A Westland man was arraigned last week on charges he phoned in a bomb threat to the Haggerty Road Hiller's Market, apparently in an attempt to avoid custodial duties at the grocery store. Kenneth Stoops, 29, was said Marianne Shepley, the store manager on duty that night. "It was obviously very disrupting to our business.

Shepley added that although the event was unnerving, she believes store employees and patrons were fortunate that no injuries were sustained by personnel evacuating the building.

"Making a bomb threat is a very serious offense. It's up to a four-year felony for making a false report of bomb threat or harmful device," said Sumner. "The threat is very serious in nature, will be investigated, and will be prosecuted to the fullest."

Sumner said such threats put many individuals at risk, including people in the building and public safety officials responding to the scene.

"It doesn't just affect 20 or 30 people," said Sumner. "It affects an entire community."

Township picks architect for municipal bldg.

By Pauline Campos STAFF WRITER

Northville Township's municipal building project took one step closer to becoming a reality at the board's July 18 meeting, when French Associates were approved as the architects for the project.

Another step was taken a week later when township officials met with French Associates representatives. The meeting was to determine a construction time schedule set forth by Plante & Moran C.R.E.S.A, the company hired to provide architectural and legal oversight for the project. The municipal building project includes the construction of a new township hall, new fire station, and the renovation of the existing township hall. Township personnel will be moved into the new building upon completion while the police department utilizes the finance building until renovations are completed on the existing township hall. The new fire station will function as headquarters and the existing facility will be used as a substation.

High demand and stormy weather caused power outages this past Monday, affecting 14,000 Detroit Edison customers on east and west sides of Taft.

The first outage occurred at approximately 2 p.m. due to high demand, resulting in various levels of power loss throughout the Northville area. Detroit Edison spokesperson John Austerberry said hotter days and heavy air conditioning use can overload the system. Planned maintenance further complicated events.

We had two circuits running together because of the maintenance. If the demand had not have been so high when that was happening, it might not have hap-pened," said Austerberry. "But we had to tie two circuits together to do the work and then the demand peaked right at that time."

The combination of events resulted in the first of two power outages that day. Power was restored to all customers by 5:30 p.m., said Austerberry.

Severe storms caused the second outage later that evening when a tree fell, bringing power lines down with it and causing more damage.

That caused the same customers on the west side of Taft to lose power again. It was completely . unrelated," said Austerberry. "It is just a strange coincidence that the same groups of people would be affected by two different instances.'

Power was restored in groups beginning at midnight with the final restoration occurring at about 2 a.m.

Said Austerberry: "Everything has been repaired and is back to its regular configuration."

It's Hammer time in Northville

By Jennifer Norris STAFF WRITER

On Aug. 10, Northville's downtown will be nailed with the melodic tunes of Blues Hammer as they perform in the gazebo. Toes will likely be tapping and faces will be grinning as the six member band strums and performs for local crowds.

The festivities are slated to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Blues Hammer consists of Larry Black, drummer; Donnie Hopps, bassist; Pete "The Mayor" Goodwin, harmonica; and three guitarists, Tom "T-Bone" Backus, Paul Corte and Matthew Sage.

Audience members will be in for a memorable experience as they are audibly and visually drawn into the performance by Blues Hammer.

"We've got a big band, a big sound," said Corte, who added that the band will be executing a combination of original and cover material. "We're a very energetic, enter-taining live band."

Corte also said at times during the show guitar players walk out and perform amid the audience.

"It's a fun thing," he said. This upcoming show will mark the band's first performance in Blues Hammer will be performing at downtown Northville's gazebo on Aug. 10.

Northville, however Corte is no stranger to the area.

"I've been playing for years at the gazebo," he said. "I've always had a great time. The [area] is very responsive and I think they'll love this band."

The various members of Blues Hammer have had the opportunity to perform with such blues and rock personalities as Buddy Guy, Joe Cocker, Mick Taylor of the Rolling Stones, Chicago, Tinsley Ellis and Harmonica Shaw.

Corte also said the style of music to be performed will likely appeal to a wide variety of age groups and span generations.

Businesses leave Northville for other towns

Reasons differ for relocation; shop owners say parking, visibility are better in surrounding communities

By Pauline Campos STAFF WRITER

Businesses in Northville's downtown are leaving. Those still here are beginning to ask questions.

Mike Ladwig, owner of Mailboxes Etc. located on Center Street is concerned. And every time' an office become vacant, Ladwig not only loses more customers, but also wonders if those that have left know something he doesn't.

According to Downtown Development director Laurie Ward, three businesses have moved out of the downtown area in the past few months: A New Therapeutic Massage, Kingsbury Blissfull Photography, and Bedding. All were tenants of the Singh Development Company and all left Northville for the Plymouth area.

Singh Development did not return phone calls.

"It seems like within a month most of these businesses moved out of one after the other, and these aren't business that are going under. So why are they moving out of Northville?" Ladwig said.

Ladwig said he hoped Ward has plans to stop what he referred to as the "exodus" of business leaving Northville.

"That's her job," he said. "To develop the downtown."

But Ward said that the DDA did not know that these businesses had plans to leave until it was too late. "Unfortunately, we found out

David McKnight moved his event-planning and style company to Farmington Hills for two reasons: more room to showcase his wedding table designs and an easier parking situation for his customers.

when they had a note on their front door and the decision had already been made," said Ward. "It's hard to assist a business when you don't even know that a difficulty is being experienced." Ward said it was difficult for the DDA to help those businesses experiencing problems. Most of the time, the problem being experienced is a financial one. It makes it that much harder for the about each of these situations DDA to step in and assist when the businesses cannot disclose financial confidentialities to begin with, she said.

"It's hard to help when that business has not even asked for help yet," she said.

But Kingsbury Photography did ask for help. And after the DDA had addressed the business' concern, they still left Northville.

According to Ward, Kingsbury had had concerns about parking.

In response, the city designated the area directly in back of their business-the row directly behind Cady Centre and the lower parking in the main deck of MainCentre as two hour parking to allow for more turnover.

"We had been working with them to resolve this parking issue and we didn't realize that there were any other issues that might have contributed to their relocation," said Ward. "I was just as surprised as anybody because we had just resolved an issue for them.

Ward acknowledged the difficulty of the area for businesses that require walking traffic versus those such as offices or services for which people are coming as a destination. She said that the DDA had been working hard with business owners to combat that with signage and other types of exposure to help the businesses out in that area.

And two of the empty spaces have already been leased because the previous owners felt they needed to do business elsewhere.

"My thought is that a large majority of that can probably can be flushed out between the owner and the tenant, so I don't think it has to do with bigger downtown problems like parking or demographics or marketing," said Ward. "I don't think they are really indicative of what is happening."

DDA says it wants to help out, but businesses need to speak up

By Pauline Campos STAFF WRITER

She doesn't think businesses leaving downtown are Northville due to parking or demographics. In fact, Development Downtown Authority director Laurie Ward believes that the main reason is something else altogether.

"My thought is that a large majority of that can probably can be flushed out between the owner and the tenant so I don't think it has to do with bigger downtown problems like parking or demographics or marketing, said Ward. "I don't think they are really indicative of what is happening."

.Three businesses have moved out of the downtown area in the past few months: A New Therapeutic Massage, Kingsbury Photography, and Blissfull Bedding. All were tenants of the Singh Development Company and all left Northville for the Plymouth area.

According to a few businesses who have left owners Northville's downtown, those reasons, among others, are indicative of what is happening.

"I think that Northville needs to get its ducks in a row," said David McKnight, owner of Emerald City Designs who left Northville for the Farmington area about four years ago. His businesses formerly located on East Main Street.

McKnight believes that older, established businesses have what he calls a "niche" and a following. "Northville thrives on the novelty and the specialty locations and restaurants," he said. "Those shops should continue what they are doing but also work together to bring in new businesses."

But for newer businesses, it's a different story. McKnight said he moved his businesses because of the inadequate parking and high rents.

"For me to have a location in Northville would be about $16,500 month just for rent," he said of his 11,000-square foot building in Farmington. "The biggest concern I have is the rent and the parking."

The same reasons were behind Barbara Humbyrd's move from Northville to Plymouth's Old Village a few months ago.

Humbyrd, owner of A New Therapeutic Massage, had been located in the CadyCentre complex. A former Singh tenant, Humbyrd said she left because of parking and said she no longer wanted to sublease from the salon with which she was formerly associated.

Humbyrd said she was paying

Safety Town founder stops by school Briefs

By Jennifer Norris STAFF WRITER

Dorothy Chiad knows a thing or two about street smarts.

And she's responsible for helping present those skills to youngsters.

Chlad, founder and president of the national Safety Town Center spoke at a Safety Town graduation ceremony at SL Paul's Lutheran School in Northville last week.

Safety Town is an educational safety program for pre-kindergarten age children.

During the program, young children are taught basic principles of caution regarding strangers, ambulances, riding a bicycle, using electricity, swimming, railroad crossings and using proper behavior when riding a school bus.

The graduation ceremony, which was hosted inside the school gymnasium, was flooded with parents and family members.

Opening remarks were made by recreation supervisor Pat Brown, who then introduced Chlad, an Ohio resident who has also been a consultant for the late Jim Henson's "Muppets" and "Sesame Street."

Each child that participated in the program had the opportunity to step up onto the stage, receive their diploma and publicly tell what they learned during the course of the program. Safety Town is a program that introduces safety awareness and preventative procedures to pre-K children" said Chlad, who established the National Safety Town Center in 1964. "I wanted them to know what to do." Chlad also said she wanted young children to begin to develop a sense of awareness and gain a "safety attitude."

"We cannot spoon-feed them every rule for every situation they're going to encounter," she said.

Chiad also stressed the importance of parents later following up on appropriate safety precautions and reminding their children about safe behavior.

Several books related to Safety Town lessons were available for purchase following the graduation ceremony. Some were signed by Chlad as she posed for pictures with the new graduates.

Representatives from the Northville city and township police departments were also participants in the event.

Those interested in becoming a Safety Town sponsor should contact Brown at (248) 349-0203.

GOLD AWARDS EARNED

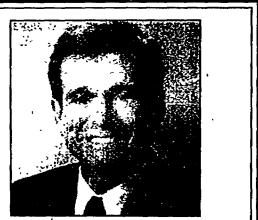

Two Northville residents earned the Girl Scout Gold Award, which is the highest level of achievement in the Girl Scout program. Victoria Stephens and Stacey Taylor, seniors at Northville High this fall, completed two years of requirements before embarking on their projects. Both girls finished their projects this past spring and were recognized by community and civic leaders at a ceremony in Ann Arbor this past May.

The girls are classmates and have been in scouting for more than 10 years. The award marks the culmination of many years of rank advancement, requirements and service hours. Stephens $2,150 a month in rent for what she described as "two small treatment rooms." She is now paying much less for more space and says she is much happier.

"It's insane. I'm paying a quar-ter of what I used to pay for more room and I'm so much happier here. I'm exposed and have had so much more traffic. It was either that, or file for bankruptcy, which I almost did," she said referring to her decision to relo-

DDA not finding out about the situations until it was too late. "Unfortunately we found out about each of these situations when they had a note on their already been made," said Ward. "It's hard to assist a business when you don't even know that a difficulty is being experienced." But Humbyrd doesn't think the for her to keep her in Northville. even if she had notified the DDA of her decision sooner.

"In my case, there wasn't much they could have done for me," she said. "Unless they could have gotten my'rent down to a quarter of what I was paying, there wasn't much they could do."

