Roosen joins three incumbents on Northville board of trustees

By Kim Kovel
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Despite a slate effort by the four incumbents, challenger Chris Roosen emerged as the top vote getter out of the five trustee candidates running for four seats in Northville Township's primary on Tuesday.

Along with Marjorie Banner, Marv Gans and Brad Werner, Roosen will serve as trustee on the Northville Board of Trustees for four years, starting Nov. 20.

In the end, Roosen came in with 1,177 votes; Banner, 1,107; Gans, 1,102; Werner, 1,086; and Shirley Klokenga, 1,043.

Supervisor Mark Abbo, Treasurer Dick Henningson and Clerk Sue Hillebrand ran unopposed and retained their current seats.

All seven winners will appear on the November ballot. However, since they are all Republican, the board was effectively decided Tuesday.

Roosen celebrated at home with about 40 friends, coworkers and family members.

"We're elated because we worked so hard," Roosen said. "I think that it was easier because I just had to sell myself. I'm looking forward to working with the other board members the voters picked."

The mood at Township Hall was more somber.

"I'm rather disappointed that we didn't return (all) the incumbents," Gans said. Banner refused comment. Klokenga was out of town, and did not return a phone call and message as of press time.

Voter turnout this year was expectedly low, Hillebrand said. Ultimately, 2,784 of the township's 18,233 registered voters went to the polls. That's about 15 percent.

"I'm not surprised at the low turnout," Hillebrand said. "The whole state was telling us all month long the interest in the primary was not there. We typically have a little higher turnout for primaries, (but) this was a real slight ballot."

Of the 2,157 absentee ballots that were mailed out, 1,735, or about 80 percent, were returned by the time the unofficial estimates rolled in.

Werner expressed "dismay" with the low turnout.

'Victory' sues city

Catholic church's lawsuit demands immediate site plan approval

By Victoria Sadlocha
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church filed a lawsuit last week against the City of Northville and its planning commission demanding immediate approval of its site plan for a new parochial school.

The six-count Wayne County circuit court lawsuit also names individual planning commission members and requests financial damages in excess of $25,000.

"The church's concern is that it is being required to provide information that it is not legally obligated to provide and that it is being denied site plan approval based upon the unlawful demands of the planning commission," said attorney Michael A. Nedelman with Nedelman Pawlak, PLLC.

As proposed, the church would like to build a 77,000 square-foot school on a 3.56 acre parcel in downtown Northville.

The attorney representing Our Lady of Victory said members of the planning commission acted illegally when tabling the church's school site plan on July 20 because they used personal preferences and consultant recommendations in lieu of sticking to the duty of just enforcing city zoning ordinances.

"They (planning commission members) exceeded the scope of their authority and they failed to observe their statutory obligations," Nedelman said.

According to lawsuit documents filed by church attorneys July 28, the planning commission "intentionally, maliciously, in bad faith and with the intent of injuring Our Lady of Victory violated the law."

Merchants ready for weekend Sidewalk Sale

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Northville merchants plan to offer up an old-fashioned sidewalk sale Saturday with antique cars, toe-tapping music, treats to eat and bargains to bag.

Store owners will tempt shoppers eager for discounted items and a peek at fall merchandise with their Merchants-Only Sidewalk Sale Preview tomorrow during their regular Friday hours.

The Northville Arts Commission will host the Oak Pointe Church of Northville at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Street bandshell as part of the continuing concert series.

From 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, Main Street from Wing to Hutton and Center from Dunlap to Cady will be closed to traffic. Merchants will move their goods to the sidewalk.

A stage set up at the intersection of Main and Center will be the entertainment core of a downtown lined with 150 booths stocked with everything from antiques to hand-made crafts to information about community organizations.

"It will be awesome," said Toni Genitti, co-president of the Northville Central Business Association. "There's going to be dancing in the streets. We'll have a good time Saturday night."

As chairperson of the event, the owner of Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall hired the groups that will provide big band and polka music from noon until 9 p.m. The business association and the Downtown Development Authority are sponsoring the event together for the fifth year.

"We really came together on this," Genitti said. This year's sale has more booths, more merchants and more volunteers than ever, she said.

There will be something to delight, amuse and entertain every member of the family, said Sherri Mewha, owner of Awakening... The Artist Inside. "It's wholesome, good, family fun," she said. "There will be some classic cars, whether or not they're in a shopping mode. There's even stuff for the guys."

Officials still investigating Meads Mill civil rights complaint

Final ruling could take a up to a year

By Victoria Sadlocha
RECORD STAFF WRITER

No immediate resolution is pending for an ongoing civil rights complaint by a middle-school parent alleging racial discrimination against her 13-year-old African-American son by Northville Public Schools.

"Reason being, sometimes complaints are closed as soon as we get the respondent's response and we learn it is just a misunderstanding or there are other facts that once they are brought out show that this is not a complaint we can investigate further," said Harold Core, media spokesman for the Michigan Department of Civil Rights.

"Other cases can take years if they go all the way through our process. There isn't any way to compare how fast it takes to investigate."

Core said he would not speculate how long the Northville probe will take and would only confirm the case is still being investigated.

"They (department interviewers) will be taking interviews, sending questions and getting responses."

They may take some witness statements and during the whole time probably look to find some way to resolve the issue," Core said.

"The investigation continues until we can find evidence of discrimination or find that we can't show evidence of discrimination or if one of the parties withdraws for some reason."

Casey Reason, Northville Schools assistant superintendent for instructional services and Title VI compliance officer, said waiting for a decision from the department will not encumber the district.

"It isn't like we are waiting on pins and needles for it because we are being proactive," he said. "If the district was in a place where we didn't have an updated policy nor updated procedures, it might find itself in more of a scrambling mode, but fortunately, on this issue we are not in that place."

"We are obviously respectful of their decision, we certainly will be responsive to their decision and we will look forward to a dialog about that; however, we certainly consistently and continuously examine our procedures and policies to make sure they are legally compliant and make good business sense for what we do."

The complaint filed the week of June 7 by Meads Mill Middle School parent Katherine Kirk, alleges her child was discriminated against while in school.

The Northville Record has chosen not to name the minor youth.

"That's very slim margin to go from the highest in the lowest" vote getter, he said. "We go forward as a group. We are a board of trustees, and just try to continue on with the progress of the township."

Also, votes from District 15 arrived late, when the election official making the delivery had an automobile accident en route.

In the complaint, Kirk states her 13-year-old son was subjected to harassment by certain Northville Public School's Caucasian students in May because of his race. The mother said students at Meads Mill made threats and called her son derogatory names without appropriate action by school officials.

Following an internal investigation and timely filing of a formal response to the complaint, Reason said Northville schools did not find anything to support the allegations.

According to response documents, it was determined all necessary protocol was followed and proper action was taken by the district after the racial discrimination allegations were brought to Meads Mill assistant principal, Ray Balutowicz's, attention.

ANOTHER ROUND FOR THE 'LADY'

Lawsuit: no fury like a 'Lady' scorned

By Victoria Sadlocha
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Lawsuit documents filed last week on behalf of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church state the City of Northville planning commission acted maliciously and intentionally tortuous when it tabled the site plan for its downtown parochial school.

The lawsuit filed July 28 in Wayne County Circuit Court demands the planning commission immediately approve the church's site plan as presented July 20.

Rev. Terry Kerner, pastor of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church said the issue involves more than the recently filed lawsuit. Kerner said he is not against the planning commission or the process itself.

"The planning commission — individual members — have some very excellent ideas and suggestions," he said. "And we appreciate that and those are items that certainly we would consider and plan on doing."

Kerner said marking a cross walk and irrigating the landscaping are items the church is amenable to, even though they are non-zoning ordinance items.

"We want to continue the spirit of the June meeting that we had with them — the study session," Kerner said.

Kerner said he understands recent events are sometimes part of the overall process. He said he also understands neighbor concerns.

Nevertheless, church officials said the lawsuit was necessary to move the project along. The new school was scheduled for a fall 2005 opening, a goal the church no longer feels is attainable.

"The process has been lengthy and difficult, but I'm optimistic that ultimately everything will be done best for the city and the neighborhood and we have people of good will trying to work together and it is just working out those kinks — those details — but we will have a school and it will be a beautiful school and people in the neighborhood and in the city will be very proud of it actually."

School: project the source of vision, neighborhood division

By Victoria Sadlocha
RECORD STAFF WRITER

For many residents, the idea of a new Our Lady of Victory Catholic school means decreasing property values, more traffic and a potentially unsightly new neighborhood.

For church officials, the near $14 million proposal is more than a fanciful wish. "We just want some of the normal things that any kid would have in a school," said Rev. Terry Kerner, father of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church.

The plans for the proposed 77,000 square foot building slated for the west side of Orchard Drive between Main and Thayer streets, boasts many amenities Northville public schools already possess.

"The problem with the old school is it is an old building and it is wearing out," Kerner said. "It is over 50 years old — it is 52 years old — and we don't have a library, gym or cafeteria."

If constructed, other enhancements will include a music room, media center and science laboratory.

Kerner said the construction of a new, larger school would further address issues associated with growing enrollment.

"We have crowded classrooms," he said. "We want more classrooms for the kids so the student-teacher ratio is lessened."

Other visions for the proposed school include:

- A lower building profile
- On-site parking
- Detailed drop-off and pick-up arrangements
- One story classroom wing and cafeteria
- Two-story gym on the north end of the building, taking advantage of the property's slope
- 87 on-site parking spaces
- Student drop off and pick-up on the west side of Orchard Drive

The new structure is scheduled for location across the street from the existing school on 3.56 acres of church-owned property.

The property is zoned R1-B and according to church documents, schools are permitted use in an R1-B zoning district, subject to obtaining a special land use permit.

Church officials originally hoped the school would be open fall 2005, but feel the original goal may no longer be attainable.

THE LAWSUIT

A six-count lawsuit filed last week in Judge Mary Beth Kelly's Wayne County circuit courtroom claims the city, its planning commission and its individual planning commissioners acted 'maliciously' when it tabled Our Lady of Victory's site plan proposal June 20.

Each of the lawsuit's six counts requests an immediate ruling from Kelly, along with unspecified financial damages in excess of $25,000. The lawsuit claims:

Count 1 (Mandamus): planning commission has the statutory obligation to approve the site plan as-is; failed to do so.

Count 2 (Intentional violation of state statute): Our Lady of Victory has been financially injured by being prevented from constructing the school it has proposed on land it owns;

Count 3 (Negligent violation of state statute): the planning commission and its contracted planner, Carlisle-Wortman, do not have the legal authority to request for such things as traffic and public safety studies;

Count 4 (Intentional violation of state statute): the planning commission withheld approval in violation of state statute;

Count 5 (Negligent violation of state statute): the planning commission has no discretionary power when considering site plans; rather it must act simply based upon local ordinance and state statute;

Count 6 (Superintending Control): the planning commission's decision to table the proposal was "arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious", request made for "Superintending Control," an outside entity to oversee and decide the matter conclusively.

POINTS OF CONTENTION

The following is the final finding of Carlisle-Wortman, the planning firm contracted by the City of Northville, including the site plan recommendations suggested by the firm:

...In general, we believe that the revised design is a significant site and architectural improvement compared to the previous submittal. The one story building and shift of the gymnasium to the north will provide much greater neighborhood compatibility to the homes on Orchard Street. The increase of parking and increase of curbside drop-off/pickup will enhance parking and circulation efficiency.

The submitted preliminary site plan generally complies with the Site Development Plan Standards of Section 19.05. However, a number of deficiencies exist which will need to be resolved prior to preliminary site plan approval. We, therefore, recommend that the preliminary site plans be referred back to the applicant for correction of the following items:

- Provide calculations for average front yard setbacks.
- Address any concerns of the City Engineer and City Consulting Engineer. Indicate locations of sanitary sewer and water connections.
- Provide proposed contours off the northeast corner of the building to clarify the limits of grading and clearing.
- Add the inside courtyard grading plans.
- Provide details of proposed retaining wall and construction materials.
- Clarify the proposed location of HVAC equipment on the site.
- The applicant should submit a revised traffic study based on the current site layout with a review by the City Engineer, Police Chief, and City's Traffic Consultant.
- The Planning Commission will need to evaluate the proposed landscape buffer on the south and west sides and determine if the opacity requirements of Section 19.05 are met.
- Provide more complete schedule that identifies trees being used to meet the tree replacement requirements. Clarify approach of tree replacement or contribution to the City's Environment Trust Fund.
- Modify Parking lot screen berm.
- Provide a retaining wall detail.
- Consider emergency exit and cobblestone swale concerns.
- Provide additional information on irrigation.
- The City Engineer will provide comments regarding the proposed sidewalk and distance from curb.
- Submit a photometric analysis of site lighting demonstrating compliance with Section 18.05 and 19.05.
- Submit separate sign application for any proposed free standing or wall mounted signs.
- Applicant and Planning Commission should discuss architectural compatibility.

City: final vote set for next Tuesday

By David Aguilar RECORD EDITOR

City officials expressed frustration and disappointment following a lawsuit filed last week by the Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church.

The lawsuit names as defendants the city, its planning commission and each of its nine members. The lawsuit asks Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Mary Beth Kelly to render an immediate ruling on the school's proposal to build a 77,000 square foot school on a 3.56 acre city land parcel.

The $14 million K-8 school would be located on the southwest corner of Orchard and Main streets and would replace the 52-year-old existing school located across the street.

The church's legal filing also requests financial damages from the city in excess of $25,000, a common circuit court filing procedure.

"I am disappointed," Mayor Christopher Johnson said, adding the arrival last Thursday afternoon of the court-filed document came unexpectedly. "The church made a certain decision, and now the church will have to live with it, too."

Johnson thought church officials and the planning commission were working well together in an ongoing effort to complete a special land use proposal under which the new school could be constructed.

He said that relationship apparently broke down sometime after the July 20 planning commission meeting. At that meeting, planning commissioners reviewed, then tabled, the church's site plan proposal and listed 17 concerns.

Those concerns included requests for a traffic study to better measure the public safety impact of the proposed school on the surrounding neighborhood and its future students. Other requests included setbacks, landscaping, parking, irrigation, sidewalk placement and an outdoor lighting study.

Attorneys representing the church claimed such requests were beyond the planning commission's jurisdictional scope.

City Manager Gary Word said that's not true. He said the city is, by ordinance, well within its right to request such information.

"I think all of those requests were legitimate concerns," Word said. "The city has the right. This is a common planning commission practice."

He, too, felt the two parties were working toward resolving a year-long disagreement about the proposed school.

"I was surprised when I learned about the lawsuit," Word said, who has heard vocal displeasure on both sides of the issue, including local residents concerned the new school is simply too large a project for too small a parcel. "I really thought we were close to an agreement."

Had church officials simply complied with the planning commission's June 20 requests, Word said a final site plan review likely would have been scheduled for mid-September or late October. But such a timetable may have proven to be more an impediment than a motivator for church officials tired of restating their public case.

Last week's lawsuit claimed repeated delay has caused the church financial harm, including escalating construction costs and legal fees. Church officials said previously all its legal fees would be paid for by an anonymous church donor. Word said there exist other long-term costs the church would be wise to consider.

"The church may have won the battle here, but they will lose the war," he said, adding that eight of nine planning commissioners arrived with city attorney Jim Kohl in Kelly's courtroom last Friday. "The community goodwill is gone... shame on them."

Still, he said it's never too late to salvage a tenuous relationship. "I don't think all trust has been lost," Word said. "But it's been damaged."

"I feel very comfortable that we've followed the proper process, and that we have worked with the applicant to come up with a good project."

TUESDAY MEETING

The City of Northville Planning Commission will hold a 7:30 p.m. special meeting at city hall Tuesday, Aug. 10. Members are expected to vote on the final site plan proposal previously presented by Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church.

If approved, church officials will be able to begin obtaining building permits for the proposed 77,000-square-foot school. Previously, church officials had proposed a fall, 2005 completion date.

If denied, the matter will be referred to Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Mary Beth Kelly. Following a likely hearing at which each side will be able to present its side, Kelly will ultimately decide if the city planning commission's rejection holds legal merit and is based on existing local ordinance.

