Northville youth helps guide new anti-hazing legislation into law

By Victoria Sadlocha RECORD STAFF WRITER

A painful experience for one Northville middle-school student changed the Michigan legal system last week following the gubenitorial signing of legislation banning hazing activites at educational institutions.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm signed Garret's Law Thursday, May 20, a package of bills named after Meads Mill Middle School student Garret Drogosch.

The package of bills sponsored by Sen. Nancy Cassis (R-Novi) and supported by Sen. Michelle McManus (R-Lake Leelanau) makes it a crime to engage in hazing activities at an educational institution, establishes penalties, provides exceptions and defines terms conatined in the new law.

"It really was a very important step that Michigan took and the govenor in signing those two bills, now law, that send a very, very strong message that Michigan will not tolerate hazing that results in serious impairment or death regardless of the age of the individual." Cassis said.

The senator said she believes the law has already made an impact on state educational institutions by beginning discussions hazing is legal. and curtailment of activities that "I think he (Garret) lent a and curtailment of activities that might have started out innocent, but are now deemed a potential for injury or impairment.

"It is as much proactive as active now, in other words we are really into prevention. I can not stress that enough. We are really into preventing these very controversial practices before anyone is further hurt," Cassis said.

Drogosch testified in front of a senate judiciary committee in early March with Cassis by his side, telling members of an Oct. 28 football drill at Meads Mill Middle School called by many as eighth-grade hit day.'

The account played an meaningful role in removing Michigan from the list of seven states where human voice and a human face to the reality of the dangers that are present in what may at first blush look like 'innocent activity between young people either in school or later on in college," Cassis said. "We have known all along that some hazing activities are extremely dangerous, but now we're saying these are not just pranks, these are not jokes and they have to stop."

Drogosch said during the questionable exercise, eighth-grade students on the school's football team were told to choose a seventh grader to hit from a short distance.

Mother Nature crashes Northville

Storm pummels area; more rain expected

By David Aguilar RECORD EDITOR

Mother Nature kicked up her heels last Friday afternoon, then stomped heavily upon western Wayne and Oakland counties for three straight days before finally relenting Monday.

By the time she was finished, she left in her wake toppled basements and upended lives.

"I didn't think it was ever going to end," Marge Birkshire said, a city resident who has lived in Northville for 45 years.

"Friday the sky turned completely black, and then it just kept coming."

Except for brief weekend intervals, the rain and wind - trees, damaged homes, flooded along with thunderstorm and tornado warnings - became an omnipresent force as residents scurried for cover and protection. Along Main Street last Friday, just west of the Northville Public Schools office, a passenger van parked streetside was smashed when a thick tree branch suc-

According to the Wayne County Department of Public Health, when cleaning up a flooded area:

 Use bleach (chlorine) to disinfect or household laundry bleach diluted about 1/2 to 1 cup per gallon of water.

 Canned goods in sealed should be thoroughly washed and scrubbed in hot water and detergent, then immersed for one minute in a warm or tepid chlorine disinfecting solution of 1/2 cup of household bleach per gallon of water.

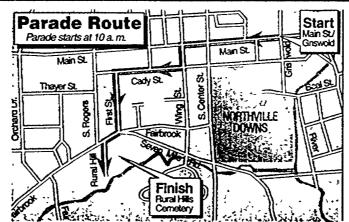

· Cleaning utensils should be disinfected following use. If possible, cleaning, disinfecting and drying should be done within 24 hours of flooding to minimize mold and mildew.

Memorial Day parade set for this Monday ⁻

Northville's Memorial Day parade through downtown steps off at 10 a.m. Monday.

Those planning to attend need to heed street closures starting around The same of the second streets and con-train and Griswold streets and constude at Rural Hill Cemetery off Seven Mile Road, approximately 30 ngnutes later.

Host organizations Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4012 and American Legion Lloyd H. Green ৵৻ঢ়ৣ Post No. 147 and their auxiliaries planned the tribute to local armed services personnel past and present. With World War II veteran Mert Brevile serving as grand marshal, the parade will include placing of the wreath ceremonies, and a procession of bands and marchers, concluding with a solemn ceremony.

Maintaining the tradition from previous years, the public will be able to gather in the Casterline Funeral Home parking lot on West Dunlap where that business and Guemsey Farm Dairy will provide complimentary ice cream treats. City personnel will close off roads in preparation for the 9:15 a.m. line-up. Roads will re-open at the conclusion of the parade and ceremony approximately an hour later.

The parade will start at Griswold and East Main Street, go west on Main to Wing, south on Wing to Cady, west on Cady to the Cady Street Cemetery, then south on First Street to Seven Mile Road, and into Rural Hill Cemetery.

A new addition and significant site work top the list of developments proposed for Meads Mill Middle School as part of the district's $35.7 million June 14 bond proposal.

Meads Mill is scheduled for $9.1 million worth of repairs, improvements and additions - a

About $3.2 million of the allocated total is proposed for an addition at the south side of the building for new classrooms, including science labs and science lab preparation rooms.

David Bolitho, Northville schools assistant superintendent for administrative services, said the new wing will include 10 classrooms.

One science classroom will be lost in the suggested construction process, leaving the school with a

Brevik just did his duty for USA

By Sam Eggleston RECORD SPORTS WRITER

For Mert Brevik, it wasn't if he was going to serve his country, it was when.

The World War II veteran, who served in the Pacific campaign, knew that serving the United States was something that he was going to do. And though he was 26 years old at the time, he finally enlisted.

"I beat the draft," Brevik said of volunteering for the Navy. "I had three brothers and a nephew in the service. They were all younger that I was."

At the time, Brevik, who will turn 88 in July, was living in Calumet in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. He joined the Navy and soon found himself on the USS Ellet, a Naval destroyer, hunting Japanese submarines in the Marianas Trench.

"Prior to that time, I was at a Navy base outside of Chicago and then went to advanced-torpedo school in San Diego," Brevik said. "From there, I boarded a destroyer."

Grand Marshall

For Brevik, who Monday will serve as the Grand Marshall of Northville's Memorial Day Parade, serving on the Ellet left him with plenty of memories. Once, while expecting a four-hour stint on watch duty, he found himself sitting out the tail-end of a typhoon.

He was on duty for 18 straight hours.

"It was a rough ride," he said.

When it came to conflict, Brevik said the majority of the encounters he and the Ellet had during his time were at night.

"I never did understand that," he said. "There was a lot of commotion going on at night."

Before becoming a torpedo specialist, Brevik said he was leaning towards serving aboard a submarine. Unfortunately, he wasn't allowed. e upper teeth had been pulled out," he sid. "They weren't taking people and submerines that had that n those days. Soon • ()

A sense of duty

Brevik joined the Navy during World War II because he felt it was his duty.

"We were very patriotic, if you want to call it that," he said. "It was a war we thought we had to win, which we did, luckily."

For Brevik and his brothers, signing up to defend the United States was just a natural thing to do. His brother Dewey went to Europe and fought in that campaign. During his time there, he encountered Nazi concentration camps.

"He took up the ministry as a result of that," Brevik said.

His other brother, John, was in the Pacific as well, fighting from day one of the war.

Sig, was in the Army Air Corps. Even though both of them served in the Pacific, Brevik said he had trou-• do school, they _, ble getting in contact with his little

"I couldn't get any place and our skipper told me to so see the chap-lain," he said. "We always took our troubles to the chapplain. In 20 minutes, I was talking formy brother on the phone. It was gluite the reunion. The chaplain got us three-day pass-es for us in Honol¹ulu and we had quite a time."

A Memorial honfor

Brevik said he throught it quite an honor to be a part of Northville's Memorial Day Parade.

"Back when I was a kid in Calumet, they had quite a day on Memorial Day," he said. "Then, it was to honor the World War I veterans who were in plenty supply in and around our area. There were always parades. It: was quite the day."

Main St. flower power Annual sale begins early Friday morning

By Maureen Johnston. RECORD STAFF WRITER

Rows of annuals and perennials, hanging baskets and yard art will once again soon serve as beautiful roadblocks. Friday, May 28, and Saturday, May 29, the Northville Central Business Association is hosting its 17th annual flower show morning to night on Main Street from Hutton to Center.

City workers will block off the streets from 5:30 a.m. Friday to 6 p.m. Saturday. The street will be closed to cars both days to allow for leisurely browsing from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. among the rows and booths set up by area growers.

Representatives from more than a dozen greenhouses will display their varieties of annuals, perennials, shrubs, regular and miniature roses, herbs, grasses, trees, and yard ornaments, said flower sale chairperson Ronnie Cambra. "There's a lot of neat things," she said. "There's great quality at good prices."

Flower lovers will see local greenhouses represented, as well as some new vendors, Cambra said. "It's a very popular event," growers love to come to."

In addition to the works of an iron artisan new to the show this year, yard accents will include familiar favorites such as whirligigs, rocks, stepping stones, planters, as well as some antiques items.

"The selection, the quality and the price are what really draws the people," she continued. "I would say the selection is number one."

Again this year, there will be master gardeners strolling the street available to answer questions, Cambra said. The association always hosts the event Mcmorial Day weekend. The flower sale will be held rain or shine, she said.

The owner of the Kitchen Witch, 134 E. Main, said some downtown merchants planued to collaborate on promotional discounts to coincide with the show. The businesses want to encourage visitors downtown to "put your flowers in the car, then go shopping."

New this year, the business association will offer for sale a poster to commemorate the event.

Local artist Caroline Dunphy

she said. "It's an event all these created the downtown-theme, watercolor-look print that merchants will sell for $8 from a booth near the gazebo, Cambra said.

"It's very pretty, very bright colors," the store owner said. "She has kind of Monet feel to her work. We hope it will become a collectible thing." Proceeds from the sale of the posters will go toward business-association-hosted events.

The flower sale again this year will be limited to the stretch of Main Street from the Long building west to Orin Jewelers and Across the Street.

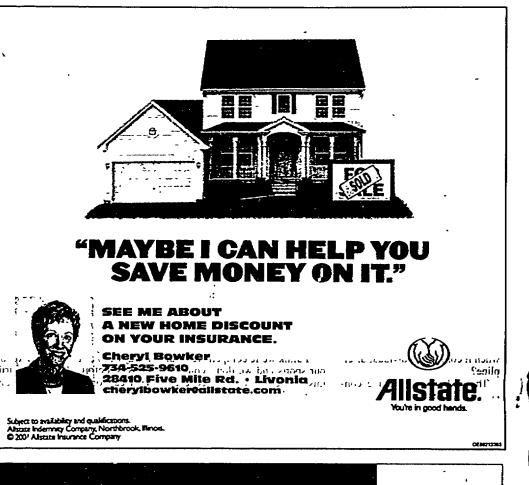

But the merchant association is considering expanding it, Cambra said.

"We get so many people ask-ing," she said. "We want to keep Center open."

The downtown merchants will consider allowing more vendors on Main Street, west of Center, after gauging the success of this year's event, she said.

GARRET: Granholm signs anti-hazing law

According to school records, many of the students involved said it was a rite-of-passage ritual held typically on the last day of practice before the Hillside Middle school game. They said the exercise was directed by coaches James Chabot, Nick Nugent and Doug Walters.

Many students said the seventh graders were instructed to keep their arms at their sides while not resisting the hit in any way to prevent injury.

"When we were asked for more details, we were told just suck it up and we should expect it through our athletic careers," Drogosch told members of the senate on March 9.

The seventh grade student was chosen three times during the exercise and on the final hit, suffered multiple fractures in his right leg, sending him to the hospital in an ambulance.

The 85-pound boy spent time in surgery, in a wheel chair, on crutches and in a leg brace.

The three coaches were terminated from their coaching positions, received a written reprimand and a three-day suspension from their teaching assignments without pay.

The Drogosch family said the signing provided a tremendous amount of closure.

"It is something that should be historic," said Cheryl Drogosch. Garret's mother. "Garret did this for all the children in Michigan, his football team and other students. Garret took the break, but the whole team was hazed that day and luckily the tradition will be stopped."

Cheryl Drogosch said Garret will be attending either Hillside Middle School or a private school next year.

"He has grown up a lot in a year," she said. Garret's Law, a name suggested by Sen. Bruce Patterson (R-Canton), will go into effect in late August.

The law calls for a 93-day, $1,000 misdemeanor against those who cause physical injury to another; a five-year, $2,500 misdemeanor against those who cause serious injury to another; and a 15-year, $10,000 felony against those who kill another in an activty deemed hazing.

The law does not apply to an activty that is normal and customary in an athletic, physical education, military training or similar program sanctioned by the educational institution. Victims of hazing will not be punished, even if they willingly participate in the activity. The law also removes student consent as a defense in hazing cases.

GARRET'S LAW TIMELINE

• Oct. 28, 2003: seventhgrade Meads Mill student Garret Drogosch participates in "eighth-grave hit day," football drill; results in multiple fractures of his right leg

• Novemember 2003: Garret discovers legislation does not include protection from adults, including coaches and other authority figures

 Senate Bill 783 drafted to amend Michigan Penal Code 750.411t to enact "Garret's Law," which criminalizes hazing.

 The bill applies to a person who attended, was employed by, or was a volunteer of an educational institution

 March 9: Garret speaksbefore members of the senate judiciary committee.

 March 17: senate unanimously approves anti-hazing legislation.

• Sen. Bruce Patterson (R-Canton) requests law be named "Garret's Law," due to his involvement. May 20: Gov. Jennifer Granholm signinto law.

