Twp. drain restoration progresses

By Pauline Campos
and Victoria Sadiolcha
STAFF WRITERS

After a rocky start, a near-decade's long controversial drainage problem between Northville Township and the city of Novi is close to resolve.

The township's engineering firm reported construction corrections to the Quail Ridge drain, a creek where water from the south part of Novi flows into Northville Township while servicing both communities, will be completed in the fall.

"From a construction standpoint, it will be done in mid November," said Aaron Uranga, engineer with Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May.

Uranga did point out although the construction portion of the project will be done soon, it will take about two years for the engineered-vegetation to grow and take hold. Some of the vegetation won't even be able to go in until November based on the planting season.

Uranga said the vegetation is a very important aspect of the corrections because it will allow for a more solid foundation by holding the side slopes of the channel in place while providing a barrier against future erosion.

Erosion of the Quail Ridge Drain was the catalyst to both communities' problems years ago. Northville Township's director of public services Don Weaver said the problems stemmed from high-velocity water

Gas line struck on work site

By Pauline Campos

Northville's Cady area construction project was temporarily halted last week due to a gas main leak near the corner of Cady and Griswold. The leak occurred when a tree stump was removed at the construction site.

ABC Paving area manager Paul Collick said that the line had been installed through the tree stump.

"When the stump was removed, the gas line came up with it. The potential is there for it to happen," said Collick, referring to what he said is becoming a commonplace practice of installing lines by sending lines through stumps, rather than around them. "If they had gone around the tree or in a different direction, this never would have happened."

Work was immediately halted and emergency personnel were on the scene within minutes, blocking off the area for safety reasons.

City may have potty problem solution

By Pauline Campos
STAFF WRITER

When nature calls, downtown shoppers now have an answer.

Per a public/private agreement formed between the city of Northville and Margene and Bob Buckhave, owners of the Old Church Square property and the Stampeddler stores, public rest rooms are now available. Two of the restrooms can be directly accessed from the public plaza on Center Street. The third restroom, which is compliant with the Americans With Disabilities Act, is currently being remodeled and will be equipped with a baby changing station.

The Buckhaves have worked out a maintenance agreement with the city in regards to upkeep and supplies for the restrooms, which have been available for public use since July.

Margene Buckhave said that the spaces became available during the last development project in the facility.

"The space was there and we knew we could make some room for the bathrooms in that location so it worked out well," she said.

Buckhave said the benefits to the community are obvious.

"I think we know the benefits. When people go somewhere and people can't use the bathrooms, they get frustrated. I think the city is certainly happy about having them because they have been wanting bathrooms here for a long time."

City manager Gary Word also believes the current agreement will benefit the entire community.

"The whole concept is win-win. It's a great public-private partnership that meets a community need."

But according to Word, these are not the only restrooms in the city available to the public.

"This is certainly the newest but was not intended as the only solution to solve a problem," he said. "There are several other businesses in the city that welcome customers to use their facilities. Poole's and Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall are just two examples."

The restrooms in city hall and the public library are also available.

Word also stated that although he might be satisfied with the agreement made with the Buckhaves for the public restrooms, he was dismayed that some downtown businesses did not welcome public use of their bathroom facilities.

"I think it's terrible for people to put up signs. You try to get people to shop in the downtown area and then put up signs that they are not welcome to use the restroom. and I think that is inappropriate," he said.

Amen! Church expansion nearly done

By Jennifer Norris
STAFF WRITER

Local area residents will have plenty of room to move and worship as a result of a $3.2 million expansion at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Located at 200 E. Main Street in downtown Northville, senior pastor W. Kent Clise said the building will feature 42,258 square feet of space that has either been completely renovated or added on.

"It's going to be a really big building now," said Clise.

Among the new amenities are a total of 19 completely new or renovated classrooms, a new Christian Life Center, a brand new main kitchen and seven added storage spaces.

In addition, Ball Hall will house the welcome center and a new main entrance, complete with a coat room and a new warming kitchen. There will be four kitchens, in total.

A building dedication is slated for Sept. 8 during the 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. service, said Clise. A celebration picnic will take place afterward in the Christian Life Center.

The Northville Presbyterian Church's new Christian Life Center building as seen from the northwest.

Clise said the many refurbishments and additions will better equip the church to serve the public.

"We want to be intentional about welcoming new people," he said. "[A] major reason for doing this building is God wants us to reach out to new people and make a place for them, a home for them."

"We've got to make sure that this church has an open door and an open heart."

Throughout the new additions and refurbished areas, traces of the past can be found in stained glass windows set into place as well as other artifacts of years past.

"We tried to keep vestiges of heritage," said Clise. He said the church was established in 1829, prior to the arrival of the University of Michigan campus in Ann Arbor.

The new Christian Life Center features "acoustic clouds" in the ceiling to aid in sound distribution. The facility, Clise said, will be available for congregational suppers, wedding receptions and indoor sports. A working stage is also available for drama and concerts.

"We want this household to be wide enough to receive all who need the Father's care and human love and friendship," said Clise. "At the same time, we want our doorways to be narrow enough to shut out pride, envy and hatred. We want our threshold to be smooth enough for the feet of little children and rugged enough to call forth mature powers of faith."

In addition, Clise said that a percentage of the final construction costs will be earmarked for a unique

Mailboxes torched in township

By Pauline Campos

Township police are currently involved in an ongoing investigation regarding the Aug. 1 arson of approximately 45 mailboxes in a new subdivision on Redwood Boulevard.

"At approximately 11:40 p.m. unknown individuals lit a set of mailboxes on fire. Approximately 45 mailboxes were completely destroyed, including the wooden structure that housed the mailboxes," said Detective Paul Sumner. "The detective bureau investigated and determined that it was an arson that took place."

The suspect or suspects would be facing a felony charge of arson. Detective Sumner said that police and fire resources had to be used for a senseless act.

"It was a senseless act of vandalism," Sumner said. "It was also flow coming from development on the Novi side of Eight Mile Road. The run off was causing erosion in the banks, he said.

Anglin Civil Constructors, the construction company hired to perform the corrections, concurred with Weaver.

Representatives said as they went in to mitigate, they noticed severe erosion problem due to high difference in base flow conditions and store flow. To correct the problem, Anglin increased the capacity of the channel and provided a rock armor at the bottom to keep erosion from occurring in the future.

The entire correction process was approved by the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, ensuring the drain will provide habitat for wildlife while remaining sound from an engineering standpoint.

Weaver said construction costs for the improvements totaled approximately $435,000, with an additional $65,000 spent on studying the channel for grant application purposes.

Two grants were received — one from the MDEQ and the other from the Wayne County Rouge program office.

Between the two grants, a substantial portion for the construction and engineering of drain was covered and the cost of applying for the grants is being shared by both communities, Weaver said.

Weaver said there are also some minor construction costs which will be shared between the two communities.

And although most involved feel everything is running smooth now, township officials said getting to this point wasn't the easiest. They said when the city of Novi was initially approached, talks did not go far.

"There had been dialogue between township officials and Novi officials in regards to remedying the situation," Weaver said. "They did have a storm water committee and we had some dialogue with them and they did look into it, but in the end, they decided not to get involved."

Weaver said that inaction was what prompted Northville Township officials to go through the process of turning the channel into an inter-county drain, placing accountability with Oakland and Wayne counties.

"Once we petitioned to get that drain created, Novi came back to us and said 'Let's talk about this some more,'" he said.

"There was quite a bit of discussion and it took awhile to work matters out because we have two separate counties and two municipalities and an inter-county drain," said Nancy McClain, Novi city engineer.

McClain also said the city's new administration has been willing to cooperate with Northville Township, something she believes was not the case in the past.

"I know there was some reluctance in prior city administration and there may have also been a request that we handle all money," she said.

Novi officials said the city of Novi will be paying about 60 percent of the costs, but all in all the project is practically completely covered by grants.

Both sides said communication and cooperation is free-flowing now.

It comes to pass — Northville tops Franklin

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

If someone were to hear that the Northville Mustangs football team had a passing game two weeks ago, they might have tried to hide their snicker. Tell that to them now, and they are going to nod with a smile.

Senior Darryl Delaney and juniors Mark Sorenson and Brendan Buckley made that quite apparent as the Northville Mustangs slapped the Livonia Franklin Patriots with a 27-7 season-opening conference loss.

"I have three quarterbacks that are all able to start on this team," first-year Northville coach Clint Alexander said. "I am going to use them all as long as I can."

Sorenson was the one that put up the most impressive numbers as he completed 11-of-14 passes for a staggering 168 yards. Delaney went 2-for-4, gathering 28 yards, while Buckley completed 1-of-2 for 20 yards.

Sorenson's performance puts him at a tie in the All-Time Northville Mustangs record book with the famous Steve Juday of Northville and Michigan State fame. Juday also threw for 168 yards, his coming against Holly in 1960.

"I'm definitely satisfied (with the quarterback situation)," Delaney said. "It's great to have everyone getting in an moving the ball around instead of just having one quarterback without anyone else getting valuable playing time."

And let's not forget who gave these quarterbacks enough time to pour themselves a cup of coffee without spilling a drop — the offensive line. Led by senior Marc Mueller, the offensive line proved that the Mustangs have plenty of horses under the hood as they literally shoved the Franklin defensive line about two yards back each and every snap. It was rare to see a defender break through the line — but when one did it was with plenty of hard work to attribute it to.

"I think there are places we can improve upon, but for the most part I think we got a really good push," Mueller said. "I think our strengths are everywhere. The coaches, the players, everywhere I think the coaches are driving this team. There is something in Northville that there hasn't been for a while, and that's intensity. It comes from our coaching."

The Mustangs used their quarterbacks straight out of the starting gate as Sorenson took the snap and hooked up with Bill Brown for a three yard gain on the opening play for Northville. The next play found him smashing his way through the middle for a six yard gain.

A false start found the Northville gridders heading the wrong way before Sorenson found Chris Berry on the halfback screen for a 35-yard gain to the three-yard line. Sorenson capped his drive with a three-yard scramble into the endzone with nine minutes, 18 seconds remaining in the first quarter with Brown tacking on the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

"We've always had talent on this football team," Matt Cornelius said. "We've had great coaching, but these coaches are driving us. They work so hard for you and it just drives you. When you get close to the endzone, you know you have to cross that line. Regardless of who you are lining up against, you have to take it across."

The Mustangs put together their second scoring drive, which started with 10:02 left in the second quarter, and pushed it 88 yards for the touchdown.

With 3:52 remaining in the first half, Zack Wollack took the ball to the left of the line, darting his way around the end before cutting into the middle and back to his right across the defensive box before turning on the afterburners and smoking the defense until being brought down at the one yard line. A delay of game penalty pushed the Mustangs back five yards, but two plays later, Delaney scrambled to his left, lowered his shoulder, and scampered into the endzone for the score with 2:06 left in the half. Brown's extra point gave Northville a 14-7 advantage after Franklin managed a score with 4:54 left in the second quarter.

After the Mustangs regained the ball on an interception by Matt Watza, Sorenson hooked up with Berry for a 46-yard gain before he found Brown on a 31-yard scoring strike with eight seconds remaining in the half. Brown nailed his third point-after attempt for the 21-7 advantage heading into the half.

"This was real exciting, and we worked real hard for it," Alexander said. "They were running a passing offense around here any way. There is a lot of talent on this team. None of our games are going to be easy, we just have to take what we have and use it to its fullest potential."

The Mustangs capped the scoring in stylish fashion as workhorse Cornelius carried the ball three consecutive times before jaunting around the right tackle and weaving through the defense for a three-yard scoring run with 6:06 left in the game for a 27-7 finish.

"We've got depth all over this team," Cornelius said. "We've got guys stepping up. Juniors and seniors are stepping up and doing their best. Sorenson stepped it up tonight, as did the offensive line. I think we can take this intensity and this desire and use it against everyone we play."

Berry pulled down two passes for 81 yards, tying him with Tom Hanson on the Northville All-Time records list. Hanson pulled down three passes for 81 yards in 1981 when the Mustangs took on Redford Thurston.

Watza hauled in three passes for 63 yards while Brown had three for 43 yards and Tim Downing grabbed three for 28.

On the ground, Wollack took the ball 15 times for 91 yards while Delaney carried it nine for 43. Cornelius hauled the pigskin six times for 30 yards in the victory.

The Mustangs (1-0 overall, 0-0 WLA) will return to action when they visit Livonia Stevenson tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in another WLA contest.

Wildcats get best of Mustangs in boys' golf

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville boys' golf team didn't exactly start the season off on the foot they had hoped they would.

