Splashdown: waterpark for township?

By ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Call it wishful thinking or good planning, but the Northville Township board of trustees had summer on the brain last week.

The board approved a resolution in support of preliminary Wayne County interest in building a $10 million water park in the western part of the county – specifically in Northville Township. The township also is asking the city of Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and the city of Northville to pass resolutions in support of a water park in the community. The city of Northville already approved the resolution.

"We want to show the county that yes we are interested and so are three other communities," said Marv Gans, Northville Township board of trustees member. "We are supportive of having this park in Northville Township and we happen to have land available."

Gary Word, city of Northville manager, said the city supports the idea.

"There is a general need for some sort of aquatics facility in this part of the county," Word said. "It would get a great deal of use here."

The township was approached by the county about the project, Gans said. An official from Wayne County Parks Department couldn't be reached by press time.

The park likely would include: a wave pool; "lazy river"; water slides; a regular pool; children's' pool; picnic area; parking area; locker area; and concession area. Similar parks run by Oakland County are located in Waterford and Madison Heights.

Gans said the county indicated about 11 acres would be necessary to build the park. One option is land the township owns at the intersection of Five Mile Road and Sheldon

District, township discuss Six Mile traffic

Northville Township officials are considering possible decongestants for an area of the community frequently plugged up by traffic.

However, people just might have to get used to increased traffic resulting in backups near the new Northville High School, said Chip Snider, Northville Township manager.

"I'm not real certain anything needs to be done," Snider said "However, I believe the community perceives this as a problem so we ought to explore the situation to see if a solution needs to be pursued."

Snider met with assistant school district superintendent David Bolitho, Northville High School assistant principal Dennis Colligan, and Victoria Holland, a representative from the Wayne County Road Commission, to discuss the situation

About 460 cars use the parking lot during school days. School is dismissed at 2:15 p.m and is cleared by 2:35 p.m.

Township does the personnel shuffle

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Two Northville Township employees will begin the year with new jobs designed to help better manage the community.

Debbie Wilhelm was named director of human resources and Thelma Kubitskey was named assistant township manager. Although both have new job titles, they are not new to the community. Wilhelm has worked as an assistant in the township supervisor's office for more than five years and Kubitskey, who will maintain the role of finance director with her additional duties, has been with the township for more than 20 years.

"We've been short on personnel matters for a long time and we really need to bring the whole process up to a higher level," said Mark Abbo, Northville Township supervisor.

Wilhelm began working with human resource issues under former Northville Township supervisor Karen Woodside.

"The need to have someone to delegate personnel issues to was recognized and Debbie was the natural choice," said Chip Snider, Northville Township manager. "It's normal to continue with that trend."

Drunk drivers face New Year's in district court

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

Area residents on probation for alcohol-related convictions face a major speed bump this New Year's Eve if their plans included a wild night of drinking.

The 35th District Court is requiring those recently placed on probation for alcohol-related offenses report to the courthouse between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. New Year's Eve and bright and early New Year's Day between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m. for breath tests.

Those who test positive as having consumed alcohol or decide not to show up face up to 93 days in jail.

"Every person sentenced to a term of probation is required to fulfill a number of obligations, such as a number of days on the work detail program and/or community service, communicate on a regular basis with their probation officer, attend a substance abuse program, and...meet with victims or family members of victims who have been adversely affected by a drunken driver," said Judge John MacDonald. "In addition, two conditions of probation are that they must not use, possess, or consume alcoholic beverages or products that contain alcohol."

The program is called Courts Acting Together for the Community at the Holidays, or CATCH. Additionally, it's being run with the assistance of Jail Alternatives for Michigan Services. Similar programs were conducted by JAMS in several Oakland County courts during the holiday season last year.

Renewed vigor part of EDC's plan of attack

BY ANDREW DIETDERICH
Staff Writer

The standard method of operation in Northville Township has been to wait for businesses to express interest and invest in the community – until now.

Officials want the Northville Township Economic Development Corporation to take a more proactive approach to bringing new business to the community.

The nine-member organization, created by the township board of trustees years ago, has been quiet the last few years. Fresh blood on the board of trustees however, appears to be the catalyst that will kickstart the heart of the organization once more.

"There hasn't been much activity on the part of the EDC," said Mark Abbo, township supervisor and former member of the township EDC. "I couldn't speculate on why."

Abbo said he doesn't know why the group hasn't done much. Meetings are expected to start after the first of the year with the first order of business to design a course for the board to follow.

The board acts like any other corporate l oard and consists of members of community and township elected officials. The goal of the group, Abbo said, is to "get a better balance of the tax base."

"I believe we can be more proactive in contacting businesses and let them know we're interested in

OLV school forges ahead with possible Novi move

By STEPHANIE FORDYCE
& RANDAL YAKEY
Staff Writers

It looks as if Novi will be the home of a new Catholic school and church

On December 20, Our Lady Of Victory of Northville received preliminary site plan and special land use approval from the Planning Commission

The new church facility, to be located on the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Beck Roads, will include a K-8 school, sanctuary offices and a social hall

The 23 acre site was purchased by the church last summer from the land's owner Margaret Zayti.

According to Ned McGrath of the Archdiocese of Detroit, Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church experienced large amounts of growth over the past grew years and was looking to expand because the current facility was not conducive

After a 1997 Northville Zoning Board of Appeals rejected an expansion plan that would have required exceptions to local zoning ordinances, the archdiocese began looking for property in other locations including both Northville and Novi.

The Roman Catholic church, currently located on Thayer Boulevard in Northville, had had plans for six new classrooms, a gymnasium, and a new parking lot on land it owned on Main Street and Orchard Drive in Northville

"We have wanted to expand and the neighbors said 'no', so we said 'bye-bye,'" Porcari said in a previous interview

The church felt that Beck and Eight Mile was a good location because they would still be residing within their parishioner s boundaries, which extends Nine Mile and Napier

'We are hoping 100 percent of our parishioners will follow us to our new location," said Dave Lobbs, a member of the Stewardship Commission for OLV

Planning Commissioner Chairman Kim Cappello said while schools area and churches are subject to special land use approval and that he would vote in favor of the facility, he was troubled placing a non-tax base project on such a valuable piece of land.

'Putting a non-tax base entity on a major corner- we're giving away a lot of taxable land, which as a tax burden, falls on us as taxpayers," he said

Cappello also noted that the city already has a Catholic church (St James) located two miles away

Because the church's new site borders both city's- Novi and Northville- storm water run-off was also questioned by the commission.

Commissioners Andrew Mutch and Toni Nagy said they did not want to see a repeat of Quail Ridge

City consultants will gather additional information of the drainage impact and have it ready at final site plan approval.

Jaguar prowls Novi for dealership location

By STEPHANIE FORDYCE
Staff Writer

Could a new car dealership in Novi spice up the city's image?

Jaguar/Ford thinks so

Targeted to open in August of 2001, the automobile company says, in terms of design, that their new dealership will be unlike any other in the world

"This project represents an entirely new concept for dealership design worldwide," said the site's landscape architect and civil engineer from Grissim/Metz Associates, Randy Metz. "This will be the worldwide proto-type for Jaguar facilities in the entire world."

The elite luxury line, which received preliminary site plan approval by the Planning Commission on Dec. 20, would be located on the northwest corner of Ten Mile and Haggerty Roads

"We would like for (the facility) to be located in Novi, Michigan," said spokesman Tim Stoepker on behalf of Ford.

Unique aspects for the new dealership include its building design, placement of automobiles along the site, use of landscaping, rotunda entrance way, and hidden parking.

> "We feel it creates an upscale quality image that is reflective of the Jaguar brand."
> Randy Metz
> Grissim / Metz Associates

"We feel it creates an upscale quality image that is reflective of the Jaguar brand," Metz said. "It's an elegant, simple, appealing, and welcoming type of facility and we feel it will be a real asset to the city."

Approved unanimously, the commission was thoroughly impressed by the project.

"This design, in comparison to traditional dealerships, is superior," said commissioner Andrew Mutch. "The design is fine and the overall intent makes sense to me."

Dealer Principal for the proposed Jaguar dealership Nathan Conyers told the commission that he has worked with Jaguar in finding a place to open a dealership in Southeastern Michigan for the past three years.

"We feel that Novi is an absolutely fine location for what we're hoping to do," he said.

The dealership would be roughly 20,000 sq. feet and include both automobile sales and service

If approved, Jaguar of Novi would join three other dealerships- Mercedes Benz, Ford, and Infinity- at that intersection.

The auto dealership needs final site plan approval from Novi City Council before it can begin construction

INGROWN TOENAILS
Painful ingrown toenails are one of the most common concerns experienced by people of all ages. Improper trimming of the nails, tight stockings or shoes, injury, and fungus infection of the nails can all cause ingrown toenails. The usual symptoms of ingrown toenails are pain, swelling, redness and infection at one or both corners of the toenail, most often seen on large toes. For most people, an ingrown nail is easily remedied and of minor consequence; however, any infection in a diabetic's foot - especially one where the circulation is impaired - can lead to serious consequences including loss of limb. A diabetic patient with an ingrown nail should see a podiatrist promptly to prevent complications. For the non-diabetic, there are many treatment options available. When conservative care fails to correct or provide relief, a simple permanent surgical procedure can be performed in the office to prevent the problem from recurring.
Novi Footcare Associates offers the most current and effective treatment for the care and management of all nail problems and nail fungus.

Verdict: court will add another judge in 2003

By MIKE MALOTT
HomeTown News Service
mmalott@homecomm.net

52nd District Court gets one additional judge come the year 2003 as a result of a complicated bit of judge swapping endorsed by state lawmakers last week.

It counts as the first new judgeship created in the state in seven years, according to Rep Nancy Cassis, R-Novi Gov John Engler has opposed, and said he will veto, the creation of any new judgeship in the state unless one is eliminated somewhere else His stance is a cost control measure

So when Cassis and Sen Bill Bullard, R-Highland, set out to get a new judgeship for the communities of the fast growing 52nd district they had to find one to eliminate elsewhere

That judgeship will come from the 27th District Court in Wyandotte and Riverview in Wayne County, an area which has been losing population. Judges in that district will be cut from two to one under a bill sponsored by Sen Loren Bennett, R Canton

The 52nd District Court, First Division in Novi was named by the Supreme Court Administrator's Office as the location most in need of an additional judge due to caseload and growth of population But according to the court's Chief Judge Dennis Powers, there is no room in that courthouse for another judge.

So when the new judgeship is added in 2003, one judge will be transferred to the 52nd District s Second Division in Clarkston At the same time, the communities of White Lake and Rose townships will be transferred to that Clarkston courthouse as well It is Judge Michael Batchik who is expected to be moved.

The end result, Cassis and Bullard explained, will be two judges in Clarkston, instead of the current one. And while the 52nd District Court in Novi will still have three judges, that court will have its caseload lightened due to the loss of White Lake and Rose townships from its jurisdiction.

The transfers were accomplished in a three-bill package sponsored by Cassis, Bullard and Bennett. House members voted 97-3 to approve the last piece of the package Wednesday, Dec. 13 Senators wrapped up their last portion of the package Thursday, Dec. 14 in a 34-2 vote.

Living wage law killed by state legislators late in session

By MIKE MALLOT

[illegible]@homecomm.net

[illegible]chigan's living wage preemption legislation suffered a setback [illegible]zing [illegible]th on the final day [illegible]sion in the [illegible]e House of Representatives

The bill which would have preempted local living wage ordinances [illegible]ssion bills set a minimum wage rate higher than that set by state law came to a vote in the House Thursday evening, Dec 14 [illegible]s amended by the Senate the bill would have allowed cities that have already adopted such ordinances to keep them in[illegible]luding Detroit, Madison Heights, Ypsilanti, Ypsilanti Township, Ann Arbor [illegible]reen and Ferndale Officials [illegible]s how [illegible]s could be barred from passing new living wage ordinances

Rep Andrew Richner R Grosse Pointe Park attempted to amend it back to its original form — tossing out even those already adopted ordinances

On that motion the voting board was left open more than an hour while GOP leaders attempted to convince defecting party members like Reps Paul DeWeese R Williamston Gene DeRossett R Manchester Jennifer Faunce R Warren and Randy Richardville R Monroe to give their aye vote, support to the cause Eventually the board was cleared when the tally showed the amendment failing about five votes short of the mark.

