High tech hits hard times again

Chapter 11 bankruptcy filed, 120 lose jobs at Nanovation

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

Northville Township's Nanovation Technologies Inc. has reached a new chapter in its history.

The telecommunications products manufacturer, which is located at Five Mile and Beck Roads, filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection on July 26, leaving 120 of its 169 employees without a job.

Nanovation Technologies moved to Northville from Miami late last summer. The company is involved with photonics and utilizes photons rather than electrons to power the equipment it produces. Nanovation develops and manufacturers extremely small, all-optical switches, controls and measuring devices that is supposed to speed up broadband networks being developed for Internet traffic.

The company had purchased the building previously occupied by OIS Optical Imaging Systems, which had itself filed for Chapter 11 protection a year earlier.

The filing by Nanovation came on the heels of an apparent financial shot in the arm less than a month ago, when Nanovation believed it had secured $10 million from Motorola. Motorola was the lead investment in a $75 million private offering of new preferred stock.

In order for the deal of new preferred stock to go through, it needed stockholder approval. The deal hit a snag when the company's largest shareholder, Stamford International Inc., prevented it from successfully going through. Stamford, which is based in Toronto, owns 8.8 million shares, or 40 percent of Nanovation, allowing it to legally block the deal.

In the wake of the deal blocking, the Motorola investment deal then fell apart, as well. The shakeup left Nanovation with few options except to lay off two-thirds of its workforce last month. The job cuts were due to the lack of money.

Stamford then offered to infuse money into Nanovation. However, according to Crain's Detroit Business and the Detroit News, a major contingency involved with the offer was that Stamford wanted control of the board. Instead of accepting Stamford's exchange proposal, Nanovation filed for bankruptcy. Despite the setbacks, the company will now be able to operate at its reduced size for the next three months because it has secured funding from other previous investors.

It has been reported that Nanovation has $48 million in assets and $28 million in liabilities.

Nanovation indicated the company was going to invest $41 mil-

House move injures youth

By LON HUHMAN

A risky house move left one 12-year-old boy injured and many wondering — why was the house being moved up the steep hill of Walnut Street?.

"It just didn't seem possible to get that house up the hill," Northville resident and eyewitness Marg Garoselli said. "I've lived here 20 years and I've never seen anything more ridiculous."

On Tuesday just before 3 p.m. Ed Kusky House Moving and Raising company of Clio was moving Susan Petty's house and garage up the hill of Walnut west of Center Street when the accident occurred. Ameritech worker Cecil White witnessed the accident and said the house appeared to come unhooked from the moving truck before quickly mov-

Bond proposal jumps $2 million after costs tallied

$28.3 million for Northville Schools — BOND FOR BUILDING

The final estimates are in and the price tag for the Northville schools bond election has increased by approximately $2 million dollars.

Northville school officials are asking voters to approve a bond totaling $28.3 which is slated to be put towards funding several building improvements and the construction of a new elementary school.

The bond issue proposal was initially targeted at $26.4 million, but as voting day draws closer school officials said the new figure is the most accurate building sum.

Northville board of education member Joan Wadsworth, said that the dollar amount for the bond proposal increased as a result of the district specifying what was needed for each of the planned projects.

According to school officials, the cost for each of the bond projects are as follows:

- Construct a new elementary school: $14,034,990
- Construct a storage addition at Amerman Elementary, $303,838
- Construct four classrooms, gymnasium and remodel the south centrum at Moraine Elementary, $3,553,741
- Construct three classrooms at Winchester Elementary, $930,661
- Build addition to Northville High School, $10,005,738
- Install wide area network cabling, $1,350,000.

Wadsworth said initial construction plans and projected costs for the new elementary school were made using Thornton Creek Elementary school as a model.

"We wanted to use it as a way to estimate the cost," she said. "That was our starting point and that's where the initial cost came from."

Thornton Creek was the most recent school built in the district.

Wadsworth said since the proposed new elementary school will be larger than Thornton Creek,

Eric Swietlik beat the odds (and most of the experts) by making picks in the stock market that soared in value by 105 percent.

Need a hot stock? Just ask this guy

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

A 22-year-old Northville resident never imagined that he would be selected to compete in a stock pick contest run by the Wall Street Journal. Nor did he ever imagine the outcome of his selection.

Eric Swietlik, a mechanical engineering senior at Kettering University, was selected to participate in the newspaper's contest in which four investment professionals vie against four Journal readers and four stocks chosen at random by throwing a dart. Each participant has the opportunity to pick one stock they believe will perform the best during a six-month period.

Swietlik, who chose stock from Best Buy, said his selection went up by 104.9 percent during the contest. His stock selection performed so well that it surpassed all but one of the experts' choices.

"It was just a chance thing," said Swietlik.

He said the contest ran from

Police Reports

NORTHVILLE CITY POLICE

PLAYGROUND PROBLEM: A children's playground slide was damaged at Fish Hatchery Park sometime on July 26 or 27. The Northville city police report said $500 in damage was done and derogatory statements were scratched into the slide.

OUIL: On July 26, a Northville city police officer was traveling westbound on Main Street and observed a red pickup truck turn onto Main from High Street. The officer reported observing the truck rapidly accelerate before the driver was stopped for speeding.

The driver's license said the man was 23-years-old and from Northville. The report said the driver had red eyes, his speech was slurred and the inside of the vehicle smelled of intoxicants. The driver said he had one beer, but the preliminary breathalyzer registered a 0.137 BAC.

The man was arrested for OUIL/UBAL and is due in the 35 District Court on Aug. 22.

CARS, KNIVES AND AIR: A Hillside Middle School summer school student was issued a violation for possessing a knife on school grounds after letting the air out of several bikes and scratching a parked car.

According to the city police report, on July 26 a city officer responded to the school and was met by Principal James Cracraft. The officer was informed that a female student had told Cracraft that the 15-year-old student was letting air out of bike tires and had asked her if she and some others wanted to slash some car tires as well as scratch them. The 15-year-old student then displayed a knife in front of the students.

Cracraft and the officer met with the suspected student and his mother. He eventually confessed to the accusations and the knife was confiscated by police. The case has been forwarded to the Juvenile division at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP POLICE REPORTS

ASSAULT: A July 25 party in Northville Township turned ugly after a drunken Novi man allegedly assaulted another female party-goer.

According to the police report, a 20-year-old Novi male arrived at the party and got in an argument with a 18-year-old Novi female. The man was yelling and the female attempted to stop him, but he pushed her to the ground. He then began swinging his arms and struck her several times.

The reporting officer observed bruises on the woman's arm. The female did not want to prosecute, but wanted to document the incident with the police.

MISSING MOTORCYCLE: A Northville man reported to Northville Township police that his 1996 Honda CBR motorcycle had been stolen while it was parked in a carport at his home on Northville Place Drive. The theft occurred on July 26 and it was reported that the recently-purchased bike had its steering column locked at the time. The CBR is black, red and white.

BREAK-IN: On July 27, a Northville man living at Innsbrook apartments reported to police that he had left to do some errands and when he arrived back at home he found his apartment had been broken into. The door's lock had been broken and the door was kicked in. Nothing was taken from he apartment and the case has been closed.

OUIL: A 27-year-old Garden City man was arrested for OUIL after blowing a 0.204 on a breathalyzer test. The man was stopped by township police on July 29 for erratic driving on northbound Haggerty Road. The driver was speaking slow and mumbled his answers to the arresting officer when being questioned.

He was later released on bond and is due in 35th District Court on Aug. 7.

Vandalism strikes again at Northville elementary

■ This time, it's Silver Springs hit by area youth

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

For the second time in less than a month, Northville schools are being forced to address the aftermath of a weekend bout of vandalism—this time at Thornton Creek Elementary school.

The incident resulted in broken windows and assorted damage to buildings and the grounds.

David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for Northville schools, said the vandals broke a window in the portable classroom that the district recently relocated. He also said the letters that spell out the school name were removed from the small wall located near Nine Mile Road.

"The portable classroom that we just moved there had one window broken out," he said.

Bolitho said the district would have to order new letters for the sign and added that it would be costly to do that repair.

"We have some of the letters, but we don't have all of them," he said. "We have to get all new letters."

In addition, the vandals knocked the school marquee off of the wall.

"It looks to me like it's totally destroyed," said Bolitho. "The PTA bought the marquee sign...in 1998 and spent about $3,000. That's going to have to be replaced."

He also said the front light that illuminates the sign was smashed. The lens, bulb and the reflector were also broken.

Bolitho also said that a window located within a door was broken out and the exterior side of the portable classroom wall was damaged. He also said that damage was done to the overhang on the building itself.

"We didn't see this kind of damage prior to the incident," he said.

According to Novi police, officers were dispatched to Thornton Creek Elementary School after receiving a call stating that four juveniles were breaking lights at the school. When police arrived, they heard the sound of windows breaking and observed four males around the portables.

Police yelled "stop" and two of the suspects ran. The other two stood still. One of the two suspects that ran was caught, police said.

Police officials noticed that two windows had been broken out completely using a long piece of wood. Police arrested a 17-year-old Beverly Hills male, a 15-year-old Novi male and a 16-year-old Novi male. The other male is under the age of 17.

An officer noticed a smell of intoxicants coming from one of the males. A PBT test measured a .12.

Police noticed the sign had been knocked off the brick pedestal and the suspects denied damaging the sign or to the windows. The case was forwarded to the detective bureau.

On July 30, the mother of the suspect who ran called the police and said her son had admitted doing some damage at the school.

All four of the males were staying at a friend's home in Novi. When police asked about the suspect that had ran, the others said he was a friend of the person they were spending the night with.

Bolitho said school officials had called the Novi police Friday and requested additional patrolling of the school because there had been incidents of someone dismantling bicycle racks.

"They had been doing it to the point where one of the bike racks was almost [completely] dismantled," he said.

Bolitho also expressed his appreciation in how police officials handled the matter.

"We appreciate their following through and their professionalism," he said. "They did a wonderful job."

Bolitho said that if the teenagers involved in the vandalism at Thornton Creek are students in the Northville school district, they will face disciplinary action ranging from suspension up to expulsion.

He gave an informal estimate that it will cost the district approximately $4,000 for repair and replacement and that figure does not include the cost for paying overtime to employees.

Signed, sealed, delivered: Liedel is new postmaster

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

It's official and Emily Liedel couldn't be happier.

Liedel was officially installed as Postmaster of the Northville Post Office on the sunny afternoon of July 27 at Mill Race Village. The gathered crowd included Northville mayor Chris Johnson, Northville city manager Gary Word, Northville post office associate supervisor Tim Pendelton, and Michael Taurence, manager of post office operations for the Detroit District. Johnson said he was happy that Liedel was appointed the new postmaster and believes Liedel has the necessary experience and knowledge to serve Northville.

Taurence began the ceremony by giving Liedel his support.

"I've known Emily my entire management career and there is no one more qualified for this position," Taurence said. "She has the leadership skills, integrity and experience to handle the challenges and issues of work space now facing the Northville office. I wish her the best and congratulate her on a well deserved appointment."

Liedel started her post office career in 1968 as a PTF Distribution Clerk at the Monroe Post Office. In 1972, she was promoted to Branch Manager at Monroe and in 1988 she became superintendent of postal operations at Temperance. Her first Postmaster position was at Lambertville in 1991.

Taurence said Liedel also served as Officer in Charge at Lincoln Park and Northville. He said she has served two terms as president and one term as National Vice President of the National Association of Postmasters. She has also served as the NAPUS representative to the Detroit District Leadership Council and Management Organization Meetings for four years.

"Emily is a team member and has helped the Detroit District become the number one postal district in the nation," said John Talik, lead executive/district manager for customer service and sales, said. "She has the ability to go beyond what is expected."

Liedel dedicated her appointment to her parents. She said her mother brought her the application for her first postal job. She plans on improving the Northville operation and maintaining the great service already provided.

"It has been a fruitful 33 years and I would like to thank everyone who came today. I would especially like to thank the postal employees and I applaud their service," Liedel said at the ceremony. "They are the backbone of the operation."

She said her primary goal is to provide the residents of Northville with the best possible service customer. She said she was "here to serve" and her door would "always be open."

Benefit play takes stage Aug. 3

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

The 100th Sheep Livingston Seventh-day Adventist drama group will be presenting a unique play "All I Really Needed to Know I Learned in Kindergarten" at a local theater tomorrow night.

Denise Down, associate director, said six youths will be acting in the performance.

"It's a play of morals and it plays on a lot of your emotions," said Down. "It brings us back to what we were taught in kindergarten. The play is done in a number of acts and each one has a lesson to be learned or it brings us back again to the way life should be."

Down said the performers have been practicing for this performance for approximately three months.

"I think it's about the important priorities of life," she said. "It puts life into perspective looking at it through the eyes of a child."

All proceeds from this performance will be earmarked for charity. Tickets for the play are $15 dollars and all the money collected from ticket sales will be given towards feeding children in the country of Albania. Down said a $15 ticket purchase will feed one child for a month in Albania.

She also said that the participants selected the cause.

"The kids were so willing to do this for someone less fortunate than themselves," said Down. "They are a real spiritual group of kids. Their definitely doing it to help someone else.

Pastor Chris Small, of Livingston Seventh-Day Adventist in Howell, will also participate in the play.

Other participants include Sarah Lehn, Jill Down, Todd Mrazik, Jim Whitton, Danielle Dancey and Bob McAlpine.

"It's so refreshing to see a group of young people donate their time and talent to help someone less fortunate than themselves," said Down.

Tickets for the play can be purchased at the door for $15.

For more information or to reserve tickets call (517) 548-1408. The Aug. 3 play is slated to begin at 7 p.m. at Genitti's Little Theater, located at 108 E. Main Street.

Eric Swietlik did a lot of perusing in the Wall Street Journal and other financial publications to come up with his winning-comibination of stock picks.

Stock market whiz kid picks some big winners

January through June of 2001. During that time each of 12 different selected stocks was monitored to see how it would fluctuate.

Swietlik said a few factors prompted him to select the Best Buy stock.

"The main reason was it was at its lowest share price," he said, adding that he frequently visits that store and believed the holiday season would have a positive impact on the stock.

He was right.

"It's kind of a hobby," said Swietlik. "It's more of a hobby to watch what the market is doing."

Although he selected a stock that rose by over 100 percent, he did not invest in it when it was at a low point.

"I wish I had," said Swietlik. "It was just a contest. It was just for fun."

He added that he kept one point in mind as he made his stock decision.

"You should buy what you know. That's what I was taught. That's part of the reason why I bought it, or should have bought it," he said.

Swietlik said he decided to try to enter the contest after one of his college professors, Neil McCarthy, suggested it. Swietlik and another student, Stephen Miller of Buffalo, N.Y. submitted their entries and were among the four readers picked as contest participants.

"It was just lucky that they picked us," said Swietlik, who was enrolled in the financial management college course. "We were shocked. [The] professor suggested we try it and see if we could get in the paper and we did."

"This was just something that was fun for me."

Uniform voting here?

■ 2000 debacle prompts state to re-examine polling policies

By LON HUHMAN
STAFF WRITER

In the wake of the 2000 presidential election voting debacle, there has been a national call for voting system reform in many states, including Michigan.

However, because Northville precincts currently have optic scan voting technology in place, there may not be an immediate effect if the plan is implemented.