LAWSUIT: Our Lady of Victory files suit against City of Northville

Northville City manager Gary Word said the planning commission did not act out of the scope of its authority as stated in the lawsuit. Nor is the commission making illegal site plan recommendations.

"They have every right to look at a site plan to make suggestions and requests that would make the site plan a better project for the community," he said.

The city manager said it appears negotiations between the church and the planning commission are at a halt.

"We are very disappointed," Word said. "I felt that the church and the planning commission were making progress toward a site plan that would be a better fit into the neighborhood and it appears now the church is ignoring the concerns of the planning commission, city staff and the planning consultant and is trying to shove the site plan down the city's throat."

Rev. Terry Kerner, pastor of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church said the lawsuit was necessary.

"We found ourselves kind of in a limbo if you will, by them tabling it we needed to move the process forward because it is really impeding our planning and fundraising and ability to plan for that new school," Kerner said. "It is just a matter of getting all of this behind us and moving forward."

According to lawsuit documents, the church is asking the court to step in and make the city and the planning commission do what they are obligated to — immediately approve the site plan as presented before the planning commission on July 20.

In addition to damages exceeding $25,000, Our Lady of Victory is also asking for associated costs and other relief as deemed just and equitable by a court of law.

The church maintains it suffered and continues to suffer damages including increasing construction costs and attorneys fees.

The complaint additionally requests the city of Northville, planning commission, appropriate building officials and the city's planning director file with the court a certified copy of the entire planning commission record. It also requests transcripts of all proceedings and notes relating to the church's site plan for development of the school property under the zoning ordinance.

The complaint further requests permanent prohibition of the city and other appropriate personnel from interfering with Our Lady of Victory's development and use of its property when conforming with the site plan submitted by the planning commission.

The main parties appeared before Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Mary Beth Kelly Friday, July 30.

"As a result of that hearing, the planning commission will hold a hearing on Aug. 10 to consider the site plan," Nedelman said.

The proposed Our Lady of Victory kindergarten through eighth-grade school is slated for construction on 3.56 acres of church-owned property on the west side of Orchard Drive between Main and Thayer streets.

Last week's lawsuit follows a resident-driven lawsuit filed in June against the City of Northville opposing construction of the school.

Maybury barns may finally be on the move

Barns moving

After several scheduling snafus, barns donated to the vintage farm at Maybury State Park are expected to arrive at the Eight Mile Road site, between Beck and Napier roads, this Saturday.

Several animals acquired for the former farm are being sheltered elsewhere, awaiting the Aug. 7 arrival of the barns. A February fire destroyed the living farm operation. The Northville Community Foundation since September has been leading efforts to restore the popular attraction.

Several companies, agencies and individuals collaborated on the barn move, said foundation president Shari Peters, including Toll Brothers, DTE Energy, Comcast, ITT, the City of Novi, JCK Engineers and Architects, Tommy Tree. That group's diligence made this move happen, she said.

Discussion of options for restoring the farm included building a new barn, Peters said, but the consensus was selection of the buildings Toll Brothers donated. Barn experts say portions of these barns are over 100 years old, Peters said.

The foundation contracted Barn Restorers to secure the barn and make appropriate upgrades as needed, she said. Those improvements are expected to take two months, Peters said.

The foundation president invited carpenters willing to help with the restoration to call the agency at (248) 374-0200.

Sculpture selection

At the City Council meeting Monday night, Northville Arts

Commission Chairman Ken Naigus displayed models of six sculptures under consideration for Main/Hutton Park.

Naigus invited council and audience comments on the proposals, which ranged in material from bronze to concrete, and in design, from books to embracing figures. The sculpture will be paid for by the Downtown Development Authority and a private donor, he said.

In soliciting the designs, the commission requested they all use running water, still be attractive in the months without water and be maintainable. Downtown businessman Ron Bodnar asked about pedestrian traffic through the park, around the sculpture.

All proposals would be seven to 10 feet tall and five to eight feet in diameter, including the pool, Naigus said. The diameter of the park is 16 feet.

Cambridge still on hold

Mark Guidobono, chief executive officer of Cambridge Development Co., told the City Council Monday night that his company still plans to build on the Cady Street site near Center, but not quite yet.

The council in February granted a second extension on the planned unit development agreement for the mixed use development proposed. The owner cited the still-soft market for residential units, particularly the high-end type he had proposed.

Farm fundraiser

Novi Bowl will be the site of a Maybury Farm fundraiser at 6 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 15.

To participate as a bowler or donate to the auction, contact the Northville Community Foundation at (248) 374-0200.

Armed Robbery

The Northville Township Police Department is looking for information leading to the arrest of an unknown man who is wanted for committing armed robbery in the township last week.

The suspect entered Primo's Pizzeria on Five Mile Road at about 1:45 a.m. Saturday, July 31 through the rear door, demanding money from restaurant workers.

Police said there were four employees in the pizzeria at the time of the robbery and no one was injured.

According to Northville Township Police Department press release, "Witnesses stated that the suspect told them that if they didn't comply they would be shot."

Witnesses told police the unknown man was carrying a long-barreled weapon.

Police said the man fled through the rear door with an unknown amount cash. It is suspected he ran to a nearby vehicle because no automobile was seen in Primo's parking lot.

The suspect was described by witnesses as a white man about 5 feet 8 inches tall with a thin build.

Police said he is about 17 to 19 and was wearing a trench coat and a nylon stocking over his head at the time of the robbery.

Anyone with information is asked to call the Northville Township Detective Bureau at (248) 349-9400.

Single-car crash

A 75-year-old Northville woman was rushed to Botsford Hospital after losing consciousness behind the wheel of the car she was driving.

The driver of a white Acura struck the center median of Hutton near Dunlap around 10 a.m., July 26, according to Northville police reports. The car left the road and struck the guardrail, the report says.

It was determined the woman blacked out due to low blood sugar, the report says.

Caught campers

Two Northville 19-year-olds went from visiting friends at Camp Dearborn to occupying neighboring jail cells.

A Northville police officer traveling on Eight Mile Road near Center at approximately 2:30 a.m. July 23 spotted a white Jeep "weaving constantly" as it headed westbound, according to police reports. After directing the driver to pull to the side of the road, the officer reported smelling a "strong odor of intoxicants" inside the vehicle.

The driver told the officer she and her friend were coming from Camp Dearborn, the report says. At first she said she had nothing to drink, the report says, then said she had two. While performing sobriety tasks, she was "unsteady on her feet" and said "I can't do it," the report says.

After a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .19, she was arrested for drunk driving, the report says.

A second officer, who arrived to assist with the traffic stop, arrested the 19-year-old passenger for underage consumption, the report says. She said she consumed three to four mixed drinks, the report says. Her breath test showed a .18 blood alcohol level, the report says.

Both were taken to the station and celled pending sobering and posting bond, the report says. They were given a court date of Aug. 5.

Northville youth dies after tragic accident

By Lisa Roose-Church
HOMETOWN NEWSPAPERS

A day at the park ended tragically for a Northville family when their 2-year-old son died after a vehicle struck him at the Island Lake State Park recreation area in Green Oak Township.

Preliminary investigation indicates that a 23-year-old park employee was driving a 1997 Dodge pickup from a far east side parking lot about 12:17 p.m. last Friday when he apparently drove through a brick pavilion structure, which has a large bay opening in its center — located at the Kent Beach Lake side — and struck the child, said Green Oak Police Chief Robert Brookins.

Jack Gallon, the 2-year-old toddler, was transported to University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor where he died at 1:04 p.m. The unidentified driver and his two co-workers who were passengers were not injured.

Brookins said the Livingston County prosecutor's office will review the incident, which is standard procedure for his department in all deaths by a vehicle, to determine if charges will be filed.

The exact sequence of what happened and why remains under investigation by the Livingston County Sheriff Department's Accident Reconstruction Team.

"Our primary focus and concern is reconstruction of the accident to tell us why (the driver) didn't see the child," said Undersheriff Bob Bezotte.

Brookins said the child was with his 33-year-old mother and friends when the accident occurred.

Brookins praised the Livingston County accident reconstructionists as well as the Livingston County EMS personnel who responded to the scene.

"They're doing a tremendous job right now," he said early Friday evening. "Credit is due. They are spending a lot of time trying to put together some puzzle pieces."

"We are certainly very pleased with the assistance they are giving us now. They and the Livingston County ambulance paramedics did a whole of a job," Brookins added.

The Island State Park is part of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and is located in the area of Grand River and Kensington Road. The pavilion building houses public restrooms, a park utility room and outside vending machines.

Condo tour shows how to make the most of small spaces

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Double-glass doors overlooking a wide green lawn and small lake broadcast bright light into the "Golden Girls" three-suite condominium.

The Highland Lakes home of Mary Lou Smith, Sarie Dermanelian and C.J. Gildersleeve is one of eight in the Northville Township development featured on an Aug. 14 tour. A sign recognizing the 25-year friendship of the three women hangs to the right of their front door.

Rayda Warren, chief organizer of the event, asked the three women and other neighbors if they would open their homes for the tour. She said she expects more than the 200 people who attended in 2003.

The $12 tickets for the second annual event, will be available up to and including the day of the tour. The event runs from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Highland Lakes is located between Seven Mile and Eight Mile roads, east of Northville Road.

Don and Rayda Warren launched the tour last year to raise money to remove and replace diseased ash trees on the condo development grounds. Approximately 200 trees have been removed so far, she said, with another 100 slated to go this year.

Tour day Saturday, visitors to the end-unit on Lagoon owned by Smith, Dermanelian and Gildersleeve will be able to view their numerous custom carpentry improvements during the nine years they have owned it. Contractors converted the lower level to a family room, bedroom suite complete with oversized bathtub, and extensive storage space.

"We all have our own space," Smith said. "That's what's nice."

The condos in the 30-plus-year old development are approximately 1,400 square feet, Warren said, counting the main and upper floor.

"It's like she has her own apartment here," Warren said. "Look at how they've utilized all the space here."

"The whole idea of the tour is not only seeing the decor, but seeing what you can do with the smaller space."

Through the home, the trio incorporated an eggplant/cream/moss color scheme in window treatments, wallpaper, furniture and accessories. The main floor encom-

"They've done a lot of work in this place," Warren said.

The Highland Lakes development is a great place to live, Smith said. "All ages enjoy this place. I love the pool. There's the clubhouse, the tennis courts."

She pointed to the grassy area stretching from the front doors to Swan Harbor Lake. "You have all this lawn and you don't have to take care of it."

Presented by Michael S. Rowe, M.D., F.A.C.P., C.C.R.I.

ALLERGIES ON THE MOVE

Moving to a new city or state can present unique challenges for allergy sufferers. To make the transition a smooth one, find out as much as possible about your new locale. Certain allergens are more common in certain conditions. For example, some molds and dust mites thrive in damper areas, while some pollens are more prevalent in dry climates. Cold, dry air can exacerbate asthma symptoms. It also helps to learn how environmental factors like the presence of chemical fumes and industrial plants or significant air pollution may affect allergies. Once you've gathered the facts about your new location, discuss management strategies with your allergist. He or she may suggest adjustments in medication and refer you to a new allergist.

When you require the care of an allergist, or if you would like further information about today's topic, call the ALLERGY AND ASTHMA CENTER OF MICHIGAN. We provide outstanding care for your allergy and asthma problems, utilizing the newest treatments and medications. For an appointment call (248) 473-6400. Juggler and comedian Tim Salisbury entertains a group at the Northville District Library by juggling three bowling balls. Salisbury visited the library's summer reading program participants last Thursday afternoon.

Wacky reading

Flying bowling balls end library summer program

By Victoria Sadlocha
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Only at the Northville District Library was a man seen last week balancing a bowling ball from a plunger straight out of his head.

The fanciful juggling and comedic routines from entertainer Tim Salisbury were part of the library's End-of-Summer-Reading-Program party held at the downtown library Thursday, July 29.

Northville resident Iain Kilpatrick became part of the show when he attempted to catch marshmallows in his mouth thrown by Salisbury.

Kilpatrick participated in the library's teen summer reading program for the second year.

"I like to read and there are prizes, and I just like to participate in it," he said.

The home-schooled student said his favorite books are fiction, history and some biography. His favorite read while participating in the summer program was "A Walk to Remember" by Nicholas Sparks.

All three of Northville parent Judy Danaher's children - Ian, Kailey and Sean - attended the library's youth summer reading program.

"It is the best reading program," Danaher said. "I think it is just a good incentive to keep the kids reading and it keeps them busy during the summer. You really don't take a vacation from reading and reading should be enjoyable."

Dorie Freebury, head of youth services for the Northville District Library, said this year 747 children signed up for summer reading programs, up 49 enrollees from last year.

"That is a record breaker for us," Freebury said. "We couldn't do it without the support of the Friends of the Northville District Library."

Throughout the season, the youth and teen reading programs boasted entertaining programs, prizes and plenty of hearty reading material.

The annual programs begin in June and run through the end of July.

After Salisbury's performance, children ranging in age from preschool to 13 paraded outside for a picnic of treats.

'Disaster' relief available for unemeployed workers

Workers in 19 Michigan counties who became temporarily or permanently unemployed in the wake of storms that hit the state in late May have until Aug. 11, 2004, to get in their applications for federal unemployment aid.

On June 30, the federal government included Wayne and Oakland counties as disaster areas.

Federal Disaster Unemployment Assistance is available for those who worked in or were scheduled to begin work in any of the affected counties but were unable to work because of the disaster.

DUA applications and instructions are available on UIA's website at www.michigan.gov/uiia or by calling the agency's TRA/Special Programs Unit at its toll-free phone number 1-866-241-0152-between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. on weekdays.

To be eligible for DUA, a worker cannot be entitled to state unemployment benefits and must meet one of the following criteria. As a direct result of the disaster, the worker:

- is unemployed

- is unable to reach the place of work

- was to have started work, which is no longer available, or is unable to reach the new job

- has become the breadwinner or major support for the household, because the head of the household died as a result of the disaster, or

- cannot work because of a disaster-incurred injury.

The minimum weekly DUA benefit for full-time workers is $146 and the maximum is $362. Part-time workers will be entitled to a reduced amount based on earnings. Eligible DUA claims resulting from the disaster will be retroactively payable from the week ending May 29, 2004, the first full week of potential unemployment following the disaster.

Four other counties — Eaton, Muskegon, Saginaw and Washtenaw — were recently added to the disaster declaration and became DUA eligible this week.

Workers in these four counties have until Aug. 25 to apply for DUA.

SENIOR LIFE

Northville Record

First official facility rentals hit the senior center books

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

This October, a local family will be able to boast hosting the first ever wedding reception in the new Northville Senior Community Center.

The parents of the Northville bride recently met with parks and recreation director Traci Sincok to finalize plans for the gathering of friends and family in the facility unveiled to the public earlier this month.

And that's just the beginning. Several individuals and organizations have booked events since the recreation staff began taking reservations July 6, Sincok said.

Rates are based on the number of rooms needed, the length of the event and whether the renter is a community resident. A Northville person hosting a six-hour special event in the banquet room would pay $700, including furniture set-up, take down and service pantry use, for example.

Rental income is key to making the center operation self-sufficient. The City of Northville and Northville Township equally shared half the $2.9 million expense of completely renovating and expanding the Northville Public Schools-owned building. The township loaned the remaining half of the project cost to the shared recreation department, which oversees the joint senior program.

The recreation staff is charged with marketing and scheduling the meeting rooms, living room, banquet room and gym contained in the 303 W. Main Street building. That plan includes providing handouts to local churches, caterers, popular wedding site Mill Race Historical Village, and the Northville Area Chamber of Commerce.

"We want to make sure we saturate the local area first," Sincok said.

"The people that have rented so far have already seen the building," she said. The task ahead is continuing to get the word out that the facility is now available.

In addition to the wedding reception, Sincok said bookings include an upcoming birthday party, holiday party, employee Christmas party and senior seminar. During the weekend of the July 3 grand opening at the center, the staff distributed more than 300 brochures describing the rental options.

Promotional materials point out the proximity to several downtown churches and Mill Race. The brochure also details facility features:

- The banquet room accommodates groups up to 120, with room for an additional 50 people when the adjacent living room is rented.

- Special event rental includes use of a service pantry outfitted with a food warming unit, microwave, refrigerator and ice machine.

