Stewart says hospital's future grim

■ But state says
NPH will stay

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

Long-standing concern over the future of Northville Psychiatric Hospital took a major turn this week, as a state legislator indicated the state-run facility may be up for sale in the near future.

State Representative John Stewart, R-Plymouth, said he had a conversation with James Haveman, Michigan's Director of Community Health, that involved the future of the 400-patient psychiatric hospital. Stewart said Haveman informed him that there was a general phasing-out of the operation and it is now under way.

Layoffs at the hospital commenced last month, about the same time the Northville Township planning commission moved ahead with a study of the Seven Mile Road corridor.

Stewart said he approached Haveman after he learned of the state-wide layoffs.

"I was disappointed and surprised with the layoffs, but not too surprised because of the reductions that have occurred there in recent history," Stewart said. "I think the state needs to revisit our commitment to mental health. In regard to the Northville Psychiatric Hospital, there is every indication that it is being phased out."

Stewart said he believed what he did because of what has occurred in the last eight years at the hospital. Stewart said he thought the recent layoffs were just another hint of the eventual outcome. He said over the last eight years the number of patients has decreased from 1,200 to under 400. He said based on those numbers, it would mean the hospital is operating at 25 percent capacity.

"The number of patients and staff has been reduced significantly over an eight-year period," Stewart said. "There is a definite pattern that would indicate the eventual selling off of the state-owned property on Seven Mile Road."

But Stewart's assessment of the situation was flatly denied by others. Geraldyn Lasher, director of communications for the Michigan Department of Community Health, said there was no plan in place for phasing out the hospital and there would be no closing down of it in the near future.

"The hospital will remain in operation and it will not be closed down in the foreseeable future," Lasher said. "Despite the layoffs, there are still hundreds of individuals employed at the hospital."

In early August, the state dismissed 43 staff members at the hospital due to a state-wide $875,000 budget shortfall at state mental hospitals. Lasher said the layoffs were necessary because the facilities were spending more than they were bringing in. Three staff members were trimmed from Hawthorn Center in Northville Township, as well.

Stewart expressed concern that the

Response times key to fire plan

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

Northville Township's strategic plan has the township's fire department contemplating their future, both short-term and long-term.

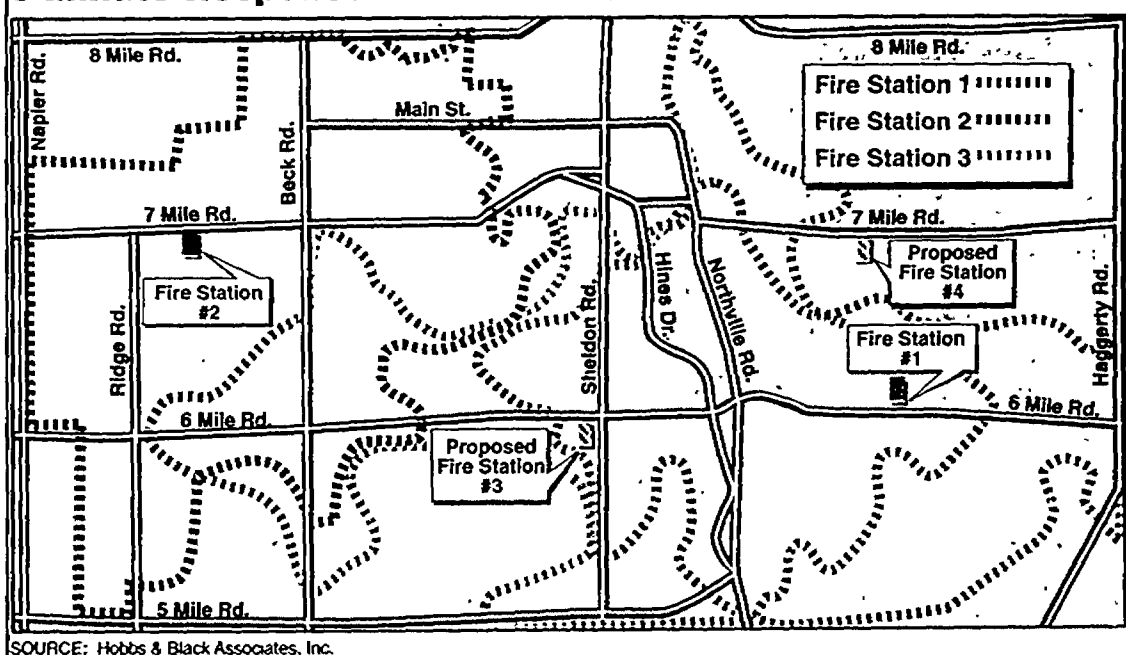

The strategic plan was initiated so the township board of trustees and administrators could have a complete evaluation of its land and facilities in order to prepare for future development, such as the future locations of new fire and police stations.

The township obtained the services of Hobbs and Black Associates, Inc. for the evaluation. During the evaluation, one immediate need stated in Hobbs and Black's preliminary analysis report was that the township's fire department is in need of a new and larger headquarters.

"In the short-term, we need a centrally-located and fully functional station that is staffed on a 24-hour basis," Northville Township fire chief William Zhmendak said. "By having a centrally located station, we could possibly cut our response times in half."

The preliminary analysis presented four options the township could explore and possibly act upon. Three out of the four options had a combined facility for both police and fire. One option had the departments situated in separate locations.

Hobbs and Black representatives agreed with Zhmendak in that the primary station should be centrally located and because of this, all four options had a new fire station placed at the southwest corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads. Currently, there are two stations. One is located at township hall on Six Mile and the other is on W. Seven Mile Road.

According to Zhmendak, Station No. 1 at Six Mile is not staffed 24 hours because it is not suited for this service, but Station No. 2 on Seven Mile does function on a 24-hour basis. The department has 10 full-time and 11 part-time firefighters. Three staff

Schools wait on Sakwa land deal

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

Following careful deliberation, Northville school board members opted to postpone their vote again on whether or not the district would accept a 15.2 acre land parcel donation being offered by Gary Sakwa of Grand Sakwa Properties, LLC.

After reviewing the language of the covenant deed, board members had reservations on wording of parking issues.

Within the language, the deed stated that "adequate off-street parking shall be provided by [Northville Public Schools] to ensure that parking does not occur on the residential streets."

Board members said it would be practically impossible to prevent individuals from parking on the residential streets, particularly when high-attendance special events will be hosted at the ele-

School year starts smooth as students return to classes

By JENNIFER NORRIS

On Monday morning, school bells were ringing and school busses were rolling.

After a seasonal vacation break, students within the Northville Public Schools district headed back to class this week.

Equipped with backpacks slung over one shoulder, students were once again cruising the hallways, finding their classrooms and meeting their teachers.

opening," said David Bolitho, assistant superintendent for Northville schools. "I think it went real well."

Major maintenance items in the school buildings have been completed and each of the schools were ready for the flurry of students.

"All the buildings were in great shape," said Bolitho. "I visited all the buildings Monday morning. We were ready for the first day of school. It really is a thrill to see the buildings come alive."

Bolitho said parents were also involved in the first day of school, toting cameras and videocameras to school to record their child's start to the new school year.

According to Bolitho, there are 391 kindergarten students in the

Dubuar Street project stirs neighborhood ire

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

The possible extension of Dubuar Street has some residents concerned.

Northville resident Frank Bauss went before the Northville city planning commission earlier this month seeking preliminary approval for a lot split and street extension on West Dubuar to connect with Caldwell Road to the west. Bauss' initial request was denied and tabled by the commission, but he was told to go back and fill in some of the missing details before he came back in front of the commission again.

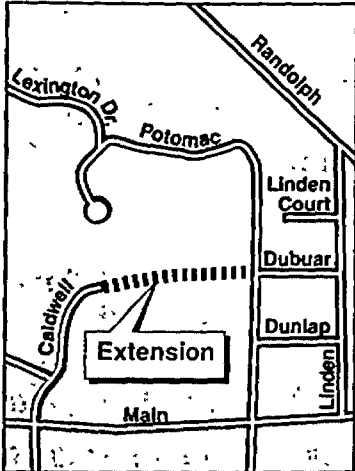

Bauss said he wanted to see Dubuar extended in order to have two access points for three houses on his one-acre plot of land so that they could be serviced by emergency vehicles and snowplows.

"I meet all of the ordinance requirements," Bauss said. "I'm hoping my plan will get approval at the next meeting."

According to Bauss, there was one detail the planning commission pointed out to him that needed correction and that was the front yard setback for each planned house. He said planning commission consultant Don Wortman informed him that a 25-foot frontyard setback is required in the city's R-1A district. Bauss said his plan does have the frontyard setback at 25 feet, but it appeared as 23 feet on his drawings at the meeting. He said that was an error that would be corrected before the next presentation.

A number of area residents from such streets as Rogers and Dubuar expressed their concern over the possible destruction of the woods just west of Dubuar. Dubuar resident Tom Holleman obtained and presented to the planning commission more than 150 signatures from residents opposing the connection of Dubuar and Caldwell. Holleman said the road is to narrow for such development.

"Since the proposed road would be a direct route from Rogers Street to Main Street, it would undoubtedly be used as a convenient route to and from Hillside as well as Our Lady of Victory," Holleman said. "Parents driving children would no doubt use this new short cut. In addition, children that walk to school would have no choice but to walk in the narrow road. This is obviously an unsafe situation."

Holleman said the connection would provide the only route from Main to Eight Mile Road between Clement Road and Rogers Street. He believed that would generate additional automobile and truck traffic on a dangerously narrow roadway, as well.

Bauss said he wanted to work with the city and residents. He said he would make certain concessions, such as converting the road extension into private driveways. He said the private drives would not be for through-traffic and there could be indicators that would designate the road extension as being private.

"There is going to have to be some give and take on both sides," Bauss said. "I fully agree the land is beautiful, but I believe the way Caldwell abuts Dubuar that it was intended to be connected eventually."

Bauss said the commission indicated to him the road would possibly have to be widened to 30 feet and be private. He said the commission also wanted his plan to address the city's tree ordinance. In addition, the commission wanted him to continue coordinating the stormwater management with the city.

"In regard to any aspect of the plan, I will and have followed the set ordinances," Bauss said. "I have already and will continue to work with the city on the storm water management. Trees will be lost, but the city ordinance states they must be replaced and this will happen."

Holleman said the existing hillside and woods would have to be destroyed. He said the oak, maple, ash and walnut trees are among the finest historic trees in the city.

Bauss is expected to appear before the planning commission again on Sept. 18.

Broe Tabernacle choir entertains OLP crowd

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

Northville's Our Lady of Providence received a special performance by the Broe Tabernacle Therapeutic Choir Aug. 22.

Len McCulloch, director of psychological services at Broe Rehabilitation Services Inc. and creator director of the choir, said 14 of the choir members and four members of the touring staff sang for approximately 65 developmentally disabled women who are residents of Our Lady of Providence. The performance lasted about 90 minutes.

McCulloch said members of the Broe Tabernacle Therapeutic Choir have each sustained some form of traumatic brain injury during their life.

We really caught their attention," said McCulloch. "It was like one group of disabled people entertaining another group. The response was very good. It really was."

The choir performed in the chapel of Our Lady of Providence. McCulloch said audience members at actively participated and interacted with the choir during the performance.

"They sang with us and they clapped along with us," he said.

"It was a very uplifting experience for all of our group joining up with their group."

Northville is new home for Ecuadorian student

3By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

"I'm looking forward to seeing what school is like here."

Celia Burbano
Ecuadorian exchange student

The world just got a little bigger for Celia Burbano.

Burbano, 18, a foreign exchange student from Ecuador, will be residing and attending school in Northville as part of the Rotary Youth Exchange Program.

As part of the exchange program, Burbano will stay with three Northville host families throughout her visit.

Joanne Inglis, youth exchange officer with the Northville Rotary Club, said accommodations with the first family have already been established. However, an additional two host families will be needed to volunteer.

Inglis said having exchange students live with several families serves an important purpose.

"With the Rotary program, we do encourage the students to stay with 2-3 families so that they can learn more about the American culture by having different experiences with different families," she said.

Currently, Burbano is staying with Sue and Bob Taylor and their two children, Stacey and Scott, in Northville.

According to Sue Taylor, Burbano will be staying with her family for approximately three months.

Burbano will be joined by two additional Rotary exchange students at Northville High School.

According to Inglis, Matthias Wiesmann and Chitra Djaja also had the opportunity to travel to the Northville area through the Rotary organization. Wiesmann, who is from Germany is sponsored through the Detroit Rotary Club. Djaja, a resident of Indonesia is sponsored by the Plymouth Rotary club. Inglis said both students will be attending Northville High School because their host families live in the Northville school district.

Burbano, who arrived in Michigan in mid-August, said she is anticipating the beginning of the school year.

"I'm looking forward to seeing what school is like here," she said.

Spending time abroad as a foreign exchange student is not a new experience for Burbano. She spent three months studying in Germany in 1999.

Burbano said she has already graduated high school in her native land of Ecuador, but she is interested in participating in American high school courses.

Some of her classes will include courses in German, chemistry, math and art classes.

Burbano will be spending a year studying at Northville High School and said she decided to become involved as a Rotary exchange student before beginning college.

"Last year I had so much to do," said Burbano. "I had so much stress. I just needed a break."

Since her arrival, she has visited a number of Northville hot spots including the high school and Custard Time.

Burbano said she has visited her new school for registration and orientation sessions.

"[The school's] really big," she said. "I like it. It's brand new. I think I'm going to get lost."

Students are selected to participate in the Rotary Youth Exchange Program after undergoing an interview process from their local rotary club.

Inglis said the foreign exchange students must abide by several rules during their visit. She said students are not allowed to drink alcohol, use drugs, drive, or date. If these rules are not adhered to, the students are sent home immediately, Inglis said.

According to Inglis, families that volunteer to host a foreign student in their home are asked to provide the student with a few basic requirements.

"What we ask of the host families is to provide lodging, food, love and support," said Inglis. "The students have their own

LET'S TALK Jewelry WITH GARY S. WEINSTEIN GEMOLOGIST

THE MORE, THE MERRIER!

After several seasons, during which minimalist jewelry has been popular, the latest trend calls for women to wear multiple, mismatched necklaces around their necks. This mix-and-match approach, which began among starlets and models, allows long chains to be worn with chunky and strands of crystal to go with leather cords. The resultant "funky" look has a decidedly 60's feel to it. For those who prefer to stick to a classic look, the multi-necklace trend can consist of strands of the same family - gold, for instance. For a quirkier reflection of personal style, try wearing favorite charms on metal chains. This represents the millennium version of the charm bracelet. In any case, the look is distinctively personal.

