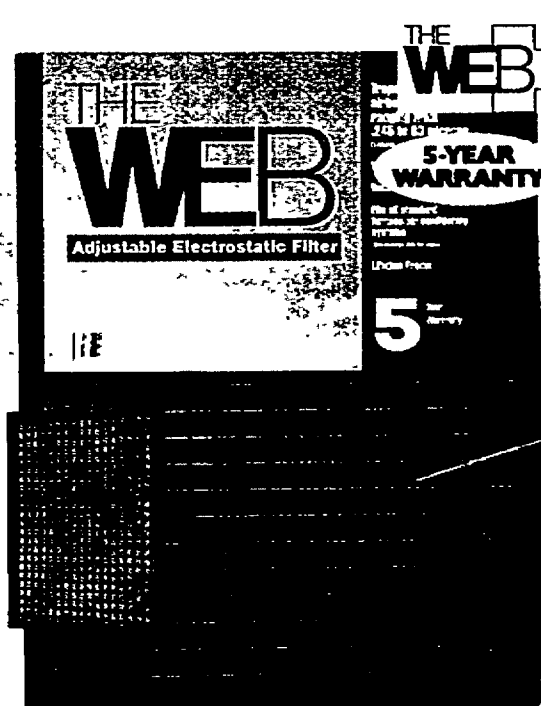

Many of the innovative ideas in home comfort center on the quality of the inside. An effective way to breathe easier is to upgrade your home's furnace filter.

If you have a forced-air heating/cooling system, you're probably familiar with fiberglass or paper filters. These do more to protect the furnace than to improve the quality of the air you breathe.

A high-efficiency, permanently charged electrostatic filter. It is replaced every three months rather than washed and reused.

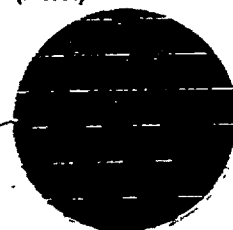

People who suffer from allergies will appreciate that it removes the small particles in the air that aggravate allergies.