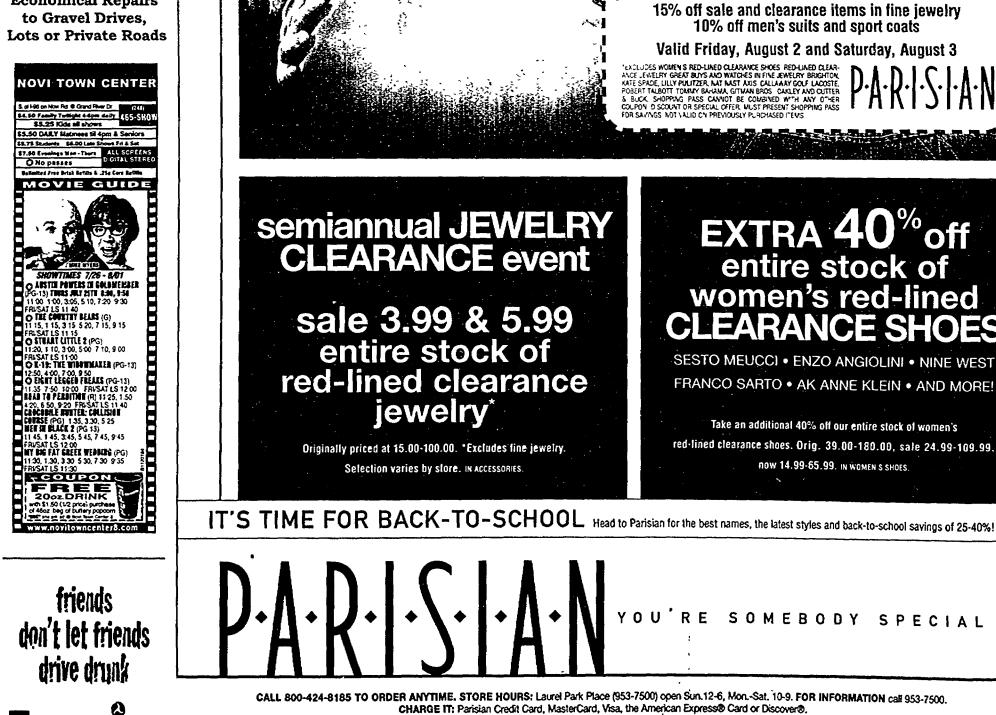

What does the city have to say about businesses deciding to move elsewhere? City manager Gary Word said that the city recognizes the parking problem and is attempting to address it by initiating the new parking management plan within the next few weeks. The plan will allow for more close in spaces for customers and visitors and better parking turnaround. But parking aside, Word said he believed business owners that have left should take some of the responsibility.

"There are many reasons why businesses move on, but [owners] should understand when they move into a community what the circumstances are," he said.

Corporate scandals get reaction from pulpit

By Jennifer Norris STAFF WRITER

The recent national-level corporate scandals have received prominent placement in headlines, have been chewed over during dinnertime conversations and have even become discussed during sermons at a local church.

Rev. John Hice of First United Methodist Church in Northville chose to give his June 30 sermon, entitled "Balancing the Scales," on the present day business scandals, greed and citizens' responsibilities. "The main point is that every person is capable of introducing an impact on the system," said Hice, who has served two years at First United Methodist Church. In the face of violations that a few people commit, which impacts the whole system. each person is also able to insist on honesty and integrity in such a way that the whole system is affected. That can be more powerful...than the disruption that has been caused by a few."

"I'm not an economist. Ethics, particularly Christian ethics, is where my expertise lies. My challenge was to be able to know accurately what church members and the community are confronted with in the workplace and to be able to address that in the context of Christian ethics."

Hice said that about a year ago, church officials opted to have a sermon devoted to "Preach the News," or, in other words, speak on an issue that was drawing media attention.

"I try to identify needs in the congregation that may be addressed through sermons during the course of the said Hice. "It was year," [decided] over a year ago to address some headline in the news. There were a number of headline subjects that I could have addressed. I felt icant impact on members within our church and our society.

Hice said in general, there has been some level of public distrust or sense of caution regarding institutions since the days of the Vietnam War and the Watergate scandal.

"It's a wariness," said Hice. "I think trust was eroded in those days but I don't think it was obliterated. There has kind of been a consistent level of distrust in institutions. I've not picked up any significant changes in that trust level in the last several months in the face of scandals which have existed in the business world or the church. Has it picked up over the last few months? That's an interesting question. It probably has."

Hice also said he believes the corporate crisis has taken its toll in several arenas.

"I think that the marketplace has been weakened in dals," he said: "It's reflected in the volatility of the stock market and the general downward trend in other economic indicators."

Hice also theorized on how and why companies find themselves under the financial microscope.

"There is a lot of temptation out there," said Hice. Businesses themselves have significant pressure to look as good as possible to investors and to buyers and to consumers. That places particular pressures upon persons within that workplace to present their businesses and departments in the best light."

Although some Americans have grown wary of some institutions, Hice said businesses still have a way to stay in the public's good graces by electing to put honor as a top priority.

"It is a risk that is taken to not always look good in the face of stiff competition." said Hice. "It really is a willingness to sacrifice and take risks for the sake of honesty and integrity.

Hice said the main message was generated from the Old Testament book of Micah.

He said the passage calls on all the faithful to exercise justice and to maintain the highest levels of personal and corporate integrity.

These scandals do not only impact the way we make our investments and the level to which we participate in the market, but it sometimes affects people's jobs," he said. "It frequently results in the loss of work. It is reflected in the loss of expected bonuses. It is reflected in the loss of commissions."

In the new testament. Christians are repeatedly called on to be agents of change in the world. To be people who live in light of the gospel. Faith is the willingness to take risks. Trust is that which generates confidence to be willing."

Anniversaries

Cummings 50th

Northville residents Bob and Dolly (Elsie May Wilder) Cummings celebrated their 50th anniversary on July 12.

The couple relocated in Northville in 1964 and built a house less than a block from where they originally lived on Grace Street.

Bob Cummings is a former Northville Record employee, as well as Ford Motor Company. He served with the U.S. Marine Corps in World War II and is a member of Northville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4012 and the American Legion.

Dolly Cummings worked a parts inspector for the Ex-cello Corporation.

The Cummings are parents of Frank, Marcia, Bob, Jr. and Scott. They have seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. A family party was held July 20.

Save 20-70% on Lamps

We've marked 20% to 70% reductions on a wide selection of high quality lamps — including such brand names as Westwood, Kovacs, Koch + Lowy and Frederick Cooper. But we haven't reduced the advice available to you (at no extra charge) from our lighting consultants. For example, ask them to show you how a simple table lamp can change the mood of a room. Or let them show you what to look for in a reading lamp. It's the kind of consultation we've always offered with our lamps, and lighting fixtures. The only difference is -right now, the lamps are on sale.

A quick recap of our '02 picks

Election Day is this Tuesday. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. We encourage registered voters to take part in the American system and have their voice heard by casting their ballots.

Over the last few weeks, we've given our endorsements to several key races in the Northville community. Here's a recap of where we stand in those contests for elected office:

20th STATE HOUSE

When JOHN STEWART ran for the seat in the 20th House district two years ago, we felt he was the right man for the job.

Now that he's running for reelection, we see no reason to change that opinion.

Mr. Stewart has worked hard in his first two-year term. He has worked diligently with the Michigan Economic Development Corporation to bring 21 small-business and job training grants into the community. His tireless efforts in this area earned him the Legislator of the Year award from the Small Business Association of Michigan.

35th DISTRICT COURT

In the race for the new judicial seat in the 35th District Court, voters are going to have to choose one name from a crowded field of qualified candidates. We believe one name rises quickly to the top, and a couple of others deserve serious consideration from voters.

ERIC COLTHURST has been a magistrate for 16 years capacity, Mr. Colthurst has just about seen it all from the bench, the only one of the 10 candidates with judicial experience in the district. Candidates who also merit consideration are DAVID ESPER and JAMES MALINOWSKI. Mr. Esper is a former police officer and major-felony prosecutor with the Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force. Mr. Malinowski has practiced law for 29 years, and he is the only other candidate in the race rated "well qualified" by the Detroit Metropolitan Bar Association. Mr. Malinowski's practice has run the gamut of law — civil cases, misdemeanors, felonies

GOVERNOR Democratic Party

Democratic voters in the August gubernatorial primary should select Attorney General JENNIFER GRANHOLM, who is the most thoughtful and articulate candidate, and the one most willing to talk about the issues and their specifics in depth.

After a decade of one-party domination in state government, Michigan also needs a moderate in the governor's office, a need Granholm both fills and understands.

GOVERNOR Republican Party

No characteristic is more important in a candidate for elective office than integrity. And as Republican voters head to the polls Aug. 6 to choose their nominee to run for the post of Michigan's

Thanks for help with July 4 parade

This letter is in appreciation to all of the wonderful people who worked on this year's Independence Day Parade: Jim Allen, Nickie Bateson, Kathi Brandi, Tom Burzynski, Bill Butler, Eric Colthurst, Rob David, Mike Putman, Kristen Schrader, Bonnie Hartsock, Fran Durham, Dave Fendelet, Russ Fogg, Matt Kosmowski, Kurt Kosmowski, Norm Kubitskey, Sandra Larsen, Audrey Mistor, Doug Spruit, Guenther Albrecht, Denise Losey, Sue Munnings, Marie Larsen, John O'Brien, Chris Osgood, Howard Payne, Harry Pogats, Judy Rizzo, Sonia Swigart¹¹ Iand] Tom Swigart.

The time and talent these people put in at meetings and the personal time they take to bring in the best new entries for the Parade is amazing. This year we also want to thank the young people from the Civil Air Patrol who did such an outstanding job assisting the morning of the Parade.

The Northville Community Foundation has hosted, planned and implemented the parade for the past four years and built it into a Parade everyone wants to see. Our utmost appreciation and thanks go to our many sponsors and to this year's Title sponsor, St. Mary Mercy Hospital, without whose support we could never have given this community such a wonderful Parade.

Foundation director was a good leader

Shari Peters, Chairwoman of the Northville Community Foundation, is an outstanding leader and organizer, and made me, a 'walkin volunteer' feel very welcome and full participant. Shari will be the first to tell you that credit should go to the Parade Committee, as a diversified group of Northville and Northville Township people dedicated to bringing to Northville the best parade ever. In two words it's "team work" that gets the job done.

Kudos belong to Shari and the Northville Community Foundation for the success of the parade. Our best yet.

For those readers who may not be aware, the Northville Community Foundation also is responsible for the Community Prayer Breakfast, the Annual Foundation Golf Classic, and the Holiday Home Tour. The Foundation manages a collection of permanently endowed funds for the long-term benefit of the Northville community. We all benefit from the work of the Foundation.

Abortion isn't pretty, and neither are photos

In response to the woman who was angry over the graphic pictures used by the pro-life demonstrators near Schoolcraft College:

Although not blatantly stated, it seems as though you may agree with the pro-abortionists. Typically, it is the people in the proabortion camp who are opposed to this vivid and harsh but real-life teaching tool. Shocking to us all? Absolutely! Yet realistic? Sadly so.

You expressed concern over having to explain the pictures to children. Abortion is a horrific end to an unborn baby's life. Therefore photos of this practice may upset the mind, heart, and soul of both child and adult. Perhaps a simple and truthful explanation to children might be when a woman decides to end her unborn baby's life, this is what happens.