- Alcoholic beverages may be served by obtaining proper permits.

- A large stage with a hardwood floor can be used for entertainment.

Already this month, several new recreation programs commenced in the new setting. The goal is to fill every room every day, Sincok said.

For a complete listing of rental rates and rules, contact the recreation department at (248) 349-0203, ext. 1401.

Seniors enjoying new facility

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

The July 16 showing of "Calendar Girls" drew the largest crowd ever for a senior center movie.

Nearly 40 people took a seat at the new Northville Senior Community Center, said senior adult service coordinator Sue Koivula. As regular activities in recent weeks shifted to the new Main Street location, first-time visitors continue to express awe at their new surroundings, she said.

Traci Sincok, director of the parks and recreation department, which oversees the senior program, said the facility is being received the way the expansion planners hoped it would be.

"When the women came out of the movie, they were all signing up for programs," Sincok said. "They praised the comfort of the chairs."

"It's snowballing," she said. "They're feeling comfortable in the space. This is what it's supposed to be."

Space constraints at the former senior center limited the number of activities, Sincok said. The well-attended yoga class that started two weeks ago is an example of the new center's potential.

"They feel comfortable lying on the floor in that building where they didn't feel that way in the old building," she said.

Other upcoming activities planned include:

- Aug. 4: Fashion Show presented by VanDam's of Northville. Tickets still are available at the senior center. The $7 cost for the 11 a.m. show includes a catered lunch.

- Aug. 10: Forum on the changes in the Medicare Act. Representatives from the senior center, metrodetroitseniors.com, Senior Alliance and Schoolcraft College will provide free information on how local seniors will be affected by changes in the prescription drug discount card, Koivula said. They will answer questions from 1 to 3 p.m.

- Ongoing programs: Tai Chi, foot reflexology, massage therapy, strength training, TOPS (take pounds off sensibly), cards, Friday flicks and line dancing.

The Northville Senior Newsletter, a monthly publication that details all the center's activities, trips and services, is available at the city hall, township hall, the library, and senior center, or by mail for $7 per year. For information, call (248) 349-4140.

The Northville Senior Advisory Council, which for the second time held its monthly meeting in the new center, July 15 discussed several aspects of the new center's operation. Among their conclusions:

- More handicapped parking spaces will be added behind the Main Street building, accessible from Cady Street.

- The dedicated brick program for a $100 donation will continue through Oct. 1.

- The departure of Ted Tucker creates a vacancy on the advisory council to be filled by a city resident.

Like much of life, make time for exercise

People often express amazement when they learn that I missed only two broadcasts in my 54-year career as a professional sportscaster, while also writing a couple of books, a weekly newspaper column and dozens of songs recorded by artists such as Mitch Ryder and B.J. Thomas.

They're always quick to ask how I did it, how I found the time. I didn't. I made the time. I still do. Though I retired last year, I'm still writing columns. I'm doing baseball vignettes for the Fox network. I speak to groups across the country. I'm a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan. Who knows? I might even write another book.

While time is important, good health is even more crucial. So I'm always on the lookout for ways to have more of both. There's really no ideal time to exercise. It's up to you to decide when to make time for exercise. And need I remind you: there's no time like the present.

And please remember to take care of your health before it's longgggg gone!

Ernie Harwell, "the voice of the Detroit Tigers" for more than four decades, retired after 55 years behind a major league microphone. Today, at age 86, Ernie's days are filled with serving as a health and fitness advocate for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, public appearances, writing, traveling and taking long walks with "Miss Lulu," his wife of more than 60 years. His latest book, a collection of his baseball columns entitled "Life After Baseball," is available at local bookstores or by calling 1-800-245-5082.

City residents react to council's firm stand on dispatch decision

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

City activists are going to be knocking on their neighbors' doors in the next two weeks in an attempt to gauge sentiment toward City Council action they called out-of-touch with constituent priorities.

The action: approval of contracts for Northville Township to provide public safety lock-up and dispatch service to the city.

The Northville Volunteer League will collect signatures leading up to meetings of the council Aug. 16 and the township Board of Trustees Aug. 19, said group spokesman Larry Parks. Leaders of the neighboring community that night are expected to discuss ratifying contracts the council approved July 26.

During the public-comment portion of the meeting Monday, Parks led the council through the citizen group's rationale for opposing the plan. While the city's dispatch call rate will remain relatively static, he said, the township's will continue to grow.

Even though the city's percentage contribution to the township's dispatch budget is capped, it likely will result in considerable payments down the road.

The five-year resident also said the volunteer group could provide solicit grassroots support for a millage increase dedicated to public safety. Funds raised by a special tax could be used to properly staff and equip the current city dispatch operation, he said.

Going forward

Despite councilman Tom Swigan's motion to rescind the previous week's action, Mayor Christopher Johnson and other council members opted to move forward. Several council members restated their support for the plan to shift the dispatch operation and lock-up to Northville Township police headquarters.

"It's not just about the money," said councilman Jerry Mittman. The township dispatch system of two people on duty all the time will mean equal or better service, he said.

As he had at previous meetings, the mayor said contracting dispatch services was not foreshadowing the departure of the police and fire departments. Dispatch is one area where the city can reduce expenses while maintaining the level of service for city residents, he said.

"I don't think it's as great a risk as your group thinks it's going to be," said Councilman Kevin Hartshorne.

In response to a question, Mayor Pro-Tem CarolAnn Ayers said the city's current dispatch record would serve as a baseline for measuring the contracted level of service. She said the council would monitor the system via monthly reports. "We need to have any reports of any problems at all, then work to resolve them," she said.

Not over yet

Volunteer league co-founder Stephanie Flynn said the consensus of residents she has talked to perceive contracting out an in-house service as a loss for the city. "It's like we're closing down one aspect of our enterprise," she said. "We're willing to even fund it. You won't even let us buy the business."

Some of the audience members signed the group's sheets as they departed Monday night's council meeting. "People are calling us, e-mailing us, telling us they would support a recall effort," said Kathi Tarrant-Parks.

The volunteers' door-to-door campaign in recent weeks has acquainted them with people who support a special election to impose a tax to maintain the current level of service and/or oust the city leaders who agreed to the sign the contracts, Parks said.

"We're still deciding on strategy," Parks said Monday.

The volunteers also have talked to an attorney about the option of seeking an amendment to the city charter that would require public safety funding as the first priority, Flynn said. "It would stop them from jobbing it out."

"The Northville Volunteer League will pursue one or more of these alternatives to ensure public safety is preserved."

Township officials welcome city resident dispatch concerns, credit public turnout

By Kim Kovel
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Six Northville Township officials were present at last week's Northville City Council meeting when members approved the contracting of city public dispatch services to the township.

Township Police Chief John Werth credits the dissenting city citizens, but also emphasizes the quality of township-based dispatch.

"It was obviously a group that was well-informed," Werth said. "From a township standpoint, we've made this a very good contract to benefit both the city and the township. We're going to give them the same service that we give our residents here. There's going to be no difference."

The next step is approaching the township board for review and recommendations at its meeting on Thursday, Aug. 19. The plan will likely be implemented between Sept. 1 and Oct. 1, said Werth.

"It's not a done deal now," Werth said. "Upon their approval, we're both — myself and (City Police) Chief Petres — we have a lot of ground work we have to get done."

The job will involve realigning alarm and phone systems to the township and the two dispatchers coming from city to township will undergo new training to utilize the township's computer aided dispatch program.

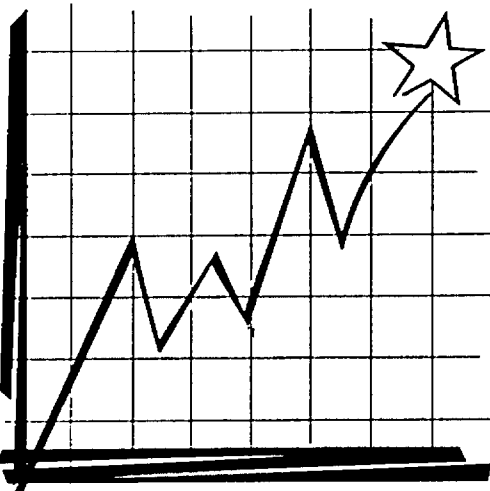

Township Manager Chip Snider said he has "a great respect for residents who voice their opinion," but wishes the "already existing cooperation" between city and township would have been stated.

"I think it would have relieved some of the anxiety of the residents," Snider said. "I walked away (Monday) night thinking I should have said it."

Werth and Snider noted that the contract allows the township to back out. However, both indicated that this isn't in the cards, particularly since the township has held off on hiring new dispatchers for months.

"Going back's not an option for us," Snider said. "We need those dispatchers. Based on the lack of enthusiasm from those residents, we've got a tough crowd to please. We have rededicated ourselves today that we cannot fail at this endeavor. This has to be solid."

Officials hold preliminary meeting with new owners of former psychiatric hospital

Movin' In

Move-in for the new township fire station at Millennium Park — off of Six Mile Road between Sheldon and Beck — is finally complete.

City maintenance officials and fire fighters spent last Friday transporting files and equipment from their old location on Seven Mile Road, west of Beck. Chief Bill Zhmendak said everything was expected to be organized by yesterday.

"Everybody just chipped in and we spent the day moving," Zhmendak said. A team of about 20 worked from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. Friday. The weekend was spent putting things away, and working out bugs with the phone and heat systems.

"Now it's trying to find out where everything goes," Zhmendak said. "This building represents the professionalism of this department. It's perfect for us."

He's looking to host training sessions in the new facility's 50-person training room. The soonest may be this month's hazardous materials meeting for Western Wayne County.

The move-in was close to the most recently announced date, July 26. The original completion date was April.

Car wash coming

A new car wash may be headed for the southwest corner of Six Mile and Northville roads.

The planning commission last Tuesday looked at a preliminary site plan proposed by Jim and Liz Thomson for the "Northville Auto Wash." If approved, it will sit between Mark's Small Engines and the Six and Park Party Store on what is now a gravel lot.

The Thomson family also owns the Choo Choo Car Wash at Northville and Seven Mile roads.

In reviewing the preliminary plan for the automatic tunnel wash, the commission wanted additions ranging from windows on the south side of the building to a "bail-out" lane. The plan was approved with conditions.

Various "special land use" considerations, including traffic and blend with the surrounding area, were tabled until the final plan is supplied. That could be as soon as Aug. 31's commission meeting.

Boots brim with funds

This past Saturday, fire fighters from Northville Township's Fire Fighters International Association Fire Fighters Local #3961 teamed up with the Muscular Dystrophy Association to collect money in the "Fill-the-Boot" campaign.

Eight fire fighters in full uniform were at the Farmer Jack parking lot at Six Mile and Haggerty roads from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. Joining 74 for other locals in their efforts, the fire fighters collected and raised almost $800 in their large work boots.

On Feb. 12, the fire fighters will host their annual Valentine's Day Dinner Dance, which also benefits the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It will be held at the Italian American Banquet Center in Livonia. For more information, call Dan Dipple or Steve Leach at (248) 348-5807.

REI Reacquainted

Four township officials met briefly last Wednesday morning to speak with representatives from Real Estate Interests Group, Inc., the winning bidder of the state-owned Northville Psychiatric Property. They snagged the nearly 415 acres for $55 million back in June.

"It was just a matter of reacquainting everybody with different roles people in the township play (and) what their team consisted of," said Don Weaver, township director of public services. "They're planning on purchasing the property from the state."

A representative Schbstak Brothers & Company also was present, according to Weaver. Real Estate Interests will be working on a preliminary site plan to present to the planning commission and, ultimately, board of trustees for approval.

Real Estate Interests must complete the transaction with the State by Sept. 30.

Studying together

The land sandwiched between Meijer and the Meadowbrook Golf Club was revisited last Tuesday by planning commissioners in a study session.

Talon Development, Inc. has proposed putting in multi-residential housing, such as condos, on the almost 16-acre plot at Eight Mile and Haggerty roads. This would require rezoning.

"I'd be inclined to stick with something that is single family homes," said commissioner Kent Anderson. The others made similar statements, agreeing that the developer should meet with residents of the two present homes to work out something compatible.

Award search not so pretty

Last month, the township board's beautification committee ventured out to find winners for their annual business beautification awards. Victory was not theirs.

According to clerk and committee member Sue Hillebrand, virtually none of the three dozen-plus businesses was worthy — particularly those along the Six Mile Road Corridor, such as TCF Bank. Disheveled landscaping and stringent township requirements were her primary complaints.

"We were quite, quite distressed," Hillebrand said. "I think there's too much fussy landscaping (and) too much maintenance for what they're willing to do."

She cited changes to the approval process as a possible solution, but consented. "We're not their mothers." The topic is one to be discussed at a joint meeting of the board of trustees, planning commission, zoning board of appeals and beautification committee set tentatively for Thursday, Aug. 26.

Pedaling toward wishes

Last Friday, Northville Township resident David Churchill took off on a 300-mile bike journey with several of his coworkers from Clark Hill PLC law firm in Detroit.

The members of team "Clark Hill" were among the more than 400 cyclists partaking in this year's 16th annual Wish-A-Mile Bicycle tour fund-raiser, which brings in money for the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Michigan.

After cycling through 10 counties, the group returned Milford on Aug. 1. Clark also participated in the event last year.

The rep's staff is in Staff from the district office of Rep. Thaddeus McCotter (R-Livonia), who represents Northville Township and the City of Northville, will host office hours for citizens of the two municipalities.

This will happen at the Northville District Library, located at 212 West Cady St., on Tuesday, Aug. 10, from 10 a.m. until 12 p.m.

McCotter and his staff can provide assistance with issues involving social security, Medicare, military and veterans' affairs, small business concerns, student loan repayments and other concerns. McCotter will be running to maintain his seat in November.

All of us have received sweepstakes offers in the mail, some of them promising the moon. Before you enter another "celestial" sweepstakes or send in your money in response to a "cosmic" telemarketing offer, take a moment to evaluate the transportation.

Ask yourself these questions:

• Do I have to pay to receive the "prize" or enter a sweepstakes? You should never have to pay to receive a prize or enter a sweepstakes contest. If you do, it's illegal.

• Am I a "guaranteed" winner or told "no risk is involved"? If you're told you're a guaranteed prize winner or that there's not risk involved, be skeptical.

• Is the lottery offer from a foreign country legal? Any lottery that involves a foreign country and is conducted through the mail is illegal.

• Charity or sweepstakes — or both? "By returning your entry form, you could be the winner of $20,000 cash!" These are charity sweepstakes. Legitimate charities don't ask for donation in conjunction with a contest. The problem is many phony charities use names that sound or look like respected organizations.

• Do I have to give any personal or financial information? Don't give your financial information. Social Security number, credit card, or bank account number, to callers you don't know. If it's a reputable

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the home towns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Congratulations: let the work begin

Politicians are highly motivated prior to an election.

Everyone becomes a "fiscal conservative, mindful of the budget," sometimes despite their own inability to cite with any specificity the size of their own municipal revenues, expenditures or fund balance.

Eager to serve the public and move forward agendas they deem important, politicians at both the state and local levels reach out to voters with ambitious plans and idealistic philosophies. Many ideas sound good, laudable: managed growth, consensus-building, financial prudence.

But truth is delivered with action, not slogans and election year promises.

Local politicians, for instance, have tough jobs ahead of them. Officials must continue to wrestle with realities borne of an ever-shrinking state budget.

In Northville Township, challenger Christopher Roesen — who was Tuesday's top primary election vote-getter — will later this year join incumbents Marv Gans, Brad Werner and Marjorie Banner as board trustees. (There were no Democrats running in this year's race.) They will team with unopposed incumbents Supervisor Mark Abbo, Treasurer Dick Henningsen and Clerk Sue Hillebrand.

The goal, as specified by each candidate prior to Tuesday's election: ease the township's top-heavy reliance on a residential tax-base, cooperate with neighbors such as Livonia, Novi and Plymouth, stick to the township's master plan, especially as it pertains to the former state hospital along Seven Mile Road, and work together as a team.

Impressive goals for a 24,000-resident community rushing headlong toward a planned 38,000-resident buildout. Add on a Community Park project now facing $600,000 worth of unexpected costs — and still without long-term operational funding — and what residents now deserve is prompt action, forward thinking and realistic answers.