In May, Secretary of State Candice Miller went before the state's House Redistricting and Elections Committee to present an outline of recommended changes for the state's election system. According to Miller's report, Michigan has primarily been decentralized in regard to its elections.

Miller said decentralization is when elections are administered at the local level by such officials as county clerks or city and township clerks.

"I think the suggestions given by Secretary of State Candice Miller are excellent," Northville Township clerk Sue Hillebrand said. "The primary recommendation she is making is that the state should implement a state-wide, uniform optical scan voting system. It would probably take five years for voters to see the full benefit of the plan."

The election system for the city of Northville and Northville Township will most likely stay in intact because one of Miller's recommendations included the adoption of a state-wide, uniform optical scan voting system that will utilize "precinct-based" technology. Miller proposes precinct-based technology because it allows voters to correct their ballot in that the technology will have a tabulator at the polling place that can be programmed to return ballots that have an overvote or spoiled ballot.

According to Northville city clerk Diane Massa, the city has been utilizing the optical scan tabulator called the Optic Eagle 3PE for nearly seven years. Hillebrand said the township has employed the optic scan technology since 1995.

"We took a huge leap in efficiency in 1995 after purchasing optic scan voting technology," Hillebrand said. "Prior to that we used punch cards and for the technology at the time that was not satisfactory and the township seen the need to improve. It has changed for the better."

Overall, Michigan voting precincts use five different methods to tabulate vote. They include optical scans, punch cards, mechanical level, paper ballots and direct recording electronic or a touch screen system. Miller's report said over 3,000 precincts or 55.9 percent of Michigan's 5,376 precincts use some form of optical scans and over 1,400 use punch cards.

Miller began reviewing the state's system in 1995 and issued a report in 1997 stating the benefits of a uniform system. The advantages included reducing election costs and ballot printing errors and eliminating the need for voters who have moved to become familiar with a new system.

"Our current optic scan technology does allow for voters to have the final decision in that it does catch voter mistakes, such as over voting," Hillebrand said. "Optic scan immediately sees the mistakes and returns it to the voter so it can be corrected."

The push for a new system was again initiated by Miller this past year. She concluded that a uniform optical scan precinct-based system would be useful because election results could be compiled and released more quickly and efficiently and necessary recounts could be identified more quickly as well. Miller's recent report also said the uniform system would allow voters to become better acquainted with the voting procedure.

"Michigan has an excellent election system already in place, but implementing these recommendations would allow that system to become even more efficient and reliable," Hillebrand said. "A state-wide system would ultimately benefit both the voter and election worker."

The potential implementation of the uniform optical scan system may cost nearly $40 million. The issues of cost, opposition and time stand in the way of the potential implementation. Hillebrand said since the township has already purchased the optic scan technology for $170,000 there would be no immediate effect on the township until it is eligible in 2005 to receive new and state-provided voting equipment.

LET'S TALK Jewelry WITH GARY S. WEINSTEIN GEMOLOGIST
LEND AN EAR
Lest you think there is anything new about men wearing earrings, take a look back in history. With Julius Caesar being a notable example, earrings were more popular with men in ancient Rome than they were with women. And, not only did Shakespeare's character Othello sport an earring in one ear, but the author himself wore one earring. When Charles I went to his execution wearing a drop pearl in his right ear, men's taste for earrings subsided for awhile. That incident, however, has done nothing to dissuade modern men from wearing earrings. Women should bear this in mind when looking for a personal gift for their favorite man. There is more to men's jewelry than watches, cufflinks and rings.
Here at WEINSTEIN JEWELERS OF NOVI, 41990 Grand River Ave. (248-347-0303) we have a magnificent array of fine jewelry, including earrings of all types. The wonderful reputation we have earned over the years is extremely important to us. Since we are an independent merchant, we try to know our clientele personally, and cater to their individual tastes. Hours: Mon., Tues., Wed., & Thurs. 10a.m.-6p.m., Fri 10a.m.-8p.m., Sat. 10a.m.-5p.m. We are now licensed by the city of Novi to offer loans on jewelry. We're "The name you know, the name you trust." Zarzecki wants to help taxpayers

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

Learning the basics is a good way to start a new job, and that's exactly the approach Northville's new treasurer wants to do things.

Dorothy Zarzecki said her top priority as the city's new caretaker of money is to serve the community to the best of her abilities.

"I'm very excited. I want to learn the basics, and then dig in and get some of the city's projects completed," Zarzecki said. "I believe my municipal experience will help me better serve the community of Northville."

Northville City Treasurer Dorothy Zarzecki works out of her City Hall office last Friday afternoon.

Originally from Detroit, Zarzecki knows the area rather well having previously lived in Livonia for 13 years. After attending St. Andrews High School, she earned finance degrees from Central Michigan University and Schoolcraft College. She is also a certified municipal finance administrator and level two assessor, which she believed will be helpful at city hall in assisting the assessor and other finance staff.

Prior to coming to Northville, Zarzecki served as city clerk and treasurer for the city of Keego Harbor. At the end of her stay at Keego Harbor she was serving as the interim city manager.

"I have 14 years of municipal experience, primarily as a deputy treasurer," Zarzecki said. "The main reason I came here was that I became a grandma on April 28 and I examined my life to determine what I wanted to do until I retire. Northville presented the best opportunity for me. The position of treasurer appealed to me because that's where my expertise lies and there is a certain comfort level that I enjoy with it."

She said her primary responsibility as treasurer are the city's taxes. She said her tax duties include developing the tax rates, mailing tax bills and making sure the records are correct. Another task for her is aiding in the distribution of the tax funds to the appropriate entities. The city is also planning on developing a computerized database to aid in keeping better track of the tax collection process.

"I'm here to assist the taxpayer in any way that I can," Zarzecki said. "I have a hands-on approach, so I welcome residents to come to me with any questions they may have."

She said she was looking forward serving Northville and was excited because she believed the Northville to be the most organized municipality she has worked at. Her plan is to develop a long-term relationship with her fellow administrators as well as with Northville residents.

"When I was being interviewed I was conducting my own interview of sorts, as well. I wanted to get a good feel for Northville and I liked what I heard," she said. "I would like to retire from here."

Assistant city manager and finance director Nicolette Bateson said Zarzecki was selected from a pool of 55 candidates and her new duties will be much more broader than they have been for past treasurers.

"She was selected primarily because she has the essential experience needed. Her previous experience includes treasurer and other general management duties" Bateson said. "She will be a positive addition to the city staff."

History of Croquet

Word origin of croquet from the old North French, croche (shepherd's crook) and Gaelic, cluiche, "crooky" (play).

One of the great things about croquet is its adaptability. You can play on any size court, with any size wickets, using golf clubs, flamingos, or real mallets, and still have a blast. You can allow foot shots or not, staple nylon string for boundaries or use a well-placed juniper bush, and as long as it's the same for both sides, you have a fair game.

But will it be the best game? Doubtful.

Croquet has evolved incrementally since the Routledge Handbook of Croquet first codified the rules in 1861. When the United States Croquet Association was formed in 1976, codifying the rules of the American six-wicket game was a top priority. Over the years, input from countless players – trial and error, in other words – has produced modifications that have improved the game.

As for the nine-wicket game, the changes go on. The USCA around the country that play nine-wicket croquet, and the best of their rules have been assimilated into a revised 1995 rule book.

They are presented here for the first time in a revised 1995 rule book. It is the ardent hope of the USCA that such revisions will make the nine-wicket rules easier to understand, more fun to play, and ultimately more popular.

Witnesses question safety of house-moving process ing back down the hill in the direction of Center before being stopped by a parked Amertech work truck.

White said the house struck a tree off to the side of the street and spun around. Amy Denys and Jennifer Smith were painting the interior of Denys' home on Walnut at the time and said if it hadn't been for the tree deflecting the moving house, it may have crashed into her home. The house just missed hitting Smith's Volkswagen Jetta, which was parked across the street from where they were painting.

Twelve-year-old Josh Kusky and his cousin 11-year-old Greg Kusky had been behind the house, which was on a wheeled platform, placing wooden blocks behind the platform's tires to prevent it from moving any further down the hill as it was being moved up the hill. Witness Ron Phillips said it appeared as if the moving truck did not have enough power to get the house up the steep hill and that another moving worker used his pickup truck to aid in the climb up the street.

ACI employee Brian Krauziewicz witnessed the moments prior to the accident and said he thought the whole thing was dangerous from the start. He said he was surprised at the lack of fire and police department supervision during the move. He thought the cable attached to the house had snapped from the truck, causing it to move backward and sending the two children to scramble for cover.

"Thank God there was only one person slightly injured," Krauziewicz said.

Greg Kusky said he and Josh had been placing the blocks under the tires just as the cable gave way.

"Josh never got his under in time and it kept on rolling," Greg said. "I rolled out in time, but Josh got caught under it and a piece of wood it him. It was pretty scary."

Josh had been transported to Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills. According to Botsford spokesperson Nancy Dumas, he received superficial abrasions from the accident and was treated for several hours on Tuesday before being released to his family.

The house was being moved from Grace Avenue toward Seven Mile and finally to Salem Township, but it had to take a somewhat altered route.

"We had no notification of this move. I don't think there was much consideration of the street's measurements," Garoselli said. "I could not believe there were children working behind it as it was being moved up the hill. It seemed almost impossible that it was going to make it up the steep hill."

According to Northville city fire chief James Allen, the particular route was chosen because of the power lines and traffic lights in downtown posed a number of risks. Northville city's director of public works James Gallogly said the route that led up Walnut had been approved by the city's building inspector and code enforcement officer Rick Starling and police chief James Petres because of work currently being done on Randolph Street and the traffic lights in the downtown can not be easily maneuvered. Gallogly said the house would possibly be demolished at the scene if the movers were unable to move it up the street.

I-275, M-14 roadwork shifts gears

By LON HUHMAN
STAFF WRITER

"We firmly believe the project will be completed by our Nov. 1 deadline and the motoring public will benefit from all the improvements."

Motorists in western Wayne County probably can't wait until the phases of road construction are phased out.

The Michigan Department of Transportation is set to begin its eastbound work on the Interstate 96, M-14 and I-275 corridor.

"This is one of the most complex projects in metro Detroit this year," Mark Chaput, manager of MDOT's Transportation Service Center in Taylor, said. "We are improving the road surface on more than 10 miles of freeway in each direction, not to mention reconstructing busy interchanges and rehabilitating 50 bridges. And all this is being accomplished while maintaining traffic through the area."

According to Rob Morosi, spokesperson for MDOT's office of communications, MDOT is going forward with its next phase of the rehabilitation projects, expected to begin next week while MDOT workers began prep work for construction this week.

"The reconstruction of the I-96/M-14 westbound lane between Haggerty Road in Plymouth Township and Newburgh Road in Livonia has been completed. The next phase, which started on Monday, will involve the reconstruction of the eastbound lane from these two roads," Morosi said. "This phase also includes the reconstruction of the I-96/M-14/I-275 interchange, the resurfacing of I-96 between Newburgh and US-24 (Telegraph Road) in Redford Township. It also features the rehabilitation of 51 bridges in the corridor."

The westbound phase had two-way traffic sharing the eastbound lanes and the ramp from westbound I-96/M-14 to northbound I-275 closed, Morosi said. He said MDOT crews used this week to shift traffic to the newly constructed westbound lanes as well as opening the ramps to northbound I-275 and southbound I-275 to eastbound I-96.

Morosi said by Friday, motorists can expect to find the following changes:

- Two-way traffic will be sharing westbound I-96/M-14 between Haggerty and Newburgh. Two lanes will be maintained in each direction, separated by a temporary concrete barrier.
- The ramps from westbound I-96 to northbound I-275, and the southbound I-275 ramp to eastbound I-96 will be open.
- The ramp from northbound I-275 to eastbound I-96 will close. Motorists will continue north on I-275 and exit at westbound Seven Mile Road, cross over the freeway and use southbound I-275 to eastbound I-96.

Morosi said some ramp movements will remain detoured and they include westbound I-96 to southbound I-275 and northbound I-275 to westbound M-14. These will continue to be closed through Sept.

Bridge work is being done to 36 bridges over I-96, two I-275 over Hines Drive and 12 at the I-96/M-14/I-275 interchange.

"We're halfway through this project," Chaput said. "We firmly believe the project will be completed by our Nov. 1 deadline, and the motoring public will benefit from all the improvements."

The $51 million road project is funded through Gov. John Engler's Build Michigan II plan and TEA-21.

Leaving a cell phone in your car? Kiss it goodbye, cops say

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

Seize the day — or the cellular phone that's sitting on the front seat of an unlocked car.

According to Northville Township police officer Joseph Hetu, crime often occurs when a person has the opportunity to commit a crime. Larceny from a vehicle has become a popular crime in the township, and Hetu said in just one weekend last April, approximately 20 residents became victims of that type of crime.

"According to the reports, these residents had items stolen from their vehicles. The stolen items included purses, cellular phones and compact discs," Hetu said. "Some of the victims even left their car keys inside their vehicles and none of the vehicles appeared to have been damaged. This would lead police to believe the owners had not locked their vehicles."

Hetu said leaving a vehicle unlocked presents an obvious opportunity for a person to commit a crime.

According to the police reports, the April incidents occurred in the Highland Lakes, Kings Mill, Lakes of Northville, Northville Commons and Northville Hills Golf Course subdivisions. Hetu said there are several simple but critical steps a person can take to prevent such crimes.

"Crime prevention involves taking steps to reduce or eliminate a person's chances for becoming a crime victim. The person(s) responsible for these crimes probably walked up to each vehicle and tried to open the door," Hetu said. "If the door was locked, they likely continued on until an unlocked door was found. When the thieves found an unlocked door, they entered and quickly stole whatever they could get their hands on."

Hetu said such crimes can be attributed to doors being unlocked because there was no sign of forced entry, as well as attempted forced entry. Hetu said such ease of access was all the more reason to live by the words "always lock your vehicle when you exit it." He said the law requires motorists to turn the engine off when exiting their vehicles, so taking the key out is essential.

Another step a resident can take to prevent vehicle larceny is by keeping valuable items out of plain sight. Hetu said leaving items out in the open provides a great opportunity for criminals.

The inconvenience of having personal items stolen can have a significant effect.

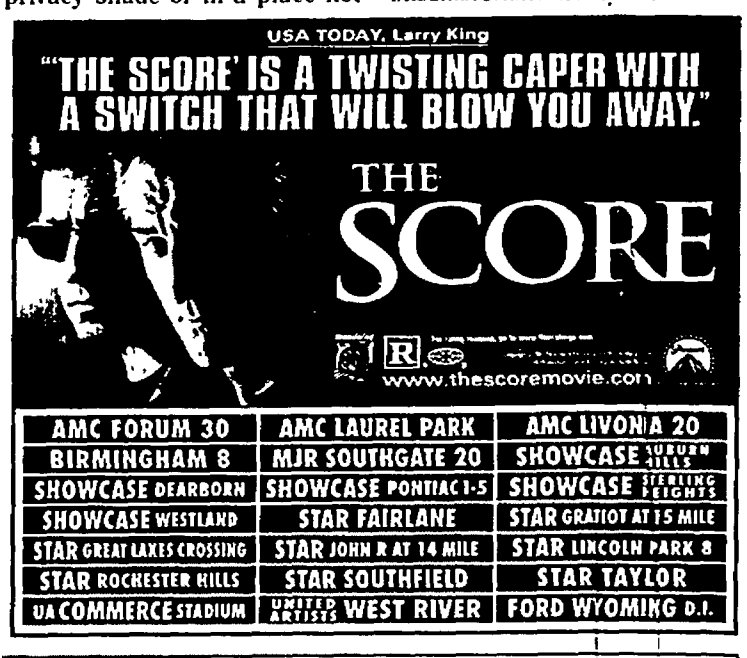

"In the case of having a checkbook or credit card stolen, a criminal could use them to fraudulently withdraw money from a person's account or to purchase goods or services," Hetu said.