The board was cleared to avoid recording a roll call that union members might use as fodder to oppose Republican incumbents in future election representatives explained With the amendment defeated the bill was set aside to die as the session ends Dec 31

Living wage ordinances typically require that companies which contract with those municipalities to pay wages at 125 percent of the poverty level.

Pay rates in Detroit would have been $8 23 if the company provided benefits $10 29 per hour if it did not, under its version of the law

The current state minimum wage is $5 15 per hour

The Michigan Chamber of Commerce has opposed living wage ordinances and urged the state to override them on the grounds they will create a patchwork of different minimum wage rates across the state

Richner's bill tossing out those local living wage ordinances, produced heated debate in the Senate.

"I would hate to suggest that moving this bill so rapidly after the election has anything to do with retaliation for Let Local Voices Count, but it certainly looks like it," Sen. Alma Wheeler Smith, D-South Lyon, asked that in Ypsilanti, the

Sen Mat Dunaskiss, R Lake Orion, argued that the living wage ordinance in Detroit would boost the Salvation Army's payroll from $1.2 million to $3.5 million. So that charitable organization would not be able to continue its work for the city'

Smith countered that in Ypsilanti, the city has exempted non-profits from the living wage requirements

"If you give local governments a chance they will be responsive These are the people who are extraordinarily sensitive to local problems and come up with creative ways to address those problems," she said.

Sen. Gary Peters, D-Bloomfield, contending the local ordinances should be left alone, blasted state lawmakers for dumping out those higher minimum wage rates while they are slated to get sizable pay increases in the coming year.

"We are getting these huge increases while we sit on our hands, and these ordinances are for people who are just trying to pay the mortgage and feed their kids," Peters said.

Senators changed the bill to protect existing ordinances while prohibiting other municipalities from adopting similar rules in the future, then approved the bill 20-16, only to have it defeated in the House later the same day.

TOWNSHIP APPROVES MAPLE HILLS ASSESSMENT DISTRICT

The Northville Township board of trustees has approved a special assessment district for the Maple Hills subdivision street lighting.

The township approved the district after more than 51 percent of the residents voted in favor of it. Residents pay for the requested utility in a special assessment district. The township pays for the requests and the residents in the affected area pay back the money on their tax bills.

The most recent approval by the board was the second time the Maple Hills lighting assessment district went before the board.

BOARD VOTES TO REIMBURSE DEVELOPER FOR BYPASS LANE

The Northville Township board of trustees approved a motion to reimburse a developer for a portion of a Six Mile Road bypass lane.

The reimbursement is to the developer of the Brookstone subdivision No. 2 for a portion of the construction cost of a bypass lane on Six Mile Road at Abby Circle.

The payment in the amount of $32,390 will be made to Grand Sakwa Properties per a previous agreement between the developer and the township.

RESOLUTION PASSED TO PERMIT CLOSURE OF COUNTY ROADS

The Northville Township board of trustees approved a resolution to send to Wayne County that allows the community to close certain county roads.

The permit is renewed annually in order to allow the township to issue permits on behalf of the county for block parties or related events. The resolution does not hold the county responsible in any way for any injuries or damages caused to property or people attending such events.

Additionally, the county still requires individual permits for other types of road closures.

TWO CONTRACTS APPROVED TO BRING VEHICLES TO TOWNSHIP

The Northville Township board of trustees approved two motions that will bring new vehicles to the department of public services.

The first vehicle is a new utility truck to be purchased from Wolverine Freightliner in the amount of $93,177. Two lower bids were received but disqualified because they did not meet the bid specifications including one for $92,140 because the bid called for aluminum wheels and the bid received was for painted steel wheels.

The second vehicle is a new pick-up truck to replace the 1989 truck the township has now. The truck also will serve as a second snow plow vehicle. The purchase was approved in the 2001 budget but the township is in "great need of this replacement" so it will be purchased immediately in the new year. The cost of the vehicle will be $27,000.

GENERATOR AND TRANSFER SWITCH BOUGHT FOR PUMP STATION

The Northville Township board of trustees approved the purchase of a new generator and transfer switch for a sewage pump station in the community.

The generator will be used to provide emergency power during times of a power outage. It would be located in the North Beacon Woods sewage pump substation.

The replacement of the two items is estimated to cost about $12,000 However, the department of public services requested approval of up to $16,000 for the project.

TOWNSHIP ACCEPTS SEWER EASEMENTS FOR SIX PARCELS

The Northville Township board of trustees voted to authorize the township to accept public sanitary sewer easements from six parcels on Seven Mile Road.

Approval allows for the construction of a sanitary sewer to be extended to serve a new convenience store to be located at the southwest corner of Beck Road and Seven Mile Road.

The sanitary sewer will have the necessary safe distance from an existing water main, according to a report to the township clerk from Don Weaver, director of public service in the township.

TOWNSHIP GRANTS EXTENSION OF PLAT APPROVAL FOR LAND

The Northville Township board of trustees has approved a preliminary plat approval extension for the Northville Hills Golf Club.

The proprietors of the Northville Hills Golf Club, Toll Bros. Inc., asked for the request because several portions of the development has not yet had final plat approval.

The deadline for the final preliminary plat approval has been move to Feb. 18, 2002.

Using website, Novi cops arrest woman for solicitation

By RANDAL YAKEY
Staff Writer

She lets it all hang out on her web page. But now police say she went too far when she attempted to take her fantasy to the streets of Novi.

On Dec. 20, police say they arrested the Cranbrooke Street woman on charges of solicitation for sex. The woman had thought she was meeting a "regular guy" when in fact she was entering into a meeting with a Novi police detective in the vicinity of the 27700 block of Novi Road.

"It was very graphic in what she wanted to do," Novi Police Detective Tom Lindberg said. "I got on the web page and sent her an e-mail We had a conversation and in the course of the conversation, she talked how much money and what she would do."

Deborah Al-Dairy, 43, was arrested after she approached a Novi undercover officer. According to Novi Police, Al-Dairy posted her website on America Online as an escort service. The undercover officer and Al-Dairy made a date for 1 p.m. on Wednesday afternoon. Al-Dairy then entered the officer's car where the price of the sex act was discussed.

Al-Dairy said that she gets money up front and would provide change to the officer, police reported.

According to the police report, when he asked the woman what he could get for $80, the woman replied she would perform oral sex Lindberg said the woman was quite "descriptive and overt" in what sexual acts she would do.

When the woman when to "put her hands on the (police officer's) zipper," the officer asked her to wait as he put the seat back, according to the report. Police say that once Al-Dairy attempted to do what she "advertised" she was taken into custody.

Al-Dairy's Web site introduction says that a "woman can be voluptuous and curvaceous, yet sexy and seductive."

According to police, Al-Dairy reportedly told them that she had set up her website last August. She also told police she had been told by an unidentified woman on the Internet that running an escort service over the Internet was "legal." Police tell the Novi News that escort services are legal up until they provide sex to customers.

Al-Dairy was driven to her home where her computer was confiscated by police for evidence. Al-Dairy, who was released without bond, will be arraigned on solicitation and accosting charges on January 2001 in 52nd 1st Division Court in Novi.

Lindberg said there is a proliferation of such Web sites on the Internet.

"There are a lot of these Web sites out there but we don't have the resources to spend on it," Lindberg said. "There are about 25 to 50 Web sites that cater to the metro Detroit area."

Concealed weapons bill discussed heavily in Lansing

By MIKE MALOTT
HomeTown News Service

mmalott@homecomm net

Will more CCW permits be issued? Probably Will there be more guns out there? There are millions of guns out there now, according to state Sen Willis Bullard R Highland

He was explaining that if the state Legislature adopts the shall issue' permit law now pending in conference committee in Lansing no one is quite sure how many additional people would be able to carry concealed weapons in Michigan

Initial estimates given by bill sponsor Rep Mike Green, R-Mayville put the number at about 200,000 But the Senate added enough restrictions to the law and required more training, so that some lawmakers were willing to predict that fewer people would be able to get permits than under the current law

The conference committee — including Bullard, Green, Reps Larry DeVuyst R-Alma William J Callahan, D-St Clair Shores, and Sens Philip Hoffman R-Horton, and Christopher Dingell, D-Trenton — will meet this coming week, likely on Tuesday, to hammer out differences between the House and Senate passed versions

> "Will more CCW permits be issued? Probably. Will there be more guns out there? There are millions of guns out there now."
> Sen Willis Bullard
> R-Highland

The proposal stalled a year a half ago after the shootings at Columbine High School, but legislative leaders want to try to revive it in lame duck session before it dies at the end of year

Dingell said last week he expected no action.

It was a fan dance by the governor to gain Republican support in outstate districts, but now that the election is over, he doesn't want anything to be done with it," Dingell concluded

Bullard, on the other hand, said he has been talking to Green about what changes need to be made to win passage He said Green had indicated to him there were only five or six differences which House members had with the more restrictive, Senate-passed version. Once those are solved, representatives would likely support it, Bullard predicted

The goal is to make issuance of CCW permits "more fair, more objective, less arbitrary," Bullard said. To do that, he said, the law will have to have "shall issue" language in the final version

Present law allows discretion — it reads "may issue" — to the 83 county gun boards which currently decide on who is to get CCW permits. That's a problem, according to proponents, because issuance of licenses is unfair. They note that 42 percent of all CCW permits issued in the state come from Macomb County, while it can be very difficult to get a permit in Washtenaw County.

The main bill in the package, Green's House Bill 4530, would require gun boards to issue licenses if applicants meet the criteria set out in the law — are 21 years old, do not have a criminal record, have no history of mental illness, have received the required training, etc

The bill was shelved in May 1999 due to a public outcry after the Columbine incident. Objections to the bill were raised from police and prosecutors as well.

Got a resolution? Record wants to keep track of you

You can hear it happening already.

Folks planning on shedding a few pounds.

Folks pledging to give up smoking.

People making mental promises to spend more time with their family.

And if it goes like most New Years' resolutions, those promises will be out the window by Groundhog Day.

If this sounds like you or someone you know, we want to help. The Northville Record and Novi News want help you see your resolutions all the way through to completion.

Beginning around February, we'll be contacting readers at random and do a story on how this year's batch of resolutions is working out. That's where you come in — we want to hear what you're promising will be different in 2001.

Fill out the coupon below and mail it to our office. Tell us what you're resolving to do different in your life this year. At some point during the year, we may contact you to find out how you're living up to your commitment, or why your personal promise didn't quite pan out. We'll tell your story in a feature article in the Record.

Questions? Give Chris Davis a call at (248) 349-1700, ext. 114.

Good luck in the New Year! We'll be watching...

Y2K II?

New Year's Eve was a festive night for those who gathered at the Northville clock last year, waiting to see what would happen with the much-ballyhooed Y2K issue looming overhead. The nigh came and went without a hitch, though. And even though this year marks the passage into the true start of the millennium, techies are confident the switchover this year poses even less risk — perceived or otherwise — than last.

Pair receive promotions in township administration

human resources issues from Eastern Michigan University and will report directly to Kubitskey

Snider said Kubitskey will maintain her role as township finance director but will take on additional duties to help him manage the township daily

"She has an excellent background in areas that will greatly assist with the day-to-day operations of the township," Snider said. For example, Kubitskey has an extensive background in finance and labor negotiations. The background will help with dealing with unions and working with their demands, Snider said.

