Victory-ian Festival 2001

Crowd unites for America in annual event

By LON HUHMAN Staff Writer

The Victorian Festival took on a whole new meaning in the wake of the national tragedies on Sept.

The streets of downtown Northville were set up for the annual Victorian Festival, but the feel, specifically the emotion, took on a patriotic theme as the festival began on the day designated by President Bush as a time for mourning, prayer and remem-

"With all that has gone on this week, I was surprised at the number of people who came out to enjoy the Victorian Festival. Northville Chamber of Commerce Director Laurie Marrs said. "I was proud too see our community pull together and show our support and unity in this trying time.

The festival weekend began with the parade on Friday night, but there were many residents wearing red, white and blue and carrying American flags rather than the usual garb of the Victorian era. Marrs said the decision to carry on with the festival was a tough one to make. Rather than remain somber and subdued Marrs and festival board members believed that by carrying on with the festival residents could come together as Americans, and not victims.

We were apprehensive, but we thought the festival could act as a helpful diversion from the tragedy and all of the news coverage, Marrs said. "Our board deliberated for sometime on Thursday and we reached a unanimous conclusion that we should follow President Bush's request and continue living our lives.

Marrs also said it was decided that by carrying on with the festival it would greatly help the children with their sense of continuity. She said by stopping every-

"It was a difficult decision because there were many residents on both sides of the issue," Marrs said. "However, after seeing the sea of flags and the outpouring of support the people of Northville demonstrated at the parade and vigil I think it proved to be the right decision.'

Marrs said after the decision was made, the festival committee and chamber of commerce had less than a day to prepare and make necessary changes so that the festival would take on the new theme, which excluded some parade entertainment that was deemed inappropriate. The parade included patriotic songs being played by the Northville High School band as well as the Plymouth Fife and Drum band. Marrs said the group of bag pipers also gave the parade and vigil a dignified touch.

Many people worked very hard to rework the festival," Marrs said. "There were four particular

"It was like a scene out of a movie," Northville resident Charles Simkins said of his experiences on Sept. 11 in New York City during the tumultuous hours after the terrorist attack on the World trade

Simkins was in Manhattan the day of the World Trade Center tragedy for a meeting with a Mt. Sinai doctor, which pertained to a deposition hearing he was working on. During the meeting, the news of the first plane crash was brought in to the doctor and at first Simkins said the details were sketchy. However, after hearing of the second crash, Simkins said

Deal approved between Sakwa, school board

Elementary land acquired By JENNIFER NORRIS

After postponing its vote twice, Northville Board of Education members accepted a 15.2 acre land parcel donation being offered by Gary Sakwa of Grand Sakwa Properties, LLC, Tuesday

We are enthusiastic about receiving this land," said board member Joan Wadsworth.

Six board members unanimously approved the land donation. Board member Judith Wollack was absent from the board

The plot of land Sakwa offered to the district is located west of Ridge Road and south of Six Mile

After officials negotiated certain language within the covenant deed made between Grand Sakwa and Northville Public Schools, board members said the contract had been made agreeable.

School officials said two changes were made within the storage and loading portion of the covenant deed.

In late August, board members decided to postpone their vote on whether or not to accept the land donation because they had reservations on the wording of parking

District waits on voter decision

By JENNIFER NORRIS

In five days, the voice of Northville voters will determine the fate of a $28.3 million dollar bond issue.

On Sept. 25, voters will be asked to approve a multi-million dollar bond, which is planned to be used to construct a sixth elementary school, additions to Moraine Elementary and Winchester Elementary schools, a storage addition at Amerman Elementary school, classroom additions at Northville High School and fund the installation of fiber optic cabling to the new elementary school and establish a "redundant loop" to continue the information system connection between all school facilities.

Martha Nield, president of the Northville Board of Education, said the approval of the bond proposal is needed to help continue the success of the Northville school district. She also said the district needs the community's support of the bond issue to complete the proposed projects in a timely manner.

"I hope we have everybody's questions answered," said Nield. "If this passes, we are under a very tight time frame to get everything done in

NORTHVILLE TOWNSHIP POLICE REPORTS

FLOORED: A home under construction on Spyglass Drive in Northville Township was burglarized of $1,800 in flooring materials on Sept. 14 or 15.

According to the township police report, the home being built by Pulte Builders of Howell had 30 boxes of hardwood flooring installation stolen from an unknown suspect. An employee of the building company found a door kicked in and the boxes missing. The case has been closed due to no leads or suspects.

The reporting officer was traveling westbound on Six Mile Road and observed a car with its headlights on in the school's east parking lot. The officers reported that the vehicle was running and the brake lights were on because the 49-year-old female driver still had the car in drive. The officer reported observing an open can of Budweiser beer that appeared to be full.

The officers attempted to wake up the occupants, but they could not. The officer then open up the door and put the gear shift in park. The officer then shook and yelled at the couple to wake up. The female finally did.

The report said the woman could not remember her name or where she lived. Her speech was slurred as well. She did admit to drinking and was arrested after registering a 0.155 percent during the preliminary breathalyzer test. She was later released after sobering up and posting bond

The mother thought the gesture was strange, the report said.

The mother then walked outside toward the unknown woman and the woman then got back into the van and drove off without speaking. The report said the woman did not take a info sheet. The mother noticed an empty child seat inside the van as well.

According to the report, the nine-year-old said the woman had long, blonde hair and he saw a man inside the van as well. The nine-year-old said he heard the woman say to his brother to get into the

Family hopes for help in solving hit-and-run

By LON HUHMAN

Martha Hewett said family and friends need closure to the fatal hit and run accident involving her friend Douglas Logan.

However, she said the one crucial detail missing is the identity of the driver who hit Logan, 48, on Interstate 696 on the night of Aug. 18. Hewett and her husband, Archie, are hoping witnesses will come forward to give police any details they can supply.

Doug was a great friend of my husbands as well as to me. We are hoping there are witnesses that will come forward and report what they saw that night," Hewett said. "We need some closure to this horrible event.

According to Michigan State Police, around 11:15 p.m. Logan was killed instantly when his Harley Davidson motorcycle collided with an old, white pickup truck in the eastbound lanes of I-96 just past the Novi Road exit. Hewett, a Livonia resident, said the truck was similar in appearance to a Chevy S-10 or Ford Ranger. The Hewetts and Logan were on their way back from a motorcycle event in Fowlerville. It was reported that as the Hewetts branched off onto Interstate 275 and Logan continued onto I-696, the accident occurred. The truck moved from right to left colliding with Logan causing his bike to topple and skid toward the median wall.

Logan hit the concrete wall from two lanes away.

Hewett said despite the rainy conditions, Logan had been driving along going around 55 mph paying careful attention. She said Logan was not fatigued and that he was an expert rider.

Hewett said Logan was in the center lane with an unknown vehicle to his left and the oldermodel white truck to his right before the accident occurred. Information on the unknown vehicle is being sought as well. Hewett said the truck probably incurred damage to its driver side door. It was also reported that pieces of a broken red taillight were found on the scene, which may be from either the truck or unknown vehicle.

The truck was turned around facing west after the collision and left before the police arrived. "The truck left the scene by going the wrong way down I-96 toward the Novi exit," Hewett said. "It's believed the driver then went down Novi Road." Logan was a Waterford Township and worked as a buyer for Visteon in Dearborn. Survivors include his son, Sean, and his daughter Tara as well as his brother Mark. Logan was buried at St. Hedwig Cemetery in Dearborn Heights. Hewett and Michigan State Police are seeking any information that would lead to the arrest of the individuals involved in the death of Logan. Hewett can be contacted at (734) 502-9399 or the Michigan State Police can be contacted at the Oak Park post at (248) 584-5740.

Fortunately, the phones at Northville's New Hope Center for Grief Support haven't been ringing as frequently as might be suspected. But director Cathy Clough said that just because the calls from people distraught over last week's terrorist attacks in New York and Washington have been few and far between isn't necessarily a sign that all is

The real test, she said, will come in the weeks to come.

"Early on in a disaster like this, there's a lot of numbness and fear and it doesn't sink in right away," Clough said. "It's later on, after people have had the chance to reflect and pause that you can start seeing the problems arise."

When word first began circulating over the Sept. 11 disasters, Clough said New Hope's staff worked to make certain the entire office was prepared to deal with distraught residents, but to the greater extent, it was just a matter of keeping fingers crossed.

"There's really not a lot you can do in a situation like this," Clough said. "We just waited and

"When you're married, there's someone you can open up to and share feelings with, but when your spouse dies, you don't have that opportunity any more, Clough said. "It can be stressful for people."