Congratulations to Tuesday's winners, unopposed or not. Candidates did a fine job communicating relevant messages to a public often too hurried to be concerned with such matters.

And thank you to township trustee Shirley Klockenga, who lost Thursday's primary. Her community service hardly started with being a township board member, nor do we expect it to end there. For that we are grateful.

We hope each elected official will take seriously the promises they made to a public whose tax dollars will now pay them. Let the hard work continue post haste.

A good start would be picking up leftover political signs.

Construction concerns

Our family has lived on Docksey Road in Northville Township for over 25 years and consider ourselves fortunate to be a part of this community. When local construction projects have arisen, however, we have experienced a distinct lack of communication between Northville Township's administrative departments and the home owners directly affected by these projects.

Most recently, upon returning from a short vacation last Thursday, we were unpleasantly surprised to find a row of stakes and flags that ran through our front yard as well as those of our neighbors. After asking several neighbors and a construction worker, we eventually learned that the township was beginning construction of a sanitary sewer along Docksey, a project that would begin on July 26 and last at least three weeks.

It is our opinion that Northville Township knew of this construction far enough in advance to have notified us by writing several weeks prior to the beginning of construction. Since Northville Township consistently mails out property tax bills two months in advance, the people who pay those taxes should be informed a reasonable amount of time in advance of any projects that will affect their property. The fact that we only received this information at the last minute through second-hand sources speaks of an inconsiderate disregard for the township's residents.

Kerry questions

Well Senator Kerry, you have been given many, many chances to promote yourself and have taken advantage of them.

Everyone in this country should know by now that you did something brave when you were in the service. Good for you. But do you know that real heroes do not brag or continually bring up a brag act, they are too noble.

You have had 20 years in the senate to show us your strength and accomplishments, by the way what are they? How many times did you vote for a tax increase? How many times were you absent or fail to vote on important issues?

In four years, will wars cease, will everyone be gainfully employed, will the health care problem be solved? I think not. It takes more than a word from one person to accomplish the "biggies", but the integrity and honesty of the many

For those not aware of the situation, parish leadership has filed a lawsuit for financial damages against the City of Northville and the individual members of the planning commission. The damages are supposedly for delays in construction (of the 77,000 square-foot school) and attorney fees, but parishioners are aware that the building fund is millions of dollars away from the value that Father Kerner told us we must reach before construction can even start.

So this is not about financial damages. This is only a scheme to put pressure on our planning commission for their upcoming decision. The city's insurance should protect them from any negative judgment, as unlikely as that is, but they are still facing depositions and time at trial that would disrupt their lives and their livelihoods. Whoever is directing this action, I presume is counting on this to intimidate our planning commission into rubber-stamping whatever parish school advocates put in front of them. Should the planning commission not make the "right" decision, the member of the board of zoning appeals, facing the same fate, will presumably give a lot of thought to what OLV will do to them.

Our commission and board members are volunteers. They are not deserving of such mistreatment simply to be pawns in the crosshairs of this plot. It would be one thing if there were damages and they were responsible for them, but this is not the case. It seems to be a legal maneuver intended to pressure their decision.

Everyone should see this for exactly what it is. It is not about "justice," "legal rights" or any such thing. It is about intimidation and harassment of nine Northville citizens who volunteer on our planning commission. It is a rotten attempt to run roughshod over the City of Northville.

As a member of a city board myself, I urge the City of Northville to respond to this indefensible act in the strongest possible manner. To do otherwise is to invite mass exodus from volunteer boards, which might all face similar fates for a decision unpopular to special interests with unlimited funds.

OLV leadership has made much about being part of "the neighborhood" and treating its neighbors with respect, yet the suit for damages against these citizen volunteers is completely unjustifiable, offensive and disrespectful.

No matter what happens now, it will be years before the parish recovers from these shortsighted actions. I am appalled at the situation and I wonder who has brought my parish to this state of affairs?

Shame on Our Lady of Victory

I have been a parishioner at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church for almost 18 years. Now, for the first time ever, I am ashamed to admit it. The recent actions of my own parish leadership are ethically and morally indefensible.

'Our Lady' out of line

Our Lady of Victory has filed a lawsuit against the City of Northville and the nine individual citizen-volunteers who make up the planning commission. Supposedly, the suit alleges significant "damages" due to increase construction costs and attorney fees. The alleged "damages" could be over $1,000,000. These "damages" presumably have been caused only since July 20, when the planning commission

Michigan's future as clear as its prized water

Want to really understand the scope of the fresh water problem facing our state and this planet? Take a one-gallon jug. Fill it with water. That represents all the water on earth, fresh and salt, including all the glaciers and ice packs.

Next, fill just one tablespoon with water from the jug. That represents all the fresh water on earth. Eighteen percent of that tablespoon represents the proportion of all the fresh water on earth found in the Great Lakes.

And fresh water in the Great Lakes represents 95 percent of the total fresh water found in the United States.

If nothing else, this will give you an idea about why people outside Michigan are lusting after our water. Farmers across the plains states who for years have been irrigating their fields by drawing down the great underground Ogallala aquifer to dangerously low levels would like nothing better than to divert our fresh water to their farms.

Phil Power
CHAIRMAN, HOMETOWN COMMUNICATIONS

Developers in Arizona drool at the idea of a big pipeline filled with Great Lakes fresh water for their ritzy lawns and golf courses in the desert. Heck, some years back a Canadian firm wanted to fill big container ships with our water to sell at vast profit to customers in the Far East.

These days, the benchmark price for crude oil tops $40 a barrel.

Fifty years from now, I wouldn't be surprised to see pure fresh water going for more than that. Up to now our water has defined our quality of life, far more than most of us realize; in the future, it almost certainly will represent our most valuable economic resource.

For years and years, the governors of the Great Lakes states and Canadian provinces have been trying to figure out how to protect our water from raids by other states or, more to the point, by the feds. (I'm serious. Remember, every time a new census shows population shifting from the Midwest to the arid West and the thirsty South, we lose votes in Congress. Michigan and Ohio together had 43 congressmen in 1970. That number has shrunk to 35, and the other Great Lakes states have lost more. In the coming fight over water, political clout will be everything.)

So it was good news last month that Great Lakes governors have agreed on how to prevent massive water diversions. The plan would require unanimous approval of all eight governors to allow withdrawal from the Great Lakes basin of more than 1 million gallons of water a day over a 120-day period. Anybody wanting to pump more than 5 million gallons of water over a 120-day period for use even within the Great Lakes basin would have to get approval from six of the eight governors.

Announced by the Council of Great Lakes Governors, the plan would have to be ratified by legislatures in all eight states, followed by approval by Congress. Getting approval from Ontario and Quebec wouldn't have the force of U.S. law, but it would provide international approval for policy principles governing water withdrawal.

Publication of the plan has been greeted by widespread approval. Ken DeBeaussart, director of Michigan's Office of the Great Lakes, told me it's "a significant step to get regional cooperation for today and for generations to come."

Congressman Bart Stupak, D-Menominee, who represents the Upper Peninsula and much of the northern part of the Lower Peninsula, said, "We must have a final agreement that includes tough standards and strict review before water can be withdrawn from the Great Lakes. The agreement must also have clear requirements that as close to 100 percent of the water drawn from the Great Lakes be returned."

The next step to implement the plan is for each Great Lakes state to develop its own scheme for monitoring and regulating water withdrawals. Michigan has no such plan, although both Gov. Jennifer Granholm and the Legislature are talking about it. Sort of.

Earlier this month, the League of Conservation Voters called on the legislature to pass law that would regulate large-scale water withdrawals in Michigan before the end of this year. The League distributed a Pledge to Protect Michigan's Water, asking all legislators to sign it. In the Senate, all 16 members of the Democratic caucus signed.

None of the 22 Republicans did so. Instead, they signed a letter explaining they agreed on the need for a law regulating water withdrawals, but wanted a longer time frame in which to pass legislation, after a groundwater study is completed. In the House, 51 members signed the pledge (46 Democrats and five Republicans, including Rep. John Stewart of Plymouth.)

Looks to me as though this issue, which has overwhelming public support, risks getting sidetracked by partisan politics. The legislature would be well advised to get cracking on this, as time is running out and Michigan has both the most to lose and the most to gain.

It should not be beyond the capability of our legislators to craft a bipartisan plan that sets clear standards that the business and farming community can understand, that the environmental community can support and that the state can enforce. And it should be the duty of every responsible citizen to urge them to do so. The cause is Michigan's future, and if we blow this, we may not have any.

Sadly, Schwarz a dying breed: Republican moderate

John "Joe" Schwarz is a sometimes gruff physician from Battle Creek; a Navy veteran of Vietnam who served his hitch and then went back to Indochina with the CIA. He is a lifelong Republican and a Roman Catholic who strongly supports the Iraq war—and calls himself a "classical conservative."

He is a decent, principled man who, by common consent, knew more about higher education than anyone else in the Michigan State Senate before term limits forced him to leave office last year.

Yet in certain factions of today's GOP, Schwarz is seen as — and being smeared as — a dangerous left-winger whose election to Congress would plunge the nation into a moral sewer, if not outright ruin. This would be hilarious — if it wasn't unspeakably outrageous.

On Tuesday, voters in Michigan's Seventh

Jack Lessenberry
EDITORIAL VICE PRESIDENT, HOMETOWN COMMUNICATIONS

Congressional District chose from six candidates in a Republican primary to replace U.S. Rep. Nick Smith, R-Addison, who is retiring.

Virtually every newspaper in the state strongly endorsed Schwarz, saying that in terms of experience and ability, there is no contest.

U.S. Rep. Fred Upton, R-St. Joseph, from the neighboring district to the west, agrees. "He is a guy with real experience who can step into the job and be a good voice for all those who live in the district," he said.

Yet polls showed the race a dead heat, in large part because most the other candidates have venomously attacked Schwarz. One television ad shows two male figures holding hands atop a wedding cake.

"This is Joe Schwarz's idea of marriage," a narrator claims.

The ad was endorsed by the campaign of State Rep. Gene DeRossett, a self-described "blue-collar" Republican from Manchester.

"Our pro-life, pro-Second Amendment, pro-family message is spreading throughout the district," he proclaims in a torrent of e-mails sent to supporters.

But DeRossett's ad is a lie. Joe Schwarz is against gay marriage; he voted for the Michigan Defense of Marriage Act in 1996, and says he will support federal legislation opposing gay marriage.

"My opponents know that the only way they even have a chance of beating me is by distorting my record and telling lies about me. It won't work," said a calmly fuming Schwarz.

Meanwhile, another opponent, Tim Walberg, a fundamental preacher, also charged that Schwarz supports gay marriage, and throws in the charge — equally false — that the front-runner supports giving drivers' licenses to illegal immigrants.

What is going on here? Simply, what seems to be the problem is that Joe Schwarz is indeed a conservative, a man in the mold of his good friend U.S. Sen. John McCain.

What he is not is a right-wing ideologue. He dislikes abortion — but having seen the results of back-alley butchery, thinks it needs to be "safe, legal and rare." Dr. Schwarz doesn't like gay marriage either, but doesn't think that is an issue that properly belongs in the Constitution.

He supports gun ownership — but thinks the idea that people should be able to pack military-style assault weapons is just plain nuts. He is a fiscal conservative, but believes Michigan needs to spend the money needed to keep its great universities, primarily the University of Michigan, world-class.

He doesn't like socialized medicine, but thinks this nation needs to do something sensible to provide health care for those who have none.

Thirty years ago, his conservative credentials wouldn't have been questioned. But this year, many of his rivals seem ready to read him out of the Republican Party. Ironically, a Schwarz defeat — the latest polls show the most likely winner will not be the candidates doing the most to bash him, but Brad Smith, son of the current congressman.

Smith, a 43-year-old attorney, was running close to even with Schwarz, based apparently solely on name recognition, since he has no prior record in politics or government on his own.

The winner of the Republican primary will be an all-but-certain winner in November; the district has a heavy GOP base. If Schwarz should survive, conservatives will likely unite around a primary opponent two years from now.

All this is saddening to what remains of the once-dominant moderate wing of the Michigan GOP, including former Gov. William Milliken and his long-time political advisor, Joyce Braithwaite-Brickley.

"The party apparatus became a largely religious, not a political organization," said Braithwaite-Brickley, now a columnist and the widow of Milliken's lieutenant governor. "I prefer to choose my own church."

She won't vote for President Bush, and I can't imagine that Milliken will either. But both still call themselves Republicans.

Why? "Sure, it would be easier to quit the party. But the core of Lincoln's Party is worth fighting for," she stoutly maintains. The election results Tuesday may hint whether she stands even a fighting chance.

Family support helps put any goal within reach

Sam Eggleston is the Northville Record's sports writer. For the past several weeks he has led the Record's public fitness challenge as part of the ongoing "No Stoppin' Northville" campaign (www.wtr-wheel.com).

To date, he has lost nearly 20 pounds. His goal is to lose 150 pounds during the next three years.

I've spent so much of my time thanking the Water Wheel and my friends at the club and away from it for helping me get to this point in my weight loss that I've forgotten to thank the people that are near and dear to my family — my family.

Though the Water Wheel and the staff there has helped me find the path to my weight loss goals and been there to assist me in my quest, my family has been there every step of the way and holding my hand for guidance.

Sam Eggleston
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

Though my friends have pushed me to keep going even when the way seems to be clouding up, it's my family who has shined the light on the path to help me truly find my way.

Though everyone who has given me any words of encouragement and help along the way deserves my heart-felt thanks, it's my family who deserves the most heart-felt thanks.

I want to thank my wife, Christie, for keeping me on the straight and narrow when she could have easily let me slip off onto the path of temptation. I also want to thank my daughter, Shaylyn, for being the motivation that drives me each and every day.

Family ties

In my column two weeks ago I mentioned how my main support system, my wife and daughter, went away for three weeks on a vacation to visit my in-laws. That's very true. They went eight hours away to the Upper Peninsula and I didn't see either one of them from June 19 through July 10.

What I failed to mention was how each and every day Christie and Shaylyn would call and see how I was doing.

There were days I wasn't doing as well as I should have been. I was lazy at times when I needed to be energetic and I cheated at times when I should have been loyal to my plan and program.

Talking to them kept me going without much variation off the road to my ultimate goals. Shaylyn's sweet voice reminded me every day that when she got home we had to go to the park. I was determined not to go there and just sit on the bench and watch her play.

Speaking to my wife reminded me that we've been married nearly four years now and have been together longer. Through all the years she has supported me and guided me even when I wasn't sure if the choices I have made or the life decisions have been the right ones.

They've always been there for me and I would never have made it to the point where I am now if it hadn't been for them.

The guiding light

For anyone who has ever tried to lose weight — especially a significant amount — it's readily apparent how difficult the task can be. You have to labor to lose weight when gaining it is just so darn easy.

Want to gain a half a pound? No problem. Just sit around, eat two pizzas and you're well on your way.

What? You want to drop a half a pound? Oh, that's a different story. First, you need to reduce the amount of calories you intake in a day and you might as well add a few days of exercise and cardiovascular training while you're at it just to be safe. If you're lucky, you'll lose that half pound you're looking to drop.

Thankfully, I've dealt with this with plenty of support on my side. Christie makes sure I keep my calorie intake down by forcing me to stick to my menu. Shaylyn keeps me going by dragging me outside and hitting me with sticks — she calls that "playing."

If it weren't for family, I'd never be close to where I am now. Thanks to them, I'm starting to realize my goals.

Your family will be just as willing to help you out. Be it in helping you stay true to your diet plan or going to the gym to work out with you, someone is always willing to be the support you need. All you have to do is ask.

And if all else fails, offer to let them take you outside and play. I know plenty of people that would like to hit me with sticks.

Marquis director gives back to theatre where he began career

By Larissa Barlow
RECORD SPECIAL WRITER

Ernie Nolan first stepped into the Marquis Theatre when he was just a kid.

The young aspiring actor attended the historic playhouse's camps and appeared in its plays until high school.

Going off to the University of Michigan, Nolan returned to the theatre to teach before moving to New York, where he acted in several Off-Broadway shows.

Then, the actor took up directing and found himself back at the very place he started.

"I knew one day, someday, I would be involved (at the Marquis) again," Nolan said. "I still remember the people who guided me. They were a great influence on my work."