Our society boasts of being educated and informed. Why then hide the truth of abortion? The sharing of abortion facts is not where the problem lies, rather in the grotesque reality of abortion itself. To the troops on the front lines, keep up the good work.

Pharmacist has been great to customers

I was recently in Northville Pharmacy and saw that it had won an award. I was very pleased to see that, as it is a great pharmacy.

However, I am writing because the pharmacist who really makes that store hum is Hani, who is the employed pharmacist. When they first opened, I eagerly awaited to go in there as I knew the value of an independent pharmacy. They can get any drug that is prescribed within one day. A chain cannot do that. Therefore, I met Hani when I brought in a prescription. I was impressed with the service and told my Northville doctors of his care and concern about patients. I told my friends as well, and some of them went in too and liked Hani. He is the one who knows the patients because he works there three or four days a week. Hani not only knows the patients' names, he also knows their history and asks how the newest prescription is working the next time a patient enters. I do not know Sam well and have had minimum dealings with him, but I wanted to acknowledge how well Hani is liked in the community. In fact, when I had a surgery that was done on an outpatient basis, the nurse said that she would call in my prescription to Hani and it would be ready when I arrived. It was and since I was not at my best, I really appreciated it. That is how Hani takes care of

is the fairest policy

In her letter to the Record of July 25, Rosemary Hagge scemed to favor politically polarized extremism by suggesting that,

"...being in the middle of the road is dangerous. You might get run over." And she favored "absolute values." Having spent four years in service during World War II helping to resist some absolute values about race, religion and right and left extremist types of government, I offer for consideration the contrary metaphor that time is a one-way street and for moving forward a house big enough for all of us, we probably need the middle of the road to stay out of the gutters on either side.

Conformity to conventional religious beliefs and rituals is required in theocratic societies but not in societies with religious freedom. The degree to which our own society is either theocratic or free is reflected by the degree to which we avoid imposing conventional religious rituals on those of our fellow citizens who feel them unpleasant, perhaps even hostile hints of excluded minority status. Such imposition, by including "under God" in the pledge of allegiance to the United States, was favored by Neil Goodbred's "Freedom of religion, not a freedom from religion" letter in the Northvillle Record [of July 25]. That violates the separation of church and state advice by Jesus: "Render onto Caesar that which is his due and unto God that which is his," and it stretches the majority rule idea into a bullying attitude of "my way or no way." Some religions even profess a "golden rule" that suggests a considerate regard for differing beliefs. Moreover, non-religious ethical conventions of civility are kinder and more inclusive of all fellow citizens.

The problem with the religious insertion into the pledge is not just that it bothers some otherwise acceptable but non-religious fellow citizens. It also fails to accommodate religious people who call their deities by names other than the implicitly Christian "God". While the compromising solution of changing "God" to "gods" might respect our religious diversity, it would display even more pointedly the contradiction to the pledge's important unifying emphasis on "one nation, indivisible." Therefore, since religious differences do, in fact, divide us, the most unifying solution would be to return to the original purely unifying civil pledge. Our diversity Carol Waldo Northville

Abortion photographs drive home a point

Mary Lou Nejman of Novi makes our point in writing that the images of abortion displayed on our signs are "grotesque." (demonstration protest on Haggerty Road at Schoolcraft College on Thursday evening, July 18) The pictures of abortion are grotesque because abortion is grotesque.

If abortion is such a great idea, such a noble right, why does a simple picture make people so angry? The answer is guilt. America is complicit in the violence of abortion, and these pictures make us feel guilty because they confront our denial about what abortion is.

Americans are not bothered enough by abortion. Thankfully, that is all changing. As long as clinics keep killing babies, we are going to bother people with these pictures. And yes, the truth hurts, Mary Lou. It really hurts.

Stay tuned for governor's race

Election day is next Tuesday in what has turned out to be one of the most holly contested gubernatorial primaries in recent Michigan history

So I called my old friend, Craig Ruff, head of Public Sector Consultants and a seasoned observer of things political to talk about what readers might be looking for as the races for both the Republican and Democratic nominations come down to the favorite of editorial writers and miscellaneous political insiders. He's smart, knowledgeable, candid, experienced, articulate. His message --- that the right-wing "moral absolutists" now in control are taking the GOP into the abyss of defeat in November --- is almost certainly right on.

But, barring an almost unimaginable turn of events, Joe's very likely to lose next Tuesday. He doesn't have much money to spend on TV ads and the entire Republican apparatus is lined up in lockstep to support Lt. Gov. Dick Posthumus, who keeps insisting there's nothing wrong with Michigan's desperate budget situation that a tax cut won't cure. It's too bad for Schwarz that the Democratic primary race is so close and is attracting so much public interest; otherwise, he'd have a shot at attracting Independents and moderate Democrats who regard Posthumus as nothing more than Engler lite.

With Dan Pero, an able guy who used to flack for Gov. John Engler, now managing the Posthumus campaign, expect the Lt. Gov. to go on the offensive during August. He'll have lots of money left over and he'll want to spend a lot of it dominating the news while his Democratic opponent is trying to catch his/her breath and bind up the wounds inflicted in the primary.

Blanchard vs. Bonior vs. Granholm: This race is turning out to be a whole lot closer than most people figured.

Atty. Gen. Jennifer Granholm is bright, charismatic, beautiful - a fresh face in politics if you ever saw one. She has raised a ton of money more than $4 million - and most insiders figured she'd be far in the lead by now, if only because she had the financial muscle to outspend her male opponents on TV.

But it hasn't turned out quite like that. Former governor Jim Blanchard has mounted a very energetic and effective campaign, so much so that some are wondering how come he didn't do it back in 1990 when he was upset by Engler. U.S. Rep. David Bonior was originally written off by the pundits who figured he'd never break out of his Macomb County base. But Bonior is a smart, tough, high-energy campaigner, and he's got big time backing from his chums in the UAW.

Both Blanchard and Bonior have put together so-called "independent" committees to raise money that has gone into attack ads against Granholm. Blanchard's is managed by his old sidekick, Larry Owen, while a lot of money from organized labor has gone into the St. Clair County Democratic Party, which is going after Granholm on TV. Blanchard and Bonior, both ostensibly in favor of political reform, have a lot of explaining to do about these committees that clearly violate the intent if not the letter of campaign finance law.

And because the race is so close, you can expect the airwaves will be filled between now and Aug. 6 with very nasty attack ads on all sides. Blanchard and Bonior are going after Granholm

The complaint desk is now open for having supported, in her job as Attorney General, Gov. Engler, the Democrats' favorite hate object. Both of them know perfectly well that Granholm has been simply performing her statutory function as AG and that the charges are phony. But that won't prevent them from cutting the ads.

have changed in the last 15 years or so, 1 thought the process in place at the time was brilliant.

In order to swim in any public city pool, all residents had to do was go to the city offices and purchase a small metal tag for about $12 or $15. The metal, rectangular-shaped tag had two small holes on each side so that it could be sewn onto your swimsuit. The tag allowed for unlimited access at any city-operated pool and there were plenty of pools around the vicinity. When patrons arrived at the pool, they simply pointed at their tag and were given the nod to enter.

After awhile, the lifeguards and pool staff on duty saw my friends and I on such a routine basis, they didn't even bother to check for our tags. They knew they were there.

In my young mind's eye-and even to this day-I think that system of operating large pool facilities is ideal. The money residents paid to purchase swim tags benefits the city and in awaited those return, tag recipients have unlimited access to their favorite local pool. I recently visited the Northville Swim Club, located near Hillside Middle School, and was because soarshockingly dismayed to hear officials say that just to take in a dip in their pools, required completing an application (complete with a fee) and having to add your name to a very long waiting site for hours list.

How long of a wait? Four to five years, I'm told.

It's astonishing to think that some criminals can get out of prison for some crimes in less time that it takes to make it through the swim club waiting period.

But if waiting for years just to splash around in a swimming pool isn't outrageous enough, an expensive pile of fees is tacked onto the to-do list just to become a member of the swim club.

Fees - which range from covering refundable bonds, an initiation fee, an application fee and yearly dues -- come to a staggering total of over $1,300!

Although I have never actually stuck my toes into their pools, I'm guessing that their water feels just as wet and just as refreshing on a humid day as the pools in Dearborn which let people swim for less than $20.

For those that have the resources, not to mention the time, to become a member, hats off to

Architect selected for municipal building

According to township manager Chip Snider, the estimated $15 million cost of the project will be funded by municipal capitol improvement bonds.

This building project would not be a reality without the trust and confidence of the electives of this community," Snider said referring to the 45 day referendum period, during which no voters petitioned to stop the process. "This building needs to reflect the pride in this community."

Snider added that the new township hall must represent a strong correlation between needs and space design.

We've got to have comfort to the occupants but paramount is customer service," said Snider. When customer service is provided in a building that provides ease for the staff, that level of service is

Swim club offers summer cool-downs

By Jennifer Norris STAFF WRITER

Perhaps the old saying is true: good things come to those who wait.

After being in existence since the 1960s, the Northville Swim Club has brought plenty of summer recreation and activities to local area residents.

The swim club, which is open to members only, has long been a gathering spot for a seasonal splash and has become so appealing interested residents must add their name to a substantial waiting list.

Ralph DiFazio, president of the Northville Swim Club, said there is currently a 4-5 year waiting list for residents to join the club.

But the wait period doesn't seem to deter many folks.

"Most people still go ahead and get the application and send it in. People don't shy away from it." said assistant manager Gwen Osbourne.

The swim club, which is open from Memorial Day through Labor Day features swimming lessons, diving classes, a swim team and even water aerobic courses.

Tucked away behind Hillside Middle School and the city's water tower, the Northville Swim Club is located at 646 Baseline Road.

Officials said due to its location, the club provides a serene and private environment.

"Some people don't even know it's here," said DiFazio.

Among the advantages of club membership, patrons can enjoy Coney Float Nights, teen parties and rent the facility for special events.

The Northville Swim Club features three separate pools, including a baby pool, a diving well and a large pool complete with a new water slide.

"It's been a big hit," said DiFazio. "Kids love it." Osbourne said the club

With Northville's newest elementary school slated to open in August 2003, district officials say filling Ridge Wood Elementary with staff and students shouldn't be a problem.

'We'te over capacity at each elementary," said assistant superintendent David Bolitho. "The majority of kids who will attend this school are already at our elementary schools."

Due to the arrival of the new school building, new school borders will later be established which will govern where students will attend school.

Friday, August 2, 2002.

"We're going to change attendance boundaries," said Bolitho. 'We're opening a new school and we have to develop its attendance boundary."

Bolitho said a recommendation regarding redistricting is planned to be presented to school board members in January 2003.

Teachers currently employed in the district will have the opportunity to voluntarily transfer to Ridge Wood if they desire to do so, he said.

"They'll be given the opportunity to teach at this new elementary," said Bolitho. "With teachers, it's volunteers and we may have to involuntarily transfer people if we don't get enough volunteers. Since some of the schools due to the boundary change will lose students, then we will have staff there that aren't needed because the enrollment has decreased. That's why we hope to go through the voluntary transfer process first. We know we're going to hire some new teachers

"It's a grassroots organization," she said. "Sixty women from the Midwest identified themselves as part of Team Survivor for this triathlon. What's neat about Danskin is they support Team Survivor."

Mittman said she was encouraged to participate in the event by her daughter, Kathryn.