Instead, they fell victim to the impressive shooting of Novi's Jack Tyler and the rest of the Wildcats 153-167 August 27.

"They played very, very well," Northville coach Tom Shaw said of the Novi Wildcats. "Jack Tyler had an eagle on both of the last two holes. He played well the entire meet and then finished off nicely."

Tyler finished in the medalist position with a 33, three shots ahead of Northville Mustang Brandon VanHeyde, the Northville leader.

Finishing behind VanHeyde for Northville was Ryan Gideon, with a 42, while Dave Oljace finished the day with a 43. Rounding out the scoring varsity players was Jim Gates, who recorded a 44. Also playing for the varsity squad, but not having their score counted, was Matt Lewicki, who shot a 33 and Greg Jones, who hit a 45.

For the Wildcats, Jesse Lockman shot a 39 while Joe Caroselli hit a 40 and Eric Aytes shot a 41 on the day. Not counted for Novi were Brandon Cigna with a 41, and James Paysal, with a 45.

"I feel we can definitely do better," Shaw said. "A few of them still have nervous scores — I guess that's what you would call it."

The remedy, or at least to Shaw, is to get his team more playing time to help them adjust to the varsity golf scene.

"They just need some more competition," he said. "They played a lot of JV, but not varsity. There is a little more pressure at this level, and I know we can do better than what we shot"

The JV squad also felt the pinch of a loss as they fell to Novi 250-258.

Matt Long led the charge for the Mustangs with a 41 and Alex Karchan shot a 42. Lance Dehne and Scott Gittins both recorded 43s, and Campy Smith and Andrew Bishop shot 45s.

Not counted for Northville was Pat Uetz, who hit a 53, and Mike Calabrese, who recorded a 48

The Mustangs (0-1 overall, 0-0 WLAA) will have returned to action Wednesday when they shot against Plymouth High School at Plymouth (after the Northville Record went to print).

Cross Country

If the Detroit Country Day tournament wasn't enough to test where the Northville Mustangs soccer team this early in the season, bringing in University of Detroit Jesuit, the defending state champs, was.

The Northville Mustangs, under the guidance of coach Henry Klimes, earned a 1-0 victory over U of D.

"I think we could have scored a few more goals, but I'll take the win," Klimes said.

The single goal of the game came midway through the second half of the contest off of senior Alfonso Acevedo with Hiroyuki "The Big H" Tohyama getting the assist.

"We have the same coaching style," Klimes said of his long-time coaching comrade Kevin Tuit of U of D. "We've known each other for 20 years, so it was kind of like a chess match out there. He would try things and I would counter and vice versa. He knew what I was going to do, and I knew what he was going to do."

The Mustangs and U of D found themselves all tied up at 0-0 entering the half, but Klimes said that U of D is having a bit of a down year in the early goings of 2002 or the game would have probably seen more scoring.

"That team has a lot of big shoes to fill," he said. "They graduated Mr. Soccer and a couple of other big horses."

The Mustangs relied on Steve Best, a sophomore goalie, to take charge between the posts, where he earned a shutout.

"Our starter, Alex Richard, is out with a broken ankle," Klimes said.

that danger was minimal, adding that the mild temperature and wind helped to neutralize the situation.

"The gas was dissipating when it hit the air. It was the best thing for the situation. The wind carried the gas away from the business area," he said. "The only potential danger there was would have been if some type of spark had ignited the gas. That's why we cornered off the area."

Consumer's Energy personnel arrived within an hour of the incident, clamping the line and crimping it off before making the necessary repairs.

"The contractor had taken all necessary precautions and followed proper procedure," said Allen. "This was really one of those unavoidable accidents."

A natural gas line was punctured last Wednesday afternoon along Cady St. near Griswold. The dusty cloud at left is from the force of the gas as it exits the broken pipe in front of the piece of construction equipment. Northville Fire and Police departments responded.

City recommends business owners open bathrooms

Chamber of Commerce Director Laurie Marrs agreed with Word, saying that allowing public use of private restroom facilities can only be smart business. Marrs believes the practice would bring new customers and more business into those establishments that depend on foot traffic.

"Sometimes nature calls and if nature calls it is great when you are in a business that will let you use their facility. Then you can continue shopping," Marrs said.

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the home towns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Remembering Sept. 11, 2001

First there was the One Month Anniversary.

Then there was the Three Month Anniversary.

And then came the Six Month Anniversary.

All this, leading up to what we knew would eventually come around: the one-year anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001 terrorist attacks.

We suppose the term "anniversary" isn't really the right word, as it normally connotes a celebratory event...something joyous...something happy. Clearly, that isn't the tone that will descend on America at around 8:45 a.m. next Wednesday.

Terminologies aside, Americans everywhere, including residents here in Northville, will be recalling and reflecting. Memorials will take place across the country, including right here in our own hometown.

So what's the proper response to remembering Sept. 11? We're all going to deal with it in our own ways, just as we did a year ago, but we have a few suggestions:

- Don't be downtrodden the entire day or week. Certainly, the wounds are still fresh and the memories very vivid. But wallowing in the tragedy of the day doesn't accomplish much. In fact, it allows those who committed the horrific acts to claim another victory, in that they will have disrupted American life...again. Be solemn and respectful, but get on with life.

- Fly your U.S. flag. Retailers were sold out of the Stars N' Stripes in the weeks following 9/11. It would be nice to see those same flags make a reappearance next

We're all going to deal with remembering the events of Sept. 11 in our own ways, just as we did a year ago, but we have a few suggestions.

Wednesday, as well as all federal holidays.

- Be sensitive to children. They don't process information in the same way adults do. Answer their questions, but don't let them sit in front of the TV for hours on end. Send them outside to play or do the things kids should be doing.
- Give blood. The need for this precious gift didn't end on Sept. 11. It goes on throughout the calendar year. The Red Cross estimates that if every adult eligible to give blood did so four times a year, we'd have no blood supply crunch.

- Be patient. One of the after-effects of the terrorist attacks has been increased security hassles. Now that we all know what to expect, we should expect what we know: more questions and longer lines. Give yourself plenty of time to get through airports or border crossings, and it'll help take the misery out of a difficult situation.

Time never fully heals all wounds, but we hope that the pain in our hearts won't be as bad on Sept. 11, 2003.

Stewart appreciates Northville's support

I want to thank all the voters of Plymouth, Northville, Canton and Wayne.

I am deeply humbled and appreciate the great privilege of serving as your state Representative. I can never thank voters in Northville enough. There are a lot of "thinking voters" in Northville (city and township) and a lot of "thinking Republicans."

If I am re-elected on Nov. 5, I have already signed the Taxpayer Protection Pledge, and my only intent is to oppose any and all efforts to increase taxes.

My home telephone number is (734) 420-4094 and my office number is (517) 373-3816. I greatly treasure the opportunity to offer you the highest degree of credibility.

Thank you again for allowing me to be your state Representative.

Baseball strike over, time to focus on Iraq

The strike deadline set by the Major League Baseball players has come and gone. There is to be no strike and we baseball fans are happy with the owners-players' agreement.

Now we must consider the strike concept in the bigger, more important world, a strike meaning war between nations, resulting in death and destruction. Certainly, the strike against Iraq is of real importance. Count me as one who supports a strike on Iraq if the administration and military are convinced Hussein has the weapons and intends to use them. We would be doing the human race the greatest good by cleansing the earth of one who would befall any and all communities with biological, chemical, and nuclear agents of death and destruction. We can't afford nor should we await Saddam's first strike. Not only power is on our side. Intelligence must be our greatest asset.

Design group's spirit of helpfulness is huge

Regarding the Aug. 29 article "Design group lauded by businesses" — what the article failed to mention is how the word "no" is just not in Anna and Nick Giammarco's vocabulary when asked to donate their time and talent to Northville Parent Teacher Student Association projects. Northville is fortunate to be able to count the Giammarcos among its residents.

There's hot air in the airport

There's still a whole lot of funny business going on over at Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Readers with long memories will recall that the airport for years was an embarrassing mixture of corruption and incompetence.

Phil Power

County and place it in the hands of an independent appointed authority. The legislature passed the required law, and McNamara and Engler picked an unusually distinguished group of citizens to serve on the authority.

Since then, the authority has had nothing but trouble from the Wayne County commissioners, who hated the change because it took away their cherished political and financial leverage. They moaned that "public oversight" somehow had been sacrificed to the workings of the authority. And they wound up filing a lawsuit — probably spurious, certainly self-serving — asserting the authority lacks accountability and independent auditing, and arguing that the county will be forced to cover $115 million in bonds issued to finance the construction and renovate the north terminal. The suit has been hanging fire for weeks at the Court of Appeals.

In the meantime, the commissioners have been stalling on approving the bonds. If the bonds aren't OK'd, Northwest Airlines will face millions in extra charges. Oddly, this doesn't seem to faze the commission. Commissioner Robert Blackwell, who chairs the commission's airport operations committee, was quoted in last Thursday's Detroit News as saying, "To hell with Northwest," an unusual way to treat the airport's biggest customer.

Gov. Engler last week requested an expedited hearing on the case from the state Supreme Court, both to settle the complex issue of the bonds and to clarify once and for all who has the authority to run the airport, the County Commission or the appointed airport authority. Now the commissioners, fearing the Supremes might rule against it, are hinting they would drop their suit if they get a say in making appointments to the airport authority and approval power over certain large airport contracts.

Let's be clear about what's really going on here.

The Wayne County Commission is trying to hold hostage both Northwest Airlines and the new airport, not to mention the taxpayers of the County of Wayne and the state of Michigan. Letting the commissioners have any say in appointments to the airport authority would be letting the fox back in the chicken coop. And allowing the commission to approve "certain large contracts" does nothing more than take us back to the days when no-bid contracts at the airport were let on the basis of political connections.

This is hardly theoretical. A highly placed source told me that only last week one of the commissioners called him, ostensibly to ask how a certain asphalt company "could be placed on the approved bidders' list." In reality, what the commissioner was angling for was a route by which his friends in asphalt got awarded a sweetheart deal at the airport.

Some things never change, especially when it has to do with the way business is conducted in Wayne County. You would have thought it was enough for the commissioners to be paid a base salary of $68,676 a year, get a sizable allowance for staff and a taxpayer paid car — all for being a member of a commission that meets once every two weeks. But for the commission to try to get back into its historic role of contributing incompetence and corruption to the business of running the airport is too much!

Gov. Engler was right. The Supreme Court should take jurisdiction over the commission's lawsuit, hold expedited hearings and bring a prompt end to all the whining and funny business. Then the airport authority can get down to the serious business of managing the airport and its finances.

Where were you on September 11?

Over the next couple of weeks, all of us — especially those of us in the news business — are going to be looking back at what was going on in our world on Sept. 11, 2001. Here's a reprint of the column I wrote in our Sept. 13 edition from last year.

I'm smiling in my photo. Rest assured — I wasn't smiling Tuesday

Chris C. Davis

My expression, I've been told, was something between a blank stare and erratic blinking, like I was trying to bring myself out of a bad dream. I'm sure I wasn't the only one.

I'm normally not one who has difficulty finding something to say about a situation, but I don't mind telling you that anything I could possibly say or write about the horror we all saw unfold in New York, Washington and Pennsylvania simply wouldn't be adequate.

We live in a new America this morning, and that also means we live in a new Northville. The usually jubilant tone of the Northville Victorian Festival, which is slated to take place as scheduled, I'm sure will be greatly subdued by our collective grief, disbelief and rage.

Moments like these put quite a bit in perspective. You'll note that the Record contains stories not just of local angles on Tuesday's catastrophe, but also glimmers of hope, like feature pieces on elementary students learning about butterflies and being entertained by guitar-strumming twins.

But unfortunately, they — along with just about anything and everything else we could write about this week — take an understandable backseat to what has occurred 500 miles east of here.

Under any other circumstance, property setbacks and school litigation would probably be a much bigger deal, as would a feature story on the Victorian Festival, write-ups on high school sports, club meetings, announcements...the list could go on and on.

But this isn't like any other week. Moreover, this is unlike any other week any of us have ever experienced. None of us have ever witnessed anything quite like this.

This is another one of those definitive moments in our history when, years from now, we will find ourselves having the "Where Were You When..." question pops up. Though my first priority is on local news, I found it nearly impossible not to be glued to the office television or be checking the AP wire every few minutes. As I directed traffic in the newsroom to get local angles on the tragedy, my mind was just a blur.