Nolan has been back the past three summers directing plays for the Marquis Theatre and teaching at the acting camp for kids.

RAGGEDY ANN & ANDY

When: 10:30 a.m. Aug. 6, 10-13, 17-20, 11 a.m. Aug. 7, 14, 21, 28. 2:30 p.m. Sept. 11, 12, 18, 19, 25, 26.
Tickets: $7.50
Where: Marquis Theatre, 135 E. Main St.
For more information, call (248) 349-8110.

This year, Nolan is the resident director, helming "Raggedy Ann & Andy" made up solely of child actors.

"A lot of the kids have done the camps in the past," Nolan said of his acting troop. "It's a cast of 15 and some of them play multiple roles."

Nolan beams when he talks about the kids he's helping discover acting like the Marquis Theatre teachers did for him. But not as much as theatre owner Inge Zayti does when she speaks of Nolan.

"He started when he was 8 years-old in my shows and camps," Zayti said. "He's now going to do my next three shows."

Miss Inge, as she is referred to by nearly all that know her, boasts about Nolan's success in the acting world, something Nolan seems all too proud of.

"To me, Miss Inge is timeless," he said. "She's somebody that has almost been a second mother to me."

The former Northville resident, who now resides in Chicago, is all too happy to give back to the community that set him onto his career path.

Nolan said he wants to foster the same support for the arts that he received when he was a kid.

"This theatre has always embraced a creative mindset," Nolan said. "It's always been a wonderful place."

And that wonder will continue if Nolan has anything to do about it. "Raggedy Ann & Andy," which opened August 3, is what he describes a "musical comedy romp" that gets the audience involved in the action.

"They will definitely need to help break a magic spell and they'll need to help hide the heroes from the bad guys," Nolan said smiling of the plans he has for this interactive musical.

It's obvious Nolan is extremely pleased with the performance of the children's play and his involvement with it.

For Nolan, it's a trip to his youth stepping into the theatre everyday. But now instead of being the student, he's the teacher.

"It's a little flashback," Nolan said as he glances around the lobby of the Marquis. "But the theatre still smells the same."

Larissa Barlow is a journalism student at Wayne State University and a Northville Record intern. She can be reached at (248) 349-1700.

Historic Mill Race Village

Historic Mill Race Village

In August of 1983 stakes were pounded into the ground as the foundation was laid for a blacksmith shop. It was the first reproduction building in the village. A re-creation of one operated on Main Street around the turn of the century by John Hirsch. Fran Gazlay, chairman of the building project, said they were building every one to save stones. He indicated it was going to require a vast supply of stones as the entire blacksmith shop was going to be fronted with cobblestone. The men who helped work on this project came to be known as the Stone Gang. They continue to meet here every Tuesday morning to help maintain the village. Come and meet them in person.

HEALTHY LIVING

No Stoppin' Northville set for Saturday

By Sam Eggleston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

According to studies, Metro Detroit has managed to land itself in a very greasy, sloppy situation — it is officially the fattest area in the fattest country. The simple truth is, people in the United States are obese. Detroit and the surrounding areas just happen to lead the list when it comes to the biggest of the big.

It's time to do something about it. That's where No Stoppin' Northville comes in. Following a call to action by Governor Jennifer Granholm, the Northville Parks and Recreation Department, St. Mercy's Hospital and the Water Wheel Health Club all combined forces to help Northville slim down.

"Obesity just recently eclipsed tobacco for health care costs," said David Cutchins, the community outreach manager for the Water Wheel. "I think that fact in itself is a staggering one."

And Cutchins, along with the rest of the founding members of the No Stoppin' Northville events, want to help the community beat that statistic. This Saturday, at the new Northville Senior Community Center, the second installment of No Stoppin' Northville will take place.

"This time we're focusing on getting people out and doing stuff to raise their activity levels," Cutchins said. "More importantly, we want to show them the different community resources they can use to increase their activity. It can be baseball, bike trails, walking or even swimming."

Those interested in partaking in the event can register early online or get more information by going to www.wtrwheel.com or by visiting Northville Parks and Recreation or the Water Wheel Health Club. Those who would rather wait until the day of the event can register early from 8-9 a.m. at the Senior Step it Up!

Step it Up is a part of a public fitness challenge. The Northville Record has accepted the challenge as part of the ongoing 'No Stoppin' Northville' challenge available to all Northville residents. To get involved, visit online at www.wtrwheel.com.

Center. Cost to register is $5 per person or $10 for a family. T-shirts are given out with the registrations.

The first event will start at 9 a.m. in the form of a timed walk. Participants will guess how long it will take them to finish a mile walk and then compete against their own time. Those who come the closest to finishing in their estimated time will be eligible for prizes.

There will also be a three-mile bike ride as well which works under the same guidelines.

No Stoppin' Northville will also include the appearance by some members of the Plymouth Whalers' hockey team as well as free bike helmets, free bike inspections and free food.

"Sizzling Sticks and Great Harvest Bread Company will be there," Cutchins said. "Both are excellent places to grab something to eat here in Northville."

The organizers of the event, which also include Schoolcraft College, the Northville Chamber of Commerce, Providence Hospital, Poise Pilates and Boisford Medical Clinic, will also provide a free program book that outlines the local resources in Northville.

The goal is to fight against the lifestyles that have pushed Americans into a life of leisure and convenience.

"My favorite line is from my grandfather, who said 'We don't even have to get out of our car to eat anymore,'" Cutchins said. "We have everything we need at our fingertips thanks to the internet and computers. Heck, we don't even have to walk from the gas pump to pay the attendant any more. That's what we're fighting against."

All proceeds from the event will be used to fund the next No Stoppin' Northville activity, which will be held in November.

Oakland County offers child immunizations

Keeping a child well is as important as receiving treatment when he or she is sick. Preventative care is quite different than "sick child care." This type of care is important because it allows the health care provider to review the child's growth and development, give shots, provide tests and exams and answer any of the parents' questions.

Oakland County Health Division's Child Health Clinics offer free well-care services for newborns to school age. Children must be enrolled in the program by two years of age and will receive the following from skilled Public Health nurses:

- Immunizations
- Height and weight measurements
- Physical examinations
- Hearing and vision screening
- Lab testing
- Growth and developmental testing
- Information on health and safety issues
- Guidance/referrals on behavioral, learning, and health problems

Child and well-care checkups are important because they give a full picture of the child's health. They go way beyond treating a baby with a fever or a child complaining of an earache. They help the parent look for and find any problems before they become serious," stated Mary White, Program Coordinator for Oakland County Health Division's Child Health Clinics.

Oakland County Health Division Child Health Clinics are offered at sites in Lake Orion, Pontiac, Southfield, and Walled Lake. Families without well-care coverage through their health insurance provider are eligible for this service.

Justin York specializes in major event styling

By Maureen Johnston - Staff Writer

Justin York specializes in up-dos. The day of Northville High School homecoming dance last year, the staff helped transform 48 students. "We have a staff that does amazing work," the owner said.

Partners Laurie York Anderson and Jackie Justin 10 years ago together purchased the 170 E. Main Street business. Today a team of 22 provides full salon services to a growing and loyal clientele from Northville, Plymouth and Novi communities. York Anderson said. "That works amazingly well. It's a very good mix. We love it."

"There is a broad diversity of personalities that accommodate all clientele."

We all learn from our innovation and creativity.

The owner complimented her 14 stylists' enthusiasm for staying up-to-date on the latest techniques in style and color. Her staff includes product specialists and instructors who travel to other metro-Detroit salons to share their expertise.

"We're very education-based. That is a lot of our belief system."

"You're really on the cutting edge when you have educators working for you."

York Anderson styles just one day a week, devoting the remainder of her time to the business of running the salon. "I love watching the stylists that come out of beauty school, as well as the apprentices, begin their career, bloom and evolve into a seasoned stylist. I also enjoy working with my experienced peers, some of which I've been with for many years."

Justin, familiar to regular patrons of the salon for 17 years, styles daily. The partners first met working alongside each other at the former Main Street Hair Design.

This oldest commercial building downtown was home to the Main Street Barbers before that. The current clientele is about even — men and women.

Watching patrons grow is part of the profession York Anderson said she enjoys. She described how she gained an entire family, starting with the husband, then wife. Through the years, their three children became patrons as well. The oldest daughter will be in high school this year. "I gave the little girl her first haircut. Then it will be her prom, then her wedding."

"That's what's awesome about this business. It really is."

The business thrives in the location right downtown. The owners and staff enjoy participating in community events, such as the Victorian Festival, Novi High School's prom fashion show and musicals, and Northville's Lighted Christmas Parade.

Salon hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays; 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Fridays, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays. For information, call (248) 349-2822

"Enjoy the Good Life"

HEAVEN IS A HALF-PIPE

Injury from heat can be avoided

By Sam Eggleston
SPORTS WRITER

The most dangerous aspect of practice any student athlete faces in the fall sports session isn't a hard hit or a crushing blow. It's the heat.

The best way to beat it? Be prepared.

As with any season involving high summer temperatures combined with intense physical training, athletes and coaches need to be aware of what it takes to stay ahead of the heat and what to do if problems do arise.

"The potential always exists for some kind of heat-related physical issues," said John R. Johnson, communications director for the Michigan High School Athletic Association. "The bottom line here is the hydration of athletes. It is an absolute necessity that water be available in unlimited quantities at all times during practices."

Local doctors agree. Dr. Marc Helzer, of the Medical Clinic of Northville, said heat injuries are extremely preventable.

"Mainly, heat injuries occur especially in young people," he said. "The reason they usually occur is because they start out dehydrated even before their practices begin."

Helzer pointed out that many teenagers prefer the taste of caffeinated beverages — like cola — over readily-available water.

"We were all teenagers once and we thought having one Big Gulp a day meant drinking all the liquid we needed," Helzer said. "It's not good if all they drink is Mountain Dew all day long."

Helzer said that he and many other doctors have seen cases of heat strokes even when kids weren't involved in physical activities. He also pointed out the recently-new development of athletes taking supplements of all shapes and sizes add an added dimension to the problem.

"If they're taking anything to lose weight or fat or to gain muscle they are also losing a lot of water because of them," he said. "These are products that I don't necessarily think young people should be taking any way. With supplements like creatine and the loss of water, heat injuries can quickly occur."

Athletes should be aware that a feeling of dizziness or weakness is one of the first signs of heat illnesses. Dehydration has already set in before an athlete already begins to feel thirsty. If any issue arises during practices, the athlete should ask for a break immediately.

"Don't be stubborn," Helzer said. "It can be such a serious thing that people have been known to pass away because of heat stroke and heat-related injuries. Only the athletes know when they're not feeling well and they can't let their ego get involved."

Coaches can offer a solution to the problem as well. Frequent breaks should be taken throughout the practice — at least once an hour — and athletes should be supervised and given adequate amounts of water.

"It's completely preventable," Helzer said of heat injury. "Breaks need to be taken and coaches need to be aware. If players are out in the sun in 90-plus degree weather then they should be drinking water and getting rest in the shade. Giving them a breather isn't as bad as the risk coaches are taking if they don't."

If players appear woozy, drunken or aren't responding in a normal matter, Helzer said action should be taken immediately.

"They should be put in the shade and have their body temperature lowered if possible," he said of an athlete suffering heat injury. "Hydrate them and get them out of the heat. Someone needs to take vitals too, like blood pressure and heart rate."

If the heart beat at rest is over 100 beats per minute, then medical attention needs to be sought. "Hydration is just common sense," Helzer said. "The human body is made up of mostly water. Not drinking it can only be a bad thing."

Katherine Jansen, 11, prepares to zoom down a ramp at the Northville Parks and Recreation skateboard park last Friday afternoon. The portable park, which visits Northville and Plymouth, has been set up at the Hillside Recreation Center for the last two weeks.

Portable skate park offers summer 'boarding' alternatives

So you want to skate but you don't know where you can go?

Well, Northville Parks and Recreation has the answer for you — a portable skate park.

For many skateboarders, the sport they love is something that is banned and pushed out of city limits. At the portable skate park, which travels through Northville and Plymouth depending on the time of year, allows skateboarders to strut their stuff without having to worry about who is getting offended and who isn't.

The skate park, which is located at the Recreation Center at Hillside just inside the tennis courts at the Middle School, costs $2 per person and is open four days of the week with exception to Sunday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Monday and Tuesday skating takes place from 4:30-8 p.m.

while Friday and Saturday has skating from 1-5 p.m.

Skateboarding isn't just for the boys either. Girls have become extremely active in the sport. Take Katherine Jansen, who is 11 years old, for example. Not only does she enjoy skating, she's rather good at it too.

Parks and Rec has the park opened to any skater, regardless of ability or experience level. Skate as long as you want during the operating hours and have a blast while doing it.

The park is a drop-in program, allowing kids of any age to participate with an on-site attendant available to monitor all activity.

For more information on the skate park, Northville Parks and Recreation or programs that are offered, please contact Northville Parks and Rec at (248) 349-0203.

Bowling event to help with Maybury

By Sam Eggleston
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

It's not if you win or lose, it's if the game is a ton of fun to play — and bowling definitely is.

Bowling, which ranks as one of the top activities in the United States to this day, has a lot to offer. It can be a competitive game or a game of fun. It can be recreational or it can be organized. It can be for the individual or it can be for the family.

"It's actually quite big," said Novi Bowl co-owner and operator Jerry Harris when asked about the popularity of bowling in Novi and Northville. "People always want to come in. It doesn't take a lot of time to play and it's inexpensive. You get a lot for your money and it's a great family sport. It's an all around good time."

It's also not the game many people grew up with either. Harris has been involved in the bowling industry for 31 years since he first started working at his father's bowling alley Drakeshire Lanes — which he owns and operates to this day. Through the years he has seen many changes in the centers which house the sport.

From a late-night venue for adults to a family-orientated center, bowling has spanned the years with great success.

"Bowling centers aren't smoky or drab or dingy anymore," Harris said. "Now there's good food, good music and even TVs. There are a lot of good things at bowling centers."

Bowling centers, like Novi Bowl, have proven to be great places for fundraising activities too. Harris said Novi Bowl will be helping out with another cause this month.

"We're doing a fundraiser for Maybury Farm," he said.

The event, which will be held August 15 at 6 p.m., costs $125 for an entire lane to be sponsored and six people to play for two games. Individuals can play for $25 each.

The proceeds will be used to help Maybury Farm get back on its feet following a devastating fire that devoured the barn and killed numerous animals.

"We really enjoy helping out," Harris said. "It's a business' obligation to give back to the community."

And give back they have. For the past 15 years, Novi Bowl has helped raise approximately $500,000 for Kristina Zurek, 10, throws one down the lane at Novi Bowl last Friday afternoon. Zurek was bowling with her parents Tom and Kathy and sister Alex.

Special Olympics.

Novi Bowl also gives plenty of attention on the generation the sport seemed to forget for a while — the youth bowler. Harris is the organizer for both Novi and Northville

High School's bowling team. He has also assisted in the coaching of the teams, which will enter their fourth year of competition this winter.

"It's an opportunity for kids who don't go out for football, baseball or hockey," Harris said. "It gives them a chance to compete at a level where they don't have to be big and strong to be good. They just need a little hand-eye coordination."

But the game just isn't for the young and the middle-aged. It's for everyone.

"From 18 months until you're 100, it's a lifetime sport," Harris said.

Though the whole point of heading to the bowling alley is to knock down some pins, Novi Bowl offers the family a wide variety of things to do. Be it pool, arcades or just some great pizza, the bowling center has plenty for everyone — especially if you're hungry.

"We actually have a full service kitchen that even does catering," Harris noted. "From the snack bar, people can get the best hamburger around that is half-a-pound and on an onion role or they can get some chicken sandwiches or Mexican quesadillas. The Bowling center food is quite good."

In fact, it even has what Harris considers to be a prime example of what pizza is supposed to taste like. Of course, he's a bit biased.

"We make our own pizza that is really great," he said. "It's from my own recipe."

From birthday to company parties to individuals having a good time, Novi Bowl has a lot to offer. Those looking to join a league, get some information on prices or just wanting to take a look at the menu can go to www.novibowl.com. Money-saving coupons are also available online.