The pair had plenty of company as they tackled the triathlon. They were joined by a family friend, Phyllis Heckemeyer and her two daughters, Amity Binkert and Sarah Heckemeyer. They were also accompanied by Kathy McClean, an area resident, and her daughters Kattie Greane and, Karrie McClean.

Terry Mittman said real training for the triathlon began in March. And the day she ventured into her first triathlon won't likely be soon forgotten.

"It was a neat experience," said Mittman. "I've never done anything like it before. I was so pumped after that."

Mittman said the Danskin Triathlon series started in 1990 with three cities and 1,100 participants and has ballooned to include even more cities and many more participants.

She also said that 10 percent of all the fees collected go to the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

Mittman said the triathlon was not limited to those with the most athletic prowess.

"Most of the women are not buff athletes," she said. "They're all shapes and sizes and styles." She's even encouraged others to join the triathlon.

"I like this one because it's all women," said Mittman. "I've told neighbors about it and now they want to participate too."

Mittman also said she expects to participate again.

"Right now I'm planning on it," she said. "By the grace of God, jnorris@ht.homecomm.net.

Danskin Chicagoland Triathlon with her mother and friends. "It was a lot of training," she said, "It was all women. It was a very supportive environment at the event itself. It seemed like the location was set up for a triathlon in the first place. It was perfect."

Like her mother, Kathryn Mittman said she would recommend that others sign up for future triathlons.

"I would recommend it to anyone who interested in trying something new or challenging themselves by going out of their com-fort zone," said Kathryn Mittman, who currently resides in Illinois. 'It's an amazing feeling to cross the finish line. It was definitely a great organized event."

Tellish blasts dinger; Broncos spank Yanks

Traditional powerhouse Bayside Yankees fall to host team's onslaught

By Sam Eggleston SPORTS WRITER

When the Northville Broncos were making their way into the NABF World Series, the team consensus seemed to echo the idea that they just hoped they could prove they could play with the elite teams that would be at the tourney well, they proved it and more.

The Broncos 16-year-old team defeated the six-time champion Bayside Yankees 9-5 July 27 at Ford Field.

The Northville squad finished in a third-place tie in their pool of five teams, which included the eventual champion Maryland Orioles, as they pounded out a tough 1-3 overall record.

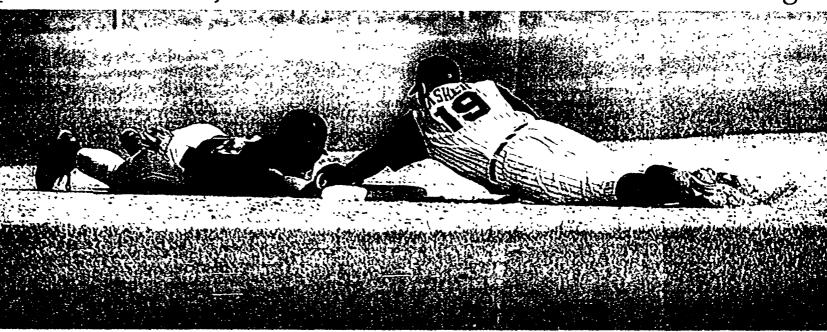

"I was very happy to see this team improving with every game they played," Northville coach Jim Cicala said. "They worked very hard against some of the best teams in the country. In our pool, there were no easy games."

And nothing echoed that though more than the game between the Broncos and the Yankees.

Northville felt themselves in a bit of a pinch against the Bayside ball club as they fell behind 2-0 in the first inning, but they pulled everything together and blasted in five runs in the top of the third.

The five-run inning began as young Jimmy Cicala started out with a free trip to first base on a walk before Alex Wojcik and Brian Alpert pounded out infield singles to load the bases. The first run came as Brendan Buckley took one for the team, getting a trip to first after getting smacked by a pitch. Matt Williams hit into a fielder's choice to score the second run of the rally.

'We came out hard," Coach Cicala said. "Bayside is always a tough team. The kids that used to come to the series all remember them and the way they used to pretty much dominate this series."

The Broncos weren't going to let that happen to them though. Brett Asher cranked out a sacrifice fly to give Northville the lead, 3-2, before big Brian Tellish stepped up to the plate and, like the greats that have come before him, came through when he had to. Tellish stepped into his swing, his muscles tightening in the motion, and the crack of the bat found the ball ricocheting off the scoreboard in left field for a tworun homerun and a 5-2 advantage.

"It was quite a hit," Tellish's dad, Mike, said at the national championship game between Maryland and Indiana the next day. "I got it all on tape. It went straight down the line and hit the scoreboard."

The Yankees, being the powerhouse they are, wouldn't let Northville get off that easy, and fought back to tie the game with one run in the fifth inning and two runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Northville responded well in front of their home crowd, collecting four runs in the top of the seventh to seal the victory. Wojcik lead off the scoring fury with his second hit of the game and scored the game-winning run on a past ball. Buckley walked his way to first base and was blasted in by a well-controlled hit by Williams before Williams himself was able to trot across home on an infield hit by Jake Dumbleton. Chris Scott stepped up to the plate and scored Dumbleton for the final run of the contest as he swatted a double. "This is a great group of kids," Cicala said. "They wanted to win and they went out and got one. Getting a win against the Bayside Yankees makes it that much better.

Mark Sorensen, who is quickly becoming a premier pitcher, threw a complete game as he gave up only three hits and one walk while striking out eight of the Yankee sluggers.

Northville wasn't all victories though. In their opening game of the tourney, they fell to a very tough Michigan Rams team 9-1 as Brian Alpert doubled and scored the Broncos' only run of the contest. Buckley and David Wells each added singles to the Northville totals for the day. Alpert threw in relief of Wells that game, while Nick Posa had some stellar defensive efforts at second base.

In their second game, the Broncos lost to the eventual national champion Orioles 9-3. Buckley lead the Broncos with a two-run homer and a single while Wojcik and Brett Asher each had singles and scored runs for Northville. Williams rounded out the hitting with a single. Tellish and Scott shared mound duty in the loss.

In their third game, and final loss of the tourney, Northville took on the Canadian Regional Champions, Team Ontario. Northville took to a 1-0 lead in the first inning as Wojcik was ruled safe due to catcher interference as he came in to home plate with a steal. The Canadians tied the game I-I in the bottom of the second and the Broncos came back to score two runs in the third on singles by Wojcik and Alpert and an RBI by Buckley. Tellish had two hits in the contest, a single and a double, while Asher added a single. Rich Hammer and Mike Hart shared mound patrol for the Broncos.

Tellish led the Broncos from the offensive perspective as he cranked out a .375 average, followed by Wojcik, Buckley, Alpert and Asher. Buckley also had a tremendous performance on defense while Sorensen led the pitching crew with a 1.00 ERA.

Maryland Orioles tame Bulls in NABF national title match

By Sam Eggleston SPORTS WRITER

It's amazing what a swing of a bat and a ball traveling over a fence can do for a team. It means more than a single run in many cases as it boosts a team's drive and energy even after playing through the second half of a rain-delay game and through the majority of a national championship tilt.

For the Maryland Orioles, a single homerun brought back the needed surge of charging energy to pull out an amazing 11-5 victory over the defending national champs, the Indiana Bulls.

"I really think it was Garrett's (Hanselman) homerun that made the difference," winning pitcher Brian Bent said. "It turned the tide for us and we came back strong."

Hanselman stepped up to the plate with a three-run lead over the Bulls in the top of the sixth inning. The first pitch smoked past him before he even registered the curve on the ball for a strike and the second sailed wide for a ball. The third pitch, delivered slightly low and inside, was sent for the ride of it's life as it cleared the 356-feet marker in left field for the homer.

"We came out looking for a win and that's what we got," Manager Ralph Leasure said. "Indiana is a very tough team and we hoped we would be able to stay within a run from them. We never expected this."

Truth be told, the game's deciding factor was probably more from the defensive end of the Maryland perspective as they worked together to shut down many Indiana threats. In the second inning, for example, the Orioles had pulled to a 2-0 lead, but Indiana fought back for a single score as Korey Grow crossed the plate on a slap to left center by Austin Kas, who led the tournament with a .667 batting average. The Bulls, with two men on and two outs, found their threat coming to and end on a running catch by the Maryland right fielder.

In the bottom of the seventh, the Bulls were struggling to come back from their 11-5

Spirits basketball team brings Novi, Northville rivals together in huge summer success

When Spirits General Manager, Stan Garfield of Northville organized the Novi/Northville Spirits basketball team to compete this spring and summer, he probably never dreamed how successful this team would eventually become.

The team was organized to give next year's Novi and Northville senior varsity players an opportunity to improve their skills during the spring and summer months, and improve they did!

The improvement culminated at the National American Youth Basketball Tour (AYBT) in Fort Wayne, Indiana this past weekend. The Spirits were 8-3 for the tournament and finished second, losing a hard-fought championship game to the Cincinnati Red Storm. The championship game flipped back and forth reminiscent of a championship boxing match. But, in the end, Cincinnati was able to throw a couple of extra punches pulling away for the victory.

At the Nationals, the Spirits went against powerhouse teams out of Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Indiana, to name a few, who played the entire game "above the rim," but the Spirits' perimeter game was the best in the tournament and kept the team competitive. The Spirits' perimeter game was led by Adam Konst of Northville, and Matt Emmenecker, and Shaun Dicken of Novi. When these three kids were on the floor at the same time it presented an almost impossible situation for opposing defenses. And, if one of these guys was resting, the Spirits were able to throw David Oljace of Northville into the mix, who also made a significant contribution to the offensive effort.

The team had other strengths as well. All of the players stepped up their defense in the tournament, but Novi's Chase Chandler set the pace.

and the second second

The play was very physical.

The point guard play of Chase Chandler and Northville's Roger Garfield also was critical as they continually found the Spirits' perimeter and post players with timely passes. They also did a nice job of creating opportunities off of their penetrations and made some important baskets as well. The team moved very well without the ball, and that created some great offensive opportunities for the Spirits and was a large part of the team's success.

But perhaps even more critical to the team's success was the ability of the post players to neutralize some very impressive opponents. Scott McNeish and Jeff Varley of Northville held their own against some very tall and athletic players. The Spirits, coached by Ron Konst of Northville and Al Dicken of Novi, sent all of the guards to the boards on almost every defensive play to help even out the rebounds. In doing so, the Spirits sacrificed some fast break opportunities, but the trade-off appeared to be worth it.

Adam Konst, Emmenecker and Shaun Dicken also were also honored by earning spots on the National Tournament all-star team and represented Northville and Novi quite well in that event. All three played well from the perimeter in the all-star game, but it was the 360 windmill dunks that were getting all of the applause and attention. The athleticism demonstrated at the all-star game was nothing short of breathtaking.

Also participating on the Spirits from other areas were center Travis Coughlin and swingman Zach Hilbers, both of whom made strong contributions to the team's success. The Spirits finished their season with a record of 35-7.

deficit, but it was not to be as Kevin Buck hit into a double play, short to second to first, to end the game.

"This is a great feeling." Leasure said. "I am here with my son, Kevin, and it is that much more special to know that we did this together. We've been playing ball with each other since he was about seven, and this tops it all off."

And though the swing of a bat for a homerun and great defensive play helped pound out the coveted national title for Maryland, a single factor was what kept the Bulls off balance Bent. His complete, seveninning pitching performance kept the Bulls swinging at tight curves and hard fastballs. Recovering from a tough tournament against some of the strongest teams in the World Series, Maryland was well aware that they didn't have the depth on the mound that the Bulls did. Bent, who has been clocked at nearly 90 miles per hour with his fastball according to fans in the stands, had to reserve his energy with a mix of curves, breaking balls and controlled heat.