Local coaches: new law prompts questions, poses challenges

By Sam Eggleston RECORD SPORTS WRITER

With the new anti-hazing law, dubbed "Garret's Law," now in play across the state, Northville coaches may now have to more carefully consider player drills, practice techniques and the value of long-standing team traditions.

Governor Jennifer Granholm signed the bill into law last Wednesday.

But how local coaches react to the law has left open many stillunanswered questions: are hitting drills still acceptable? Are hockey checking techniques still an advised coaching instructional tool? Just how far can coaches go when it comes to individual discipline?

The underlying coaching con-cern: what legally constitutes haz-ing? And what separates hazing from coaching doctrine?

For the coaches at Northville High School, such questions coach - Clint Alexander said. "Drills are set up to help kids be successful and to learn a skill. If you put them in a situation where they can't win physically or have no chance at winning, then there's no point to it."

But being a competitive Michigan Class A high school bears its own challenges.

"I think in a town like Northville, all the coaches do the best they can for the kids and still put out a competitive program," coach basketball Darrel Schumacher said.

"I think we're competitive in all our sports and we don't compromise to be that way. As coaches, we put the education of the kids ahead of everything. Sports are co-curricular, not extra-curricular. We're there as teachers, just in a different venue."

But local coaches are still unsure where the official anti-hazing lines will be drawn.

"I think laws like this cause all coaches to wonder just where the gray areas are and if they'll step into them without knowing they stepped into it," Schmacher said.

coaches second-guess what they're doing. Things happen that Alexander said making coaches think twice is not entirely bad.

"Hopefully, it makes everyone just a little more aware of what is trying to be accomplished," he said. "At Northville, I believe we coaches at other schools."

Failure to yield

A recent Saturday morning baseball game played on minus the spectators — after a car crash drew their attention outside the gate to the Northville High School athletic field entrance on Eight Mile Road.

The driver of a white Taurus, heading east on Eight Mile 'at 10:30 a.m. May 15, attempted a left-turn into the wide driveway.

The 46-year-old Northville woman turned into the path of a westbound, black Ford pickup, which hit the car's passenger side, according to police reports.

Each driver and passengers in both vehicles sustained injuries, according to police. The car's two air bags deployed and fire department personnel had to free the driver's 10-year-old son from the wreckage using the "Jaws of Life" extrication equipment.

He was taken by ambulance to University of Michigan hospital.

Northville police issued a citation to the woman for failing to yield on a left turn.

That's when a gold Cadillac Escalade, turning into the Seven Mile Road shopping plaza just west of Northville Road around 9:30 p.m. May 18, rammed into the rear end of a red Chevy Trailblazer pulling into the same lot. The impact pushed the parking lot did not have its ' TrailBlazer into the parking lot, while causing "severe damage" to the passenger side front quarter panel of the Escalade, police said.

Police suspect the 39-yearold Northville man driving the Escalade may have been drinking, according to official reports. At the scene, police asked the man to undergo a preliminary breath test.

The man refused and was taken immediately into custody. Police transported the man the Providence Park emergency room in Novi, where blood samples were taken. The vehicle was towed from the scene.

Police issued the driver a citation for operating a vehicle while intoxicated and refusal of the breath test. A June 3 court date is set.

Township considers Six Mile expansion options

By Maureen Johnston RECORD STAFF WRITER

Six Mile Road from Northville Road to Haggerty Road hails entrances to a dozen neighborhoods, pauses motorists with three traffic signals, and shepherds a steady flow of motorists.

In a couple spots, it even widens to accommodate a deceleration lane, which allows motorists to safely swirl around left-turning vehicles.

And that's just the way the Northville Township Board of Trustees like it. Last Thursday night township officials hired a traffic consultant to make Six Mile-Road traffic improvement suggestions that they hope will not include widening the road.

Township officials earlier this month prepared a formal resolution for the Wayne County Department of Public Services. The county had earmarked that stretch of Six Mile, from Bradner Road to Cross Road, as a five-lane roadway. That project would have begun in 2007.

"I know we're adverse to a fivelane road," said Township Director of Public Services Don Weaver. "But to go back and say we just want a two to three lane road, we need data to back it up."

Two different roads

During recent discussions, officials agreed that Six Mile could use both repair and adjustments. But creating another five-lane thoroughfare similar to Eight Mile Road was not desirable, they said.

Officials cited a number of specific differences between the eastwest avenues which span two miles apart. Those differences included:

· Six Mile runs almost exclusively through a residential area.

· traffic counts on Six Mile have been artificially high due to drivers re-routed by road construction on Sheldon and Beck roads.

 as construction of new homes continues on the west side of the township, motorists will hop onto M-14 as an expressway entrance. • The railroad trestle immedi---ately east of Northville Road will always serve as a pinch-point for any potential road widening. County and board officials agreed that the eventual re-development of the former psychiatric hospital property on the township's other alternate east-west route, Seven Mile Road, will also affect Six Mile traffic long-term. Traffic from what is expected to one day be a large residential enclave will likely necessitate Seven Mile being widened back to four lanes.

The county's own road-widening plan was based upon the 2030 Regional Transportation Plan. That plan estimated 22,848 cars per day would travel Six Mile Road between Haggerty and Bradner within 25 years.

Currently, Seven Mile carries 15,538 vehicles per day, accord-ing to Michael Darga, a Wayne County division design engineer.

In a letter to the township, Darga said 18,000 vehicles per day is commonly the threshold used for road-widening projects. As proposed by the county, the five-lane configuration would include two lanes of traffic in either direction, as well as a center left-turn lane.

Six Mile Road Widening

Darga said a three-lane road improves safety with attracting unwanted heavy traffic volumes.

Township Supervisor Mark Abbo said some homeowners in Northville Commons, one of the subdivisions accessible from Six Mile, would likely favor the threelane alternative.

Board trustees agreed that while some changes may be needed, wholesale re-development is not. Part of the traffic consultant's official directive was to look beyond the county-set western boundary of Bradner and extend the study to Waterford.

Board members agree that an area near Meads Mill Middle School will pose unique-design challenges. Trustee Mary Gans said he would prefer that any improvements be done using asphalt, rather than concrete. Property owners whose yards back up to the road are affected by the difference in noise levels between the two surfaces, he said. Maureen Johnston may be reached at (248) 349-1700, ext.

THE REPORT For a contract not to exceed $2,430, Progressive AE of Grand Rapids will prepare a report for the township on roadway design alternatives. In a previous memo, the firm warned the board: roadway widening history shows, "if you build it, they will come." Progressive AE officials said that if the section of Six Mile in question is widened to five lanes, it will eventually experience traffic volumes in the 40,000-plus vehicles per day range.

Elementary student makes six-page public pitch for Northville water park

By Maureen Johnston RECORD STAFF WRITER

Nine-year-old Neil Sands spoke clearly into the microphone, making his case for

During the Board of Trustees' regular meeting last Thursday, the third grader presented his hand-written petition of 141 signatures. He read aloud part of his description of the project he envisions and urged the local leaders to consider the former psychiatric hospital on Seven Mile Road as a potential site.

in

Township' Supervisor Mark Abbo welcomed Sands, who prepared the petition as part of a lessonin persuasive writing taught : Silver" Springs Elementary teacher Beth Kuriluk. The teacher

Thomas, were part of the meeting audience that applauded the pupil's presentation.

Sands' six-page document includes specifics of his water park request and signatures by "parents sign here" and classmates in a range of cursive and printing styles, some full names, some first names only.

"I feel strongly about this because there would be a lazy river, 4 water slides, a wave pool, and a play area for kids," Sands wrote. "Downstairs would be a work out room and a massage rooms, where you could sit back and have a good neck and back rub. Did I mention there is a hot-tub in the water park?" -In addition to the entertainment aspects, the third grader also outlined fiscal rationale for his plan.

"I think people will like this water park because it will be good business," he wrote. "It will also be good for people in need of jobs to be a life gaurd. I think people. will love to go to my water park and if you have spare time you and Sands' mom, Patricia could go there yourself, and I bet you would like it too."

The supervisor told Sands his water park sounds like a great idea. However, he explained, because the state owns the land, the township would not be able to act on his proposal. He said he would relay the suggestion to the township's Planning Commission and Recreation Commission, as well as the developer who purchases the property.

Abbo also praised Sands for coming forward with an idea. "We ve participatory government."

Streets bloom tomorrow

Tomorrow and Saturday, the Northville Central Business Association is hosting its 17th annual flower show morning to night on Main Street from Hutton to Center.

City workers will block off the streets from 5:30 a.m. Friday to 6 p.m. Saturday. The street will be closed to cars both days to allow for leisurely browsing from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. among the rows and booths set up by area growers.

Representatives from more than a dozen greenhouses will display their varieties of annuals, perennials, shrubs, regular and miniature roses, herbs, grasses, trees, and yard ornaments.

Last chance to buy a brick

Area residents who want to buy a piece of history at the new Community Senior Center have until Monday to pen the check.

A donation of $100 will purchase a brick in the sidewalk approach: $250, $500, $1,000 or $5,000, recognition on a plaque inside. The 303 W. Main Street site is on schedule for a July 3 grand opening.

The donation program was established to allow residents to contribute and be recognized for their involvement in purchasing items that have not been included in the construction.

Interested donors can mail checks, payable to Northville Parks and Recreation, to 215 W. Cady Street, Northville, Mich. 48167. Forms are available at the Recreation Center at Hillside and at the current Northville Senior Center on Cady Street.

Speaking of the senior center...

The Northville Township Board of Trustees Thursday night approved the rental rates for the community Parks and Recreation Department's indoor and outdoor facilities. The Northville City Council is expected to vote on the fee schedule at its regular June 7 meeting.

The Recreation Commission May 12 endorsed the cost schedule for buildings, rooms, fields, diamonds, courts, gyms, picnic shelters and pool. The city and township together provide the recreation services through a shared-services agreement.

Several fees were added to the chart for the Senior Community Center at 303 W. Main, which is scheduled to open to the public July 3. The breakdown designates resident, non-resident and special event rates; the definition of "residents" included organizations with 80 percent of participants residing in the Northville community.

The rates for the newly renovated senior center rooms follow for residents and non-residents, respectively:

• full facility --- $2,000 per day; $3.000 per day.

• banquet room — $700 for six hours, including all furniture set up/take down and service pantry use; $1,050 with the same service.

 banquet room for an hour — $80; $120.

 small meeting rooms -$130 for four hours; $195 for four hours.

• small meeting rooms for an hour --- $36; $54.

for an hour - $21; $32.

• gym (hour) — $54; $81.

to 2 p.m., Sunday, June 6. The site is the Maybury State Park Staging Area, accessible at the Beck Road entrance to the park. A $13 donation includes a chance in the host's drawing as well as breakfast. The meal only cost is $3.

Drawing prizes include a La-Z-Boy chair; 18 holes of golf at Pheasant Run Golf Club of Canton, a $25 gift certificate from Tractor Supply in Monroe and a $50 gift certificate from Lakeside Saddlery.

Proceeds go to benefit Maybury State Park and other horse related charities. For questions or advanced tickets, call Jean at 248-349-2687.

People are invited to bring their own horses to ride, or arrange for a ride at the Maybury stable.

'Old Timers' unite

Genitti's, 108 E. Main St., will host the annual reunion of the community's "Old Timer's" on Tuesday, June 8. The event begins at 11:30 a.m., with a $12.50 lunch at noon.

As in previous years, the gathering caters to retired and stillworking, mostly 62 and over, long-time community residents who like to chat about "the old days" in Northville. For more information, call Hal Wright (248) 349-1276 or Dick Ambler at (248) 349-1814.

SAVVY SENIOR

Dear Savvy Senior:

My neighbor recently bought a nursing home care insurance policy and keeps telling me that my wife and I need to get it too. He tells us all those scary nursing home statistics that are very convincing but I hate the idea of paying those high premi-ums. We're a middle class couple that own our house and have been fortunate enough to accumulate some other assets to leave to our children but we're not rich by any means. Can you give us some bare facts on this issue? I think my neighbor is telling me what his pushy insurance salesman told him, and I don't want to be sold something based on fear. Can you help?

Fear of a Salesman

Dear Fear:

You're smart to do your homework on this subject. Some people who sell long-term care insurance will tell you that everybody needs a policy. Not true! Here are some things to consider to help you make a decision that's in your best interest;

 Playing the odds: Some nursing home statistics indicate an estimated 43 percent of Americans over age 65° are expected to spend some time in a nursing home during their lifetime. But, you also need to know that statistic also counts the very short stays for which insurance may not be necessary. If you rule out nursing home visits lasting less than three months, only about 33 percent of the population will spend time in a care facility.

 Financial Status: Both the wealthy and the very poor probably don't need long-term care insurance because wealthy people can afford nursing home care on their own, and the poor should be able to qualify for Medicaid. Middle class income people are the best candidates to need long-term care insurance because they have assets to protect.

• Are You Healthy?; In most cases it's disease that puts people in nursing homes. Not old age. The diseases that cause the highest number of long-term care insurance claims are Alzheimer's and other types of dementia, followed by complications from a stroke, fractures from falls, and heart disease. What is your family history of these?

• Long-term Care: If you decided to get long-term care insurance, how much is enough? Long-term care insurance policies vary greatly in what and how much they cover and in how much they charge. Here are some questions to help you make your decisions.