Clough said many individuals involved in New Hope's groups have been communicating among each other to share feelings and emotions since the attacks occurred. Just the same,

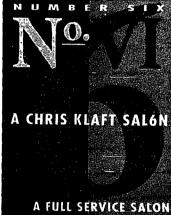

Clough said based on her experience, the suggestion that Americans need to "get back to normal" is not only easier said than done, but also teeters on impossibility.

"It's scary to me when someone says 'Let's get back to normal'," Clough said. "It's never going to get normal as it once was. What people are going to experience is a new definition of normality, but there's not going to be a return to what once was.

Community organizations rally to help America

By LON HUHMAN Staff Writer

All of America is trying to do its part to aid the victims, emergency workers and the families affected by the World Trade Center tragedy, and now several organizations in Northville are jumping in and asking residents for assistance with the relief effort.

"Millions [of dollars] have been donated, but millions more is needed," Northville Community Foundation President Shari Peters said. "This is a national tragedy and I hope everyone will at least contribute what they can to assist our neighbors in New York."

The Northville police and fire departments from the city and Northville Township have also stepped up the effort to collect donations for the emergency relief and for the families of the firefighters who died during the collapse of the World Trade Center towers. According to city fire chief James Allen, fire department employees began their donation collection last Friday and proceeded to collect contributions throughout the Victorian Festival weekend. "I would like to thank everyone for their contributions." Allen said. The response was overwhelming during the Victorian Festival."

Allen said the city police and fire departments collected nearly $8,500 for the New York departments over the weekend. The township department collected donations as well. Township firefighter Guy Balok said on Friday night, Northville residents contributed more than $500 in less than three hours. Balok is the president of the Northville Township Professional Firefighter's Union, which is still accepting donations at NTPFFU P.O. Box 701428, Plymouth, Mich.

Friday has also been designated as a fundraising day by the city fire department. The "Fill the Boot Campaign" has been organized by several departments in southeast Michigan in order to raise funds for the families of those firefighters who lost their lives or were severely injured in the collapse. From 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., city firefighters will be at designated intersections, such as Main and Center streets. accepting donations for the New York Fire 911 Relief Fund.

The departments will also be working in conjunction with the

New York Fire Department in the form of a check. Peters said this donation has no specific designation and would be used by the New York department in areas as deemed necessary.

"They definitely know the areas of need, so we will send it to them and let them decide," Peters said.

There are specific collection locations for the New York Fire Department donation fund. Residents can send their contribution to the Community Foundation or they stop by personally at the office at 321 N. Center Street where they can also pick up the red, white and blue ribbons the Foundation is two years."

If the majority of voters decide to reject the bond proposal, she said the district would lose an entire school year of implementing the planned projects.

"[The district] won't be able to match materials for the high school addition if we delay this passage," said Nield. "We will be forced to spend money on portables. To have to buy more portables is not quality use of district money."

School officials said the district is in need of additional space due to rising enrollment figures and the school system desires to maintain its low student-to-teacher ratios.

"I get the feeling that most people agree it's very needed," said Nield. "I think it's important they get them-selves to the polls and vote. It only takes about five minutes."

According to school officials, the cost for each of the bond projects are as follows:

- Construct a new elementary school: $14,034,990
- · Construct a storage addition at Amerman Elementary: $303,838 Construct four classrooms, gymnasium and remodel the south cen-

The new recreation center at Hillside Middle School is nearly complete, but some financial details needed to be ironed out during the Northville City Council meeting last Monday.

The Northville Township Board of Trustees will also review the final project budget amount during its meeting tonight.

By a 4-1 vote, the city council approved the final project budget amount of $874,700. However, council member Kevin Hartshorne did not give his vote of confidence to the final amount due to his opinion that the cost sharing agreement with Northville Township did not make sense. Hartshorne said splitting the costs equally with the township was incorrect because of the differences in population and collected property taxes between the two municipalities.

The Hillside subcommittee recommended the entire project be divided between the city and township as it was originally approved and the city council concurred. The original approval had 50 percent of the project budget shared equally by the city and township with the remaining 50 percent loaned to the Northville Parks and Recreation by the township over a 15-year period. The city's share of the cost now totals just under $212,000, according to City Manager Gary Word.

The approval was given after it was recommended by Word that the council concur with the Hillside sub-committee on the final cost of the project, which had been under construction this summer. The Northville Parks and Recreation Commission has only recently moved into the new center.

"The pre-approved project budget amount of $750,000 did not include technology or office furnishings costs as they were unknowns at the time the prelimi-nary budget was approved." Word said. "With the assistance of the Northville public schools technology staff, Gracon Services and Allied Communications, the subcommittee was able to determine the technology options available and projected cost for each option.

Word said the costs are now known and have been included in the final project cost. In addition, Word said a decision by the subcommittee to replace the pool boiler was made in an effort to provide the best possible cost-efficient facility. The subcommittee includes assistant city manager Nickie Bateson, Northville Township trustee Marv Gans and parks and recreation director Traci Sin-

Renovations to Hillside for the new recreation center include the installation of a third volleyball court, resurfacing and painting the basketball floor and painting the entire facility.

The former concession stand area is now the customer service counter and the former weight/fitness room has been converted to administrative space for the parks and recreation staff. The pool area has been entirely upgraded, as well.

A community open house and dedication ceremony is scheduled for Oct. 12 from 6 p.m. until 9

Ford Field rededicated at festival

By LON HUHMAN

The dedication ceremony for Ford Field left those in attendance with a feeling of community spirit as the historical field's renovation process remains underway.

"I'm glad to have the ceremony on this beautiful day as well as being able to celebrate the Ford Field Dedication with the community during the Victorian Festival," Northville Parks and Recreation Commission Director Traci Sincock said last Sunday at the ceremony held at the park off of Griswold Street adjacent to the Mill Race Village. "There are many people to thank.

Representatives from Northville city and township attended the ceremony, in addition to a number of residents.

Sincock proceeded to thank the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, as well as the City of Northville, Northville's Downtown Development Authority and the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation for their financial contritiative, the DNR allocated $346,750 toward the nearly $513,000 project.

We owe a big thanks to the City of Northville for their significant contribution of $225,250," Sincock

Sincock also thanked the DDA for its $50,000 donation. The park is within DDA boundaries and the development group provided funding because they believe such a park in the downtown area is important for residents, Sincock

"I must also thank the tireless volunteers from the Friends of Northville Parks and Recreation, especially Marv Gans, for their $33,900 contribution and the efforts they have made to help the parks and recreation commission," Sincock said. "I also appreciate the help and work of Charles VanDuesen."

manager for the project. The project contractors were Summit Transport, G and B Electric and C and H Landscaping. The landscape architecture was done by Russell Design of Northville. "I liked to thank the residents who came out today, this has been a week to remember," mayor Chris Johnson said at the ceremony. "As we begin to rebuild our nation, we are also rebuilding our community."

The ceremony also gave parks and recreation commissioner Matt Cowles the opportunity to thank all those involved and who have helped with the project. In addition, Marc Russell of Russell Design presented Sincock with a plaque thanking her for her conviction to the parks and recreation commission as well as to the children of Northville.

Russell said Sincock's work on this project has enabled prosperity to be handed down to the children of Northville.

Over the summer, workers tore up concrete and spent time grading fields for the new soccer and base ball fields.

Other park components include a bike and pedestrian pathway around the park perimeter and which connects to Cabbagetown, a 35-foot pedestrian bridge over the Middle Rouge River to Mill Race Village and accessible parking to the park and the playscape.

A boulder retaining wall has also been constructed along the southeast section of the park, which separates the park from downtown.

The pedestrian bridge was installed by former Northville resident Sean Morrisey. Sincock said the new athletic field lighting will soon be installed and then after that seeding of the field will go forward. She said Ford Field will officially open in the spring of 2002.

Help is being accepted by the Salvation Army in the form of cash contributions and cantina assistance to those who were stranded at Detroit Metro Airport. Hall said passengers who found themselves grounded in Detroit following the Federal Aviation Administration's decision to ground planes found help in the Salvation Army's contribution of food, drink and blankets.

Since that time, however, inquiries have continued to come in to Hall's office from residents wondering about how they can offer assistance, Hall said Friday that monetary contributions were the most useful to the organization.

"They're communicating back and forth to try to find missing people and help out," Hall said.

In addition to financial aid and search assistance, Hall said the Salvation Army - itself a Protestant church - was offering spiritual comfort to those seeking solace.