Hetu advised residents to place personal or expensive items in the trunk, glove box, underneath a privacy shade or in a place not plainly visible from the outside if they have to leave them in the vehicle.

Little Italy owners Jeff Jepko, left, and John Gallagher will soon celebrate the opening of their uniquely styled next-door bar and restaurant the Bacchus Bar. With Jepko is his daughter Jessica, 3.

What a grape idea — Bacchus Bar

■ Wine bar set to open in

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

The god of the vine has set up shop on Hutton Street in downtown Northville.

The new expansion at Little Italy in Northville is just another extension of the Italian cuisine's unique atmosphere and service.

The Bacchus Bar, which is connected to Little Italy, is being featured by Little Italy co-owners Jeff Jepko and John Gallagher as a new casual, late-night drinking and dining destination for Northville residents and visitors.

Jepko described the new setting, which features a mahogany floor and fireplace, as a combination of casual dining and upscale bar. He said it will be similar to Italy's city bars, in that it is a mix of styles. Dennis Larsson of Northville's Fine Design, as well as Bacchus' interior designer, said the look of the new bar is eclectic and has a sense of the old world colliding with the new.

"It has a feeling that is different than any other place in town. A person wearing jeans or a tuxedo will feel comfortable in here," Larsson said. "In one room you can see modern light fixtures highlighting paintings that depict a classical period. The atmosphere is seductive, in that each time a person comes here he or she will gain a new perspective of the setting."

The addition is 2,400 total square feet, and includes outdoor seating and a basement storage area that will house the new wine cellar. Larsson said the full-service bar and dining area is 800 square feet. Jepko said the interior can accommodate more than 30 people and the outdoor patio can seat 16. The new space has many benefits.

"One of the reasons we went ahead with this is that we didn't think we had enough space up [in Little Italy] for people waiting," Gallagher said. "One thing Bacchus will provide is a comfortable place where waiting patrons for Little Italy can enjoy a drink or an appetizer before dinner and patrons can have an after-dinner drink here as well."

The bar name, Bacchus, is taken from Roman mythology. Bacchus was the son of Jupiter and Semele, and is known as the "god of the vine." In the tradition of Bacchus' cultivating talents, Jepko and Gallagher have expanded their wine list to include 450 labels because of the extra storage space.

"There aren't many places in town where you can stop in at and get a late night dinner or drink of this caliber," Jepko said. "We want people to think of Bacchus as a destination where a reservation isn't required and they can just pop in for a drink, a light snack from the a la carte menu or even a full meal. This completes the restaurant and makes it into a destination spot where people can hang out."

Bacchus will be serving lunch and dinner on Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. until midnight, 11 a.m. till 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 1 p.m. until 9 p.m. on Sunday. The a la carte menu will include some of Little Italy's most popular dishes, Jepko said. The two are also looking into having featured entertainment once or twice a week in the future.

"It's something we want to have here (entertainment)," Jepko said. "At this point, we are still working on it."

The addition will not take away from either location, Jepko and Gallagher said. They view the new addition, which has its own separate entrance, as still being connected with Little Italy, but with its own particular style.

"Keeping it small ensures that the high standards of the kitchen will not be compromised," Gallagher said. "We have a unique setting here."

Jepko said Bacchus Bar will be open by mid-August.

Arrowhead Alpines

With Michigan's largest selection of .....
Perennials, Woodland Wildflowers, Unusual Ferns, Rare Alpines, Dwarf Conifers, Unusual shrubs

Summer is here and it's a great time to build new gardens or add to existing ones. Shopping for summer color is a great way to even out your sequence of bloom and improve your habitat if you are a butterfly gardener. Everyone ignores summer bloomers when they shop in spring. We do the majority of our tree and shrub planting during the summer; it gives the plants a few extra months to settle in before winter (the next time the kids say they are bored give them a shovel and have them dig some holes, then trek out to Arrowhead for something to drop in them). Over the last few years, we have been quietly amassing a collection of flowering shrubs and dwarf conifers that you are unlikely to encounter elsewhere. As one of the largest rare plant growers in the country, we are confident you will find enough cool stuff and we understand the "I need one of each" addiction, it's impossible to see everything in a single day. Indeed the diversity can be a bit overwhelming, study the catalog carefully or check out the website ArrowheadAlpines.com. Perhaps bring a few reference books, we recommend Shrubs by Rix (his Perennial and Bulb books are also excellent), Manual of Woody Landscape Plants by Dirr and Conifers the Illustrated Encyclopedia by Van Hoey Smith, and of course, the definitive A.G.S. Encyclopedia of Alpines. With those and a pad of post-it notes, you can shop 'til the car is full.

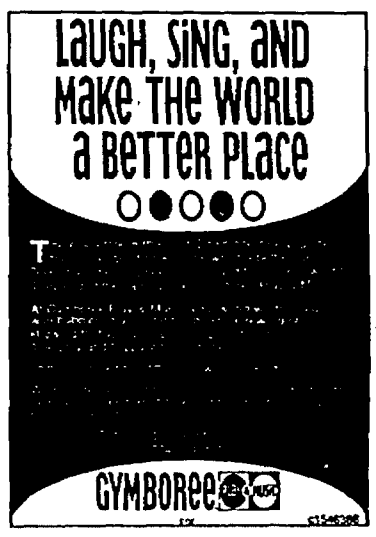

Open Wednesday through Sunday from 11:00 AM to 7:00 PM
Closed Monday and Tuesday

Take I-96 to the Fowlerville exit, go south 100 yds. To Van Buren Rd. Turn west on Van Buren and go 1 mile to Gregory Rd. Turn left (south) and travel 1.75 miles to #1310 (Long Driveway) that likely accounts for the rise in the projected cost. She said the new school will have 80,000 square feet of available space.

She also said the projected cost rose for storage addition at Amerman Elementary because the area needed to be larger to store equipment. The storage addition is planned to be on the west side of the cafeteria wall, said Wadsworth.

If voters cast their approval, the district is planning to construct three new classroom additions at Winchester Elementary. The three classrooms are slated to be built in three different parts of the building. Wadsworth said when the first estimate was given, the district was considering building as many as three classrooms. This project, estimated at $930,000, will allow the building to have three new rooms which will be used for a music room, a foreign language room and a regular classroom.

At the high school, the district plans to build 21 new classrooms, which will include 13 regular classrooms, two foreign language rooms, two science rooms, a drafting lab, a TV production studio, a communications classroom and an art studio.

"The primary increase at the high school is due to the fact that a number of those classroom are special classrooms as opposed to just a regular classroom," said Northville school board treasurer.

In addition, Wadsworth said that the architectural fees and the construction management firm fees were reflected in final cost figures.

WHAT WILL IT COST?

John Street, director of business/finance for Northville schools, said during the first year the proposal would cost 0.55 mills. The average for the life of the bond issue would be 0.99 mills.What does that amount to in dollars and cents?

"For a house that would sell at $200,000 it would cost a taxpayer $55 dollars the first year. After that it would cost an average of $99 dollars per year for up to 20 years," said Street.

He said if voters approve the bond issue, they would not be paying any more than they currently are.

"If it does pass, it will cost a total for all of our debt mills just a little over 5 mills," said Street. "That was the same they paid last year."

Martha Nield, president of the Northville Board of Education, said, "We have done two things for the voters. We've lowered the debt mills that we charge the community on the existing debt. We have gone from 5 mills to 4.5 mills. The other thing we've done is...we had thought it would cost the community 0.8 mills but now we're looking at a cost of 0.55 mills. This is the third time we've lowered the debt mills since 1997."

WHAT ELSE WILL BE BUILT WITH THE BOND MONEY?

If voters opt to approve the district's upcoming request for the bond issue, additions for the Northville school district will include a brand-new elementary school, additions to Winchester Elementary, Moraine Elementary and Northville High School as well as a storage addition at Amerman Elementary.

Furthermore, the district is requesting fiberoptic cabling to the new elementary school and the establishment of a redundant loop to complete the district's technology structure.

According to school officials, the new elementary school would accommodate the projected peak enrollment and would be of adequate size to implement the board of education's lowered class size targets. In addition, the Amerman storage addition will provide space to properly store cafeteria tables, equipment, folding chairs and supplies.

The additional classrooms and the remodeling of the south centrum at Moraine Elementary and the additional classrooms at Winchester Elementary will provide space to implement lower class sizes and provide adequate space for special classes, said school officials.

The Northville High School addition will accommodate the projected peak enrollment of approximately 2,200 students. The current facility is expected to exceed capacity in 2005-2006 using the most likely projection, officials said.

In addition, the fiberoptic cabling project will connect the new elementary school to the district's wide area network and will provide a redundant loop for many of the district's buildings.

School officials said that the need for increased classroom and building space has become mandatory for the district. With enrollment figures soaring, officials said additional room is needed to accommodate the level of growth and will enable the district to keep class sizes low.

FUN RUN AROUND THE CORNER

Preparations for the second annual "Kids Helping Kids Fun Run" are underway. The race is scheduled for August 25 at 10 a.m. and will commence at 41600 Six Mile Road.

Chris Ponder, a coordinator for the event, said last year he organized the first Kids Helping Kids Fun Run with the support of the Northville Township fire department and kids of all ages. The event raised $3,000 for the University of Michigan Trauma Burn Center and the Northville Youth Assistance. Proceeds from this year's race will benefit the same organizations.

A $5 entry fee will include a race T-shirt, treats, a ribbon and a raffle drawing at the finish line.

House accident demands answers

A house being moved relocated from one site to another isn't an everyday occurrence. A house falling off the trailer on which it's loaded is an even more rare experience. A house falling off the trailer on which it's loaded and injuring a boy working on the moving crew is perhaps the most rare — and frightening — element of all.

Luckily, it appeared as if the boy involved in the accident was going to be alright, and ultimately, that's the greatest concern anyone should have. But with the matter of most grave concern out of the way, the time has come to sort out the other questions that come with what happened Tuesday afternoon.

Watch out — finger-pointing will inevitably follow, and rightfully so. Here are some of the questions we think need to be answered:

Why were children so young apparently working in so hazardous an environment, being made to place wood blocks behind the wheels of the trailer?

Why was a route approved for transport of the house that involved so narrow and so steep a roadway?

Who approved of the process? Were ample precautions taken before the move commenced?

Those are the same questions that city officials apparently were working to answer Monday morning, when public works director Jim Gallogly and building inspector Richard Starling met with other city and county officials to discuss the mishap and try to sort the entire mess out. This, as workers on Walnut Street sought to complete the move of the house and once again open the roadway.

House-moving has never been a simple task. After all — we're talking about removing a mass of wood, brick, concrete and drywall from a fixed location, hoisting it onto a truck, then moving this otherwise-inanimate object to a another place. It's a complicated and dangerous practice that is attempted only be the most experienced and knowledgeable craftsmen who have been trained in the field.

House moving has never been a simple task. After all — we're talking about removing a mass of brick, concrete and wood from a fixed location.

The job leaves little room for error. A miscalculation of any of a number of variables can lead to awful results, as was the case this week.

It's now up to the city and the contractor to sort out what went wrong and how such mishaps can be avoided in the future. True enough — everyone can breathe a sigh of relief that the youngster hurt in the house move process will probably be back on his feet in the near future.

But it's imperative that what happened on Walnut Street be the first and last such accident to occur in Northville.

We're sure a certain 12-year-old would agree.

■ SeniorFest is gearing up for 2001

It is that time again – the Northville and Plymouth senior citizen centers join forces and present "SeniorFest." SeniorFest is a joint picnic for the senior citizens of Northville, Northville Township, and the city of Plymouth. At last year's event, we served 400 senior citizens a wonderful picnic lunch of chicken, hot dogs, baked beans, potato salad, chips and pop. Door prizes, drawings and entertainment were highlights of the day's events. All of this was made possible by donations from the business community and fund raisers, which the senior center held throughout the year as well as private donations.

The Northville and Plymouth senior citizen centers are vital services to these communities we are requesting your help. Some of the ways you may assist us is by sponsoring this event. You can support us with donations, door prizes, and give-aways. "Two for One" coupons, gift certificates, business promotional items such as pens/pencils, calendars, enough for 400-450 attendants and of course, cash contributions to purchase food items and other expenses involved in this picnic. We are also looking to give away one large prize such as a color television set, VCR or golf clubs, etc. If there is anyway you could assist us in our goal, please feel free to contact us.

Every year our picnic gets bigger and better with your support. The city of Plymouth's senior center coordinator and the Northville senior center staff have really appreciated the way our communities support their residents and services. If there is any way we can help or assist your organization, please feel free to contact us at the address below.

SeniorFest will be held on Wednesday, Sept. 12, from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. at Waterford Bend on Northville Road and Six Mile. Checks should be made payable to Northville Senior Center and mailed to 215 W. Cady St., Northville, MI 48167. Thank you in advance for your consideration and support.

■ So exactly where is the big dilemma?

I fail to see the government's dilemma regarding stem cell research if we are going to abide by the U.S. Constitional requirement of the separation of state and church. The Catholic church believes that every embryo, from the moment of conception and no matter how undeveloped or miniscule, has a soul in it and should not be tampered with even if it will otherwise be discarded anyway. So research that my result in the cure or alleviation of some devastating deseases must be stopped.

The church has a long history of trying to stop scientific progress all the way back before Galileo when they were going to imprison him for refuting its doctrine that the sun rotated around the earth.At the time it was the government. Now we have a Constitution that allows religious freedom but not government by religion. The separation of church and state is critical and must be honored.

■ Bush needs more sapiens in his life

In today's close knit world our interests cannot be easily separated from global needs.

Last week we heard a vociferous hullabaloo emanating from the Republicans ranks when the Senate Majority Leader, Tom Daschle, had the temerity (according to them) to suggest that Bush was showing signs of becoming an isolationist.

When one examines how Bush is backing away from helping to deal with existing inter-national safety and health problems, one might want to agree with Daschle that, for all intents and purposes, Bush is doing just that — leaning towards isolationism.

Why is he not cooperating with other world powers in working to reduce air pollution? In signing an international agreement on banning land-mines? In agreeing with other nations for the control of biological weapons? Agreeing to international control of small-arms sales (opposed by the NRA)? Cooperating with other nations to suppress money-laundering and tax evasion — a banking process used by drug cartels, arm traffickers and terrorist groups? Why?

Are these not signs of withdrawing from engaging in helping to solve problems that affect homo sapiens around the world? Is Bush not 'sapiens' enough?

Alfred Galli

■ Improvements to Fourth of July reply

The suggestions for the Independence Day Parade in a recent "letter to the editor" prompts this response.

Each year the Northville Community Foundation sends out press releases inviting new members to sit on the Parade Committee. We welcome new ideas and look forward to making the parade better each year.