OLP crowd wowed by special choir performance

The Broe Tabernacle Therapeutic Choir sang a variety of songs including traditional, folk and spiritual selections.

McCulloch said the performance was so touching that some audience members were moved to tears.

"There were a lot of tears shed. It was really touching," he said. "There's a real therapeutic experience that occurs whenever we perform."

He also said various gifts and prizes including a bike helmet, balloons, crayons and colored markers were distributed.

"That went over real well," he said.

McCulloch said the month of October will mark the three year anniversary for performing in schools, hospitals and centers for disabled people. The choir does two public performances a month and rehearsals are hosted every week, he said.

The choir and its performances have key objectives.

"It raises their self-esteem a great deal...and resocializes them to go back into the community."

Len McCulloch
Broe Rehabilitation Services, Inc.

McCulloch said, "The mission is three-fold: to provide therapeutic experience for our choir members, raise community awareness about brain injury and provide entertainment pleasing to the listening audience."

He added that the performance not only have an impact on the listeners, but on the choir members as well.

"We find that it's very therapeutic," said McCulloch. "It raises their self-esteem a great deal, exercises their brain and it resocializes them to go back into the community."

Since the choir's inception, the choir has grown to 24 members. The group has also recorded three CD's and two television videos, said McCulloch.

The choir is also slated to perform at the state capitol building in October.

"On Oct. 2, our choir will be kicking off head injury awareness month in Michigan by performing at the state capitol building for the entire legislative body and 1500 other invitees from various rehabilitation centers in Michigan," said McCulloch.

The choir is based out of Broe Rehabilitation Services Inc., which is located at 33634 W. Eight Mile Road Farmington Hills.

Judges unite to fight holiday drunk driving

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

Oakland and Wayne counties as well as other community groups have pledged to work together to keep area streets safer.

"This is a challenging issue, but we are glad the courts are stepping up to the plate," said Jenny Lozano, Wayne County Chapter Administrator for Mothers Against Drunk Driving. "This will be another tool in our fight against drunk driving."

A coalition of district courts from Oakland and Wayne as well as Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Jail Alternatives for Michigan and Michigan House Arrest have come together to expand the program entitled Courts Acting Together for the Community at the Holidays. According to Judge Brian MacKenzie of Oakland's 52-1 District Court, the purpose of CATCH is to increase the level of scrutiny upon those individuals who have been convicted of drunk driving and are under the supervision of one of the participating district courts.

"CATCH is based upon the Y2CARE program," MacKenzie said. "This program was very successful and we believed it could be expanded to include other major holidays throughout the year."

MacKenzie said Y2CARE was a program that involved 1,302 individuals, convicted of drunk driving in Oakland County who were required to participate in a testing program during the 1999-2000 New Year's Eve holiday. He said 1,214 of the 1,302 were tested. Nine of those tested individuals were positive for alcohol use and only two were legally intoxicated. Ninety-three percent of these at-risk individuals were confirmed as being sober, which MacKenzie said was a great accomplishment and because of this the program has been expanded.

MacKenzie said in the first full year of the CATCH program 3,609 individuals were ordered to appear for testing. He said 92 percent of these individuals appeared and only 44 tested positive for alcohol use and none for illegal drugs.

"The program allows the courts to better enforce the order of prohibiting the convicted individual from drinking," 19th District Court Judge William Runco said. "These specific holidays are high-risk times for drunk driving."

According to MacKenzie, the 35th District Court in Plymouth is also a part of the program and will join it for its second year. 35th District Court Judge Ronald Lowe said the court tried the program on a smaller scale and liked its success.

"I like this method because of its simplicity," Lowe said. "It can be a tool for judges to help make the roads safer. In addition, it will demonstrate to residents that we care about their safety outside of the courtroom."

The 35th District Court did conduct its own limited program with Lowe and Judge John MacDonald participating this past year. Lowe said on July 4, which he said is a holiday known to have a high rate of alcohol-related deaths, the benefits of the program became even more evident. Of the 107 ordered to participate during the holiday, 85 were tested and 22 did not show. Only two individuals tested had a blood-alcohol level of .01 percent or above, Lowe said.

The five holidays are Labor Day, Thanksgiving, New Year's Eve / Day, Memorial Day and Independence Day. Lowe said there were 165 individuals required to be tested over this upcoming Labor Day weekend. A person who is a no-show or tests positively could receive up to 17 days in jail, Lowe said.

MacKenzie said seven new alcohol sites have been created throughout the metro Detroit area for the CATCH program. These sites are staffed by members and volunteers of each organization. The ordered individuals are charged $5 per day for the testing so that no new tax dollars are used, MacKenzie said.

Ellis Island site unites resident with family history

By JENNIFER NORRIS
Staff Writer

Through the help of an Internet website, one Northville woman now has a link to discover details about her family's history of their immigration to America.

Teresa Folino has found out details of her grandparents' voyage to a new country by simply using a mouse and a keyboard.

The website, www.ellislandrecords.com, was practically a goldmine of information for Folino.

"I received notification that the Ellis Island records website was now activated," said Folino. "They've taken 20 million records of all the ships manifest which list all the people that immigrated to the United States through Ellis Island."

She said the manifests from are dated from 1896-1924.

After visiting the website, Folino said she was able to find out information on all four of her grandparents, two of which have lived in Northville for 40 to 50 years.

As a result of her Internet search, Folino discovered that both her grandfathers came to the United States on the same ship.

"We didn't even know it until the website became available," she said.

Also on the site, she said she was able to learn more extensive details about her relatives' voyage to America.

"It shows all kinds of very neat information," she said, adding that she was able to pull up information about the ship, its passengers, their general health, how much money they carried, where the immigrants' destination was and who their closest relative was in their original country.

"I spent hours on the site," said Folino. "It's just fascinating."

She said one of her grandfather's was in his 20s when he arrived in the United States. Her other grandfather was under age 10.

Folino was also able to find out the name of the boat and even day her family arrived.

She said all four of her grandparents came through Ellis Island from Italy.

Folino said the website has scanned copies of the ships' manifest, which is a ship's record of who is on board. She said that officials use a manifest as an official immigration record.

Folino said at some places on the website, visitors can see what newcomers wrote in the records.

"You can kind of get feeling of how proud they were to be coming to the United States to live," she said. "When asked how long they were going to stay in the United States a lot of them wrote 'forever.' It's very neat. It's tracking your heritage."

Folino said one of her grandmothers, Alfa Santavenera, 87, currently resides in Northville. Folino said Santavenera was three years old when she came over to the United States.

"She didn't remember all the things that I was able to find out on the website," said Folino. "She vaguely remembers being on the ship, but that's all she remembers because she was so young when she came over with her mother."

She also said that Ellis Island has a permanent reminder of her grandparents' arrival.

"I knew that my grandparents had all come over through Ellis Island," she said. "I purchased four commemorative plaques — one for each grandparent — that are now on the immigrants' wall that they have at Ellis Island."

Folino is a member of the Ellis Island Foundation and was pleased that such a website exists.

"It keeps us connected with what our ancestors went through to come to America," she said. Folino said she also found two or three of her great-grandparents and six of her great aunts and uncles via the website.

Folino also said the site offers a simple way to research information on your relatives.

"I think it's very easy to use," she said. "They allow you to search in a number of ways so you can be successful in finding your family."

Local historian and newspaper columnist Barbara G. Louie has composed a highly readable and informative text, with over 120 accompanying black and white illustrations, that chronicles the story of Northville's development from a struggling mill town in the 1820s to an affluent bedroom community of the Motor City.

Whether a weary urbanite seeking respite from the city's frenetic pace or a longtime resident of this small-town gem, readers will certainly find this history an appropriate celebration of Northville's distinguished heritage and traditions. ("Northville, Michigan" by Barbara G. Louie.)

Books may be purchased from Mill Race Village general store on Sundays, from 1-4 p.m. through
Oct. 21 or from the office in the Cady Inn Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.; 40 percent of the proceeds will help to maintain the village at Mill Race.

spending money."
She also said that the Rotary organization will provide medical insurance.

Inglis will be acting as Burbano's counselor during her time in Northville.

The Rotary club also provides support, said Inglis, adding that Burbano will be attending Rotary lunches every other week and also travel places with the Rotarians. There is even a trip to Cedar Point planned.

Inglis said she has also hosted an exchange student for three months in 2000.

"It was a great experience," she said. "I know we'll do it again.
We'll definitely do it again. I just don't know when."

Inglis said students participating in such programs gain insight about people and the world around them.

She said one of the key points is students "learning about another culture and [learning] that people around the world really aren't that different."

"The best way to increase world peace is for people to know each other and to understand each other's customs."

Northville residents interested in volunteering to host an exchange student can call (248)

Obituaries

FLORENCE L. DARLAK

Florence Louise (Wimmer) Darlak, 89, of Southfield, formerly of Farmington Hills and Detroit, died Aug. 21 in Botsford Hospital, Farmington Hills. She was born Aug. 9, 1912, in South Lyon.

Mrs. Darlak was a graduate of Western High School in Detroit. She was employed for 15 years as a billing clerk at J.L. Hudson's in downtown Detroit. Mrs. Darlak was a member of St. Gerald Catholic Church in Farmington. She owned a cottage at Lake Chemung for 60 years, and was an avid golfer, bowler, and Bridge player.

She is survived by her adopted Swiss family: Alice and Franz Boos and their children, Monika, Andrea and Markus, and granddaughter, Christina; two sisters-in-law, Amelia Wimmer and Sarah Wimmer; nieces and nephews: Donald Wimmer of Texas, Patricia (Frank) Magdich of Northville, Kenneth Wimmer of Port Sanilac, Barbara (Thomas) Schmidt of Schwartz Creek, Gerald (Sabine) Wimmer of Howell, and Ann Marie (Ed) Sullivan of New Hampshire.

Mrs. Darlak was preceded in death by her husband, Stanley in 1994.

A funeral Mass was celebrated on Friday, Aug. 24 at St. Gerald Catholic Church, with the Rev. Gerald McEnhill of St. Gerald officiating.

Interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, Southfield.

Arrangements were made by Thayer-Rock Funeral Home of Farmington.

Memorials to The Capuchins, 1820 Mount Elliott Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48207-3496 would be appreciated by the family.

MURIEL J. EMERY

Muriel J. Emery of the Northville area died Aug. 21 in Novi at the age of 86. She was born Oct. 1, 1914, to George I. and Maude R. (Sims) Price of Detroit.

Mrs. Emery was a homemaker and a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

She is survived by her daughters, Linda (Richard) Burton of Northville and Esther (Robert) Kerr of Novi; three sisters, Dorothy Myers of Northville, Virginia Lester of Georgia, and Peggy Helney of Plymouth; five grandchildren, Melissa Barker, Jonathan Burckard, Christine Reyes, Robert Kerr, and Daniel Kerr; and five great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Emery was preceded in death by her husband, G. Merrill in 1960. They were married in December 1939.

Services were held on Saturday, Aug. 25 at Redford Baptist Church. The Rev. Danny Langley of Redford Baptist Church and the Rev. James Russell of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiated.

Interment was in Acacia Memorial Park of Beverly Hills, Mich.

Arrangements were made by Casterline Funeral Home Inc. of Northville.

The family would appreciate memorials to the American Cancer Society, 18505 W. Twelve Mile Road, Southfield, MI 48076 or the American Lung Association, 26555 Evergreen Road, Suite 375, Southfield, Mich. 48076.

JAMES H. JARVIS

James H. Jarvis, 70, died Aug. 25 in St. Mary's Hospital, Grand Rapids. He was born Aug. 25, 1931, in Detroit.

Mr. Jarvis served with the United States Air Force from 1949 to 1952. He was an X-ray technician with several nursing homes in the area prior to his retirement.

He is survived by a daughter, Diana Lee of Stafford, Va.; two stepdaughters, Kathryn McCray of Virginia Beach, Va., and Deborah Spannagel of Piconning; mother, Madeline Drake of Northville; one sister, Sharon Perry of Northville; and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Jarvis was preceded in death by his father, Chester Jarvis.

Visitation will be Thursday, Aug. 30, from 10 a.m. until time of services at 2 p.m. in the Northrop-Sassaman Funeral Home, 19091 Northville Road. The Rev. Gordon Nusz of the First United Methodist Church in Northville will officiate.

Memorial contributions to the charity of your choice would be appreciated.

MARIE I. WILLIAMSON

Marie Isobel William, 63, formerly of Northville, died Aug. 25 at her residence in Sunfield, Mich. She was born June 14, 1938, in Hamilton, Scotland, to Arthur and Agnes Cherry (Black) Baxter.

In 1960, Mrs. Williamson graduated in home economics from Queens College, Glasgow, Scotland, and went on to teach for four years. Her interests included a girl guide leader, volunteer social worker, a tutor to Asian refugee school children in Canada, a soup kitchen cook, active in the meals on wheels program, and a member of St. Joseph's Church choir in Chatham, Ontario.

Mrs. Williamson is survived by her husband, John, whom she married in June 1963; daughters, Fiona Williamson, Valerie Barbour, and Maureen Brown; one son, John; and four grandchildren, Brianna, Garrett, Hannah, and Madeleine.

A funeral Mass was celebrated on Wednesday, Aug. 29 at St. Edward Catholic Church in Lake Odessa, Mich.

Arrangements were made by Rosier Funeral Home, Mapes-Fisher Chapel of Sunfield, Mich.

Staff Writer

Two motorcyclists were killed in mid-August in traffic related accidents with the hit-and-run still under investigation.

The first accident occurred in Novi Township at about 9:30 p.m. Aug. 17, at the intersection of Eight Mile Road and Chase Drive.

Northville resident, Kenneth Dittmore, was traveling westbound on Eight Mile Road through the intersection when a 17-year-old Novi resident waiting to turn left onto Chase Drive began executing his turn. At that point, he was struck by Dittmore.

According to a statement taken by Novi Police, a witness said Dittmore, 31, was traveling at a high speed and increasing speed "doing wheelies on the roadway."

The 17-year-old driver told police he did not see Dittmore coming nor did he see a headlight.

The witness statement said it appeared that Dittmore was doing wheelies at the time of impact.

The next day, at about 11:15 p.m., Doug Logan of Clarkston was riding eastbound on Interstate 96 just west of Novi Road when he was struck by an out-of-control vehicle, said Sgt. Malcolm Irwin of the Michigan State Police Metro North Post.

"It could have been a drunk driver," Irwin said.

Irwin continued to say that was speculation as the accident remains under investigation.

After the cyclist was hit, the driver of the out-of-control vehicle fled the scene. A witness told troopers it was a white pick-up truck.