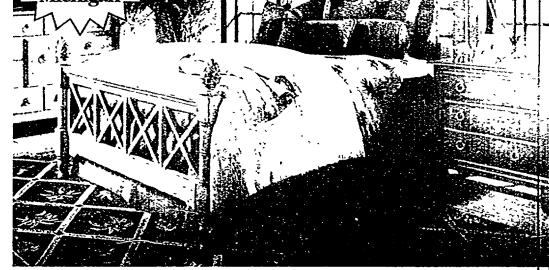

• How long?: One potential way to keep your premiums from going too high is to cap the length of your policy. The average claim length on long-term care insurance policies is about two years.

• How much?: Before you sign up, consider how much income you would have without insurance. Suppose nursing homes in your area cost $4,000 a month. If you have $3,000 per month of income coming in you may need an insurance policy that covers the $1,000 difference.

"I thought it was thunder at first," the Novi resident said. "I didn't expect that tree was going to be sitting on the house."

Northville Township Police Chief John Werth said despite the harried weekend weather, calls were only slightly above average. Many calls were for alarm, triggered by unsettled weather.

"Obviously we had additional runs. The fire department had more runs, ours were going to alarms and assistance and we had a couple of accidents. But for the most part we fared very well," Werth said.

He said no overtime was necessary.

William Zhmendak agreed. "We actually did quite well compared to some of the other communities," Zhmendak said, whose department logged 12 storm-related calls Friday, three calls for downed power lines Saturday, four power-surge-related calls Sunday and four additional power-related calls Monday.

Tuesday was the first day no storm-related calls were logged, he said.

"To me it was a successful storm," Zhmendak said. "There were no injuries reported or at least that we responded to that were caused by the storm. So that is always good."

He said resident inconvenience was kept to a minimum.

Cleanup precautions

Folowing a flood, basements can contain raw sewage, which poses health and safety concerns. Do not enter flooded basements if electrical systems, (outlets appliances or furnace) are flooded. Do not handle any connected electrical cords or appliances until all power has been shut off.

• Avoid flushing toilets or using other water connected appliances or fixtures. Discharge may increase the hazard.

· Make sure that all clothing and parts of the body which were in contact with sewage are thoroughly washed. Prevent tracking of sewage into living quarters. Do not mix chlorine bleach with ammonia.

· Discard contaminated food and vegetables into tightly covcred, vermin-proof receptacles. Food containers and cardboard boxes should be considered contaminated.

· Clothing, carpets, upholstered furniture, toys, bedding, and similar items should be discarded unless disinfected

· Flush floors and walls with water from a hose; wash with detergent and hot water. Keep the hose away from electrical equipment. Disinfect floors and flooded portions using a chlorine solution. Ventilate basement.

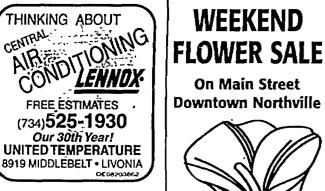

· Elevate items.

· Check all affected pilot lights or burners on gas fired appliances. Turn off gas supply to the main burner. After about five minutes, light the pilot burner in accordance with equipment instructions. If equally divided between Hillside and Meads Mill, 221 additional students will be attending each school.

The study states, "an additional 221 students at Meads Mill will require an eight classroom addition to accommodate this increase.

An outside storage area is also proposed for exterior-maintenance items such as tractors and mowers.

Extensive site work on Meads Mill's campus totaling $1.4 million includes a new rubberized, hard-surface track, stadium bleachers with seating for more than 100 spectators, a new school sign, sidewalk repairs and comprehensive asphalt work for a new sidewalk and bus route coming from Bradner - a neighborhood street at the rear of the building. The assistant superintendent said the proposal is for student and parent safety.

Other repairs and replacements on the proposed list are carpet replacement throughout the building, new code-compliant fire alarm system, replacement of lockers in the physical education locker rooms and in the school's corridor and technology upgrades.

If approved by voters, the bond will fund repairs, improvements and in some cases additions at nine of the district's buildings along with purchasing 10 new school buses.

Residents owning a home with a market value of $200,000 will pay about $100 a year for 20 years if the proposal passes next month.

New roof tops Hillside Middle proposed bond expenditures

This is the ninth in a series of stories examining the $35.7 million June 14 Northville School District bond proposal.

By Victoria Sadlocha RECORD STAFF WRITER

A $5.2 million roof tops the list of suggested improvements for Hillside Middle School if residents agree on passing a multimillion bond proposal next month.

The existing roof is a site for vegetation and puddles and pro-duces leaks in the hallways and the school's computer lab.

David Bolitho, Northville Schools assistant superintendent for administrative services, said the delaminating roof has been an issue for numerous years.

Officials said they wanted to tear off the roof in 1983, but the district did not have the money so a spray foam was used for the meantime.

"Now it's time to completely remove this roof down to the decking and rebuild," Bolitho said.

Other improvements listed in/ the $9.5 million Hillside proposal include numerous mechanical and electrical upgrades and repairs.

· Carpet replacement, technology updates and concrete repair for the front entrance of the building also make the list.

"Replacing the concrete in the front is a safety issue we have to address," Bolitho said. "It makes it very unsafe to walk into that building."

Officials said the repairs at Hillside Middle School are the result of the accumulation of years the district has been unable to fund necessary repairs.

"These items are pay me now or pay me later," Bolitho said. "In this building in particular, we are on borrowed time."

The 264,000-square-foot building formerly served as the district's high school and currently leases a portion of the building to Northville's Park and Recreation Department.

Bolitho said a portion of the recreation section of the building will be part of the roof replacement project and the light fixtures will be replaced as will the pool pack unit and duct work.

"These projects will reduce operating espense in the area leased to the Rec. Dept., thus expense." reducing energy Bolitho said. "The District will realize more profit from the rent charged to the Rec. Dept."

According to a Northville Public School District School Building Capacity and Student Growth study, enrollment at Hillside Middle School continues to increase, but at a slower pace than Meads Mill Middle School.

The study states "the undeveloped Novi sector will increase enrollment at Hillside Middle School, but the density and rate of development is and will be lower and slower than in Northville Township.

On June 14, Northville voters will decide whether or not approving a $35.7 million bond is in the best interest of the school district and the community. Bond funds are scheduled for the repair, improvements and in some cases additions at nine of the district's buildings along with purchasing 10 new school buses. If approved by voters, residents owning a home with a market value of $200,000 will pay about $100 a year for 20 years.

Despite the questionable weather this past Saturday, over 250 people from various metro Detroit communities spent time outside while experiencing, learning about and celebrating Johnson Creek. Johnson Creek Day 2004 was an educational, hands-on, community day to raise awareness about Johnson Creek, the only cold water trout stream in the Rouge River watershed. The coordination of the day's events was provided by JCPG volunteers, Northville Township and Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May. The day consisted of the following two main

Johnson Creek Day Trail Run

The 1st Annual Johnson Creek Day 5K Trail Run and Nature Walk was an interesting, and occasionally muddy, jaunt among landmark trees, past rich wetlands, and along the creek itself. Over 100 runners and walkers enjoyed this course, which started and finished at Community Park in Northville Township. Husband and wife team Matthew and Colleen Schroeder from Royal Oak took home the top male and female finishers awards. Andrew Hofmeister (age 10) from Livonia received the award for the youngest finisher, while Bob Thomas from Northville received the award for oldest finisher. The nature walk was led by JCPG volunteers Wayne Walker and Janet Bernardino. Fish Hatchery Park Celebration

The Trout Celebration was a community-oriented celebration of Johnson Creek at Fish Hatchery Park which provided information to the public on how they can help to preserve this creek for the future. This multifaceted event included presentations by Nature Discovery (featuring frogs, toads and snakes presented by Jim McGrath), the Organization for Bat Conservation, and displays by Friends of the Rouge, the Wayne County Department of Environment, Doug Sweet from the Belle Isle Aquatium, and Jeff Brainscheiger with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

There were also watershed games for kids organized by Chrystel Valoczski with the Wayne County Department of Environment. The pond at Fish Hatchery Park was stocked with brown trout, courtesy of Trout Unlimited, and Jim Schrot from the Michigan Fly Fishing Club was available for fly-fishing lessons.

Michelle White, JCPG volunteer, did a great job with the Trout Celebration setup. Thanks to Northville High School National Honor Society students who volunteered their time, as did Heather Shymanski and Kent Early from OHM.

Toll Brothers and Pulte helped to sponsor the presentations and provided the food and beverages. State budget fix: get back to basics weekend, and the news out of Lansing sounds like deja vu all over again. The state's budget for this fiscal year is around $250 million out of whack. The estimated deficit for the next fiscal year, which starts Oct. 1, is a whopping $1.3 billiòn.

Sound familiar? It should. It happens every year nowadays. Sure, our economy is starting to improve. April's jobless rate came in at 6.1 percent, down from 6.9 percent and the lowest since August, 2002. The state revenue estimating conference concluded that tax revenues are beginning to trend upward.

But improvement isn't going to happen nearly fast enough to plug the holes in this year's and next year's budgets. So

Gov. Jennifer Granholm and the Republican-dominated legislature are back at it again, at loggerheads over how to close the gap. (Unlike the federal government, the state is constitutionally required to balance the budget every year.)

Granholm wants to fix the problems by increasing taxes on booze and cigarettes (increasing the state's take on a pack of smokes from $1.25 to $2, making it among the nation's highest.) She figures these tax increases, together with continuing the estate tax on individuals with estates of more than $1 million, will go along way to paring both deficits to manageable levels.

Most Republicans running the legislature want to cut spending. On a partyline vote last week, the House turned down the cigarette tax idea, while Senate Majority Leader Ken Sikkema, R-Grandville, has been talking about massive spending cuts hitting everything from per-pupil state school aid to merit college scholarships, to higher education. Medicare, even prisons aren't immune.

Not surprisingly, tempers are getting short. Republicans complain the gover-

We're coming up on Memorial Day nor is preoccupied with style over substance. They mock flashy projects like "Cool Cities" that are supposed to attract the "creative class" to spur new business development. Democrats sav Republicans are pathologically fixated on cutting taxes and spending at the cost of turning Michigan into Mississippi north.

The House, especially, is increasingly becoming hard to manage. Speaker Rick Johnson, R-LeRoy who incidentally, does support the cigarette tax hike - is confronting a noisy and inexperienced group of ambitious politiclans, some already running for Speaker after the term-limited Johnson has to leave office next year. Lansing experts say prospects are dim for getting any compromise budget plans out of the lower chamber, but warn they'll be much worse next year when most of the moderate representatives will be gone, courtesy of term limits.

Faced with the prospect of a long, hot, gridlocked summer, I called up old friend, Craig Ruff, who runs Public Sector Consultants, for insight and solace. I got a fair amount of the former, but not much of the latter.

*Everybody's terribly frustrated at this point," Ruff said. "We're going on three years with the 'same old, same old.' Nobody came up to Lansing to slog endlessly through these budget shortfalls. So far, the governor and the legislature have behaved fairly reasonably, but the frustration level is so high that nobody can tell whether all this will result in compromise or stalemate.'

He predicted it will be close either way. And here is how he categorizes budget expenditures: "You have maintenance programs such as prisons or Medicaid. them, and so relying on budget-cutting alone gets you nowhere."

My own view is that the sounds coming out of Lansing resemble the noise made by rearranging the deck chairs on the Titanic. Rather than squabbling over racinos, taxing booze and cigarettes, cutting taxes and slashing spending on this and that, we should be addressing the fundamentals:

• The state budget is chronically and structurally out of balance by at least $1 billion per year, thanks to imprudent assumptions and political decisions made years ago. Until we fix that, we're just going to be chasing our tail, year after year after year.

• The state's tax structure is archaic. The Single Business Tax, the state's main tax on business, is at heart a strange and complex payroll tax that stands out like a sore thumb when any business considers opening a plant in Michigan. Worse, the 6 percent sales tax on goods leaves the most rapidly growing part of our economic activity totally untaxed - services.

and extending the sales tax to include services but at a reduced rate (say, 5 percent) would solve both problems in one blow. 'But (aside from; State Treasurer Jay Rising, who has been asked by the governor to look into the overall tax climate), nobody in Lansing is talking about anything so far-reaching.

This includes the governor ... so far. To be realistic, any first term governor is not likely to be proposing radical policies just before running for re-election. Granholm continues to be wildly popular, and it looks to me as though she will run on her popularity and great communications skills rather than on big-time policy innovations.

For now, she looks safe. For proof, try asking your Republican friends who's gonna take on her nibs in 2006. You're likely to hear the deafening sound of silence. But in Michigan, politics, like the weather, can change very quickly.

Catching up with Wayne State's Bonior

The cliffhanger presidential election wasn't the only thing that changed the course of history four years ago. Had a few thousand votes for Congress been cast differently, David Bonior, who now sits in a pleasant small office amid labor history archives at Wayne State University, might be Speaker of the House in January.

Democrats fought hard to recapture a majority in the House that year, but fell just six seats short of the 218 they needed, losing one in Michigan by a mere 88 votes. Had they made the magic number, Mr. Bonior, then minority whip, would have become Majority Leader. And had his Democrats kept that majority, he would have been in line to become speaker when Dick Gephardt retires at the end of the year. Yet he says he has no regrets and sounds like he means course to diplomatic disaster.