In the recent letter to the editor, the following was suggested: Begin the parade with the national anthem; commentate the parade; and end the parade with everyone singing American the Beautiful.

Since the Northville Community Foundation began hosting the parade three years ago, we have had the national anthem with honor guard sung at the flag and memorial in front of city hall on Main Street at 10 a.m. We have also had the parade commentated in front of city hall for three years. This year we made quite an improvement with a far superior sound system which enabled many, many more people to hear the play-by-play of each parade entry.

This parade is two miles long and to coordinate everyone singing and having numerous people commentate along the entire parade route would take additional sound systems, electrical outlets, staffing and additional Parade Committee people and we invite and welcome everyone. We invite the gentleman who wrote with this ideas to join the Parade Committee (which has already begun planning for next year's Independence Day Parade).

If you have suggestions and ideas or would just like to see what it takes to coordinate over 1,500 people in a parade for over 35,000 people, please contact the Northville Community Foundation, Shari Peters at (248) 374-0200. We welcome everyone.

Shari Peters

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter was signed by 22 members of the Northville Fourth of July Parade committee.

■ Thanks for help with reading program

The youth services department at the Northville District Library would like to graciously thank the Friends of the Library for their wonderful support, all of the terrific volunteers who assisted with special summer activities, the generous support of local businesses, Northville schools for their promotion, all of the fantastic guest performers and the incredible children who participated in the summer reading program.

All of you helped to make the Reading Road Trip USA summer reading program 2001, a spectacular success. We are so very proud of the 633 children from the community who were involved in the summer reading program. We hope that you enjoyed another summer of great reading and fun programs at the library.

The youth services department would like to extend a special note of thanks to the following supporters: the Friends of the Library, Roz Fink and Shari Fesko for terrific volunteer coordination, Al Smitley for graphic design and photographer John Heider of the Northville Record for wonderful coverage.

A gracious note of thanks to the following Friends of the Library and Teen Core volunteers: Roz Fink, Jenny Bradley, Amy Storm, Betty Griffin, Barbara Hudgins, Marvie Welch, Happy Jolliffe, Judy and John Alexander, Marilyn Margolis, Kari Hartmann, Peggy Koppy, Michele Fecht, Gail Mroz, Carol Holland, Julie Collins, Michelle and Matt Tomes, Meghan Kanya, Natalie Trycieky, Marin Hann, Vanessa Abbood, Calleen Hugler-Lyle and Sam Sine.

To the following supporting business: the Novi Theatres, Custard Time, Hiller's Market, U Take The Cake and Costco Wholesale.

To the Northville Elementary School media specialists: Carol Paielli, Donnie Durant, Geri Goff, Dawn Hayes and Linda Travis.

The following guest performers: Josh Casey, Science Alive, Ming the Magnificent, Pippin Puppets, Maybury State Park, Marcey Walsh, Marc Thomas and Max the Moose.

A huge thank-you to all the boys and girls who participated in the summer reading program.

OTHER OPINIONS

Oh, great — more phone wars!

Didn't we just get done with a big statewide fight over local telephone services? Didn't our state lawmakers just wrap up a bill intended to reign in the telephone company and open the market to competition? Didn't our typically pro-business governor get so ticked off with Ameritech that he favored a bill ordering mandatory rate cuts for customers?

Mike Malott

The answer to all those questions is yes. And while you probably still have not seen any independent local telephone service providers pounding on your door offering to sell you a cheaper connection, you should get ready for another round of fighting on the phone front.

Expect it to get nastier, because the stakes this time are likely to be even higher.

Last week, the Michigan Alliance for Competitive Telecommunications issued a report called "Promises Made, Promises Broken: How Ameritech Took Advantage of Deregulation in Michigan during the 1990s."

The title pretty well says it all. MiACT accuses Ameritech of cutting staffing, curtailing investment in telephone infrastructure and allowing service problems to soar while all the time taking sizable profits. From 1995 to 1999, Ameritech's "return on equity" exceeded 44 percent, double what local telephone providers elsewhere in the country typically made.

Ameritech of course has denied the accusations. It has contended staffing remains pretty much as it has always been, the employees are just counted differently today. Investment, Ameritech says, is going up. The company acknowledges it had service problems last year, but has a plan in place to reduce the backlog and has made progress.

Ameritech has also argued it should be allowed to enter the long distance service market, and it has already made an application to the Federal Communications Commission for permission to do so. Ameritech has also gone to court to block implementation of last year's new law, and has had some success in doing so. The courts have overruled the state legislature's decision to order the companies to stop collecting a $3.28 per month end user line charge.

Nonetheless, MiACT is now frustrated with the slow pace of opening the local phone market to competition. It is frustrated to the point that it is now calling on the Legislature to order up "structural separation" of Ameritech.

That was the main recommendation in its "Promises Made, Promises Broken" report. Not unlike the break up of AT&T ordered by the feds in 1984, "structural separation" would force Ameritech to sell off pieces of its system, in essence, breaking the company within Michigan into smaller companies.

MiACT suggests Michigan lawmakers draw a chapter from its own deregulation scheme for electric utilities, which calls for a separation of the delivery system from the sellers of the service. As it would apply to telephones, one company would own the lines, and would then sell services to all companies who want to retail local phones services to individual customers. That would put Ameritech's sales operation, the reasoning goes, on an even keel with competitive local phone service providers.

A similar plan has already been introduced to the state Legislature, but frankly it has yet to get much interest. State Reps. Mickey Mortimer, R-Horton, Andrew Neumann, D-Alpena, and Robert Gosselin, R-Troy, introduced House Bill 4764 in May which would force both Ameritech and Verizon — formerly GTE and Michigan's second largest phone company — to break into "wholesale" and "retail" operations. The bill still rests untouched in the House Energy and Technology Committee.

Expect the telecommunications war to get started up again, and expect it to get nastier, because the stakes this time around are even higher than before.

But the need for consideration may be self-evident. While lawmakers have tried to open the market to competition, little has come of their effort. Today, Ameritech still has more than 5 million phone lines in Michigan, 78 percent of the total and 96 percent of the lines in its coverage areas. Verizon has 100 percent of the lines in its coverage areas in Michigan.

Last year, customers were outraged when phone repairs and installations were running up to four months to complete. And the state has had to launch into its own program, LinkMichigan, to bring high speed data lines to the state because Ameritech's DSL program is taking so long.

Meantime, Ameritech's primary emphasis seems to be expanding into the lucrative long distance market.

The big story isn't always 'big'

Gazing through the Associated Press wire last week, here are the stories that got top billing:

"Waterbury, Conn., Mayor Philip Giordano arrested on federal charges, prosecutor's office says."

"Hard-to-diagnose respiratory disease threatens Southern gopher tortoise."

Chris C. Davis

"Man charged in shooting of Coast Guard officer: believed estranged wife was having affair."

"Inmate strike in fourth day at Maryland prison; prisoners refusing to leave cells."

With all due respect to Mr. Giordano, the Southern gopher tortoise, the Coast Guard and the inmates at the Maryland prison, these sorts of stories — while important — won't make more than a gentle ripple in the life of folks in Northville.

Even stories that made the evening news night in and night out — like the sinking of that Russian sub or the whole Gary Condit / Chandra Levy thing isn't likely to have any impact whatsoever in our lives here.

What I'm trying to say is that the "big" news of the day really isn't that big a deal when it gets down to the local level. And yet strangely enough, those are the stories that will get people talking.

Ironically, the stories that will make a difference in people's lives — the ones we write about — are often met with curious looks.

Case in point: staff writer Jen Norris and special writer Erin Byzmek spent several hours over the last two weeks calling folks about town, asking them for their two cents on the Northville school district's upcoming bond issue.

What's disturbing is that most folks said they didn't know enough about what was involved to really make a decision about the issue. What's more disturbing was the number of people who didn't even know there was a bond issue.

The apparent lack of knowledge about the issue crossed genders and ages alike, giving a strong signal that it didn't matter whether or not you had students enrolled in the district (or in many cases, whether you were a student in the district.)

That concerned me for a variety of reasons, a good number of which, I suppose, were brought on because I'm a local newspaper editor, and as such, local news is my middle name. We don't usually get the ultra-juicy stuff like the television networks or dailies do, but what we write about in the Northville Record has more to do with our readers' day-to-day living than anything you'll see in the Detroit Free Press or on Dateline: Friday.

Every once in a while, though, something like what happened Monday — when a house being moved fell off its trailer and injured a boy in the process — grabs the attention of those same TV stations and dailies. At that point, we're bumping heads with the folks whose bylines we see in the Free Press or whose faces we see every night on Fox2. You can bet that we'll be involved in those stories, too. We may not be the first with the helicopter aerial shots, but rest assured that by Thursday morning, you'll get the full and complete story.

We're a hometown newspaper, literally and figuratively. We've been serving Northville for 133 years so far, and God willing, we'll be around for a lot longer than that. We want to make a difference.

But in cases like the school bond story, when it doesn't get the glitzy "video at eleven!" lead-in, we're the ones left to report those stories. I sincerely hope we embody what HomeTown Communication Network chairman and owner Phil Power says we should be: the essential tool for our readers to lead the good life in Northville and Northville Township.

We're a hometown newspaper, figuratively and literally. We've been serving Northville for 133 years so far, and God willing, we'll be around for a lot longer than that.

This Gary Condit thing will sort itself out, and the I'd imagine the Southern gopher tortoise issue will probably do the same. The Northville school bond? That's up to our readers to decide, and it's my hope that the Record will be a guiding force in helping voters make that decision.

Chris C. Davis is the editor of the Northville Record. He can be reached at (248) 349-1700, ext. 114, or at (248) 349-1700, ext. 114.

Concerned about your refund?

Pretty soon most tax-paying households will receive a check as part of President George W.Bush and the United States Congress' "Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001".

They'll begin to arrive in increasing numbers in the Northville, Novi and Walled Lake areas in the next week and by September, a lot of Americans will be looking at money from the Department of Treasury in amounts ranging from $300 to $600 - depending on filing status, previous taxes owed and other outstanding federal debts.

John Heider

A recent article by David Milstead of the Rocky Mountain News brought to light the heretofore little-known or talked about fact that this money is an advance on what the IRS expects you to receive as your refund after filing your 2001 1040 form.

That's right — it ain't just a no-strings attached present from Uncle Sammy as some would have us believe: In order to kick-start the economy and make most feel a bit better about their account balances (or lack thereof) Washington's opening up our bank vault and Voila! It's a money free-for-all.

Now whether or not we agree with the government's decision to float us this early loan on next year's tax bill — and some have urged that we send the money back to the Treasury en masse — the fact is the money will soon be showing up in our mailboxes.

It's up to us what to do with it.

Rarely have I seen such mouth-agape, drool-worthy starey-eyed speculation of 'just what will Americans do with this financial gift?' by those of us in the media.

Not since the first guy won $1 million on "Who Wants to be Millionaire" have we so tripped over ourselves to suggest where a lot of dough should go.

The newspaper, on-line, radio and TV pundits tend to think Americans will rush out and spend their small fortunes on DVD players, washing machines, Chanel couture, weekend trips to Vegas, and getting their cats fixed.

Given all these opportunities, are you as torn as I am for what to do with this financial windfall?

I'm not very religious (though my parents will occasionally remind me that my head was dunked in some water at an early age in the Protestant Church in a somewhat formal baptizing) the idea or concept of tithing comes to mind.

That's right, kiddos, 10 percent of what you got, you give to others.

In the case of the checks soon coming from Unky-Sam, one could donate a good ten percent of your windfall to your local church, synagogue, temple or mosque.

Except that some are already helping their religious organizations, may I strongly suggest that we Americans apply this gift to help out those around us who even in the recent economic boom times haven't shared as much in our nation's harvest.

Imagine what we could do if even a fraction of those receiving these checks donate a fraction of it to the Red Cross, Detroit's Capuchin Soup Kitchen, Habitat for Humanity, Focus Hope or the United Way.

I urge you to join me in giving a good portion of your refund check to an organization in our community that has and will continue to help people in difficult times: Northville Civic Concern.

I urge you to join me in giving a good portion of your refund check to an organization in our community that has and will continue to help people young and old through some very difficult times: Northville's Civic Concern.

Civic Concern is an organization that for years has been helping out local citizens who've hit tough times with its food and personal care donations, help with utility payments and social service references.

People, I don't know about you, but I don't need this refund check. I can put it to good use and purchase things that will help me in my life, but I also know there are others out there who could really use a hand.

And even if I give $50 or so to Civic Concern, there'll still be enough dough left over to get my cat fixed.

Donations can be directed to Marlene Kunz at Northville Civic Concern, c/o Senior Center-215 West Cady, Northville, MI. 48167. Or call (248) 344-1033.

Northville Broncos notch win in NABF World Series

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

For two years running the Northville Broncos have gathered the dedication and intensity needed to win a contest in the National Amateur Baseball Federation World Series.

The Broncos, who ended the Series with a 1-3 record, edged B and C Construction 5-4 in game 10 Friday night.

"There are some really good quality ball clubs that come to this tournament," Broncos pitcher Tyler Carter said as he watched the championship game between the Dayton, Ohio Classics and the Indiana Bulls Sunday. "It is in a tournament like this that you get to see how well your team really matches up in the larger scope of baseball."

Northville may have not proven that they were the best team in the tournament, but Carter said that much of what the team was after was obtained during the World Series.

"Everybody had fun and that is what is really important," he said. "Yeah, we really wanted to come out here and show that we were as good as the rest of these teams but it didn't work out that way."

According to Carter, the most important thing for his teammates to remember is that there are no regrets.

"We played our hearts out," Carter said. "We gave it everything we had every game and if we lost then that is the way it is. We won a game and finished 1-3 and that is great if you ask me."

Some of Carter's teammates might not agree with everything the mound master had to say about the tournament.

"When we were going into this we wanted to win the World Series," Bronco Matt Sebastian said. "It is really disappointing that we only managed to win one game. We wanted to go further then one win, we wanted to show everyone that we were as good as the rest of these teams."

Though Northville managed to win only one game in the tournament, Carter said that there was a lot learned by each and every member of the team — including first year coach Aaron Knieper.

"He taught us a lot about baseball and what it takes to bring our games to the next level," Carter said. "We taught him a lot about coaching too. Once we both started learning from each other it really started to work out."

The Broncos couldn't put together the complete game needed to win their other contests during the Series and found themselves lacking where the other teams did not.

"These teams are just amazing," Sebastian said. "They don't have any weak spots. You can try and place your hits or throw your best pitches and they are going to be able to deal with it."

Northville opened the tournament against the Texas Knights and held the game close until the fifth inning when an errant throw to the Jason Krug behind home plate bounced in the dirt and over his shoulder, allowing runs to score and the Knights to take a 5-0 lead before the inning closed.

The Knights managed to hold the scoreless Northville squad to no hits as well.

Indiana too 'Bull'-headed

Bulls crowned NABF World Series champions

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

It was a fitting end to an exciting National Amateur Baseball Federation World Series Championship game as the Indiana Bulls squared off against the Dayton, Ohio Classics Sunday.

The Bulls managed to edge out of a tight situation and literally slide by the Classics in a 10-9 decision in an extra inning after leading the contest 7-1 in the fifth. The winning run came as Kennedy took advantage of a wild pitch that made it past the Classics' catcher and slid into home for the win.