It was part adrenaline, part fear, part anger, and part disbelief. But it was all shock. I'm sure I wasn't the only one feeling that way.

As you read this, it's a full 48 hours after we first learned of the first hijacked plane that crashed into the World Trade Center. The dust hasn't settled, and the flames aren't out.

We all have a responsibility to do our part over the coming days, weeks and months.

Give blood. And don't give me any whiney excuse about how it hurts or that it takes too much time. There are people who are hurting a lot more than you right now, and they desperately need what you have.

Call a church or a service organization and ask what you can do to help.

Make amends with that neighbor you've had a feud with. Whatever squabble has divided the two of you isn't worth carrying on.

Fly your U.S. flag.

Give your kids plenty of kisses and hugs. There are going to be a lot of scared little ones out there — they need reassurance from grown-ups, even if grown-ups are frightened, too.

As I worked on the front page this week, I flashed back to my first job at the Sault Evening News. I happened to be working there at the time TWA Flight 800 was shot down. It was the biggest single news event I'd experienced to date.

Unfortunately, it didn't stay that way. Tuesday changed me — and everyone else, for that matter — forever.

It's hard to say goodbye to Diana

Cal Stone

It's tough to part with a staff member, especially one that's done as fine a job as Diane Deel has covering the Lakes Area.

That part of our area has a lot going on week in and week out, and Diane made sure that it got proper coverage. She was always concerned about the people she wrote about and that her articles presented both sides of the issues.

Diane's last day will be this Friday, but I'm sure we'll be seeing her byline in the Novi News on a freelance basis in the future.

Just so readers know, she's leaving for one reason — to be a stay-home mother to her son. I applaud her for that. Some may think this is a politically incorrect, male chauvinist pig attitude — but I wish more women were able to do that.

Actually, I understand perfectly where Diane is coming from because I did the same thing when my wife and I had our first child. I was the editor of a weekly in St. Johns, and I quit to stay home with our daughter.

Financially, it's tough. However, the rewards are great. That one-on-one time with your child is irreplaceable, and it's something anyone who does it will be thankful forever.

So while our staff (and the community) will miss Diane, her decision is one we respect and admire. She'll have plenty of opportunities in the future to write for many newspapers — but she only has one son.

Cal Stone is the editor of the Novi News. He can be reached at (248) 349-1700, 113 or by e-mail at cstone@ht.homecomm.net.

South Lyon based Realtor connects customers to the real estate world

Looks can be deceiving. At first glance the Coldwell Banker Schweitzer Real Estate at the corner of Rushton and Ten Mile roads in South Lyon looks rather modest in size. Yet, step inside its doors and the world can be at your fingertips.

Pam Danaher, manager and associate broker with the company, said her agents have the capabilities to connect home buyers and sellers with the best Coldwell Banker agents across the United States as well as all over the world.

"We're that large," she said. Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in South Lyon is one of 14 offices dedicated to providing first-rate service to their clients. The Schweitzer group is No. 1 in the Coldwell Banker group in the Midwest and number five in the country.

"We look like we're the small office down at the corner, but we're huge," Pam said. "In that we have 14 other offices under the same umbrella."

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer is just as supportive on the home front. Situated at the three corners - Livingston, Washtenaw and Oakland counties - its agents take great pride in service and working with clients for life. It's not unusual for a Coldwell Banker Schweitzer agent to work with a client on several occasions or to work with other family members of a previous client.

"If you do a good job, that's what happens," Pam said. "You do have clients for life."

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer agents strive to make their clients their No. 1 priority by making their day the best it can be, creating a little fun and always being there for them. Agents work on the theory that they choose their attitude every day, so no matter what their day may be they are to choose their attitude and to be on the pleasant side.

Technology plays a big role in the South Lyon Coldwell Banker Schweitzer agency. All its agents' desks are wired to provide immediate access to information and listings. Each agent has their own Web site and two additional sites also provide information and complete listings of available properties.

"All listings are on the Internet every day," Pam said. "Plus we have our own buyers guide for advertising; every listing is there until it's sold - and that's at no cost to our clients."

The advantages of doing business with Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in South Lyon are many. The full-service real estate company can help you obtain your mortgage in-house, and using Metropolitan Title Company it can help you also get your title work done in-house. If your home is in need of some additional work, Coldwell Banker Schweitzer can help with that as well.

"If the client needs painting, carpet cleaning, carpentry work, a roof put on, with one fast phone call we can get three estimates out for them, which gives them good quality sub-contractors at a reasonable price," Pam said.

The agency also has a service that contacts all the utility companies to handle those transfers.

"Basically, we take as much of the burden off them as possible," Pam said. "And we pride ourselves on that. It is a very stressful time in people's lives when they have to sell or buy a home so we take as much of that pressure off them as possible."

Pam Danaher joined Coldwell Banker Schweitzer nearly 14 years ago because it believes in doing business honestly and ethically.

"I believe in that also, so, I decided to go with Mr. Schweitzer because he's a good man," she said.

"We have a wonderful group out of this office," Pam said. "Ninety-nine percent of the agents in the South Lyon office are also South Lyon residents who are very involved in the community."

The agency is a member of the South Lyon Area Chamber of Commerce and participates in several community activities throughout the year such as the Pumpkinfest and adopting needy families during the Christmas holiday. A good number of its agents also play an active role in their children's activities like Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and sports.

For those considering a career in real estate, Pam said she feels that Coldwell Banker Schweitzer has the best training available for new people. She added that as a real estate agent, hours can be flexible and agents always seem to help each other.

Coldwell Banker Schweitzer in South Lyon is relocating later this year to a larger office in the same complex where space will double in size. Pam said they hope to be in their new surroundings by December.

"We're growing thanks to the community," she said. "It's going to continue to get bigger and bigger."

Contact Coldwell Banker Schweitzer at (248) 437-4500 or stop by the office at 12516 Ten Mile Road (at the corner of Rushton and Ten Mile roads).

purpose.

"Whatever we end up spending, an additional 10 percent will be given away to different mission projects," he said.

The church — which numbers over 1,200 members — will feature two elevators and will even feature a tile, floral mosaic created by children along one wall.

Clise said he feels a sense of humility in seeing the addition and multiple renovations come to fruition.

"I feel very humbled, we have the opportunity to do this," he said. "It's like I'm saying to the Lord, 'Really? You want us to build this?'"

"With this blessing comes responsibility. To those who have been given much, more is expected, so rather than resting on our laurels, there is a sense of burden. We have a responsibility."

Just as the hallways and classrooms have expanded, the arrival of new members and the opportunity to aid in their spiritual development is a main priority.

"The theme that's behind all this is welcoming growth," Clise said.

Swimmers are deep with talent in 2002

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs girl's swim team has a solid nucleus and plenty of depth to take them where they want to go in 2002 — and coach Tom Silak sure doesn't mind.

The 'Stangs will have leadership like that of Shannon Hogan, Jenny Carr, Erin Schubert and Lisa Longway to lead them on their quest of an improved conference and state standing over last season.

"Last year we finished sixth in the state," Silak said. "We are hoping to improve on that. We have really good depth with 70 girls on the team and everyone is pretty good. We also have a couple of good freshmen on the team this year, and hopefully they will be able to add to the team."

The Mustangs will have plenty of competition to test their depth and their ability. Teams like Livonia Stevenson are no doubt coming back with the same intentions as last season.

"Livonia Stevenson is definitely our biggest opponent in the conference," Silak said, noting his team finished third in the Western Lakes Activities Association last season. "They have won the conference the last 11 or 12 years in a row."

The Mustangs will be hoping to use their depth to win a number of their conference matches, but Silak said that he is in full realization that he may have to look to his top swimmers to get

Harrier girls are looking strong

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs girls' cross-country team has a bright outlook on the 2002 season.

Coached by second-year veteran Nancy Smith, the Mustangs return seven of 2001's top eight runners. Leading the way will be senior captains Heather Moehle and Ramona Maza.

"They are dedicated, committed and talented and have outstanding leadership capabilities," Smith said. "Both of these young ladies are great leaders."

Also returning for the Mustangs are Devon Rupley, Molly Gavin, Kate McClymont, Katy Miller and Rachel Santer.

The Mustangs will also have some young runners vying for top spots this season. Newcomer sophomores Liz Hrivnak and Andrea Moehle will be joined by freshman Meaghan Keiffer.

"All three newcomers have tremendous talent," Smith said.

The Mustangs were third in the conference and the Regional in 2001 as well as 15th in the state. This year, they have 28 girls on the team, 11 of which are newcomers. This season, Smith hopes the girls will be able to improve on their conference standing.

Gridders with new attitude under Alexander

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs football program isn't looking to be the same old squad they have been in years past. Instead, they have brought with them to the field a whole new attitude, and a whole new head coach.

Clint Alexander has taken the reigns of the Northville gridgers after a retirement from the football field by long-time coach Darrel Schumacher. Alexander, who is also a new teacher at Northville, isn't going to sit by and watch his team lose.

"We want to win, and that's what we are going out there to do," he said after his team beat

Plenty of depth, talent in skilled areas for resurging Northville Mustangs football squad

Livonia Franklin in their opening game 27-7. "This team has a lot of potential, and we are going to use it."

And use it they have and will continue to do. Three quarterbacks all saw playing time in their opening game, as well as a slew of runningbacks and receivers — all who played key roles in their booming victory over the Patriots.

"We have a lot more intensity (than last year)," senior runningback and linebacker Matt Cornelius said. "I come out and I want to work hard. I want to be the best I can be. These coaches, they inspire me to do my best."

And also ready to do their best is the new and improved offensive line, led by senior tackle Marc Mueller. The line, one of the weak points in the program the last few years, is coming off the ball with more intensity and fire than it has seen for some time. Pushing their opponents backwards is what they do, and it is what they are hoping to continue to do throughout the season.

"I think we are really stepping up and coming off the ball strong," Mueller said. "I think we are going to have one of our best seasons. This is a strong line made up of a strong group of guys."

Another offensive lineman that will be making plenty of holes for the backs to slide through is Will Holden. In the opening game of the season, both Mueller and Holden could be seen knocking would-be tacklers to the ground five to 10 yards off the line of scrimmage during runs.

Standing in the Mustangs way in their hopes of a Western Lakes Activities Association title and the playoffs are teams like Plymouth Canton and the Walled Lake Schools.

"This is a tough conference with a lot of big, physical teams," Alexander said. "Right now, our biggest game in the conference is Stevenson. Then once that game is over, it will be the next team on our schedule."

The Mustangs will have plenty to work with as they take to the field with the likes of receiver Tim Higgins, who comes from a deep football background with ties to the Detroit Lions organization.

"Having Tim out on the field is like having a coach out there," Alexander said. "He knows so much about this game that he knows the right questions to ask and how to ask them so he eliminates five

Cagers have lots of bench to work with

Cauzillo, Temple and Lemasters will lead charge for talented Northville basketball team

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs girls' basketball team brings with it a much deeper bench than last year as well as a burning desire to improve on their conference standing as well as repeat their division championships from the past three years.

The Mustangs, coached by Pete Wright, will look to captains Nicole Cauzillo, Lauren Temple and Laura Lemasters to lead them on the court, while turning to a huge bench of 11 additional players to fill in during games.

"We have a deeper bench at the inside and guard positions," Wright said. "That gives us the opportunity to run our defense in a couple of different ways. We can put in a smaller line-up and press the floor, or put in a bigger line-up. It all depends on who we will play."

The Mustangs have three of their five starting positions pretty much secured by the quick Cauzillo at point guard, and Temple and Lemasters at forward. Fighting for the other two spots will be a slew of different players.

Senior Amanda LaRiche will be vying for a starting job with her versatility, as will junior Nikki Desira, an inside player at the post position with excellent rebounding skills.

Sophomores Evonna Karchon and Jenn Kritch will be fighting for a spot as well. Karchon is a very quick 5-foot-8 player with excellent first-step ability off the dribble while Kritch has the ability to play either point or shooting guard with ease.

A newcomer to Northville and its basketball program is freshman Simone Toney from Beaver Creek, Ohio. Toney brings with her basketball experience as well as an uncanny ability to play point or off guard — a seemingly perfect replacement for last year stellar senior guard Kelly Anderson.

"She is a nice addition to this team and a nice surprise," Wright said. "She is definitely going to contribute this season."

Other players who will see time on the hardwood is Lindsay Hill, a junior off guard, and Jenn Larson, a senior off guard. Joining them will be junior post player Andrea Watts and multi-sport athlete Lisa Bowen, a senior post play-

Harrier boys have a lot of potential

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs boys' cross country team will have plenty of talent to carry it through the 2002 season in their hunt for a conference title as well as their hopes of making an impact in the Regional meet.