"I knew that I just had to every- NABF World keep thing under Series control heading into the later innings," Bent said. 'Indiana is one of the best hitting teams in this tournament. I knew that I couldn't give them a lot to swing at, so I went with my curve ball through most of the game. It was really starting to move in the late innings."

Maryland's offense, which put up the 11 runs in the contest, was also on fire. The team recorded 20 hits in the contest as they battered a variety of Indiana pitchers. Mike Higdon, who was hitting in the high .500 for the tourney, was named the MVP of the entire Series after multiple clutch performances on both the offensive and defensive end of the contest.

"This is a great feeling," Leasure said. "It will definitely make the drive home a little easier."

The Orioles and many of the fans in attendance at the game weren't sure if they would be able to muster enough energy to play the Bulls to their fullest potential. Due to a rain delay, the semi-final contest between Maryland and the Edmond North Huskies was delayed until 4 p.m., which was the original starting time for the final game.

"We knew we had the ability to win it," Bent said. "This is a great group of guys and all of them really deserved it. I am excited just to be a member of this team."

Powers Struggle

To laugh or not to laugh, that seems to be the question

Coming to your favorite theaters this weekend is the M. Night Shyamalan ("The Sixth Sense") thriller "Signs". In Bucks County, Pennsylvania, a mysterious appearance of a five-hundred-foot crop circle is found on the farm of Graham Hess (Mel Gibson), the town's neverend. Producer Frank Marshall explains, "Oyes, it's a science fiction film, but it's also a serious drama about faith and spirituality. It's really about human emotions that are set in motion by a supernatural event." Frank Marshall adds, "You can look at the title of 'Signs' as a sign to open your eyes. The character of Graham is shut down in the beginning of the film and he is not really able to deal with reality. His family is not doing so well. And so, part of the message of the film, I think, is to open your eyes to what is around you and you will see the answers." Featured among the cast are Academy Award-nominee Joaquin Phoenix of "Gladiator" fame, Rory Culkin, Cherry Jones, Patricia Kalember and newcomer Abigail Breslin. "Signs" is a Touchstone Pictures release and rated PG-13 for some frightening moments.

"Tadpole," is the witty, comingof-age story about a 16-year-old boy, Oscar (Aaron Stanford), who falls in love with his stepmother. Eve (Sigourney Weaver). "Tadpole" emerged as an audience favorite after its world debut at the Sundance Film Festival, thus landing a distribution deal with Miramax Films. Director Gary Winick won Best Director award from the Sundance jury. The film was shot in just 14 days in New York City, with a Sony digital video camera on a small budget. "Tadpole" is a Miramax Films release and rated PG-13 for sexual content, mature thematic elements and language.

In theaters next week, "Spy Kids 2: Island of Lost Dreams" (PG), "Blood Work" (R) and "XXX" (PG-13).

French film director Jean Luc Goddard said that all you need to make a movie is a gun and a girl.

Well, those words that once liberated young filmmakers decades ago should be modermized for the 21st century: all you need to make a movie is a gun, a' surgically-enhanced girl and a couple of fart jokes. Or, at least, that's all you need to make a recycled slapstick comedy about a hairy British spy that keeps people coming back year after year to throw their dollars at the box office window workers.

"Austin Powers in Goldmember," starring former Saturday Night Live stand-out, Mike Myers, successfully corners the market, again, on reworked jokes about farts and private parts, shapely women busting out of their clothes and midget humor. That's right, it's the stuff of life and death.

In the third, but surely not the last, Austin Powers' installment, moviegoers are stupefied, literally, with a cinematic dose of labored vulgarity, star power with an array of celebrity dropins such as Tom Cruise, Britney Spears and Ozzy Osbourne and Weird Al-style musical parodies. I almost forgot; there is also a nonsense story about Austin Powers earning his father's long lost respect and, of course, saving the world in the meantime. Like I said, it's the stuff of life and death. The movie's bound to make its creators millions and millions of dollars, only because you can't help but laugh at all its stupidity. It's like Pavlov's dogs; a sexstarved super spy plus fart jokes plus well-endowed women equals a packed theater full of giggling and drooling village idiots.

The movie is a complete waste of your time. You'll forget every bit of it the moment you leave the theater. It has no redeemable value. It's not thoughtful comedy like a Woody Allen movie. There's no satire like Charlie Chaplin. It's not inventive slapstick like the Marx Brother. There's no heart like in a John Candy comedy. Mike Myers isn't even anyone's favorite Saturday Night Live star. But "Austin Powers in Goldmember" is, after all, what it tries to be: stupid. And I have the rest of my life to be serious and read Kafka.

I'll tell my friends to squander their money — and brain cells and check it out. Why not, I guess. I'm not too old and dried up yet to laugh at a man in a fat suit squeezing off a round of simulated farts. And it beats hanging out in the afternoon heat. Airconditioned theaters were made with movies like this in mind.

Getting to the point: you're sure to laugh. I did. You're free to be a mild pervert and check out the women in sparse clothing on the big screen. I was. You know you will keep cool. I did. You know the buttered popcorn will hit the spot, as it always does. So, throw your eight bucks down on the ticket counter and indulge yourself in being a cool, perverted village idiot with butter on his fingers who is laughing at a midget getting hit in the head with an oversized frying pan. And afterwards, remember to be grateful for the giants of comedy like Woody Allen, Charlie Chaplin and John Candy.

Guardians of the groundwater

In quest for green lawns, homeowners must use the right fertilizer

By Linda Neff

It's brown, it's crunchy and it looks dead.

But don't despair; it can be brought back to life.

Frank Rhodes, Americorps member with the Livingston Conservation District, says how the lawn was cared for prior to a dry spell plays an important role in its survival.

Most important is the height at which the lawn is mowed. Rhodes said the recommended height for mowing lawn grass is 3 inches. Mowing the lawn shorter for long periods of time reduces root growth and increases its susceptibility to dry conditions.

The higher the growth, the more the roots develop and the more the grass will be able to maintain itself during a dry spell," Rhodes said.

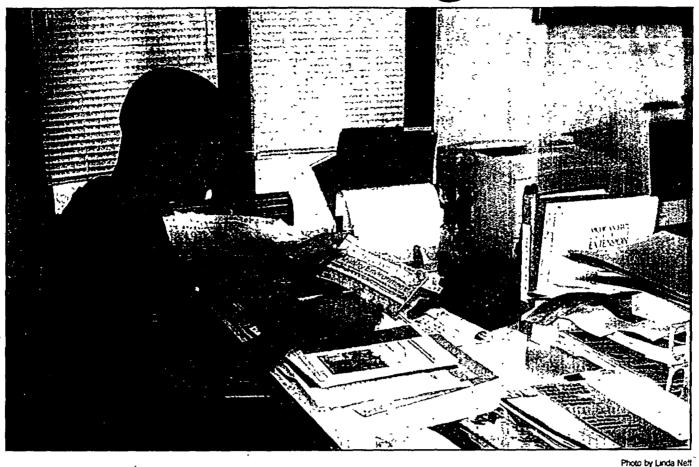

Lawns that turn yellow during a dry spell are simply going dormant, he said; they're not dying. By ensuring that your lawn receives about an inch of water a week, it should survive.

"It doesn't need 5 inches; doesn't need to be drowned, soaked and drenched," he said. "An inch of rain is probably the best and if we get a half inch of rain that week then all you really need to apply is another half-inch of water.'

Rhodes said a good way to measure waterfall is to use a container, like a cup, and mark it with inch markings. Place the container on the lawn to measure rain as well as sprinkler water amounts.

Focusing on creating healthy lawns with the least disruption to the environment is important to Rhodes.

"I promote water conservation in dry times like these, and try to get more awareness out about lawn care and how lawn care is connected to a whole bunch of things that I like to focus on - like our groundwater," he said. "How over-fertilizing and pesticide use along with lawn care can disrupt the environment, especially our drinking water supply.

Frank Rhodes, Americorps member with the Livingston Conservation District in Howell, prepares a packet on healthy lawn maintenance.

Rhodes is a Michigan State University graduate who signed on with Americorps to gain additional work-related experience.

"I joined Americorps focusing on ground water, which is our county's drinking water," he said. "I'm learning about activity that can affect water sources."

· In addition to organizing workshops on wells, septic systems, lawn care and pest control and how they impact the environment, Rhodes conducts one-on-one consultations with individual homeowners.

That's what I like to do --- hand out flyers, pamphlets and educate the homeowners," he said. "I know there is interest and people are concerned.

Rhodes said everybody's lawn is different — some people may be just establishing a new lawn, some have already established their lawns, while others may be trying to repair damaged lawns or planting seed. All of those factors must be taken into account when creating a solution for building a healthy lawņ.

"I can get a better view of what's going on if I can go out there and do a one-on-one visit," he said. "And the advice is also different for each in terms of watering, fertilizer application and pesticide application."

Homeowners are not always familiar with caring for their lawns or may not realize how that care can affect their drinking water. By using a Lawn*A*Syst assessment guide Rhodes can help the homeowner examine and rank their lawn maintenance practices, breaking it down into low, medium or high risk to water resources.

"We find where the homeowner falls in those categories and put their risk number at the very end, try to respond to those risks and set a target date to remedy those risks and what they can do to reduce those risks in the future," he said. "Hopefully there are mixed scores and we can basically try to save them time and money and at the same time help the environment."

Rhodes appreciates the chance to discuss lawn care with individual homeowners. By being on site, he can get a better idea of what is going on with their particular yard; answer questions about mowing, irrigation, pest control; and learn what type of fertilizer they are using.

"A lot of people don't know how to read a fertilizer bag ... and if you don't know what you're really applying to your lawn, you could

"If you don't know what you're ... applying to your lawn, you could end up disrupting your local water resource, pond or nearby lake."

end up disrupting your local water resource, pond or nearby take," he said.

Soil testing is the best way to learn about your lawn. Rhodes said Livingston Conservation District promotes the program "Don't guess, soil test."

"It's very important for homeowners to do that," he said. Farmers do it and you might think. 'Why do I need to do that?

The soil test determines exactly what types of nutrients are in your soil.

"The better for you as a consumer to make an educated decision when you go to buy a bag of fertilizer, you're now aware of what those numbers mean," he said.

For those who opt not to perform their own lawn care and maintenance, there is information available to help in selecting the best lawn service company for you. Rhodes said there are many questions homeowners can ask to obtain information to assist them in making a better choice.

"It's important to understand because it is an investment in your lawn and choosing a lawn care company should be a part of that long-term investment," he said.

Rhodes is available from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Livingston Conservation District in Howell. Contact him at (517) 548-1553, Ext. 122, to make arrangements for a confidential and free Home*A*Syst or Lawn*A*Syst.

Sun porch needs a lot of work — starting with the TV

Q: We want to do something unusual and fun in our twin already have a bright red enamel bunk bed, but everything else will be bought or made-to-order. Where should we go for ideas?

A: For openers, look into a wild new offering from Wilsonart International, the people who've been bringing inexpensive, longlived laminates into the American home since the middle of the 20th century. Wilsonart's new Gallery Collection is off-the-wall, both design-wise and literally. It's all

Would your boys love a desk covered in chocolate chip cookies or popcom? How about monstersized trucks or basketballs? Allover handprints or footprints? Teddy bears or gumballs or blades of grass? There's even a close-up of a chain-link fence (tempting with twins). There is also a more subdued blue denim pattern. But the real news lies in the really daring. Your boys could be the first in their preschool to do homework at desks covered in laminated jelly beans! Check out all the patterns at www.wilsonart.com.