"Talk about exciting," Indiana coach Jered Moore said after the game. "I've been with these kids for three years, words can't really describe what I am feeling right now."

The Bulls looked as though they had the game in the bag before a deep double by Classics' catcher Bridewell sent three runners home in the top of the seventh inning and brought the game to a 9-9 tie.

"Give the Classics credit, they are a tough team that really knows how to hit," Moore said. "They turned a six-run deficit into a tied game and pushed us right to the end. The motto of this tournament was winners never quit and in this game the losers didn't quit either."

The Bulls managed to put three Dayton players down in the eighth inning with Knighton sending a pop fly nearly straight up above home plate for Indiana's catcher to hunt down before Sharkey did the same to third base. Dayton's Stevens sent a hopper speeding to Indiana third baseman Eric Osborn who made the throw to first for the third out.

"The kids just relaxed and played their game," Moore said of the Bulls eighth inning performance.

"They knew what they had to do and they went out and did it."

The Bulls followed the lead of the Tournament MVP Osborn, who hit two home runs in the contest and pitched two innings to help Indiana to the win.

"These kids are just great," Moore said. "It is going to be hard to see them move on — hard to let go of them next year."

The majority of the game was a highlight reel for the Indiana Bulls at nearly every position. A diving catch in the outfield, a stretching catch

The Indiana squad, which consisted entirely of 16-year-old players, hoisted their championship trophy with pride while tears flowed down their cheeks and the impressive gathering of friends, family and fans cheered for them.

"These kids worked so hard for so long for this," Moore said.

"I hope they can take the experiences they have here and apply them to life. It showed the character they posses to pull this one out."

The Classics gathered together with their runner-up trophy and said nothing as the Bulls collected their first-place plaques and their championship award. As the Bulls lifted their trophy in the air a round of applause came from the defeated Classics.

"They are a quality ball team," Moore said.

"They deserve full credit for what they did here today. It takes a lot of courage and a lot of heart to battle it out the way they did."

Playing for the love of tennis

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

It can be something as simple as the swing of a tennis racket that brings joy to a girl's life — just ask Christina Ruiz.

The 12-year-old Ruiz takes tennis to the next level — somewhere between utter enjoyment and ferocious competition. She plays for the sake of playing and she wins because that is what comes naturally to her.

"I really love to play tennis," Ruiz said.

"I love it so much because it is fun and because I have a passion for it."

Ruiz said that one of the aspects of her game that assists her in gathering wins is her aggressive tendencies on the court.

"I like to play the net a lot," she said.

"I am aggressive and a lot of the girls hand back and are not. When I play aggressive and play up on the net I think it helps me win more points and keeps me in the game."

One of the more important part of Ruiz's game is her ability to keep her head high even in desperate situations.

"I don't let myself get down and I make sure to stay mentally tough," she said.

"That is my strategy when I am out on the court as well as staying aggressive and to keep going at the net."

Ruiz has had the opportunity to test both the singles and doubles version of the tennis world and says that she is a little more fond of the doubles.

"I am just starting to get into doubles but they are so much more fun," she said. "You are part of a team, which you normally don't get to be in tennis, and you talk with your partner and high five — it is just a lot of fun."

Ruiz doubles partner, Kirsten Flower of Columbus, Ohio, is one of the reasons doubles has become so exciting.

According to Susan Ruiz, Christina's mother, the duo has won a national tournament held in May in Columbus before crushing their opponents for the title at the Midwest Closed in Lansing in June.

"Basically every tournament I play double with her," Christina Ruiz said.

"We work well together because we talk a lot. You have to talk for things to go well and for things to click."

To Ruiz, tennis offers something more then other sports — something she just can't put her finger on.

"I have done swimming and gymnastics but they are not as exciting or as fun, I really don't know (why I like tennis more)," she said. "I have more fun playing tennis then any other sport I have every played. I love it."

One of the positive aspects of tennis for Ruiz is the support she receives from her parents.

"They are great and they have always been so supportive of me," she said.

"They have always made tennis something fun and exciting to be a part of."

Susan Ruiz says that her daughter's ambitions in the sport have been huge from the start.

"When she was six years old she said she wanted to go to Wimbledon," Susan Ruiz said. "We hope she takes it as far as she

Great job with Series

Nice job with the National Amateur Baseball Federation World Series everybody.

Yeah, I am talking to you — the players who went inning after inning and never gave up. The teammates who supported each other even when somebody missed an easy fly ball or threw the ball into the dirt instead of in a glove. It was the players that made the games so enjoyable to watch with their sportsmanship and their talent — not to mention their obvious love for the game of baseball.

Oh, yeah — I am talking to you umps too. It isn't easy making tough calls under pressure but you fellas in the blue shirts made it look like my little sister could do it. Nice, clean calls without hesita-

Novi triathlete can't decide: does he want to be biking, running or swimming?

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

For 45-year-old Novi resident Dave Brandau, being a triathlete isn't just about participating in a sport — it's about bettering himself as an individual each and every time he competes.

Brandau challenges his body and mind every time he participates in a triathlon, an event typically consisting of a half-mile swim, an 18-mile bike and a four mile run, and says that his training regimen is one of the most important aspects of his sport.

"In a week we swim about six miles, bike about 90 miles and run between 20 and 25," Brandau said of his and his wife , Cathy's, training schedule. "We are not super hardcore — we just enjoy doing it but we have to train."

Without the training the triathlon could become more of a challenge than an athlete is looking for.

"You have to be in really good shape just to be able to get through the race let alone win anything or place," Brandau said. "I typically train from about March right through the season which usually ends at the end of September."

According to Brandau, who says he usually finishes in the middle of the pack while his wife wins most of her races, running a triathlon brings more to life then the typical win or loss associated with sports.

"You get to meet a lot of new people while being forced to get into really good shape," Brandau said. "It is also a great way to kill a Sunday morning."

Though Brandau, who owns am executive search firm, and his wife normally compete in the typical sprint triathlons, they recently tested the waters of a tougher breed of competition — the half Ironman in Muncie, Indiana. The half Ironman consists of a competitor grinding out a 1.2 mile swim before dragging themselves out of the sometimes frigid waters to undertake a grueling 56-mile bike before wrapping the competition up with a 13.1 mile half-marathon. The half Ironman found Cathy completing the test in six hours flat with Brandau finishing fifteen minutes later.

"To be a real competitor in a triathlon you need a true triathlon body, which I don't have," the 5-foot-11, 182-pound Brandau said. "You need to be real light. Triathletes are typically people who used to be runners or swimmer and just added the bike but everybody is different. Most races offer a Clydesdale division for men over 200 pounds or an Athena division for women over 150."

According to Brandau, he usually manages one first-place finish a year — which is not contest to Cathy's abilities. Cathy Brandau, a 45-year-old teacher in Novi, stands at 5-foot-3 and weighs in at 117 pounds — a lean frame that gives her the body most female triathletes strive for.

"Last year she entered six races and finished with four firsts and two seconds," Brandau said. "We both won our age group at Coldwater, Michigan last year and this year we both won our respective categories at the Kalamazoo Seahorse Triathlon. This year Cathy has two firsts and a second in three races."

Not everyone is built to compete in a triathlon but Brandau says anyone interested in competing in triathlons should at least be a spectator first or volunteer to work during one.

"My advice for beginners is to definitely go to a triathlon and be a spectator first," he said. "Three years ago I went to a triathlon out in Ann Arbor on a Sunday morning just to watch and I was hooked. I was able to see how important the transition areas were and how important it was not to use a mountain bike. That is how you can tell who the rookies are — they are the ones using the mountain bikes."

According to Brandau, the trouble with bringing a mountain bike to a triathlon is like racing a tortoise against a hare — there is no contest.

"In a typical triathlon bikers are going to average 20 to 23 miles per hour," Brandau said. "If you are on a mountain bike you are going to be lucky to get 15."

Another piece of advice that Brandau had for beginners was to ask questions and to not be embarrassed if you're not ready to compete in the Olympics just yet.

"If you are not a swimmer don't be embarrassed," he said. "Some people breast stroke and some people float on their backs — whatever it takes to complete the swim. Just do the rest of us a favor and start in the back so we don't have to crawl over you."

Through the last three years Brandau has been able to compete in various levels of triathlon competition and even ran in the Detroit Free Press Marathon, but he says there is still one competition he strives to be a part of — the Ironman challenge held in Kona, Hawaii.

"I would really like to do Kona," Brandau said. "You have to qualify for it and I would never qualify. They also do a lottery (offering 150 slots) and every year I try to get lucky and get a lotto spot. I would have to decide if I got it though. You have to swim in the ocean, bike over lava pits into a strong headwind plus a marathon in Hawaii must be a killer. There are other Ironman races around the country and I plan to do one next year."

Brandau says anyone wanting to know more about triathlons can surf the Internet and visit www.cooltri.com.

He also noted veteran triathletes as well as anyone interested in becoming a triathlete or wanting to know more about the sport are more then welcome to contact him through his e-mail (bear4295@aol.com).

"Hey let's start a club here in Novi," he said. "There are triathlon clubs out there and we could be next."

At the USSSA Michigan State Baseball Championships held in Canton the honor of being named to the All-State Baseball team was bestowed upon Cory Patterson (left) of Northville and Travis Maxey of Novi. Patterson plays third base for the Michigan Warriors baseball team and Maxey is the short stop. Both players share time on the mound as well as their other duties. The duo was also named to the State All-Star Team and had the chance to showcase their talents during the State Championship All-Star Game held July 7.

tion made the games flow smoothly and at an even pace.

Wait. I am also talking to the fans. The parents, family and friends that came out to see these teams battle it out for a chance to call themselves the best of the best. It is not very often that I go to a game and hear the support coming from the spectators that I heard during this tournament. You made sitting in the stands an enjoyable experience.

I am also talking to the Indiana Bulls — the World Series Champions who had to make it interesting by letting a 7-1 lead turn into a 9-9 extra inning before finally closing it out over the Classics after a wild pitch let a runner slide into home. Coach Jered Moore was more emotional than his players — he said he had been with the same group of kids for three years and was as proud of them as he would have been for his own children. Way to go Indiana — thanks for making the title game so exciting.

The Northville Broncos deserve recognition too for their sportsmanship and willingness to host the tournament for the 19th straight year. They accumulated a 1-3 record but played each game like they were the national champs.

Oh yeah — most importantly I need to say good job to all of the volunteers who made the tournament possible. The field was always in excellent condition for each and every game and the announcers were on the ball for each and every play. Everyone wearing the NABF red shirts had a smile on their face and a quick and cheerful greeting. Thank you for your time and your effort — it really made the World Series an event to attend.

It isn't often enough that the volunteers for such an event get recognition when the truth is they deserve it more then the teams taking home the trophies. If it were not for the volunteers that work the stands or rake the infield, the NABF World Series would just be an every day game played on an every day field. Thanks to the men and women that spend days on end making sure everything is in place and that everything is working properly the NABF World Series was a well-run smooth operating tournament.

To everyone involved: Thanks for making my first World Series here in Northville and enjoyable one!

wants to. We just want to take her there, whatever she wants to do."

Christina Ruiz's tennis abilities have taken her farther then some tennis players have gone during their entire careers. With a title win at the Super National Hardcourts in Alpharetta, Georgia, Ruiz was awarded a very coveted prize — the gold ball.

To Christina Ruiz, tennis is more than just a sport in which you win a gold ball — it is a way to further herself. "I hope to get a scholarship to a good university," she said. Ruiz also noted that it takes more then hard work on the court to win a tennis match.

"You have to get pretty good grades to be efficient in tennis," she said. "It takes a lot of thinking and a lot of strategy to win day in and day out. That is what makes tennis so tough and that is one of the reasons I like it so much."

This time of year is when baseball season gets really exciting and not just for the teams that are heading to state, regional and national tournaments.

Some teams are indeed taking their season to the next level and continuing to compete with the best of the best — the elite of their age if you will — in hopes of earning the right to call themselves the number one team in baseball.

There are also the teams that are tying up the end of their schedules and putting the icing on a great summer.

The Northville Tigers Parks and Recreation 13-year-old boys' baseball team finished a perfect season by edging the South Farmington Yankees in a 6-5 decision July 16. The Tigers ended their season with an unblemished 19-0 record. Many of the Tigers' wins were hard won with undeniable rally ability and contributions from every player on the team. The team includes: Zach Bailey, Matt Carey, Luke Crawford, Robert Davison, Jack Duffield, Josh Kelly, Jeff Little, Allen Marecki, Don McKinnon, Hiroki Morioka, Tim Parent, Steven Pfefferle, Doug Reid and Chad Seward.

The Northville 10 and Under fastpitch softball team are continuing a remarkable season after being ranked 21st in the nation and having finished in the top three of every tournament they have entered, including a first place finish in Frankenmuth July 21. Their season began against Novi with Krysta Cicala connecting for a double and a triple, Annie Tasse hitting a triple, Kelsey Whelan adding a home run while Jenna Medina and Megan Brennan chipping in with doubles. The next time the Broncos faced Novi Brittany Birdsall had a three-run homer. Allison Holmes was one of three pitchers in the Broncos drubbing of the Livonia Storm with a supportive defense coming from Camellia Das at short stop. The defense was the name of the game for the Broncos this season as Amanda West closed out right field and Jamie Cotrone staking claim to third base. The offense was assisted with Robyn Baidas and her bunting skills as well as Erin Hughes and her ability to crank out the singles. The Broncos were traveling to the World Series in South Haven, Mississippi Sunday, July 29.

The 16 and under Northville Broncos girls fastpitch softball team won their division with an impressive nine wins, one loss and one tie. The Broncos include: Allison Jenney, Jamie Geist, Amy Prentiss, Candra Nabozny, Samantha Cooke, Kim Hayes, Lindsay Tomasak, Katie Zawacki, Ashley Kniceley, Carrie Banner, Kim Larson, Lexi Mimikos, Allison Long and Stephanie Jones.

The Northville 9-year-old Bronco Baseball team won the Holly Baseball tournament Championship during the weekend of June 2. The Broncos managed three consecutive wins in their first tournament together.

The first game of the tournament found the Broncos bucking the host Holly team in a 15-0 blanking. A strong pitching performance from Davin Montgomery and two hits from Greg Cheslik and Dan Mills led the way. Tommy LaRouere, Jeremy Alain, Joey Mortiere, Mike Baglan, Kevin McCann, Cheslik and Mills scored two runs each.

Game two found the Broncos edging Flushing 9-7. John Alandt scored two runs to assist in the win.

The championship game ended with the Broncos topping Mount Morris 7-4. Joey Close had two hits while Trevor Grigg added a two-run double. The game ended as Steve Grimmer, Grigg and Mortiere pulled off a nice relay throw and put out at home plate to stop a Mount Morris rally.

The Northville Primary Cardinals girls softball team clinched the league championship after a perfect 8-0 record. The Cardinals include Kelsey Lewis, Gina Giordano, Melissa DiRado, Blair Powers, Amy Johnson, Katie Kowal, Emily Jankowiak, Tori Posa, Samantha Doud, Nicole Miller, Kelli Ford and Nara DeMuro.