The Mustangs, coached by Chris Cronin, started their season off with their annual scrimmage against Novi at Cass Benton where they were able to have their top three runners place in the top 10.

It was a good way for them to see where they stood for the beginning of their regular season.

"We need to find the depth that has helped our team be successful over the last three seasons," Cronin said.

"That will come, but a lot of work is needed between now and October."

The Mustangs took a slight hit with graduation from last year, with Nick Moroz, who is now running at Albion, and Phil Santer taking their diplomas and leaving Northville.

"They were our only two seniors, but they were key to our run in the WLAA title in 2000 and runner-up last in 2001," Cronin said.

Coming on strong for the Mustangs will be Tim Dalton, a junior that emerged as a varsity runner last year and had some very quality races.

2002 Boy's Cross Country

After a top-notch track season where he anchored the school-record-setting and state-qualifying 4-by-800 team, Dalton has emerged as one of the top runners in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Senior captain Joe Lunn, who was eighth last year in the WLAA, is back and has started his season off strong, as has fellow senior and captain Clark Paciorek. Paciorek used to share his fall sports time between cross country and soccer, but has chosen to dedicate all of his time to the long-distance running.

"With Clark 100-percent dedicated to cross, this could be his breakout season," Cronin said.

Senior captain Mike Gabrys, who is coming off of an injury, has been Northville's top mile runner in track for two years and has broken the four minute, 30 seconds barrier

With an unfortunate injury hampering most of his cross country career, Gabrys seems to be the big x-factor in the WLAA. Cronin said that he thinks Gabrys is capable of a break-out season if he is able to get and stay healthy.

Junior Rob Steiner is expected to be factor in the Mustang success this season.

If he is able to handle the 5k pace set at the varsity level, Cronin said that it is possible for him to flirt with the 17 minute mark.

Also hunting for varsity spots will be seniors Kellen Smetana, Felipe Gonzales-Paul, Tyler Carter, Nick Folas, Brett Emaus, Brandon Bedmar and Dan Mobbs.

Juniors Colin Keiffer and Andrew Moore are also expected to be in the running.

The Mustangs will have a simple goal this season — the same they set every year.

"Our goals never change," Cronin said. "We are running to win."

"Our biggest challengers in the WLAA is definitely going to be Churchill," she said. "We lost a close meet to them last year, and I think we are a stronger team this year compared to last. Stevenson will also be right up there. It will be an interesting conference meet as any of the three has the tea to win, if the day is right and they are healthy."

Goals for the team are straight forward ones.

"One of our team goals is to be division champs and also to be in the top two at the conference meet," Smith said. "We also want to make it to the state meet again this year. If we can stay healthy and focused, we should have no problems this season. The biggest obstacle will be making it out of the regional."

The regional which just happens to be stacked to the gills. Milford, Brighton, Clarkston and Northville will all be looking to best one another.

"Four of the best teams in the state in the same regional," Smith said.

"One team will not make it out."

Golf is rebuilding

Northville golf finds itself in a rebuilding year after losing its top players to graduation. Expect them to compete with a little experience under their belts.

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs boy's golf team is well aware that they are facing one of the toughest golfing conferences in the lower peninsula. They are looking at a tough season thanks to the loss of some of their top players of the 2001 season thanks to graduation, but they are also willing to give it everything they have.

"We lost six guys to graduation," Coach Tom Shaw said. "Four of them were starters and they averaged 40 or less per match."

Shaw and the Mustangs aren't sure of the hit the rest of the Western Lakes Activities Association took with graduation, but Shaw believes that it will be a factor in the win or loss column.

"It all depends on the rest of the league and how much they lost," he said. "If they suffered as much as we did, then it should be a pretty close league race."

With a very young team consisting of players like Greg Jones, Jim Gates, Lance Dehne, Matt Long, Scott Gittins, Andrew Bishop, Campy Smith, Pat Uetz, Mike Calabrese and Alex Karchan, the Mustangs will have to look to their leaders for guidance and support, and possibly victories. Leading the Mustangs this season will be Dave Oljace, Brandon VanHeyde, Ryan Gideon and Matt Lewicki.

"We have a lot of younger guys on the team this year," Shaw said. "Ones that played matches, but were just on the edge of playing them. Last year, we had five guys on the team that played every varsity match. This year, we will have seven or eight rotating in."

Even in a rebuilding year of sorts, the Mustangs have set serious goals for the season — winning the conference title and qualifying individuals for the state tournament.

Captains Oljace and Gideon will be responsible for leading their squad both on and off the field, a role that Shaw said they have stepped into nicely.

"They are doing a good job," he said. "They are getting used to the captains role."

Shaw noted that one thing his team will have to do if they hope to stay competitive in the WLAA is to practice, practice, practice.

"I think the whole team, with the exception of a couple of guys, will be having a lot of practice this fall," he said. "It's something they need. We have a lot of guys that haven't played in varsity matches, and it is going to be a matter of getting them used to the butterflies. When they get used to the competition this fall, then I can see their scores dropping as well."

the job done from time to time.

"We are no doubt going to have to vary the line-ups throughout the year," he said. "Sometimes we will have to depend on our top swimmers to carry the most points, while other meets we may have other girls that end up scoring the points."

As though a sixth-place finish in Michigan wasn't enough for the Mustangs, they also return three All-Americans to their line-up.

Hogan, Schubert, Carr and the graduated Deirdre Schwirring were named to the All-American team for their top-40 time in the nation in the 200 free relay.

The team was also named to the second-team, All-American consideration for their 400 free relay swims.

Hogan was also named an All-American for her individual performance in the 50 meter freestyle event and notched a second-team, All-American consideration nod for her swims in the 100 meter free.

Though graduated and off the team, Kim Veers was named as an Academic All-American as a diver for the Mustangs for her performances in 2001.

The Northville Mustangs football team will be looking to forge a double-edged blade with a running and passing attack under the guidance of Clint Alexander.

questions from there to his answer."

Along with Higgins will be impressive ball-handlers like Tim Downing, a junior this season, and Cornelius.

The quarterback situation is a unique one, but not one that the Mustangs are going to complain about. Senior Darryl Delaney brings the most varsity experience to the program as well as the most maturity. Who seems to be the top passing quarterback is none other than Mark Sorenson, who threw for 167 yards in his first game, a 27-7 victory over Franklin. Brendan Buckley will also see plenty of time at the helm, and his quick feet turn him into an ideal option quarterback who doesn't mind taking a hit.

"I have three quarterbacks that are all able to start on this team," said. "I am going to use them all as long as I can."

The defense is anchored by the speed and strength of Cornelius and Matt Watza, while Zack Wollack should see plenty of time on that side of the ball as well. The most impressive sight on the field has to be junior Mike Subu. This large defensive tackle proved more than a little hard for Franklin's front men to move, and from the way he hit one has to wonder if his last name is really "Subaru."

Also ready to make an impact for the Mustangs will be seniors Matt Giles, Gabe Ilko, Nick Iwema, Greg Johnson, Dan Kuriluk, Steve Masterson, Dave Quick, Rick Riegner, Ben Shoucair, Brad Stoner, Lance Blair, Joe Elder and Jeff Harrington.

Mustangs Football

Soccer wants more than a division title

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs boy's soccer team will be looking to capitalize on their strong defense and solid core of seniors in the fall of 2002.

The 'Stangs, coached by veteran helmsman Henry Klimes, will expect captains Pat Kelleher, Justin Ferriman and Nick Schoendorf to lead a pack of eight other seniors and nine underclassmen in the hunt for the division and, hopefully, conference titles.

"Our goal every year is to win the Detroit Country Day tournament," Klimes said. "Unfortunately that slipped by us this year. We always want to win the division and be in the running for the conference as well as go as far as we can into the state playoffs."

The captains bring with them plenty of experience. Kelleher is a four-year varsity player and Ferriman is in his third year on the varsity roster.

The seniors that will be taking to the field for their final year are Andy Fieldhauser, Ben Sherman, Avis Dorsey, Joe Gallagher, Mike Hagedorn, Rob Czarniecki, Alex Richard and Alfonso Acevedo.

"Our defense is one of our biggest strengths," Klimes said. "Mostly because it is all seniors back there and they know what it takes to win."

The weakness of the Mustang squad is their inexperience on the offensive end of the field, but Klimes said it will definitely improve with practice and game situations.

If the Mustangs hope to win the conference, they will have to get by the Western Lakes Activities Association's top teams — Plymouth Salem, Plymouth Canton and Livonia Stevenson. "They are the front runners every year," Klimes said. "In high school soccer, anyone can beat anybody on any given day."

Underclassmen, like starting goalie Steve Best, will be key this season as well. James Hannah, Ryan Lionas, Hiroyuki "The Big H" Tohyama, David Ujkic, Mike Kelleher, Jackson Knoll, Jason Glogowski and Phil Yutzy will all be vital in the success and failures of the Mustang squad this season.

"I am happy with the progress of this team so far," Klimes said. "The captains are keeping the boys motivated and they keep them in line when they need to. I am very pleased."

The Northville soccer team will be looking to compete in each and every game they play in this season under the guidance of Henry Klimes.

Pete Wright and his basketball team have plenty to be smiling about as they gear up for 2002. They have one of the biggest teams in the last few years, with plenty of talent looking to play.

er that is also running varsity cross country this fall.

Lauren Harmer, the little sister to graduated Northville athlete Robbie Harmer, will see some time in any of four positions on the court, while Kristyn Moran is a six-foot senior that will see time inside.

"We are definitely going to use our depth to our advantage," Wright said. "Our height is about the same as last year, but this year we can go big if we need to. That is a luxury we didn't have last season."

The Mustangs will be in the hunt for a division title — which would mark their fourth in a row. In order to get there, they are going to have to get past Walled Lake Central and Plymouth Canton — two very tough teams in the WLAA.

"They are both outstanding teams," Wright said. "We are certainly going to compete. We are going to go out there and play hard and compete in every game. That has been the nature of this team for the last several years."

The Mustangs will have started their season against non-conference opponent South Lyon Tuesday (after the Northville Record went to print) before hosting their own tournament today and Saturday featuring Salem, Novi and Ann Arbor Huron as the featured talent along with themselves.

Tennis is looking at title

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs girls' tennis team has plenty of seniors to go around — which is good for this season, just not promising for future flights.

The 'Stangs, coached by Sandy Woolfall, lost a lot of top-notch players to graduation last season, but have full intentions of competing for the Western Lakes Activities Association title this fall.

"Our goal is to win the conference," Woolfall said. "We definitely have what it takes to win it."

"We will have to see what Stevenson has, because I think they are going to be the biggest challenge for us."

Senior captains Allison Long and Jamie Lindholm will be looked to as leaders on and off the court this season.

"They are stepping into their captain roles nicely," Woolfall said of the duo.

The Mustangs will be competing with Long at first singles and Lindholm as part of the first doubles team with Kelly Harrison.

At two singles, Erica Dobson will have plenty of chances to notch wins while Shannon Farris, the younger sister of last season star Lauren Farris, will see time at either fourth or third singles. Splitting time with her is returning starter Ashley Potchynok.

At two doubles, the Mustangs will see Amanda Retzbach and Stephanie Patterson taking serves and returning them in style, while Amanda Darish and Jen Harkness will see playing time at third doubles.

Fourth doubles may prove to be an ever-changing position with all of the talent that will be fighting for a playing position. Megan Bensette, Jen LeFresne, Catalina Oaida, Amy Knoth, Jackie Taylor and Laura Krstevich will all be trying to get in on the action.

"I think we should do well with the conference change," Woolfall said, noting that long-time rival North Farmington has taken leave to the Oakland Activities Association.

"Our biggest challenge will be Stevenson. If we get by them, we should do pretty well."

Sam Eggleston is the sports writer for the Northville Record and the Novi News. He can be reached at (248) 349-1700, ext. 104 or at seggleston@ht.homecomm.net.

Garage saling a great way to get stuff

By Linda Neff
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

For many, it's an annual ritual. For others, it's an excuse to get together with friends and neighbors. And yet for some, it's something to do on the weekend. But whatever the reason, most folks will tell you it's just plain fun.

Garage sales — where you sell all the extra "stuff" you no longer have a use for, or where you buy more "stuff" to go with all your other "stuff," like a recent best-seller hardcover book for a dime, or kitchen curtains for a quarter — never mind the color doesn't exactly go with that in your kitchen, the price is right. How about a compact, portable ice shanty for $10? Who knows, maybe this is the year you'll actually take up ice fishing.