"As a church congregation, we've had special services over the last few days," Hall said. "People need comfort.

auction Tuesday, Sept. 25. The benefit is being organized by Zonta of Farmington/Novi and proceeds from the event will be earmarked for First Step, a domestic and sexual violence intervention and prevention pro-

Northville residents Karen Bell-Brege and Darren Brege and fellow comedians will be performing from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle, located at 269 E. Fourth Street in Royal Oak.

According to ' Patricia McCarthy, a benefit volunteer with First Step, the Breges are members of a six-person troupe known as Totally Unrehearsed Theatre. She said the event will include a strolling buffet, a silent auction, raffle and door prizes. Auction highlights will include airline tickets for two, an all-women fishing trip, a Bally's membership, a bonsai class, golf packages, a Zamboni ride and Red Wings tickets.

"The community has been very responsive," said McCarthy. "We expect about 300 people. For the first year, that's great."

She said money will for raised for First Step through sponsorships, ticket sales, auctions and donations.

"First step is a very important program to the communities of western Wayne County, including Northville," said McCarthy. "One of every four girls and one of every seven boys will be sexually assaulted before age 18. This is an alarming statistic. Locally, First Step serves many individuals and families who are seeking help. That's why I think it's so important that the community get behind Zonta and First Step.

According to McCarthy, the Zonta Club of Farmington/Novi area is part of a worldwide organization of women executive working together to advance the status of women.

pected that the crashes were not accidental. Hospital officials said it was necessary to evacuate the building because the location is one of the highest structures in the area. Once out on the street, Simkins' as well as other New York residents' ordeal was just beginning.

There were people running and crying. I could see the smoke billowing out from the direction of the World Trade Center Building once I got out onto the street," Simkins said. "I had to walk nearly 20 blocks to my hotel. I stayed at the Hotel Wales and from where I was located I had to walk in the direction of the trade center.

He said the streets were chaotic with sirens, emergency crews and frightened people. Police were quickly barricading streets as well. Being a novice to the streets of New York, Simkins was unsure at first, but he said he knew that he had to make it home.

"I couldn't get on a plane, taxi cabs were not picking anyone up and Grand Central Station was packed with people trying to get out of the city. I was very lucky to be able to rent a car at a small New York rent-a-car company. I didn't care what type of car it was," Simkins said. "I also bought some maps because I had no idea on how to get around and out of the city.'

Simkins said the streets were very eerie as he drove, looking for a way out of the city. He said streets, such as Lexington Avenue, that are normally crowded with traffic were empty. The confusion of the situation also led to a rush for money at the banks as Simkins drove along.

"I passed banks that only hours after the plane crashes were packed and the lines were half a block long," Simkins said. "At the post office there were men in postal uniforms armed with hand guns standing guard outside as

Simkins eventually arrived at the Lincoln Tunnel hoping to make his way into New Jersey and finally home. He said when he arrived at the tunnel he began a four wait that included befriending several men from New Jersey that were hoping to get home that day as well. During his wait, Simkins had time to change clothes and buy his new friends some pizza and soda, but an opportunity finally presented

"There were police officers coming in and out of the one tunnel entrance with their sirens blaring, so it did not look hopeful that I could get into the tunnel, Simkins said. "However, I noticed my new friends from New Jersey moving into the second tunnel entrance. I figured they knew what they were doing so I followed them in.'

He said as he moved into the tunnel a man in a business suit flagged him down and asked for a ride to New Jersey. Simkins obliged and he finally arrived in New Jersey and then left for home in Michigan.

"I drove straight home and arrived there at 6 a.m. I knew my family would be concerned about me, so it was good to finally make it home," Simkins said. "I really did not know the extent of the damage until I arrived home and saw the footage as well as the towers crumble on television. It was way more sickening than what I had initially saw."

and mourn them," Johnson said at the vigil. "However, we must also rededicate ourselves to the cause of freedom. It is the American spirit to rise to the challenge."

The prayers offered, all centered on using faith and strength to overcome the hardships. The emotions were felt all through the crowd of people who gathered around the speech platform at the intersection.

"This was a great way to reconnect with our neighbors and with the core values of America," Northville resident Lynn Schafer said at the parade. "This demonstrates our solidarity and national pride."

The weekend rolled on smooth-

POSED?

According to school officials, the new elementary would accommodate the projected peak enrollment and would be of adequate size to implement the board of education's lowered class size targets. In addition, the Amerman storage addition will provide space to properly store cafeteria tables, equipment, folding chairs and supplies.

The additional classrooms and the remodeling of the south centrum at Moraine Elementary and the additional classrooms at Winchester Elementary will provide space to implement lower class sizes and provide adequate space for special classes, said school officials

The Northville High School addition will accommodate the projected peak enrollment of approximately 2,200 students. The current facility is expected to exceed capacity in 2005-2006 using the most likely projection, officials said.

In addition, the fiberoptic cabling project will connect the new elementary school to the district's wide area network and will provide a redundant loop for many of the district's school buildings.

School officials said that the need for increased classroom and building space has become mandatory for the district. With enrollment fig-al room is needed to accommodate the level of growth and will enable the district to keep class sizes low.

Residents wishing to vote absentee can do so on Saturday, Sept. 22 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Northville Schools Business Office located at 501 W. Main Street in Northville. The office can be reached at (248) 344-8444.

Last week's attacks on New York over. In our estimation, it's unfair to and Washington forced all other news items to second-class status. This week, as America and Northville begin to reconstruct daily lives and regular habits, we turn our attention again to matters of local importance. For voters in Northville, there's none more critical than Tuesday's Northville school bond election. We believe residents would be well-advised to vote YES on the proposal. The district will be asking for more than $28 million for construction of a new elementary school, expansion of Northville High School, technological improvements across the district, and a smattering of other needed projects in a growing community. Having spoken with administrators, teachers. residents and students, we're convinced the bond issue is a cause worth pursuing.

At the same time, we strongly disagree with the method the district is using to acquire land upon which to build a new elementary school. That process involves a property-foroversight deal between the district and Farmington Hills-based developer Grand Sakwa. Accepting the deal — which is absolutely within the district's legal rights - is nonetheless setting a precedent that could very easily come back to haunt the district at a later date. Worse yet, the bargain being struck forces us to ask why thousands of taxpayer dollars were spent two years ago to fight for the same right

In short, the proposal is both necessary and right, and while we take great exception to school board's selective construction governance policies, we see no reason to punish students and faculty for it. We encourage a YES vote on the Sept. 25 Northville school bond issue.

A good-sized crowd takes to downtown Northville on Saturday afternoon to take a look at the 2001 Victorian:

■ Community has an obligation to kids

As the election date approaches on Tues day, Sept. 25, the school bond issue has come to the forefront. Our community needs to maintain the level of educational excellence we have developed and cultivated. Without additions to Moraine Elementary and Winchester Elementary, the classroom sizes will expand accordingly causing a larger teacher-to-student ratio. As our community continues to grow, we must expand our educational facilities to accommodate the growing population of students. Northville High School will be at capacity by the year 2004, however it was built to allow for additions needed as our population grows. A larger high school will benefit students by providing for them with a greater selection of electives and enhance their educational options.

We, as a community, have an obligation to continue to provide for our children the quality of education that Northville has become known for.

Forsthoefel

■ Recent grad has seen district grow

In 1981 my parents moved to Northville. Although they did not yet have children, they were drawn by the reputation of the school district, as well as the importance the people of the community seemed to place on education? I was born in 1983 and began my education at Amerman Elementary School in the fall of 1988. My family lived next to Moraine Elementary but it had been previously closed due to declining enrollment. Can you imagine declining enrollment? Wow! What a different situation our community now faces

As a member of the 2001 graduating class, I am grateful that I had the opportunity to attend my senior year at the new Northville High School. When the school was dedicated last fall, I represented the student body as the Student Congress President and thanked the community for supporting this incredible learning environment. No longer were classes overcrowded to the point of meeting in storage areas, nor were the hallways nearly impassable.

What a great place for teachers to teach and students to learn. Unfortunately, as Northville and the surrounding area continues to be developed, overcrowding will again become an issue, as it already has at the elementary level.

This past week I started my freshman year at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. I am grateful for the education that I received through the Northville Public Schools and I am confident that as a result of that education I can compete with students from all over the country and achieve the goals I have set for myself. Exceptional teachers and growing up in a community that emphasizes the importance of education have helped prepare me for the future.