"I recognized early on in this promotional process that she is an asset to the township with her strong history in the township," Snider said.

The appointments were made at the Northville Township board of trustees meeting Dec. 21.

Abbo said the two candidates are a good match for their promotions.

"They both have the right level of management and leadership for their positions and both of them are needed," Abbo said.

talking," Abbo said.

The township would have more control over what businesses move into the community and consequently diversify the tax base, he said, by having the luxury of being able to pick and choose possible new commercial entities for the area.

Bill Pomeroy, Northville Township board of trustee, will be one of the board liaisons to the EDC. He was appointed to the position at the Dec. 21 board of trustees meeting.

The EDC activity won't be limited to business recruitment, he said. For example, the board will work to try and land county, state, and federal grants or possibly make recommendations to the board of trustees on proposed commercial developments. Other projects where the EDC might take up an active role include those such as working with the city of Detroit to determine what they plan to do with the more than 400 acres of land they own at Five Mile Road and Beck Road.

But before anything happens, Pomeroy said, officials will have to do their homework.

"We'll sit down and go through the roster and call the current members to ask if they're still interested and get a commitment," Pomeroy said. "We're going to look at similar organizations in other communities that have had successful ventures."

Pomeroy, who said he doesn't want to be the chairman of the EDC and doesn't think any board member should, said he's looking forward to having the board of trustees make more informed decisions.

For example, Pomeroy said, when a Florida-based company's decision to move to Northville Township was contingent on a township tax abatement, a recommendation from the EDC would have made a decision for the board of trustees easier.

"I would have liked a list of pros and cons giving us the reasons we should and should not do this," Pomeroy said. "I think the board made the right professional decision, but we could have used information."

Andrew Dietderich is a staff writer at the Northville Record. He may be reached by calling (248) 349-1700 extension 104.

Drunk drivers kept at bay with court program

35th District Judge Ron Lowe said the program is not designed as punishment, rather an aid.

"We realize the holiday season is a very difficult time for a person with an alcohol problem. The temptation is great to cheat," Lowe said. "By random testing during the holiday we can give them the incentive not to break from abstinence and thereby protect the public."

CATCH is the second new program recently put in place at the 35th district court. The first was a program jointly run with the court and Mothers Against Drunk Driving called the Victims Impact Panel. The program puts those convicted of drunken driving in front of an individual or family negatively impacted by alcohol. The first panel is scheduled for January.

MacDonald said the court has other changes in mind as well including running the CATCH program at other times of the year.

"We're also considering implementing the testing on Super Bowl Sunday and St. Patrick's Day in 2001," he said.

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the home towns we serve and contribute to the business suc-

What should be resolved in 2001?

With Christmas now behind us and the mad rush to the stores recommencing (is there a nice way to tell Aunt Gertrude that the lobster slippers just weren't what you had in mind?), it's now time to focus on resolutions for the new year.

All of us, at one point in time, have made mental commitments to one cause or another. Whether it's self-improvement or improvement of others, everyone has pledged to do something different to make things better.

We've got our own list of resolutions we've drafted that we hope various people and entities will consider as we enter 2001

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP / CITY OF NOVI: To solve, once and for all, the Quail Ridge drain issue This thing has dragged on through nearly the entire second half of the Clinton Administration All the while, people's backyards are suffering and property is getting eaten alive. Spring will be here before we know it, and with it comes more water. Get this thing fixed

HAYES LEMMERZ: To market itself successfully at the North American International Auto Show this year and next By putting itself at the forefront of the automotive supplier scene, the Northville Township company can possibly gain a better financial foothold amid slipping stock prices and imminent layoffs.

NORTHVILLE SCHOOL DISTRICT: To clearly outline for the public the building needs over the next three to five years. Even with multiple expansions to existing schools and the opening of the new Northville High School, parents and students are wondering what additional facilities will be needed in the years to come Laying that information out will be a great help to everyone

FARMER JACK: To sell its mothballed Seven Mile Road store. Now

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP: To start afresh with the newly-elected trustees For too long, an aura of politics and personality conflicts seemed to meddle their way into the business of the community. Now, with a new supervisor, new manager, and two new trustees, it's time to let the manager do his job and to be the role local government should be: the means to the end for the good life of residents and the prosperity of area business.

NORTHVILLE DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY: To continue marketing downtown Northville as a good place for business to set up shop. A lot of businesses nearly have to take a number to get up and running in Northville Township — the demand is that great. There's plenty of land, cheaper taxes and easy access to major roads That puts smaller, centralized communities like downtown Northville behind the 8-ball. The city of Northville is an extremely viable CBD in which to operate.

All of us, at one point in time, have made mental committments to one cause or another. We've got our own list of resolutions we've drafted for 2001.

Getting existing vacancies filled and getting commitments to occupy pending new office suites could greatly bolster the city's economic base.

U.S. POSTAL SERVICE: To announce by the end of February, matter-of-factly, what it plans to do with the existing post office , and to work with Northville and Northville Township leaders on the construction of a new one, if that's what's needed

VIDEO STORES: To stock extra copies of "2001: A Space Odyssey," since that's sure to be the hot rental this year

NORTHVILLE POLICE / NORTHVILLE SCHOOL DISTRICT: To rearrange police schedules so as to provide a crossing guard for children attending Amerman Elementary. It's tough getting across five lanes of asphalt when you're a grown-up. It's even tougher when you're eight.

MOTHER NATURE: To let up with this atmospheric assault long enough to let us move our cars.

Enjoy New Year's Eve and all of 2001.

You've got water, we've got questions

When the only water you have in town is of the solid-state variety, thinking about Bermuda shorts and bikinis is a little tough

But that's exactly what Northville Township trustees did last week in passing a resolution giving a virtual thumbs-up to the possibility of constructing a $10 million waterpark in the township.

With that kind of money to support it, you can bet it will be extensive, and with the sorts of accruiments being proposed, all signs seem to point in just that direction.

It's far from a done deal, of course. The wheels of progress turn slowly, and where projects like this are concerned, they move much, much slower than a kid on a waterslide.

Just the same, there are some very serious and very real considerations the township and Wayne County need to consider before moving forward to Step 2.

Is this something residents want?

Is this something residents will have to pay for, supplemental to their existing taxes? Will there be an admission fee attached?

What about liability? It's never a pleasant thought, but it's an unfortunate reality in this litigious age.

We know fully well that the township's actions last week merely illustrate an interest in a waterpark, and are far from a full-fledged "let's-get-to-it-right-away" type of push. But we're nonetheless reminded — painfully so — of our neighbors in Novi, who were faced with a waterpark issue of their own a few years ago. The answers to the questions we just asked didn't sit well with Novi residents.

In the meantime, the prospect of a water park is certainly attention-getting, and one we'll keep our eyes on in the future

POSTSCRIPT: (Don't you just love conjuring up images of speed slides and inner tubes when the mercury is down in the single digits?)

■ Cartoon was completely wrong

I am writing in response to two articles I read in the newspaper The first one I would like to address is the cartoon in the December 7th edition of the newspaper The cartoon, drawn by a fellow student from the high school, depicts the seminar period that is a time when students run rampant in the hallways, they are hysterical, and the teacher has no control over them This is entirely false Yes, seminar does have the handful of students in the entire school who misuse seminar and do everything but study The majority of the students use the seminar period to catch up on homework and to go for extra help on specific areas from their teachers I believe the annulment of seminar would be both illogical and unwise It has helped me significantly with my schoolwork

On the second note, I am also writing in response to another article from the same newspaper about another fellow student who would like to hold a prayer group during seminar I believe that to be a violation of the constitution, which specifically states the separation between church and state Assume the administration does allow Nicolette to have the group That would mean that the school would have to allow students who are Jewish to have a special group, and a group for the Muslims and so on Pretty soon everybody with a religious background will want to hold a meeting during seminar, which is held for schoolwork and school related events Now I commend Nicolette for believing so strongly in her faith, but I believe school hours should be devoted to one's education, not one's personal faith which should be left for someone's home and his or her church, synagogue or temple.

■ Seminar period is very important

As a junior at Northville High School, I am active on the varsity swim team and several other clubs I have also chosen to take full advantage of many honors and advanced classes Consequently, I utilize and cherish every minute of my seminar time for academic purposes. During seminar, I am able to work on homework, ask teachers for help, attend study groups, work on group and individual projects, and catch up on missed work Even though I utilize seminar time well, I still have some assignments to complete at home However, seminar allows some time for my extracurricular activities after school Without seminar, I fear that I would not be able to participate on the swim team or in other club activities. Also, I would find it difficult to maintain the high academic standard necessary to remain on a varsity team

As with any rule, there will always be some students who will try to abuse the privilege of seminar time Unfortunately, a very few select students on occasion, use seminar as a time to be with friends for nonacademic reasons However, most teachers are very strict during seminar and enforce the rules. They don't allow students to play cards, watch television, or just "goof off." If students are caught doing these activities, they are given a "misuse." Four of these misuses lead to a loss of credit and require community service during the summer.

I hope these few students who abuse the rules don't ruin the seminar experience for those of us who are dependent on it When used appropriately, seminar allows students the opportunity to achieve academically and successfully participate in athletics and other extra curricular activities I would be lost without it.

■ Business helped with firefighting

On behalf of the Mothers' Club of Northville, we would like to extend a sincere thank you to the community for the generous support we received for our sixth annual All Aglow Illumination for Education event We are pleased with the response of more than $9,700 in donations to benefit the school children of Northville

We feel that purchasing a tree light is a special way to honor or memorialize someone who has been special to you.

A very special thank you to the Northville Record for their continued support and coverage of the event and for donating the space to list the honorees Also, a special thank you to the Northville Firefighters who generously donated their time to decorate the tree. We couldn't have done it without them Thank you to Northville City Officials who approved and assisted us in this event Thanks also to Dan Prescott for designing our new brochure Thanks too, to the always cooperative Northville schools for allowing us to display posters, flyers and to the Hillside and Meads Mill School Choirs under the direction of Vicki Kopistiansky and Pat McLaughlin for providing the delightful holiday songs

The Northville Firefighters Women's Auxiliary would like to publicly recognize and thank some local businesses that helped the Northville City Firefighters in last Wednesday's fire at the Foundry Flask Chief Allen was on the local news On the scene included some Northville City DPW workers and township workers who had been working since 3 a.m. on snow removal.

The Auxiliary went to Hungry Howie's on Seven Mile who donated 15 pizzas for our cold, hungry men. Good Time party store helped with several cases of pop and Hiller's Market on Main Street discounted cases of bottled water.

Despite this being the second night of the snowstorm, all of the businesses were very helpful and happy to help the cause. However, no one was happier than the firemen when they returned from the fire scene to hot pizzas, cold pop and water at the station.

The Northville Firefighters Women's Auxiliary is a non-profit group and therefore, especially appreciative and thankful of the businesses that helped us take care of the firefighters last week

■ Writer makes appeal to reason

Northville Firefighters Women's Auxiliary

With due respect, I wish to inform Steve Pichen that my intentions were not to appeal to the passions or prejudices of anyone I disagree totally with his thesis that moral or ethical behavior is based solely on religious belief, as he seems to indicate in his rebuttal to my letter appearing in the Dec. 21 issue of the Northville Record.

Rather, I appeal to reason, not to "passion or prejudice," in asserting that there may be other considerations why a person behaves in an ethical or moral manner, knows right from wrong, is honest in his dealings with others, and is considerate and respectful for opinions that differ from his

Could it be that over eons of time man has learned, by trial and error — often with painful results — what helps or hinders him in living in harmony with his fellow man?

The Bible, written by and for the ultimate benefit of man with, I must admit, a prescience that is astonishing in many instances, admonishes man with regard to what is and what is not acceptable behavior.