The Northville Stallions wrapped up a successful season with two key wins in the Michigan Pony Tournament in Mason, Michigan before losing to the divisional winners from Holt. The Stallions, a 10-year-old Select Tournament team, represented Northville during this past season in the Northville Early Bird Tournament as well as the Holly, Clio and Pony Divisional Tournaments. The Stallions include Scott Hetu, Eric Giordono, Chase Olander, Jeremy Alain, Clay Malloure, Jack Nelson, Joe Franstead, Nick Putman, Mike Bennett, Nick Kristock, Zack Greenman, Steve Tabazinski and Andy Bray.

The Michigan Warriors baseball team finished thier season with a 15-3 record. The Warriors are comprised of Cory Patterson, Travis Maxey, Doug Hasser, Nathan Ball, Lowell Schwalb, Scott Smutzki, Paul Shoemaker, R.C. Murphy, Garret Peyton, Steve Bayoff and Sean Herman.

Northville gets win

"It was a tough game and we were the ones that made the first mistake," Coach Knieper said after the opening game of the Series.

"At this level all it takes is for a team to make the first mistake and that can mean the end of a ball game. Unfortunately we made more then one mistake and it showed."

Knieper said that even with the talent level that had gathered in Northville for the World Series, it was a rare game that his Northville Broncos would get blanked.

"It takes a lot of well-placed pitches and a lot of bad luck for us to not get a hit," he said.

"These teams are good. They no doubt deserve to be in this tournament."

The Tournament was brightened by the players on the Northville team.

"Tyler Carter has been consistent all season long," Knieper said.

"He has a lot of talent. Kyle Ghedotte is a quality player as well. They are all good kids."

Stream Map of Michigan

LOST STREAM MAP FOUND AND RESTORED

The recently published STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN resembles another map–known to Pennsylvania anglers as the "Lost Stream Map."

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map

The map sold extremely well-- until it was lost several years after it first appeared in print. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology--the STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN was created.

Every Angler Needs this Map

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Michigan is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind.

This new 4-foot-by-4-foot color map shows virtually all of the 35,000 miles of Michigan streams plus lakes.

Buying or selling, know who your real estate agent is

Gary Reggish

Real Estate

There are several types of relationships in real estate. seller's agent, buyer's agent, dual agent and transaction coordinator. As harmless as these may seem, agency relationships in real estate can be confusing

First, let us lay the groundwork The agency relationship is always with the broker/real estate company. When you choose a real estate agent to market your home, the listing agreement/contract is with the broker/real estate company and the real estate agent that you interviewed is a subagent to the broker. For example, Mr. And Mrs. John Seller interviews Susie Subagent from XYZ Real Estate for the job of selling their home. Susie Subagent shares her marketing plan and informs Mr and Mrs. John Seller what the listing commission will be. Mr. and Mrs John Seller decide they like the marketing presentation and are pleased with the commission rate, so they decide to list their home with Susie Subagent.

Even though Susie is the real estate agent that Mr. and Mrs. John Seller interviewed and she is the person who will be advertising their home as well as negotiating on behalf of the sellers. the actual "agent" for the Sellers is XYZ Real Estate. Susie is the "subagent".

Similarly, when a purchaser establishes a relationship with a real estate agent and chooses to have that agent represent him in their new home purchase, the actual "agent" for the Purchaser is XYZ Real Estate and the real estate agent that the purchaser has chosen to work with is the "subagent."

A broker delegates duties to a salesperson, whether that salesperson is a listing specialist or a buyer specialist. Ultimately the broker bears responsibility for the salesperson's actions.

Whatever kind of relationship exists, the agent or subagent must live up to certain fiduciary duties by law.

A seller's agent/subagent is one who represents — solely — the best interest of the seller. The agent/subagent must, in every case, inform the seller of any information about the buyer that will be advantageous to the seller's negotiating position. The seller's agent/subagent duty is to negotiate on behalf of the seller, promoting the sellers best interest. The seller's agent/subagent must adhere to absolute confidentiality in regard to any information that may compromise the seller's negotiating position (i.e. the seller has been transferred and must sell their home by the end of the month). This does not include disclosure of any known material defect. By law, any known material defect must be disclosed to the purchaser.

A buyer's agent/subagent is one who represents, solely, the best interest of the buyer. The agent/subagent must, in every case, inform the buyer of any information about the seller that will be advantageous to the buyer's negotiating position. The buyer's agent/subagent duty is to negotiate on behalf of the buyer, promoting the buyer's best interest. The buyer's agent/subagent must adhere to absolute confidentiality in regard to any information that may compromise the buyer's negotiating position (ie. The buyer has sold their home and must find a home in two weeks or they will not have a place to live).

Dual agency can be a little confusing and we will demonstrate dual agency in the following example:

Susie Subagent lists Mr. and Mrs. Sellers home. Susie and the company she works for (XYZ Real Estate) are contracted with Mr. and Mrs. Seller as seller's agent/subagent. Susie receives a phone call one afternoon from a past client, Mr. and Mrs. Buyer who inform Susie that they want to move and would like Susie and her company to represent them as a buyer's agent/subagent. Susie agrees. After meeting with her clients, Susie realizes that the home that Mr. and Mrs. Seller are selling would be perfect for her clients. Susie has now found herself in a "Dual" agency position. Susie is contracted with Mr. and Mrs. Seller to represent their best interest and negotiate the highest possible price for their home, and at the same time she is contracted with Mr. and Mrs. Buyer to represent their best interest and negotiate the best possible value for the home that they decide to purchase,

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

A real estate licensee can be the agent of both the seller and the buyer, but only with the knowledge and informed consent, in writing, of both the seller and the buyer. A dual agent is one who cannot share confidential information with either the seller or the buyer and the negotiating ability is limited.

On the upside, the licensee that possesses the most knowledge of the positive aspects of the home is the listing agent/subagent. This can be a real advantage to the seller. From the buyer's perspective, the listing agent is still required by law to disclose any known material defects that the home may have. The agent/subagent becomes a middle-person working to create a win-win situation between seller and buyer.

In the above example Susie Subagent found herself in a "dual" agency relationship, and therefore XYZ Real Estate was also in a dual agency relationship. The following example will demonstrate how XYZ Real Estate will again find itself in a dual agency position:

Remember, the real estate office/broker ultimately holds the relationship with the seller and/or buyer. The licensee actually working closely with the seller and/or buyer is the subagent.

Susie Subagent is aggressively advertising and marketing Mr. and Mrs. Seller's home. One morning Susie coordinates a home tour of the Seller's home and brings many agents from her office over to preview the Seller's home. An agent from Susie's office, Joe Salesman, informs Susie that he just started working closely with a buyer that is relocating to the area. He believes that the Seller's home would be perfect for his client. After showing his client the Seller's home, his client agrees that the home is just what he is looking for.

Since Susie is the subagent to the seller and Joe is the subagent to the buyer, and Susie and Joe both work for XYZ Real Estate, XYZ Real Estate is an agent to both the seller and the buyer, a dual agency.

KIDS

Coloring Contest

Winners will have their picture taken with Blue!

"Kids Revvin' with Ford" is a family-friendly experience that combines safety with children's entertainment.

"Kids Revvin' with Ford" shifts into high gear Saturday, August 18, from 8 a.m. to noon in Downtown Birmingham.

This inaugural showcase will feature special guests, including Blue from "Blues Clues," dancers, clowns, jugglers, magicians and face painters. Local celebrities will also be flipping pancakes at a morning breakfast, with all proceeds benefiting the Children's Charities Coalition.

Plus, the morning's focus on safety will include expert demonstrations and interactive displays from Ford's "Boost America!" educating parents on the proper use of booster seats for children ages 4-8. "Kids Care" fingerprinting stations will also be on-site as back-to-school time reminds us of the importance of child identification.

For more information, log onto www.revvinwithford.com or call

FUN IN THE SUN

Anagramania

You may think Scrabble gave its dying breath when Chuck Woolery hosted the television version of the board game 10 years ago. But you'd be wrong — the smartest Scrabble-types (or the folks who just have waaaay to much time on their hands...we don't know which) figured out some of the most amazing anagrams you're ever going to see. You know...anagrams? Those phrases that can have the letters rearranged to become something else?

And being the thieves that we are, we're going to steal a few of these nuggets for your XTRA-reading pleasure.

ASTRONOMERS:
Moon starers

DESPERATION:
A rope ends it

A DECIMAL POINT:
I'm a dot in place

THE CHECK IS IN THE MAIL:
Claim "Heck, I sent it (heh!)"

VALENTINE POEMS:
Pen mates in love

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE:
Can ruin a selected victim

LATE NIGHT CHINESE FOOD PARTY:
Heating the crispy noodle fat

...and according to Uncle John's All-Purpose Extra Strength Bathroom Reader, here's the undisputed all-time anagram champion of them all.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE: THAT IS THE QUESTION, WHETHER 'TIS NOBLER IN THE MIND TO SUFFER THE SLINGS AND ARROWS OF OUTRAGEOUS FORTUNE:
In one of the bard's best thought-of tragedies, our insistent hero, Hamlet, queries on two fronts about how life turns rotten.

Useless trivia that will get you dumb looks at parties:

• You'd weigh nothing at the exact center of the Earth.

• Former president Gerald Ford's favorite food was cottage cheese with A-1 sauce.

• Winchester, Va. was captured 84 times during the Civil War.

• Before he became an actor, Sean Connery polished coffins for a living.

Weekly World News headline 'o the week

Alien blob ate my truck!

By STEPHANIE FORDYCE
Staff Writer

Not even the rain could stop the fun had at the Novi CARE program's County Fair last week.

Even though the party had to be moved inside, the ITC Center nevertheless made for a perfect place for many youngsters to kick off their shoes and have a hee-haw of a good time.

With an abundance of tasty treats, goody games, and extraordinary entertainment, the children of the Community Education program could not have enjoyed a better afternoon.

"Despite the rain, it seems like everyone is still having a great time," said CARE coordinator Paul Hendricks.

With a number of children buzzing past him, Hendricks had a hard time talking over the cheers and laughter of more than 100 kids that filled the cafeteria.

"We've got more (children) in the gymnasium as well," he said.

Hendricks, now serving his third year as a CARE coordinator, said the program began planning the event back in April.

"Our goal is to have a new theme each year," he said.

Last year's theme was the Chinese New Year, decorated with paper dragons and lanterns.

But this year the event welcomed activity arenas like Cousin Bob's Bobbing For Apples, Peggy Sue's Pie Eating Contest, and other funny farm events that made the County Fair a success.

While there wasn't a pig calling contest, there were some interesting sounds made with the mini-festival's Karaoke machine in the gym.

Here students like 11-year-old Laura Reyes, Kathleen MacDonald, and Claudia Miculici could be found belting out tunes by Jessica Simpson, N'Sync, and the Backstreet Boys.

"It's a lot of fun," Miculici said, referring to the fair. "It's great to be able to hang out with my friends and be entertained."

Back over in the cafeteria, Vickie Wang, Adam Dreisbach, Kevin Slawinski and Michael Renkiewicz were busy playing games like Sinkin' The Lincoln, Crazy Clothespin, and Lucky Ducks.

The students explained that as they play each game, their performance earns them tickets to purchase things like snow cones and cotton candy.

Other activities enjoyed at the fair included face painting, making balloon animals, and playing video arcade games like pinball.

Nine-year-old Madeline Price said aside from the fair, the CARE program offers a number of kinds of fun activities all summer long.

"We get to go on lots of field trips...watch movies, and make stuff. It's so much fun," she said.

Field trips have included visits to the Howell Ropes Course and the wave pool.

Eleven-year-old Evanne Greenko also agreed that the program has proven to be a great way to spend the summer.

"It's a lot better than sitting around the house being bored," she said.

CARE, which stands for Children's Activities In a Responsible Environment, runs through the summer until Aug. 15, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays.

Hendricks said the program has seen its highest level of members with, nearly 180 youths enrolled this summer.

"Each year we've added a grade. Last year we added seventh and this year eighth," he said.

To learn more about CARE, please call (248) 449-1712 or (248) 449-1713. Cost to enroll is $25 per day and $20 for each additional child. CARE also runs throughout the school year, before and after school. CARE is offered at all five elementary schools as well as Novi Meadows for 5th and 6th grade students.

More information on CARE can be obtained at the CARE website at:

Some old kids' classics to fill a summer afternoon

OCTOPUS TAG

One person stands in the middle of the boundary area. The rest of the kids line up at an end of the bounds and when the tagger gives the word, they all run to the other side of the bounds. Whoever the tagger tags then has to stay and help the tagger, except that the additional people that are tagged have to sit down, and can only help "it" by using their arms. This goes back and forth until your down to the last person who then starts the next round. The game is best when played with a lot of kids.

KICK THE CAN

This is an exciting combination of hide and seek and tag. One person closes his eyes and counts to some high number, while everyone else hides. Then, the person who counted (who has incidentally been guarding "the can") has to run around the neighborhood and find everybody. The tricky part is that once a person is found, they have a race, where the person who has just been found has to try to kick the can over before the counter tags him.

RED DEVIL

This game works best when played around a house or building. Players all begin in front of the house. Red Devil is the player who is "it." The Red Devil faces the other players and declares, "I'm thinking of a type of (shoe, car, candy bar, etc.)." The other players then try to guess what the Red Devil is thinking of (for example, Nike, Adidas, or Keds) The Red Devil calls out the name of the player who eventually guesses the correct item. Then, the Red Devil and the player who guessed correctly take off running around the house in opposite directions. The first person to make it back to the starting line becomes the Red Devil. (After players get tired, the rules can change to: the first person to get back to the starting line is not the Red Devil.)

Camilla's assortment of roses line her once herb garden in her condo association. This garden is one of her favorite spots in the backyard.

By Annette Jaworski
SPECIAL WRITER

This is the second story of a two part series that proves that gardeners won't be limited by space. A case in point is a Milford couple, Camilla and Frank Mitchell who prove beyond a doubt that condominium owners can garden on a grand scale.

There's a place for everything and everything in its place in Camilla and Frank Mitchell's garden.

"I'm pretty fussy. I can't stand to have a petal on the ground," confesses Milford gardener, Camilla Mitchell. With 22 different types of full size roses and four miniature roses this can keep her busy as a bee. The tidy precision of the flowerbeds is one of two things that make Frank and Camilla Mitchell's Milford garden outstanding.

"Somebody told me that I have a green thumb and I tell them no, it's brown," from her constant working in the ground.

The other amazing feature is just how much the couple has managed to incorporate into their condominium garden. Their Milford home is a detached condominium with limited area, but the gardens are as complete as any full size yard. Their vision is a great example of how to make the most of garden space.

The Mitchell's make use of containers to expand their growing area. This includes flowers, cherry tomatoes and tasty herbs for cooking. Most of the herbs were relocated to the upper deck after Camilla discovered a groundhog rolling around in her precious plants on the lower level gardens.

The couple has used the space alongside the condominium to plant vegetables like peas and cucumbers. They're big tomato fans, planting five different kinds this year including Brandywine, Beefsteak, Big Boy and Grape. You'll even see a prize pepper plant on the upper deck.

The upper deck features a seating area with an umbrella table and chairs. Here the Mitchells can enjoy a great view of the gardens below as well the woodlands. Camilla has added warm touches like a wrought iron teacart, serving up potted flowers. She also uses decorative items to brighten up the landscape, such as a blue and beige painted ceramic pot that serves as a rain gauge. A light purple Mexican Heather blossoms all summer covering the utility boxes.