According to statistics compiled by the Oakland County Sheriff Department, motorcycle accidents resulting in fatalities have increased about 45 percent statewide from 1988 to 1999, the last year statistics were recorded.

"In reality crashes are down, but fatalities are dramatically up," said Michael J. Bouchard, Oakland County Sheriff.

Motorcycle accident injuries are more severe than any other vehicle injuries.

"Serious motorcycle accidents are predominantly due to operator error," Bouchard said. "Many of the single vehicle accidents are often young drivers who outrun their skill level."

Victoria Sadlocha is a staff writer for the Novi News. She can be reached at (248) 349-1700, ext. 05 or at vsadlocha@hl.homecomm.net.

City roadwork hoped to be done before VicFest

Thursday, August 30, 2001-NORTHVILLE RECORD-13A

Workers continue construction along Griswold Street in Northville last week. Roadwork in Northville is hoped to be completed in time for the Victorian Festival in mid-September.

By LON HUHMAN
Staff Writer

During Northville's Victorian Festival the streets are filled with visitors and residents. However, will downtown streets currently under construction be completed by the weekend of the festival?

The two streets of major concern that are currently under construction are Randolph and Griswold. Randolph is a city street and Griswold is being reconstructed by Wayne County. Northville city director of public works James Gallogly said these projects are expected to be finished before mid-September.

He said spot repairs and the asphalt base is being placed at this time. Minor repair work is also being conducted on the bridge over the Randolph drain. In addition, a retaining wall will be constructed near Eight Mile Road.

"Work on Randolph should be done by Sept. 6 and then there will be cleanup work conducted the following week," Gallogly said. "We are confident the entire project should be done in time for the Victorian Festival."

The complete reconstruction of East Cady Street from Griswold to East Main Street is expected to be done by the festival, as well. The section of Cady will have a full depth layer of asphalt over it. South Morgan Circle has also been reconstructed with a new layer of concrete.

Reconstruction of Griswold and its bridge is supposed to be wrapping up in early September, as well. Gallogly said the work on Griswold is now on track and workers are now in the process of re-paving it. Wayne County spokesperson John Roach said the Griswold project is expected to be done no later than Sept. 10.

A new water main has been installed underneath Baseline Road. Gallogly said the water main is now being tested. Should the test prove successful, it should be able to be connected. He said Baseline should be useable by mid-September.

The city will also be constructing a new roadway into the Rural Hill Cemetery starting in September, which is expected to be completed in October. A 27-foot wide asphalt road will be constructed from Fairbrook Road over the city bridge above Johnson Creek into the cemetery. The project is being funded through an agreement with Northville Laboratories, which will fund the project in exchange for a parcel of land to the east of Rural Hill Drive.

Gallogly said the crack sealing work on the city's major and local streets will begin when cooler weather sets in. He said this type of work has more success during the cool, fall weather and will only take three days to complete. The city's sidewalk projects, primarily in the Cabbagetown area, will begin soon as well.

The Victorian Festival will be held the weekend of Sept. 14, 15 and 16.

Stewart, McCotter steamed over district boundaries

By MIKE MALOTT
HomeTown News Service
mmalott@homecomm.net

What was a political process with legal constraints has now become a legal process with political consequences. State Sen. Thaddeus McCotter said, concisely summarizing the status efforts to redraw for legislative and congressional district boundaries.

The Michigan House and Senate hadn't even wrapped up work on bills drawing those boundaries, in the once-a-decade process of reapportionment, when the plans drew their first legal challenge.

Detroit attorney Thomas Lewand, an aide to former Gov. James Blanchard, filed suit Wednesday, July 11, in U.S. District Court over the state legislature's plans for new congressional district boundaries. He said he also expects another case will be filed in the state courts.

"Democrats have to sue," said McCotter, R-Livonia. "They'd be remiss if they didn't." With Republicans in control of both chambers of the legislature as well as the governor's office, a Republican plan had been expected. But McCotter also says he believes the plans been crafted well enough under state and federal standards that they'll withstand the legal assault.

But before the plans won final approval Thursday, July 12, and were sent to the governor for his signature, they also set off a series of intramural squabbles in the GOP.

State Rep. Andrew Raczkowski, R-Farmington, contends the senate drew plans for a new non-incumbent 11th Congressional District for McCotter. Although Raczkowski is also interested in running for that open seat himself, his current power base, in Farmington and Farmington Hills was specifically drawn out of the district. He contends the lines were part of deal between McCotter and Senate Majority Leader Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, in which McCotter led the ouster of David Jaye and will endorse DeGrow's bid for Attorney General, in return for that district.

McCotter denies the charge. DeGrow called it "ludicrous."

Because in Congress candidates are not required to be residents of the district in which they run, Raczkowski said he'll challenge McCotter anyway.

Rep. Patricia Godchaux, R-Birmingham, has already announced her candidacy for state senate. She's term limited out of the House of Representatives in the coming elections in 2002. And the legislative plan adopted by lawmakers tosses her into the same district with incumbent State Sen. Shirley Johnson, R-Royal Oak.

Godchaux said she will run anyway, even if it mean's she'll have to challenge another Republican.

"She (Johnson) had something to say about it because the Senate drew its own plans. I didn't," Godchaux said.

"We'll see," Johnson said, responding to the idea Godchaux might run against her. "She also said she was going to be the speaker of the House."

Rep. John Stewart, R-Plymouth, has been verbal in his objections over the way the state House plan for his district has been drawn. The new boundaries include Northville and Plymouth, connected to the City of Wayne by what Stewart calls a "14-mile dog leg."

His verbal objections turned into shouting at a conference committee meeting Tuesday, July 11, and were directed at Rep. Bruce Patterson, R-Canton, chair of the House redistricting committee. Stewart is critical of Patterson over the speed with which the plans have been approved and a lack of public input.

Others in the GOP however were critical of Stewart's outburst from the audience in that committee meeting. One staffer labeled the incident "bizarre."

By week's end, Stewart was avoiding further arguments with Patterson.

"I want to be known as a team player," he said. He eventually voted for the plan even though his district boundaries had not been changed.

State lawmakers approved legislative redistricting in party-line votes before the Senate, 20-13, and the House, 55-48, Thursday, July 12. Gov. John Engler has promised to sign the bill.

Congressional boundaries were wrapped up Thursday in party-line voting 19-14 in the Senate and 55-40 in the House.

Lewand argued that the plans will produce Republican majorities in the House, Senate and congressional delegation when the state overall is much more competitive than that. Based on voting the in last presidential election, he said voters in Michigan are actually 53 percent Democratic.

But the congressional delegation, as drawn, would give Republicans nine of Michigan's 15 seats. He said open seats were drawn for McCotter and Secretary of State Candice Miller, expected to run in Macomb County's 10 congressional district.

Meantime, the plan puts several Democratic incumbent congress members into districts with other incumbents. U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-Dearborn, is in the same district with Rep. Lynn Rivers, D-Ann Arbor. Rep. Dale Kildee, D-

Flint is in the same district with Rep. James Barcia, D-Bay City. Rep. Sander Levin, D-Southfield, is in the same district with Rep. David Bonior, D-Mount Clemens; although Bonior is running for governor.

In the state House, where Republicans enjoy a 58-52 majority over Democrats, the new plan is expected to give the GOP a 65-member majority. Plans for the State Senate are expected to maintain the GOP's 23-15 edge.

Lewand said he will challenge the plans on constitutional grounds as well as on the basis of alleged violations of the federal Voting Rights Act.

color, year, make, body type, additional details and license number. Additional details can include such things as the vehicle having rust or if it had any damage. Hetu said remembering the meaning of CYMBALS allows a person to give a better vehicle description when reporting it to police.

"We can't be everywhere all the time, so with the neighborhood watch residents can act as our eyes and ears," Werth said.

district and 2,146 students in elementary grades. The middle school student population totals 1,371 and Northville High School has 1,620 students. The enrollment figures were accurate of Aug. 17, he said.

Northville students also shared the excitement of beginning a new school year.

"It was interesting," said Andrew Moore, a sophomore at Northville High School. "It's sort of a relief to be back at school because my days will be less hectic."

Moore said the final weeks of his summer recess were filled with cross country practice, band practice and other student activities.

"It's nice to be back and see all the same people I knew from last year," he said. "The summer went by very quickly."

Moore also said he was looking forward to upcoming football games and taking an advanced placement government and politics course.

On the first day of school, Northville High School hosted a school-wide pep rally.

"It was just a quick, formal introduction into the school year," said Moore.

Junior Peter Kelley said he enjoyed the event.

"It was nice to have a pep rally to start the year off," said Kelley, adding that the summer recess break went by quickly for him.

Chris Wilson, a freshman at Northville High School, was one of the newest students getting acquainted with the school building and teachers.

"It was interesting," said Wilson, saying he didn't get lost but found it was difficult to maneuver through the crowds and stairwells.

Northville teachers also welcomed the start of a brand-new academic year.

"It was a good day," said Cynthia Henderson, a special education instructor at Northville High School. "They were upbeat and ready to get started."

Other teachers agreed.

"I'm just excited as heck," said Richard Deskovitz, a high school instructor, adding that he was helping point students towards their destination on the first day.

"I try to stay out in the hallway and direct the students," he said.

Deskovitz also said that he not only looked forward to working with students this year but with the newly formed administrative team.

"We've got a great staff here and a great administration," he said.

"The exciting thing this year is Dennis [Colligan] being principal. He has direction, he has leadership and he has the respect of the staff."

Henderson also said she enjoyed the first day of classes.

"It's always refreshing to see the new faces," she said.

Parking question puts deal on hold

Board members also said while they were grateful of the donation being offered to the district, however the parking issue needs to be addressed.

"The board recognizes that this is very significant donation on the part of Mr. Sakwa and we are very appreciative," said Jerry Rupley, treasurer of the Northville school board. "In a perfect world we would have no restrictions [but] Mr. Sakwa has very legitimate interests with respect to the property and he's the one making the gift."

"[It's] primarily parking we're concerned about. We simply want to make sure that we don't agree to something that we can't live with down the road."

Board vice-president Tom Gudritz agreed.

"Everything in the agreement was acceptable except for the clause that related to overflow parking and the desire that there not be any overflow parking in the residential areas," said Gudritz. "In our district, we have a very high level of parent participation."

He said that the school would experience high volumes of cars when teachers and parents attend events such as open house and Christmas pageants.

"In events like that there wouldn't be enough parking," he said. "We wouldn't have a parking lot large enough for all the parents."

Gudritz added that the developer had already reduced the size of the proposed parking lot.

This issue prompted a board discussion and a delay in deciding the fate of the land donation.

"We just want to make sure we're not promising something we can't live up to," said Gudritz. "I'm sure we can add wording to the agreement to alleviate this concern."

Gudritz also said it's important to reach an agreement that will be satisfactory for generations to come.

"I think the developer and ourselves can work together very effectively, but later we don't want residents to hold us to something we knew we couldn't live up to," he said. "We believe we have a good working relationship with Mr. Sakwa. [However,] 20 years from now, people may read the agreement and try to go by the letter of the agreement. We know there will be some overflow parking in the residential areas during special events which is probably three to four times a year. We just feel the agreement should reflect that reality."

Gudritz said the board members were reasonably comfortable with the remainder of the agreement presented to the district.

Gudritz said the land donation was in an ideal location for the district. The district plans to build a sixth elementary school on that land, if the September bond proposal is passed by voters.

"It's a very generous gift," said Gudritz. "It's land that is well-placed in the district."

He said that representatives from the district and the developer will try to come up with language that mutually acceptable for both parties.

Board members have also set a tentative date to make their decision.

"What we intend to do is approve this on Sept. 11th," said Gudritz. "We want to approve this as soon as possible. If we can come to agreement this week then we might approve it at a special call meeting next Tuesday (Sept. 4)."

Rupley said if the parking issue is resolved, he would be in favor of approving the land donation.

"The representatives will talk and hopefully get this resolved," said Rupley. "We have every intention of working with all the parties to resolve the issue to everyone's satisfaction."

Jennifer Norris is a staff writer for the Northville Record. She can be reached at (248) 349-1700 ext. 107 or by e-mail at jnorris@ht.homecomm.net.

Firefighters look for home for new fire station

members work each shift throughout the day and night at station two.

Zhmendak said the most important thing to remember in regards to the decision pertaining to the future placements of stations is response time. He said the national standard for emergency and fire response is four minutes. Because Station No. 1 is not regularly staffed, response times to the eastern section of the township are much greater than the national standard.

According to Zhmendak, response times for the northeast quarter of the township around the Eight Mile, Seven Mile and Haggerty roads area is nearly 12 minutes, which is due to such things as traffic and railroad crossings. Zhmendak said that time was not acceptable. He said constructing a new station at Six and Sheldon would help decrease it. In addition, he said there was a future need to establish a station in the northeast area.

"Long-term, the northeast area of the township will need a station that should be staffed 24 hours," Zhmendak said. "The strategic plan evaluation addresses in all four options this by showing the possible placement of a fire station east of the psychiatric hospital on Seven Mile Road."

Zhmendak said the Northville Psychiatric Hospital area is especially in need of a 24-hour station because of the amount of senior citizens who live in the vicinity in such places as Silver Springs Drive and American House. He said seniors require more medical attention and in turn, quicker response time is needed. The need for a station in the northeast quadrant was shared by the township board of trustees as well.

Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said the possible extension of Winchester Road to Seven Mile and a station near the extension would be a great improvement for the response times. She said the township board of trustees and planning commission was contemplating extending Winchester from Six Mile to Seven Mile. Another issue aroused by the preliminary analysis was the type of facility to be built at Six and Sheldon.

Hobbs and Black presented the Auburn Hills Public Safety Building as a possible model for a future township public safety building, which would have both police and fire under one roof. Zhmendak said he had no problem with the concept, but he has concerns the concept may sacrifice some necessary functional needs. Township firefighters Guy Balok and Chris Madzik agreed with the possible locations set by the plan, but they both disagreed with the Auburn Hills model.

Balok is the president of the Northville Township Professional Firefighters Union, IAFF Local 3961 and Madzik is vice-president.

"The Six Mile and Sheldon roads locations is, in our opinion, a perfect location for a fire department headquarters," Balok said. "However, three of the four options create a public safety or police and fire facility at this location. In theory our union can support this option, but we feel the example given by Hobbs and Black of their development for Auburn Hills Public Safety Building is completely inadequate for Northville Township."