"Now is a good time to get a jump on it," Harris said of those looking to join a league this year. "If they want to come out once a week, once every other week or just once a month, there's a league to accommodate every one's schedule. Some people don't want to make the commitment of bowling every week, so we offer a variety of leagues to help with that. If they're interested, they should just contact me and we'll get right on it."

Hannah Hoelscher, right, and Gabby Meridith, both of Northville, won the Last Team Standing World Cup Tournament July 10. The tournament was sponsored by the Livonia Meteors Soccer Club. Hoelscher and Meridith came in first out of nine team present and Meridith also scored the most goals of the tourney with 28.

A note from the MHSAA

The Michigan High School Athletic Association issued the following statement on a decision issued by the Sixth Circuit of the United States Court of Appeals in the litigation involving the placement of sports seasons by member schools:

On July 27, the Sixth Circuit of the United States Court of Appeals affirmed a U.S. District Court decision of December 17, 2001, that the sports seasons favored by Michigan schools must be realigned.

In a brief and unanimous decision, the three-judge panel ruled that the current alignment of interscholastic sports seasons violates the Equal Protection Clause of the U.S. Constitution.

"We are disappointed that the decision is based on the relationship of the high school program to non-school and college athletics, rather than the benefits of participation to girls and boys within the interscholastic program," said John E. "Jack" Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA.

Roberts added that the leadership of the MHSAA will be discussing the response of the Association. This will include action to assure that no changes of seasons must occur in the 2004-05 school year, which begins with Fall sports practices next week.

The District Court, on August 1, 2002, ordered the placement of the girls basketball season in the Winter and the girls volleyball season in the Fall. The MHSAA Compliance Plan adopted by the District Court on November 8, 2002, would reschedule its Lower Peninsula Golf and Tennis tournaments, moving girls tennis and boys golf from Fall to Spring and boys tennis and girls golf from Spring to Fall. The MHSAA will offer Upper Peninsula Soccer Tournaments for boys in the Spring and girls in the Fall.

Folino loves this game

By Sam Eggleston
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

For sports fanatic Steve Folino, watching basketball games from the stands isn't an easy thing to do.

Though his granddaughter, Rachele Folino, plays basketball for the Novi Wildcats, the view from the stands isn't the one he has grown used to over the years.

He's much more used to being right on the court with the players.

For 41 years, Folino has been a registered official in the state of Michigan. He's officiated everything from junior high to high school playoff games and, once, even had a shot at the college ranks.

After officiating one night in Jackson a man came into the locker room and spoke to Folino about possibly getting a shot at the Big 10.

"He said he was a scout," Folino said. "I didn't really know what to think about it. He asked for my schedule so I pulled out my book and I told him what games I'd be at."

And sure enough, even though Folino never expected it, the scout was at the next game. And the one after that as well.

Soon after, he was given an application for a shot at an interview to be an official at the collegiate level. Unfortunately, it seemed to be a situation that was never meant to be.

"The week I was supposed to go out for my interview it snowed really bad and we couldn't go and had to reschedule," Folino said. "The week after that, the Big 10 commissioner died."

Which threw a wrench in Folino's college-bound career. A phone call for another interview never came after that.

"I guess it just wasn't meant to be," Folino said.

Official start

But the high school game was a different story. After returning to Northville following a stint in the Army as a typist for General Douglas MacArthur's traveling headquarters, Folino found himself a niche as an official for junior high, freshman and junior varsity boys' basketball.

Eventually, he grew into the role of a varsity referee.

He knew the game well. Not only had he played in high school, but he had a chance to play at Eastern Michigan University before leaving for the Army. When he returned, the old head coach had left and the new one wasn't interested.

"He said he had 100 players on the floor trying out," Folino said of the day he showed up and asked to try out. "He didn't even give me a chance."

Through the years, which was marked at 41 this year with a 40-year plaque awarded to him by the Michigan High School Athletics Association, he has seen few changes in the game. Folino said one sticks out in his mind.

"Making it seven fouls before a player got to shoot free throws was a great addition," Folino said. "It was the best thing they could have done. It used to be that they would shoot free throws with every foul."

Steve Folino and the awards given to him by the MHSAA. One is for 20 years, another for 30 and the one in his hands is for 40 years of officiating.

Folino also noted that the game has increased in speed and strategy through the years. Though one or two teams might have always had fast players when he first started, he said every team is as speedy as they come now.

"The strategy is amazing now," he added. "Coaches go into the game with more plays and more styles of play than ever before."

Folino said there is one game he wished he could have officiated during his years as an active official — a girls' game.

Now, he sits in the stands and watches his favorite player take the court during the high school season and the AAU season in the summer. "Rachele is an amazing player,"

Folino said of his granddaughter. "Watching her I've been able to see how much the game of girls' basketball has grown. There are some amazing players out there. I wish I could have been an official in one of their games. I'm sure I would have enjoyed it."

Though he's not on the hardwood wearing stripes, Folino isn't complaining about the games he does get to watch.

"I enjoy every minute of it," he said. "I like to see the kids play. I've always liked it and I always will."

Time to swap sides of counter

"The customer is always right." For much of this nation's history, that statement has been the mantra of those who succeed in free enterprise. No segment of American society knows this better or practices it with more eagerness than small business. No matter what product or service is offered, the key is to meet the customer's demands in a way that brings them back again and again.

Anyone who has ever opened a business that survived and prospered learned that the customer, as one highly successful entrepreneur who built a little sandwich-and-coffee concern into a global business put it, "is the boss."

Imagine a customer with badly worn shoes walking into a shoe store, cash-at-the-ready, only to find that all the shoes for sale were the same size, same color and much more expensive than advertised. Worse, imagine that when the customer complains, the storeowner shrugs and walks away with a take-it-or-leave-it attitude.

No sensible customer would stand for such abuse, and no small business that treated its customers in such a manner would survive very long.

Yet that's exactly the kind of customer service that millions of small-business owners are being dealt by some elected lawmakers these days. Take health care, for example. So painful has this situation become that health care is the top worry among America's small entrepreneurs.

Although their ability to offer comprehensive and affordable health care has been worn down like an old pair of shoes and, in many cases, can no longer be patched up to meet their needs and those of their employees, small-business owners seeking service—in this case representation in Congress—find some lawmakers refusing to offer anything better than an outrageously expensive, one-size-fits-all solution.

And customer service in the state capitals isn't anything to brag about either.

According to the business research firm PricewaterhouseCoopers, the number of procedures and services mandated in health insurance policies increased 25-fold from 1970-96.

Small-business owners have been getting similar rude treatment when shopping for civil-justice reform, the death-tax repeal and solutions to rising energy costs.

Could it be that these owners of small firms, having spent so much time on the other side of the counter, have forgotten that they too are customers? Yes, they are customers of the services of government—services for which they pay dearly.

Producing more than half of the nation's non-farm private GDP, creating three-fourths of all new jobs and employing 99.7 percent of all American workers makes the small-business sector customers of every imaginable government service from highway repair to national defense.

Small-business owners should swap sides of the counter and demand the customer service they're due. They should present their shopping list—beginning with affordable health care, tax code simplification, less burdensome regulation, and an end to frivolous lawsuits and government competition.

Then, on Election Day, decide whether or not to be a repeat customer.

Jack Faris is president of NFIB (the National Federation of Independent Business), the nation's largest small-business advocacy group. A non-profit, non-partisan organization founded in 1943, NFIB represents the consensus views of its 600,000 members in Washington, D.C., and all 50 state capitals.

Vision care and correction is vital to patients

By Duane Ramsey
SPECIAL WRITER

Vision correction desires and needs are important to people, and the Adelson Eye & Laser Center in downtown Northville will help patients find the vision solutions they seek. Dr. Howard Adelson offers many options in vision care and correction with the latest technology and extensive experience to give his patients outstanding results.

"Whether, you're nearsighted, farsighted or have astigmatism, Lasik laser vision correction can help you," said Dr. Adelson, a medical and surgical ophthalmologist and laser vision correction specialist.

Patients with those conditions no longer have to worry about seeing the alarm clock in the morning, playing sports with corrective eyewear or the everyday hassles associated with contact lens care. Millions of Americans have successfully had Lasik surgery and are now able to see and live their lives the way they have always wanted, he explained.

As a pioneer in laser vision correction, Dr. Adelson was one of the first doctors in Michigan to perform the now popular Custom Lasik procedure that allows up to 25 times better results over traditional Lasik. In fact, 98 percent of his patients are able to pass a driver's exam after their procedure.

"We're currently utilizing the best technology in eye surgery with state-of-the-art equipment, including a new laser machine to diagnose and treat glaucoma," Dr. Adelson said. "We also strive to provide a comfortable, friendly atmosphere for our patients."

Dr. Adelson has performed about 5,000 procedures in laser vision correction and as many or more cataract surgeries in his young career. All procedures are performed in surgical facilities at several local hospitals where Dr. Adelson is on the staff.

"Most of our surgical patients are referred to us by their physicians or eye doctors," he said. "Our patients include newborns, children, teens and adults of all ages."

Dr. Adelson completed a prestigious fellowship in vision correction that qualifies him as a sub-specialist in advanced cataract and laser vision correction surgery. "The additional year of unique training in advanced cataract and laser vision surgery is something that very few eye surgeons possess," he said.

After serving nearly two years at the Grand Rapids Eye Institute & Laser Center, Dr. Adelson returned to the Detroit area to open his own practice in Novi last September. In April, he moved the growing practice to its current location in downtown Northville.

In addition to cataract, glaucoma and laser eye surgery, the practice provides general and medical eye exams, including exams for glasses and contacts. They also have extensive experience in treating patients with dry eyes using new, advanced therapeutic techniques that are safe, simple and effective.

Dr. Adelson was one of the first surgeons in the country to be certified on the new implantable contact lens by Staar Surgical. He also performs Botox procedures for cosmetic treatment of wrinkles around the eyes or forehead and for therapeutic treatment of muscle and nerve conditions.

Dr. Adelson said he opened his practice in the Novi-Northville area because he and his wife Julie are from the Detroit area and still have family living there. They currently reside in nearby Commerce Township.

He earned his undergraduate degree at the University of Michigan and his osteopathic medical degree from Des Moines University-Osteopathic Medical Center. He completed his internship at Botsford General Hospital and his ophthalmology residency through Michigan State University at Metropolitan Hospital in Grand Rapids.

Dr. Adelson completed the additional fellowship in advanced refractive (Lasik) and cataract surgery in affiliation with MSU. He also has completed an extensive course in ophthalmology at Stanford University.

He has served as a national guest lecturer for ophthalmologists helping to teach refraction surgery. Dr. Adelson is a resident educator at Michigan State University.

Dr. Adelson has been interviewed about laser correction surgery on radio and television in the Detroit and Grand Rapids areas and was featured on Fox News live.

Golden oak is a polish — not a type of tree

Q: I have two oaks about 30 feet tall in my back yard. This year, the leaves are really yellow with green veins. There are some spots on the leaves. I took the leaves to a place that sells plants and they said that my soil hasn't got any iron in it and they sell a spray for the leaves. It was really expensive. I went to another place and they said that the leaves were supposed to be yellow because it was a golden oak. Who do I believe?

A: When your choices are between awful and terrible, I don't know how you can choose. Golden oak is a furniture finish especially popular during the Victorian era, not a kind of tree. Oaks can be generally divided into two groups — red and white oaks. Red oaks have leaves that have pointed edges. At the tip of the point there is a prickle or thin needle-like structure. Think of the devil and his pitchfork. White oaks have gently rolling edges. Think of white, fluffy clouds. There are no golden oaks in either group. Yellow leaves with green veins are characteristic of a problem called chlorosis. Sometimes it is called iron chlorosis. Pin oaks, which are part of the red oak family, are more susceptible to chlorosis than most oaks. This can be caused by poor soil drainage, a high soil pH and lack of fertility or, rarely, a virus. Much of lower Michigan has had more rain than usual this year. Many oaks are growing in soil that has a higher pH than they can tolerate. When other stresses like wet soil come along, they yellow. The high pH doesn't allow the tree to utilize the iron in the soil, and chlorosis can occur. You can buy iron products, some of which are sprayed on leaves. It makes the leaves look better but doesn't fix the reason this happened. Get a soil test. Find out what's missing and apply those items. If the soil is too alkaline, you can use sulfur to lower the pH. This takes months to work, so this isn't going to be a quick fix. August isn't the best month to apply fertilizer. You don't want to encourage the tree to grow now — the new growth could suffer winter damage. If you get a soil test, wait until September or October to apply the recommended amounts. You can begin adjusting the pH now. Follow those recommendations for three years, then get another soil test. The new one will reflect the changes that have happened during the three years. Don't be too concerned about the leaf spots. The wet spring gave many fungi an opportunity to invade leaves. Be more concerned about the chlorosis.

Q: I have a huge cactus. It's in a small plastic container without a drain hole, and I think I need to repot it. Can I mix some kind of a soil up or do I have to buy the stuff they sell in the store? I don't know where to start.

A: Making muffins will be more difficult than mixing cactus potting soil. Drainage is the key for a happy cactus. You need coarse sand that is gritty. Don't use what is called builder's sand or soft sand. This has some clay and can compact. A bit of pumice or perlite or pea gravel will also increase the drainage. You will also need some potting soil. Don't pick one with fertilizer already in it. Cacti don't need or want it. Mix two parts or slightly more of the coarse sand with a bit of gravel and one part or slightly less of potting soil. Choosing a container is important, too. You want a pot that is just a couple of inches bigger than the current pot. Choose one that is made out of unglazed clay. They are usually referred to as terracotta pots. Make sure that it has a drain hole. The terracotta will absorb moisture from the soil, and the drainage hole will let it out at the bottom. These plants are well adapted to deserts and don't need wet feet.

Shutters just right for home office

By Rose Bennett Gilbert
 COPLEY NEWS SERVICE

Q: We have a long, narrow sunroom I'd like to make into a home office for my husband. They wrap around three sides of the room — there are eight windows in all. He'll probably be working out there at night so I need curtains, but I know he'd hate all that fabric. In such a small room, won't eight curtains be too busy?

A: Shades, blinds or — best yet — shutters would give you privacy control without the froufrou you dread. Unlike fabric curtains, shades, blinds and shutters can be fit neatly within the window frame itself, so they look trim, tailored and sufficiently businesslike — without being self-conscious about it.

Personally, I vote for wood shutters like the ones shown here. They're about as close to architecture as you can get at a window, filtering the light without darkening the room. Expensive? Yes. Good ones (like these Heritage shutters by Hunter Douglas, www.hunterdouglas.com) must be custom-fit into each window because window sizes always vary, no matter how alike they may look. It can be worth the investment, though — permanently installed hardwood shutters actually enhance the resale value of your home.

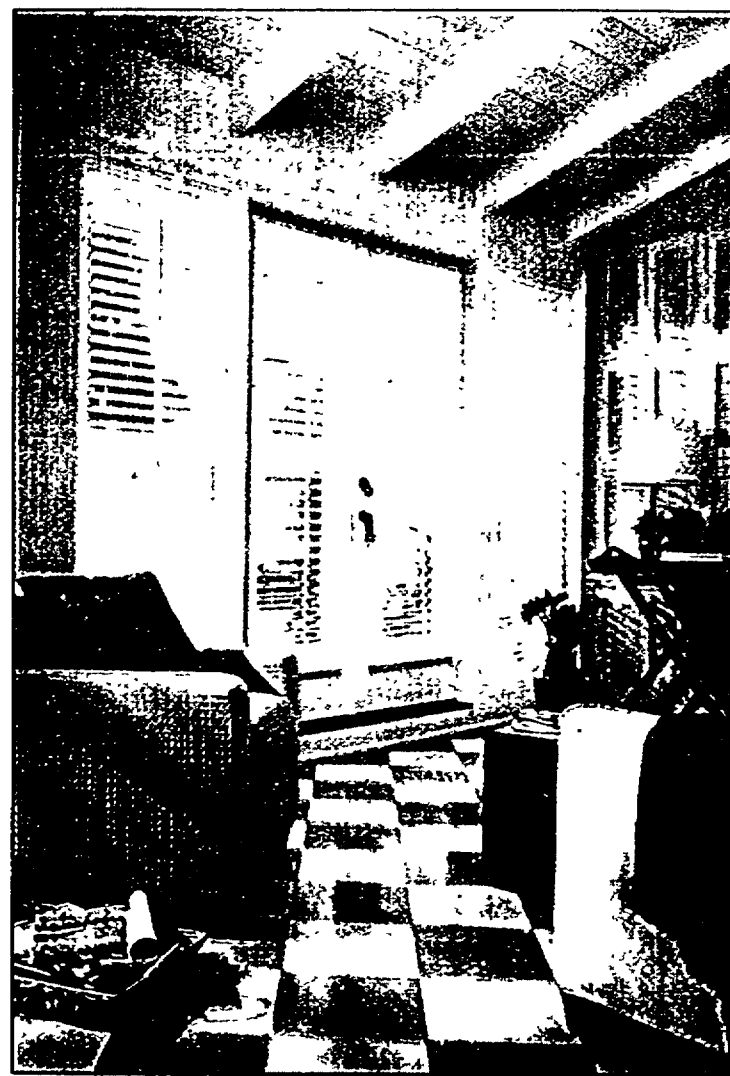

Q: Love your new rug but hate vacuuming it?