So, whether you are a long time resident of Northville, or relatively new to the area, I ask you to consider several things before you vote in the upcoming millage election. Is the education of our young people a top priority in your opinion? Are you proud of the fact that the Northville Public School District has the reputation of being one of the top districts in the state? Do you want the children of our community to continue to receive a quality education?

Remember — the students of today are the leaders of tomorrow. I encourage you to vote "yes" on Sept. 25.

■ Need for space hasn't been proven

For many years to come, every property owner in the Northville School District will be paying for the last bond issue - $63 million plus interest. This time the public school people want $28 million-plus. The Record has not investigated their "over capacity" claims or explained how this relates to "overcrowding," the usual basis for bond requests. In fact, the only newspaper in town has been running their bond campaign complete with logo. Today, our public school facilities including the underutilized $51 million Northville High School on Six Mile Road are considered by many to be the best in Michigan. The Hillside Middle School has only 600 students in a building that served 1,400 just two years ago. The Hillside capacity is now defined down to 819. The Cooke building that had 500 middle schoolers now serves 130 special education students. Although only 10 percent of the students come from Northville, we are paying for the Last year I participated on the Future

Facilities Committee during four months of fact finding. The Record's promising young education reporter worked the first two meetings. Then her investigative reporting on the Northville High School seminar period fiasco ran afoul of the public education

The committee was told that apartment and luxury condo complexes send few children to our public schools. We suspected that new homes priced at $500,000-plus are not starter homes with lots of elementary (K-5) children. We were unable to obtain the school bus data to prove the point. This absence of facts permitted everybody to imagine that enrollment growth from expensive new homes causes system wide over capacity.

Today, Northville class sizes are at historical lows and are among the smallest in the Detroit area. The school board's bonding class sizes are about 20 percent lower. When combined with the acclaimed Stanfred projections, tiny class sizes will put the new high school over capacity in 2005. A few years after that classrooms will be overcrowded. The committee didn't attempt to predict the impact of a new Catholic Central High School in Novi upon the Northville High School enrollment (or the football team). It's at least two years too soon to fund the expensive classroom expansion at the new high school.

At one meeting I was reminded by a teacher that my kids went to Amerman with more than 700 others. Today, fewer than 500 children attend an enlarged and improved Amerman Elementary. The princioal, one of the committee leaders, claimed that his school is overcrowded. Future elementary school enrollments will decline due to an extremely low birth rate. Stanfred projected a total increase of 160 in grades K-5 over the next few years and a return to current levels by 2006. The new OLV school may also reduce future enrollment.

The district owns five temporary classrooms and four of our elementary classrooms are used "privately" for preschool. Here, the public schools compete with religious and private programs that must pay for their own buildings. All nine classrooms could be used to handle the K-5 enrollment bulge. A new elementary school may never be needed.

The deepening economic downturn when combined with auto sector downsizing, 401(k) reductions and bonus eliminations will stall growth in Northville. The Northville Record, our only community newspaper, should have independently researched and printed all of the facts necessary for a good citizen to make an informed decision.

Cassis: America must move ahead

I come to you this month with a heavy heart shared by so many of you.

Like everyone in America, I was deeply grieved to watch the terrorist strikes against our nation unfold before our eyes on television. Although the attacks wrought devastation to our buildings, they have not crushed our spirit.

By standing tall, we are demonstrating to terrorists in every corner of the world that American citizens are united in the mission of ferreting out the people responsible for this terrible catastrophe.

In the aftermath, it is important for us to reverently respect the lives that were lost. These were not faceless people. They were friends and neighbors, brothers and sisters, and mothers and fathers. We must remember their sacrifice and honor their memory by fighting to end terrorism in this world.

We also must continue the great tradition of charity in this nation. Many people have been seriously injured in New York and Washington and we can support them by donating blood to the American Red Cross.

For information on how to donate blood, volunteer or make a financial contribution. contact a local Red Cross facility in our area at 1-800-448-3543. Internet users also can make donations directly online at www.redcross.org, or find pertinent local information by entering your zip code on the site.

Even in the ruin, the Statue of Liberty still stands tall in the New York harbor. It bears the torch of freedom and democracy for all to see. It remains a beacon.

■ Too little info for voting 'yes' on bond

On Sept. 25, the voters of Northville will be asked to approve a $28 million bond proposal for Northville Public Schools. The justification for this proposal has been, at best, vague.

We are not told why the computer ready Cooke School has been handed over for county-wide usage for special education programs. Cooke should have been preserved for district use as an elementary school in light of the "projections" repeated ly bandied about by the NPS. No one disputes the need for special education programs, but why should district taxpayers be forced unnecessarily to shoulder the financial burden of a new school? While on the subject of school use, what is the current use of the Old Village School, and could that not be used to expand the elementary classroom availability?

Rather than substantive information, we are simply handed pabulum that the projections (which I have not seen and were made by an unheard-of firm), for class size goals may be exceeded. The data base of these projections has not been disclosed. Certainly there has been a significant increase in new home construction. Nonetheless, not all of these homes will contain school age children, and some of those will likely be home-schooled or attend private schools.

We are suffering a significant economic downturn, with consequent layoffs. With the recent terrorist actions, the market outlook is uncertain. The possibility of military action increases instability. A wait-and-see attitude regarding the bond proposal is called for.

What should we do? Initially, vote "no" on the proposal. Next, require that NPS reclaim and use Cooke as the new elementary school. If additional space is needed, then use the portables already bought and paid for by our taxes, on a temporary basis. While class size is important, the quality of education is not a function of new vs. existing facilities. It is the caliber of the teachers and parents that has made NPS exceptional, not new structures and money spent on the "if come."

doubt the comparison is apt, both as to the crushing damage of a surprise attack and the doubts about America's will to fight a sustained conflict. Here's what President Franklin D. Roosevelt said just after that attack, nearly 60 years

"Always will we remember the character of the onslaught against us. No matter how long it may take us to overcome this premeditated invasion, the American people in their righteous might will win through to absolute victory. I believe I interpret the will of the Congress and of the people when I assert that we will not only defend ourselves to the uttermost, but will make very certain that this form of treachery shall never endanger us again."

Almost certainly, the spawning grounds for these attacks are the desert sands of the Arab world, where religious fanaticism seems an evolutionary adaptation necessary for survival. The Irish poet, William Butler Yeats, caught a glimpse of it:

"Hardly are these words out,

When a vast image out of Spiritu Mundi Troubles my sight; somewhere in the sands

A shape with lion body and the head of a

I wouldn't be at all surprised if last week's attacks will go down in history as the first big engagement of what's likely to turn out to be World War III. This time, however, the enemy is not an imperialist or dictatorial nation state, but cultural battle pitting us against a widespread network of true believers who consider those who compassionately tolerate differences to be merely weak. Yeats, again, foresaw it:

How, then, can we come to understand the terrible tragedy of the loss of so many wholly innocent people? In part by recalling with the English poet, Rupert Brooke, the sad details of the daily divinity of the lives of those we never knew and who we have now lost:

"These hearts were woven of human joys and cares,

There is no doubt that we have suffered a defeat in the deaths of thousands of innocent people and in our collective loss of innocent security. And there is no doubt that what we now face will be long, difficult and perilous, calling for more wisdom and creativity than military might. The point is this: people and things entirely foreign to my puppy were at least treated with civility, if not out-and-out joy.

When I returned home from the festival Friday, I clicked on the television and heard a panelist on one of the thousands of roundtable discussions refer to Osama bin Laden as "an animal." At that very moment, Sammy put her front paws on my lap, darted forward and began licking my nose, egging me on to play with her.

■ Keep schools strong — 'yes!'

I am writing to remind people to vote 'yes' to keep our schools strong on Sept. 25. I do not know every-thing that has happened or should of happened in the past that has lead us to this point - the need for the bond. What I do know is that my family moved here because of the excellent reputation of the schools. I know that my daughter spent last year in a school that spent lots of time and effort trying to accommodate all the new students coming in each week.

I know that my daughter is in a different school this year that is again wasting time and effort trying to handle the overcrowding. I know that by the time my twin 3 year olds attend an elementary school that their kindergarten class size will be m the upper 20's instead of the 17 per class that the district would

■ Needs are clear in election

It was a great privilege for me to serve this community as a school board member from 1996 through 2000. I have been reminded of that fact time and time again as I've talked to numerous neighbors, parents, friends, and elected officials during recent weeks while campaigning for passage of the school bond proposal. Northville is home to the most generous, selfless, and community-minded people and businesses you could ever hope to meet. Look at any of our unique attributes or resources, and its origin can inevitably be traced to the vision and hard work of one or more dedicated Northville citizens.