As the saying goes, one man's junk is another man's treasure, and there are a lot of treasures to be discovered at garage sales.

Spring and summer seem to be the most popular seasons for garage and yard sales in this area. Signs start popping up on street corners as the weather warms in May and the "Garage Sales" column in the local want ads gets longer and longer each week. Most sales are advertised to begin on Thursday and run through Saturday. Others operate for a single day.

Many subdivisions hold subdivision-wide garage and yard sales making it more convenient for shoppers — more sales, less driving — and more profitable for those hosting the sale by attracting a larger number of shoppers to the area.

Hosting a successful garage or yard sale takes a little prior planning; items need to be cleaned, sorted, tagged and priced. Ads are usually placed in local papers and signs are made to stake at street corners, informing people of the date, times and location the sale is to be held.

Usual tools of the garage sale-holding trade include price tags, masking or duct tape to price each item; a marking pen for labeling and pricing items; tables for displaying the goods, change and change box, calculator, lawn chair and either a good friend or good book to keep you company in between shoppers. A friendly smile, cheerful hello, and willingness to barter don't hurt either.

Brighton area resident Joanne Haas agrees.

"The reason we do well is we make our customers laugh, always say hello to them and chat them up," she said.

Haas makes the trek annually to the Winans Lake home of friend Barbara Klingman.

Klingman's annual garage sale has become something of annual ritual among her friends and neighbors. They come to celebrate her birthday, bringing food and gifts as well as garage sale items. About six households participated in this year's sale, and the variety of items from the different households were popular among those who came to shop.

"I think we're successful because all of us have different stuff and we always try to have some guy stuff," Haas said.

This year's sale included fishing poles, a Toro lawn mower, a Craftsman chipper/shredder, lawn edging, a pipe cutter, household items, a few items of clothing, lots of books and magazines and some children's toys. Many of the prices were negotiable and items were priced to sell. The chipper/shredder, for instance, was priced at $150, books were going for 10 cents and storage

TIPS FOR SUCCESS:

- Make sure items are clean and useable
- Price each item
- Be willing to barter
- Place an ad in the Garage Sale section of your local newspaper a few days before the sale
- Place signs at main intersections to alert passersby
- Have plenty of coins, singles and fives on hand
- Have fun and smile often
- Have a plan for removing unsold items — chances are not everything will sell racks went for as little as $2 each.

Garage sale items are dropped at Klingman's the night before and everyone arrives early to set up the morning of the sale. With everyone helping Haas said it only takes about 45 minutes to one hour to set up. The group pretty much has set-up, sales, and clean-up down to a science and they each know their respective roles. They estimate they've been hosting the sale for about six years.

"We've been doing it so long I can't remember why we started," Haas said.

It's certainly not for the money. By early afternoon many items are either drastically reduced or sometimes given away just so they don't have to be taken back home.

The garage sale provides this group of friends with an excuse to get together once a year and share in good food, stories, conversation and casual banter.

"I had so much fun just sitting around laughing," Haas said. "That was so fun."

In Memoriam (6320)

TO MY BELOVED Daughter, Susan, my best friend, I miss you so much, but some days it's hard to get through them. There is not a day that goes by that I do not cry a tear for you. I can feel your presence around me, some days stronger than other days. I know you are in heaven with God, I know deep down in my heart that is where you are. You are one of God's angels, you are my Guardian Angel. And you will keep us all safe from harm. You gave so much love to all, and never expected anything in return. I miss you so much, my beautiful angel, someday Mom will be in heaven with you again. If it is God's will Love, Mom

FESTIVAL
Northville • 2002

Welcome to Victorian Festival 2002

Fourteen years ago, five enthusiastic chamber members sat on the front porch of (what is now) the Fraser Inn and planned the very first Northville Victorian Festival. Over the past several years, this festival has continued to grow in size and popularity.

On behalf of the Northville Chamber of Commerce, welcome to this family fun-filled weekend event. I believe you will agree our community is unique in offering all the entertainment, the horse and carriage rides and the train rides free of charge. This is entirely due to the support of our corporate sponsors. Please be sure to acknowledge their generosity.

Our staff and volunteers have worked many long hours to ensure you and your families have an enjoyable experience. As someone once said "the face of a child can say it all, especially the mouth part of the face!" So enjoy the parade, take a stroll thru the Art Market, shop the many unique stores and galleries, and sample the delicious food at one of the many restaurants or at the non-profit booths. Make sure to take a free horse and carriage ride, a free train ride and watch the outstanding entertainment throughout the streets. There is something for everyone regardless of age or gender.

As you enjoy the Northville Victorian Festival, which is sponsored by the Northville Chamber of Commerce, I know you'll agree — Northville is a community with a beautiful past and a promising future.

"Soft Touch" Chiropractic

Promoting a better and healthier living style is Dr. Kathy Duncan's goal for her patients. As a small intimate practice, Dr. Duncan gets to know her patients very well and treats them like family. "I like to establish a rapport with my patients that makes them comfortable to discuss all their health issues."

After an initial consultation to discuss health concerns, exams and sometimes X-rays, Dr. Duncan will discuss alternative health methods with her patients that will help maintain and promote their health. "It's important for the patient to understand our goals and what we're trying to accomplish," she said. "It's a team effort between the patient and myself (the doctor)."

Dr. Duncan's soft touch approach to chiropractic focuses on the spine and muscles, tendons and ligaments, which can cause structural misalignment. By using a constant static pressure on specific points along the spine, the structure relaxes allowing the spine to realign and balance the nervous system.

Dr. Duncan, previously a registered nurse, became a chiropractor after a visit to one who cured her of reoccurring migraines. Ten years later, she's treating a second generation of patients. "I'm seeing the younger athletes in the family," she said. "I treated the parents or grandparents, now I'm treating the younger generation."

Dr. Duncan's credentials include being president of her graduating chiropractic class, an active member in the American Business Women Association and a former Women of the Year and top 10 nominee.

Duncan Soft Touch is located at 23895 Novi Road, Suite 400 in Novi. 248-348-2000

Victorian parade kicks off festival

By Chris C. Davis
EDITOR

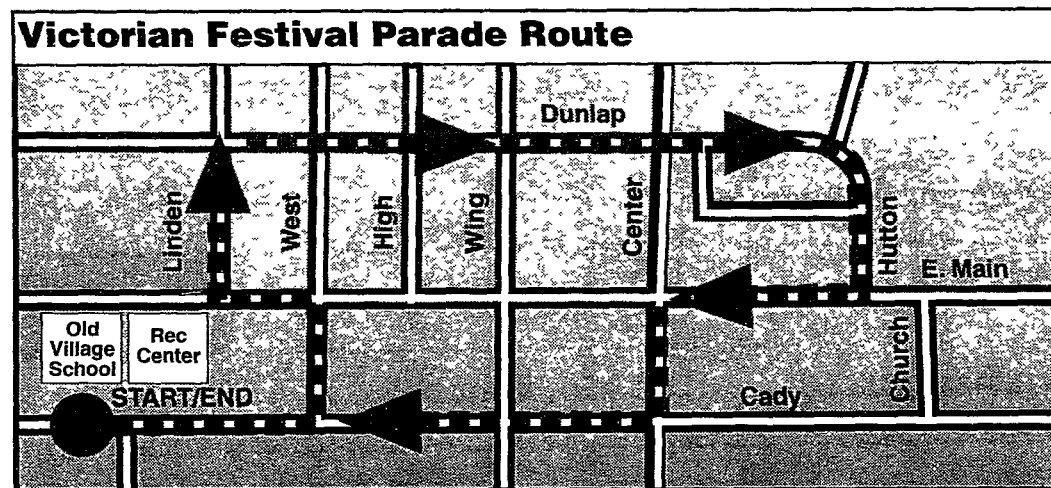

Northville's 14th annual Victorian Festival will be getting off on the right foot with the Victorian parade, slated to begin at 6 p.m. Sept. 13.

The parade, long a favorite way to begin the early autumn Northville celebration, is an outstanding place to connect with friends and relatives on a Friday evening said parade coordinator Donna Pallas.

"It's always an exciting time for everyone involved with the Victorian Festival," Pallas said. "The parade kicks off everything else."

Several individual groups will also be represented in the parade, including the Northville High School marching band, the Uptown Ladies' Parasol Parade and the Kaber Faye bagpipe group.

Ask anyone who's at the parade to name his or her favorite part of it, and you're apt to get any of a variety of answers. In Pallas' mind, however, there was no contest.

"The best part is seeing friends and neighbors dressing up in their Victorian finery. It's becoming an increasingly popular parade, which is great," she said.

Pallas said parade-watchers will also have the chance to see students of area schools participating in the march through downtown Northville.

"We look forward to having a number of the schoolchildren joining us with their families in the parade."

Parade organizers said candies would be distributed from parade marchers by passing it, instead of scattering it to the crowd. Passing reduces the possibility of injury from children running into the street, organizers said.

The parade will be concluded by the passing-by of Northville's Queen Victoria, Pallas said.

Dressing the part is half the fun of Victorian Fest

By Diane Dempsey Deel

Boys will soon be walking around in town wearing knickers and girls will be looking their best in bonnets just as they did in Victorian era Northville.

Adults too will look like a picture from the past as they grace Northville's streets during the Victorian Festival.

However, many of well-dressed festival participants will have gotten their duds ahead of time at the Victorian Clothing Sale. The sale will be held at the church in Mill Race Village from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 8.

Sonia Swigart, clothing sale organizer, said all Victorian clothing will be welcome at the sale. However, men's clothing is in demand. Much of the clothing will be worn by youth in the parade.

"Anyone can march in the parade if they're wearing Victorian clothing," Swigart said. "For the kids it's a very big day. It's a jam packed, educational experience that Friday for those kids."

Some of the clothing that will be sold at the sale were home made to look Victorian, she said. However, other clothing that will be sold was created to be modern attire but residents altered them to look Victorian.

Residents will be selling Victorian dresses, bonnets, boys' shirts, suspenders, caps, knick-ers and knee socks. They will also be selling ladies day dresses with long sleeves and high collars, hats, purses, jewelry and hat pins.

"Sometimes you can have something simple and the accessories make the outfit," Swigart said.

The clothing sale is a hot attraction a week before the Victorian Festival begins. Residents waited in long lines last year to get a chance to purchase clothes from long ago, she said.

Other people come just to sell the clothing they wore at the festival in past years. Residents, who want to sell Victorian clothing, don't have to get space reserved ahead of time. There will be plenty of room for everyone to sell their items.

"We urge people to come and sell their clothing but they must sell it themselves," Swigart said.

The sale not only is useful for people who want to buy clothing, it's also an opportunity for people who want to check out what was popular in days long gone.

"People that like to dress up have the opportunity to buy it at their own back door," Swigart said.

It's not Boston, but it's still time for a tea party

The Victorian Parlor Tea, Sept. 14 at 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., will be the rage again at this year's Victorian Festival held at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

"It's always been part of the Victorian Festival," said Karen Starceвич, an organizer on the fine arts committee at First Presbyterian Church in Northville.

The Victorian Parlor Tea gives residents an opportunity to get out of the heat and enjoy a cup of tea. They will also have a good time listening to Michael Bryce live out the Victorian era.

"He's an expert on Victorian ways," Starceвич said. "He will be reading poetry."

Bryce is also quite funny and entertaining, she said. He will bring back songs from yesteryear and he will revel in Victorian social life.

"His songs are great and he talks a lot about the Victorian era," she said.

Guests will be able to sip their tea on fine china and nibble on small sandwiches.

"It's not often that people are served tea on fine china," she said.

However, guests shouldn't be so quick to leave the church after they finish their tea session.

"The church is a historical landmark," Starceвич said and added that the church was built in the 1800s. "We're hoping to

The parlor tea may not be the right function for young children, she said. However, older children will enjoy their time in the "parlor".

Adults will be able to slip away from their outside worries while they have a tea totaling time.

"It will provide an afternoon of relaxation and bring back the Victorian era," Starceвич said. "It's a nice afternoon."

Guests will be able to do what people from that era did on a typical afternoon, she said.

"It's always a full crowd," Starceвич said. "It's become a real part of the festivities."

Concessions offer food, souvenirs

At this year's annual Victorian Festival celebrations, there won't be any problem finding plenty of refreshments and tasty snacks.

"We have new food booths participating this year," said Diane Villeneuve, chairperson for the non-profit group concessions. "The favorites that they had are returning."