Q: My girlfriend told me you can still find old tin ceilings, you know, the kind you sometimes see in old bars and stores. I'd love them for our family room --- we have an old-fashioned theme. The wallpaper is Victorian advertisements in black-and-sepia, and we even found an old barber's chair my husband watches TV in. I'll be so excited if you tell me tin ceilings are available.

A: Start celebrating! A number of companies are still stamping out the old designs. In fact, I know of at least one, in Brooklyn, N.Y., that uses the same molds harkening back to those advertised on your wallpaper.

In addition to traditional steel designs, you have a choice of white, brass, copper, and chrome, plus stainless steel panels that make great decorative and practical sense on kitchen backsplashes.

Welcome to Milford's best big, little festival, Milford Memories

I want to welcome you to our best "big, little" festival in Milford.

Milford Memories Summer Festival boasts more than 200 artists, three full days of free entertainment and enough activities to make you and your whole family happy for the weekend.

We figure that more than 50,000 people visit our event over the three days.

That's a lot of people! That's a big festival! But we work very hard at keeping that "little" festival feeling!

We hope you enjoy your time with us eating free food, enjoying art and music or just visiting with old friends.

We're glad you're here. We hope you come back.

> Jennifer Hill Festival Coordinator

You are in for a treat at the 11th Annual Milford Memories summer festival

On behalf of the Milford Village Council and the entire Milford community, welcome to the 11th Annual Milford Memories Summer Festival.

Our Festival runs from Friday through Sunday and promises to be bigger and better.

Milford is proud of its past, its present, and looks forward to its future.

Whether this is your first trip to our town and its festival or if you are a festival veteran, you are in for a treat. Many, many volunteers have worked long and hard to provide you with a pleasant experience as you stroll among the arts and crafts booths, watch the canoe race, cheer on your ducks at the Rotary Club duck race, laugh at Mutt-A-Rama, tour the civil war encampment, sample the delicious foods and beverages, enjoy the Saturday night dance in the park and participate in the many other enjoyable experiences which make up Milford Memories.

Once you have sampled Milford Memories and all that it has to offer. I am certain you will want to share your enjoyment with your friends.

The planning for the next Milford Memories begins right after the conclusion of this year's event.

If you would like to participate as a volunteer, the festival staff would love to hear from you.

Again, thanks for coming to Milford Memories. Enjoy our hospitality and come back to our lovely town often.

You gotta have art. And the Milford Memories summer festival has every medium of art imaginable. Hang it on a wall. Place it on a mantle. Put flowers in it. Wear it. Put it in your garden. Eat it.

How ever you like your art, it's available at Milford Memories.

"There's something for everyone," said Dianne Quinn. Quinn and her daughter, Raychel Rork, are the owners of Art in the Park, Inc. They promote several arts and craft shows in southeast Michigan, including Plymouth Art in the Park and Milford Memories.

Once again, more than 220 artists are expected to showcase their creations at this year's festival. Space limitations have prevented organizers from inviting more and more artists. On the other hand, as more and more artists want to participate in the festival, organizers have been able to choose better artists.

"We've got artists coming in, not only from all over Michigan, but all over the country," said Quinn. "Artists want to participate in Milford Memories because they know they can expose their work to thousands of people."

Milford Memories organizer Jennifer Hill said the festival now draws many of the region's top artists.

Village, will virtually engulf all of the downtown area. Vendors will set up on Main Street, between Huron and Summit streets. The art show also spills into Central Park. Many different forms of arts and crafts will be available, including paintings, glasswork, clothing, quilts, pottery, postcards, garden art, and much, much more. "There's something for everyone," said Hill. "We have a wide variety of arts and crafts which will fit almost everyone's taste."

"Whether it's a grandson or granddaughter looking for a gift for grandma, a homewarming gift, or a gift for a 25th wedding anniversary. there's something for everyone's budget," said Hill. Hill said the Village of Milford's downtown area is a perfect backdrop for the festival. "Especially with all the work that's been done," said Hill, pointing out the new brick paver sidewalks and the new Heritage Wheel sculpture. "It's such a charming downtown. It's a perfect fit for our familyfriendly event."

"In turn, that draws even more people to the festival, because people know they can buy some of the great art for their homes and garden," said Hill. "People don't want to miss the Milford Memories art show. They plan their vacations around it."

Old trusted favorites will be back again in 2002

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

When a car or household appliance has been around for 11 years, most people would begin to think it's time for the item to go. Thankfully, the people of Milford don't subscribe to that view.

The Milford Memories Summer Festival is gearing up for its 11th year of providing art and music in the heart of Milford.

On Aug. 9-11 the downtown area will be filled with artists, roaming musicians, good eats and much more. Festival Coordinator Jennifer Hill said all of the old favorites will be back again.

"It's very much the same as always," she said.

There is one event that will not be part of the festival this year, however. The Cemetery Walk has been included as part of the Milford Historical Society's Home Tour.

One new event on tap this year is Couch Potato Sunday. Hill said the festival's steering committee wanted to find a way to entertain the men who come to the festival with their wives. She said while the wives check out what the artists have to offer, their husbands can head down to Central Park to relax by watching sports bloopers, having a beer and listening to music.

Everything about this year's festival is bigger than before.

Last year was the first year Milford Memories expanded to include events on Friday. This year, there will be longer hours for people to see all there is to offer. Hill said people will have more time to spend at Milford Memories after work on Friday.

"People want to get off work and come down and hang out for a while," she said.

The festival will be open from noon to 8 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 9; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 10; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 11. The beer tent in Central Park will be open until midnight on both Friday and Saturday.

Hill said more people are also expected at Milford Memories this year due to increased advertising of the event, including spots on radio station Magic 105.1. She said an estimated 50,000 people may make their way to Milford during the weekend. "We're just expecting more and more people," Hill said. Magic 105.1 will also be doing a live broadcast from the festival in Central Park from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Aug. 10. Central Park will be a popular place during Milford Memories since many events will be originating from there. Hill said events that were held last year at Southside Park on Huron Street have been moved to Central Park. Also at the park will be the children's tent, beer tent, and numerous Art in the Village vendors.

Children throw hay about in a friendly game at the Civil War Re-enactment camp in 2001.

along Main Street and north of Commerce Street.

"The art fair is always the biggest (event)," Hill said.

Music has also become a large part of the Milford Memories atmosphere and this year Hill said there is going to be a wide variety of entertainment throughout the festival. Acts playing everything from rock to folk to jazz to gospel will be performing at the Center Street Gazebo, the Mill Pond Pavilion and on the south side of Main Street under the Colonial Motors awning. Hill said there will also be street musicians playing all along Main Street.

"Everywhere you look there's going to be food

While some artists will occupy space in Central Park, Art in the Village will also flow and music," Hill said.

The food will come from various vendors as well also local establishments such as Great American Pizza, The Valley Deli, Five Lakes Grill, Lei Ting, Perriez's Milford House and Milford Coffee Works.

Hill said Main Street will be closed down for the festival starting Thursday after rush hour and will reopen again Sunday evening around 9 p.m. While some parking spots will be available in the village, the festival will again be running a shuttle service.

For more information about the festival go to www. milfordmemories.com.

Are you brave enough to cruise through the river blindfolded?

By Tran Longmoore

Staff Writer

With a plethora of lakes in the area, and the Huron River winding through the heart of town, most local residents are handy with a canoe paddle.

In fact, canoe races are a summer pastime in Milford.

But would you be so brave and paddle so mightily if you were blindfolded?

the zaniest of Perhaps Milford Memories events, that's precisely what the Blind Canoe Race asks of its competitors.

Here's how it works.

Teams of three board the canoe. Two of the teammates are blindfolded. A third, without a blindfold, barks out orders as the canoe races through an obstacle course.

The canoe with the best time wins.

"Milford Memories has always featured fun events on the Huron River," said Dale Feigley, owner of Feigley Buick Oldsmobile, which is sponsoring the canoe race. "Those who participate have a lot of fun and get really wet. But I think those who watch have even more fun."

Feigley said the key to a fast run is trust.

"It takes a lot of trust to sit blindfolded in a canoe and take orders," said Feigley.

The obstacle course is short, running about 50 yards.

And while the river isn't deep near Central Park, Feigley said that several volunteers will be on hand to keep things safe should someone tumble from a canoe.

Cost for participating in the event is $15.

The race is set for Sunday afternoon at 12:30 p.m. on the Huron River.

To register for the race, call the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce at (248) 685-7129.

val include Great American Pizza, which was a favorite of the late Detroit Free Press columnist Bob Talbert, Lei Ting, Perriez Milford House. Milford Coffee Works, The Valley Deli and Jets Pizza. Besides setting up special outdoor tables, each of the restaurants will be open.

Other restaurants, including Peony House, Appéteaser, Leo's Coney Island, and Flats Grill, will also be open during regularly scheduled hours.

"People who don't already know about Milford's restaurants will be in for a tasty surprise," said Sharon Flora, who is coordinating food services for the event. "All of the local restaurants will be open, and some are bringing their business outside, to give people a taste of Milford."

Among those restaurants serving customers right out on Main Street, is Five Lakes Grill, the nationally acclaimed restaurant owned by Chef Brian Polcyn. The Atlantic Monthly recently raved that Polcyn's restaurant was one worth "planning a trip around."

Other restaurants participating in the festi-

Flora has also arranged for specialty food vendors for the event.

"We've got a little bit of everything," said Flora. "We've got funnel cakes, chicken and steak fajitas, kettle corn, ice cream, hot dogs, sausages, you name it."

Food will cost anywhere from $2, for a bag of Kettle Corn, to $6.50, for a steak fajita.

Couch potatoes added to the menu of Bones, Blues and Brews

Get out of the sun and into the fun at the Big Top at Central Park.

By day, the 200 by 200 foot area at Central Park is a place for families to take a break from the sun and enjoy a quiet lunch.

"It's a nice place to get out of the sun, grab a bite to eat, and spend some quiet time with the family before heading back out to the art show," said Ann Bergstrom, who is coordinating the Central Park Big Top.

Providing entertainment in the Big Top Saturday from 12:00 to 4:00 p.m. will be Nightshift.

But after 6 p.m., its party central. For a $2 cover charge, those over the age of 21 will be admitted to the biggest party in town.

Friday night marks the return of Bones, Blues, and Brews.

Local Detroit blues band, the Glen Eddy Band, which frequently gigs at the Red Dog Saloon, plays Friday night as Peppercorn Catering serves up platters filled with barbecue ribs and chicken, and much more. Wash it all down with an ice cold glass of Labatt's Blue.

"Bones, Blues, and Brews was a huge success last year. And when we began organizing this year's event, everyone agreed we had to bring it back again," said Bergstrom.

For this year's Saturday Night Dance, Milford Memories takes us back to the 70s and 80s.

MissUnderstood, which plays a wide variety of 70s and 80s top-forty music, will headline Saturday Night. Perriez Custom Catering will serve up hamburgers, hot dogs, Italian sausage, grilled chicken breast, and steak fries. "We wanted music that would appeal to people of different age groups," said Bergstrom. Hoping to bring more men out to the festival, organizers have planned a new event for Sunday afternoon.