Then again, there are many instances to be found in the Bible that, in the light of advance experience and knowledge, are no longer acceptable, and no longer in tune with the real world as we have come to know it

Reflections on state board of ed

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dorothy Beardmore ends her 16 years of service on the State Board of Education — most recently as president — in January. She is regarded as among the most knowledgeable and effective education reformers in Michigan She writes her thoughts this week in lieu of the vacationing Phil Power.

Dorothy Beardmore

When someone wishes that you "may live in interesting times," consider running for a board of education, I began my life as one the same year collective bargaining for teachers took effect

I was there when the Michigan Education Assessment Program was born and we were assured scores would never be used to rank schools or districts I was there when Michigan mandated Special Education for all children with disabilities and five years later when the federal government followed Michigan's lead.

I ran for the State Board of Education in 1984 because I felt the recommendations made in 1983's "A Nation At Risk" missed the mark, but that Michigan and other states were accepting them Focusing on years of study without defining what should be learned would not improve schools Defining requisite knowledge and skills in curriculum could.

My state level career began Jan. 1, 1985

Change in leadership on the state board broke an impasse on revising teacher certification and made it possible to move it from a lifetime to a five year privilege.

To renew it, a teacher must continue to upgrade and update subject area knowledge and pedagogy, either in college courses or approved professional development activities

In the mid-80s, we passed a School Improvement Policy to encourage staff in every school toward improving their students' achievement. As a reward for success and an incentive for continuous improvement, a voluntary system of Accreditation was instituted

These efforts came together in Public Act 25 of 1990. Michigan's education reform legislation, which incorporate the Board's concepts of core curriculum, school improvement, professional development and accreditation.

Next, Michigan's system for funding public education underwent total restructuring. It changed the tax structure to a better balance and created a per-pupil foundation grant. High-spending districts were held harmless while low spending districts were raised until now there is no district in the state receiving less than $6,000 per pupil, instead of less than $3,000 as some had.

New accreditation standards are near. They will require a high level of student participation in the MEAP, satisfactory academic performance, adequate yearly academic progress and a closing of the achievement gap between identifiable groups of students. Since the mid-80s, the state board has claimed that all Michigan children can and must learn much more than was ever required of them before. Jobs for the uneducated or under-educated are rare and disappearing.

Today's children reflect greater diversity than ever before. They vary in language, in culture and, too often, in preparation for school.

The State Board and state government focus on the earlier years in a child's life to assure young brains are appropriately nurtured and ready to learn

Schools cannot meet physical and mental health needs, the effects of poverty or the mobility of children and families, but they can and must assure those needs are met. Michigan is a national leader in inter-agency coordination to identify and activate the individuals and groups necessary to assure students have ample opportunity for success in school and in later life.

This effort is an unrecognized foundation for the state's economic development.

When I joined the board, the Department of Education had 2,200 staff positions. There are now not quite 400. Many responsibilities have been moved from the Department and Board of Education to other agencies of state government by Executive Orders for the governor

It is the governor's belief that the state Board of Education should focus on establishing policies to guide educational activities, regardless of where located.

Because the Michigan Constitution gives the state board "leadership and general supervision. Responsibilities over all but baccalaureate degree granting institutions, and "general planning and coordinating" for all public education, including higher education, the board is altering its behavior to emphasize policy, and lessen its monitoring of how its policies are implemented.

There can be no throw-away children or schools, but are we as a society ready to make the concerted effort to rectify the most serious problems? Failure to do so dooms Michigan.

That responsibility has been transferred to the superintendent of public instruction, who reports his decision so that the board can continue its constitutional "general supervision" duty.

At the end of 34 years on boards of education, 16 of them at the state level, what do I think and feel?

We have learned that students to rise to the occasion if they are held to high standards. The progress we have made is great The challenges we face are even stronger.

Change is the only constant and too many people resist it Most Michigan schools are doing well and the students in them are too, but the world's advances can outpace even our best

Of course, there are problem schools, problem families, problem communities They were highlighted in the recent Proposal 1 voucher campaign. The rhetoric was counter-productive but the problems are real.

What can be done in schools unable to overcome their challenges? Turning our back on areas of greatest need is no solution. Families and other caregivers and the communities in which they reside must be salvaged

There can be no throw-away children or schools, but are we as a society ready to make the concerted effort to rectify the most serious problems? Failure to do so dooms Michigan and, since many states are doing no better or not as well as we are, it also challenges our entire nation

My time on the board ends Jan 1 There are plenty of issues remaining for my successor and his colleagues — and for all of us

What a crazy millennium it's been

With a welder's mask over my face, standing in the middle of a snow drift in my uncle's back yard, I peered into the blazing sun and wondered what miracles could be expected for the new millennium

Randal Yakey

"What are you doing?" a nephew asked me

"I'm watching a partial solar eclipse of the sun," I told the young lad, as he stood on the precisely shoveled driveway.

"What's that?" he inquired.

I explained to the boy how the moon blotted out a portion of the sun and that the only way to get a good look a the marvel of nature was with the welder's mask. And yes, little man, there will be a new millennium and no it hasn't arrived yet, contrary to popular belief

Yes, the real millennium starts this coming Monday, January 1. All that Y2K nonsense was nothing more than aggravating hype. The new millennium, and I'm sure another better, more improved millennium party, will rain down like a hail storm on December 31st. And in Novi, well, it delimitely was an unique twelve months. Without the hype

This past year saw a wacky presidential election with both sides charging theft at the voting booth. The 52nd 1st Division Court is going to get a new judge, but then they'll have one torn away from them and handed over to Clarkston - makes no sense to me whatsoever But what does make sense these days

The presidential election? That didn't make any sense The fight for the White House went all the way to the United States Supreme Court and each side complained that the other stole the election

In council chambers, there have been battles over tax abatements, the road bond, fire department improvements and disagreements over county road improvements with the Road Commission for Oakland County (RCOC) We've had three planning commission spots open up and after six months, there are still two commissioners that have not been appointed

A request by Mayor Richard Clark to keep audience participation (where citizens voice their opinions in front of council) to a minimum faded away and "the voice of the public," as one citizen said, continued without limit as council meetings dragged on into the early morning hours

And then there were the strange stories of the year. How about the guy who crashed his plane into Walled Lake or the day the Rap Group, Insane Clown Posse (ICP) invaded the quiet confines of Novi. We had helicopters chasing criminals on the run (eventually caught in Northville.)

It looked like the town would go berserk - and in some places it did!

There were rumors of homeless men living among Bishop's Creek (and other wooded areas of the city) though they never panned out - but that didn't keep people from calling and telling us they were still out there What seemed like a whole herd of deer (22 to date) had been either struck or killed by drivers in Novi in only the past four months was quite a lot.

Yes, the real millennium begins this coming Monday. All that Y2K nonsense was nothing more than aggravating hype. I'm sure another better, more improved millennium party, will rain down like a storm.

Phew! What a year! Can't wait for the next one to begin

More tax abatements, and the future of the Novi Expo Center hanging in the balance, road improvements, road improvements, road improvements Blowing up the Grand River bridge over the CSX railroad so a new bridge can be constructed is another biggie.

And if we get anymore snow, let's hope the Road Commission for Oakland County's Brent Bair is handing out maps of Novi for his road crews The pot holes on Novi Road could swallow a snow plow

So, get ready folks Hike up your leggings and long johns, it could be a long winter but it sure will be a lot of fun

Happy New Year.

Michigan takes its roots in farms

Michigan – as well as most of the United States – was a land of farmers from its earliest settlers in the 1700s up to the years following World War I.

According to J.C Holmes, a 19th century writer of Michigan history, the orchards that make up many of the farms even today had early beginnings.

Barbara Louie

"The many very large, rough, hardy pear trees," Holmes wrote in 1873, "the many apple orchards and old Morello cherry trees that we find scattered along on the old farms, on each side of the Detroit river, testify to us that the early settlers in that vicinity were not unmindful of the value to themselves and their posterity of the plantations of fruit trees."

"The heavy clay soil along the banks of the Detroit river seems admirably adapted to the growth, health and longevity of the pear tree," Holmes said

The pear trees Holmes and his contemporaries found growing along the Detroit river in the late 1800s were believed to have been planted by the French missionaries more than 100 years earlier. Tradition had it that the seeds of those pear trees were planted all the way from Monroe to Mount Clemens.

"How correct this statement is I do not know," commented Holmes, "but it seems to be a well ascertained fact that in no other locality in this country can such trees be found as the ancient pear trees that are now standing on the banks of the Detroit river. It is not unusual for them to bear a crop of 30 or 40 bushels each."

The hardiness of the trees apparently inspired future settlers to grow their own such produce, and Michigan's place as a veritable Mecca for farming was secure.

Prospective farmers flocked to the Michigan territory from the eastern states to try their hands at what promised to be a lucrative career.

One such business flourished in Northville Parmenter's Cider Mill was founded in 1873 by Benijah Aldrich Parmenter.

The mill was powered in 1880 by a threshing machine engine. It was capable of grinding 10,000 bushels of apples a year, producing cider, apple butter and vinegar.

"Two years later," writes Northville history author Jack Hoffman, "he purchased a stationary steam engine, which was used until 1910 when an electric motor was employed."

After Parmenter's death in 1921, the business was taken over by his son. It stayed in the family for four generations before being sold to an outside company. The name was retained, however, and has remained one of the longest continuously running businesses in Northville

According to J.C. Holmes, a history writer, the orchards that make up many of the farms even today had early beginnings.

To bring together early fruit farmers, the first horticultural society in Michigan was created in Detroit in March 1846, as a local organization. One year later, the society's exhibition of prize fruit featured a number of Northville and Plymouth residents, including John Miller, E.J. Penniman and E. Starkweather.

Holmes declared that "interest in the society was well kept up until 1852." After the society died out a year later, a convention of nurserymen from southern Michigan was held in Hillsdale County. Their purpose was to set uniform prices for the sale of fruit trees throughout the state.

Setting such standard prices provided so successful, that within a few years, a group of men decided to organize a state horticultural society. In September 1857, the Michigan State Horticultural Society was formed.

Problems not plentiful, but groups consider traffic issues

Dec. 8 meeting, "drivers have become frustrated and rumors of accidents have been circulated and embellished ' Police records indicate three accidents have occurred since September on Six Mile Road between Beck Road and Sheldon Road One of the accidents, which occurred near Sheldon Road, was not attributed to school activity However, due to the time of the occurrence, it's being considered related to it

The report indicates three possible changes to the area including: new traffic lights; flashing speed reduction signs; more aluminum speed limit signs.

The cons outweigh the pros in most changes, according to the report For example, with new traffic lights, walking students are able to cross the street more easily and traffic would be stopped to allow "a more efficient exit of students."

However, the lights would result in an increase in rear-end collisions more serious accidents may occur as a result of people trying to beat the light, intersections at Beck Road and Sheldon road would be adversely affected, "frustration and alter-cations between drivers" would be more likely, and the cost would be about $30,000.

Fiber optic speed reduction signs, the second option considered, also have more cons that pros, according to the report. While the signs represent a visible reminder to drivers they're in a school zone and need to slow down, for example, the signs are costly with a price tag of $25,000 for two. Additionally, driver compliance is estimated at 1 to 4 percent.

The last solution considered, aluminum speed limit signs, are available at no cost to the community. However, they have a compliance rate of 1 percent.

"Pedestrians and vehicle traffic must be free-flowing and collision-free and the community objective is to determine causes of congestion and relieve it," the report said. "The community, however, must be ready to accept what is reasonable, not what is perfect."

Bolitho said he will take the information discussed with Snider and Holland to the school district's administrative services meeting Jan. 16. The issue likely then will go before the Northville board of education.