Were it up to him, he said he would push for Iraq to be turned into something of a tripartite federation, with Kurdish, Sunni and Shiite spheres, "and get the United Nations involved and us out of it as soon as possible."

The administration isn't, to put it mildly, asking his advice. Neither, incidentally, is the only person ever to beat him, Jennifer Granholm.

"Well, I don't blame her, though; I think I said something to the effect that she needed to build her own team," he said. Asked how he thinks she is doing, he says, "not bad,"

and them quickly adds,

That's too harsh. Of

"Nah. I was ready to go," he grins. Next month he turns 59. "You know, I always said I would leave at 50. I didn't, because I had a chance to rise in the leadership, but we could never take the House back, so ...'

So instead he ran for governor two years ago. He polled enough votes to win the nomination most years, and finished ahead of still-popular former Gov, James Blanchard. But a flood of enthusiastic female voters gave the nomination to Jennifer Granholm. It was the only election Mr. Bonior has ever lost.

Though he seemed devastated at the time, he says he wasn't really, "Well, I knew it was an awful long shot going in.

Republicans were not unhappy to see him leave Washington. Elected to Congress at 31 from a district centered in the Detroit area's largely blue-collar Macomb County, he evolved into the Democrats' pit bull. No one did more to raise ethical questions about former Speaker Newt Gingrich, who eventually fell from power.

He fought hard for labor (he and Toledo Rep. Marcy Kaptur were close allies.) His grandfather was a Polish immigrant who worked at Dodge Main; his father was a union printer. "What we had, we had because of unions."

On foreign policy, he fought to keep the Reagan Administration from supporting the contras in Nicaragua and right-wing forces in El Salvador.

"I think if I hadn't we would have had troops in Nicaragua," he said.

Strongly affected by post-Vatican II Ideas of liberation theology and social justice issues, he stoutly opposed both the 1991 Gulf War and the current war in Iraq. Today, he thinks we are on he grins.

"What people don't know is that thousands of workers are fired every year for trying to organize a union in their workplace. Just look at our Web site (www.americanrightsatwork.org) for some of their stories."

"We're down nationally to where only 13 percent of workers are organized unly 8 percent in the private sector. But I think that's going to start to come back up," said the man who was perhaps NAFTA's biggest opponent.

This fall, he plans to do whatever he can to help John Kerry. "I want him to win, even though he wasn't my first or second choice," he said, chuckling through his salt-and-pepper beard. He hopes the nominee selects his favorite, U.S. Sen. John Edwards as his running mate.

There are still thousands of cars and pickup trucks statewide with fading green-and-white Bonior stickers. Could he be lured out of retirement for some future campaign? Some old warhorses can never resist the call to the post. But David Bonior seems to accept that he's been there; done that. This summer, he could have been a national convention delegate, but quietly demurred.

"I view my life now as sort of a mentoring and giving back kind of thing," he says. You know, I worked for it, but I was very fortunate to be given the opportunity to do many things, from a football scholarship to Congress."

On June 14, voters in the Northville Public Schools district have the opportunity to continue a tradition of educational excellence by voting yes on the district's bond proposal.

In my role as vice president for instruction at Schoolcraft College, I see firsthand how effective school districts are when it comes to preparing young people for success after high school. Our district does an outstanding job, delivering academic performance that is competitive with other top-rated districts even though Northville spends less per pupil.

The bond proposal-including its funding of upgrades to classroom technology-will help to ensure that this success continues. Technology is playing a bigger role in classrooms at all levels of our educational system; our district is right to continue investing in these resources.

With its record of success and good stewardship, I believe that our school district has earned a yes vote on June 14. Such a vote will mean a brighter future for our children.

Louis A. Reibling, Ph.D. Northville

As a former resident of Northville - I grew up there, on Orchard Drive perhaps I may be forgiven for commenting on an issue I have been following on the Website of the Northville Record. I refer to the proposed expansion of a school by the Catholic Church, and the strong opposition to the plan by many homeowners in the area.

The proponents of the plan plead the need for better and larger educational facilities for the children. Nowhere have I read of anyone denying that need. Isn't it the location that is the issue?

It isn't as if the children would be deprived if this proposal fails. I respectfully suggest that older buildings can be renovated, leaks can be fixed, and if more room is required an appropriate site can be acquired.

It pains and offends me to think of homes and grounds being razed and bulldozed to make way for a large complex (and requisite parking space), with apparent indifference to the effect it may have on a long-established neighborhood.

One can only ask why the insistence on this particular location. This is a church, respected and revered by many, not some impersonal corporation. Where is the grace?

Helen Harper Noble Murray, Kentucky

There is an interesting but barely noticed trouble-making development in the communication among nations. From ancient times until about a century or two ago, heads of 'state communicated through ambassadors traveling to other heads of state. Then permanent embassies and foreign ministries were established. As communication technology provided means for direct and almost instant communication between heads of state and air transport facilitated personal meetings, the foreign policy establishment did not disappear but developed into a manager of not only relations among nations but of extended reach into the domestic policies of other nations. Agencies directing their persuasions at our national legislators include the China lobby, the Taiwan lobby, the Israeli lobby and the Vatican network of representatives throughout the country, currently offering denial of communion, implying a trip to hell, to some U.S. legislators who do not submit to its anti-abortion policy. Similar disrespect for national sovereignty was exercised in the reverse direction by six US Republican antichoice legislators who sent a letter to Senators of Uruguay urging them not to legalize first trimester abortion, which was part of a bill that included maternal health care serv-. ices, contraception, and sex education. It was approved by 63 percent of Uruguayans, passed by their House but lost in their Senate 13-17. Some Uruguayans have called this US meddling ".....Flagrant involvement in another country's constitutional issues," ",,basically telling these Senators to go against the will of their country." We get less excited about such bullying and end-runs around regular diplomatic channels, perhaps because we are bigger and more used to receiving as well as giving such insults. Still, using power rather than reason to push beliefs on those who think otherwise is disrespectful of fellow human beings, implying as it does that they are less capable of thinking and feeling. It would be more civilized and less inviting of conflict if people in religious or political power positions would temper their self-righteous missionary zeal and adjust their behavior to the principle that the governance of a democratic country is of, for and especially by the citizens of their own country and not by those of a foreign state or representing a foreign state.

Bent G. Bovine Northville

I urge Northville School District residents to vote "yes" on June 14 to the proposed Bond Issue put forth by the Board of Education on behalf of the District.

I have been a resident of Northville for 10 years. When I observed that the "geographic center" of our school district is approximately at 7 Mile and Beck Roads, I realized that nearly 50 percent of our District (to the West including portions of Lyon and Salem fownships) has not yet been "built out". I was surprised, then, to learn that this next bond proposal would not include new buildings-but rather would address significant operating needs such as roofs, buses and existing building additions.

My concern prompted me to write to the School Board and urge them to let citizens know that we would be in need of significant building over the foreseeable future. and that we should be thinking in prudent long-term ways about how we funded our already excellent school system. My reward for my inquiry was an offer to learn about the funding process and to chair the next Citizen's Bond Committee.

Before I accepted this offer, however, I conducted my own due diligence to be certain that this was an administration that I wanted to be affiliated with. I learned that emphatically-it is.

Despite the obvious future growth that will take place in this district, this administration has steadfastly refused to ask for funds to build schools that are not justified by actual home sites. This particular bond issue reflects this fact as it asked prudently only for major maintenance and "add-ons" to existing buildings. This is done because entire new buildings are not yet justified as we all wait to see what will happen with the Psychiatric Hospital and other properties in the community. Two times since the last bond issue was passed, this administration has actually voluntarily reduced the millage (the rate) charged to residents in reaction to population growth in excess of conservative estimates. In keeping with the above prudent fiscal management of funds, the administration has now compiled a list of specific items that are needed to maintain the excellent level of education we all enjoy without asking for "speculative funds" from the taxpayers. Every school in the district has its priorities addressed in this proposal.

It is my hope that we will acknowledge the historical fiscal responsibility displayed by the professionals whom we elect to manage our school district and who have contributed greatly to the building of our community into the excellent place it is supporting the request.

Please vote 'yes' on June 14. Remember-school is out the week before this Monday election, so be sure to secure absentee ballots beginning May 25 if you will not be able to vote in person.

Work exercise into road routine

By Ernie Harwell

If you travel a lot for work, like I did for so many years, it can be difficult to maintain healthy habits. The secret is to watch what you eat and drink and to develop a routine that includes some exercise and to follow it religiously. When I was had a routine Ernie Harwell of waking up at 7 a.m., eating a light breakfast and then walking for about 45 minutes to an hour. For many of those years, I was joined by Tiger manager Sparky Anderson. Afterwards, I'd relax a bit, do some work, have a light lunch, and then go to the ballpark.

If you spend a lot of time traveling, try developing a routine of getting out for a walk or a light jog in the morning. It's a great way to start the day, get some exercise and take in the sights wherever you are. And please remember to take care of your health before it's lonngggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Lulu," his wife of more than 60 years. His latest book, a collection of his baseball columns entitled "Life After Baseball," is available at local bookstores or by calling (800) 245-5082.

HEALTHY LIVING

Low-carb feasts

The secret is out --- low carbohydrate is in. With more than 37 million Americans saying no to white bread, pasta and crackers in favor of meats, cheeses and eggs, American mealtime is undergoing a dramatic change. But when you avoid cereals, bagels, rice and potatoes, how do you keep meals interesting? Easy. Boar's Head, creator of premium deli meats and cheeses, offers an abundance of products that are key components for those living a lowcarb lifestyle. Look no further than your local supermarket to find a selection of delicious choices that are packed with taste but not carbs. And remember, you don't have to give up carbohydrates entirely; instead, choose carbs with a low glycemic load, such as vegetables, certain fruits, beans, nuts and whole grains.

Shooting for the state title

Players come and players go. But few make a significant impact on the minds of those who read and write about them.

Sure, some names are remembered. But why? What about one player makes them more memorable than another? Is it their throw? Their ability to run? Their ability to tackle?

Few make an indelible mark because of athletic ability alone. Most do so because of a face, a personality or a name.

There are exceptions.

Andrea Northville golfer Fillipps is one such case.

Beyond being a fantastic athlete with a fantastic personality, Fillipps is an impressive long-ball hitter. For the most part, especially when she's on, Fillipps can strike the ball 220 yards. Or better. In high school golf. impressive.

that's

year that the long ball is only one part of the game she needs to master if she wants to play at a high level. She had found herself getting stuck in the mud during early season matches.

Suddenly she was struggling to attain the same success she had achieved during her junior season. Her long shots simply weren't enough to get her near the medalist position.

Fillipps was stuck.

Somehow she had gone from being one of the team's consistently top golfers to being a player who was not scoring at dual meets. That was hard for her to swallow. The horse pill would have been tough for any senior to swallow.

Fillipps had a choice. She could throw her hands up in the air, groan in frustration and storm off the course, stomping her feet. Or she could settle herself down, grit her teeth and take yet another swing at the game that had somehow gone astray. ' Fillipps chose the latter.

Since deciding which school she would attend — a decision that ultimately meant turning her back on Division I programs like Miami of Ohio and West Virginia — Desira said she had been putting her best foot forward in practice.

"I've been training a lot hard-er now," she said. "I'm doing past and I think they get the exposure that is needed to get a player drafted."

Desira said that she's looking forward to playing in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletics Conference.

"The GLIAC is a really good conference with some very good competition," Desira said. 'l expect to play some good games against some very good teams."

Desira said though her playing venue will soon change, one thing won't. For the Cardinals, she'll still adorn the familiar number "13" jersey that she has worn for the majority of her Northville High School basketball career.

the country," she said, "I really wanted my family to be able to come watch my games. That's the benefit of playing at a school closer to home.

Being offered a full-ride athletic scholarship didn't hurt either.

"Everything is going to be paid for," she said. "My food and my books. Anything I need is going to be paid for. It's beautiful. It's nice not to have to have my family pay for it."

Even with aspirations to play at the professional level, Desira noted that she's happy to land in such an academically-minded school.

The schedule is all about academics and then athletics," she said. "Basketball is just a bonus. They have a great business school which is one of the top in the nation. I can't wait."

Bearing down

The senior was determined not to let her final season go up in flames. She knew her squad needed her to perform if they hoped to win their conference, escape from the regional and gain a berth into the state finals.

She bore down. Her game returned. Water, and talent, found its old level.

In recent weeks, Fillipps seems like a player reborn. She hasn't let anything bother her, not even a 49 on the front nine at the recent regional. (She bounced right back with a 41 on the back.) Her renewed effort also carried her to a second-best team showing at the conference meet.

What matters to Fillipps? Simple. It's the team. She's playing well now, but even when she wasn't she was more concerned about how her team was performing. And when her team most needed her to perform at her highest level, she did what leaders do.

She stepped up.

A name to remember

Team players are few and far between at times. But the Mustangs' golf team is full of them: Marie Snyder, Allison (...ant, Therese Juthage, Layne Scherer and Fillipps are the five girls who will be representing No-wille at the Division I state finals.

Any one of them would give up a medalist position or a career-best day if that meant their team would walk away with the crown.

Players like Fillipps are memorable. Teams like the Mustangs golf squad are too.

No doubt, they'll make sure this season ends with a memorable moment. Then again, hasn't it already? Because no matter where they finish in their bid for a state title, the Mustangs golf team, talent aside, is already well worth remembering.