"We're introducing Couch Potato Sunday," said Bergstrom. "While wives are out shopping, we're inviting men to come lounge around on sofas and chairs and watch sports bloopers, drink beer and eat munchies."

Area blues band, the Notebenders, will also play during Couch Potato Sunday, said Bergstrom.

The official beer sponsor of the Central Park Big Top in 2002 is Labatt Blue.

Cleaning up and moving you about the cog behind the Milford Memories wheel

With more than 30,000 people expected in town this weekend, open parking spaces are at a premium.

One needn't drive all the way into town to search for a parking spot.

Courtesy of the General Motors Proving Ground, Milford Memories provides shuttle service from two convenient locations north and south of the downtown area.

South of downtown, passenger vans will run continuously from the Milford Lanes bowling alley on South Milford Road.

Parking is available in the bowling lane lot, or across the street, in the old Hines Park dealership lot.

From the north, vans will run from the old Providence Medical center, which is adjacent to the Milford Health Care Clinic on North Milford Road.

"As the festival has grown, it's become more and more difficult to find parking in town," said Nancy Weeks, who is coordinating the shuttle program.

"Milford Memories is known as a relaxing, fun, and enjoyable event. We don't want people getting frustrated trying to find a parking space."

Weeks said there is plenty of parking north and south of the festival and that the shuttles will run continuously.

"The longest you'll have to wait is 20 minutes," said Jennifer Hill, who is coordinating the show for the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce.

"And there's plenty of room in the van, so you'll have no problem trying to fit all of those neat things you bought at Milford Memories."

The GM Proving Ground contributed the use of two passenger vans for the event.

The vans will be driven by specially-hired bus drivers from the Huron Valley School District.

A CIVIL WAR

Sponsored by the Village of Milford

When: 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 10 and 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Aug. 11 Where: Central Park

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

Even though the Union soldiers won the Civil War almost 140 years ago, the battle lines will still be drawn Aug. 10-11 during Milford Memories.

The Civil War encampment will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 10 and from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 11 in Central Park. The re-enactors will be demonstrating different aspects of life during the Civil War.

Joan Spiroff, event coordinator, said about 40 people will represent both the Union and the Confederacy and will be dressed in regalia and using weapons from that time. There will also be several woman dressed in clothing from the time period as part of the encampment.

Spiroff said the participants will also be firing a canon from the 1860s owned by re-enactor Don Cartwright who plays the part of southern soldier Henry Love.

She said the times for specific activities such as the canon firing haven't been determined yet but will be by the time of the festival.

"We're going to have a board with the times," she said.

The Civil War encampment has been part of Milford Memories since 1993 and Spiroff said the war did have an effect on the people of Milford.

"Milford did lose a lot of men in the Civil War," she said.

She said many of their graves can still be seen in Oak Grove Cemetery in Milford. Spiroff said the re-enactors are from around the area and they will be camping out in the park overnight just as Civil War soldiers did.

Visitors will also be able to speak to the re-enactors and listen to the stories they have to tell about the war.

"The people love talking to them (the re-enactors) and they love talking to the people," Spiroff said.

She said the encampment is also a good history lesson for children.

Spiroff said the cast of soldiers will be smaller this year. Many of the re-enactors consider themselves history buffs who take great pride in being true to the details of the period.

The downside to real-life automobile and boat racing is the chance to do great bodily harm, perhaps even to the point of death. But to live vicariously through these daredevils by watching them on television isn't exactly fulfilling, either. Even if you wanted to race, but didn't want to do it professionally so you took it to the street, the chances are you'd probably get a ticket or something. The next-best thing may be racing others with remote controlled vehicles. The machines are real, the chance of fun high and the risk of injury nonexistent. two years. He said the races encompass the abilities of all different racers and vehicles.

"There will be everything from gas-powered boats to cars which just run on a nine-volt," Worrell said. "Personally, I have an electric boat. It's fast, but ... it can't match up with the gas-powered ones."

Kids of all ages will once again have that opportunity during Milford Memories.

The remote controlled car race will be held at 3 p.m. on Aug. 10 in Central Park. The boat races will be held at 3 p.m. on Aug. 11 in the Mill Pond. Brien Worrell has been the event's organizer for

The main course at Central Park is "off road." There will also be a drag strip set up on the park's basketball courts to accommodate less rugged vehicles.

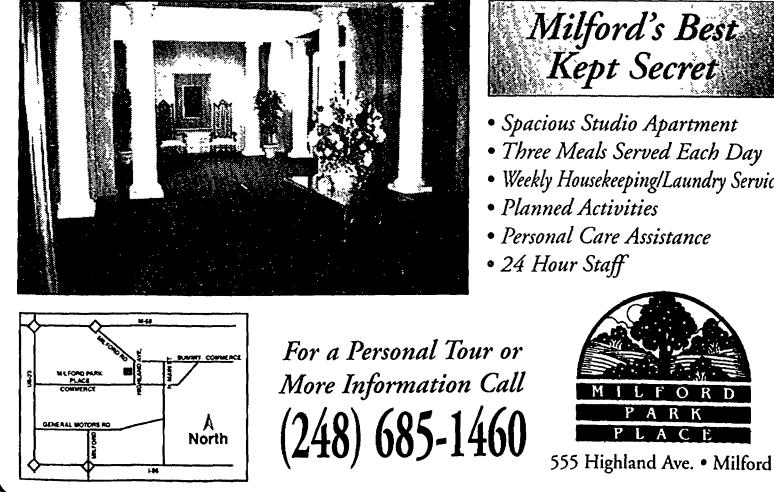

Those interested in participating can register at the Chamber of Commerce office or call it at (248) 685-7129. On-site registration is also available.

In the past about 20 people have competed. Worrell said there's no limit on the number who register and he hopes to see the amount of competitors compete.

"It's a fun time," Worrell said. "Bring what you've got. Or if not, it's a good opportunity to get one."

SUNNY'S BIRTHDAY

Event: Sunny's Birthday Party Sponsor: Heinsight Optical When: Aug. 10, 1-2 p.m. Where: Central Park

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

Last year, Sunny made his grand debut on the Milford Memories stage. This year he's getting a party of his very own and is inviting local children to help him celebrate.

Sunny's Birthday Party will be held as part of the Milford Memories summer festival from 1 to 2 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 10 in Central Park next to the children's tent.

"You won't be able to miss it," said event organizer Nanette McClellan.

that he is a giant sun who wears sunglasses and a big smile.

McClellan said children of any age are welcome to take part in the festivities which include a water balloon toss, limbo contest and a whipped cream pie eating contest. They can also enjoy a birthday cupcake courtesy of Milford Baking Company and get a goody bag just for attending.

Children will also get the chance to use their artistic skills to win a prize.

"They have a place to make a special birthday card," McClellan said.

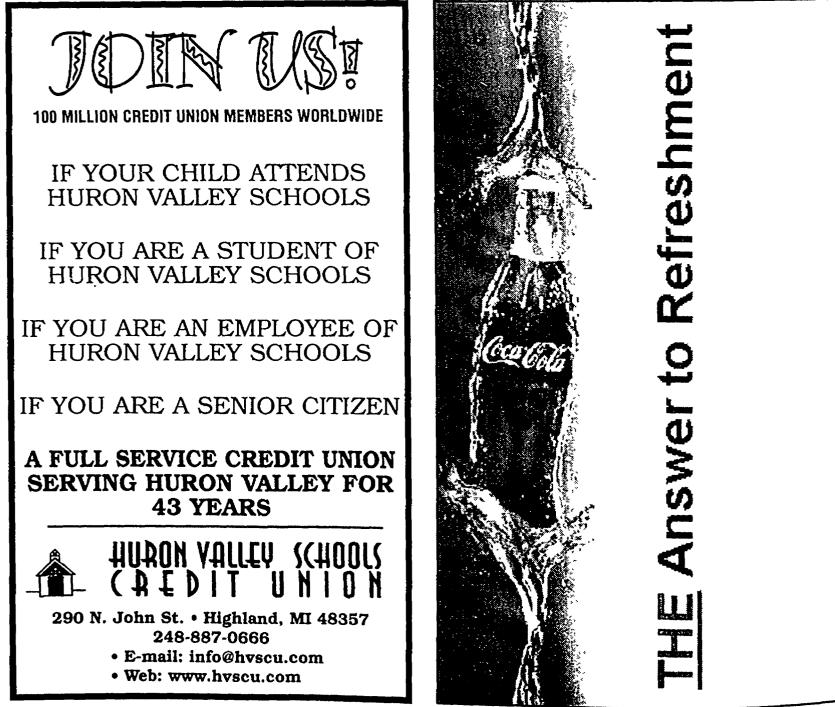

She said children can enter the card they create into a drawing and the chosen card will receive a prize. There will also be prizes for the winners of the other contests.

McClellan said she is expecting about 200-250 children to be at the birthday party, which is part of the reason there are going to be games large groups of children can compete in.

"The more the better," she said.

The party was created as a way to honor Sunny and McClellan said it will probably become a regular event during the annual festival.

"And it's something fun for the kids to do," McClellan said.

There should be a little something for everyone musically at the Milford Memories summer festival Aug. 9-11.

The three-day event will feature all types of music such as jazz, gospel, reggae, folk and rock 'n' roll.

"There's music at every inch of the festival," said Jennifer Hill, festival coordinator.

Hill booked the entertainment herself this year because she wanted to feature more of a variety in music at the festival. She said folk music will always have a place at Milford Memories, but she wanted to showcase other genres as well.

Performances will take place in three areas along Main Street in downtown Milford: Mill Pond Pavilion, Center Street Gazebo and under the Colonial Motors awning.

Hill said she hopes to make the awning location on south Main Street it's own stage next year. She also said the pavilion is a good place for entertainment because the festival extends that far north.

Beginning at 12:30 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 9, the music kicks off with folk musician Roy Scoutz at the Center Street Gazebo. It continues throughout the weekend with jazz band Orange Lake Drive, singer and guitarist Lisa Hunter, Zydeco music from Deux Blue, Celtic music from Brigit's Fire, and acoustic rock from Just Jill, along with much more.

"I really have a great mix of music," Hill said.

She said she finds the musicians through local entertainment publications, musician Web sites and many send samples of their work. Hill said she also gets recommendations for artists she should check out.

"We've gone out to listen to bands," she said.

Many of the bands playing Milford Memories are from Michigan and some are local acts such as folk artist Gail DonAvan and Brigit's Fire.

In addition to the artists performing at the different stages, there will also be street performers playing all along Main Street. Hill said those artists aren't paid but sell their CD's during the festival.

Hill said she's happy with the variety of music the festival is offering this year.

"These are really good bands and I'm really excited," she said.

Two hundred runners will battle for 5k title

By Stephen Bell

sports writer

Milford Memories celebrates local history back to the 19th century. But one aspect of the festival celebrates ancient history in the form of one of the original Olympic sports — running. Apparently, if it ain't broke don't fix it. Just wear shoes instead of bare feet or sandals. At least 200 runners will be taking to the streets of Milford for the fifth (and fourth-annual) 5K race. "If you track the route by car and just miss 400 or 500 feet per mile, that adds up," Armstrong said.

Another small detail was making sure the route avoids crossing the railroad tracks. There are few surer ways to kill a runner's high than getting nudged by a train.