"I call it my clever concealment," said Camilla Mitchell

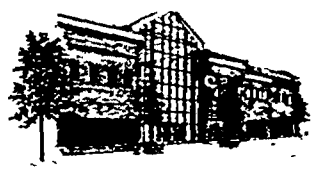

Down below is a brick paver terrace with additional table and chairs. Here, Frank Mitchell built tiered flowerbeds out of treated wood for the roses. He also built steps along the sloped side of the house to make it easier to walk up and down the hill.

Early 20th-century cider set example of Nippon porcelain

This early 1900's lemonade set from Japan would probably be worth about $400 to $500.

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. My husband's aunt gave me the porcelain pitcher and six matching tumblers that are seen in this photo. She called it a chocolate set. I saw a similar set in Charleston, S.C., and it was called a lemonade set. Each piece is marked with the letter "T" in a wreath and the words "Hand Painted - Nippon."

Any information you can provide on my set would be greatly appreciated.

A. Your set is a lemonade or cider set. In 1891, the United States established the McKinley Tariff Act, requiring the name of the country of origin to appear on all wares exported to the U.S. Japan used "Nippon," which is their word for Japan. A revision in U.S. import laws occurred in 1921. "Made in" had to be included in marks and the Japanese were required to use the word "Japan" rather than "Nippon." The mark you provided is a well-known Japanese mark that appeared on porcelain. Joan F. Van Patten lists it in "The Collector's Encyclopedia of Nippon Porcelain."

Your early 1900s lemonade set would probably be worth about $400 to $500.

Q. I have two modern Wassily armchairs that were designed by Marcel Breuer. They have a tubular steel construction with leather backs and seats. I have been unable to find any information on the designer and the chairs.

What can you tell me about my chairs?

A. Hungarian-born designer, Marcel Breuer, went to Vienna at the age of 18, where he was a student at the German Bauhaus School. The Bauhaus was founded on the percept that good design should be offered to the common man, rather than ostentatious designs for the wealthy. The geometric shapes of Cubist movement developed by Pablo Picasso and Georges Braque were a source of inspiration for the Bauhaus artists. In 1925, Breuer began experimenting with tubular steel and geometry and designed the Wassily chair. The chair was a paradox, appearing to be light yet strong. It was named for Breuer's friend, abstract expressionist artist Wassily Kandinsky.

In 1933, Adolph Hitler closed the Bauhaus. Although, he brought an end to the innovative school, modernism continued to flourish. Breuer moved to the United States in 1937. He taught at Harvard University, where he and Walter Gropius established the third generation of Modernists. Breuer eventually settled in New York City.

A pair of original Wassily chairs would probably be worth about $4,000 to $5,000.

Q. I have enclosed the mark on the back of a pair of porcelain vases that I inherited from my mother. They are decorated with large peach-tinted roses on a background that shades from pale green to soft green and gold trim. Each stands 6 inches tall and is in perfect condition.

What can you tell me about the mark and the value of my vases?

A. Reinhold Schlegelmilch produced porcelain from 1869 to 1956. The factory that was located in Tillowitz, Silesia, Germany, used the mark you provided. Reinhold and his brother, Erdmann, each established his own hard-paste porcelain factories in the 1860s. They exported large quantities to both the United States and Canada. The letters "EPOS" represent "Fine Porcelain from Upper Silesia."

Your vases were made around 1930 and would probably be worth about $300 to $400 for the pair.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

Roses that smell good

- Roses that have plenty of water and are well taken care of might smell slightly better, but mainly this is a matter of genetics–some roses smell nice and others don't.
- Buy roses in bloom rather than in the dormant stage so you can test them.
- Here is a list of some very fragrant hybrid tea roses that will not miss:

Double Delight
is a red-white bicolor
Fragrant Cloud
is reddish-orange
Mr. Lincoln
is dark red
Crimson Glory & Chrysler Imperial are red
Papa Meilland
is dark red
Perfume Delight
is pink.

Most of the rose varieties known as old roses or old garden roses and most shrub roses are fragrant.

Condo living doesn't stop gardeners

The Mitchell's garden also features a wave of flowers in the backyard bordering the woodlands. There you'll find white daisies, a feathery lavender liatris and purple coneflower. Later in fall, mums will be in full bloom.

"I don't cut back the mums, so in fall, when everything is done blooming there's tons of flowers," said Camilla Mitchell.

Camilla is partial to evergreens since her father grew Christmas trees when she was a little girl. A friend gave one of the small blue spruces to them when her father passed away, and they received another when Frank's mother passed away.

"I think it's such a wonderful idea. It's such a living tribute instead of flowers that die," she said.

Cement statuary is found throughout the yard, which adds elegance to the surroundings. A favorite piece of hers is an angel sucking its thumb. Another unusual piece is a little girl under an umbrella that was a birthday gift from her husband. There's also an interesting butterfly house along the woodland area that sits atop of the stump of a dead tree. Frank Mitchell trimmed it to four feet high off the ground for the butterflies.

When choosing the colors, Camilla Mitchell follows the advice she heard about growing smaller gardens. She keeps with the cools tones of pinks, blue, purples and white.

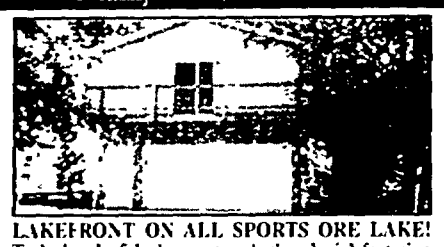

"If you keep in one color scheme in your yard it tends to look larger," said Mitchell.

Local residents enjoyed the Mitchell's yard as one of the featured gardens on this year's 2001 Milford Garden Club Tour.

On a rainy day read to your children!

A Brain is a terrible thing to waste!

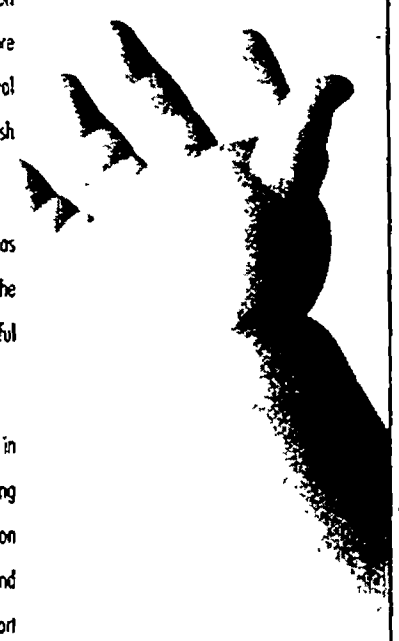

Imagine fighting for your independence and not being able to make a fist.

Juvenile arthritis is a painful fact of life.

Today, there are more than a quarter million children who live with a disabling condition more common than juvenile diabetes and cerebral palsy. Many of these children cannot accomplish life's first goal of simply . . . reaching.

Juvenile arthritis is often improperly diagnosed as "growing pains." But make no mistake. The effects of juvenile arthritis are long-term, painful and real.

Do you suspect the onset of juvenile arthritis in your child . . . or a child you know? Do something for them. With up-to-date information on warning signs. Proper medical diagnosis and care. Family camps, conferences, and a support network, for you and your child.

Health Food for your pet

All natural food keeps the vet away

By Tran Longmoore
STAFF WRITER

When you spend your money at Hickory Ridge Feed in Milford Village, you are buying more than just healthy food for your beloved animal friends.

You're buying advice on nutrition and care that could help your pets live a longer, healthier life while you save on veterinarian bills.

Hickory Ridge Feed has been in business for nearly 30 years. It started when Kathleen Percy and her husband opened the business at the corner of Hickory Ridge and Lone Tree roads. After a few years, they moved the store to South Milford Road, where the McDonald's restaurant is now located. Then they spent almost 21 years at 1400 E. Commerce St. before moving to their current location at 628 E. Huron St., on one of the only dirt roads remaining in the Village of Milford. Pulling into the parking lot, it feels like you're taking a trip back in time, to an old fashion general store.

But despite an old-time look, Hickory Ridge Feed is changing with the times, according to Kathleen, who has run the store herself since divorcing her husband.

"We've had to change with the times to survive," she said.

For instance, the business still sells feed for horses, but it no longer makes deliveries. It's also cut back on accessories for horses, which were once very popular items.

"A lot of people with horses are buying those products through catalogues these days," she said.

Percy, with the help of employee and good friend Maureen Moore, had to change the focus of the business.

Percy decided it was time to focus one homestead pets, because so many people own cats, dogs, fish and birds. But with the popularity of strip mall pet store chains, Percy further needed to tweak her business.

"Feeding your pet all natural foods, with no chemicals or preservatives, is a proactive way to manage your pet's health"

Kathleen Percy
Owner, Hickory Ridge Feed

In essence, she wound up with a pet health food store. Percy said there's plenty of demand for the health food.

"People love their pets. They want to keep them healthy. Good, natural food helps prevent illnesses," Percy said.

Percy scoffs at the idea that the all-natural food is more expensive than pet food available at grocery stores and pet stores.

"A bag of all natural food costs about one-third more. But it's much more filling, and animals eat about one-third less," Percy said. "So it evens out."

And, Percy said, pets who eat all natural food tend to make fewer costly trips to the veterinarian.

"Feeding your animals all natural foods, without chemicals and preservatives which can damage kidneys and livers, is a proactive way to manage your pet's health," she said.

Percy said that much of the food she carries is vegetarian. Some brands of dog food contain barley, green beans, oatmeal and even cottage cheese. Some of the more common brands of pet health foods are Innova and California Natural Foods — brands that aren't carried at most pet stores.

But Hickory Ridge Food provides customers much more than products. Percy is always happy to impart what she's learned in over 30 years in business.

"I'm an expert. I make no bones about it," Percy said. "I grew up on a farm so I have an understanding of certain things. And I was once a math teacher, so I'm good at working on problems. I like working with people to help solve their pets' problems."

Percy, of course, loves animals.

She sells cats and chickens from her store — although the revenues don't bring much profit.

"For the most part, we just like to have the animals around," said Percy. "They brighten our days."

Hickory Ridge is open from Monday through Friday 9 a.m. - 6 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. - 2 p.m.

Welcome to Milford Memories!

On behalf of the Milford Village Council and the entire Milford community, welcome to the newly expanded Milford Memories 2001. Our festival now runs from Friday through Sunday and promises to be bigger and better.

Milford is proud of its past, its present and looks forward to its future.

Whether this is your first trip to our town and its festival or if you are a festival veteran, you are in for a treat. Many, many volunteers have worked long and hard to provide you with a pleasant experience as you stroll among the arts and crafts booths, watch the canoe race, cheer on your ducks at the Rotary Club duck race, laugh at the Mutt-A-Rama, tour the civil war encampment, learn about the history of Milford, sample the delicious foods and beverages, enjoy the Saturday night dance in the park and participate in the many other enjoyable experiences which make up Milford Memories.

Once you have sampled Milford Memories and all that it has to offer, I am certain that you will want to share your enjoyment with your friends and neighbors.

The planning for the next Milford Memories begins right after the conclusion of this year's festival.

If you would like to participate as a volunteer, the festival staff would love to hear from you.

Again, thanks for coming to Milford Memories, enjoy our hospitality and come back to our lovely town often.

Chris Smith
Village Council President

Happy Anniversary Milford Memories!

That's right, the festival is 10 years old this year. It sure is hard to believe that it's been 10 whole years since that first festival in 1992.

That first committee worked so hard to create an event that would showcase the Huron Valley area.

There was a lot of begging, borrowing and promises. Nobody knew if it would work or not.

It did and here we are 10 years later under the Huron Valley Chamber's auspices, 150 more artists, an expanded festival venue, triple the entertainment, one more day, hundreds more volunteers and thousands more visitors.

We've come a long way and I am so proud to have been a part of the success of this event.

We hope you enjoy your time with us eating, enjoy art and music or just visiting with old friends. We're glad you're here. We hope you come back.

Milford Memories offers new and old traditions in 10th year

By Erin Johnson
STAFF WRITER

The Milford Memories festival marks its 10th anniversary this year with art, entertainment, games and a few added treats.

The first difference is the event will take place over three days for the first time.

"We've never opened on Friday before," said Jennifer Hill, event coordinator for Milford Memories.

Hill said the event planners decided to add Friday because many people miss the event due to weekend plans or trips. An extra day may give more people a chance to attend.

The fun kicks off Aug. 10 at noon when Art in the Village opens. More than 200 artists from across the country will be set up along Main Street between Huron and Summit streets and in Central Park. The art show will be open until 7 p.m. on Friday night and will also be open on Saturday and Sunday.

Friday night features "Bones, Blues and Brews," in the Central Park big top starting at 7 p.m. People can come and listen to vintage blues and rock and roll while munching on ribs. There will be more entertainment in Central Park, the Center Street gazebo and the Mill Pond Pavilion throughout the weekend.

On Saturday and Sunday afternoon, kids can head down to Central Park and check out the games and activities in the children's play area. Also on Saturday, the festival's new mascot, Sunny, will be having a birthday bash and the kids are welcome to help him celebrate.

There will also be fun for the adults throughout the weekend including a cold butt euchre tournament, Mutt-A-Rama dog show, duck races, and remote control boat and car races.

Hill said there's been a change to the blindfolded canoe races. This year, three people will be in the canoe and one is the blindfolded rower while the other two to the navigating.

"We changed it so that more people could participate," Hill said.

For those who aren't looking for competition, they can watch the Civil War encampment are take the cemetery walk.

Hill said Main Street will be closed off starting on Thursday night before the event, but the shuttle bus will begin running at noon on Friday.

Hill also said Milford Memories brings about 30-40,000 people to the village at any given time during the event.

The festival takes a great deal of time to plan and organize and Hill said she and other committee members are always working on ideas.

"We work on it all year," she said. "We never stop."

Milford streets to be filled again with works of art

By Erin Johnson
STAFF WRITER

Many cities boost about their art shows but very few can say they have enough artists to fill an entire city street and park. Milford Memories makes that claim with pride.

Art in the Village has been a part of the annual festival since the beginning.

"I was right at the first meeting 10 years ago," said Dianne Quinn. Quinn is the owner of Art in Park, Inc. and she and her new business partner, daughter Raychel Rork, are the art and craft show promoters for Milford Memories.

Quinn said there will be more than 200 artists at this year's fair. She said the number stays pretty much the same every year because of where the show is held.

"We only have so much room," Quinn said.

This year, the art show has not only expanded to cover three days, Aug. 10-12, but will also cover more of Main Street. Vendors will be able to set up north of Commerce Road, all the way down Main Street and into Central Park.

Quinn said the location at the art fair is part of what makes it unique.

"It's the only show I know that's on one long street," she said.

Quinn said the major requirement for artists in the show is that all of their work must be handmade and done by the artist.

Those handmade items include everything from jewelry and stained glass to sculptures and oil paintings.

"Every medium you can think of, really," Quinn said.

She said the most popular items this year will probably be garden art, which are pieces meant to be outside with plants and flowers.

"Everybody wants to decorate their garden," Quinn said.

Looking at stained glass at the 2000 Milford Memories "Art in the Village" is Mary Kovach.

There should be something for everyone at the show with artists coming not only from all over Michigan but from all over the country as well. Quinn said there will be artists from New York, Georgia, California and Quebec, just to name a few places.

Quinn said there are different types of art being produced in different parts of the country and having artists from other areas enhances the show.

"They bring another flavor," she said.