Canton Classic queens

The Northville Mustangs softball team went into the Canton Classic Softball Tournament hoping to make a point about being competitive. Instead, they walked out with the tournament crown perched atop their heads.

"This was probably the most exciting series of games and most exciting tournament I have ever been involved in as a player or a coach," coach Jean Calabrese said. "The games went back and forth and we played well." The Mustangs lost their first contest to the Belleville Tigers, 6-3, before rebounding with an 8-6 victory over Novi and a 3-0 win over rival Stevenson. Their 2-1 pool play record gave them a berth into the final game against Canton, which they won, 2-1.

We kept hitting the ball and making plays," Calabrese said. Jane Kruszewski threw 21 1/3 innings throughout the tourney.

"She amazingly got stronger and stronger as she went," Calabrese said. "It was total focus and total control. She was just outstanding." Emily Doren had a nice series at shortstop.

"She was all over the place, making backhand stops and strong throws to get runners," Calabrese said before noting another player. "Kim Larson made play after play in right field. They weren't easy plays. She was positioned well but needed to make great jumps on the ball to make the plays.'

Kristen Zawacki, Kruszewski and Laura Zima were credited with the top hitting on the squad.

"Doubles, triples and hard ground balls," Calabrese said. "It all worked and the team together won this tournament. It took every player doing everything we asked them to make the day complete."

It was the first time in five years the Mustangs have beat Canton.

We area young and I was a little nervous about the week because we had to come right back and play on Monday," Canton again Calabrese said.

Unfortunately, the Mustangs feli 10-0 in six innings. Two days later, they fell to Salem 2-1 in the final inning of play.

Division champions!

The Northville baseball team clinched the Western Division title as Livonia Franklin fell in another one of their conference games, making them three games down in division play. The Mustangs, who are undereated in the Western Division, still has two games left to play but are guaranteed the title.

"It's always nice when you reach a season goal," Northville coach Mickey Newman said. "I'm real proud of the guys."

The Mustangs went to Hartland looking to keep their winning ways going and came out with a split on the double header.

In the first game, the Mustangs won 10-0 in a six-inning mercy. Andrew Smith was golden from the mound, coming oh-so-close to a perfect game as he allowed just one hit, gave up two walks and struck in went 2.

ry with a threerun home run and four RBIs. Steve Besk scored two runs in the game.

Headed to the state meet

The Northville Mustangs will be well represented in the Division 1 lower peninsula state finals June 5 at Rockford High School.

The Mustang boys found six different boys qualifying out of the Milford Regional in seven different events.

Momchil Filev was simply smoking as he won the 110 hurdles against a powerful field in 15.4 seconds before coming back with a 39.9-second win in the 300 hurdles.

Alan Shanoski, who did well at the state meet last season, went 6feet-3-inches to win the high jump and qualify again.

Bill Brown was determined to make the trip this year and he did, going 20-10 in the long jump for second place at the regional.

Rob Steiner took third in the 400, but will still make the trip. His time of 49.9 seconds was plenty to propel him to the finals meet.

Tim Dalton is in the same boat, having taken fifth in the 800 in 1:58.3 to earn himself a spot in the finals runs.

Steiner, Shanoski, Filev and Colin Keiffer will represent Northville in the 4-by-400 relay as they took fourth in 3:25.8 to secure a berth to the Division I showdown. Other notable performances by the Mustang boys that didn't result in a state qualifying was that of Ken Schleh in the discus, who took fourth with at throw of 135-5, and Bill Brown's 200-meter dash time of 23 seconds, good for sixth.

Nice way to finish

Last Wednesday was the Mustangs last home game for the regular season. The Northville Girls Varsity Soccer team played against the Walled Lake Central Vikings and Was getting ready for the upcoming playoffs.

The first half of the game proved to be a slow. Each team was having a tough time getting anything started offensively due to the strong winds and the strong defenses of each team. Katie Weicksel made sure the ball stayed out of the net while the defensive front of Loren Tacconelli, Lindsay Hill, Kristen Slack and Whitney Guenther made sure to give Central a tough time.

Finally, the Mustangs scored first with Vanessa Bailey scoring at 19:46 assisted by Lauren Hill. That was the only goal for the first half with th Mustangs leading 1-0. The second half brought much more action from the Mustangs, as they got right to it. After missing a flurry of chances, the Mustangs persistence paid off with a goal from Lauren Hill with assists from Danielle Toney and Jen Kritch. Eight minutes later Kritch scored a goal of her own at 11:07 with assists from Guenther and Lauren Hill. To finish off the day Danielle Toney scored a goal at 4:33 with an assist from Kritch and again off a breakaway at 4:05 with an assist from Deanne Kubas.

"This was a good chance to get ready for the playoffs," said Assistant Coach Ian MacDonald, "It was good to see the girls take care of business on senior night."

As the final buzzer rang the Mustangs came out with another shut out with the scoreboard reading 5-0.

rebounded nicely with a 41 on the back.

Fillipps definitely didn't start the season off the way she would have liked, especially considering her topnotch play her junior year. At times, she didn't even score during a match but has come back with a vengeance.

"I think her confidence is back," Murray said. "She knows she doesn't have to knock it out there 240 (yards) to score."

Layne Scherer shot a 44-46 for a 90 on the day while Therese Juthage notched a 42-48 for 90 and Marie Snyder scored with a 45-47 for a 91. Shooting but not being scored was Allison Grant, who collected a 49-47 for a 96.

'We went out there looking to finish in the top three," Murray said. "There's no difference between first, second or third except a trophy. We won't be taking any different mode of transportation to the finals no matter where we finish"

Last year, Northville finished seventh in the state compared to their fourth-place finish in 2002.

If last year was any indication, then the Mustangs may be looking at a better finish this year.

Last year, they lost their conference bid to Livonia Stevenson. This year, they ran away with the final standing in the conference tournament to win the Western Lakes Activities Association outright.

A champions' true mettle

The Mustangs were well aware that they needed to be in championship form if they wanted even a piece of the pie at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet last week.

Northville had taken an unfortunate loss earlier in the year, giving them 10 victories in the conference, while Salem and Stevenson were both undefeated in dual meet play.

Thankfully, Mother Nature had played a part in those unblemished records and the game between Salem and Northville had been washed out, as had the match between Salem and Stevenson.

We had to play each other on the front nine at the conference tournament," Murray said. "We beat Salem and Salem beat Stevenson."

Northville edged the Rocks 165-174 to knock them down a peg and with the Salem victory over the Sportans, the squads found themselves in a three-way tie for the top spot in the conference.

For every conference victory during dual-meet play a single point is awarded. The Mustangs, Rocks and Spartans all had 10 points at that juncture and had to wait and see who would win the conference in order to see who would walk away the champions.

Walking that walk when all was said and done? None other the Close call

For some people, high school athletics is the most important thing in the world. For others, it means nothing more than just a game being played.

One Northville athlete by the name of Layne

Scherer — a top golfer in the area found out just how trivial sports can be at times. Scherer, who is a senior at Northville, was involved in a car accident on Haggerty Road two weeks ago. The result? Her car lit on fire and burned up, taking everything inside with it. That included her oolf clubs.

But, in the end, it wasn't the clubs that really mattered.

"We're just happy she was okay," Northville golf coach Trish Murray said. "Sometimes you get on the kids about playing better and better and then something like this happens. Golf means nothing compared to someone's life."

Scherer, thankfully, was fine after the incident. She returned to school the following Monday and was back on the course in no time --- with a set of demo clubs.

"She's a trooper," Murray said. "I talked to her on the phone and one of the first things out of her mouth was she intends to play next week."

Thank you

To all of the kind words received regarding the sports section last week. There were some who called concerned about various coverage items, but for the most part the majority of the calls and e-mails received were especially positive. The result? A continued path to keep the stones much like last . . . week's flowing in. August 19400

Also, Record sports writer Sam Eggleston would like to drop a thanks to whomever it was that rolled up his windows on his car Friday before the torrential downpour started. The small little Eagle Summit could have probably used a shampoo and rinse. But he's thankful nonetheless.

Next Level Athletes

This has been an on-again-offagain project for the past three years here in the Record sports department. But now it's taking a completely different shape. From here on out, athletes will be featured in full-length stories in an effort to discuss their college sports accomplishments and, sometimes, their frustrations. Coming up in the near future are some highly recognizable names: Justin Ferriman, Clark Paciorek, Stephanie Sabo, Matt Cornelius. And many more. If you have a college, semi-professional or professional athlete from Northville that you'd like to see featured, contact Sam Eggleston at seggleston@ht.homecomm.net.

Competitive play

Heading into the highly-competitive tournament, Hanson and Northville coach Chris Ford discussed the possibility of both teams making it with such a strong Shamrocks team to contend with.

"We figured that as long as neither of us swept the other one, we would both make the tournament," Ford said. "Of course there were some unknown factors such as Dearborn Fordson and Southfield."

The two squads earned their berth with intense play across the board. At one singles, it was Northville's Jason Spruit that first took on Catholic Central in the third round of play. He fell 6-4, 6-0 to Britton Steele. Novi earned the honor in the finals, but Suraj Ramachandran fell 6-0, 6-0 to the flight champion. once again met up with the Shamrocks in the third round. This time, Jon Lee took on Andrew Lulek and gave him a run before falling. Novi's Prasanna Venugopal fell in the final, 6-1, 6-2.

Northville and Novi squared off in the third round of third singles. Brian Bensette, a senior, beat Roshan Ramachandran in three sets, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.

'It always feels good to beat Novi," Bensette said. "The rivalry between our two teams is definitely there. It's good competition.

final came to earn the right. "It was a lot of fun," Lewicki said. "We have a strong team and when we play at our best we can challenge a lot of teams." The Wildcats weren't so fortunate as they fell in three sets in the same flight to the Shamrocks. James Peurach and Drew Doster fell 6-7, 7-6, 6-4 to their opponents.

"They played them strong," Hanson said. "When you can go three sets against a team like Catholic Central, you're doing something right."

At two doubles, Novi's Kevin Lai and Eric McQueen fell to Northville's Jeremy Riseman and Colin Ackerman in three sets, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3. The Mustangs then went on to fall to Catholic Central's duo in the final match to earn the runner-up position.

The third doubles flight found Catholic Central taking yet another crown, this time over Novi's Richie Fetters and Jeff Korby, 6-2, 6-1: The match prior, Fetters and Korby edged Northville's Lance Dehne and Nate Mehill, 6-4, 7-6 (7).

At fourth doubles, Catholic Central beat Novi's Ryan Heffernan and Justin Namm in the final game, 6-2, 7-5. In the semis, it was Varun Shekhar and Ashtyp Saltz taking on the Wildcats and falling, 6-0, 6-3.

"I was very pleased with how the third and fourth doubles teams played," Hanson said. They put up a fight against one of the best teams in the state."

Onward and upward

Athletes of the Week

Mornchil Filev, a senior, is the perfect athlete. He wasn't a regional champ last year. Instead, he came into the off season looking to make a mark and worked his tail off in order to accomplish that. Fillev is a regional champion this year, having won the 110meter hurdles and the 300 hurdles. Up next is the state finals. Good luck to all the Mustangs who will compete. Hard work does indeed pay off.

Jane Kruszewski, a junior huner for Northville's softball team, threw 21 1/3 innings in the Northville titleclaiming run at the Canton Invitational. She's not only a solid pitcher, but she can swing the old bat around too. Expect to see Kruszewski be a major factor in Northville's post-season play and a big part of the team again next year. She's been throwing varsity since her freshman year — the exercises she's gained are invaluable.

Rain, Rain, Go Away

The Northville Eclipse Base Ball Club's opener was rained out after a trip down to Ohio last week. When they got there, the place where the field was supposed to be looked like a place to go bass fishing instead.

By Sam Eggleston RECORD SPORTS WRITER

It's a tough decision for any prominent high school athlete: what college to attend, and where best to play collegiate sports? -It's even tougher the second time around. Nicole Cauzillo would know. The Northville graduate found herself unhappy at West Virginia University this past year, even though she was playing soccer, the sport she loved most.

But the team simply wasn't what she had expected, despite being competitive and even successful. The school wasn't academically challenging. It just wasn't fun anymore.

"I just didn't feel like the school had the whole package," she said. "The coaching staff wasn't help-ing as I felt I wasn't improving. I was just staying the same. The team had a kind of negativity too. I was just miserable playing soccer.'

For a girl who grew up playing the game and admits she'd probably play 24 hours a day "if the sun were shining," being miscrable playing the game she had grown to love just wasn't an option.

Change in the wind

So she decided to act. Next fall she will be attending a new school.

"I'm actually going to the University of Kansas," she said. "They made the sweet 16 last year and so did West Virginia. I just like the overall feel of the campus. It's a lot like Northville. It's pretty and clean."

Kansas plenty of individual accolades, earned during her freshman stint at West Virginia. The team finished 10th in the country and she was selected to the All-Freshman Big East team, comprised of the top 11 freshman in the conference.

She started all 22 games last season and helped her team compile a 17-4-1 record.

"We had a very, very good season." she said.

But Cauzillo expects the same from the Jayhawks of Kansas. She said that out of the 11 teams in the Big 12 conference, eight have made the NCAA tournament.

Summer prep

To keep herself busy, she has landed herself on what amounts to three different summer teams.

Currently she's with the Detroit Jaguars W-League soccer club, which is a minor-league team based out of Novi. She is also playing for the Jaguars' 23-andunder squad. In June, she'll begin playing for the Michigan Hawks, which is a squad she has been playing with for several years.