A: Love the workout instead! The clever crowd over at the Eureka Co. sees vacuuming as a great way to lose weight (wouldn't they just?). But don't take their word for it, heed the American Council for Fitness & Nutrition instead. They promise that vacuuming for just 30 minutes will burn 100 calories.

Why are we discussing this in a decorating column? Because cleanliness is next to inspiration when it comes to creating — and keeping — an attractive, comfortable, healthy home. If you have silver, polish it. If you read books, shelve them. If you have rugs, vacuum them often enough to keep them dust- and dander-free (and you trim in the process).

Q: The entry foyer in my daughter's new home is two stories tall. There's a double-height window on one wall, but we haven't a clue about what to do with the other walls — they're so tall.

A: Don't think you're the only one with the problem. Sure, we enjoy gracious spaces but it's possible to have too much of a good thing. Which turns out to be a really good thing for an interior designer named Donna Quinn, ASID. She, too, was having trouble decorating such soaring spaces for her clients, when — eureka! — she decided to launch a business all about tall walls. It's located in Yardley, Penn., but good ideas travel fast. Here are three tall wall tips that may help your daughter cope:

1. Tall walls need tall accessories. Donna emphasizes. Choose decorative art and objects that reach for the ceiling, such as two-story paintings, large tapestries or quilts, oversize clocks, even a large, wall-mounted, flowing water fountain.

Or you can take the more-is-more approach and build a collage of objects around a single theme. Since the sum is greater than its parts, such a collage works as well as a single big piece, Donna says.

2. Be brave about color. Donna believes that strong color makes an impact that can balance the height of the walls.

3. Think texture. A melange of materials will add visual interest and depth. Donna advocates a mix of metals, wood, fabrics and glass, accented with dimensional sculptures and mixed-media objects. (For more tall tidbits go to www.tallwallsinc.com.)

Get ready to beat the heat this summer with a trip to Scappare elegant day spa and salon. Their staff of stylists can keep you beautiful through the warm weather season. Owner Lindsay Cortis says they have some great ways to keep you cool and looking glamorous no matter what season.

How about a facial to perk you up and cool you down? Lindsay Cortis recommends the new Hydra Dew Facial Treatment by Repechage. Hydra Dew is great to refresh and moisturize parched summer skin. Or try the Hydra Refine cold stone treatment; both are soothing for sun-burned skin. Enjoy the hot stone therapy, which can be added to facial, body or pedicure treatments.

Foil the frizzies and keep hair more manageable with a fresh cut by one of their experienced stylists. Scappare staff members receive continuous education and in house instruction by platform artists that are tops in the industry.

"They're like a big family," Cortis said. "I thank my lucky stars we have them."

In addition, Scappare stocks the latest in hair care products. It's their ambition to stay on top of the latest trends in the industry.

There's nothing like a fresh highlight or tint to brighten up a summer look. Now, more than ever it's a popular service. Add the new Halo salon products in shampoo or conditioner to keep the color fresh.

"Color is a great pick me up to help you feel renewed," said Lindsay Cortis. "Colors are brighter for this summer's look, they're more vibrant."

Of course, if biking or tennis was overdone, a relaxing massage with Scappare's massage therapists will soothe those tired muscles. Chris Cortis says it not only feels incredible, it even helps his golf game.

Maybe the feet have been neglected over the winter and it's time for some tender loving care. This is a great time of year for a pedicure, when toes come out of hiding into sexy sandals and other open-toed styles. Top it off with a coordinating manicure or add the spa package, which includes a hydrating mask, paraffin treatment and lower leg massage.

Any time of year is a good time for pampering, reminds Chris and Lindsay. Spend a relaxing day and forget your cares in the luxurious surroundings of Scappare's elegant state of the art day spa, where pampering is the specialty. Enjoy the ambiance of antique dressers and elegant full grand piano. The surroundings are Combinations can be tried, such as the Mediterranean, which includes facial, one-hour massage, pedicure and lunch, for example.

Make it a day with the ultimate in pampering the Valleta, featuring four or five hours to get lost in luxury, including a four layer facial, a one hour massage, haircut and style, pedicure, makeup and lunch.

"We have been voted Best Day Spa since the day we opened," said Chris Cortis. "For the ever-increasing number of guys who are paying serious attention to their looks, we love catering to the Metrosexual man."

Scappare is located at 21190 Pontiac Trail in South Lyon. They're an Aveda "A" family salon featuring Graham, Webb and Matrix. SEATTLE SUTTON'S HEALTHY EATING

Seattle Sutton's Healthy Eating: Weight loss made easy, delicious

Once in a while there comes a new product that makes you say "Wow! What a great idea!"

Seattle Sutton's Healthy Eating is a revolutionary meal program for weight loss, health and convenience that has swept the Chicago area, captured national attention, and is now available here in Michigan.

Forget fad diets, frozen TV dinners and chalky milk shakes. Forget the planning, shopping, measuring, cooking and mess. Imagine the convenience of healthy, delicious meals delivered fresh to your home or office. Whether you're trying to lose weight, or are controlling diabetes, high cholesterol or high blood pressure, or even if you're just too busy to cook, Seattle Sutton's Healthy Eating has the answer.

Registered Nurse, Seattle Sutton, founded the company in 1985. With her husband as town physician, Seattle provided the nutritional information for patients who needed to lose weight or change their diet for health reasons.

Many patients found nutritional guidelines confusing and difficult to follow so she began handing out healthy recipes.

One day a patient commented, "If only you would make the meals for me, I would eat them."

So she did.

Today, Seattle Sutton's Healthy Eating prepares over 150,000 fresh, healthy meals every week. The plan includes three-meals-a-day, seven-days-a-week.

Both 1,200- and 2,000-calorie-per-day meal plans are available. The plan is calorie-controlled, low-fat and sodium-

MASTERS MEDICAL SUPPLY

(810) 225-6093

Masters Medical Supply owner Denny Stima takes his commitment to old-fashioned customer service very seriously. He purchased a 1929 Ford Delivery Sedan three years ago when he bought the business to promote his services in parades and car shows, while providing senior customers with a chance to reminisce.

"We have an excellent rapport with our senior citizens," Stima said. "It's because we truly enjoy helping them take care of their health needs."

Stima works every day, providing sales, repairs and rentals of medical equipment, such as scooters, hospital beds, wheelchairs, braces, lift chairs, walkers, bathroom safety, ramps, Freestyle diabetic supplies and more.

"I will often meet with seniors in their homes, allowing them a chance to try out equipment in comfortable surroundings, then I will check on them in a couple of days to see how they are doing with it," Stima said. "People respond very well to that level of service."

Customers can also order items from catalogs — often receiving it the next day.

People also appreciate Stima's participation in local health seminars.

"Many times, equipment is covered by insurance and in other circumstances, rental may be an option," Stima said.

Gail Kucharski, a certified fitter, is on staff to fit braces, supports and compression hose. Maintenance and repair is performed by former owner Jerry Patterson.

"It's a real benefit to customers to have a full-time technician on staff, and it's a commitment we plan to continue for our customers," Stima said.

The showroom, located at 1377 Old US 23, in Brighton, is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, or by appointment.

Mark Dowdy, owner of Elite Home Foods, will deliver the best quality of meat right to your front door — guaranteed.

ELITE HOME FOODS

(248) 673-FOOD (3663)

Recent massive food recalls and foodborne illness outbreaks have made the public aware of the risks to the nation's food supply.

With this in mind, Mark Dowdy set out to find a way to provide for himself and his family the cleanest and best quality of meat available. Mark's research led him to the processing plant in America receiving the highest rating by USDA inspections.

Mark knew other people would appreciate and enjoy the same high standards behind these products. He started Elite Home Foods to distribute the best quality of meat on the market for the best price.

Today, Elite Home Foods caters to families all over metro Detroit. Mark has a 92 percent re-order rate — his customers are so impressed with the product that they no longer buy their meat from the grocery store.

"You will not find better beef in America," Mark said. "Better than Angus, Sterling Silver Beef is top-of-the-line beef in America. I'm able to deliver this beef to people for about the same cost as the beef they buy in the grocery store," Mark said.

Mark tailors a menu to the customer's needs, then delivers the food from his freezer truck to their freezer within three weeks. The meat, guaranteed fresh for two years, is consistently fresh and safe to eat because the product is flash frozen and vacuumed sealed in clear, easy-to-see packaging.

Elite Home Foods offers beef, pork, poultry, lamb, veal and seafood selections. Dairy products, vegetables, pizza and hot dogs are also available. Every Elite Home Foods product is guaranteed to meet the customer's complete satisfaction.

Mark cites his father, a church pastor, as his mentor teaching him good character and values. "He didn't necessarily teach me business skills," Mark explained, "but I learned many important lessons from him about human principles."

It's funny how the important things in life never change, like hard work, integrity and determination. That's how Bill Connaughton stayed in business over 30 years, installing over 15,000 pools and spas during his career.

"Give them good service at a good price and sell them a good product," he advised.

Connaughton built a pool empire from the ground up, founding his first 2,000 square foot store in Redford while running a Twin Pines milk route. Eventually Connaughton expanded to six stores throughout the metro area.

Connaughton's daughter Diane has carried on the tradition with A-Z Pools & Spas. She credits her dad for her entrepreneurial spirit.

"The things I've learned most from him is to treat the customer right and don't skimp on quality," the younger Connaughton said with pride.

Diane has added an innovative twist, adding to the experience she gained at his side. Her business also features in-ground pools, along with her latest passion, the BullFrog Spa.

"There's nothing in the world like these spas," she explained. "Custom design and versatility put this spa on the cutting edge of design and comfort. It's the only one you can customize, interchange and upgrade completely online."

"You can actually take these jet packs and design them to your body's needs," Connaughton said.

Customers can build their dream spa online at www.bullfrogspa.com.

One of the gems of Brighton's downtown business district, Cooper & Binkley Jewelers is having its own Gem Extravaganza during the weekend of Aug. 14-15.

Coinciding with Brighton's downtown Art Festival that same weekend, this gem event will include a teaching seminar by one of the world's foremost gem experts, who is the supplier of Cooper & Binkley Jeweler's finest gemstones — garnered from around the world.

"We are so excited to be able to offer a class of this quality to our customers at Cooper & Binkley's," says Barb Binkley, co-owner of this second-generation, family business with her husband, Mark. "Participants will learn how to take a gem from its rough state and turn it into a polished stone, using a number of techniques and tips from our gem supplier," says Barb.

If you're interested, sign up early for this seminar by calling Cooper & Binkley Jewelers at (810) 227-2221 to reserve your spot.

This event is just one of the activities being organized by Mark and Barb Binkley as part of the Brighton Art Festival.

Cooper & Binkley Jewelers is proud to be a sponsor of the Pre-Festival Friday Night Activities at the Mill Pond, including a 7:30 p.m. Chalk Art Festival and a Movie-at-the-Mill-Pond event at dusk, presenting "Flying Away Home."

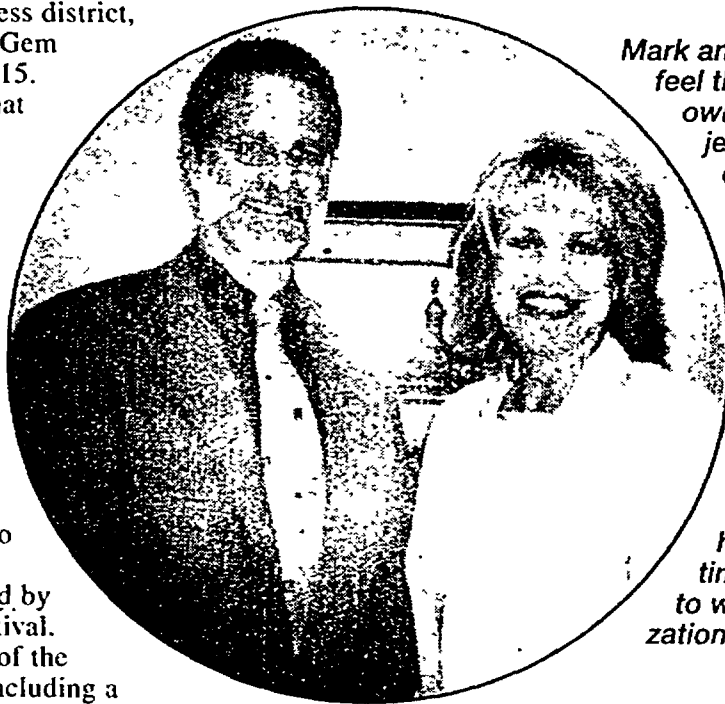

They are also pleased to participate in a unique fund-raising event that has provided art on the streets of downtown Brighton all summer long. Visitors to the Brighton area during the Art Festival will enjoy the company of artfully decorated resin carousel animals spotted around area businesses, as part of a fundraising activity by the Living County Home Builders Association to raise funds for the local Habitat for Humanity chapter.

Jewelraffe, the carousel animal representing Cooper & Binkley Jewelers, was hand-painted by Maltby Middle School Art Teacher Debbie Levesque. She has already been informally adopted by the Binkley family, who hopes to officially adopt her at the end-of-summer auction, which will provide a permanent home for each of the animals.

These events are all an important part of providing a creative, fun backdrop to the Art Festival itself, which is a juried art show bringing out the "best of the best" in artistic endeavors — from jewelry making to watercolors and stained glass to wool spinning.

"Artists will be coming in to Brighton from all over the U.S.," say representatives of the Brighton Area Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the event. Food vendors will be plentiful, too, providing guests with an opportunity enjoy festive foods while browsing the streets of Brighton.

FROM VISION TO REALITY

HOW IT ALL BEGAN

25 years ago, Jim Davis had a vision. His vision involved making auto repair as easy as possible for his customers in a stress-free, relaxed environment. Today, Davis Auto Care provides customers with convenient automotive repairs and services that make his company a one-stop, auto repair center.

In 1979, he set up shop in what was then the Boron gasoline station at Eight Mile and Taft roads. Since the early days back in his two-bay gas station, Jim Davis has offered a level of technical expertise and friendly customer service that have proven to be a winning combination.

"Our business is repairing cars and making them look good, but our job is solving customers' problems," Davis explained. "It is very gratifying to have so many people depending on our services."

Word soon spread about the friendly, old-fashioned service that was provided, and soon the parking lot was overflowing with local folks who realized that here was a businessman who provided a level of professionalism and honesty they could trust.

"When we first started out, I would go home and tell my wife that we'd had a busy day when I did a couple of oil changes and a tire repair," he recalled.

Today, expect nothing less than the same exceptional service with the development of a successful business and a highly trained staff.

TOTAL AUTOMOTIVE CARE: THREE-IN-ONE

Davis Auto Care, Jim's Oil Depot and Ultimate Image Auto Spa are the three entities under one roof taking care of vehicles, inside and out. With a full-service repair garage, a quick-lube oil change facility, and professional detailing services, owner Jim Davis prides himself on upholding only the best care to customers.

"When we just had the repair garage, customers suggested a quick-lube shop, and we added Jim's Oil Depot. For a couple years now, customers have been asking us where they can find a cleaning and detailing shop, and we gave them Ultimate Image Auto Spa just June 1 of last year," Davis explained. "Our customers are very supportive, and we love supporting them."