I would encourage all residents of the school district to keep this "spirit of community" in mind when they head to the polls on Sept. 25 We are a dynamic, thriving community with a reputation for excellence on many fronts. We cannot rest on our laurels, however, if we hope to maintain this excellence in the face of continued growth. The Board of Education called this election only after 1) two committees comprised of volunteer parents, community members, teachers, and administrators studied these issues for many months and made their recommendations to the Board; and 2) the state Department of Treasury validated this work and confirmed the present need for Northville Public Schools to add the facilities and technology infrastructure which are the subject of the bond proposal.

Given the two to three years it takes to complete a major construction project, we must act now in order to avoid wasting potentially hundreds of thousands of precious operating dollars on temporary "trailer" classrooms, suffering dramatic increases in elementary class size at all buildings, or both. Passage of the bond proposal also allows the District to take advantage of presently lower interest rates to decrease it borrowing costs.

If you need further information about the bond proposal, please visit www.cenc.org. Let us continue to work together to keep our schools and our community strong by voting 'yes' on Sept. 25.

When it comes to Northville Mustangs senior basketball guard Kelly Anderson, sports is a huge part of her life. Anderson, who hopes to continue her education at either the University of Michigan or Michigan State, said that sports have just always been a part of her life.

"Sports have been a part of my life since I was a little kid and I love them," she said. "I started off as a gymnast but that didn't last too long. Anderson, the basketball team's 5'5 senior captain shooting guard, has effectively been a four-year starter for the Mustangs, save for a stretch in the middle of her sophomore year when an ACL injury sidelined her for a spell.

Anderson's coach, Pete Wright, said Anderson came to the team with the raw talent necessary to be a good basketball player and has refined those skills during her time spent in

"She's always been a great defender, but she's really become a better shooter since she started playing with us," Wright said. "I see a lot more her pushing the ball up the floor and slashing

Game of the Week Mustang football should do fine against Western

Let's go Mustangs! The Northville Mustangs football team will be visiting the Walled Lake Western Warriors tomorrow in a game that should prove very excit-

The Mustangs will be taking to the gridiron behind the strong arm and determination of senior quarterback Drew Herpich while relying on the running ability of senior Matt Cornelius to lead them past the aggressive Warriors defense.

The Warriors will be looking to roll their quarterback out of the pocket to either run with the football if the defensive ends of the Northville dline do not contain or to throw a quick five and out or out and up pattern to their fairly speedy receivers

Another threat the Warriors pose to the Mustang defense is the thunder and lightening attack of Steve Bell and Steve VanNortwick. Bell is a powerful runner that will not be taken down with a simple arm tackle. He has quick feet and a wide field-vision that enables him to avoid tackles coming from his left and right.

Though VanNortwick runs more like a finesse runner, he has the ability to power through a defender trying to tackle him high instead of hitting him in the thighs.

The Mustangs will have the benefit of a very aggressive defensive linebacker corps that reads the ball well and reacts quickly in most situations. Defensive back Tım Downing has proved his worth time and time again by running down players who should easily have

Downing's speed and lightening reflexes combined with his impressive power will be enough to make him a defender the Warriors will have to think twice about throwing

The offense will use the quick thinking of Herpich and the power running of Cornelius to lead the way but will not shy away from using their receivers against a defense that cheats up on the ball. Herpich has a nice ability to put the ball where only his receivers are able to catch it - the only problem with that is his receivers often have trouble making a grab at their finger tips. Expect to see some more of Brandon Scott, who is not afraid to go inside and sacrifice his body for the catch.

Downing will no doubt see the ball on more that one occasion on the offensive side of the pigskin as will consistent runner Adam Dilley, who usually notches a decent 20plus yards a game.

The only problem the offense may face is the missed assignments that plagued the offensive line during the Continued on 2

Northville 'Stangs stomp Franklin

By SAM EGGLESTON Sports Reporter

Now that is the way to do it. The Northville Mustangs football team rushed, passed and allaround outplayed the Franklin Patriots Friday as they earned a 31-10 win.

We were able to do a little bit more this game compared to Canton." coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We were hitting the holes with more speed and executing our assignments much bet-

The Mustangs jumped to an early lead in the contest as senior quarterback Drew Herpich connected with Robert Cameron on a 15-yard scoring strike to put the 'Stangs up 6-0 before Northville took their next possession and fed it to Matt Cornelius, who took it 12 vards for the score with 2 minutes, 55 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

"Matt is a good player, Schumacher said. "Not only can he block well but he can run with the football as well. With Matt in the backfield. we are able to run a little more one back and it looked good."

The Patriots managed to climb onto the scoreboard after a Herpich interception in the second quarter when Franklin's Andy Siefert nailed a 22-yard field goal to pull the Patriots to 12-3.

The Patriots quickly added another score after a Northville fumble during the kick off led to a Robert Rzetbiny touchdown from three vards out.

"We had a couple of problems on special teams," Schumacher said. "There are a few things we will need to work on in order to be ready for Walled Lake Western.

The Mustangs responded immediately as Cornelius took the ball around the left end for a 92-yard jaunt into the endzone with 4:43 left in the second quarter, notching himself the fourth place spot in the all-time record book of the Northville Mustangs.

Soon after the Mustangs added another score on the board as Herpich found Brandon Scott for a 26-yard score with 55 seconds left in the half. Pat Kelleher added the extra point to put the 'Stangs up

The Mustangs tied Salem Monday 4-4 after shelling Franklin 8-0 September 14 and Farmington Harrison 7-1 on September 12.

"I was a little disappointed today (Monday)," Northville coach Sandy Woolfall said. "I was not hoping for a tie here, I was hoping for a win. Other than that, the team has really improved and played very well." The Mustangs used wins by Lauren West (7-5, 6-2) at first singles as well as wins in second doubles with Jamie Lindholm and Erica Dobson topping Amy Geick and Aarti Bakshi 6-1, 6-1, doubles Stephanie Patterson and Kelly Harrison edging April Aquitno and Sam Newton 6-3, 7-5 and fourth doubles Amanda Retzbach and Megan Bensette defeating Kerry Griffith and Eryn Ross 6-0, 7-5.

"I thought the girls played very well and the Salem coach said this was the best he has seen his players play," Woolfall said. Lauren was down 4-1 in the first set and came back to win 7-5, 6-to the basket. There's a lot of quickness and intensity out there."

The Franklin victory found the Mustangs sweeping all of the flights with an 8-0 victory.

Anderson said that basketball has always been one of her favorite

"I like the smaller numbers playing at one time," Anderson said. "I like the team atmosphere more too. It just seems that the team is a little bit closer in basketball than in other sports."

Not only strong at basketball. Anderson is also an accomplished soccer player. Wright said the two sports, while seemingly very different, share several common attributes that have contributed to Anderson's success in hoops.

"They're both team sports, so there's a great deal of commonality there," he said. "There are a lot of things you do in both soccer in basketball, like trying to put yourself in the best position to take shots."

Wright said Anderson, who holds a 3.7 GPA, provides the kind of senior leadership so necessary during crunch-time situations. Her presénce, he said, is often a guiding force to younger players.

"She's learned a lot about what it takes to win," Wright said "She understands how hard you have to work and how to get over both the physical and mental hurdles to make things happen out there."

Though this is Anderson's senior ear, the thought of her future hasn't really been her foremost thought.

"I am not really sure about my future as of right now," Anderson said. "I am probably going to end up attending Michigan State University. I would like to become a nurse."

Anderson's departure at the end of the season will force Wright to find a new leader for the Mustangs - a tall order to fill.

"We're going to miss Kelly most of all from a leadership standpoint," Wright said "She's meant a lot to this team through the years."

Anderson said that her family is an important aspect of her life.

"I have two brothers," she said. "David is 22 and Stephen in 11, he is really into sports. I also have one sister who is 20. Her name is Kara and nght now she is in Ireland studying abroad. My dad's name is Richard and my mom's name is Barb.

They have always been there for me and I love them dearly," Anderson said and added that she likes to spend some of her time "hanging out with my brother."

There is not much about Anderson that separates the athlete from the person behind the athlete - a trait that shows her dedication to her sports and a dedication to her life are equally strong.

"I work hard at pretty much everything I do," Anderson said. "You can't expect things to come to you unless you are willing to work to get them."

Canton massacre. The big boys up front will have to get used to the Warriors showing blitz on every play with anywhere from six to 11 players coming up on the line at a time. If the center, guards and tackles cannot protect Herpich or give the runners any room, it may turn out to be a long night for the Mustangs and their fans.