Balok said the Auburn Hills model was unfit because the facility had no allotment in the fire department portion of the building for berthing since it did not function as a 24-hour professionally staffed department. Balok and Madzik were concerned that would become the reality and the township would be left without sufficient training, living and parking space. Zhmendak said he agreed a public safety building would function well since both departments work together a lot of the time. Overall, the fire department agreed that the other crucial long-term issue is the need for additional staffing to meet the service needs of an ever-growing population.

"We want to provide the best level of service that we can and be compliant with national emergency standards," Zhmendak said. "Our goal is to be proactive rather than having to react to problems and be forced into a situation. In my time here this has been the case and we would like to keep it that way in order to prevent unnecessary problems or fatalities."

NPH controversy gets stickier yet

If there's been one constant through Michigan history under Gov. John Engler, it's that privatization is the name of the game. Mr. Engler has, on several occasions, handed what once was a government function over to private hands, often in the name of saving tax dollars and removing red tape.

In Northville Township, the most obvious facility marked with the privatization bullseye is Northville Psychiatric Hospital. For several years during Mr. Engler's occupation of the governor's office, we've written stories on the fate of the state-run mental health facility. This week, the story took a substantial turn, as State Rep. John Stewart said he had learned a sale of the building and grounds could be imminent.

Mr. Stewart, R-Plymouth, said he reached that conclusion after a conversation with Michigan Community Health director James Haveman, who Mr. Stewart said had indicated a general phasing-out of NPH's operations was underway.

"I was disappointed and surprised with the layoffs, but not too surprised because of the reductions that have occurred there in recent history," Stewart said. "I think the state needs to revisit our commitment to mental health. In regard to the Northville Psychiatric Hospital there is every indication that it is being phased out."

That would be alarming, but Mr. Stewart's view wasn't necessarily shared by others.

It wasn't shared by Michigan Community Health spokesperson Geraldyn Lasher.

"The hospital will remain in operation and it will not be closed down in the foreseeable future," Ms. Lasher said. "Despite the layoffs, there are still hundreds of individuals employed at the hospital."

It wasn't shared by State Sen. Thaddeus McCotter, R-Livonia, who said he wasn't aware of any effort to close the hospital in the foreseeable future.

Determining whether or not Mr. Stewart is correct in his belief, when people so close to the hospital's operations deny the assertion that the hospital's future is finite, is difficult to do.

Mr. Stewart's claim is a bold one, and can't be taken lightly. Similarly, Ms. Lasher's rebuttal of Mr. Stewart's claim seems equally convincing.

Who's right? That will likely be determined in the next few months, when (if Mr. Stewart's statement proves out) the "for sale" notices start popping up on NPH grounds.

What's clear to us, above and beyond all else, is the continuation of privatization.

The mere fact NPH's name continues to be thrown around tells us it's not off Mr. Engler's radar screen by a long shot.

Tax refund has some major catches

Were the tax rebate checks President Bush approved ($600 for married couples, $500 for single parents, and $300 for all other taxpayers) really a tax relief for America's workers and also a means to jump-start a lagging economy?

According to Citizens for Tax Justice, about 34 million taxpayers (26 percent) won't get any rebate at all, though they are subject to a payroll tax (FICA) on the first dollar they earn, while another 17 million (12 percent) will get only partial rebates, averaging about half of the advertised amounts.

I understand that over $30 million were spent to notify taxpayers by letter that they would be receiving a tax rebate. The letter, incidentally, showed that "President George W. Bush signed into law the Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001." Thus, we are made fully aware who our benefactor was.

The U.S. Treasury will have dispersed $38 billion to fund the rebates. We now learn that the government will have to dip into the Medicare and, subsequently, the Social Security fund if promises made by the administration to increase funds for defense, education, prescription drugs for Medicare recipients, etc., are to be honored.

Alfred P. Galli

If you're young, stay young and well

I have to agree with last week's letter from [Alfred] Galli that investing part of your Social Security in the stock market could lead to disaster.

What little fortune we have is a result of real estate and the stock market investments. I am sure the average person won't be as lucky as we have been.

In my first partnership we bought 100 acres for $720 per acre. In a few years, we sold it and netted $540,000 and we thought we made a killing. Today, one client received $840,000 for 20 acres. I told him to take the cash and run. The little guy is out today around Northville.

We had a bank stock that rose five times over purchase price. Those days are over as bank stock are out of favor. My richest client just sold one-half of his drug stock that cost $1,465 for $63,000.

Most investors won't hold good stocks for 30 years to appreciate like that. Today we have a bunch of nervous Nellies that sell if the stock goes up a few dollars.

We have never owned any Ya-hoo stock. We have solid old time stocks, reinvest the dividends and when the stock splits, you might make out but you have no guarantee.

Us old-timers are waiting for the other shoe to drop. We hope we are wrong as we will all get hurt.

My advice to all young people, don't get old and don't get sick.

Dean H. Lenheiser

Where is the land to be protected?

An excellent letter from David Skrbina, Aug. 23, it seems the city planners and movers decided big was good. No thought to maintaining the uniqueness of Northville - build and become another suburb.

It's true, 10 years have brought about tremendous changes but city planners (?) neglected to plan, only expand. As a result, it's not enough. A new large high school - inadequate so now another bond is needed. Mr. Skrbina is correct. There is no protected land to protect. Its growth has gone unchecked and his suggestions to maintain taxes, at a reasonable rate, protect our environment should be required reading by city leaders, and then seriously consider the actions which have led us to this situation. It will be hard to convince us that a school bond vote is the answer to all that ails us.

F. Walling

Read the Second Amendment, folks

In response to "Concealed weapons-Legislature's actions are inexcusable" (July 8) — do you really believe that the Michigan legislature passed the CCW law without the consent of the people? Unless you're from out of state this issue has been brewing for some years now.

If the citizens didn't want this law why didn't they contact their elected officials at the proper time voicing their opposition to it? Better yet, why didn't they vote those that supported this law out in the last election? For your information, not one elected official who supported this law lost in the last election. The referendum brought about by the so-called "People Who Care About Kids" and some elitist, freedom hating, anti-self-defense politicians and clergy members was another chance of stopping this law. That's two chances in which this law could've been stopped. You're also probably going to get another chance to vote this law down by way of an initiative if the anti-self-defense crowd gets the proper number of signatures.

What's your solution to this supposed legislative debacle? Should we send our elected officials home and have the people vote on everything? I, as well as many others, have grown tired of your arrogant brand of subterfuge when it comes to the issue of firearms. The readers deserve the truth, and nothing but the truth on this issue.

Finally, I'd advise you to research the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Article 1, Sec. 6 of the Michigan Constitution.

Jim White

Public tantrum isn't appropriate

I feel compelled as a taxpayer, citizen of Northville for nearly 13 years, and homeowner of 35-year-old home, to respond to Mr. Skrbina's letter to the editor last week. The theme of his letter berates school officials and township planners for allowing Northville's huge growth over the past 10 years. He loudly complains about how unfair it is for existing residents to have to pay for the outcomes of growth through their taxes and offers the suggestion that the costs for growth be passed on to developers and new homebuyers. Most of his ire seems directed at "school officials."

While I can appreciate his frustration with the effects of growth on this community, I am appalled at his public tantrum. He is correct in noting that former township officials did not anticipate a way to help taxpayers with the demands new growth would have on this community. It is difficult for me to believe that he does not know that his suggestion to pass these costs onto existing new homeowners at this point is not viable. Could he be trying to confuse and inflame the voters of Northville?

The Constitution protects private property owners; township officials zoned this property many years ago. The children are already in the schools and solutions need to be found now. The growth in Northville's population is affecting all the school children and will certainly have an affect on property values if we do not move forward with a solution.

As community members we can choose to be involved in actions that will make a positive impact on our community, or we can become immersed in anger because things have not gone our way. There are many circumstances in life that we cannot control, but we do have control of our responses to those circumstances. It is my hope that the voters in Northville will look carefully at the bond request and then vote for solutions that will benefit our community. Strong schools benefit all members of the community.

Diane Farquhar

Liberals aided by stem cell decision

The recent decision by Bush regarding stem cell research comports with his campaign promise not to federally fund research that would include destroying living human embryos. Bush's decision has made the liberal even more extreme in his shout and cry for more science.

It is clear and it is certain that George Bush had considerable help and advice in reaching the solution he has offered for the future of biology and medicine in stem cell research. To many of us, he has found a solution (and solution seems to be the right word) that can and will be scientific and rigorous. We can pursue the biomedical possibilities that show promise and avoid the unsophisticated and the gross.

Bush and his advisors did well in crafting the plan, a program of action, that we would do best to follow. The liberals after crying "foul" don't know what else to say or do. Their criticisms are hollow and wrongheaded. The silence today is deaf-

Summer and all its garden glory

In England, where they don't have much of it, these days at the end of August are called "high summer."

The Brits are right. Now is the height of the summer, especially here in Michigan.

Maybe because the sun is lower, the light has turned to golden, bringing out the strong colors of the black-eyed Susans and cardinal flowers that brighten the late summer gardens. The nights are getting cooler so the sleeping is better, certainly better than it was just a few weeks ago.

The farmers' markets are jam-packed with the bounty of the season — corn, peppers, eggplant, cantaloupe and watermelon, tomatoes, peaches, the first of the fall raspberries.

When I was a kid, my parents used to pack me off to summer camp, all seven weeks of it. Once I got over being homesick, I liked it OK. But to me, the high point of the summer was coming home in August. My father would grill steak in the back yard, my mother would make peach pie and I would eat corn on the cob to my heart's content. What a homecoming in high summer, especially after having to endure seven weeks of Mystery Meat, so beloved of so many camp cooks.

I've been thinking about all this in recent days because my wife, Kathy, and I have been experimenting with our vegetable garden this year.

Sure, we grow the standards: Rhubarb to greet the first warm days of spring in pies or stewed (my grandmother insisted it was the best spring tonic); fresh-dug potatoes, beets and carrots; sweet peas and green beans (what a lot of work for such a small yield of deliciousness); raspberries (ours bear in June and again in August and September).

Early this spring, Kathy pulled out the garden catalogue, smiled happily and announced: "This year we're going to grow heirloom tomatoes. I'm sick and tired of those miserable excuses for tomatoes we get in the supermarkets." So, heirloom tomatoes it was. And when the young plants arrived in April, they looked so miserable and slight in their black plastic pots!

We planted them with limited expectations. And for a while, they just sat there, looking grumpily at us. Then the weather warmed, we got a little rain and they just took off. Today, they've grown far beyond their cages and we've got heirloom tomatoes all over the place. And what tomatoes! Little cherry tomatoes, bright orange and so sweet as to remind me the tomato is a fruit, not a vegetable. Pinkish ones that look unripe at first but taste sensational when paired with a little olive oil and a couple of basil leaves. Bright golden little globes that burst with flavor, served alone or with a few grains of salt.

The intensity of flavor of these old varieties has been a revelation to us as the summer has come into its height.

All this has led me to reflect on what's happened to our eating over my 60-odd years.

Back when I was a little boy, our family diet varied with the season. In winter, when you couldn't get anything fresh at the store, we'd eat potatoes, Brussels sprouts and apples, things that would keep in the fruit cellar. And we'd eat all the vegetables from the garden that my mother canned the previous summer.

Come spring, we'd rejoice in the first fresh rhubarb. As summer came on, we'd eat all kinds of fresh fruits and vegetables, some fresh from my grandparents' garden, some from the store. In the fall, we'd have squash, cauliflower, turnips, plums and maybe some game (my father liked to hunt).

Today's supermarkets are crammed with all kinds of what might be called "industrial food." The freezers are filled with packages of frozen foods of all kinds, regardless of the season. "Fresh" produce is trucked in from California, or even flown in from South America or Israel.

Thanks to our modern food-growing and distribution system, we can eat what we want when we want, regardless of the season. I can get "fresh" tomatoes in the winter, but the varieties are selected for mass production, to be picked green and shipped long distance around the country in ethylene-filled containers. And I'll gladly trade a bite of a peach, sweet and juicy, picked fresh off the tree to the ones you see in the supermarkets off-season.

Kathy's heirloom tomatoes were bred when the idea of picking stuff before it was ripe and shipping it around the country was considered nonsense. That was a simpler time, certainly, but it also was a time of more vivid flavors and a family diet that seemed to fit the feel of the seasons as they turned.

I'm delighted some of the older varieties are coming back on the market.

Growing them and eating them subject to the discipline of the season and the uncertainties of the weather help keep us rooted in simple reality.

And they sure taste great!

Engler is a GOP asset in 2002

Michigan Republicans have in their arsenal for the 2002 elections one very potent weapon in Gov. John Engler.

Yes, it's true that he can't run again due to term limits, nor does he have his eye on any other elective office. But he most assuredly will still have a major impact on the outcome of the vote.

For one, Engler can anoint an heir apparent, which of course he has done in supporting Lt. Gov. Dick Posthumus.

But more importantly, he can warn off potential challengers. Yes, Sen. Joe Schwarz, R-Battle Creek, is in the race for now, but he's well behind and Engler is likely to keep out any others.

That's a very definite advantage in the contest for the GOP. Democrats, on the other hand, appear to be headed toward an August bloodletting.

Of the three top candidates — former Gov. Jim Blanchard, Attorney General Jennifer Granholm and Congressman David Bonior — Lansing pols say they don't see any reason why any of the three would back away from the race.

Two other contenders, Sens. Gary Peters and Alma Wheeler Smith, would cut up the vote even further.

While the Dem contenders are spending campaign bucks shooting at each other, a primary-less GOP would leave Republican voters free to crossover and cause mischief.

Still, Democrats don't have a party leader comparable to Engler, in a position to sit the contenders down and settle the question of who the party flag-bearer will be without a primary clash.

It can't come from the state party organization itself. The party keeps its hands off the primary, by policy and tradition.

Perhaps the job would fall to Michigan's most powerful and senior Democrat, Sen. Carl Levin. Levin politely declines.

"Gov. Engler is able to do that because he has real carrots and sticks," Levin said. Engler's influence comes from the fact he is governor, not because he's the head of the party, Levin said. The governor has plenty of time to hand out rewards and punishments, through support of legislation or by the naming of appointees to various state positions.

Levin, despite the influence he now holds as a senior member of the U.S. Senate and as the chair of two of its most powerful committees, does not have a way to hand out prizes or discipline in the same way.

Besides, Levin said, that kind of thing can backfire on the party. "Voters don't like that, when the candidate is chosen for them," he said.

That may be, but Democrats need to get back in the game in a state where Republicans have effectively seized control of all three branches of government. Partisans in Lansing say their best shot for quickly taking back a piece of the state apparatus, and bringing back a little balance in the Capitol, is the governor's race.

So that lack of leadership could well prove costly.