This year's minutely traced course begins on the corner of Canal and Main streets, goes east on Canal around Lenox to Mt. Eagle, south on Mt. Eagle to Gardner for a half-mile, then back again essentially over the same route. Last year 265 runners participated in the Milford Memories 5K and Armstrong said he expects more than 200 again this year. "We get a wide variety of runners," Armstrong said. "There's a big geographic pull because we promote the race as part of the whole Milford Memories. It's not one of those races where runners show up, race, then get in their cars and go home. It's seen as more of a family outing. We get a lot of people from Ann Arbor as well as from Flint and Lansing. An ordinary 5K race would usually be more local."

The 5K race begins at 8:30 a.m. on Aug. 11. The one-mile fun run precedes it, beginning at 8 a.m. All participants receive a T-shirt. The winners get trophies.

The race debuted in 1997 but took a year's hiatus prior to Dave Armstrong taking the reins. Armstrong has organized other races and was able to bring a runner's perspective to the process. One of the major changes has been making sure the course is accurate.

Cold Butt Euchre tournament returns to original format

By Karl Kling

Editor

What's new is old again. Or is it the other way around.

Nonetheless, the format for Cold Butt Euchre will return to its original format, wherein, teams will compete in a first round format, where 10 games will be played against rotating competitors for 10-minute periods.

The second round will feature eight teams battling it out from four rounds of 10-minute games.

The semifinals will feature four teams in four rounds, with the finals pitting the top two teams in a three-round championship series.

However, the question over teams caught cheating will once again be the center of controversy - but the players have spoken, and we have heeded the call.

Rather than accumulating points as the primary determinant, the overall win-loss record of the pairs will be used.

Forms can be picked up at the Chamber offices, the Milford Times or Great American Pizza.

The 2002 official sponsor of the Cold Butt Euchre torunament is AutoTech Collision Center.

The annual event will feature a pancake breakfast from 7 to 10 a.m. on Aug. 10-11 under the big top in Central Park.

Festival coordinator Jennifer Hill said the breakfast will feature pancakes, sausage, coffee, juice and fresh fruit toppings for the pancakes. She said Sonrise Christian Fellowship Church of Milford will be running the breakfast and the proceeds will also go to them. toppings.

"It's really popular," Hill said.

She said the breakfast has been part of Milford Memories since the festival began and normally attracts artists from Art in the Park, festival workers, and runners from the 5K run on Sunday, Aug. 11.

"Everybody loves it," Hill said.

She said the church purchases the food and members of the organization prepare and serve the meal.

Since the breakfast takes place under the big top there is plenty of seating and no limit to the amount of people who can be eating at one time. "It's huge," Hill said.

MILFORD V JEWELERS "Your friendly jewelry store"

And the three best reasons to visit Milford Jewelers are...

Emendly! If you believe jewelry shopping should be as fun as visiting an old friend, then come home to Milford Jewelers. Our relaxed approach to handcrafting fine jewelry is as much a throwback to another era as the Main Street, Milford store in which we reside See for yourself what jewelry-shopping should truly be about!

1ffordable!

Stop paying too much for jewelry. Since we operate our win jewelry manufacturing center — one which supplies fine jewelry to individual clients and fellow jewelers alike - much of our jewelry is not only hand-crafted, but affordable. As you'd expect, we supply a full array of GIA-certified diamond and gemstone collections, along with watches and myriad special occasion gifts. All for less!

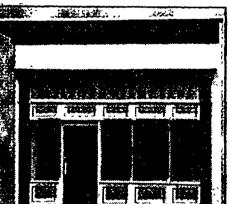

Diamond Jubilee! During Milford Memories. Hundreds in stock. Belgium-direct. Unbelievable prices!

Unique!

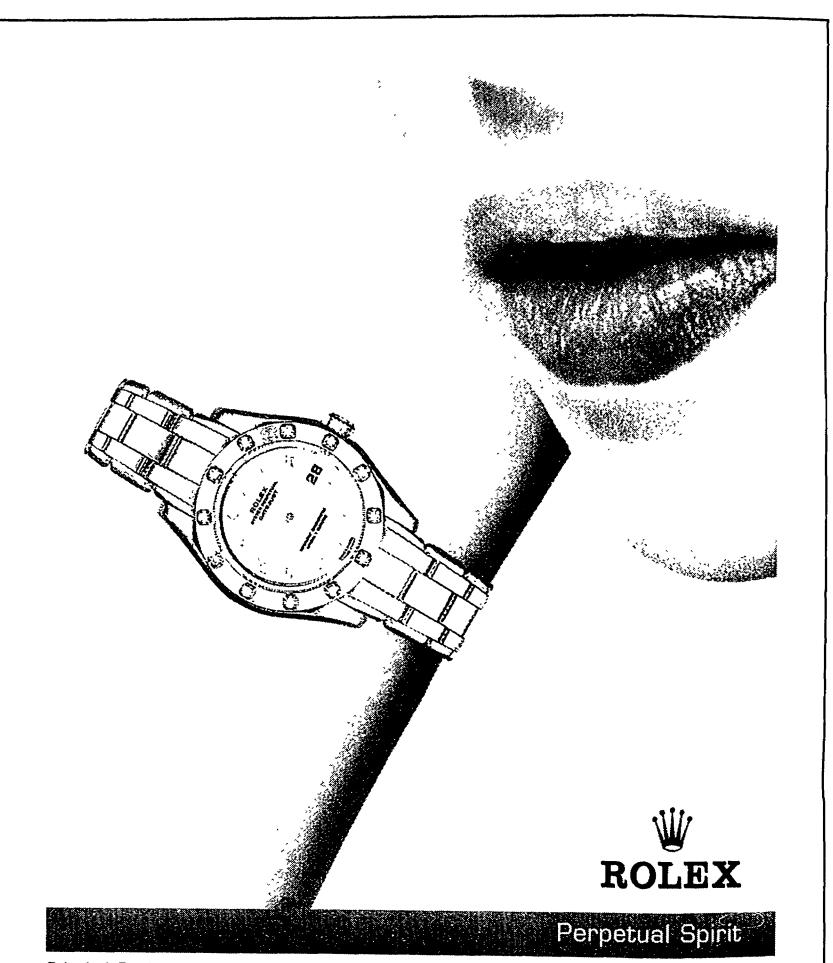

Any jeweler can impress you with flashy brand names and high-priced inventory. But if you want a true jeweler --- a dedicated craftsman who can custom design unique pieces at affordable prices - then Milford Jewelers is the place for you. Our family name has been trusted for over 30 years. One visit to Milford Jewelers and you'll see why!

PUBLIC NOTICE super slasher sale USED CARS for As little As

OVER A MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF INVENTORY!

CLEAN, ROAD READY USED CARS & TRUCKS SELLING FOR UP TO THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS BELOW KELLY BLUE BOOK!

BAD CREDIT NO PROBLEM! YOUR PAY STUB IS YOUR CREDIT

1 DAY ONLY Saturday, August 3rd 11am-6pm

NO DEALERS!

NO WHOLESALES!

NO EMPLOYEES!

Novi MI- Marty Feldman Chevrolet just announced plans to hold an "$88 USED CAR, TRUCK AND VAN SUPER SLASHER SALE" on Saturday August 3rd. Record sales from the last few months have resulted in an inventory crisis causing an overstock of trade-ins. "We have to take immediate action NOW to reduce the number of used cars, trucks and vans on the lot. We have over a million dollar inventory. During this GIANT event, every used car, truck and van will be sold for up to thousands below its original price".

ALL VEHICLES WILL BE ON DISPLAY AT MARTY FELDMAN AT 42355 GRAND RIVER AVE., NOVI • 248-348-7000 HERE'S HOW!

At 10am on Saturday August 3rd, all vehicles will be opened so that buyers may inspect the vehicles for an hour before the sale begins at 11am Saturday. Whoever is sitting behind the wheel at 10am on Saturday, when the prices are slashed will be given the first opportunity to purchase the car, truck or van at the drastically reduced price. We want to remind everyone that this is for one day only. When our inventory has been reduced, we will remove the sale prices and return to normal operations. "Since Marty Feldman Chevrolet is a local business, we would like to give back to the community. The owner would rather allow local people to buy these over-stocked vehicles than wholesale them at auction".

"I have served with Tom Doetsch in the Wayne County Juvenile Court for 20 years. Mr. Doetsch was an outstanding trial lawyer in the Wayne County Prosecutor's office. My fellow judges were so impressed that they hired him as a trial referee. He has heard hundreds of cases a year. He currently serves as Chief Referee of the Court. His high intelligence, courteous deportment and sound judgment has served this court well. Mr. Doetsch will well serve my fellow residents of Northville Township and all residents of the 35th District Court just as well."

For the past 9 years, Chief Referee Thomas Doetsch has been on the bench hearing cases of child abuse and neglect, permanent custody, adoptions, paternity, child support, delinquency and traffic/ordinance. Previously he had spent 13 years as an Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor. He has heard and tried thousands of serious cases.

Teen could get prison for torture, killing of dog

Danger cited to people, animals

BY JACK KRESNAK

The boy who stood before Thomas Doetsch in court Mon-day, accused of torturng and kill-ing a stray dog and taking its parts to his school, is among the five most dangerous juveniles Doetsch said he has seen in 22

Doetsch said he has seen in 22 years as a Wayne County pros-ecutor and jurist Doetsch, chief referee for Wayne County Juvenile Court, told the boy and his parents that he has lost sleep thinking about the danger the 16-year-old poses to people and animals. "In your statement, you said. "I to people and animals. In your statement, you said, 'I like dogs,' * Doetsch told the di-minutive teenager, who was wear-ing a green jump suit from the Wayne County Juvenile Detention Facility. 'If this is what you do to something you like, what in God's name would you do to something you don't like? Doetsch ruled Monday that the boy could face a prison sentence if he is convicted of the charges be-fore a judge. If he is convicted, he

Building the soil up is an alternative to digging down. Raised beds offer the advantage of filling the entire planting area with good soil. Raised beds are good choices for spots with clay soils that don't drain well and areas where the soil is full of tree roots. Make sure raised beds are open to the soil beneath.

LADDERS VENTS

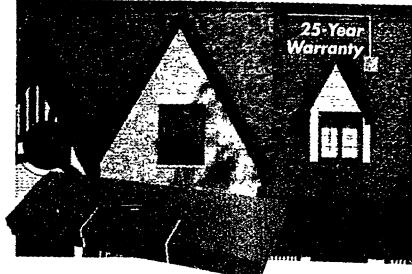

Installation made easy

Installing your new roof vent will take very little time. All you need is a jig saw, drill and hammer. Follow these three steps to success: 1. Locate your position and drill a pilot hole. (Remember to place the vent between rafters and close to the ridge, with a minimum clearance of 8" above the ridge line.) 2. Use your jig saw to cut the vent hole. Remove the cut out. 3. Position the vent and secure by nailing the base flange to the roof.

Save energy and money

Using a vent reduces attic temperature up to 25% and slows the transfer of heat into your living space.

electronics

PHONES

2.4 GHz Technology

2.4 GHz is a high-powered frequency that offers cordless phone users outstanding range with better clarity and security. While lots of manufacturers claim to make a 2.4 GHz phone, few actually deliver the 2.4 GHz frequency at both the handset and the receiver. You can hear the difference, especially at maximum range. When it comes to cordless phones, nobody's taken the technology as far as Uniden.

900 MHz Technology

900 MHz operations sends redundant information over a multitude of channels. This process eliminates false loss of signals, assures accuracy, and is not susceptible to "hacking", as is common with systems operating in the 300 MHz range.