Quinn's non-profit corporation also promotes the Art in the Park show in Plymouth which is just a month before Milford Memories.

"We get to take one breath," she said.

Quinn and her daughter spend the entire year coordination both shows, but she said neither would be possible without a little help.

"We have fabulous volunteers," she said.

Art in the Village is open from noon to 7 p.m. on Aug. 10, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Aug. 11 and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Aug. 12.

Bringing civility to the war

By Tran Longmoore
Staff Writer

Not long after Milford was settled, her sons were called away to fight for the Union.

The Civil War cost Milford the lives of many sons, whose grave markers can still be seen in Oak Grove cemetery.

"The Civil War had such a great impact on Milford. So many lives were lost," said Joan Spiroff, who coordinates the Civil War encampment, which can viewed at Central Park Saturday and Sunday.

The Civil War encampment has been an important and popular part of the Milford Memories Summer Festival since joining the line up in 1993.

Each year, scores of volunteers, dressed in authentic period clothing, set up camp beyond the old Mill Pond bridge at Central Park, and try to relive the life of the time.

The soldiers, dressed in Union blue and Confederacy gray, fire muskets, pistols and cannons at each other. Some spend the night in tents. Others make due by sleeping on straw with blankets, next to a fire. The soldiers and civilians cook over the fire or wash laundry in the river.

It makes for an educational and compelling performance.

"People love watching the history come alive in front of them," Spiroff said. "Many just watch, sort of mesmerized as they let their imagination transport them back in time."

Until, of course, the authentic civil-war period cannon, jolts them back into reality.

"When it goes off, you'll know it," Spiroff said.

The re-enactors come from all over the state. Most of them are history buffs who pride themselves on being true to the details of the day.

Music was an important part life back then, as it is today. The festival is bringing the 11th Michigan Fife and Drum Band to play in Milford Saturday and Sunday. The band is dressed in authentic uniformed Civil War era fife and drum garb and plays traditional songs.

"They'll be marching up and down the street during the festival," said Spiroff. "The entire experience is such a great history lesson for children."

The schedule hasn't been completely worked out yet. Times for the battles and skirmishes haven't been pinned down. But Spiroff said the encampment should run Saturday from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

Spiroff said more detailed schedules will be prominently displayed near the encampment at Central Park on the days of the festival.

A decade of Memories

By Tran Longmoore
Staff Writer

Ten years of summer memories in Milford, culled from the page of the Milford Times, which has served Milford for 124 years.

1992: Milford Memories debuts, Aug. 14-16

Entertainment: The festival was built around the musical play, Milford Memories, which tracked life in Milford in the 19th century as seen through the eyes of the first Milford Times publisher, Isaac Jackson. More than 1,000 people watched the show, which was performed five times.

Art Vendors: Dozens of vendors

New Elements: Being the first event, everything was new, including the raft races, horse and buggy rides and pony rides.

Winner's Circle: Raft Race won by Sons of American Legion Blacksmith Special.

Seen around town: Prominent local business man Lyle Tyler wearing a sign advertising the show times of the Milford Memories play.

Quote: "I hope they do it again next year. But they should make the musical more affordable" — Gary DeFlorio

Crowd estimate: Several thousand

1993: Aug. 14-15

Entertainment: The Milford Memories Musical continues to be the center piece of the festival

Art Vendors: More than 150

New Elements: Pie-eating contest, Civil-War encampment, children's' games, Mutt-A-Rama

Winner's Circle: The American Legion Blacksmith Special won the raft race on the Huron River once again, posting a time of 5:57

Seen around town: Abe Lincoln. Well, it looked that way anyway. Appéteaser hired look-a-like Lance Mack to walk around the festival.

Quote: "Just for a minute, you think you can go back in time" — Bill Christen, who portrayed a soldier in the Civil Encampment

Crowd estimates: Thousands

1994: Aug. 13-14

Entertainment: The Milford Memories play went on hiatus. The Parlor Players, however, brought the play Naomi of the Northern Lights to theater lovers at Central Park

Art Vendors: About 170, which was down a little because of the rain.

New Elements: Country Western dance broadcast on WWWW-FM, Duck Race on Pettibone creek.

Winner's Circle: The American Legion won their division again in the raft race. Cujo Latvin was named the biggest dog, at 190 pounds Seen around town: Dentist Carol Wilkop, judging dogs' breath at the Mutt-A-Rama.

Quote: "Everything went great after the rain let up. You don't have control of the weather, so you take it as it comes" — Cal Southwell, artist from Houghton Lake

Crowd estimates: 20 - 30,000

1995: Aug. 12-13

Entertainment: The encore performance of Naomi of the Northern Lights.

Art Vendors: 175

New Elements: A stroll through Oak Grove Cemetery, the last resting place of Milford's earliest settlers.

Winner's Circle: The Milford Historical Society's raft Pump Iron, had the fasted time in the raft race.

Seen around town: Huron Valley Hospital employees, dressed in clown suits, racing down the Huron River

Quote: "Here it is, a family affair and you lose some of your family. This is a family town." — Betty Mott

Crowd Estimate: Crowds were down, due to the discovery of the dead bodies of two young girls at Central Park on the final day of the festival, and to the blistering heat

1996: Aug. 10-11

Entertainment: Many local residents got into costume and strolled through the festival, portraying some of the town's historic features

Art Vendors: 175 artists.

New Elements: Cold Butt Euchre. Dozens of teams signed up to play Euchre while sitting on giant blocks of ice. Those who removed their butts from the ice were eliminated from the tournament.

Winner's Circle: Laurie and Gary Elliot won the Cold Butt Euchre tournament

Seen around town: Suzanne Haskew menacingly waving a wooden spoon, in character as the Widow Edmunds, in the Voice of the Past program.

Quote: "People are beginning to plan their summer around this festival" — Milford Memories co-ordinator Jennifer Hill

Crowd Estimate: Close to 30,000, the largest crowd ever.

1997: Aug. 9-10

Entertainment: The Voice of the Past series continues

Art Vendors: Close to 200

New Elements: Trolley Ride Through Time, a horse drawn trolley which brings riders through the old village streets.

Winner's Circle: Fi-Fi, the dog with the worst breath

Fun-filled Friday now on tap

By Erin Johnson
STAFF WRITER

By adding another day of fun to Milford Memories, organizers also added another night of entertainment to the already music filled festival taking place Aug. 10-12.

This year, the event kicks off on Friday with Art in the Village from noon to 7 p.m. Once the sun starts to set, art shoppers can make their way over to the Central Park big top for food, music and spirits at "Bones, Blues and Brews."

Ann Bergstrom, a member of the dance committee, said organizers wanted to have a special celebration in honor of Milford Memories' 10th year.

"We thought we'd like to put a theme to it," she said.

Bergstrom said the "bones" will be provided by Peppercorn Catering of Highland who will bring some of their menu items such as barbecue chicken, barbecue ribs and sandwiches, among other items.

The Danny Pratt Band will be supplying the blues. The band plays vintage blues and rock 'n' roll and Bergstrom said they play around the metro area including some dates at the Red Dog Saloon.

Bergstrom said because there will be alcohol served at the event, people must be 21 or older to attend. She said the tent area is open to everyone on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. There will also be a $2 fee to enter.

MARS drummer, Ken Glynn, performed at the 2000 Milford Memories Festival.

Milford Memories has a new mascot, Sunny, who will be introduced that night. Bergstrom said there will also be a VIP section of the tent for the festival's sponsors.

Bergstrom said the Friday night entertainment will probably be the beginning of a new Milford Memories tradition.

"This will the start of a regular event," she said.

"Bones, Blues and Brews" will begin at 7 p.m. and end at midnight.

Saturday night fever

By Erin Johnson
STAFF WRITER

The Milford Memories festival is all about having fun and music lovers won't be left out as a wide range of acts perform throughout the day Saturday and into the evening.

Starting Saturday morning, the Center Street gazebo and Mill Pond Pavilion will play host to acts performing everything from Celtic music to old fashioned rock 'n' roll.

Central Park will be filled with the sounds of the Rhythm Rangers, who will be playing in the Central Park big top from noon to 4 p.m.

The big event of the day also happens at the big top when local band Night Shift takes the stage at 7 p.m. for the annual Saturday night dance.

Ann Bergstrom, a member of the dance committee, said the dance gives people the opportunity to met with friends and catch up on old times. She also said the dance is one of the festival's biggest events.

"We have quite a few (people) come out," she said.

She said about 500 people fill the 200 feet by 200 feet tent.

While Night Shift plays classic rock 'n' roll, Bergstrom said people can dance, munch on food from Great American Pizza or sip on some beer, wine coolers, or pop. Since alcohol will be served, only those 21 and older will be able to enter. There will also be a $2 fee.

"We have a great time," Bergstrom said.

For those not yet old enough to get into the big top dance, there will be a teen dance held at the Masonic Lodge.

Josh Landefeld, one of the organizers, said the teen dance got started as a way to help teenagers have a little fun.

"Since there's an adult dance, they wanted to put on a teen dance to give teenagers something to do," he said.

Landefeld said there will be a DJ supplying the music and there will also be card games and food. He said there will also be a Sumo wrestling set.

The teen dance is open to 14 to 18 year olds and there is a cost of $3.

Both the adult and teen dances run from 7 p.m. to midnight

Changes in store for Cold Butt Euchre

By Karl Kling
Editor

Ah the spirit of competition. Nothing is more indicative of the will to win than Cold Butt Euchre.

This being the fifth consecutive tournament hosted by the Milford Times (if you can't the winter Ice Spectacular), we have learned and will now pass our knowledge onto you, the competitor.

Over the years we realized that there will be a few individuals who will attempt to, well, for the lack of a better term, cheat. These scoundrels often left us scratching our heads on how to handle their absence.

The point tallying process was often thrown into mayhem when we had to bounce a few unruly combatants.

So, with our collective genius, we have developed a system similar to the NCAA basketball tournament.

The 2001 Milford Memories Cold Butt Euchre tournament will be comprised of 32 teams, based on a first-come, first-serve basis.

The teams will be separated into two 16-team divisions. The teams will be ranked based on the order of entry. Team #1 in each division will play Team #16, with Team #2 playing Team #15, and so on.

The teams will play a one-round game. The 16 teams in each division will be reseeded based on their score of this game. If two teams (or more) have identical scores, the team seeded higher before the round will be seeded higher again.

From this point, the teams will compete in a bracket format - with the winners advancing until there remains one team from each division which will play for the Championship.

Each round, six in all, will 10 minutes in length, with a maximum of 10 points allowed. Since points do not carry over, once the 10 point maximum is reached both teams must remain seated until the 10 minute period ends.

After each round, the teams that have lost will be given consolation prizes, while the rest continue to battle it out for the big enchilada.

Forms can be picked up at the Chamber of Commerce (685-712) or Milford Times (685-1507) offices.

You can't have a festival without food

By Tran Longmoore
Staff Writer

If you can't resist delicious food, downtown Milford is the place to be. With restaurants like Five Lakes Grille, the Appéteaser, Perriez Milford House, Great American Pizza, The Valley Deli, and Lei Ting Chinese Cuisine all right in the heart of the downtown core, a satisfied palette is never more than a few footsteps away.

So why should it be any different during the Milford Memories Summer Festival?

It won't be.

The annual festival has contracted with 15 vendors — there may be more to come — to provide food and beverages for patrons.

"We've got everything you could ever ask for," said Sharon Flora, who is coordinating the food vendors for the festival. "We've got vendors to satisfy kids' appetites, and vendors to satisfy adult appetites."

The variety is wide, ranging from ice cream and roasted almonds, to gyros and kabobs, to chicken and seafood quesadillas.

Some of the vendors will be familiar to those who frequent Milford's favorite eating grounds. Perriez Milford House will sell its tasty pizzas and sandwiches. So will Jets Pizza and Great American Pizza.

Other local vendors include St. George's Church, which is selling home made brownies for 50 cents.

The festival has also brought in food vendors from as far away as Virginia, the home base for Bon Appetit and Peter's Creative Cuisine. They're coming all the way up to Milford to cook Greek favorites like gyros and kabobs. They're also selling chicken and shrimp quesadillas.

The food vendors will be set up strategically, so people are never far way from a bite to eat.

"We'll have vendors located at Central Park, and on Main Street, at both Liberty and Commerce streets," Flora said.

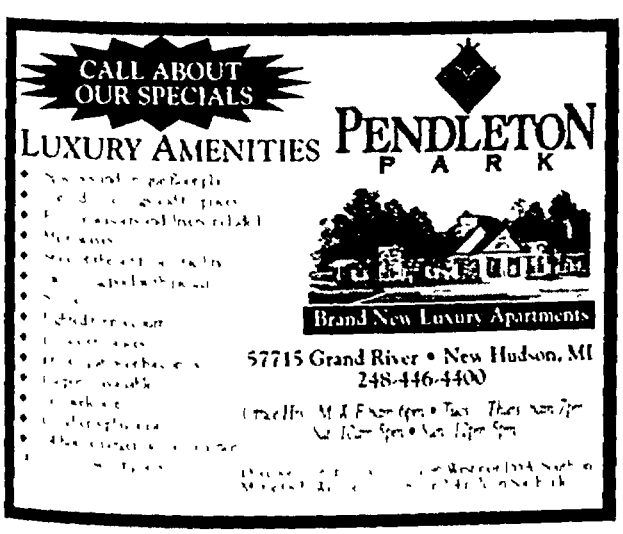

Beverage vendors will also be located around the festival. It's been known to get hot downtown during the festival, so ice-cold bottled water and soda pop always goes fast. Smoothies, slushes and more will also be available.

Those who will be around late Friday are also in for a treat. Milford Memories celebrates its 10th anniversary with Bones, Blues, and Brews at Central Park.

Highland-based Peppercorn catering is offering up a barbecue line up which will fit nicely with frosty adult beverages. Peppercorn is serving barbecue ribs, chicken quarters, corn on the cob, cheeseburgers, onion skins and much, much more.

Saturday night, some good old pizza is the main menu.

"It's going to be one tasty weekend in Milford," said Flora.

CELEBRITY COACH'S CORNER™

"In tight spaces, inches can make a difference in scoring goals, so take chances. Even a half-chance is worth shooting."

BRANDI CHASTAIN

What Brandi says...

"Success in corner kicks takes heart as well as a scripted play. The difference is deciding that no matter what, you are going to win the ball. Follow the steps below to get open, and once you receive the ball, be prepared to shoot or pass to a teammate that will shoot. If you receive the ball on the far side of the goal, your shot should go back to the side that the ball came from. The goalkeeper won't have enough time to go back and forth. If you receive the ball with your back to the goal, pass the ball back to a teammate facing the goal. The defense will collapse on the player with the ball, giving the attacker a shot. Remember, your goal is to score a goal...take a shot."

Brandi's best tips...

Options to get open on a Corner Kick...

1) Run toward the near post, and as the defender approaches, cut back to the far side.
2) Run toward the far post, and as the defender approaches, cut forward to the near side.
3) Use another attacker to set a pick to get yourself open.

Brandi Chastain, 31, was a member of the 1996 Gold Medal Olympic Team and the 1998 World Cup Champions. A 10-year veteran of the U.S. Women's National Team, Brandi also serves as an assistant coach at Santa Clara. Chastain is currently a member of the Bay Area CyberRays in the WUSA.