She said the Jaguars are the team that offers the toughest comin college.

There are definitely some great players on that team," she said. 'They play for Michigan, Michigan State, Oakland and all the top universities around. There is also a player from Purdue and one from Notre Dame and a couple from Canada. It's a really diverse team and I feel honored to be a part of it."

Playing in the summer is a must for Cauzillo, who says that even when she takes her vacation to Jersey Shores this summer, she'll bring a soccer ball.

'There's going to be plenty of beach soccer being played," she said.

Perspective

Cauzillo now willingly offers advice to high school athletes pondering potential collegiate athletic careers.

"If you're going to be a Division I athlete, you had better love your sport, because it's all sports and school at that level and nothing else," she said. "It's a fulltime job and if you don't love it, then you're not going to be happy."

Cauzillo is happy with her deci-sion to transfer to Kansas.

"I'm so happy," she said. "I can't wait to play again. I can't wait to be on a team competing for a national title. I can't wait to walk off the field with a smile no matter if we just won or loss. That's what I've been looking for and I think I've found it in Kansas."

Sam Eggleston can be reached petitive challenge and is most like at (248) 349-1700, ext. 104 or at Cauzillo will take with her to what she has already experienced ' seggleston@ht.homecomm.net.

Bensette moved on to play Catholic Central's Kevin Bender in the finals and fell in that contest.

More success

The Mustangs also had success at four singles when Chris Irvine met up with Novi's Kyle Goodman in the semi-finals and beat him in three sets, 4-6, 7-6 (7), 6-1. Irvine couldn't get the win out over Shamrock Nick Carroll though as Catholic Central swept the singles flights.

At one doubles, the only non-Catholic Central squad was crowned Regional champions. The Northville duo of Jackson Knoll and Matt Lewicki topped Catholic Central's squad in the Golfers at the Schoolcraft College Foundation Golf Classic can bid on two tickets to the 2004 Ryder Cup even though the tickets have been long sold out. The two weekly season tickets will enable the holders to attend all six days of the Ryder Cup matches Sept. 14-19, including the opening ceremonies on the grounds of Oakland Hills Country Club.

Schoolcraft's annual tournament

The Mustangs and Wildcats will now play in the state finals. which is slated for June 4-5 in Midland.

June 5 just happens to be the graduation for both schools ---meaning the teams' seniors may be late for their own diplomas.

"For the most part, I think our parents want us to be at the graduation," Lewicki said. They've put up with 13 years of school to see us graduate. But, I think we're going to be able to make it on time. If we aren't, I think most of the guys are willing to be late."

Still, the seventh-year coach said his team's second half performance epitomized his team's season-long effort. They never gave up. These kids fought all game long," Cornell said. "They could have easily given up, but they didn't."

They didn't give up when the Huskies jumped out to a quick 3dropsies in the first half. We couldn't hold onto the ball."

Corneil could have blamed the field conditions. Or even the long, early morning drive. But he didn't.

He said the Huskies didn't do anything his team was not already expecting.

"Nothing," Cornell said. "They played good rugby, but they didn't surprise us at all. We just couldn't keep anything going.

Instead they scrapped their way to their first try at 15:00, followed by a successful two-point conversion. A second try with no time left on the clock made the score a suddenly reachable 18-12.

Even the ensuing failed conversion left the Knights within striking distance as the teams played out penalty time. But it just wasn't meant to be.

Knight time is the right time Cornell was disappointed. B

David Aguilar tant: respect. RECORD EDITOR True,

Saturday's effort was not the Knights' most exemplary. Head coach Ron Cornell was the first to admit that. The Knights dropped the ball when they should have carried it; ran with it when they should have set up for tactical position.

0 lead at 27:19 of the first half, nor when they expanded that lead to 10-0 two minutes later.

With a minute left in the first half, the Knights were looking up at a 18-0 deficit. Things just never came easy during an afternoon when the humidity hung like syrup over a still-wet playing field.

Hum way to go

Except for team determination, that is.

The Knights could have easily rolled up during a second half that seemed a lot like the first. During an afternoon when even the wind change negated what was previously thought to be a passing and kicking advantage, a team starts proud. The club team that had been practicing since January and that finished as the state's second best team had nothing to hang its head about, he said.

"I am proud of this team. I am proud of our seniors," he said. They could have easily quit But they hung in there and kept battling right to the end. I am proud of them."

And in the end, that counts for something. Looking back, it's not always the final score people remember. Sometimes its how willing you were to battle along the way, how well you managed the 'ruff' when push came to shove.

Sometimes losing is simply winning turned inside-out. And effort becomes the only way to tell one from the other.

Good enough to bring the cagers a championship in the winter league.

The squad, which has a slew of women on the team including Cushman, Dawn Warner, Sandi Wade, Meagan Madej, Katie Kerr, Angie Spain, Carrie Oestreich, Leanne Tarasiewicz and Stephanie Large.

The men's league was won by a team by the name of Velvet Touch, which is managed by Dave Conger of Ann Arbor.

Cushman noted that though the league is large enough to support new incoming teams each season, she sees a lot of the same faces.

"It's fun," she said. "It gives you a chance to build some rivalries that continue from season to season. It's also nice to see some new teams, that way you're not playing against the same people all the time."

According to Cushman, it's thanks to the impressive job of assembling the league that parks and rec has done that keeps bringing the players back.

"Joe Barberio does a really great job," she said. "I've played in many leagues around the area and I always come back to Northville. The organization is unbeatable and the officiating is always great."

She also noted that the fact that Barberio requests input from the players in the league before making changes is a welcome difference between Northville and many other leagues.

"Just recently, he sent out an email asking about a summer league and who would be in and who would be out," Cushman said. "He cares about what we want because he knows without the players, there's no league."

The leagues draw players from all over - and not near as many from Northville as one might suspect. Cushman hails from Livonia, while one of her players drives in from Dearborn and another from Garden City.

"One of the teams is Ann Arbor Pioneer's varsity girls' basketball team," she said. "The draw is that there aren't a lot of good basketball leagues around here. Northville definitely stand out above the rest."

'SKRUFF'-ing it up Annual Ford Field concert set for June 19

By Larissa Barlow SPECIAL WRITER

SKRUFF, because it's drawing hundreds of teens to Ford Field.

Suburban Kids Rockin' Under Ford Field, or SKRUFF, is a summer concert series held twice a year featuring local teenage bands.

This year, six bands will perform on June 12 from 5 p.m. to 10 pm. for 45 minutes each, including two groups who took part in the festival last year.

A rain date for the event is scheduled for June 13.

Tony Flow and Thursday by Six are returning bands that are joined by Push to Eject, The Mellowship, Hate the Radio and For Vanity. Each is made up of high school students, many of which are from Northville.

For Vanity will open the show at 5 p.m. Tony Flow will close the event at 9 p.m.

The music will reflect a variety of styles, with bands playing pop, punk, jazz, blues and ska.

Emily Sherman, special events coordinator for Northville Parks and Recreation, expects at least 500 people will attend.

"It is a very successful event," she said. "Probably one of the most successful events we have in the community directed at teens."

"Probably one of Be on the lookout for the most successful events we have in the community directed at teens."

> Emily Sherman Special events coordinator for Northville Parks and Recreation

But Sherman said it's not just something for young people to enjoy. "We do get an adult crowd," she said. "Every year it gets bigger."

The first SKRUFF concert last May attracted 250 people. The second, in September, drew 500 people.

There is a $5 admission at the gate and all money is used to pay the bands and fund future concerts. "Everything it makes goes back to SKRUFF," Sherman said.

T-shirts will be on sale and concession stands run by the Oak Point Church will sell food and drinks throughout the music festival.

The idea for a concert involving students was developed last year after Northville Youth Assistance had a meeting to find ways to better serve area teens.

A group of Northville high school students then formed a committee that does everything from organizing the event to choosing bands. "The teens real-ly spearhead the project," Sherman said.

The second SKRUFF concert of the summer takes place Sept. 11. For more information, visit www.skruff.com. Or call (248) 349-0203 ext. 1411.

SKRUFF is sponsored by students from Northville High School, the Northville Chamber of Commerce, Northville Parks and Recreation, Northville Youth Assistance and the Northville Arts Commission.

REGIONAL MARKETPLACE

Keeping the lid on the cookie jar

Although not reported in the news, there must have been a mad rush for the medicine cabinet by Arizona lawmakers whose fingers got smashed when someone slammed the lid on a cookie jar filled with workers' compensation money.

Attempting to swipe some $50 million from the State Compensation Fund to cover their budget abyss, Grand Canyon State legislators found themselves peering into an even bigger hole when Superior Court Judge Rebecca Albrecht denied saying

stitution. Employers are required by Jack Faris law to pay for workers' compensation insurance that covers medical care, rehabilitation and lost wages of those injured on the job. The judge's ruling reaffirmed the claim by NFIB, other small-business groups, and the Arizona State Compensation Fund that the money is to be held in trust for the fund's policyholders and should not be viewed as a source of rainyday cash to paper over mismanaged state budgets.

. Thanks to an up tick in the nation's economy, the fiscal fiascos facing many states won't be quite as foreboding as they were in recent years. Tax revenues have returned some funds to depleted coffers and more than half of the states are reporting surpluses, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures.

Helping too were federal bailouts of $20 billion that temporary brought relief, although many legislators complain that lots of their financial problems are caused by fallout from Washington, D.C.-imposed tax cuts; unfunded mandates and cost-shifting in key areas such as healthcare.

Come June 30, those federal funds will be no more, and legis-Jators in many states, having failed to make the tough decisions during a breathing period, are again peering into every nook, cranny and cash box for currency. Fiscal year 2005 isn't going to be a time for tea and crumpets for many of them. Cumulative gaps of between $36 billion and $40 billion are said to be building among more than 30 states.

Taxpayers in these states can expect higher taxes, spending efforts and dips into reserves-and more sleights-of-hand trickery such as that attempted in Arizona, and in other states with well-managed workers' compensation funds. Small-business owners, major contributors to such trust funds, are accustomed to monitoring their cash registers, balancing their budgets and making the hard decisions. It's unfortunate that they must also keep a wary eye on their state's treasury, fearing the sticky fingers of politicians who give the nod to every tax-funded idea that comes along. Judge Albrecht is to be com-mended for quickly closing the Arizona State Compensation Fund cookie jar. She no doubt knew that some very important political fingers would get bruised, but was steadfast in her opposition, saying that these "are not public funds, but funds held in trust... for the employer and ultimately for injured employees and their families" Small-business owners should perk up their ears for the telltale rattling of cookie-jar lids as state lawmakers search for goodies to meet their July 1 budget deadlines.

Much of the charm of Your Nesting Place lies in its relaxed ambience. Customers might come in to a dish of chocolates or beverage. Meredith's dog, Sarah, might offer a friendly welcome. They even open doors between their neighbors "Some Gals," so that customers can pass back and forth between both stores. They would love nothing better than for customers to have a little fun and break out of their comfort zone while they're at it.

"I'd like to think the attitude is something like Cheers... we remember what you bought last time, and we'll remember your name," said Meredith.

and say, 'I can do this,'" said Meredith. "My new mantra is get inspired, be creative, I've been following that a lot more."

Indeed, many clients make regular visits to see what's new and for a little design inspiration. Another fun way they encourage client's sense of style is by tagging certain merchandise as "favorite things." It's their equivalent of the Oprah picks, some of Chris Meredith's favorite items including rugs, tables, and more. As a service to her clientele she also keeps a "wish list" where they can request a certain type of merchandise.

'We'll look for something to see if maybe we can get it for Nancy Hinzmann and Holly Brandt.

"I wouldn't have believed it's possible. But I knew I had to move if I wanted to grow the business I had to do something.' Meredith notes that she believes in dealing honestly with her customers, and won't mark up merchandise in lieu of "big savings" later. "We're fair in our pricing," she said.

As a designer, Chris Meredith refuses to be pigeonholed into a safe category, and has developed a faithful following who've discovered her fun and refreshing approach to design.

Too-tall windows create problems

By Rose Bennett Gilbert COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q: How do I handle these two-story windows in our great room? They're ceiling-high on both sides of the fireplace. We love the light, but I don't know what kind of curtains to put up there --- or should I use anything at all?

A: Dare to go bare, unless there's glare, sunfading or a problem with privacy --- the usual issues with the kind of too-tall windows that builders too often think all home buyers crave,

Happily, advances in glazing technologies have made it possible to enjoy such huge windows without bankrupting the energy budget, but you still face the danger sunlight imposes on fabrics, artworks, even wood floors and furniture,

Ultraviolet rays will fade and eventually destroy everything in their path, reason enough to provide some kind of protection on your windows. You have a number of options from films that are applied directly to the glass (for example, Vista UVShield), to shades and blinds that can be operated by remote control when the window's too high to reach. (Electronic systems can be expensive; the good news is that battery-operated units, which have been less costly, but less reliable, have lately been upgraded for better performance.)

Even if neither glare nor fading is an issue, gargantuan windows can still pose artistic problems. Do you cover the entire expanse of glass? If not, what to curtain? What to leave bare? Here's an aesthetically pleasing solution from the designers at Greenbaum's Interiors, a venerable design store on the East Coast, where so-called Palladian windows often soar to problematic heights.