The Warriors (3-1) will no doubt have the hands full with Northville (3-1) in a game that neither team can really afford to lose at this point and time. Both teams' schedules continue to climb in difficulty and they will be facing teams in mid-season form as of next week.

Right now I am counting on a Northville victory behind their talented skilled position players — as long as the offensive line can hold their own in the trenches it should look like a rodeo with the Mustangs running wild.

"Everyone is improving and seem to be continuing to improve. Our only real tough teams left are Farmington and Stevenson and we have a little while before we play them."

The Harrison match found the Mustangs walking away with a 7-1 win with the only loss coming to first singles Allison Long against Diana Platt (4-6, 4-6).

The 'Stangs earned wins as Price pulled out a tough match over Ashley Franco (6-7, 6-4, 6-4) in two singles, Tao earned a win against Kristin Schrock (6-4, 6-1) in third singles and f Krstevich topped Michelle White (6-2, 6-4) in fourth singles.

Doubles action found Lauren Farris and Sarah Poirier topping Abbey Cleland and Laura Glynn (6-0, 6-4) in first doubles while

Patterson and Harrison beat Lindsey Branch and Megan Saxe

Third doubles found Retzbach and Bensette winning over Kristin Glynn and Rachel Wanley 6-1, 6-2 and fourth doubles resulted in Jennifer LeFresne and Frimendo topping Whitney Ronan and Nicole Miller 6-2, 6-3.

The Mustangs will face Walled Lake Central today before taking on Canton tomorrow.

"It was pretty much back and fourth from there," Schumacher said. Zach Wollack had two nice pass defensive plays. One was in the endzone that I am sure would have been a touchdown and the other stopped a first down when they were on the 19-yard line. That could have changed things if he would not have made those plays."

The Mustangs notched 337 yards of total offense and held the Patriots to 106. Herpich went 5-of-10 for 79 yards while Darryl Delaney added a nine yard pass, going one-for-one, when he connected with Dave Quick to sustain a fourth quarter drive to help run down the clock.

The Northville Mustangs boys soccer team notched two more wins to add to their collection as they get ready to take on the rest of the regular season schedule — including cross-town rival Novi.

The Mustangs earned a 1-0 win over Farmington Harrison as well as (2-0 win over Franklin recently:

"First of all I would like to praise Harrison coach Tim Russell for having done a tremendous job, Northville coach Henry Klimes said. They have improved a ton. That program has struggled for a long time and they played an outstand-

The Mustangs used a goal by sen-for stopper Jeff Ehehalt in the first half of the contest to pull ahead and claim the victory against the Harrison squad while Alex Richard added his fifth shutout to his record with the blanking of the Harrison kickers.

"Jeff Ehehalt has been playing great all year," Klimes said "He is something like a diamond in the rough. He has just been playing outstanding ball. Klimes said that he was happy to see Harrison's program being much improved from years past.

"Our past games against Harrison were six, seven or eight to nothing blowouts. Klimes said. To hold us to a 1-0 victory shows how much this Harrison team has improved." The Mustangs, who moved to 7.1 on the season with their wins (2:0 in the division), were fied with Franklin 0-0 at the end of the first half though they were pretty much completely dominating the play.

"We hit the post three times in the first half," Klimes said. "Robbie Harmer and Ben Sherman both hit the post during the first half, though Robbie hit it twice."

The Mustangs followed the lead of freshman target forward. James Hannah, who scored both goals for the Mustaings to give them the victory while Pat Kelleher had one of his best showings of the year.

"I felt that junior Pat Kelleher had his best outing of the year," Klimes said. "Now he is in trouble: He played so well that we are going to expect him to play like that all of the

The Northville girls swim and dive team notched another win and added a couple of state qualifying cuts to their growing number.

The Mustangs topped the North Farmington Raiders 98-88 as the 'Stangs collected first place victories in all but three events.

"In general, our team has been a little sick lately," first-year coach Tom Silak said. "We haven't swam as good as we want to or as good as we will in the near future.' The Mustangs notched wins in the 200 Medley relay as Amy

Black, Deirdre Schwiring, Jenny Carr and Shannon Hogan finished in 1 minute, 53.07 seconds. The Northville tankers also took firsts in the 200 free style as Erin Schubert finished in 2:03.07, in the 50 free with Jenny Carr qualifying for the state meet with a time of 0:25.36, Kim Veres notching a first in the diving event with a score of 188.90 and Carr notched another first and a state cut time in the 100 butterfly with a time of 1:01.42.

"Jenny has been swimming real well lately," Silak said. "This meet was one of Jenny's tremendously good meets."

The Mustangs took firsts in the 100 free with Schubert finishing in 56.83, Black taking the 500 free in 5:29.58, Schwiring finishing first in the 100 breastroke with a time of 1:12.82 and the 200 free relay team of Hogan, Schwiring, Schubert and Carr completing the event in 1:43.10.

'Shannon didn't take any individual firsts because we pretty much swam her in her worst events," Silak said. "We are expecting colleges to want to recruit her so we are trying to get a time for her in everything.

The Mustangs will host Franklin today at 7 p.m. at Northville High

"This is going to be our last home meet for a couple of weeks," Silak said. "I am hoping to see some personal best times out of some of the girls. Hopefully we can set a team record in the 400 free. The old record in 3:44.3, which was set before the electronic timer. We have a number of girls we can put in;it to see if we can break it or not."

Stangs cagers fall to Salem for second time in a row

By SAM EGGLESTON

Sports Reporter

The Northville Mustangs girls basketball team just can't seem to get the ball rolling against the Plymouth Salem Rocks.

For the second game in a row, the Northville Mustangs were held under 20 points as they fell to the stingy Rocks 23-15 September 13.

The Mustangs felt the same defensive smothering in the championship game of the Salem Invitational Basketball Tournament September 8th.

"It was the exact same type of game really," coach Pete Wright said of this game compared to the game against the Rocks the week before. "We did have a lead early when it was four to nothing but couldn't hold on. We had some good looks and I think we just gave too many good looks to them.

The Mustangs trailed 12-9 at the half but could not come back with the poor collective shooting of the entire team. The 'Stangs managed to put in only four of their 24 shots at the basket and hit only one-of-five free throws as the Rocks rolled to victory.

"Every possession means something in a game like that,"
Wright said. "We're right there but we are just a little short (of beating Salem)."

The Mustangs relied on the shooting ability of senior guard Kelly Anderson, who managed fling Salem defense to lead Northville in the losing effort. Emily Ott added four points to the total. "Ott did a great job for us playing defense inside," Wright said.

Tax loss selling may be a solution

What a grim reality! The typical growth oriented mutual fund is down significantly from where it used to be. We see it in our 401k/403b balances and in our month-end investment statements. While this menacing dark cloud hangs over the heads of investors everywhere, maybe there is a silver lining.

A technique known as "tax loss selling" might be a useful way to offset this ugly down market we're in. Tax law allows us to use realized investment losses to offset realized investment gains. If your investment losses exceed your investment gains, the law further allows you to use a maximum of $3,000 of those losses to offset ordinary income. If these losses exceed investment gains by more than $3,000, you are permitted to use these losses to offset gains in upcoming tax years (this is referred to as a capital loss carryforward). This carryforward represents a future "deduction" you will have in the year to come, and, if the carryforward is large enough, it may be used in the year after, and the year after, and so on.

In other words, you can claim a loss on one investment by selling it, and, using the proceeds from that sale, enter into another, different investment. Using this strategy means you locked in a loss, immediately made another

Bill Mansfield

Personal Finance

investment, and, therefore were never out of the market to risk missing an upswing. While tax law does give us the benefit described above, there is, of course, one small hitch to the law. An investor may not claim the losses to offset gains or income if the same or substantially identical security is repurchased within 30 days. In other words, if you sell shares in Company A to recognize a tax loss, then you buy those Company A shares back again within 30 days, it is defined as a wash sale. If a wash sale occurs, the IRS will disallow the loss. This is an advantage for mutual fund investors. Kind of like snowflakes, no two mutual funds are exactly alike, and, therefore, it is easier to satisfy the "same or substantially identical" verbiage in the tax code.

To determine if this strategy will be effective in your situation, you must consider the cost basis you have in your investment, the current market value of your investment, your applicable tax rate, etc. Your best bet is to rustle up the above information and pay your tax preparer and financial advisor a visit to ensure you will comply with IRS guidelines and subsequently make a suitable investment, both from a compliance perspective and also in relation to your own risk tolerance, time horizons, and other existing investments.