According to Villeneuve, area residents will be able to feast on hamburgers, milk shakes, walking tacos, turkey legs and much more.

She said food that is able to be carried around easily is a concept that the concession participants will be paying close attention to.

In addition to the old favorites, new delights are in store.

"There are new groups to that want to participate and they've got great ideas for food and drink," said Villeneuve.

Festival-goers won't have to worry about having a monotonous array of food selections.

"People are really excited about participating and have terrific ideas on decorating their booths. Believe me, they try to outdo each other."

Diane Villeneuve

Villeneuve said that an estimated 30 different groups will be selling various concessions and no two stands will be alike.

"Every booth is different," she said. "Everybody in that booth is doing a fundraiser."

Villeneuve said she is anticipating the upcoming activities surrounding the town's Victorian Festival.

Art buffs find their niche at festival

Looking for that perfect piece of artwork to accent a living space or office area can be daunting. However, finding the right item may become a little easier at the 2002 Art Market.

According to Art Market chairperson Sue Taylor, the 14th anniversary of the Victorian Festival will mark the 16th anniversary of the Art Market, a juried art fine arts show sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission.

The sale will be held along Main Street in downtown Northville from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

"It's a nice show," said Taylor. "Our artists enjoy it. It's a little bit of a smaller show, but because it's a smaller show we can give a more personal touch to the artists. It's not spread out over blocks and blocks."

More than 50 artists are slated to participate in the event.

Taylor said finding a variety of available merchandise will be an easy feat.

"We try very hard to get a nice mix of different things," she said.

Taylor said the selection of fine art will range from photography, stained glass, pottery, furniture, fiber art, metal and clay sculptures, metal, gold and silver jewelry and prints and paintings in acrylic, oil and watercolor.

"It's going to be lots of fun," she said. "I think they'll find some new faces along with favorite artists that have been here in the past. I think they should come prepared to do their Christmas shopping, because there's going to be some wonderful items to purchase. That's where I do my Christmas shopping."

Taylor said artists come from several areas, including Northville, to participate in the Art Market. Some artists, she said, come from other states in the Midwest, Florida and even Canada.

"I have an artist from California trying to get in," said Taylor. "We have a nice reputation."

In addition, Taylor said the Northville Arts Commission will have an informational booth about Commission activities and should be selling tickets for their Michael Farrell lecture series and winter concert series.

Students have their own way to celebrate VicFest

Northville Public Schools will continue its involvement in the Victorian Festival this year with participation at both the elementary and high school levels. Third Graders from all five Elementary schools will take a field trip downtown on Sept. 13, to receive a Victorian experience.

According to Northville Public Schools Education Partnerships Facilitator Jan Purtell, groups of students dressed in Victorian clothing will cycle through five stations from 9 a.m. until noon.

The students will visit the Northville

Public Library for storytelling, the Rec Center for Victorian games, and the Northville bandshell to watch a magician and puppeteer.

The other two stations will operate with help from Northville High School students. Social Studies students will lead a walking tour of historical Northville, presenting skits about Victorian life at various stops, and the choir will perform for the third graders at Genitti's. At noon, the students will walk to Mill Race to conclude the day with a picnic lunch.

Your hunger will be going once, going twice, and gone after the Victorian Festival Box Lunch Auction. The auction, sponsored by the Northville Council of PTAs, will be held at 11:30 Sept. 15th at the Northville bandshell.

Auctioneers "Archibald & Reggie" (Northville residents Paul White and Dave Schmidt) will open the bidding on baskets donated by each of the Northville schools' PTAs, administrative teams, and many local businesses.

"The merchants have been very generous," said Linda Maxfield, co-chairperson of the event. Local shops donate gift certificates, products, and even entire baskets to the event.

The baskets, ranging from single lunches to family feasts, have become increasingly creative since the first auction 14 years ago. Themed baskets include not only food, but sometimes surprises such as toys, gifts, or even tickets to sporting events. According to Maxfield, more than 60 baskets were donated last year, with winning bids from $5 to $350. The event raised more than $6,500 for the Parent-Teacher Associations.

"Everything we make goes right into the schools," said Maxfield.

In the past, proceeds have helped with parent education programs, workshops, speakers, and the Safe Homes program. With last year's event occurring soon after Sept. 11, a donation was made to the American Red Cross, as well.

Bidders are encouraged to walk to Mill Race with their winnings following the auction to enjoy a picnic lunch.

Traditional attractions, new ideas await 2002 Plymouth Fall Festival patrons

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

No major changes are in store for the Plymouth Fall Festival this year, but one of the biggest crowd-pleasing attractions is going to be even bigger.

The 47th annual festival is planned for Friday, Sept. 6, through Sunday, Sept. 8, in downtown Plymouth.

Festival spokesman Mark Baldwin said the younger crowd will probably be the most pleased with the festival change.

"We've got more carnival rides for little kids this year," Baldwin said. "Mostly everything else has remained the same."

One crowd-pleasing event, however, won't be part of this year's festival. The Michigan Chili Championship is moving to Trenton this year, Baldwin said, adding that he didn't expect this would discourage festival visitors.

This year, 200,000 people are expected to attend the festival.

"It's a Plymouth tradition - it's just a nice way to spend the weekend," Baldwin said.

The Rotary Club's chicken barbecue, scheduled for 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8, in Kellogg Park, is one of the festival's biggest draws. In total, some 12,000 chickens are expected to be served to hungry festival visitors. Take-out dinners will be served at East and West middle schools. Tickets are $9 on festival day.

Rotary barbecue workers will get a first taste of the barbecued poultry Friday evening, after a golf outing.

Chicken run

Annual BBQ always popular event

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

For organizers of the popular Plymouth Fall Festival Rotary Club Chicken Barbecue, the appeal is that the fund-raiser benefits a variety of community organizations.

But for hungry festival visitors, the appeal is getting a good meal for a good price, said Jeff Horton, Rotary member and event chairman.

"It's a good chicken dinner with good corn and you get a roll," said Horton, of Horton's Plumbing in Plymouth.

The Rotary Club's biggest annual fund-raiser, the chicken barbecue, is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8, in Kellogg Park. In total, 10,500 chickens, bought from Plymouth Marketplace, are expected to be served to hungry

Take-out dinners will be served at East and West middle schools. Tickets are $8 in advance or $9 on festival day.

Rotary barbecue workers got a first taste of the barbecued poultry Aug. 16, after a golf outing at Rolling Meadows.

In 2001, the barbecue raised $30,000 for the Rotary Club.

Not all money was raised through chicken dinners. Sponsorships were also sold last year, and are being sought this year. Those contributing $500 or more will be acknowledged in a full-page newspaper advertisement and will see their names on the individual dinner boxes sold during the festival.

For a donation of $100 or more, donors will be recognized on billboards posted throughout the festival area. All donations are tax deductible.

DONALD J. ALLEY

Megan, Matt and Joe Greco came from Livonia to enjoy the chicken dinners prepared by the Plymouth Rotary Club at last year's Plymouth Fall Festival.

Here is a list of some ways the money is spent:

- Student scholarships
- Student loan programs
- Special reading and book programs in the schools
- The Gathering for community use
- Trees and playground equipment for parks
- Start-up funds for new community projects
- Support of community arts programs
- The Salvation Army
- Special community awareness seminars
- World health concerns such as the eradication of polio through "Polio Plus"
- Supplemental funds for the arts and sports
- Numerous urgent humanitarian needs

Some advice Horton has for festival visitors: Buy the dinners as early as possible.

"We've sold out in the past," he said.

For more information or to donate to the Plymouth Rotary Foundation, call Jeff Horton at (734) 455-3332.

You'll flip over these pancakes

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

As Mom always says, it's important to have fuel to start your day.

One way to fuel up during the Plymouth Fall Festival will be at the Kiwanis Foundation Pancake Breakfast, 7:30 a.m.-noon Saturday, Sept. 7 in The Gathering. Tickets are $5 in advance and $6 on event day. They can be purchased from any Kiwanis club member. Ticket prices include pancakes, sausages, coffee, milk and juice.

Kiwanis member and realtor Fred Hill, speaking on behalf of event chair and Magistrate Eric Colthurst, said this year's breakfast will be an entertaining affair.

"We'll have a couple of clowns working the crowds," Hill said.

Diners may notice some familiar faces flipping pancakes, including the two gubernatorial candidates. Confirmed "celebrity flippers" this year include:

■ State Rep. John Stewart (R-Plymouth Township).

■ State Rep. Bruce Patterson (R-Canton).

■ State Sen. Thaddeus McCotter (R-Livonia).

■ Lt. Gov. Dick Posthumus.

■ Attorney General Jennifer Granholm.

Hill said Bob Evans restaurant is donating all the pancake flour and sausages for the pancake breakfast.

nial Plymouth and Plymouth Kiwanis Morning Club — have a combined membership of 150. Nearly all members will be at work during the breakfast.

This year's fund-raising goal is $5,000. The pancake breakfast is an important fund-raiser for the Kiwanis Foundation, with most proceeds providing local benefit. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor is one primary beneficiary.

"It's a significant part of the fall festival," Hill said.

Win some cold, hard cash in raffle

Regis Philbin won't be around to hand out million-dollar checks, but Plymouth Fall Festival goers will have a chance to win a pretty nice chunk of cash just the same.

The Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce will once again be selling tickets to its annual raffle during the Fall Festival Sept. 6-8.

The top prize for the chamber's annual fundraiser is $5,000 in cold, hard cash.

Tickets are $5 each or three for $10, and will be available for sale at the chamber's booth during the festival. Second- and third-place prizes hadn't been determined at press time.

A drawing to choose the winners will take place during the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce's auction/annual meeting, set for Friday, Nov. 1, at Laurel Manor in Livonia.

Proceeds from the chamber's festival activities will go toward the services the chamber provides throughout the year.

Big name performers to entertain

In between licking barbecue sauce from fingers, triumphantly keeping lunch intact while spinning on a carnival ride, and gazing at souped-up antique cars, Plymouth Fall Festival visitors will also be able to please another of their senses.

This year's main stage entertainment should prove to be music to festival visitors' ears, as a variety of performers takes to the stage.

Mark Baldwin, festival spokesman, said they have attempted to bring more big names to the festival, including flutist Alexander Zonjic. Zonjic is scheduled to perform 6-9 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7.

Other scheduled performers include:

■ "Doc" Gibbs & Cliff, 2:30-4:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7. The duo has performed previously on Emeril Live in New York.

■ Roots Vibrations, noon to 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7.

■ Steve King & the Dittilies, noon to 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 8.

■ Regular Boys, 6-9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 6.

Antiques have curbside appeal

Auto enthusiasts used to getting their thrills during Fall Festival are getting a double dose again this year.

The Plymouth Fall Festival 2001 Antique Car Show is set for Saturday and Sunday, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. The show takes place at Ann Arbor Trail and Forest. It's the second year the car show has been expanded to two days.

"There was a gap in the schedule, and the car show seemed like a good thing to fit in there," said Brian Fitzgerald, one of the show's organizers, explaining why the show was expanded last year. "For the past few years, having it for one day left limited activities. It was really done to enhance the festival."

There is room for about 200 vehicles a day, and show organizers expect to get at least that many. Traditionally, cars have had to be turned away.

Registration fee is $10 a day, or $15 for both days. Drive-up registration fees the day of the show are $15 for one, $20 for both days. To be eligible to participate, cars must

Pets show off animal charms

BY HEATHER NEEDHAM
STAFF WRITER

There are a lot of traditions associated with the 47-year-old Plymouth Fall Festival, and the Optimist Club's pet show is one of them.

The show, scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, in Kellogg Park, always draws a wide variety of pets, primarily cats and dogs. Some of the more exotic pets are caterpillars, turtles, rabbits, ferrets, peacocks, pheasants, parrots, goats and snakes.

All children will walk away with ribbons – either participatory ribbons or first-, second- or third-place ribbons. Big kids can win ribbons, too.

Felix Rotter, past Optimist Club president, said he has a lot of fond memories about the pet show.

One such memory is of an older woman bringing a very tiny toy poodle to the show a few years ago, only to learn she was too late for the dog judging. She had the diminutive canine tucked under an arm.

Instead of turning her away, however, a new category for "smallest dog" was created, and she walked away with first prize.

"She literally floated off the stage," Rotter said. "These things seem to leave a mark in your memory."

Another fond pet show memory involves two giggling little girls, whose "pet" was a caterpillar they'd just picked up in Kellogg Park.