Many in the party worry that Blanchard could do very well in the primary, if for no other reason than that he has good name recognition, but that he would not do well the general.

And there is justification for the fear. A Blanchard-Posthumus runoff would Levin, despite the influence he now holds as a senior member of the U.S. Senate and as the chair of the two most powerful committees, does not have a way to hand out prizes or discipline in the same way.

quickly turn into a referendum on the Engler years versus the Blanchard years. It would essentially be a replay of the 1990 Blanchard-Engler contest.

Blanchard's service from 1982 to 1990 were not happy years. While it is true that you can't attribute that all to Blanchard — the economy was bad, he was saddled with huge budget deficits coming into office, and he had to hike the income tax — he still gets the blame.

Engler's margin in 1990 may have been small, but he has policies have proven popular with voters ever since. Starting with Proposal A in 1994 and continuing with some 30 tax cuts, Engler's has played the issue of tax reform to good effect.

Without party leadership that is willing to send a message to Blanchard, telling him that he has already had his day in the gubernatorial sun, he's not likely to get such a message.

Even if no Democrat has a position in which real "carrots and sticks" can be handed out, it might serve the party well if one of its elder statesmen stepped forward in an attempt to direct where the August primary is headed.

This is a land deal best left alone

In the end, the difference was a parking issue, but it wouldn't have made any difference to me if it was the planets being aligned just right or dinner not sitting well with some school board members. Frankly, I didn't care.

What I did care about, though, was the fact that the board didn't take Farmington Hills developer Grand Sakwa up on its offer to gift 15 acres of land to the district.

That's not to say the board won't do it, but it's definitely a sign that more thought was apparently needed on the deal, which would give the district the acreage in exchange for giving Grand Sakwa a fair amount of discretion as to the appearance of the school and its landscaping.

Chris C. Davis

And for that, I'm relieved, if only temporarily. Now I find myself hoping and praying that whatever factors it was that caused the board to take a "we-need-more-time" approach stick around and cause the board to take those temporary feelings of reluctance and make them permanent.

I've already received phone calls and letters on this issue. People have told me I'm nuts for suggesting the district pass up an offer to get free land in a community where acreage sells for a price that rivals the gross national product of some small countries. And I'm sure after writing this column that the mailbox will be stuffed once again.

But it's not going to change my opinion that a school district which fought in court for the right to have discretion over construction of its own buildings is doing the right thing by willingly handing over that same right to a private developer.

Make no mistake about it — there's absolutely nothing illegal about what the district is considering. A law passed in the state Senate last year grants the right for schools to accept gifts from developers, even if those gifts come with strings attached, as is the case with Northville and the Sakwa proposal.

It's not the legality that concerns me. It's the perception and the precedent.

Let's suppose, just for a second, that the district takes Grand Sakwa up on its offer. The district gets land for the sum of one dollar, but hands over enough construction authority that even turning over a spoonful of soil on sight before getting Grand Sakwa's approval could be a violation of the agreement.

And that's just the initial part. What really worries me is what happens down the road, when the district's actions have advertised its willingness to deal. Should another lawsuit be brought against the schools regarding zoning and construction (and you have to believe more schools are coming), don't think for a second that a smart attorney wouldn't have studied the district's past negotiations. I can very easily foresee the district's counsel doing a legal tap dance, trying to convince a judge that, yes — Northville schools aren't subject to local zoning laws, and in the same breath explain away why it was that that very same autonomy was willingly handed over to a developer. It'll be a regular Fred Astaire number.

■ Headline to letter misleading

I appreciate that the Record printed in full my letter last week, but I have a bit of an issue with the headline ("School leaders have lacked vision"). My point was not that school leaders lack vision (this is another issue), but that they are rather helplessly responding to lack of vision by the township planners, zoning department, and administration. It was the township that allowed and/or encouraged booming growth over the past 10-20 years. It was they who should have restricted new development, protected farmlands and open spaces, and preserved community quality of life. Barring this, we should have placed most of the cost burden on the developers and buyers of new homes. The latest school bond issue is only the first and most immediate effect of a more basic cause: years of poor planning and lack of vision for this community.

Make no mistake about it. I don't blame Grand Sakwa representatives one bit for making the overture, and I don't blame Grand Sakwa for attaching all the provisos and conditions to the terms of the deal that they are. Grand Sakwa is a developer — a company, which is motivated by the ability to make a profit. Gary Sakwa is looking out for the bottom line. That's what good businesses do.

But it takes two to tango here, and the school board is loaded with plenty of wisdom on its own. I only hope that the wisdom I know is there takes these next few days and sees the light, that Grand Sakwa's gift, however generous, just isn't worth taking.

Mustangs dominate North Farmington

Combination of Downing, Cornelius and Herpich too much for Raiders to

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

There are some good ways and there are some bad ways for a running back to start his career in varsity football — Northville Mustangs sophomore running back Tim Downing definitely started his varsity career in a very, very good way.

Downing took his first two touches of the pigskin into the endzone Friday night as the Mustangs refused to be tamed and handed the North Farmington Raiders a 41-12 spanking.

"I thought we played very, very well for us," Mustang coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We struggled through the preseason trying to find ourselves but we played well and did a nice job against North Farmington."

The Mustangs took to the scoreboard first after Raiders fumble left Northville looking to score from Farmington's 43-yard line. Six plays later Downing found the endzone after a 28-yard trot around the right end. Six plays later after a Raider punt, Downing took his second hand-off four yards across the goal line for another score. After quarterback Drew Herpich found Adam Dilley in the endzone for the conversion the scoreboard read Mustangs 14, Raiders zip.

"They didn't stay down long," Schumacher said.

They came back with a 65-yard pass from Hegstrom to Brian Johns to score.

The Raiders only other score came in the fourth quarter when Hegstrom and Johns connected again for a 35-yard passing touchdown.

The Mustangs owned the second quarter as Herpich found Billy Adkins for a five-yard TD strike with 11:08 on the clock before Matt Cornelius jaunted 73-yards for another score. Kelleher tacked on both PATs to put the Mustangs up 28-6.

"Cornelius had a real nice run," Schumacher said. "It showed he has the speed to get away from defenders."

Adkins showed Cornelius wasn't the only Mustang with a set of wheels as he returned the second-half kick off 90 yards for a score, tying Dan Walsh for fourth on the Mustang All-Time kick return list (Walsh, Mustangs versus Livonia Franklin, 1992).

third quarter with Kelleher nailing the PAT to put the Mustangs up 41-6.

"I thought that Drew (Herpich) has an exceptional game," Schumacher said.

"He had great poise and his leadership kept everything focused."

The Mustangs used the quick feet of Cornelius, the powerful, speedy running of Downing and the accurate arm of Herpich to waltz away with the win, but it wouldn't be so without the players dedicated to opening holes and keeping Herpich off of his back — the offensive line.

"(None of the line stood out) as individuals," Schumacher said.

"They stood out as a group. Jeff Harrington, Joey Elder, Matt Schomer, Jimmy Wolbers, Nick Clark and Will Holden did a great job on the line."

"We had Rob Cameron at tight end and Matt Watza is a junior that is really starting to come of age."

The Mustangs gained 355 yards of total offense in 43 plays while holding North Farmington to 247 yards in 40 plays. Cornelius led the rushing attack with 112 yards in nine carries (one TD) while Downing added 57 yards in nine carries (2 rushing TDs, one receiving TD).

Herpich gathered 124 yards in the air while going 11-for-12 attempts (two passing TDs) and Darryl Delaney added 18 yards in the air in one attempt.

The Mustangs will have their hands full tomorrow when they host the Rockets of John Glenn, who are 1-0 after defeating Detroit Kettering 28-8, at 7:30 p.m.

"Our biggest improvements need to come this week so we can step up to this challenge," Schumacher said.

"John Glenn is bigger, stronger than us and probably has more speed than us. They have a tough defense and their offense has gotten very diverse. It is going to be a challenge for us defensively."

Hogan makes U.S. Open cut

Oklahoma breaks record with first-place finish swim in zones

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

It is not every day your swim team wins the Central Zone championships, nor is it every day you notch a 50-meter freestyle swim time good enough to qualify for the U.S. Open.

When those things happen, it is a safe bet you are Northville High School swimmer Shannon Hogan or as some call her - Oklahoma.

"She is probably the best swimmer I have ever coached as far as high school kids," said Mark Winter, the head swim coach of the Sports Club of Novi Sturgeons. "She is extremely disciplined and is a good leader. She has a lot of experience. I think she has been a top swimmer since she started swimming."

Hogan, who was part of Team Michigan in the Central Zone championships held at Oakland University August 10-12, was one of the elite swimmers of Michigan selected to swim against six other states in the zones. Two other Novi Club swimmers were part of the 217 member Team Michigan as well — Stephanie Kuo and Julia Schramm.

"Team Michigan won convincingly," Winter said. "I have known Shannon for not quite a year. She moved here from Oklahoma last fall and decided to come over and swim for the Novi Sturgeons last December."

Hogan, who is a swimmer with the Northville Mustangs high school team, not only qualified for the U.S. Open with her time of 27.2-seconds in the 50-meter free, she also set a new zone record in the process. She also took a second place in the 100-meter freestyle in 1:00.02 and a third in the 100 backstroke in

Girls cross country preview

Mohler will lead way for 'Stangs

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

First-year head coach Nancy Smith is expecting a good year out of the Northville Mustangs girls cross country team for the 2001 season.

The Mustangs, led by senior captains Kelly Driscoll, Allison Loeffler and Emily Barcelona, are returning some experienced runners to the team of 34 girls.

"I am very, very pleased with the way the girls have been running," Smith said. "They are dedicated and talented. From what I have seen over the past few weeks, the girls are running better than last year at the same time."

The Mustangs will follow the lead of Heather Moehler, Molly Gavin, Kate McClymont, sophomores Devin Rupley, Romona Maza, Katy Miller, Rachel Santer, and Lynne Raymond, and junior Whitney Forsthoetel along with senior Kelly Driscoll finishing close behind as Northville's top runners.

"I think those 10 girls will be competing for the top seven positions of every meet," Smith said. "These girls came in (to practice) well prepared. Most of them came in after conditioning themselves through the summer."

The Mustangs senior runners include Erin Bzynek, Driscoll, Loeffler, Barcelona, Cherish Lacey, Monica Wasek, Becca Eley, Emily Sheback and Lindsay Wheeler.

"We have excellent senior leadership," Smith said. "The rest of the girls respond to it really well. The seniors are very dedicated to this team."

Smith's expectations for the team duplicate the expectations the members of the team have set for themselves.

"Their expectations are to do better than last year," Smith said. "I hope to move up in the conference standings."

Northville boys soccer defends title

Mustangs win first outright Detroit Country Day tournament title since 1987 as Harmer and gang put points on the board

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

The players on the Northville Mustangs soccer team were eager to prove they could play at the varsity level — their performance Friday and Saturday proved they could.

The Mustangs defended their Detroit Country Day Soccer Tournament title by defeating Edsel Ford 5-0 and Birmingham Seaholm 3-0 before topping Farmington 4-2 for Northville's first outright Country Day title since 1987 — last season's co-champion title came during a lightning storm and a 1-1 tie in the final game.

"It was a tremendous weekend," said coach Henry Klimes. "I am proud of the way the boys played. Our passing was pretty awesome at times and I am very pleased with the outcome."

The Mustangs took the championship title in the final game against Farmington where Robbie Harmer found the back of the net for the team's first two goals before freshman James Hannah scored the final two to lead the Mustangs to a 4-2 victory.

"There was a lot of ball movement and we really held the tempo of the game," Klimes said. "The players, parents and fans seemed to enjoy the entire tournament."

The Mustangs used scoring by Pat Kelleher, Hannah, Ben Sherman, Phil Yutzy and team captain Dave Wendland to dominate Edsel Ford 5-0 before Yutzy, Mike Hagedorn and Clark Tactorek put the ball into the net to lead the way for a 3-0 victory over Birmingham.

"I would say that ball movement was our biggest display through the tournament," Klimes said. "We had a tremendous performance from our fullback line consisting of sweeper Nick Schoendorf, stopper Jeff Ehehalt and marking backs Andy Fielhauer, Justin Ferriman and Rob Czarniecki. Alex Richard was in goal for us for all three victories.

The Mustangs open the home games against South Lyon Tuesday at Northville High School before opening their conference play against North Farmington Wednesday.

The long-awaited win may be a signal of things to come.

With last year's season coming to an end with a 1-0 loss to Brother Rice in the district championship game, the Mustang boys soccer team is looking to follow a young but eager group of seniors to as far as their feet will take them.

The Mustangs will be led by seniors Wendland, Pete Klausner, Ben Maxim, Harmer, Denny Zent and Ehehalt while juniors Justin Ferriman and Kelleher will be rounding out the expected top players of the program.

"We lost 14 seniors to graduation," head coach Henry Klimes said. "That is tough for any team to overcome. These guys are eager to show they can play at the varsity level and I am confident of their abilities and what they are going to be able to accomplish."

The players that were called up from last season's junior varsity squad are well-trained according to Klimes.

"The juniors we brought up are well groomed and prepared to play this game at the level we are asking from them," Klimes said.

"Along with our juniors and seniors, we have three solid freshmen that made the team. Mike Kelleher, James Hannah and Phil Yutzy."

The remaining members of the team are Andy Fielhauer, Jessy Dorsey, Sherman, Joe Gallagher, goal keeper Richard, Mike Hagedorn, Clark Paclovsk and Schoendorf.

"We have a lot of expectations for this season," Klimes said. "We are the returning Country Day champs and now that we have the cup, we don't plan on giving it away."

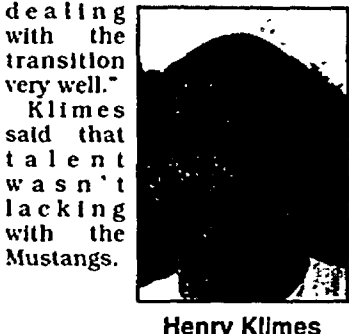

Klimes also said that one of the team goals will be to win the division which in turn will award the Mustangs with an automatic berth into the conference tournament.

"It will be key for us to win the regular season, the division and hopefully the conference," Klimes said. "If we do that then we will have to start all over for the state tournament."

One of the strong points the team possesses is a very talented midfield.

"We have a very strong midfield full of tremendous athletes," Klimes said.

"Our strength is definitely in our midfield. Our only weakness is the lack of experience. It is a big jump from the JV level to varsity but these kids are

Henry Klimes

"Talent-wise we are right there with all of the guys we will be playing," he said.