"I'm going to take the options back to the administrative services subcommittee and talk about the pros and cons of each option and then see which direction the board wishes to go," Bolitho said

Township eyed for possible home of waterpark

Road, Gans said Another option is the Phoenix property located near Five Mile Road and Beck Road west and north of Scott Correctional Facility

The county would pay for the project with the exception of the land donation from the township

"We don't have the funds to build a $10 million water park, but if we partner with other entities we can provide some things our residents have been asking for," Gans said

A survey conducted by the Northville Parks and Recreation Department named outside swimming facilities as a strong need in the community

"This might happen and it might not," Gans said "We're merely indicating our interest "

Mark Abbo, township supervisor, said the resolution supports the board's "high level of interest" in seeing the water park through

"We have a high level of interest in the park and this is just to discuss the concept to get the ball rolling," Abbo said

Boredom Busters for You and the Kids

When the cold weather conditions keep you inside and the excitement of the holidays are gone, everyone can use some new amusements. Here are some ideas to try at home:

• Guess Who

What You'll Need: 4 or more players, a pencil, several pieces of paper (or a magazine), and tape.

Step 1: Write the name of a famous character or person on a piece of paper, and make one for each person playing. Step 2: Tape the piece of paper with a name on it (or a cut out from a magazine) to everyone's back. Make sure no one sees what his or her own name tag is! Step 3: The object of the game is to figure out who you are. Everyone goes around and asks the other players questions, without having the other person say the name on the tag. Step 4: The players can only answer yes or no. When one of the teams has an overwhelming majority of players, they are declared the winners.

• Treasure Island

What You'll Need: 3 or more players. Pretend you are all on a desert island looking for treasure. Make a map or place clues around the house on sticky notes leading to the treasure An alternative to searching for one treasure is to organize a scavenger hunt and look for a variety of odd household items Make sure to include things children of all ages can find.

• Don't Wake Daddy

What You'll Need· 4 or more players Step 1. Select one person to be the "daddy" Step 2: Have daddy go in a room where he will close his eyes and take a pretend nap Step 3: All of the other players should try to sneak past him Step 4· If daddy catches someone, they're the next daddy

• Look at Me

What You'll Need: 2 or more players. Have your child observe you for a minute. Leave the room Return to the room, having changed a small detail in your appearance Remove an earring, put on some lipstick or change your hair. Can they Guess ?

• Take a Trip

What You'll Need: 3 or more players. Set aside one night a week for a "trip to another country" and spend the week before researching and learning about its history, customs, people and food. Let children help plan a dinner menu that reflects the chosen culture. You can all dress up in costumes and decorate the dining room.

Does high school teacher Ed Davis know the cure for cabin fever?

Cabin Fever

What to do when the indoors gives you the blues

Story by Stephanie Fordyce

Jack Frost is alive and kicking-nipping at our noses, stinging our feet, but for the most part his wild ways are keeping us captive in our own homes.

Seeking shelter from his below freezing temperatures, endless inches of snow, and bone chilling winds, many of us are suffering from winter's most common illness: cabin fever.

You know the symptoms: you're bored, irritable, and even a little claustrophobic. But instead of sitting around going stir crazy, there are many things to do to beat the homebound blues.

"This is the perfect time to do all those little jobs you've put off or finish that forgotten project in the attic," said Director of Behavioral Medicine at Novi Providence Hospital Stephanie Brady.

Brady said doing chores like cleaning out your closet are great ways to overcome cabin fever.

"Doing little things around the house that you just haven't had the time to get to are good ways to cure boredom because they give you a sense of accomplishment," she said.

While the harsh winter weather causes us a physical inconvenience, Brady said it can also cause us mental anguish as well.

"For many of us, our lives are so structured and so planned, that we become easily stressed if something is out of our control," she said. "We get angry and frustrated if we can't, for example, get to work so our stress factor is high."

Brady said something as simple as taking a short walk, or as silly as making a snow angle, can relieve some of the symptoms of cabin fever.

"As adults we sometimes forget we're allowed to have fun and 'play'," she said.

Novi resident Ed Davis, who is homebound while recovering from foot surgery, knows all too well about cabin fever.

"I get pretty antsy," he said. "Let's just say my Nikes are collecting lots of dust, but you just have to go with the flow and suck it up."

For those who are like Davis- not only homebound but couchbound as well, Brady suggests taking advantage of the television.

"Use this time to catch up on soaps or watch Jenny Jones," she said.

While you probably won't catch Davis watching The Bold & The Beautiful, he does find refuge from the cabin fever jitters with the Internet

Brady said being homebound provides us with the opportunity to do some family bonding, whether its playing board games or cooking.

"Let the kids get messy in the kitchen one afternoon or have everyone make their favorite dish and have a little party," she said. "Just have some fun - you can clean up tomorrow.'

YOU KNOW YOU HAVE CABIN FEVER WHEN...

- Your car is now completely submerged in snow, and the only visible evidence left of your car is your antenna
- You now know every answer to the Who Wants To Be A Millionaire home game
- You require sunglasses when you open the curtains
- The dried mustard stain on your sweatpants is from the salami sandwich you ate five days ago
- The most exciting part of your day is watching your dog pee in the backyard
- You've watched so many talk shows, that "You go girl" and "Kick him to the curb" are now a part of your daily vocabulary
- You've color coordinated your underwear, sock and T-shirt drawers
- You've had enough time to master the art of origami.
- You call directory assistance to get the telephone number to someplace in Florida...just for kicks.
- Your PC has smoke billowing from the back side from chat room overuse.

TEN DUMB THINGS TO DO WHEN YOU'RE BORED

What can you possibly do if there is nothing else constructive? Brett Witty, author of "The Not Quite Bored" hopes these ideas will help in beating the boredom Beelzebub.

- Break or create new records for the Guiness Book of Records. For example, how fast you can say the alphabet
- Stand on your head long enough so that you can see funny colours in front of your eyes
- Try to even up your non-dominant hand. Abuse it if it's not building up fast enough
- Start counting and see what number you get up to
- Turn the sound off on your TV and make up your own words to shows. Make every character a deviant of some sort.
- Write Brittany Spears and N'Sync hate mail. Be creative.
- Create new words. Submit them to the Oxford Dictionary.
- Find how many words you can make on an upside-down calculator.
- Start your stand-up comedy career, successful or not.

Tony Jangian watches his "O" gauge train make its way around the track at his Northville Township business - Tony's Mower Shop and Trains on Five Mile Road.

Like the real thing

Model trains brings renewed interest to an old hobby

By CHRIS C. DAVIS
Editor

On the surface, lawnmowers and model trains don't seem to be a very natural mix

Don't tell that to Tony Janigian He's more than happy with the pairing and how it's helped out his business

Janigian's love is model trains Specifically, Lionel and its chief rival, MTH Trains In the little shop along Five Mile Road, Janigian has been spending a lot of time over the last few weeks giving parents, grandparents and friends reasons why trains are a good toy for kids at Christmas

And while parents may be bringing in their snowblowers for repairs, sons and daughters clamor over the small layout in the corner of the room, eager to look at the ice skaters, lumber freight car and the puffing of the engine

"If you buy a kid just about any other toy, they'll use it for a few days, but in two weeks, they'll be bored with it," Janigian said. "There's really no limit to what you can do with model trains."

Janigian himself got into model trains as a child with what was, at the time, the most popular brand and style of trains out there. O-scale Lionel Now in its 100th year of operation, Lionel is gradually making a comeback in the toy train market

The reason? Action, and plenty of it

"You can only run a train around in a circle for so long. Kids are going to want to do something more," Janigian said "Lionel has plenty of action accessories to make the operation of the train fun "

Basic starter sets with an engine, a few freight cars, sections of track and a throttle start at around $170 at Tony's Mower Shop and Trains. More elaborate sets with additional cars, more track and electronic sound effects can also be purchased At Tony's, all sets come with a five-year warranty.

"All the advancements in technology over the last few years have made trains even more fun to use," Janigian said.

As evidence of the resurgence of the popularity of model trains, Janigian said one needs only look at the reactions of children when they enter the store

"They gravitate to the layout," he said "It's like seeing Santa Claus."

When they aren't looking at the layout or the showcases filled with collectors' item-quality pieces, other shop patrons are looking skyward at the train which encircles the ceiling of the store. The train is so long that the caboose nearly plays catch-up to the engine

Interested in getting into model railroading?

One of the first things you'll need to determine is what scale you'd like to model in. Here's a rundown of the various scales available.

G: Nicknamed 'G' scale because the original manufacturer was located in Germany. It runs in 1-to-22.5. Usually toys, they're most often seen running around Christmas trees. They're big trains that take up a lot of space.

O: This scale runs 1-to-48. The scale was made popular in the 1950s by Lionel.

HO: Essentially, it stands for "half-O." Bar none, it's the most popular scale with the greatest availability for equipment Three-quarters of North American model railroaders use this scale

N: This scale runs 1-to-160. It got its name because the rails were originally spaced nine millimeters apart.

A good book for getting started in model railroading is "Basic Model Railroading," edited by Kent Johnson and published by Kalmbach Publishing. The list price for the book is $14.95 and is available and most large bookstores or hobby stores.

Janigian said his passion for the hobby has also been passed along to his son, 3-year-old Nico, who also has a train running around the ceiling of his own bedroom

"He goes to bed with it running every night," Janigian said. "It's almost like a lullaby for him."

Janigian said model railroading and model trains allow young people to use their imagination and creativity — something lacking with so many toys today.

"They can do anything they want with it once they get going,' Janigian said. There's so much stuff out there you can buy or make for a layout that it's practically endless '

Pets need to prepare for cold weather too

It is the time of year to prepare for colder weather, and the changes it brings.

Although pets are prepared for winter by nature, some precautions are still necessary

According to the American Pet Association, winter is an especially dangerous time for pets.

Some pets are bred for cold weather (i.e. Saint Bernard's and some long hair cats) and some are not (i.e. Grey Hounds and some short or hairless cats)

Warm weather dogs should only be let outside on cold days for as long as they need. Cats, unless on leash, should never be allowed to run free.

Due to the dampening sound effects of snow, pets often can not hear cars coming. It is also easier for the pet to become lost and they can easily freeze to death.

If cats run free in your neighborhood, tap on your hood before starting your car. Cats will often climb under the hoods of cars to get warm.

Many people service their vehicles before winter and this often includes changing the anti-freeze Cats and dogs are drawn to anti-freeze by its sweet taste. The toxic dose for dogs is 1 ounce of pure anti-freeze per 10 pounds of body weight. Anti-freeze is 3 times more toxic to cats than dogs. Anti-freeze affects the nervous system, makes the blood very acidic, and causes the kidneys to fail. Once the clinical signs have started, treatment is fruitless. The pet must be observed consuming the anti-freeze and preventative treatment started at that time to have a successful outcome. Newer, safer propylene glycol anti-freezes are available These products will still make your pet sick, but do not cause fatal kidney failure as do ethylene glycol types.

Outdoor pets should be brought indoors when temperatures drop into the teens and below. Hypothermia, frost bite, and even death can occur under these conditions. Also, stressed, debilitated, very young, and very old animals should be brought indoors when the temperature approaches freezing.

If your pet has a containment system and will be outdoors during cold days take the following precautions:

* Be sure the pet has a warm place out of the elements to get warm.
* Clean snow and ice from your pet to prevent frost bite.
* Check on your pet often and observe its behavior.
* On the coldest days allow the pet to come indoors or a heated place in the garage
* Feed smaller portions more often (morning and late afternoon feedings) and be sure there is fresh water
* Be sure your containment system is not affected by the weather.

Remember, these recommendations apply to those animals that are used to being outdoors Cold can be an even greater stress to animals that have not become accustomed to their outdoor environment For indoor animals:

* Allow indoor pets outside long enough for exercise and to "go" only
* Always supervise indoor pets when they are out

Although our pets have strong natural instincts, care will help keep them happy and healthy

Gridiron greats: 2000 All-Area football

Northville takes lead in offense

BRANDON LANGSTON
Northville senior

And you thought Barry Sanders had retired from football, settled down and good married. Actually, he enrolled at Northville High School under the name "Brandon Langston."