So while tax loss selling is probably not going to replace the money you've lost over the past year or so, it does give you a tool to use to take advantage of the opportunities presented by a down market

Making your pet look its best is a top priority for Ten Brennan of Briarpointe Veterinary Clinic. Brennan is the full-time groomer at the veterinary clinic, which is located at 47330 Ten Mile Road in Pets receive tender, loving treatment as they get pampered to look their absolute best.

Brennan, who has been in the pet grooming business for eight years, said the pets that come in will have their toenails cut, their ears cleaned, fur trimmed and will be bathed and blow-dried. A special shampoo and conditioner is used to make the coat clean and shiny. She also uses a variety of clippers, scissors and combs to help create a unique groomed look for your pet.

Animals are placed on top of a grooming station where Brennan inspects them and works to make each one look like a champion. She also said when pets are placed on the grooming table, they are typically more cooperative because they are out of their normal home or floor-level environment. Snarls

In just a few hours time, dirty hair and tangled fur can be cleaned and corrected, making a pet freshsmelling and looking polished.

For dogs and cats that typically grow long hair, she recommends routine grooming so that the fur will be less likely to become matted or tangled.

"For long-haired [animals], their hair tends to matte," she said. "Their hair gets in knots. Hair that sheds gets caught in the other

And the matting problem escalates.

To avoid snarls in the a pet's fur, regular grooming will keep a pet looking its best. Brennan recommends beginning to groom a pet when it reaches 12 weeks of age or

According to Brennan, such canine breeds like the shih-tzu typically have floor-length hair. However, many owners prefer to keep their fur length shorter for easier manageability.

"We get all breeds here," said Brennan, as she carefully groomed a shih-tzu named Cocoa.

Dogs aren't the only pets that can receive grooming, said Brennan. The site also equipped to groom cats as well.

Keeping a pet clean and trimming its long fur is essential, as it will benefit the animal and the owner as well. "You've got to keep them clean because a lot of dogs live inside,' said Brennan. "You want them to be clean and smell good.' She also said that regular grooming may also assist in keeping a pet healthy. Brennan said groomers may sometimes find an infection that the pet owner was previously unaware of. Following a thorough shampoo and rinse, pets like Cocoa are given a towel dry and sprayed with a conditioner designed to keep their fur shiny, deter tangling and it also helps repel dirt, said Other grooming that Brennan performs include shaving the pads of their feet, ears, belly and rear. Grooming time varies with the size of each animal and can vary from 90 minutes to three hours,

Taking a pet to a professional groomer will not only allow an expert to discover possible infections, but many animals will tend to be more cooperative in a grooming station than at home, due to being out of their regular environment. "A lot of people give up on trying to groom their dogs at home," said Brennan.

Grooming appointments are required and are typically scheduled two weeks ahead of time, she

Bella Bellagio

By Annette Jaworski

It's no surprise if the elaborate model home at Bellagio reminds you of the Fisher Mansion. The elegant model off Beck Road just South of 9 Mile Road took much of it's inspiration, inside and out from the grand old mansions of yesteryear, Palmer Woods and Grosse Pointe. Matthew Hatz, Director of Sales and Marketing for Cambridge Homes can't help but be excited about the project. After all, they searched high and low for just the right touches to accent this home. What began as a collection of ideas in a photo album turned into a hallmark building that's true to its name - Bellagio, which is Italian for "beautiful place of leisure."

Those places inspired us to do an Old World look," Hatz notes. The style flows throughout the interior and exterior and all the fine details in between. An old fashioned vestibule marks the entry. Once inside, the elegance is obvious, but not overdone from the paneled wood walls to the coffered ceilings in the den and family room. So much so, that it indeed looks like a home, or lived in, not a model on display.

Looking for a classic style, "We tried to create a neighborhood that in ten years won't date itself,"

Three different kinds of marble were used in the foyer. Leaded glass doors lead to the den which features warm wooden paneled walls and built in bookcases. A fireplace here is made of shiny granite ubatuba. Six layers of crown moulding were used in the upper and lower foyer. All the mouldings are oversized, such as eight inch baseboards, he adds.

The focal point of the living room showcases another timeless look, the limestone fireplace. This room also overlooks the patterned concrete terrace, surrounded by limestone banisters. Another entry off the kitchen leads to the terrace as well.

An oversized work island is centrally located in the kitchen. The pantry doors feature etched glass inserts using a vegetables or kitchen theme. A butler's pantry between the kitchen and formal dining room makes entertaining convenient. These doors can be closed for privacy.

The first floor master also has it's own private entrance onto the terrace. It features a mini suite area to serve fresh coffee and a small refrigerator as well. Etched glass mirrors, a walk in closet and a separate vanity area are part of the master bath. You'll also find a super shower with four heads enclosed in oversized Euro glass doors.

The grand stairway uses one continuous post all the way through to the bridge to the second floor. Halfway up the stairs, a window seat offers a view of a centrally located five-acre park and gazebo. On the second floor, you'll find a second laundry room as well as the remaining bedrooms.

This is the princess room," Hatz announces. Indeed, it's every little girls dream come true with a step up play area, even built in cupboards and her own make believe appliances. Two other rooms above are done in a golfers theme and a musical theme.

"Each bedroom has it's own seating area, a bath and walk in closet," he pointed out. The upstairs hallway leading to the bedrooms offers a dramatic view from the bridge. Below you'll see the living room, and the two story windows also allow an unobstructed view of the outdoors.

Down below is the play area, as Hatz puts it, including a fully equipped poolroom. A wine room here stocks enough wine for a wedding at 2500 bot-

Elephant-adorned vase has a very memorable history

By Anne McCollam COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

9. The hand-painted vase that appears in this photo has been in our family for years. It stands 7 inches tall and is in excellent condition. There is a figure sitting on an elephant on the front and a dragon with three claws on the back, all against a chocolate-brown background. It is also decorated with white dots and gold trim. On the bottom are the words "Hand Painted - Japan."

Could you please tell me something about its history, age and value?

A. Your vase is an example of Satsuma-style pottery. The first Satsuma wares were made in the early 1600s in the Japanese Satsuma Province on the island of Kyushu. Prior to the mid-18th century, Satsuma was undecorated. Floral decorations were introduced first and then, around 1800, they added geometric, diapers (repetitive patterns) and landscapes. By 1850, human figures, dragons, deities and warriors were included. The Japanese dragon with three claws and surrounded by flames or lightning is one of four supernatural animals

Your vase was made around 1930 during the Showa period and would probably be worth about $125 to $150

Q. The enclosed mark is on the bottom of a shallow porcelain bowl with a pierced border that I have. The bowl is decorated with sprays of pastel flowers and gold trim. It is in perfect condition.

What can you tell me about the manufacturer and its value?

A. The Carl Schumann Porcelain Factory located in Arzberg, Germany, made your bowl. Schumann has made porcelain from 1881 to the present. This mark was first used in 1896. The pierced border is usually referred to as reticulated. Your bowl would probably be worth about $125 to $150.

Q. In 1977, I bought a Sherwin-Williams metal sign for $100. A can of paint appears to be pouring paint on a globe. The advertising logo "Cover the Earth" is marked on the globe and, below that on a yellow panel, are the words "Sherwin-Williams Paints."

Can you tell me what it is worth today and approximately how old it is?

A. The Sherwin-Williams Paint Co. used your porcelain metal sign around the middle 1900s. Its value would probably be about

Q. For years I have been curious about a framed print that hung in my great-grandparents home. It is a scene flooded with a gorgeous blue and depicts a young person leaning over looking at another one sleeping in what looks like an ancient temple with two columns. There are hills and trees in the background. I was told the figures are Adam and Eve. The print measures 17 by 29 inches.

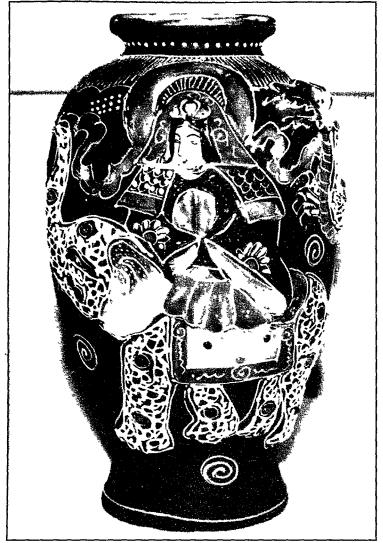

I have always loved this print and hope you can tell me something about it?

A. Judging from your description, you have one of Maxfield Parrish's most popular prints titled "Daybreak." The figures are of two young women, rather than Adam and Eve. This romantic idyllic scene continues to enchant people today as much as it did when it was published in 1923.