"There is a lot of tough competition in our conference but if this team plays to the best of their ability, then I would think we will be one of the tough teams to beat."

One of the Mustangs top teams to beat will be Livonia Churchill.

"Churchill will be our biggest competition," Smith said. "They are returning a lot of people and a very strong team."

The Mustangs started their season with a scrimmage between

"Stevenson won a tie breaker after a tie between them and Novi," Smith said. "Moelher won the race with 20:16. That is about two minutes faster than this race the same time last year."

"I am really happy with my swims," Hogan said. "It was a real great meet. I had a blast being on the Michigan team and getting to know other Michigan swimmers."

When Hogan isn't in the pool she is like — well, she will tell you.

"I am like a fish out of water when I am not swimming," she said with a laugh. "It has a lot to do with who you swim with. The club is great and the girls on the high school team are fun to be with too. If you are not having fun, then it is not worth swimming."

Hogan said that although swimming sets you against other competitors, it has a lot to do with challenging herself as well.

"It is more of a match-up against myself," she said. "I am always concerned about doing my best time when I am competing."

Hogan and swimming have been a combination for a while.

"It is so much fun. I love it," she said. "I have been swimming for nine or ten years and I still love jumping in the pool at 5 a.m. for practice."

According to Hogan, she wants to take swimming as far as the sport will let her.

"I plan on swimming in college," she said. "My dreams as far as that are much like other swimmers. I would love a chance to go to the Olympic swim trials and maybe swim in the Olympics."

But Hogan said that loving what she does is the key ingredient to it all.

"I think I will love it forever," Hogan said. "I will probably be swimming when I am 80 years old."

Nice routine!

These Mustang cheerleaders practice their routines during the first weeks of fall practice.

The cheer squad was working hard and still having fun as they hefted each other into the air during some difficult and impressive routine practice.

CORRECTIONS

Northville football player Tim Downing was misidentified as Jim Deacon in last week's fall preview. The Northville Record Sports Department regrets the error.

Hot Picks

The fourth season of football picks is underway, and new faces are plenty with each week showing who is going to be the football star of 2001

Walled Lake Central fails to Milford

Redskins surprise Vikings in football season opener

BY STEPHEN BELL
Sports Reporter

In a surprising season opener for Walled Lake Central, the Vikings took a beating from the Milford Redskins, 34-14.

Back East, they call it "having a catch."

Last spring, any regular to Milford High School sporting events would have seen them out there. Jeff LaClair and Matt Marinucci, on whatever field wasn't currently occupied, having a catch. Good American fun, no doubt, but not without a larger purpose. So Walled Lake Central learned Friday as LaClair and Marinucci, accounted for four of Milford's five touchdowns.

It wasn't until the second quarter that LaClair and Marinucci started making like it was May all over again, for however brief a moment, just those two were on the field. Fourth-and-10 on the Central 26, LaClair found Marinucci wide open for a touchdown, the first points of the season and a 7-0 lead on Joe Whipple's extra point.

There were a number of fateful moments on the Redskins' opening scoring drive. The first was a converted first down from Milford's own 25 on a keeper by LaClair. Then, while Milford failed to convert a third-and-11, Central's Mike Crowe was flagged for a personal foul on LaClair and the Redskins found new life. LaClair found Marinucci for a 39-yard pickup, then the touchdown with 7:26 left in the half.

Milford went up 14-0 just over a minute later after Central went three-and-out. LaClair kept the ball on the option, twice, the second time busting out for a 60-yard score.

On the other side, Milford's defense gave the Vikings, playing without four starters, little to nothing. Central earned only one first down in the first half as linemen Presley, Mark May, Jason Granroth and Pat Adams held their own and linebacker Eric Ziem got his head in on some plays, as well.

Adams, only a sophomore, recovered a fumble. So did senior line-backer Josh Boudreau in the fourth quarter.

Boudreau's recovery couldn't have been more choice, as it came with the Redskins' lead cut to a touchdown, 21-14, after two scores by Central junior Scott Long and the Vikings again threatened. Milford made the most of the opportunity as Marinucci broke through the line and turned it on for a 56-yard touchdown and a 28-14 lead.

Central coach Chuck Apap said those two plays took away whatever momentum the Vikings had. The Redskins put it away with a 11-yard touchdown pass from LaClair to senior Matt Eastwood, the back-up QB.

Western tops Belleville

By SAM EGGLESTON
Sports Reporter

There wasn't a whole lot of razzle-dazzle on the Walled Lake Western side of football Friday night.

The Warriors didn't look as though they were trying to fool anyone or trying to hide what they were doing — instead the Walled Lake Western gridders came onto the field and beat Belleville 20-18 in the season opener with the attitude of "here is what we have now try and stop it."

"This was a huge win for our program," head coach Mike Zdebski said. "We battled one of the premiere teams who are always at the top of their program and we won. We've been preparing for this season since last season and it paid off."

The Warriors started the game on two grim notes as Belleville capitalized on two mistakes — a fumble and a high snap from center — to take an early 12-0 lead, but that wasn't enough to keep the warriors down.

With 5:26 remaining in the first half, the Warriors followed the lead of their hefty offensive line to punch junior running back Steve VanNortwick into the endzone from two yards out.

"That kid is a work-horse," Zdebski said of VanNortwick's 144 yards on 24 carries. "We know that we can give him the ball and he won't quit until the whistle blows. He has nice strength and good speed and his dedication showed out there tonight."

The Tigers of Belleville looked strong on their next drive as they continued to pound the ball with options and counters before a key sack by senior Ryan Wilson shut down the offense on third-and-one.

The Warriors then turned a Belleville punt into an eight-play, 67-yard drive that ended as quarterback Jon Michaud found senior running back/defensive back Steve Bell open in the flats. Bell took the ball 17 yards, pounding through three Tiger defenders before stretching the ball across the plane of the goal line to score Western's second unanswered TD. Michaud, who had 123 yards passing, added two points to put the Warriors up 14-12 at the half with a strike to VanNortwick for the conversion.

"That was tremendous," Zdebski said. "We took the lead at the half and kept it for the rest of the game. That really kept us pumped and was a big turning point for us."

Sirgedas, bachelor of science, civil and environment; Arjun Srinivasan, bachelor's, general science; and Cynthia A. Wampler, bachelor's, general science; and Sarah M. Wright, bachelor's, general science.

John S. Sannar of Northville has been selected a recipient of the University of Rochester Humanities Award. Recognition as a Humanities Award winner is an outstanding secondary school honor.

Sannar will be eligible to be considered for an annual $6,000 Humanities Scholarship at the university.

The following local area residents received their bachelor degrees from Western Michigan University in June:

Northville

Janie Agemy, marketing; Michael J. Basse, cum laude, graphic design; and Michelle R. Partlow, cum laude, occupational therapy.

Novi

Patricia Irene Chinn, cum laude, psychology; and Lisa Kyle Nitti, psychology.

Northville residents Angela Kovalak and Christopher Sanker, both juniors at Kalamazoo College, are participating in this year's study-abroad program.

Kovalak departed Aug. 23 for Clermont-Ferrand, France, where she will study for six months. She is a graduate of Northville High School.

Sanker, a graduate of Brother Rice High School, left Aug. 29 for a six-month study in Madrid, Spain.

Ryan Charles Howe of Northville and Novi residents Ryan William Hinz, Joule Ouyang Lee Sze, and Sudheer Ramakrishna graduated from Purdue University in May.

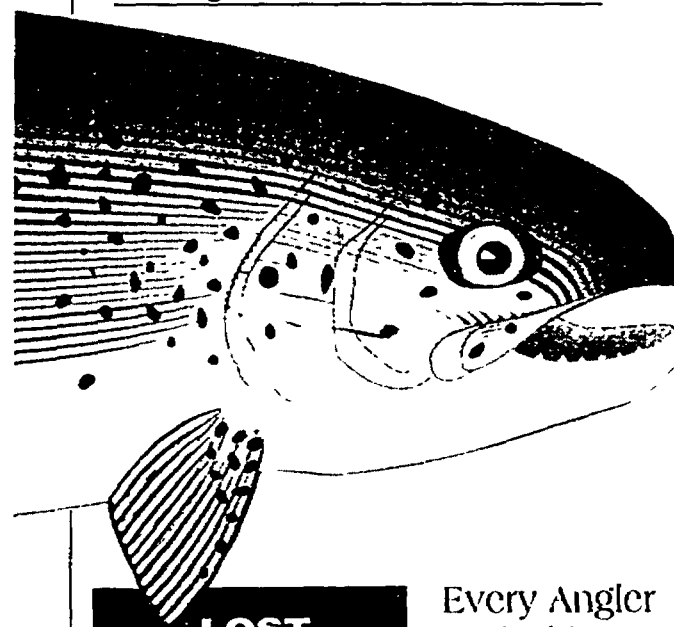

Howe was awarded a bachelor's degree in management; Ryan William Hinz, bachelor's, consumer and family science; Sze, bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering; and Ramakrishna, a master's degree in business administration.

Hinz and Sze also received academic honors for achieving at least a 3.5 or better grade point average for the semester.

Eric Robert Tkaczyk of Northville earned academic honors at Purdue University for spring semester. He was recognized for achieving a 3.5 or higher grade point average.

Tkaczyk is majoring in electrical and computer engineering.

Michigan Streams and Lakes

LOST STREAM MAP FOUND AND RESTORED

The recently published STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN resembles another map-known to Pennsylvania anglers as the "Lost Stream Map."

The "Stream Map of Pennsylvania" was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible—a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well—until it was lost several years after it first appeared in print. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates, declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Then, by combining Professor Higbee's knowledge with computer technology, the STREAM MAP OF MICHIGAN was created.

Every Angler Needs this Map

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Michigan is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This new 4-foot-by-4-foot color map shows virtually all of the 35,000 miles of Michigan streams plus lakes.

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."

John Pitarres
OBSERVER-DISPATCH-Union

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake then 'Professor Higbee's Stream Maps' are without question the finest."

Howard Brant
THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."

Engagements

Turner and Donna Osborne of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheila, to Kurt Ebel, the son of Sandra Ebel of Bay City and the late Kenneth Ebel.

The bride-elect is a 1994 graduate of Northville High school. She received her bachelor's degree in athletic training from Central Michigan University in 1998, and is currently pursuing a teacher certification from Saginaw Valley State University.

The groom-elect is a 1994 graduate of Bay City Western High School. He graduated from Northwood University in 1998, with a bachelor's degree in accountancy and is now employed at Campbell Ewald Co.

A June 22, 2002 wedding is planned.

Patricia Sirola of Novi announces the engagement of her daughter, Tamara Jex, to Michael Mayrend, the son of George "Dick" and Angeline Mayrend of West Bloomfield.

The bride-elect, also the daughter of John Jex Jr. of Oak Park, is a 1988 graduate of Novi High School. She was awarded a bachelor's degree in music from Central Michigan University in 1992. Tamara is currently employed at ADVOC Inc. and performs as a freelance singer and actress with Theater Arts Productions.

The groom-elect graduated from North Farmington High School in 1979. He received his bachelor's degree in journalism from Central Michigan University in 1987, and is currently employed at Baseview Products.

A Nov. 17 wedding will be held at Kenwood Church of Christ in Livonia.

IRAs are a great savings tool, but there's a catch involved

Qualified retirement plans and individual retirement accounts (IRAs) are great vehicles to take advantage of tax-deferred growth and save for retirement. When an individual eventually decides to tap into his or her retirement fund, withdrawals from these plans are subject to regular income taxes. There's one catch, however, for people who are under 59½ years old. They will pay an additional 10 percent tax for premature distributions, in addition to the regular income tax, unless they can fit within one of the exceptions to this penalty tax.

Of the exceptions to the 10 percent premature distribution tax allowed in 2000, all but two provide no real planning opportunities. Most are designed to relieve the burden imposed by a death, disability, serious illness, education costs, first-time home purchase or divorce. The two exceptions that do allow taxpayers to access their retirement funds without the penalty tax deserve closer examination.

The first exception applies only to distributions from qualified retirement plans like profit sharing, 401(k), pension and certain other employer sponsored plans. Under this exception, a taxpayer who has "separated from service" (i.e. they have retired, quit or been laid off) after attaining age 55 may withdraw any amount from his or her employer's plan free of the 10 percent penalty tax.

This exception to the 10 percent penalty rule allows for the greatest flexibility and is very beneficial for many early retirees. It can even be utilized if the taxpayer has left the employ of one company and makes the withdrawal from the first employer's plan while an employee of another. For some, it's a good reason to leave their retirement plan balances with their former employer since withdrawals from IRAs (even if the taxpayer is over 55 and not working) will not qualify for this exception.

Doug Bingham
Personal Finance

There are, however, disadvantages to this exception. First, former employees are at the mercy of their former employers with respect to their withdrawal rights from the plan. Employer sponsored plans can have a wide variety of withdrawal options, some very liberal and others may be very restrictive. Second, an investor who leaves a former employer also cedes investment control to the former employer.

The other exception to the 10 percent penalty rule applies to all types of retirement plans including IRAs and SEPs. Under this exception, withdrawals that represent "substantially equal payments" over the life of the taxpayer (or joint life with a beneficiary) are penalty free. These substantially equal payments must extend for the longer of five years or until the taxpayer turns 59½ years old. Once that requirement has been satisfied, taxpayers can change the amount they are receiving. If the amount withdrawn is altered, the penalty tax applies retroactively to the first substantially equal withdrawal.