Langston left his name all over the Northville record books, as this shifty but powerful back had a senior season for the ages Langston — 5'8", 155 pounds with 4.5 speed in the 40 — ran the ball 339 times for 2,266 yards and 28 touchdowns Those are single-season records His 311 yards are a single-game school record. For his career Langston ran for 3,352 yards and 44 touchdowns Those are Northville career records

Coach Darrel Schumacher said that of all the running backs he's either coached or watched, Langston stood in a class by himself.

"Right now, he's tops," Schumacher said. "He's like a fly Just when you think you've got him, he's gone. Brandon has that elusiveness like no one else "

BLAKE MYERS
Novi senior

A two-way threat both at fullback and linebacker, Novi head coach Tab Kellepourey said Myers had the potential to move on to play collegiate-level football

"Blake was just a very, very good football player for us," Kellepourey said

As a linebacker, Kellepourey said Myers had the ability to overlap and make critical tackles or help provide the finishing force to bring an opponent down From his fullback position, Myers had both speed and power in his running game to help solidify Novi's traditional option-style offensive attack.

"He was one of one or two mainstays we had at defense," Kellepourey said "He'll be missed "

CHRIS LEBEIS
Northville senior

If you are a good high school player, you will probably start for two seasons. Exceptional talents may begin their varsity careers as sophomores Then there is Chris Lebeis. He played in every game for four years, beginning in the 1997 season. That's remarkable at any level of high school football, but almost unheard of at a big school like Northville

"His motor never stops," Schumacher said "He makes an initial hit at the line, then he gets downfield to make another block. He's a great teacher for the younger players, too."

What teammate Brandon Langston was to the glamour position of running back, Lebeis was to the grunt work in the trenches, excelling as both an offensive and defensive tackle. At 6'3", 255 pounds he had the ability to get to the other side of the field to lay a block or bring down a ball-carrier Lebeis is a classic run blocker with terrific leg drive On defense he made 114 tackles, 52 of them unassisted.

Leibeis was a first-team all-league in the Western Lakes, one of the state's two toughest conferences In addition, he carries a 3.95 grade point average

JAMIE GASPARELLA
South Lyon junior

Before the season began, there were rumors of a Tommy Frazier-playalike taking over the quarterback position at South Lyon. High expectations, indeed, and Gasparella didn't disappoint. He was voted the team's most valuable player in his first varsity season

"Jamie was the key for us," South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske said "He made our offense go He suffered an ankle injury and was not as effective after that, but still had a great season Jamie was the fastest kid on the team He's multidimensional – he can run the option and throw the football. I'm happy to have him back next year "

Gasparella threw for 477 yards and three touchdowns while running for 484 yards and eight

Joe Rumbley, in black, pushed run-blockers out of his way almost at will, as Walled Lake Western learned earlier this season.

Brandon Langston shattered 14 school records during his 2000 season at Northville running back.

Chris Lebeis looks to turn it upfield in a game earlier this season. Lebeis was the only four-year starter on the Mustangs' football team.

Mustangs anchor area defense

JORDAN ROBERTSON
South Lyon junior

He is a two-year starter in the offensive backfield. This was Robertson's first year at linebacker. But he did so well that coaches from Michigan, Michigan State, Wisconsin and Indiana have all been in to check out tape of his defensive skills. Robertson has an ideal combination of size — 6'2", 227 — and speed — 4 6 40.

"He can get from sideline to sideline," South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske said

He made 71 tackles.

As a fullback, Robertson ran for 818 yards and 12 touchdowns

CAS WERDA
Novi senior

One of the smallest player on the all-area defense. But Werda's heart is 6'4", 260 and runs a 4.5 40. He's been a two-way starting lineman on consecutive playoff teams A three-year starter, Werda was a first-team all-conference pick

"He made some huge stops for us when we needed them on fourth down," Kellepourey said. "He forced fumbles for us when things were critical."

Even more impressive was the fact Werda did his job with a bum ankle for much of the latter half of the season.

"[Joe Rumbley is] a natural leader on the field."

Darrel Schumacher
Northville varsity football coach

CHRIS HARDIN
Lakeland senior

A two-way starting lineman, Hardin made 87 tackles from his defensive end position. That's the fourth-best single-season mark in school history. Hardin had 16 sacks

"And he did a great job on the offensive line," Eagles coach Brian Howe said.

Regardless of his team's struggles, Hardin came to play. And not just on Friday nights. He won the team's Iron Man award for his 100 percent practice attendance

Hardin was an All-KVC selection

CHRIS KAUFFMAN
Novi senior

Kauffman was the Wildcats' leading tackler from his linebacker position. He was named to the all-conference first-team for his efforts

"Chris is a quiet leader on our team," Kellepourey said of one of his team captains. "He genuinely enjoyed the game."

Kauffman, Kellepourey said, did his damage by using his ability at linebacker and then following his assignments to the letter Kauffman also directed traffic for the Wildcats' punt team

RYAN JONES
South Lyon senior

Jones was a three-year starter at safety and repeat member of the all-area team

"He controlled the secondary," Scheloske said He s a real heads-up player who came up from his safety position to make tackles "

A first-team All-KVC selection, Jones had four interceptions and also caught eight passes for 105 yards

JASON CROOK
South Lyon senior

Crook, as an outside linebacker/defensive back was named South Lyon's defensive most valuable player

"He was very involved in our stunt game and also provided excellent pass coverage," Scheloske said

Crook was a first-team All KVC pick

ADAM VEDRODE
South Lyon junior

Cagers claw back against Hartland

By KELLI COOLEY
Editor

Lessons learned

Northville took stock of their mistakes and corrected them for the Dec. 19 game against Hartland to take the Eagles, 46-39.

"We bounced back from the defeat against Novi. We learned a great deal from that game," said varsity basketball coach Scott Baldwin.

A teaching point, Baldwin said was rebounding. After the Wildcats rebounded better and gained more points from the inside than Northville, the coach said the Mustangs improved from 18 rebounds against Novi to 39 against Hartland.

"We collapsed hard, inside, than went out for the wide open look. We controlled the game and tried to slow it down," Baldwin said.

Three pointers proved to still be a problem for the Mustangs except for Drew Herpich, the game's lead scorer with 16 points and four three-pointers.

"We were 6-21 for three pointers but Hartland was 2-24 of three point range. That helped us a lot," Baldwin said

Although lessons were learned on rebounding, Northville still has to practice the free throws. The team was 44 percent from the free throw line

"That's terrible and will be a point of emphasis," Baldwin said.

Herpich also sank one three pointer as a buzzer beater at the end of the third quarter, a 60 foot bank shot off the glass. Dave Gregor and Aaron Redden were other key scorers for the Mustangs with 12 points. Gregor also had 14 rebounds and Redden had 8

Northville will travel to White Lake to take on the Lakeland Eagles on Jan. 3. Baldwin said the Eagles are "not bad" this year and they will try to capitalize on their quickness. He said the Mustangs will be looking to take advantage of their size. The match-up starts at 7:30 p.m.

GIFTS WE'D LIKE TO GET

Even though it's a few days late, here are a few gifts we'd like Santa to bring...if he's making a second round any time soon:

- A few college recruiters to take a look at the players we've named to the All-Area football team.
- A way of altering time so that 5:30 a.m. moves back a few hours. (Geared toward high school swim team practices)
- A redrawing of county lines so that Northville could join in the Oakland County wrestling meet and give those pesky Novi Wildcats a holiday headache.

Langston, Lebeis, Redden are All-Offense Mustangs

touchdowns. He averaged 6.7 yards per carry

AARON REDDEN
Northville senior

Redden was a crucial component of Northville's regular season success and post season run On the off chance that the Mustangs went away from their bread and butter, Brandon Langston, Redden was the man, the team's leading receiver. He might have been even better as a defensive back, leading Northville in interceptions, which is why he was named to the All-WLAA first team.

"He has a knack for using his body to shield the ball from defenders and to make the catch," Schumacher said "Every team we played had to watch out for him "

Redden averaged 18 yards per reception as a three-year starter. This season, he hauled in 16 passes for almost 475 yards and five touchdowns

JIM PRESLEY
Milford sophomore

Sure, there were expectations for Presley, coming off a good season on Milford's league champion freshman team, then excelling for the track team in the spring. But neither is varsity football. No matter. In an injury-shortened campaign Presley asserted himself as one of the best running backs in the KVC. In seven games Presley rushed for 821 yards and eight touchdowns. As if being a power runner with speed weren't enough, he also came out of the backfield to have 147 receiving yards An All-KVC selection, Presley went both ways for the Redskins, getting 37 tackles and four sacks.

MATT GORMAN

Next fall it should be the QVC, not the KVC Even with Brighton's Cullen Finnerty having graduated, the league will overflow with talent at the quarterback position. There's South Lyon's Jamie Gasparella, Milford's Jeff LaClair, Pinckney's Pat Doyle and, perhaps the best of them all, Novi's Matt Gorman The conventional wisdom heading into the season was that the Wildcats' offense might not be up to par, having lost quarterback Mitch Maier to graduation. Gorman turned out to be a Maier clone, and then some Elusive with the run at 6'0", 172 pounds, poised as plays would break down around him, Gorman was the perfect option quarterback, leading Novi into the second round of the playoffs. And, like Maier, he was a standout in the defensive backfield, as well. Gorman was an All-KVC selection, obviously. He ran for 717 yards and 12 touchdowns, including a 99-yard romp down the field against North Farmington.

"He's a real decision-maker quarterback," Kellepourey said. "Matt's got a lot of ability. His very first pass this year was a touchdown "

DAVE SPURGESS
South Lyon senior

When running the Wing-T offense, guard play is crucial. With Spurgess, a senior, and Joe Fallott, a junior, South Lyon had it in spades

"Dave was a key to our running game," Scheloske said.

Spurgess, an all-conference selection, was a vital piece of the machine that rushed for 2,003 yards in nine games while accumulating 2,480 yards in total offense.

TONY KERN
South Lyon senior

A two-year starter at tight end, Kern was nothing if not dependable. Which is exactly what you want from the position.

"Tony has great hands," Scheloske said. "If the ball is anywhere in his area he's gonna catch it. He's an excellent possession receiver because he has no fear going across the middle and can make the catch in a crowd."

Kern, an All-KVC pick, was South Lyon's leading receiver. He made 18 catches for 262 yards and one touchdown. He also played on the defensive line and punted for the Lions. He averaged 37.4 yards per kick

TIM STEFANSON
Novi senior

He was a leader of a young team whose success defied many people's prognostications. Stefanson started on both the offensive and defensive line for coach Tab Kellepourey's team. He was a first-team all-conference selection.

"Tim did a nice job for us this year," Kellepourey said. "He has an outstanding ability to read defenses and make quick adjustments when necessary. He's very smart out on the field for us."

ADAM DEBIASI
Novi senior

Like his partner up front, Stefanson, DeBiasi took it upon himself to become a leader of a young offense. The results were choice, as quarterback Matt Gorman and tailback Blake Myers had huge years for a team which finished second in the KVC. Also a starter on the defensive line, DeBiasi was a first-team all-conference pick.

Kellepourey said DeBiasi's made a habit of creating opportunities for the Wildcats by intercepting passes and causing fumbles.

"He got better every single game he went out there," Kellepourey said.

JOHN TUROWSKI
South Lyon senior

Peer pressure is bad. Peer respect is good. Turowski's got the latter. He was voted by his teammates as South Lyon's top lineman. And that carries some weight because a number of those voters definitely had a vested interest in Turowski doing his job well. Lest they look for a hole only to get KO'd. Turowski was a two-year starter at tackle for the Lions, and also contributed on the defensive line.