In the high, wide and handsome sitting room we show here, the designers opted to festoon only the center level of the windows, the better to show off the lovely high arches. They hung long stationary curtains in the corners to anchor the treatment, and used asymmetrical swags that lead the eye to the center of the wall and that dramatic chimney breast.

These two-story windows needed a treatment as dramatic as the space itself.

The net effect is understated and simply tasteful, more proof that less really can be more. Q: Where can I go to bone up on new appliances for the kitchen we are renovating? We are both crazy about "the latest" and don't want to miss anything new and hot. But where we live, there aren't that many good appliance stores.

A: Then stay home with a new magazine that's exactly designed for consumers like you. "Home Appliance" magazine is just out from Dana Chase Publications, for 60-some years the publisher of a trade journal for the appliance industry. They launched a consumer version, says editor Diane Ritchey, because so many people want "the latest" for their own kitchens. Have a look at www.Appliance.com.

Rose Bennett Gilbert is the co-author of "Hampton Style" and associate editor of Country Decorating Ideas. Please send your questions to her at Copley News Service, P.O. Box 120190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190, or online at copleysd@copleynews.com.

Prune in the fall if you want flowers

Q: I bought a mock orange bush a couple of years ago. I have it planted in kind of a shady spot and it doesn't bloom. I have pruned it to the ground each fall to try to make it flower and it won't. I water and fertilize and it grows, it just doesn't bloom.

A: And with what is going on currently, it never will. Here are the two no-flower hurdles that you can't get over. Mock orange would prefer full sun, which would be eight or more hours. It will also produce some flowers in partial shade. That means about six or seven hours. For many people, "kind of" indicates very little sun. That's the first fence. The second is that flower buds for a spring-blooming plant are produced in the late summer or fall of the year before. If you are amputating all the branches, the flowers are going, too. Because it blooms in the spring, it has no chance to make flower buds. No amount of fertilizer or watering can make up for the lack of sunlight. It can't make up for the timing of the pruning. If this is a small bush, dig it up and move it to a much sunnier location. Put the pruners away for awhile. The only time this should be pruned is immediately after flowering. But give it a rest and let the poor thing have a chance to recover.

Q: Something horrible is happening to the huge maple in the front yard. Every day when we look out, there are dozens of perfect green leaves lying on the ground. What do we do to save the tree?

A: It's the best of all answers: nothing. About this time in many years, we can get some insect damage from some little guys called maple petiole borers. The petiole is that little stemmy thing that hooks the leaf to the twig. The tiny petiole borer feeds inside of the petiole and the petiole breaks off and the leaf and part of the petiole float to the ground. When you pick up the leaf, there is only part of the petiole attached. If it was all there, the end that attaches to the twig will look like a half a cup. If it ends with a blackened, shriveled end or a cleanly cut end, suspect the borer. These don't kill trees or even harm them. There's a good reason that trees have so many leaves ---- it's for dinky little leaf droppers like this. Some years we see them, and some years there are hardly any. This will happen for a couple of weeks and quit. The tree isn't suffer-ing, and you need to stop, too.

Q: I made a terrible mistake when I put 16-16-16 fertilizer on my vegetable garden. I put on ten times as much as I should. I can't plant now. How do I neutralize this fertilizer?

A: It's called water. You literally have to flush the fertilizer through the soil. This means praying for rain and most importantly, watering and watering. At some point, you need to determine if enough has gone through so you can plant. Buy a small amount of rye grass lawn seed. Plant a number of little areas in the garden. It will take about a week for the seeds to come up and grow. If the seeds don't come up or they die shortly after they come up, there is still too much nitrogen in the soil. This could shorten your growing season a little or a lot this year.

Whether in-stock or ordered through Depot Direct, you have many options. Plus, orders can be delivered in as little as 48 hours.

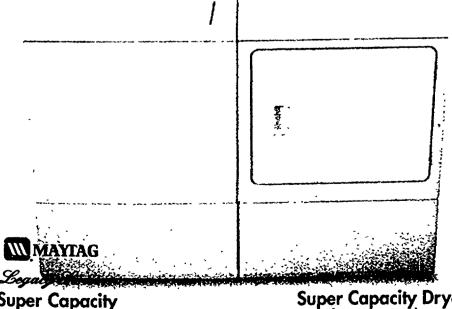

ENERGY STAR[™]

To save money on utilities and help protect the environment, look for the ENERGY STAR[®] label. ENERGY STAR® appliances are designed to provide peak performance, while using a minimum of your power and water. Over the long run, this can save an enormous amount of money. For example:

- A new ENERGY STAR® certified washer saves more water in a single year than the average person drinks in a lifetime*
- A continuously lit, 75-watt light bulb uses more electricity than a new ENERGY STAR® refrigerator*

Take home a new ENERGY STAR® certified appliance today to start

Q Could you give me some information on Orlando Bloom? —Joan F., Wisconsin

The handsome British actor, best known for his role as Legolas, the elf warrior in the Lord of the Rings trilogy, has been busy filming a new movie. Bloom stars as Paris, the prince of Troy, in the upcoming Warner Bros. epic Troy, which also stars Brad Pitt, and was recently seen in Pirates of the Caribbean. Born in Canterbury, Kent, Bloom moved to London at age 16, where he joined the National Youth Theatre and then earned a scholarship to the British American Drama Academy. He made his film debut in Wilde, then put his career on hold to attend the Guildhall School of Music and Drama. In 1998, he fell three stories from a rooftop terrace and broke his back. Doctors warned he might never walk again, but they operated and Bloom recovered. Although he says he's accidentprone (he also fell off his horse and broke a rib while filming Lord of the Rings), the bachelor enjoys surfing and bungee jumping.

What can you tell me about country singer Julie Roberts?

-Susan E., Florida Roberts, who releases her first CD this month, began singing country music at an early age while growing up in Lancaster, S.C. (pop. 8,177). She performed in school plays and beauty pageants, including Little Miss Lancaster. As a teen, she toured regionally, performing at festivals in North Carolina, South Carolina toured regionally, performing at festivals in North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia. "We would pack coolers because we couldn't eat out and we would stop at a rest stop," she says. "It was so much fun. We'd say, 'One day, we're going to be on a bus doing this." She moved to Nashville, Tenn., in 1999 to attend Belmont University. After graduation, she landed a job at Mercury Records, but never mentioned to coworkers that she sang. "I needed to work and I was scared I was going to get fired if they knew," she says. She spent her free time songwriting and playing at clubs, and her talent caught the ears of producer Brent Rowan, who took her into the studio to record a demonstration tape. Last year, while playing Universal Nashville chairman Luke Lewis some songs of other singers, Rowan played Roberts' music. Lewis said, "I want to know who this is. I want to meet this girl." Rowan said, "It's the girl right down the hall. It's your assistant." A few months later, Roberts quit her day job and started living her dream.

Q I saw a film of Tennessee Ernie Ford's Christmas program and he had his two small sons with him. Is either one of them a singer like their dad?

-Margaret C., Arizona

Son Jeffrey "Buck" Ford says he and his brother, Brion, both sang professionally over the years, but not anymore. "Brion performed for some time at Opryland (a music theme park in Nashville, Tenn.), and I performed on the road," Buck Ford says. These days, he stays busy both as an actor and as managing director of Tennessee Ernie Ford

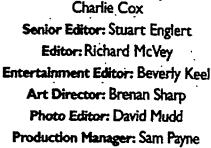

Enterprises, a company dedicated to expanding the awareness of the his father's career. Buck's most recent picture, 1999's Pirates of the Plain, was filmed entirely in South Africa. Buck lives in Nashville, and Brion, who lives in White House, Tenn. (pop. 7,220), is a consultant to the company. Their father, born Ernest Jennings Ford on Feb. 13, 1919, in Bristol, Tenn. (pop. 24,821), died in 1991 at the age of 72. Ford sold more than 60 million records worldwide and earned three stars on the Hollywood Walk of Fame—one each for radio, television, and recording. Hometown Hero Promoting Pedal Power

by AUDREY

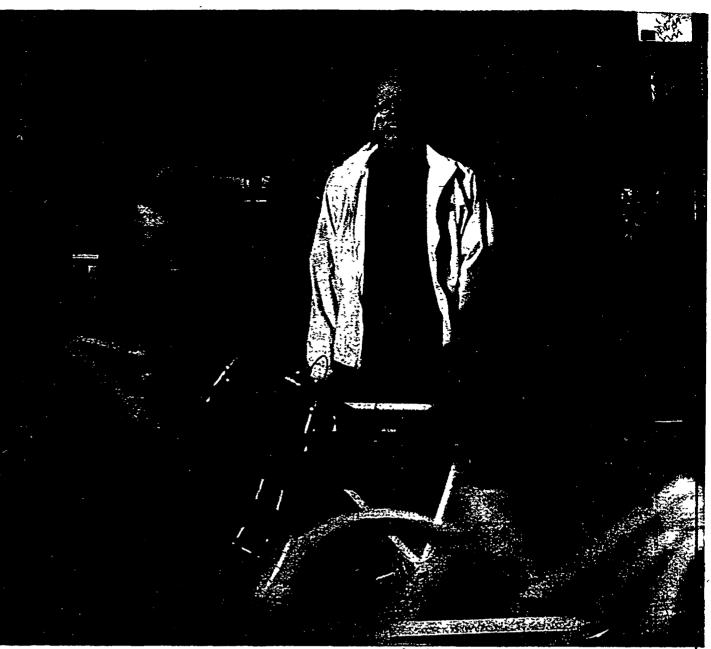

In 2001, Rosskopf, an attorney, introduced his Georgia hometown to non-profit Decatur Yellow Bikes Inc. (DYB) in an effort to share his interest in cycling with neighbors and to help alleviate traffic and congestion in Decatur (pop. 18,147), a next-door neighbor to Atlanta.

Rosskopf and DYB's volunteers recondition donated bikes, paint them bright yellow, and offer them to residents for free.

"This grew from an idea where I was going to recondition one or two bicycles a week in my garage, to something that has become very popular in the community," says Rosskopf, a Southern California native and Decatur resident for 19 years. The project has outgrown Rosskopf's garage and uses donated space to store and recondition bicycles.

"The program, we call Adopt-A-Bike, has evolved into a library system program," he says, "where people pay a $25 refundable deposit and pick up the bike and keep it as long as they want. We do free maintenance, free tires, free tubes and then when they're finished, they bring it back and get their money back. It's very popular among students."

Ken Rosskopf introduced Decatur, Ga., residents to free rides on his yellow bikes.

In order to adopt the bike, riders also must sign a pledge to ride the bike three times a week in place of driving a vehicle. "Of course, our enforcement division is very small," Rosskopf says, laughing.

Decatur is one of more than 40 cities nationwide with community bike programs. In the early 1990s, Portland, Ore., was one of the first towns to adopt the concept, and the idea later caught on in other cities, including Austin, Texas, and Minneapolis/St. Paul, Minn.

As word spread about DYB, members of the Decatur community began donating old 10-speeds and mountain bikes to the program. Since its inception, Rosskopf and his team of 25 volunteers have reconditioned more than 430 bicycles, and the program continues to receive about three bikes a week.

For Rosskopf, refurbishing bicycles is a form of relaxation, while cycling satisfies his "competitive soul." He occasionally participates in United States Cycling Federation (USCF) road races across the country and overseas. As a member of the USCF masters' team, he won the 1991 Russian National Master's Championship.

But whether competing or riding leisurely, Rosskopf enjoys the sense of freedom cycling offers, and his enthusiasm now has many others catching Yellow Bike fever.

"The (community's) response has been a little bit surprising to me," Rosskopf says. "I didn't expect it. But I think they are behind it because this is a feel good program. Most of us have good bike memories from childhood and people know bike riding is good for their health and the environment.

"We've definitely increased public awareness of the bike as a seri-

Lyn Menne, director of the city's community and economic development, agrees. "Developing a pedestrian-friendly downtown is very important to retaining our small-town character. The Yellow Bike concept helps us achieve these goals—it gets people out of their cars."

Tom Keating, a longtime Decatur resident, signed up for Adopt-A-Bike because he wanted to add an alternative form of exercise to his schedule. "Bike riding has helped to gradually build up my strength and I feel great riding to the post office and the YMCA," he says.

"The Yellow Bike program illustrates how one person with a coalition can make a difference," Keating says. "I believe every child should have the opportunity to walk, run, ride a bike, and swim. Ken has given the community a chance to fulfill one of those four personal freedoms." \Rightarrow

Volunteers trumpet a dignified farewell for our veterans

Tom Day stands silently while the final prayers are said and the casket flag is folded. Then he lifts his bugle in white-gloved hands and sounds Taps in notes that are as strong and powerful as a crisp salute.

"This is the last time a family has to say goodbye to their loved one. Whatever I can do to make it a special time for their veterans, I do," says Day, a 63-year-old Marine Corps veteran who has played Taps at the graveside of nearly 1,200 servicemen and women during his lifetime.

The poignant bugle call used since the Civil War to signal lights out and later to mark a hero's passing has echoed through Day's life since he was 7 when he joined his first drum and bugle corps. Encouraged by his father, Marine Col. Joe Day, he played Taps for his first military burial at age 10 for a neighbor who died in the Korean War. The gratitude of the family struck a chord that was never forgotten. When Day learned that recordings of Taps were replacing live buglers at many funerals, he took action. In May 2001, he founded Bugles Across America, headquartered in his basement in Berwyn, III.