When asked how long they had their "pet," they said, "Oh, about five minutes." They walked away with a blue ribbon for most unusual colored pet.

The event is especially popular with children – of all ages.

"We can expect to see 150 little kids, anywhere from (age) 3 to 35," Rotter said jokingly.

Sometimes the children put him in his place. Rotter recalled telling a joke to a 12-year-old girl, who promptly dissed it.

"Why did the turtle cross the road?" Rotter asked. The punchline was, "To get to the shell station on the other side."

The girl was not amused.

"That's dumb," she told Rotter, who in turn, retired the joke.

Judges will include Karen Ochman who, as a child, showed a pet goat in the pet show; Terri Bennett of Specialty Pet Supply; and Jill Andra Young, Plymouth's pet photographer.

POLISH DANCERS

12:15 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 7, City Hall Stage

These dancers participate in local parades and festivals throughout the year promoting Polish culture and informing people about the Polish heritage. Most are students with the alliance, which is based in Plymouth and founded in 1980.

Some have been taking classes for as many as 15 years. Students range in age from 4 to 18, with some adult students.

PLYMOUTH-COMMUNITY BAND

Noon to 1 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 8, City Hall Stage

The Plymouth Community Band, now in its 43rd year, is led by director Carl Battishill and plays marches, light classical and Big Band music. Band members range in age from 14 to 84 and perform a couple of dozen times a year.

MARK CASTELLESE

4-4:45 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, Penniman Stage

Canton resident Mark Castellese is a computer-aided designer by day and a singer in his spare time. This marks his third straight appearance at Fall Festival.

ALEXANDER ZONJIC

6-9 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, Kellogg Park Stage

Zonjic started his musical career at age 9 in his hometown of Windsor when he took up the guitar. He was the lead guitar player in a rhythm and blues band at age 15, and at age 21 he discovered the beauty, power and intelligence of music.

While performing in Detroit jazz club Baker's Keyboard Lounge, Zonjic met keyboard legend Bob James, who asked Zonjic to join his band. The collaboration led to recording with such jazz greats as Earl Klugh, Kirk Whalum, Harvey Mason and Angela Bofill, among others.

Zonjic has performed on stages around the world as a solo performer, with his own group and as part of James' band. He has also performed at major classical and jazz festivals throughout North America, including appearances at Carnegie Hall, the Hollywood Bowl and New York's Apollo Theater.

"DOC" GIBBS AND CLIFF

2:30-4:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 7, Kellogg Park Stage

The set of Emeril Live wouldn't be complete without the sounds of drums and percussion from Doc Gibbs and Cliff, as the pair are affectionately known. They entertain thousands of adoring fans, produce unusual sound effects right on cue, and best of all, bring out Emeril's own musical talent.

In 1997, Gibbs came to Emeril Live as musical director and has been adding his own funky flavors to the show ever since. Gibbs performs drum workshops for children with the Young Audiences of Eastern Pennsylvania and participates in Strings for Schools, a non-profit organization.

For the past 20 years, Cliff Starkey has performed with notable artists such as the Three Degrees, the Temptations, and Pieces of a Dream. He is a Capitol Records recording artist and appears on several albums. Besides performing on Emeril Live, he tours with the Groovemasters.

REGULAR BOYS

6-9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 6, Kellogg Park Stage

Regular Boys is a nine-member band from Detroit, featuring music that is the pulse of the city today. The band features the rocking but soulful vocals of Jeannie Stales (formerly of "Jeannie and The Dreams"), a four-piece horn section and a rock solid rhythm section.

Since their formation in 1984, Regular Boys has developed an impressive following of music lovers from the Detroit and Chicago area. Their fans thrive on the excitement of a truly authentic rhythm and blues sound.

Having performed with such notable musicians as Roy Orbison, Bo Diddley, Otis Clay and Roomful of Blues, Regular Boys are in demand in many of the hottest clubs in town. The band is inspired by the likes of Big Joe Turner, Sam and Dave, and of course, many Motown artists.

Q I'd like to know more about Bill Pullman. I've seen him in a few movies on television. My favorite was The Virginian, which he starred in, directed, and produced.

—Rita M., Arizona

Actually, you might have seen Pullman, 48, in more movies than you think. Remember the extremely stupid kidnapper in Ruthless People, the president in Independence Day, the sweet older brother in While You Were Sleeping? Comedy, drama, romance—he covers it all. Born in Hornell, N.Y., to a doctor dad and nurse mom, he was an outdoorsy type, very athletic, who planned to major in building construction in college. He loved the idea of building barns in the country. But he discovered an interest in theater after auditioning for a play and ended up with a master's degree in directing for theater. He took a job teaching at Montana State University, eventually becoming chairman of the theater department. Finally, at age 37, he decided to pursue a professional acting career. After some theater work in New York, he nabbed the Ruthless People role and has acted steadily since. He maintained his interest in construction and built a barn on the California farm where he lives with his wife and three children. The Virginian was his film-directing debut. This year, he also played the lead in the Broadway play, The Goat.

Bill Pullman has played a variety of roles.

Q Please tell me what you can about singer Janie Fricke, who wrote and sings I'll Need Someone to Hold Me When I Cry. It's such a beautiful song.

—Marilyn M., Nebraska

Born in South Whitley, Ind., Janie Fricke has released more than 20 albums and has had almost 40 hit singles in her career. She started singing in a small hometown church, then evolved into singing gigs in coffeehouses and school events. She embarked on a musical career in earnest after obtaining a degree in elementary education and became a successful jingle singer in Dallas, Los Angeles, and Memphis, Tenn., before settling in Nashville, Tenn. Fricke became a sought-after studio singer and worked with artists such as Loretta Lynn and Elvis Presley before landing her first major solo recording contract. She has been nominated for two Grammy awards and has won top female vocalist honors from the Country Music Association, the Academy of Country Music, and other groups. She tours frequently, and Fricke's latest venture is a greatest hits project, recorded in Nashville in April and due out later this year. She also designs her own line of decorative home products. Fricke lives on a Dallas-area ranch with her husband and manager, Jeff Steele.

Q Has Henry Thomas done anything since E.T.?

—Doris M., New Mexico

He's made just about 30 movies and television appearances. You probably even saw him in a few but didn't connect the grown-up young man with the adorable child from E.T. For example, do you remember Brad Pitt's youngest brother in Legends of the Fall? How about Matt Damon's pal in All the Pretty Horses? Or the school-teacher turned seaman, Ishmael, in the television version of Moby Dick? Most people probably didn't make the connection though, since young Thomas was out of sight during his growing-up years. He kept working—mostly in foreign films, television movies, and independent or B films that went unnoticed by the public. He made some mainstream movies during this time, though, such as Cloak & Dagger and Valmont. In the latter, he co-starred alongside Annette Bening and Meg Tilly and had matured into a strapping 17-year-old. Now 31, the San Antonio native has a thriving career. Look for him in the upcoming Gangs of New York, directed by Martin Scorsese and starring Leonardo DiCaprio. ☆

THE Little Brown Jug

Driver Michel LaChance with John B. and Kay Grant, owners of the 2001 winner Bettor's Delight.

When residents start chaining lawn chairs to the fence around the horse track at the Delaware County (Ohio) Fairgrounds, it's a sure sign that one of America's oldest and most beloved harness races is just a few months away.

The race, known for more than 50 years as the Little Brown Jug, draws more than 55,000 spectators from around the world, so people without a reserved seat in the grandstands chain a lawn chair to the track fence—sometimes months ahead—as a sort of seat-saver for race day at the county fair.

"On race day, they usually bring newer chairs and throw those hanging by the chains in the dumpster," chuckles Bill Lowe, former fair manager who helped coordinate the race for 18 years. "It's amazing that nobody messes with those chairs. They respect the system."

Harness racing evolved in the United States in the early 1800s from impromptu horse and buggy sprints on country roads or city streets. The initial Little Brown Jug race in 1946 was the brainchild of two Delaware men who liked pacing horses—which move both legs on one side of the body at the same time—and thought the race would be a bonus for the Delaware County Fair. The name for the race was picked in a contest with an astounding 4,000 entries. It seemed fitting since the name Little Brown Jug had belonged to a Civil War-era champion pacer.

"I think it's sort of a throwback to the way things used to be," Lowe says of the race. "You just don't expect to find a major sporting event like this at such a small county fair in such a little town."

Today, the Jug, as the race is commonly called, awards an annual purse of $600,000 to drivers of the 3-year-old pacers pulling their two-wheeled sulkies. For people in the harness racing business, the Little Brown Jug is the place to be on the third Thursday of September. At the Farm Bureau tent, youngsters try to guess how many wheat seeds are in a jar to win $25. Their mental math is drowned out by the gobbling of a turkey in a nearby pen.

Keeping an eye on the race while he spreads shredded pork on a big bun, Tom Wagner says his family enjoys the action while making some money. "This is our family recipe here," says Wagner, 72, from nearby Edison, Ohio. "We raised the hogs on the same farm where six generations have lived. All our meat is fresh from our farm."

Watching all the hullabaloo, Warren Bale allows that the fair is one of the biggest deals of the year. "There aren't as many farms or farmers as there used to be, and this shows you what it is like," the 77-year-old Delaware farmer says. "Some kids have never seen an animal up close like this."

Slipping the harness off a horse, groomer Bud Wilton of Nova Scotia, Canada, says the Jug is a favorite with racers even if they don't take home any prize money. "I've been doing this for 20 years,"

Wilton says. "It's nice when you win, but everybody can't win. So we always look forward to next year." ★ of September. The Jug is the oldest race—and the middle jewel—in the Pacing Triple Crown. The crown's first leg, the Cane Pace, is run in Freehold, N.J., and the third—the Messenger Stake—is held at The Meadows in Meadow Lands, Pa.

Harness racing has drawn spectators and top horses to the Delaware County Fair since 1946.

"Once it's in your blood, you're hooked," says Joanne Young of Goshen, N.Y. "I grew up in harness racing. To me, it's the All-American sport."

Today, the Jug is the highlight of a weeklong festival featuring daily harness races, the musical roar of midway rides, and the spicy sweet aroma of funnel

A Spelling Tradition

Every fall on the first Friday night in October, when other communities get together for high school football, the people of Smith Chapel, Tenn., gather to spell, as they have every year since 1945.

Residents and former residents of this small hamlet mark the date of the annual Smith Chapel Spelling Bee on their calendars so they won't miss the fun, the friends, and the tradition of watching Vestal Jaquess turn red-faced as he spells "goose."

Many years ago, it seems, he tripped on the word, and the Smith Chapel crowd has a long memory. "They'll never let me lay that one down," says Jaquess, a round-faced man with a deep laugh as rolling as the surrounding central Tennessee hills. In his pocket is his "lucky" buckeye, which he rubs like crazy with his thumb as it nears his turn.

On this particular chilly night, 44 spellers are present, about average for recent years. They come from distant towns, as well as from just down the gravel lane.

"This is part of our heritage," says Opal Burris, who, as many others in the room, has family ties to the whitewashed, wood-floored building that once was a church but now has become a community center.

On spelling bee night the one-room building is an oasis of yellow light, spilling out from tall windows onto the headstones of the community cemetery, where many spellers past rest in peace.

"It's a way that we have some clean fun. You can't break any laws by spelling, but you can have a good laugh," adds Burris, longtime chairman of the bee and a perennial word pronouncer.

Enduring custom

That the spelling tradition thrives at Smith Chapel would no doubt bring a smile to Lee Grimsley and Edgar Phillips, the two friends who started the contest in 1945. They were men who appreciated a correctly spelled word. Grimsley was a postal worker; Phillips, a teacher.

Her father would be honored that the community takes its spelling seriously, says Velma Flatt, Grimsley's daughter and annual bee participant. "My father was particular about spelling," she says.

The church-turned-community center draws spellers from all around.

Spellers span several generations.

The bee's rules have changed in the last 60 years, but the words haven't.

'This is not easy'

As is customary with a spelling bee, the words start out easy and become progressively more difficult through the evening. Every year at Smith Chapel one word unfailingly catches the crowd by surprise. Tonight the word is "rhinoceros."

Six spellers offer their incorrect versions. Then, first-timer Karen Doxtater gets it right. As she moves up the bench, fellow spellers award her with applause.

Meanwhile, fourth-grader Matthew Phillips, who sports a head of red hair and a freckled face, slides through "autobiography," proving the young ones can spell with the big boys. Matthew, who has been participating in the spelling bee since first grade, appears relieved when he's done. "I don't like to get the big words," he says.