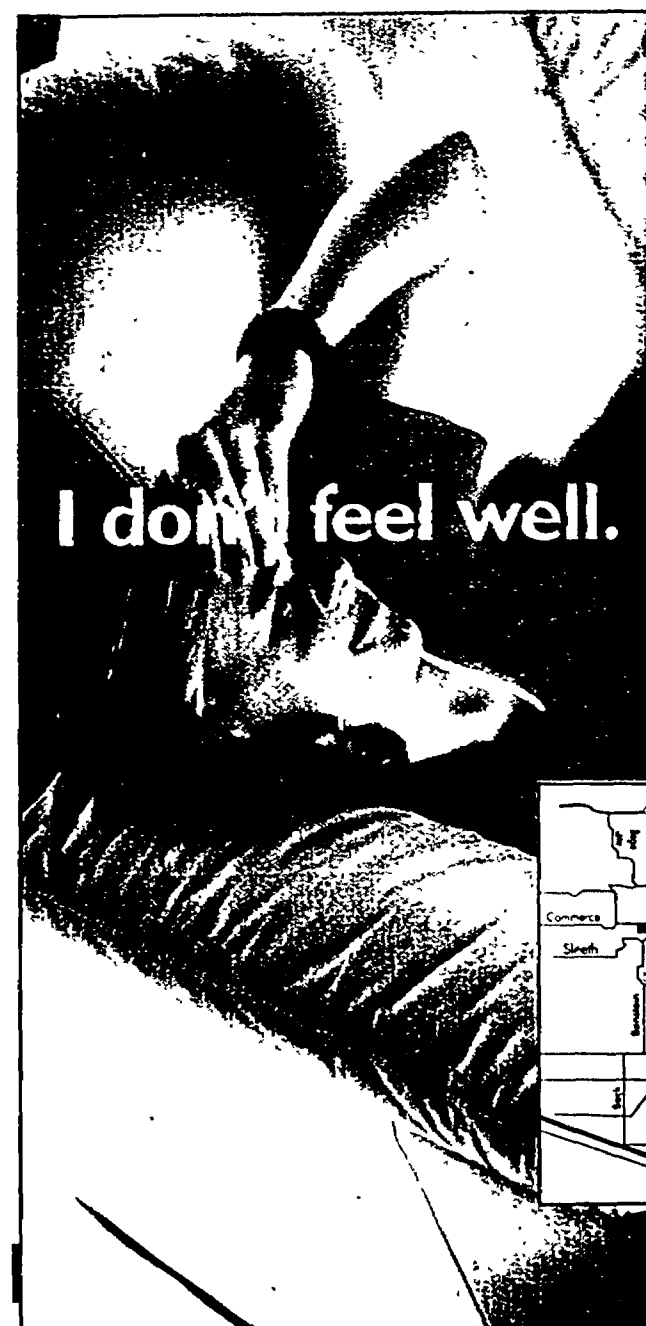

Avoiding the 10 percent penalty for early distributions can mean the difference between a successful and unsuccessful transition into early retirement. The exceptions to the rule discussed here must be considered carefully and incorporated into an over-all investment and financial plan.

Because of the importance of the decision and the complexity of the rules, many thoughtful taxpayers consult professional financial planners and tax advisors before making what could be a critical decision.

Northville's Fraser Inn, a bed and breakfast.

BY STEPHANIE FORDYCE
Staff Writer

As idyllic as anything a romance novelist could dream up, Northville's The Fraser Inn Bed & Breakfast truly reflects the style and beauty of simpler times.

The lavender Victorian-style inn, which sits on the quiet corner of Linden and Dunlap Street, was built in 1882 and has been home to such guests including Geena Davis and Robert Picardo of Star Trek.

"Geena stayed with us last summer when she attended an archery tournament," said Lisa Fraser, who runs and owns the inn with her sister, Tricia. "She was so nice and she really loved Northville."

Formerly the Atchison House, the sisters bought the historic home in 1989 after they decided to quit their jobs and make a long time dream come true.

"It was something we always talked about and so when the house came up for sale, we jumped at the chance," Lisa said.

At the time Lisa was director of marketing for Sprint and Tricia was an operations manager for Lord & Taylor.

"We actually make a really good team," Lisa said. "I do the cooking and my sister handles the decorating and cleaning."

The Fraser Inn is a Bed and Breakfast in the traditional sense - two upstairs bedrooms and two downstairs, a dining room, den, sitting room and kitchen.

To further accommodate its guests, the bed and breakfast also offers a beautiful sun porch where guests can watch the birds or read the newspaper.

Before and after meals, guests can sit and get to know one another in the sitting room or relax in the library with a big-screen television and cozy fireplace.

Guests are also sure to enjoy the company of the inn's two bichon poodles, Niles and Fraser, who are usually milling about with tails wagging eagerly, greeting visitors or taking an afternoon siesta in the sun room.

With a full breakfast served each morning, guests at the inn are also welcome to an assortment of coffees or freshly baked blueberry muffins gathered in a basket on the kitchen table.

"I let my guests decide when they want to eat. If they want a snack or something, I always encourage them to help themselves to the kitchen whenever they feel hungry," Lisa said.

Do to the inn's Web site, guests from as far as Austria, Holland, China, Germany and Hungary have stayed at the bed and breakfast.

"I think bed and breakfasts are really a nice alternative to hotels," Lisa said. "It makes people feel at home and that's really what we try to do for our guests. We've really made some nice friends along the way."

The home is very much a remnant of what might have been a hundred years ago, with a number of antiques and knick knacks adorning the shelves and walls.

When guests are ready to retire for the evening, they can select from a variety of bedrooms all featuring their own private baths, TV and VCRs. Each room comes with a large queen size bed, fluffy pillows, and Victorian pictures and paintings.

The Port Huron Room features blues and greens reflecting the waters of Lake Huron and the St. Clair River. And, when it is cold outside, you can sit back and relax in front of your private fireplace.

The Northville suite provides all the comforts of home including an oversized chair and ottoman, a couch, your own private refrigerator, coffee pot and microwave oven. The room also comes with its very own Jacuzzi, perfect for honeymooners.

Downstairs are The Mackinac

Island room, which features a footed bathtub and queen size bed, and The Detroit room, decorated in a navy, red and green plaid and highlights pictures of the city of Detroit in years past: the skyline, Tiger Stadium, and the original Hudson building.

Rooms range from $80-$150 a night. The Fraser Inn is located at 501 West Dunlap Street. For more information or to schedule a reservation please call (248) 449-6699.

FOR SALE BY OWNER

By Annette Jaworski
SPECIAL WRITER

When Lori Goschinski first saw her Milford home, she knew it was exactly what she wanted.

"I drove by one day. It was love at first sight. It was the first nice warm day in March, and it was beautiful back there," she said.

One trip down the secluded driveway was enough to convince her this is where she wanted to come after a long day at work.

"The only way I thought I would move would be for love, not money," she recalls, so happy was she with her wooded acreage.

But things happen in life, specifically, her fiancé, Mike Rohlin. The two eventually became engaged and are planning a life out of state. So when it came to selling her home, Goschinski thought the only logical way was for sale by owner. It was exactly how she purchased the home three years ago. The experience of purchasing the home by for sale by owner was a positive one for her.

"It's a more personal touch, not like a partnership...We had none of this be out at 12 noon stuff," she said. The deal was friendly and amicable, which she and the homeowner discussed at the kitchen table. And when she needed information she felt free to contact with the previous homeowner with questions.

Of course one of the most popular reasons for sale by owner is to save the realtor's commission, which is approximately 6 per cent of the selling cost.

Another one of the benefits of for sale by owner is that it allows them a bit more control over who and when to allow prospective buyers come into their home. For example, although clients are always notified beforehand, the lockboxes allow realtors to access the home for prospective buyers. In cases where both family members work, the lockbox is actually an important convenience. For Goschinski and Rohlin, who operate a home based business, they have the flexibility to meet with prospective buyers.

Two of the best selling points include the solid construction of the 10-year-old house itself. There's new flooring installed in all of the rooms.

Mike Rohlin and his fiancée Lori Goschinski are getting married in September and are looking for a new home to relocate to.

There's blown in insulation, not fiberglass. There's a double septic field, since the original owners planned on a large family. A large nearly three-car garage has room for a workshop also. A wood-burning stove will keep it warm in the winter.

Upstairs you'll find two bedrooms. On the first floor, Lori converted a bedroom to a den/TV room, since she didn't need an extra bedroom. It could easily be used for a first floor master once again.

Probably the best feature of all is the property and view itself on seven and a half acres.

"The setup is like a park out back," she said.

"The trees in the summer make it look like dark German forest," agreed Rohlin. Landscaping includes a lovely rock garden in front of the house and out back.

"It's a low maintenance property," said Rohlin, because of the natural beauty of the surroundings. Although they point out that there's plenty of room to enhance the landscape was well for those gardeners with a green thumb.

Since the home was well maintained, there wasn't a lot of preparation needed. They added new gravel to the driveway and tidied the landscape.

When it comes to closing a deal, they plan to use a standard purchase agreement and use a title company to guide them through the closing paperwork. The asking price is $295,000 for the 1735 square foot home. Interested parties may contact her at 684-4747.

This Little Snoopy with plastic balloon wheels, vinyl ears and bead springtail has been made from 1965 to the present. His value would probably be about $25 to $35.

Snoopy pull-toy pulls about $30

By Anne McCollam
COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q: Enclosed is a photo of a child's pull-toy that is in excellent condition. On the top are the words "Fisher Price - Little Snoopy." It is also marked "1965 - 693."

I would like to know if it's of any value.

A: Just about everyone is familiar with Fisher-Price Toys. In 1930, business man Irving Price had recently retired from F.W. Woolworth Co. and was serving a term as mayor of East Aurora, N.Y. He was community-minded and interested in establishing new businesses in East Aurora. Herman G. Fisher and Helen M. Schelle, both with toy manufacturing experience, joined Price and formed Fisher-Price Toys. Price's wife, Margaret, was an illustrator of children's books and was a major inspiration in the designing of the first 16 toys. Fisher resigned in 1966 and in 1969 the company was sold to the Quaker Oats Co.

A large portion of Fisher-Price toys were made of wood and covered with paper lithographs. Your Little Snoopy with plastic balloon wheels, vinyl ears and bead springtail has been made from 1965 to the present. The number "693" is the design number. He is missing a little yellow shoe that he carries in his mouth.

His value would probably be about $25 to $35.

Q: This mark is on the bottom of a silver reamer/juice pitcher that I picked up at auction about eight years ago. The set includes six matching small silver juice glasses. The reamer and cups can all be stored in the top of the pitcher. In addition to the mark that I enclosed are the words "Bernard Rice's Sons, Inc. - Sept. 30, 1924."

Could you tell me what its value might be?

A: Your pitcher/reamer is very unusual.

Most reamers were made of ceramic or glass. Apollo Silver Company was founded in 1899 and merged with Bernard Rice's Sons around 1872. The company closed in 1959. The number "693" is a design number and "E.P.N.S." stands for electroplate nickel-silver. Your circa 1924 juice pitcher/reamer set would probably be worth about $250 to $450.

Q: Four years ago I bought an opalescent glass pitcher and matching tumblers at a flea market. The pattern is Cherry and Cable and the glass shades from green to opalescent blue. Some of the pieces are marked with the letter "W." I have asked several antique dealers if they are familiar with this set. I have not found any information about this pitcher and tumblers in reference books.

Can you please tell me something about its background and what it's worth?

A: Northwood Glass Company and Westmoreland Glass Company originally made the pressed glass pattern. Cherry and Cable, in the early 1900s. It is also known as Paneled Cherry and Cherry Thumbprint. The early pieces were clear glass with red-stained cherries and veined and slightly stippled gold leaves. Large thumbprints surround the base of each panel. Westmoreland began reproducing this pattern in opalescent colors and milk-white glass around 1970. Their glass was marked with an embossed logo or paper label. Mosser Glass, Inc. in Cambridge, Ohio, reissued a handful of Cherry and Cable pieces made from Westmoreland's original molds in the 1990s. Poor-quality butter dishes have been found marked with a gold sticker and the words "Made in Taiwan." Your late 1900s opalescent green set would probably be worth about $125.

Address your questions to Anne McCollam, P.O. Box 490, Notre Dame, IN 46556. For a personal response, include picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $10 per item (one item at a time).

Selling your house yourself

For Sale By Owner is not for everyone. It certainly takes time and determination. Diana D'Abate of ReMax 100 in Northville says there are lots of advantages an agent can provide.

An agent can get the word out quickly and to many different types of sources, through newspapers, trade publications and television, reaching a wider number of buyers. A broker can minimize costly fees for paperwork.

The agent can act as a buffer by filtering out prospects eliminating some concerns about security.

It may be more difficult for a For Sale By Owner to sort out serious or qualified buyers. The agent guides buyer and seller through confusing paperwork, saving time and effort on important details that can be overlooked or cause problems later.

D'Abate believes a broker can offer a stronger negotiating position, and performs necessary follow up.

Brokers can also give advice on preparing the home for sale to maximize its selling potential.

paperwork. It's expensive to have lawyer's draw up the legal paperwork, such as purchase agreements, and they don't always have the time to check out a lot of the details. Like following up on home inspections.

Tips for Sale

Have an unbiased eye when it comes to clean up. You live there, but you may not have noticed some of the dirt and clutter that's accumulated. If you don't have time for a thorough job, hire someone. A fresh coat of paint never hurts.

"Cleanliness is more important than updating. I've seen three year old homes that were a disaster and 40-year-old homes that are immaculate," said Linder.

Beware of odors that you might not notice. Pet or cooking odors can be a big turn-off.

First impressions are important, so pay attention to the front door. Are there cobwebs that need to be knocked down, or perhaps it needs a fresh coat of paint? If it has windows, make sure they're freshly washed.

Get rid of clutter and organize closet to make rooms appear more spacious.

"You want it to look like there's plenty of room, not like you're bursting at the seams," said Linder.

Little things are important, the buyer is mentally reducing his offer if he sees for example a faucet that's broken.

Linda Linder can be contacted at Help-U-Sell in Northville at (248) 348-6006.

Douglas Earl picks sweet corn in his field every morning. Then he and his wife haul it to their stand.

The Earls of Milford

By Annette Jaworski
SPECIAL WRITER

In a day of superstores and corporate mergers, there are some people that still believe in the simple life, one that follows the seasons and the rising and setting sun. Such is Debbie and Doug Earl of Earl's Produce in Milford. As Debbie Earl will testify, farming is not easy work. A typical day in August begins when the sun rises and they head out to pick sweet corn. The couple works together with tractor and wagon harvesting the produce for the day. One of their five children often lends a hand.

After the produce is picked, Debbie works the stand and Doug tends the gardens and adds stock. Two days a week, Doug Earl drives to the Eastern Market at 2 a.m. to select produce they don't grow on site. And Debbie Earl still manages to work part time at P.B. Putters as well.

The couple began selling produce in Novi, where they raised vegetables on Doug's father's farm, Claude Earl. They started by selling the extra produce that came from their king sized garden.

"When it came time to harvest, I literally put out a table and chair on 10 Mile Road," says Debbie Earl.

One thing led to another and they expanded to the Milford location. Since Doug's father passed away last year, they no longer operate the produce stand in Novi. Some of their loyal customers still come to Milford for produce.

The produce stand itself is unpretentious; you might notice a big tractor first. The Earls prefer to concentrate on the produce itself. A big wagon sits out front where customers can select their ears of corn, for $3.00 a dozen or 30 cents an ear. Prices are reasonable, like cucumbers at three for a dollar.

In addition to the corn, which is one of their most popular items, they grow their own tomatoes, melons, cucumbers, peppers and squash to sell. The vegetables are farmed on the acre of property where the produce stand is located, and an extra forty acres adjacent to them. Whenever the produce is not grown on site, the Earls look for as much Michigan produce as possible.