"John really improved and became a mainstay of our blocking game," Scheloske said.

Real performance. Great pricing.

Northville's tough guys anchor All-Area defense

Scheloske has high hopes for Vedrode, a defensive end whose talent emerged as a junior.

"He really dedicated himself and came on as the season progressed," Scheloske said. "He turned into our best defensive lineman."

JOE RUMBLEY
Northville senior

As explosive as Northville's offense was, there was certainly some defensive talent, as well. There absolutely must be, when a team makes the state quarterfinals. Chief among that talent was Rumbley, a WLAA all-division selection and the Mustangs' leading tackler from his linebacker position.

"He can run with the best of them," said Northville head coach Darrel Schumacher. "He's a natural leader out on the field."

Rumbley had a host of excellent performances, but the one that stood out in Schumacher's mind was Rumbley's playoff game against the highly-touted receiving corps of Kalamazoo Central High School.

"Joe was able to match up effectively against anyone who came his way," Schmacher said. "[Kalamazoo Central] had to respect the defensive element the brought that secondary."

ED WILSON
Milford senior

On a defense prone to untimely breakdowns, Wilson was the antithesis. Wilson was Milford's leading tackler, a linebacker with a nose for the ball and a knack for the big play. As much, if not more so, than any player on this list, Wilson — a first-team all-conference selection — was just a football player. Enuff said.

JON CAMPION
Northville senior

With Chris Leibeis on one side and Campion on the other, Northville had bookend defensive ends. Like Leibeis, he was also a two-way starter. Campion was an honorable mention All-WLAA selection.

Nicknamed "The Screen Saver" for both his interest in computers and his ability to defend against short, sideline pass routes, Campion had 87 tackles and four pass deflections this season.

"You couldn't finesse him out of position. He was always in your way," Schumacher said. "He played undersized a lot of the time, but he more than made up with it with his smarts."

Schumacher said Campion was shifty, being able to counter his motion and make a tackle when it needed to be made.

"He'll be one of those that's tough to replace," Schumacher said.

ALEX PLUNGIS
Lakeland senior

As a defensive end, Plungis made 43 tackles, four sacks and recovered three fumbles. One of those recoveries was for a touchdown. As a wide receiver Plungis caught 11 balls for 137 yards and four touchdowns. He was honorable mention All-KVC.

Holidays means holi-daze, but how to prevent stress?

Penny Weaver

Last month, we said holiday dread may result from the fact that many people experience something quite different from what is being hyped and what we have come to expect the holidays to be like We focused on family relationships and suggested using meditation as a way to explore why situations are troubling and suggested ways to take control and have positive outcomes

This month, we'll focus on the "holiday blues ' Unrealistic expectations of what the holidays should be like and the fact that we don't have enough time or money to do all the things we would like to can be a reason people feel down during the holidays.

One of the ways to overcome the holiday blues is a matter of being proactive and taking control of the situation. Here are some things to consider·

. • Time – People tend to rearrange their schedules and lives around the holidays One of the main stressors of the holidays is not enough time. Set your priorities You don't have to attend every function you're invited to Choose quality over quantity

• Get organized – Plan ahead to avoid having to run out at the last minute to buy gifts or take care of details Lists work wonders

• As for help – Let everyone bring a dish to pass at functions you are hosting Get the older kids to set up activities for the younger ones

• Simplify – In one family the children asked their mother to spend Christmas day with them rather than in the kitchen. They agreed on burgers for dinner and everyone was happy

• Be kind to yourself – Avoid overindulging in alcohol, holiday food and caffeine. Find time to fit in some exercise Think about what you need to do to create some joy for yourself

Finally, use meditation to overcome depression This is the time of year we begin to reflect on the past year and do a self-evaluation It's also a good time to begin planning for the new year and deciding what changes you want to make in your life Here are steps you can follow to help you become the person you desire to be

• Sit down for a long hard talk with yourself Determine who and what gets you down. Stay away from people who have a negative effect on you and spend more time with those who make you feel positive. Also, look at activities or things that have a similar effect and put more emphasis on things that are positive

• Meditate on what your strengths and weaknesses are. Determine what you do best and areas you want to improve.

• Determine changes you want to make in your life Ask where do you want to be in six months with your career, personal life and in relationships

• Decide what coaches, trainers, hypnotists or mentors you need to contact to help you make these changes

• Do a transformational meditation to begin creating your new reality Program the things you want to achieve by visualizing and using all of your senses to feel what it will be like when you achieve your goals

Remember that we create our own realities and whatever we believe about ourselves and our lives is what we experience. A good first step to achieving a goal is to begin acting like you are, where you want to be, and are the person you strive to be.

Demonstrating proper snowshoveling techniques, Dr. Ken Stopa keeps his knees bent and back straight as he tackles a pile of the white stuff in front of his Main Street clinic.

This winter, incorrect shoveling will cause unnecessary pain and injury to the low back, neck, and shoulders of many of the Northville residents. Most of these injuries can be prevented

Lifting a heavy shovel of snow without bending your knees can be a major factor in causing severe stress on the low back, neck and shoulders. If you bend your knees and use your leg muscles this will prevent injuries to your back, neck, and shoulders

There are many other causes of shoveling pain and injury such as twisting and bending from the waist and overall exertion

To avoid back and neck pain this winter, please follow these snow shoveling safety tips

• Do not shovel if you have had a serious spinal, lung, or cardiovascular condition

• Do warm up exercises such as knee bends (25 reps / three sets) — shoulder rotations doing big and small circles

• Dress for the weather Try to wear a long coat to protect the low back muscles from the cold air

• Always try to stand straight and bend from the knees. Do not bend from the waist and always handle small to moderate loads

• Push rather than lift the snow, toss close by rather than twisting and throwing the snow

• Try to use arms, legs, feet and thighs in a smooth coordinated motion to throw the snow

• Change grip and stance often to avoid over using the stronger side of your body

• Pace yourself, don't overexert and rest frequently.

• Don't shovel in extremely frigid weather.

• If your health is a risk factor, don't take a chance Ask a neighborhood youngster to help shovel

In addition to lower and upper back pain, poor shoveling techniques can trigger sciatica (a shooting pain which may include the leg) and brachial neuralgia (burning, tingling, numbness, and pain down the neck, shoulders and arms) The heart also handles a large load while shoveling. Exertion and frigid air causes a burden on the cardiovascular system. This can lead to a heart attack My grandfather died of a heart attack shoveling snow This winter, please shovel smart

"The doctor of the future will give no medicine but will educate his patients in the cause and prevention of disease through proper maintenance of the human frame"

Deck the Walls

Favorite objects add dimension to flat space

By Judy Buchenot
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

They are in every home, in every room and in every hallway. They enclose every space with a stifling blankness that can choke the creative force out of even the best furniture arrangement.

In new homes, they are eggshell white In older homes, they may have taken on tame shades of beige or fierce tones of hunter green The best way to deal with these stark architectural necessities - walls - is to decorate them A few signed lithographs would be fabulous, but the reality is that after filling a room with a plush carpet and some comfy furniture, there often is little room in the budget for wall decorations

Several designers have offered affordable suggestions for homeowners who want to take on the challenge of wall decorations Just about anything, from old violins to masks to framed prints, can be hung on the wall

After 17 years as an interior designer, Sue Spaeth firmly believes that the right wall arrangement "can make a flat boring wall turn into something creative and wonderful '

"Decorating the walls is an important expression of the room, your taste and your personality," she said

"There really are no rules," explained interior design instructor and consultant Rene Willet "But there are some guidelines "

GETTING IT ON THE WALL

Willet said that items grouped on a wall need a unifying element Willet suggests using the same frame color or matte color

"Lots of people like to use old frames they find at garage sales. If you spray paint them all the same color, it is very dynamic. Then you have interesting, varied frame shapes but a unifying color," she said.

Walls can be decorated to add dimension to a room or even create the image of expanded space. A gold-framed mirror can seem like a doorway to another room.

Unique decorating ideas bring life to your walls

Placement can also help unify an arrangement Lining up the top of one item to the bottom of another creates a sense of order

The eye finds that planned arrangement appears organized instead of jumbled," she said

Items should be hung at eye level, but Willet admits that can be confusing

A common mistake is to hang things too high Willet said "Look at the picture while you are sitting in a chair instead of standing to figure out the best placement Like in a sofa situation, most people hang pictures about 15 inches above the sofa back, but really 4 or 5 inches is sufficient "

To keep from putting holes all over your walls, Willet suggested arranging the objects on the floor first Then cut paper in the shape of each item and arrange the paper on the wall When it seems right, hang the items right on top of the paper and tear away the paper when finished

3-D ARRANGEMENTS

Willet has seen people make interesting arrangements using antique items or collections

"I've seen cookie molds, mirrors, antique cloths, antique handkerchiefs, sports paraphernalia medals, trinkets What used to be in scrapbooks are now on the wall," she said A theme color or frame should unify the items as much as possible

Glenda Propheter, a homeowner in Stonebridge Ill , used a theme of outdoor sports in her family room. A pair of antique snowshoes, skis and skates are among her arrangements

Shadow boxes are ideal for items that have depth, Willet said Shelves can be introduced into the arrangement to hold heavier items. Try to vary the items on the shelf so they are not the same height or texture. Willet suggested adding a colored, glass bottle, a plant or candle to add variety.

Spaeth, suggested using children's artwork.

"I have a client who hung some of the pictures her children had drawn. Once they were framed and matted, they looked wonderful. Framing and matting special greeting cards also is an inexpensive idea," she said.

Spaeth also suggested using grapevine to help unify items within an arrangement. Grapevine wreaths also can be a way to display several small items

"A common mistake is that people use too many things that are small in an arrangement You need to vary the sizes," she said.

Birdhouses are popping up on many shelves and on walls, Spaeth said Some people decorate unfinished birdhouses to fit a color scheme in a room, but there are many decorated birdhouses available in accessory stores Spaeth also has seen ceramic tiles and stone plaques used effectively in wall arrangements

"They bring an Old World chateau feeling into the room," Spaeth said

PICTURE LEDGES

Picture ledges are one of the latest wall decorating ideas. Willet said

"They are like a chair rail molding that is wide enough to put pictures on. It is a wonderful way to display pictures because you can change them around without having to put holes in the wall," she explained.

Willet said to be sure to include a plant or candle among the pictures to soften the hard edges "Use your own pictures," she added Many photo stores have economical do-it-yourself enlargement machines that allow customers to crop and enlarge photos using prints instead of negatives

This mystery vase is a potential money-maker

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. My father found the porcelain vase seen in this photo when he was digging for antique bottles. It is in perfect condition, stands 10 inches tall and has gold handles. On the bottom are the words "J. P. - L. - France. Although I searched through books at the library, I have not had any luck on finding information on the vase or its maker.

Could you please tell me something about my mystery vase?

A You have a porcelain jardiniere that was made by Jean Pouyat in Limoges, France They have made porcelain and earthenware from 1883 to the present Around the turn of the last century, they exported large amounts of porcelain to the United States Much of the porcelain made in Limoges that is seen in America today was made by Pouyat Your jardiniere was made around 1900 and would probably be worth about $400 to $500. More information can be found in "The Collector's Encyclopedia of Limoges Porcelain' by Mary Frank Gaston

Q. I have inherited a service-for-eight set of porcelain dishes that I know is at least 65 years old. The dishes are decorated with flowers against a cream-colored background and trimmed in gold. They were made in Germany and the pattern is "Carolina." The enclosed mark is on the bottom of each piece.

Please tell me who the manufacturer was and what the set is worth.

A C M. Hutschenreuther Porcelain Factory in Hohenberg, Bavaria, Germany, used the Black Knight mark. They have made fine porcelain from 1814 to the present. Your set was made around 1930 and would probably be worth about $600 to $1200.