The pronouncers make their way around the square, dispensing words such as "endeavor," "numerous," "serious," and "ointment." At Jaquess, the word is "oriole." He appears genuinely perplexed.

"Is it a cookie or a bird?" the gooseman asks. From the little church, a roar of laughter erupts. Told the word is a bird, Jaquess correctly spells "oriole."

"It doesn't hurt to ask, believe me," he says.

In fact, many of the adults, some of them removed a half-century or more from elementary spelling lessons, mouth words over and over, hoping for a flash of inspiration. They stall for time, asking for definitions and use in a sentence.

"This is not easy," says Leanne Gober, a Chicago native who moved to Tennessee about four years ago. "I've never seen anything like this at all."

Before the two-hour spelling session is over, spellers are "turned down" all around the square. Burris halts the game when the score is tied at 13-all. "So everyone will go home a winner," she says.

But before everyone leaves, the spelling bee ends as it always has in recent years by calling on Roy Phillips, 89, to spell the night's stumper. It's not a word, but a French phrase: boni soit qui mal y pense.

Phillips, who is blind, is assisted to square center, where he stands in his houndstooth cap, thumb on the strap of his Liberty overalls, and rattles off the 20 letters to the crowd's delight—especially to Matthew, his grandson.

What does it mean? Essentially, "evil to him who does evil," Phillips explains. "That was in my spelling book back in 1920. I learned it then, and I never forgot it."

Spelling season over, the crowd files out into the brisk fall night, taking with them a fresh apple, their reward for participating. But not before electing Burris, much to her protest, as chairman of the annual event.

"Don't you want somebody else?" she asks. But she's happy to oblige, she says later. "I really don't mind," she says. "This is such a wonderful tradition we have going, and I'm happy to be a part of it."

Jaquess pockets his "lucky" buckeye, which saw him through his annual rendition of "goose," but failed him on "porcupine."

"See you next year," he says.

At the Smith Chapel Spelling Bee, there's always next year. ☆

Stephen Leon Alligood writes from his home in Middle Tennessee, where a dictionary is in every room.

The inaugural event took place around Thanksgiving 1945. An early snow fell that year, and participants huddled around a pot-bellied stove for warmth. The next year, the bee was moved to its first Friday night in October date to avoid the cold.

"And that's where we've been ever since. It's one of those traditions that you don't dare change," Burris says.

In early decades, the spelling bee was taken a bit more seriously. At one time, bragging rights for the coming year were at stake. Spellers were eliminated until only one remained.

Today's spelling contest at Smith Chapel takes on a kinder, gentler tone. Spellers play as a team, led by volunteer or nominated captains who choose their teams on the spot. "I want the goose man," says Linda Smith to begin the draw. "Worst mistake you've ever made," quips the good-natured Vaquess, moving to his seat.

The game is played by forming a square of church pews near the front of the room. Each captain chooses from the crowd until each team has two sides of the square filled. Scorekeepers, meanwhile, are positioned at opposing corners.

With the teams selected, two word pronouncers begin at opposite corners, giving out words to spell. If the player misspells, the word goes to the next person in line. If he correctly spells the word, then the second speller gets to "turn down" the first by moving ahead on the bench toward the scorekeeper. Each time a team member passes a scorekeeper, a point is earned for that team. "It's a little complicated at first, but people catch on," Flatt says.

While the rules have changed over the last half-century, the list of words hasn't. The Progressive Course in Spelling, also known as the "red back speller" because of its crimson cover, is the sole authority. Burris' copy of the 1904 book is so worn the spine of the thin volume is held together by duct tape.

When it's not their turn, spellers catch up on community news. "You see people that you might not see but once a year," says former resident Harry Horner, who started attending the bee when he was in elementary school. "It about died out when I was in college. I'm glad it's kept going. We need traditions."

Merriment means more than winning.

The Fishermen

Some days out on the ocean, Jaime Santos feels life can't get any better. "In winter, on a really clear day with blue skies and white caps on the waves, I'm in awe at how beautiful the sea is," he says.

It is one of the many faces of the ocean that Santos, 42, has come to know. For 20 years this fisherman out of New Bedford, Mass., has pulled his nets across the floor of the North Atlantic, fishing for cod, haddock, and flounder aboard the 85-foot trawler, Lady of Grace. His reverence for the sea, however, is tempered by respect.

"In winter, take the same white-capped waves and add clouds and rain, and it's miserable," he says.

Sometimes it's worse than miserable. Santos recalls once fishing the Grand Banks with his younger brother, Tony—a thousand miles from land—where they had no where to run when the remnants of a hurricane hurtled toward them. Their only option was to ride out the howling winds and 40-foot seas by stationing a man at the wheel and another at the throttle, heading the bow into the wind to keep from broaching.

"It put the fear of the Lord in me," says Santos, whose heavily muscled build is testament to the rigors of a fisherman's life.

A 10-day fishing trip requires much preparation. Two 100-by-150-foot nets, wrapped around giant spools at the stern, are mended. Fuel is replenished, food and water stocked, and 30 tons of ice for packing fish is loaded. Most importantly, the boat is made sound.

The captain's job is to find fish. When that happens, crews work nonstop lowering two 1,000-pound steel skids, which take the nets to the ocean floor. After two hours, the nets are winched up and the catch dumped on deck. Anything salable—even a 10-cent fish—is cleaned and packed in ice.

The sea is a harsh tutor, teaching Santos to heed not only the signs of sky and water but also his inner voice. "There are times you get worried," he says. "You have to know your boat, be able to read the sea, and do what needs to be done."

Much of what he knows comes from his father, Jaime Sr. As a young man in Portugal, the senior Santos was navigator on a government-owned "fish factory," a grueling job that kept him at sea for six months at a time. In Both father and son have devoted their lives to the sea in the trawler, Lady of Grace.

1962, he brought his family to the United States, laboring in factories for years before buying his own boat.

"He's always had the sea in him," the younger Santos says. "I give him credit. He came here with nothing."

In the 1970s, fisheries were booming and a 10-day haul would net 70,000-80,000 pounds of fish. For a while, father and sons fished together, a difficult time for the boys' mother, who hid her fears. Santos recalls returning from one storm-lashed trip to a mother who was almost delirious with relief.

The boom times are gone now, Santos says, the result of a free-for-all atmosphere when boats fished virtually nonstop. Plummeting fish levels resulted in federal restrictions reducing the number of fishing days allowed each boat and closing certain spawning grounds.

Since then, New Bedford's fishery has lost 170 boats and more than 700 jobs, says Rodney Avila, a retired fisherman who heads a fishermen's nonprofit assistance center. After 37 years at sea, Avila too understands its allure.

"You're in your own world out there," he says. "No traffic, no people running around with deadlines."

Avila and Santos both say the regulations will ultimately help the fishing industry, pointing to a rebound in stocks since they were implemented. Evidence of the rebound surfaced in a state survey of the fish caught by 18 fishing boats, including Santos' Lady of Grace. The data will help ensure that Santos and others can continue working on the sea they love, so he's grateful for the chance to help.

"I can't think of another job I'd be able to tolerate," he says. ★

Breakfast Makes Champions

You wouldn't think of trying to drive your car on an empty tank, and you shouldn't start out the day on one either. Breakfast benefits young and old alike, reveal studies done by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the American Dietetic Association. Yet most people skip breakfast.

"Between a quarter and a third of Americans skip breakfast," says Sharron Coplin, a registered dietitian with the Ohio State University Extension Service.

Those who eat breakfast benefit from the following advantages, Coplin says. They:

- Have more energy and higher work or activity levels throughout the morning.
- Have better concentration, problem-solving ability, and muscle strength and coordination.
- Get more dietary fiber and other nutrients, such as protein, vitamins, and minerals.
- Tend to have lower blood cholesterol levels.
- Tend to be thinner, because they are not prone to overeat at lunch or dinner.

The healthiest breakfast is a balanced meal that provides a sustained release of energy to the brain and body, Coplin says. "It should be rich in complex carbohydrates—starches, grains, and fruits that have a lot of fiber—moderate in protein, and low in fat," she says.

That old breakfast standby, cereal and milk topped with fruit, or a breakfast bar and carton of yogurt, washed down with a glass of vitamin C-rich juice, covers all the breakfast bases.

Those who don't eat breakfast cite lack of time, but, a healthy breakfast can be eaten quickly or even on the run, Coplin says.

Try variations on breakfast, focusing on what you can take with you. Make breakfast sandwiches, which are peanut butter and sliced fruit on whole grain waffles, bagels, or bread; a pita pocket stuffed with shredded cheese and sliced or dried fruit; or a tortilla roll-up of peanut butter or low-fat cream cheese, raisins, and apple slices.

Smoothies, made of milk or yogurt, fruit or fruit juice, wheat germ or oat bran, and ice cubes blended into an energy-rich breakfast beverage, provide good nutrition in a flash.

"Blender breakfasts have it all," Coplin says. "They are fast to make. They have good mouth appeal. They have lots of fiber. And they are very portable." ☆

Eileen Beal is a freelance writer from Cleveland Heights, Ohio, who never skips breakfast.

Gardening

Share YOUR Perennials

Dividing established perennial plants is essential for keeping them healthy and looking great. They can be divided in the spring, but autumn is a premium time because gardeners and plant-lovers have more time in the fall, says C.L. Fornari, a garden writer, speaker, and consultant.

"In the spring, there are beds to prepare, mulch to spread, annuals and vegetables to plant,"

Fornari says. "In the fall, the garden is fresh in your mind. You remember that the yarrow was so large it overwhelmed the spot."

She cautions, however, that watering into November may be required if the necessary rain doesn't fall, because newly disturbed root systems need weekly watering for at least eight weeks. Roots also need six to eight weeks to develop before the ground freezes in northern areas.

Dividing plants, such as irises, can double your blooms.

Most perennials will benefit from division every few years. If a plant doubles the size of its crown every year—such as with Shasta daisies, New England asters, and pink coreopsis—it should be divided every other year, Fornari says. Other plants, such as daylilies and ornamental grasses, should be divided when the crowns grow more than 18 inches in diameter, otherwise they'll be too difficult to dig up. Some perennials, such as bleeding heart, baby's breath, and peonies, never need dividing.

Proper preparation will make the process go more smoothly and help the plants adjust better after the division. Water them thoroughly a day or so before you plan to divide them. If you're replanting the divisions, prepare the area where they will go. Plan to divide the plants on a cool cloudy day, especially if the garden is in full sun so the divided plants won't be stressed by a hot, drying sun. All you need to divide most perennials is a good garden shovel and a sharp knife.

"Ignore any drawings you might have seen that show two pitchforks crisscrossing and pulling the plants apart scissors fashion. This does not work," Fornari says. "Use your shovel to dig the entire clump out of the ground, and then cut the clump with the shovel or a sharp knife." When lifting the plant from the garden, keep as much of the root intact as possible. If the plant is very large, Fornari suggests cutting off pieces of the outside edge, the newest growth, and throwing away the older middle.

After dividing the plants, either pot them or replant as soon as possible. If you can't replant right away, keep them in a tray or bucket filled with water. Water them well after planting, and be sure to apply a thick layer of mulch to help them get through the winter.

Perennial plants are an excellent investment, both in money and friendship. Use the divisions to plant more of the same, rather than buying new plants, or exchange them with a friend who has different varieties. Either way, your investment blossoms. ☆

RECIPE: 'Never Fail' Pot Roast

American Profile

Bill Carlton
Ruidoso, N.M.

- 1 lean 4- to 5-pound chuck roast
- 1 to 2 teaspoons each salt and pepper
- 1 to 2 teaspoons garlic powder
- 1 to 2 teaspoons seasoned salt
- 2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 large onion
- 2 heaping tablespoons cornstarch

Sprinkle seasonings on both sides of roast. Heat a heavy cooking pan on medium heat. Brown roast on both sides until dark brown, searing with no grease. Add a large pitcher of water, covering top of roast, and 1/2 onion, diced. Bring to a boil, cover and reduce heat, but boil slowly for about four hours or until tender. Add additional water as needed until the last 30 minutes. Then let liquid cook down to the drippings. Add other half onion, sliced on top of roast, during the last 30 minutes. Cool roast and place in refrigerator overnight. Remove all solid fat from drippings. Heat roast with drippings (add more water if needed) in cooking pan, remove to platter, and make gravy. Stir cornstarch in an 8-ounce glass of water until blended. Add to drippings, stirring well. Boil slowly and continue stirring until gravy is clear and thickened. Add salt and pepper, to taste. Serves 8 to 10.