"We get Michigan apples, peaches, nectarines, whatever we can find in Michigan except the bananas," says Debbie Earl.

The stand is open nine months a year, beginning a week before Mother's Day until December. They offer seasonal goods such as flowers in spring; corn stalks, gourds and pumpkins in the fall. The grand finale is selling Christmas trees in the winter, and they close up shop on Christmas Eve. Once the Christmas tree season is over, they head down south for a long overdue vacation.

The Earls have owned the stand for about seven years. Although they're not sure when it was established, most people recall it being a fixture on Milford Road for a long time.

"I recall an older gentleman was in here and says he remembers coming here as a kid. I know it's been here for a long, long time," said Debbie Earl.

They've seen lots of changes even in the time they've owned the stand. Of course, most noticeably is the increase in traffic on Milford Road. It's a double-edged sword in some ways, she says. More traffic brings more business, but some people are literally afraid to have to turn off and onto Milford Road.

Earl's Farm & Produce is located at 3958 Milford Road in Milford near Maple Road. They're open from 9:30 to 7:30; seven days a week. "unless we get stuck in the fields, we're here," laughs Debbie Earl.

CELEBRITY COACH'S CORNER

"Maintaining variety in your choice of activities will ultimately make you stronger in your sport of choice."

LINDSAY DAVENPORT
29-time Tennis Doubles Champion

What Lindsay said...

TSA: As a kid, what sports or activities did you participate in?

LD: I started playing tennis when I was 6, and I swam on a swim team from age 5-8 as well. I was a tomboy when I was growing up. I loved gym class in school and was always trying to keep up with my two older sisters in their sports, primarily volleyball.

TSA: What types of sports or activities do you play now for fun?

LD: Tennis is pretty much my life. I go to the gym almost every day; I lift weights, and work out on the treadmill and stairmaster. I love biking around town when I'm at home...especially near the beach. I also enjoy playing a little volleyball with friends.

TSA: Do you have any suggestions for future athletes or coaches on having diversity among their off-field hobbies?

LD: It is always best to keep doing activities other than your sport of choice. It keeps you from getting bored. But what is most important is that whatever you are doing, that you enjoy it. If you don't like to run on a treadmill in the gym then don't do it...run near the beach or somewhere that you really like.

Lindsay Davenport, 25, has won 28 singles titles; 29 doubles titles as well as an Olympic Gold Medal in the 1996 Summer Olympic Games. Included in Lindsay's many victories are five Grand Slam Championships and prize money approaching $10 million.

Bulb Planting Tips

How to Prepare Your Soil

Good soil drainage is essential. If you have soil with a high content of clay, add compost, peat moss or other organic material to the soil. Mix phosphorus in the soil to encourage root development.

Where to Plant

Consider light requirements of plants when deciding where to plant your bulbs.

Planting Depth

For spring and fall bulbs, plant 2 to 3 times as deep as the bulb is tall. For summer bulbs, follow directions supplied with the bulbs.

Flowering Shrubs

How to build a retaining wall

1. Dig a trench 3" - 4" deep x 12" wide. Make sure it's well compacted and then add about 1" of sand. The sand will help level the base.

2. Put in the first layer of wall blocks, interlocking lip face down. As you lay the stones, make sure they're level and outside edges are touching.

3. The next layer should be installed offset 1/2 stone from the base layer, interlocking lip face down. As each level is completed, fill in and pack the soil.

4. To get 1/2 a stone, score each side using a sledge hammer and chisel. Hit chisel on score line. Be sure to wear protective eyeglasses.

Retaining Wall

Build a retaining wall with no mortar!

Description	Price Each	Wall Height and Length

If you happen to find a lower price, we'll match it PLUS take off an additional 10%!

Lowe's Price Guarantee Policy:

We guarantee our everyday competitive prices. If you find a lower everyday or advertised price on an identical stock item at any local retail competitor that has the item in stock, we'll beat their price by 10% when you buy from us. Just bring us the competitor's current ad, or we'll call to verify the item's price that you have found. Cash/charge card and carry purchases only. Competitor's closed, special order, discontinued, clearance, liquidation and damaged items are excluded from this offer. Limited to reasonable quantities for homeowner and one-house order quantities for cash and carry contractors. Current in-store price, if lower, overrides Lowe's advertised price. Price guarantee honored at all Lowe's retail locations. Labor charges for product installation are excluded from our price guarantee offer in our stores with an installed Sales Program. Visit store for complete details.

Returned Goods Policy:

Lowe's "Satisfaction Guarantee Policy" applies to all sales except for "specially" made for customers. This means that if you are not completely happy with your purchase, simply return it along with your original sales receipt to any local Lowe's store within thirty (30) days of purchase. We'll repair it, replace it or either refund your money or credit your account. Policy may vary in certain locations. Visit your local Lowe's for complete details.

Fair Purchase Policy:

In order to provide fair purchase opportunity to all our customers, Lowe's reserves the right to limit quantities sold to individual customers. If, by chance, your local Lowe's store does not stock an item we advertise, we will be glad to order that item for you at the advertised price. We are not responsible for typographical errors. If an error occurs, we will make every reasonable effort to resolve any misunderstandings that may result.

Delivery Policy:

Lowe's will make every effort to deliver your order within the time we promise. Promised delivery time for "Ready-To-Go" orders only applies to in-stock merchandise. If we can't deliver your order within the appropriate time, we will notify you as soon as practicable after we learn of the delay. Lowe's is not liable for failure to deliver, or for any delay in delivery of goods due to a cause beyond our reasonable control, such as fire, flood, storm, or other natural disaster, acts or omissions by customer, acts of civil or military authorities, governmental priority, allocation or control, strikes or other labor strife, civil disturbances, insolvency or other inability to perform by manufacturer or distributor, delay in transportation, or other commercial interference with the normal flow of goods.

Water heater installation: If an expansion tank is required by local code it will be an additional charge (not included in the basic replacement labor). Permit fees are additional (not included in the basic replacement labor).

*The companies that make the appliances Lowe's and other appliance retailers sell set an industry-wide "Minimum Advertised Price" for many of their products. This means that appliance retailers - Lowe's included - can only advertise such items at that price or higher. So, if you see the "Below Any Advertised Price You'll See" symbol next to an advertised appliance item, we are confident that our price is less than any other advertised price you'll see on the same model. If you happen to find a lower price, we'll match it PLUS take off an additional 10%. Why do you think we're called Lowe's!

*Zero payments, zero finance charges for 6 months. If the promotional purchase and any optional credit insurance charges are paid in full by the end of the promotional period, finance charges will be waived. Offer applies to approved single receipt purchases over $250 made from August 31, 2001 to September 3, 2001, if paid in full within 6 months, when you use an existing or newly opened Lowe's Credit Card Account. Monthly payments are not required (for 6 months) on qualified purchases during the promotional period. Finance charges and any optional credit insurance charges on your promotional purchase will be billed from date of purchase, but finance charges will be credited you pay the full purchase price and any optional insurance charges by the end of the promotional period. If you do not, you will be responsible for these charges. The APR is 21% (except the APR is 13.9% for single receipt purchase of $2,000 or more). Minimum monthly finance charge is $1.00 except in IA. In IA the minimum monthly finance charge is $3.50. Regular credit terms will continue to apply to your non-promotional purchases. Offer is subject to credit approval by Monogram Credit Card Bank of Georgia. Business Accounts excluded.

The Scents of Bath and Body Works in the Air at Novi Town Center

The personal care mega giant, Bath and Body Works, will join the tenant roster at Novi Town Center by mid-September. The 2,400-square-foot store will be located between Old Navy and Linen 'N Things. "We're extremely pleased that Bath and Body Works is joining the Center," says Jim Clear, Novi Town Center General Manager. "The Linder Company, who manages and leases the Center, has worked diligently to bring them on board and we're sure they will see much success here."

Bath and Body Works' main product lines include:

- Fragrant Body Care – shower gels and moisturizers in five different fragrance collections: Luscious Fruits, Beautiful Florals, Warm Comforts, Fresh Botanicals and the newest, Pure Waters
- Anti Bacterial – gels, hand soaps, wipes and moisturizers
- Aromatherapy – facials, mineral soaks, oils and moisturizers
- Bio' – performance face and hair care
- Art Stuff – personal care items for the younger customer
- Fine Fragrance – perfume and body sprays
- Gifts – candles and gift baskets

Pure Waters —
The fifth fragrance category from Bath & Body Works.

Salöné Nadwa and Day Spa Expansion Complete

Salöné Nadwa's clients can now enjoy an even greater variety of services from Michigan's largest full-service salon and day spa. The new services include:

- Two additional facial rooms with full facial beds and state-of-the-art facial equipment imported from Singapore
- Two additional massage rooms
- An expansive ladies changing room with lockers
- For businesses wishing to pamper and motivate their employees with facials or massages, Salöné Nadwa now has an area to accommodate company outings. Call (248)348-7316 for more information.

Christopher & Banks Offers Work & Leisure Clothes for Today's Woman

One of the latest trends in women's fashions is the combination of business and casual attire that allows women to go from work to fun in the same outfit. One of Novi Town Center's newest women's clothing stores, Christopher & Banks, has its finger on the pulse of what today's woman wants from her fashions.

Christopher & Banks carries fashions primarily in the categories of sportswear, sweaters and dresses while focusing on working and active women who are always on the go.

"We offer a wide selection of today's latest fashions at reasonable prices," says Vicki Stockton, store manager. Our commitment to quality, value and customer service will be evident in every visit."

A Christopher & Banks trademark

that gives the customer an upscale shopping experience is its added touches to customer service. Every purchase is beautifully wrapped in tissue paper and placed in a draw-string shopping bag, while receipts are folded and placed in envelopes.

The store is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Sunday from noon to 6 p.m. It is located on the northeast side of the Center between Comp USA and T.J. Maxx. For more information, call (248) 347-1721 or log on to www.christopherandbanks.com.

Novi Town Center Has the Back-to-School Basics

Old Navy - For students on the go, Old Navy has a wide variety of colorful backpacks. With adjustable back straps and a cinch front, Old Navy backpacks can compress to just the right size. For boys, check out Old Navy's track and cargo pants paired with classic polos. Girls will love the selection of flare jeans, poplin stretch shirts and hooded fleece jackets.

Linens 'n Things - If the dorm room is your destination, check out the selection of dorm gear at Linens 'n Things. Everything you'll need to outfit your dorm room from bedding items like comforters, blankets, pillows and sheets to kitchen, laundry and bathroom accessories can all be found at Linens 'n Things.

Comp USA - In addition to the latest in computers, printers, scanners, notebooks, DVDs, audio and video, Comp USA has a variety of educational software. If you have a young student learning the basics of math, try Vivendi's MathBlaster™. For a high school student, learning to type with Typing Quick & Easy software will make those term papers a breeze.

Music-Go-Round - Before you purchase a band instrument for your student, check out the value and selection at Music Go Round, America's largest used musical instrument retailer. Music Go Round carries high-quality new and used brass, wind and string instruments, guitars, keyboards and much more. See the knowledgeable staff at Music Go Round and purchase a good, used band instrument cheaper than one year's rental.

TWC Surf and Sport: Novi's Answer to Boarding Enthusiasts

Thanks to the many boarders and surfers in southeast Michigan, Tim Shepard is realizing his dream for a second time around with the opening of TWC Surf & Sport's newest location in Novi Town Center. TWC Surf & Sport carries the best in skate, snow and wake boarding equipment and accessories.

Many local boarders who participate at the pro level get their products at TWC Surf & Sport because of the extensive selection and knowledgeable staff. "Our employees are all boarders themselves, so they know the sport and its products," says Shepard. "We like to know our customers on a personal basis and become familiar with the products they prefer so we can offer better service. Greg Fugate is the manager at our Novi store. He has been in the snow and skate boarding industries for more than a decade and has extensive knowledge of the products we carry."

Visit TWC Surf & Sport's 2,000-square-foot facility in Novi Town Center between Comp USA and TJ Maxx, Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m.

Manager's Greeting

by Jim Clear

It's an age-old question, but one I simply have to ask -- where does the time go? In the last column to readers of "Do the Town" we were looking forward to warm summer days and fun-filled vacations while autumn seemed too far off to even consider. But, here we are, planning for the back-to-school shopping season. Please visit our merchants of Novi Town Center that have the latest in clothing and supplies for school.

Merchant Update

We extend a warm welcome to our newest merchants, Christopher & Banks, Edward Jones and TWC Surf & Sport. A few are profiled in this newsletter. We also look forward to the opening of Bath & Body Works in mid-September, it will be located between Old Navy and Linens 'N Things. The Mattress & Futon Shoppe will open in late September right next to Men's Wearhouse.

The expansion of Salöné Nadwa & Day Spa is complete. With 1,200 additional square feet of space, Salöné Nadwa has expanded its services to include Michigan's only Menopause Facial. Visit the NTC Updates section of our website, www.novitowncenter.com, for more details on this unique service.

People's Choice Award

Novi Town Center warmly thanks the readers of the Novi News for voting us the "Best Shopping Center" in the Novi

News 2001 People's Choice Awards. We think our Center is top notch and are glad that you agree!

Holiday Events

We will soon be preparing for Novi Town Center's 5th Annual Candlelight Choralfest which will take place on December 3. Young people from the Novi area will once again serenade listeners with the sounds of the holidays. Shop with us at Novi Town Center from November 23 through December 24 and get in on our popular gift-with-purchase item.

Until next time,

Jim Clear, The Linder Company
Novi Town Center General Manager

REDEEMABLE AT KMART LOCATIONS

KMART ADVERTISED MERCHANDISE POLICY

Merchandise advertised in this circular is available at most larger Kmart stores. Merchandise offered in this circular is either Sale Priced or at our Everyday Low Price. Merchandise not identified with a sale price is offered at our Everyday Low Price. Advertised price reductions are off our Everyday Low Prices unless otherwise indicated. In some cases, we offer Special Buys which are available in limited quantities. Our firm intention is to have every advertised item in stock on our shelves. However, if an advertised item is not available for purchase due to any unforeseen reason, Kmart will issue a Rain Check on request for the merchandise to be purchased at the advertised price whenever available, or will sell you a comparable quality item at a comparable price. Regular prices may vary in some stores due to local competition. Sale offers do not apply to clearance merchandise, bluelight always or products available on bluelight.com. We reserve the right to limit purchases to reasonable family quantities. Products represented in this circular are available at our Kmart, Big Kmart and Kmart Super Center Locations.

Prices effective Friday, August 31 thru Saturday, September 8, 2001