By federal law

every honorably discharged veteran is entitled to a flag folding ceremony and the sounding of Taps. Because the military's 500 buglers can't begin to serve at all funerals, the Pentagon last year introduced an electronic push-button bugle that a person holds to his lips, giving the appearance of a live bugler.

Rachel LaPorte plays to honor her grandfather, John O'Brien. (pop. 54,016), and through the Internet and newspapers, began recruiting trumpeters to give a dignified farewell to the nearly 1,800 veterans—mostly World War II and Korean War—who die every day.

Day's heartfelt call was answered by 2,800 horn players of all ages, who have served at 35,000 funerals around the country since the organization was established.

Since retiring from his state lottery job in 2002, Day has dedicated himself to coordinating the national troop of volunteer buglers. He buys secondhand instruments, has them repaired, and donates them to buglers who don't have their own horns. He rounds up dress uniforms and recruits horn players from school bands and Scout troops. He makes and presents memorial plaques to each veteran's family.

Appreciation for the live bugling runs deep among the veterans' families. "The service was so beautiful and patriotic," says Carole Sebastian of Lansing, Ill. (pop. 28,332). Day played for the funeral of her husband, Walter John Sebastian, 83, a bomber pilot in the Army Air Corps, who died Aug. 30, 2003. A fee, if one is charged, is set by each bugler. But it's love for their country and those who served that rallies members of Bugles Across America.

2,800 horn players have answered Tom Day's call.

Doctor's Diabetes Breakthrough?

Here's important news for anyone with diabetes. A remarkable book is now available that reveals medically tested principles that can help normalize blood sugar naturally... help reverse many symptoms of diabetes. People report better vision, more energy, faster healing, regained feeling in their feet, as well as a reduction of various risk factors associated with other diseases.

This diabetes program was researched, developed and written by a leading nutrition specialist. It shows you exactly how nature can activate your body's built-in healers once you start eating the right combination of foods. It can work for both Type I and Type II diabetes and people report it has helped reduce their insulin resistance. It can give diabetics control of their lives and a feeling of satisfaction that comes from having normal blood sugar profiles.

The results speak for themselves. The program is based on research that many doctors may not be aware of yet. It tells you which delicious foods to eat and which to avoid. It also warns you of the potential danger of certain so-called "diabetes" diets. Diabetics have written letters to the publisher calling this book "very outstanding"..."a tremendous help"... and saying it made "a difference in my life." This amazing program is based on documented scientific principles that can help:

- Eliminate ketones and give you more abundant energy
- Make blood sugar levels go from High Risk to Normal
- Stimulate scratches and scrapes to heal faster
- Improve eyesight
- Improve your balance
- Help numb feet regain a level of feeling
- Reverse neuropathy and resultant heel ulcers

Improvement may be seen in other areas as well, such as lower blood pressure, lower cholesterol and reduced triglyceride levels. There may also be a reduction of other risk factors associated with: heart attacks, stroke, retinopathy, kidney damage.

What's more, it may help improve short term memory and make you feel more alert and no longer chronically tired. Improvements of double vision or diplopia may also be experienced.

If you or someone you know have diabetes, this could be the most important book you'll ever read. As part of a special introductory offer, right now you can order a special press run of this remarkable program for only $12.95 plus $2.00 shipping. It comes with a 90 day money back guarantee. If you are not 100% satisfied, simply return it for a full refund...no questions asked.

Emotional echo

"It's hard when it's a 19-year-old kid," says John Murphy, 50, a volunteer bugler and Army veteran. "It's total emotion. When I start playing Taps, I shut my eyes and concentrate on playing as best I can. Afterwards, I can react."

Three days a week, Murphy drives 80 miles from his home in Deltona, Fla. (pop. 69,543), to Florida National Cemetery in Bushnell (pop. 2,050), where he plays for as many as eight funerals a day. He works evenings at a video rental store.

always on his birthday. He loved hearing Taps," says Rachel LaPorte, 15, of Oak Forest, Ill., (pop. 28,051) one of the youngest members of Bugles Across America.

She promised her grandfather, John O'Brien, a World War II Army veteran, that she would play for his funeral and she did on May 17, 2001, at Abraham Lincoln National Cemetery in Elwood, Ill. (pop. 1,620).

LaPorte has sounded Taps for 40 veterans since, and also plays for memorial services at the national cemetery.

"I can't even describe to you the feeling," she says. "It's a great feeling. This is the last thing that can be done for a comrade."

The honor student is involved in school and community theater, marching band and choir, dance lessons, and is yearbook editor at Oak Forest High School. If LaPorte has a funeral during school hours, she wears her dress uniform to school: a navy blue jacket and slacks, white shirt, bow tie, and cummerbund.

"At first I had friends say, 'You're going to the cemetery?' But they know that I love what I'm doing. This is my thank-you to the men and women who serve our country."

Once or twice a month, LaPorte visits her grandfather's grave, a 45-minute drive from her home. Sometimes she takes flowers. She always takes her bugle and plays a loving salute to her grandfather. ≯

A merica's most famous bugle call, Taps, was arranged in July 1862 by Union Gen. Daniel Adams Butterfield, who thought the military's "end of day" music was too formal, so he wrote a revised melody with assistance from bugler Oliver Willcox Norton.

"Everything was announced by a bugle in the Civil War," says Master Sgt. Jari Villaneuva, 48, with the United States Air Force Band.

At the time, the military used some 50 different calls during maneuvers from sunup to sundown, bût none became as well known as Taps. Today, the bugle call is sounded at military funerals, wreath-layings, and memorial services, but its 24 haunting notes are not heard as often as they once were.

"Tabs is one of those-traditions that is slowly disappearing and it's sad," says Villaneuva of Catonsville, Md. (pop. 39,820), a Taps historian who for 17 years sounded the call at Arlington National Cemetery.

Whether you're planning a vacation to Disney World or a visit to Grandma's house, the tips and ideas below are designed to minimize tension and promote carefree family car travel.

• Think ahead. Steve and Ruth Bennett, authors of By Land, By Air, By Sea, suggest that youngsters who participate in planning and packing, take a personal stake in the success of the trip. Team up to get information from tourist offices and block out a sightseeing route. Tourist guides such as Fodors, state maps and Internet sites like www.momsminivan.com identify family friendly restaurants, hotels/motels and activities.

• Let children select a favorite small toy, book, magazine, pad, pencil or crayons to take along. A brightly decorated homemade shoe-box travel organizer with cardboard partitions, limits the stuff crammed into the car and cuts down on the number of times a parent needs to pass things back and forth.

• The guessing game, "I Spy" (I spy something ugly and its moving up your arm. What is it?) and observation activities like "License Plate Log," where children remember plates by state, color, numbers and/or letters are easy to play.

• Adventure diversions such as "Natural Collections" (stop the car in a scenic spot to find souvenirs such as leaves, rocks, shells or twigs) and "First Impression," a point game where the first to spot a change in terrain, climate, dress, food, architecture, streets and sidewalks helps your kids "see" their new environment. "Give A Tour," converts a paper towel tube into a microphone. Your child becomes the announcer of "Homes Of The Famous," "History Trail" or "Exotic Zoo."

• Sing along to This Land Is Your Land or Row, Row, Row Your Boat. If siblings are rambunctious try, "The Silence Game." Two minutes of absolute quiet, until someone forgets and giggles or speaks out, gives everyone time to calm down. Larry Farber, certified yoga teacher/certified social worker tells parents, "It's best to exercise before you go and take a break for every hour of driving. Get out of the car, bend your knees as you fold over toward the ground and stretch up toward the sky. Repeat several times. You are in close quarters," Farber cautions. "Breathe deeply and avoid arguing." Be flexible. Vacation travel can be the ideal time for family members to listen and learn from each other as well as a time to relax and have fun. Lighten up and enjoy the ride. \Rightarrow adjustment controls like I see so many do." Jim Wood - New Mexico

"Your hearing aid replaced a $1,300 aid and works better. Never again will I buy anything else but your product." James Fisher - New Jersey

"Your trial period is certainly an asset for the customer. The EarMate-4000 is so comfortable I've worn it to bed five or six times." C.G. - Fresno, CA

In the blink of an eye, tiny hummingbleds flit from flower to flower. The opalescent hues and velvety petals call to them and, hovering for one brief moment, they sip the sweet, nectar. Theirs is a world of hushed beauty, now gracefally portrayed in an impressively-sized, multi-media sculpture of meticulous craftsmanship and rare distinction.

Hometown Spotlight

When a precious family heirlooma rare 1914 oval barn-began to fall into disrepair in the mid-1990s, the Haimbaugh family had some serious discussions about what to do with the aging structure.

Recognizing the importance of the barn, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, the family eventually raised $85,000 to save one of the few oval barns left in Fulton County, Ind., the Round Barn Capital of the World.

"The era of round barns" was a time in our agricultural history that was brief, but important," says Bob Haimbaugh, whose great-grandfather had the barn built two miles north of Rochester, Ind. (pop. 6,414). "It was the birth of modern farming."

The

President George Washington owned the nation's first manysided or polygonal barn on his farm near Mount Vernon, Va. The 16-sided barn was built in 1792 and used as a treading mill to thresh grain. A Shaker community in Hancock, Mass., built the first true round barn in the nation in 1824.

The popularity of round barns increased around the turn of the 20th century when land grant colleges, including Purdue University, and agricultural magazines began touting them as more economical to build and more efficient to operate than rectangular barns.

With fewer walls, round barns-often measuring more than 70 feet in diameter-could be built with less lumber and their circular design meant livestock faced the center, making chores such as milking cows, feeding livestock, and cleaning up manure more efficient. Ironically, the circular design also made the barns more difficult to expand and less compatible with mechanized farming, eventually leading to their downfall.

Weather, fire, and neglect have taken their toll on these architectural relics and only a few hundred remain standing ton County Historical Society. "I knew we 'had to start preserving them." Willard got her chance in 1989 when a tornado blew the roof off the Leedy round barn and owner Larry Paxton donated it to the historical society. The society raised $60,000 to restore the 1924 barn and moved it next to the Historical Society Museum, four miles north of Rochester, where it opened in 1991 as the Round Barn Museum. The museum serves as a replica of a working barn, displaying items such as antique farm machinery and a 1910 buggy.

Shortly after the barn museum opened, the society established the National Round Barn Center of Information, located in the Historical Society Museum, to help collect data and save endangered barns around the world.

Since 1991, four of the county's barns have been preserved, including the 1915 Utter barn in Henry Township, the Leedy and Haimbaugh barns, and most recently, the 1910 Widemen-Gerig barn, which is being restored as a community building and nature center in Lakeview Park in Rochester.

"When you walk in and see the workmanship, it just takes you back to another time," says Melinda Clinger, Fulton County Museum director.

To save their barn, the Haim-baugh family sold timber on the farm and made individual donations. With the money raised, the picturesque red barn has been restored to its former glory and is put to good use every July when more than 100 of John Haimbaugh's descendants gather for a family reunion.

"It's part of our heritage," Bob Haimbaugh says. "It shows who we are and where we came from. We're all very proud of it." 🎝

In 1971, the Covered Bridge Society named Fulton County the Round Barn Capital of the World, unaware that Vernon County, Wis., actually had more round barns. Citing Fulton County's preservation efforts, however, Vernon County graciously allowed Fulton County to retain the title. "Being the round barn capital doesn't mean we have the most, it means we're the most interested," Shirley Willard says.

Save up to $60 on the BELLOHOWELL' Sunlight Lamp! Enjoy sunshine every day of the year-indoors!

CLEARER, THE EASY ON THE EYES

- COLORS LOOK MORE VIVID AND TRUE TO LIFE
- SHARP VISIBILITY FOR DETAILS
- HELPS REDUCE EVESTRAIN

So much like sunshine it feels like you're on vacation! The Bell & Howell Sunlight Lamp could be the most important advance in lamps since the invention of the light build! It simulates outdoor sunlight, which is balanced across the entire spectrum of color visible to the human eye.

Everything seems easier to see

This is the clearest, whitest, and brightest lamp we have found. Colors look more vivid and true to life. It's the perfect light for reading, working and all close up tasks and hobbies. There is virtually no glare, making this the perfect companion light for computer work.

Save $$$ on your electric bills!

The supplied high-tech 27-watt bulb gives as much light as an ordinary 150-watt bulb, but uses far less energy. The bulb can last up to 5000 hours - 5 times longer than other bulbs-for years of normal use.

We've nicknamed our Sunlight Lamp the "It's great to be alive lamp!" Many people say that dreary, dark days make them feel "blue" and that bright sunny days have a cheerful and energetic effect. Now you can switch on the sunlight indoors every day of the year!

Just trying to pick a Medicare drug discount card is enough to make you need a prescription.

AARP can help.

As a result of a new law, Medicare beneficiaries are now eligible to receive a Medicare drug discount card. The cards can save money and are an important step toward a lasting Medicare drug benefit. But choosing a card can be confusing. Whatever your situation, the best choice is to be informed. To help with that, AARP offers the following guidelines:

- You can purchase a Medicare drug discount card without giving up existing drug coverage that you may receive from insurance or other non-Medicare discount cards.
- ✤ After you choose a Medicare drug discount card, you can change to a different card at
- The Medicare drug discount card program is completely voluntary. You do not have to buy a card if you don't want one.
- You can only have one Medicare drug discount card at a time.
- ✤ If you already receive drugs through a state Medicaid program, you are not eligible the end of the year, but not before.