Q. What can you tell me about a set of salt-and-pepper shakers that I have. They are in the shape of pigs, each with a red scarf around its neck. Their eyes are closed and they are smiling. I found no manufacturer's mark on them. They were purchased around 1942 and are in perfect condition.

A You have a set of Smiley Pig salt-and-pepper shakers. They were made by Shawnee Pottery in Zanesville, Ohio Shawnee made a complete line of Smiley Pig kitchen accessories that included cookie jars, pitchers, and salt-and-pepper shakers The cookie jars were introduced in 1942 and the rest followed. Shakers were first available as a pair of the male Smiley Pigs. Female Winnie shakers were later added, making Winnie and Smiley a winsome couple.

The value of your set would probably be about $125 to $150 BOOK REVIEW

"Collector's Compass," a new series of antiques and collectibles books has just been published by Martingale and Company. The series includes the following four books. 'Collector's Compass' '50s Decor." 'Collector's Compass' Jewelry," "Collector's Compass' 20th Century Glass" and 'Collector's Compass: Barbie Doll."

Each book is written by a panel of experts and focuses on information essential for buying, building and maintaining or selling a collection: step-by-step information on how to develop relationships with dealers, how to bid during live and Internet auctions, valuable tips on the best places to shop, what to take with you when shopping, and how to avoid costly purchasing mistakes.

The series has the stamp of approval by the International Society of Appraisers Each book is reasonably priced and available in an easy-to-use and carry format

Davinci's caters to more than hotel guests

By Annette Jaworski
Special Writer

You may not always think of a hotel when it comes to fine dining. But the Novi Hilton is out to change the public's mind in a big way with their Italian restaurant, DaVinci's Market Place. People have always been aware of the Hilton as a place to host banquets, wedding receptions and parties. They can add fine authentic Italian food to their list.

Director of Food and Beverage, Hector Gonzalez, says they've always taken care of the business traveler, now they'd love the local population to discover just how good they are.

"Once we've captured them, they'll be back. It's our job to get them in the door, then we let Chef Richei take over," Gonzalez assured.

To show they're serious about their dining, DaVinci's Market Place features

"Once we've captured them, they'll be back. It's ouir job to get them in the door and then we let Chef Richei take over"

Hector Gonzales
Davinci's Market Place

Executive Chef Beat Richei, whose experience spans 23 years in the metro Detroit area, and over four decades in culinary arts.

Richei is specific to the sauces he creates, an important element in Italian cuisine. "Consistency is crucial in the base sauce, you have to make sure it's a good recipe," he notes. "I make sure it's balanced, fresh spices add a little zip to it," he said.

Using olive oil and fresh herbs in food helps to compensate the flavor for those things that we shouldn't have.

Dawn Giorgio, Director of Sales for the Novi Hilton, notes that one of Chef Richei's strengths is his desire to please his clientele.

"He's very versatile in being open, he listens to what the guests want," said Giorgio.

This is reflected in an ever evolving and improving menu. He seeks a well-balanced menu and one in which the items move well. The holiday season is a good time to try some new and creative ideas, he adds.

"Our advantage is our experience in the kitchen and in the food and beverage with Hector and Chef Richei, the things they've tried, the things they see work and putting it all together," said Giorgio.

Look for fresh soups daily, fresh pasta made specific by a local distributor called Mama Mucci's. And there are special touches like fresh roasted garlic clove, vinegar and extra virgin olive oil to accent the meal on each table during the dinner hour.

Get your taste buds ready for Salmone al Forno, or broiled salmon with mussels over a bed of sautéed spinach. Also popular are combo dishes such as shrimp, scallops, lobster and mussels served with fra Diablo sauce over lemon pepper fettuccine. Or try the broiled filet mignon, encrusted in extra virgin olive and fresh herbs, and tender veal slices with pomodoro sauce and Parmesan cheese.

Hector Gonzalez notes they're equally dedicated to fine service at their banquet facilities, as they are the restaurant, which requires them to be multi-faceted. He says they can also count on a faithful following who've discovered the Sunday morning brunch. A typical brunch may include lamb chops, some type of fish, like a baked scrod, pasta with seafood, prime rib, honey baked ham, a variety of chicken dishes, smoked fish as well as fresh fruits and vegetables and salad bar, to name a few selections.

Coming soon in the New Year, they plan to rollout an expanded wine list. It's based on their approach of making the wine list easy to identify and order by the glass.

DaVinci's Market is located at 2111 Haggerty Road in Novi. Or call (248) 349-4000 The fine Italian menu is served from 5 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

A Lesson the Education IRA

Personal Finance

Paul J. Vandenheede

The Education IRA gives you a dozen good reasons why you should start preparing for the future of the young ones you care about.

• Education Costs

Education costs have typically risen two to three times the rate of inflation. Since 1980, tuition at both private and public colleges has risen over 100 percent, while median family income for those parents in the 45-54 age range has only increased by 22 percent in the same period.

• Decrease in Financial Aid

Student aid, mostly in the form of loans, has increased 68 percent since 1980. While the top students will no doubt be able to get into a desirable school regardless of their ability to pay, many of the "average" students will be expected to pay a higher percentage of their college bill if accepted into those same schools

• Unparalleled Salaries

A college education is one of the greatest investments you could make The U S. Department of Labor notes that in September 1999, the average annual income of a college graduate was more than 50 percent greater than that of somebody with a high school diploma.

• College Aid

More than $64 billion was available to college students in 1998-1999 from federal, state and institutional sources. After inflation, this is 85 percent higher than a decade ago, however, two-thirds of this increase in financial aid was in the form of loans rather than grants. Furthermore, most of the increased borrowing is unsubsidized – i.e., the government no longer pays the in-school interest.

• Accelerated Growth

Unlike a regular savings account where you pay taxes on your earnings every year, in an "Education Ira" your earnings grow free of taxes allowing your funds to benefit from compounding of interest and dividends over time.

• Tax-free Earnings

All distributions are excluded from gross income if funds are used to cover qualified higher education expenses of the beneficiary.

• Incentive

There is a strong incentive to use the money saved in an "Education IRA" for education purposes because a 10 percent penalty will be assessed, as well as ordinary income taxes, on the earnings portion of the distribution if used for non-education purposes.

• Other Family Members

If funds in an Education IRA" are not used by the original beneficiary before age 30, the account can be transferred tax-free to an Education IRA benefiting another family member.

• No Minimum, $500 Maximum

Your savings schedule is flexible with an "Education IRA." You can contribute up to $500 annually for each child, or nothing at all, the choice is yours.

• Investment Decisions

The account holder of the "Education IRA" is in control of the contribution for a child.

• Relative or Friend, Anyone Can Contribute

Full contributions are allowed for single filers whose AGI is under $95,000 and for joint filers whose AGI is under $150,000. If you are not eligible to make contributions, someone else can contribute on your behalf.

• Annual Contributions Add Up Fast

Annual contributions must be made by Dec. 31 of the contribution year.

What Now?

A college education is probably one of the largest financial challenges you will ever encounter. With consistent contributions made to an Education IRA during a child's first 18 years, your funds could grow to a significant amount that could make a sizable dent when you meet college expenses. Set up an "Education IRA" today, to help you secure tomorrow.

Completely Automatic Emergency Power

- When the power goes out, within seconds, the Backup Power System assumes production of electricity for your home–regardless of how long the power is out
- Using your gas utility line or LP tank, the generator starts up and delivers electricity to your home
- It then returns back to your electrical utility when the outage is over–all automatically. You never have to leave the comfort of your home.

How Many Rolls Will I Need?

The most uninspiring room can be greatly improved by the creative use of pattern. The Home Depot has a wide selection of in-stock and custom order wall coverings that make it easy to coordinate with your existing decor. To calculate how many rolls you need per room, divide the total square footage of the walls (including windows and doors) by the square footage of one roll. Buy at least 10 percent more paper to accommodate errors and adjustments.

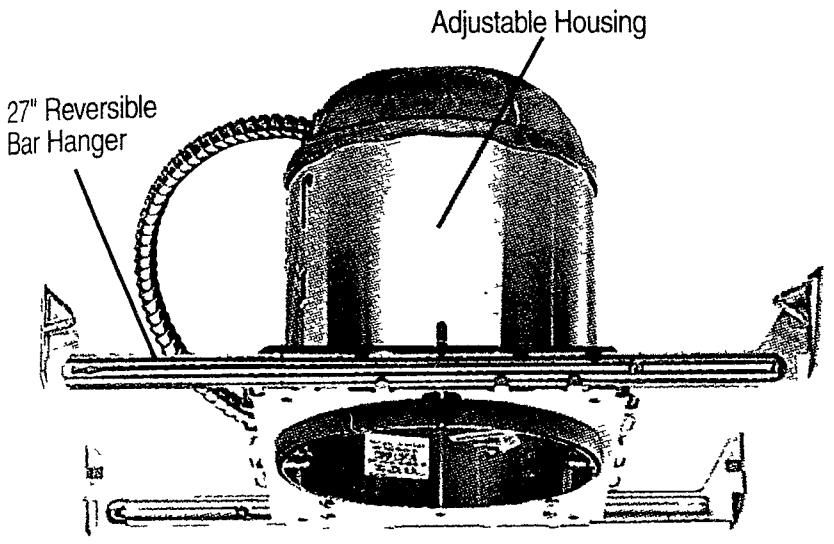
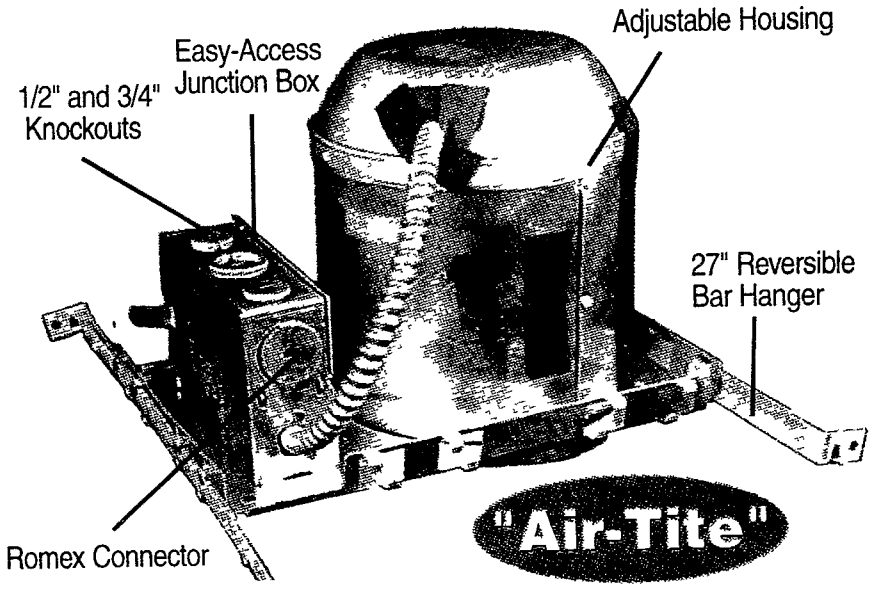
New Construction Insulated Recessed Cans





COMMERCIAL ELECTRIC

Why "Air-Tite"?

- Did you know that 18% of all heat loss, in a home is due to air leakage across details in the ceiling such as recessed lighting fixtures.

"Air-Tite" recessed fixture:
Could reduce your energy bill $5 per can per year

- Eliminates the air transport path and can be completely buried in insulation
- Has no need for messy caulking

Fluorescent Lighting

Why T-8

- A T-8 system gives off the same amount of light as a T-12 but uses 40% less energy. That is 40% more money in your pocket
- T-8 systems work in low temperature applications, as low as 0° F
- Just one (1) T-8 electronic ballast will run up to four bulbs. The most a T-12 ballast will run is two (2) bulbs