Parrish was an extremely successful and well-known illustrator. His work was widely reproduced in magazines, art prints, books, calendars and greeting cards. The luminous ethereal blue that you find so appealing and he so often used has become known as 'Partish Blue."

'Your print would probably fetch around $325 to $375 in an antiques shop

Q. I would like to know if you can give me information on my stoneware crock. It stands 27 inches high and 19 inches in diameter. On the front is the number "20" and, below that, is

Ash tree may be infected

By Jeff Rugg COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q. I have a green ash tree that is a year old. The leaves have holes in them as if something is eating them. They are also turning brown and dying. I also would like to know when to prune the tree so that it will branch out and be full instead of growing straight up.

A. Holes in leaves are caused by several things. Sometimes it is insects in the adult stage, such as beetles or earwigs, and sometimes the insects are in the larvae stage, such as a caterpillar. You must check the tree to see if you can find the insect and then you can determine the proper spray, or maybe iust knock off the insects and step on them. If the insects are already gone, there is no need to spray.

Another thing that causes holes is disease. Many diseases can infect the leaf and cause a discolored spot and then the spot may increase in size. The infected location often dies and the dead material falls out of the leaf. If this is the cause of your holes.

an insecticide will not do any good and it is too late to spray for the disease. You will need to watch the tree next year and spray the tree at the proper time. The turning brown part is more of a problem. Try to keep up with the watering, because a new tree like this still does not have a fully recovered root system. It will take at least a year for each inch of trunk diameter for the tree to replace the roots lost during transplanting. An ash tree is a forest type of tree that should be planted in a location that allows it to grow tall and wide. Do not prune the central trunk of the tree, let it grow straight up. Later in the fall, when the leaves are about to go dormant and, all the way up until next spring, you can prune the

The branches can have the last bud on the end of the branch cut off back to a pair of side branches or leaves. Each of the pair of side branches can also be pruned back to existing side branches or leaves. The new growth will come out next

Realtors Association makes HomeTown connection

■ 3,400 realtors sign on for HomeTown Digital's online tools

Thousands of local real estate agents will now have quick and easy access to the latest set of online business tools.

The Western Wayne and Oakland County Association of Realtors ® (WWOCAR) has signed a trail-blazing agreement with HomeTown Digital Inc. The partnership makes available at sharply reduced cost the entire range of on line business tools developed by HomeTown to the 3,400 Realtor ® members of WWOCAR.

The agreement was signed by WWOCAR President Teri Spiro. WWOCAR is one of the largest Realtor ® organizations in Michigan.

HomeTown Digital is a subsidiary Communications Network Inc., the parent company of a number of Michigan community newspapers, including the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, Mirror Newspapers and HomeTown Newspapers.

Diane Winkelman, a officer of the WWOCAR board of directors and a Realtor ® with Century 21 Hartford hailed the agreement: "We are ecstatic about this far-reaching agreement as it specifically addresses the marketing factors that help an agent's ability to be successful, namely high visibility exposure in a local Internet format," she said. "This partnership with the Internet division of the local newspaper organization best serves our community and our membership.'

Sam Gerardi, Marketing Manager at HomeTown Digital, said, "We're just delighted to be working with an organization as fine as WWOCAR. We worked closely with WWOCAR over several months to develop a special program tailored to meet the needs of real estate brokers and agents."

"As the World Wide Web has HomeTown matured, Internet business models have come back home where local media companies are delivering deep local content to the communities they serve," Gerardi continued. "We believe the suite of Internetbased produces we will make available to WWOCAR members will specifically address the marketing factors that help agents and brokers succeed in their business."

Sheri Bajorek, WWOCAR's Marketing Director, "WWOCAR is confident that this partnership will be of value to our membership and advantageous to both WWOCAR and HomeTown Digital. We look forward to marking HomeTown's tools to our 3,400 Realtors ®."

Included in the range of on line marketing and advertising products that will be made available at reduced price to WWOCAR members are eBusiness Cards and e Brochures, which include pictures of agents and houses currently listed. HomeTown Digital will also offer at discounted price HTDConnect ™, a high-quality, dial-up Internet service product featuring 24x7 technical assistance and local telephonenumber access.

Gerardi said HomeTown Digital staff plans to hold a series of training seminars specially designed to help WWOCAR members learn about the potential of the Internet and present specific business examples of how using on line business tools can help professionals succeed in the real estate industry.

He added that consumers will benefit from the partnership because it will produce and deliver the first local real estate guide. "Buyers, sellers and renters will find a wealth of information and resources in the HomeTownLife.com real estate section which will be on line in November, 2001," according to Gerardi.

WWOCAR's mission is to serve its members needs and reach out to the Realtor ® community by providing programs, education and an environment that will promote professionalism, enhance agents' ability to be successful, reduce risk, preserve private property rights and heighten the industry's public image.

Chimney liners prevent deterioration of chimney flues and ensure proper venting of combustible products that could condense into damaging moisture and acid in oversized chimneys. Most chimney problems can be corrected with the proper installation of a chimney liner. A chimney liner is a one piece flexible liner that, once installed, prevents condensation, a major cause of chimney deterioration.

$100,000 beauty love at first sight

BY KAREN PATON-EVANS

For the big-hearted, no gesture of love can be too grand.

It was for this generous, demonstrative person that Chimento, the renowned Italian goldsmith and jeweler, designed a sturning double heart diamond pendant, paired with an impressive chain of white and yellow 18 karat gold links.

A large, puffed, dazzling heart of white gold, sparkling with diamonds, is encircled in the embrace of a second diamond-encrusted heart of yellow gold. The pendant's design represents the joining of two hearts, beautiful in the fullness of love. Twenty-seven carats of diamonds set the hearts aflame with brilliant fire.

The two-tone gold necklace is symbolic of the enduring, unbreakable circle of loving trust.

Chimento S.P.A.'s design and production studio in Vicenza, Italy, the reputed gold capital of the world, employs old-world handcrafting as well as electroforming, microfusion and other state-of-the-art technical processes to create its unique collections in white, yellow and pink gold. The double heart is one of its most coveted motifs.

The double-heart Chimento necklace, valued at approximately $100,000 Cdn ($66,885 US), was imported from Italy in July by Joseph Anthony Fine Jewelry, located at 100 Eugenie St. in Windsor. The amazing piece is representative of the world-class jewelry, timepieces, crystal and writing instruments that Joseph Anthony obtains for its discerning clientele. With its sterling reputation, Chimento gracefully takes its place of honour alongside the Rolex, Cartier, Gucci, Lalique and other fine pieces on place in the Ioseph Anthony obtains control in the Ioseph Anthony obtai display in the Joseph Anthony showroom.

The job starts with a discussion with Creative Decks & Fences. The customer brings in a photo of the deck site and the dimensions of the area. "That's all we need. I can design the deck on the spot," Kelly says. He provides the customer with a thumbnail sketch of the deck. If the deck is to be multi-leveled, with a pergola or other sun filter structure, Kelly may need to do a computer-aided drawing.

Designing your deck

Once the plan is agreed upon, the customer pulls his trailer to the lumberyard for loading. Lumber, hardware, concrete, protective stains – all the materials to complete the job are right here. Now all the do-it-yourselfer needs is a hammer, square, drill, skill saw, chop saw and post hole auger.

It is also within the realm of the law for an American to bring his repro-grammed card back home, after Pirate Satellite has done its deed, Thenh says.

Paton-Evans by Karen

The savvy, money-saving Michigander can cross the border with a clear conscience. The pirate's fee is much gentler than that charged by Direct TV. For $150 US, the customer gets a Direct TV dish, receiver, remote control and program card, which will supply three months of programming. That includes 270 stations, along with local Detroit channels 2, 4 and 7, plus new movies, wrestling, boxing and more pay per view events for which the customer will not pay extra.

Unlimited viewing

Every three months, the customer returns to Pirate Satellite with his card and gets it programmed for the next three months. The cost is $40 US – less than $14 per month for unlimited viewing.

People who already own their Direct TV dish and card can also bring their card to Pirate Satellite every three months for programming.

The trip over the Detroit River doesn't seem to be a detriment to bargain-loving customers. 'Frifty percent of our clientele is American," Thenh says. They don't mind the quick trip to Pirate Satellite, located at 2605 Howard Avenue in Windsor.

"It only takes about two minutes to reprogram the card," Thenh says. Typically, Americans drop in on Saturdays. Then they are out in a flash, ready to cruise Windsor's streets for more incredible deals.