With superior customer relations and highly-trained technicians, Davis Auto Care, Jim's Oil Depot, and Ultimate Image Auto Spa provides quality service in a friendly environment.

DAVIS AUTO CARE

For over 25 years the full-repair garage, Davis Auto Care, has provided quality and efficient services with the latest in technology. As vehicles have become more and more complicated, the company has invested in the latest diagnostic equipment and support services.

"In a shop the size of ours, we can afford to invest in things like our ABS-Tech system and the SIMU-TECH computer system," Davis said.

Davis also said that his company recently added "yet more sophisticated and computerized diagnostic equipment to address the vehicles on-board computers for the 21st century." The advent of on-board diagnostics, or OBD2, allows Davis Auto Care to easily track the problems occurring in the computer systems. This allows Davis Auto Care technicians to better understand vehicle problems, which in turn, enhances a thorough, quality car repair.

Because people are so dependent on their vehicle, Davis Auto Care takes extra strides to make the service experience as convenient as possible. Repairs are explained in a way that lets the customer know how serious each item is, and the service staff also informs customers if a needed repair can wait for future service.

"We all work with budgets, and it's our job to help people stay within those budgets whenever possible," Davis explained.

All repair work comes with a written guarantee, and the staff sends follow-up letters inquiring about customer satisfaction. If a problem were to occur immediately after repairs, Davis and the mechanics strive to correct the problem as conveniently as possible. The shop also maintains a computerized service history on all vehicles, making it easy for the company to answer questions about routine maintenance. With stocking many name-brand parts, such as Interstate Batteries, MOOG chassis, AC Delco, Motorcraft, Bendix brakes, Gates hoses and belts, Monroe shock absorbers, Mobil lubrication products and General tires, customers can rest assured their vehicle is in good hands.

JIM'S OIL DEPOT

Located right next to Davis Auto Care is the same knowledgeable experience dedicated to wrapping up those minor bumps and grinds slowing cars down. Jim's Oil Depot is a quick-lube repair station, fixing cars in a timely manner so customers can get on with their daily lives.

"We had always offered oil changes, including a 22-point inspection," Davis said. "But we knew our customers were becoming more and more time-conscious. We looked for a way to speed up the process, without sacrificing quality."

Jim's Oil Depot fills the bill. Customers can get an oil change in 10 minutes without having to leave their cars. The Oil Depot also performs minor items such as headlight replacement and wiper blades while waiting. A new addition to the Depot is tire repair, rotating and balancing service. Many of these services are performed by trained staff members using a special tire-care machine. This machine relies on a touchless tire suspension system that avoids rim damage.

"Tire rotating is an example of the type of maintenance people want quickly," Davis said.

But it goes much farther than that. While waiting in the comfortable area, take a look around. Jim's Oil Depot is decorated to resemble a Victorian train depot.

"Being just underneath the railroad bridge, it seemed natural," Davis said. "After we got under way with the theme of the place, I learned that there actually was a Northville train depot many years ago, just a few yards from our building."

Both exterior and interior are painted in a trompe l'oeil technique, and once inside a huge mural depicts a view through "windows" onto a train platform with the train ready to pull out. Further above a toy train runs up and down the wall taking a loop around the waiting area. The theme is carried right down to a train whistle, which sounds as each car is raised into the air. What more can you say, except, "All Aboard!"

ULTIMATE IMAGE AUTO SPA

At Ultimate Image Auto Spa, the newest addition to the Davis Auto Care facility, customers can be assured of receiving the same superior quality service that Davis Auto Care customers have enjoyed for years.

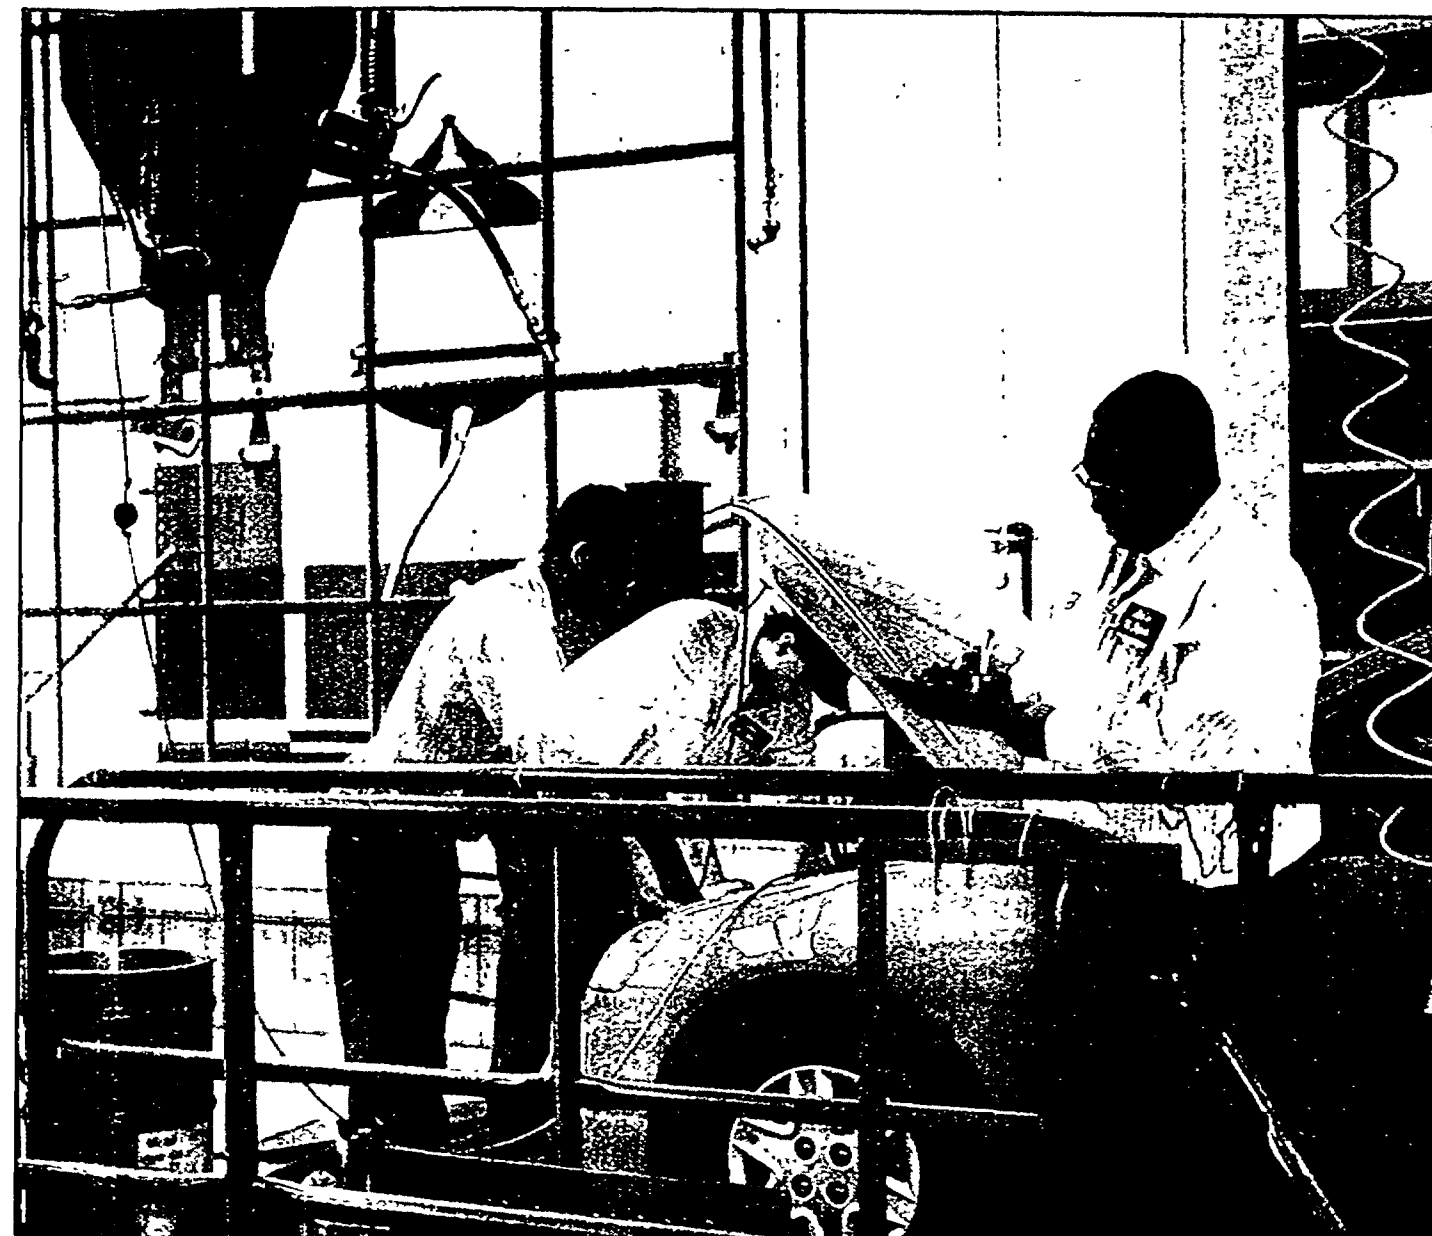

"It was the request of many of our customers that we expanded our automotive business to include appearance enhancement and protection services," Davis said. "The response has been extremely encouraging since we opened in June of 2000."

As with mechanical repairs and maintenance services, the finest quality products are combined with the highest level of expertise to offer a premier experi-technicians in the country. These tests are administered by ACT, the organization conducting college entrance examinations.

"It separates the best of the best," Davis explained. "A.S.E. Certification shows that a technician has dedicated himself to the highest level of professionalism."

To keep up to date, mechanics regularly attend seminars and continuing education classes. This commitment to ongoing training is one of the most important aspects of the business.

"Yes, we have the absolute best and latest in diagnostic equipment," Davis said. "But without the level of expertise that our technicians have, all the diagnostic computers in the world would be useless."

"Because we do so much business with the auto manufacturers, they allow us to send our technicians for the specialized training only dealer mechanics receive," Davis explained.

Davis Auto Care maintains an electronic library filled with information on each and every make. Repair techniques, engine behavior, and parts' serial numbers are available for the best service possible. Davis Auto Care is especially proud of technician Ed Robetson who was a finalist in the AC Delco Technician of the Millennium II Competition. AC Delco produces parts for GM and other automobile companies, and also allows Davis Auto Care to receive factory training for its technicians. As an added benefit, AC Delco hosts an annual competition. Contestants from across the nation are judged on test scores and car repairs. Robetson had one of the best test scores in the Midwest region and went on to compete in the hands-on part of the competition in Las Vegas. There, in the Fall of 2003, Robetson became one of the top eight technicians in North America.

CUSTOMER SERVICE

At Davis Auto Care, the term "customer service" encompasses many things, including friendliness, convenience and follow-up. The customer contact staff is friendly, knowledgeable and efficient. Most importantly, they care about people. Service advisors work together to make sure every customer who comes to Davis Auto Care walks away satisfied.

"We get so many comments from people who say that, in coming to our facility, they had their questions answered in a clear, courteous manner for the first time," Davis explained. "Our customers feel very comfortable making decisions in that way."

To show their appreciation, in the past, customers have not just told Davis employees thanks, but expressed their gratitude by bringing gifts, such as cookies or pizza.

"Having a friendly place where people do business, we really strive to do that," Davis said.

Another highly appreciated detail is the shuttle service, which can take customers to or from their home or business within the area. The shop can also lend cellular phones if customers are going to be hard to reach. This way, repairs can be completed as quickly as possible. A computerized system tracks routine maintenance for each individual vehicle. Letters and postcards are sent out notifying customers of maintenance items coming due.

"We realize our customers are busy, and don't have time to worry about preventative maintenance," Davis explained. "That's why we track it for them."

Customer service is more than a business goal at Davis Auto Care, it is a set standard persistently kept and constantly perfected.

COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

A long-time area resident, Jim Davis has always been involved in the community. He is an active member and past president of the Northville Chamber of Commerce. The company has been a contributor to the Northville Victorian Festival since its inception. Davis has served as State Chairman of the Board of the Automotive Service Professionals of Michigan.

"I am very involved in the industry and want to do everything I can to promote it in a positive way," he said.

Davis has also appeared on local television and radio promoting awareness of automotive maintenance and has presented seminars at recent job fairs. He has attained the title of Accredited Automotive Manager from the Automotive Management Institute, a designation awarded to automotive professionals who complete 120 hours of advanced management and technical classes.

Davis intends to continue providing excellent and convenient auto repair service to his community.

If you're thinking about remodeling or buying a new home, Seghi is ready to help you design the home of your dreams.

If you love your home and neighborhood, remodeling — not moving — may be the solution, he believes. Why not update your existing home and avoid the headache of selling, financing and building?

"There are so many homes out there in great communities that are 15-25 years old, that need a little facelift," said Seghi.

Using a reputable contractor with experience is important to insure a successful project, he points out. He'll work closely to achieve the customer's goals while keeping within their budget.

"When a client comes in, I try to think of the value of the project to the homeowner.

Is it money well spent? I like to get them the best bang for their buck," said Seghi.

With the warm weather here, maybe it's time to update your home with a new kitchen or add a bath to the master suite. Maybe you'd like to spend more time enjoying the outdoors with a patio area. Even if you're not in the market to sell, it's nice to know the project will add beauty and value to your home. Even small improvements can add livability to your home for years to come.

DIAMOND CASTLE

(248) 442-2440 • www.diamondcastlejewelers.com

Located at 39955 Grand River Ave., just west of Haggerty Road in Novi, Diamond Castle is now open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

A strong family tradition in jewelry, years of experience, a wonderful collection of diamonds, and careful attention to customers' needs is what Diamond Castle is all about.

Diamond Castle is owned and operated by the Ansara family. Fred Ansara began his apprenticeship at the age of 10, following in the footsteps of his father and grandfather. His son, Kevin, manages the store today. The family keeps its knowledge base strong by attending shows and seminars to bring customers the hottest trends and latest fashions.

Diamond Castle is well known for its large selection of engagement rings and loose stones.

"People who want large diamonds end up at Diamond Castle," says Fred. "We are always able to supply them at excellent prices."

He adds that the business gets its stones directly from site holders, bypassing the middleman and passing lowest prices to customers. The store sells engagement rings by showing ring settings and loose diamonds separately, allowing customers to see the entire diamond without any part obscured by the ring setting. The customer can wait while the diamond is set or pick it up later.

An exciting exclusive new product is the round cut Eighternity diamond, with 81 facets instead of the usual 58 facets of other diamonds. The stone's unique facets capture light and bend and refract it into a dazzle of rainbow fragments creating higher brilliance and light dispersion as certified by GEMEX. The result is a diamond with pulsating light and shimmering sparkle.

All diamonds 1/2 carat and larger sold by Diamond Castle are certified by the Gemological Institute of America (GIA) or Heidi Malzahn, co-owner of Poise Pilates, demonstrates one of the many pilates techniques used to increase flexibility and reduce lower back pain.

POISE PILATES

(248) 349-3100

Pilates (pul-lah-tees) is a method of strength and flexibility training focusing on the core of the body (abs, glutes and lower back).

Joseph Pilates developed the exercise technique in the 1920s. As a youth, Pilates suffered from physical ailments such as asthma and rickets and dedicated his life to overcoming physical weakness through exercise.

Poise is a fully equipped Pilates studio located at 186 E. Main St., Suite 301, in downtown Northville. It is co-owned by Heidi Malzahn and Susan Steinke. Heidi was first introduced to Pilates over five years ago and after seeing the many positive changes in her own body (better posture, long lean muscles, better flexibility and less lower back pain), she decided to retire from her career as a hairdresser and open her own Pilates studio in July 2001.

"Our goal at Poise is to educate the Northville community about what Pilates is and how it can benefit them!" Heidi explained.

The truth is, almost anyone can do Pilates. Because the exercises start at an easier level and become progressively more difficult as the body becomes stronger, people from every age group and fitness level can start exercising. The clientele at Poise is diverse: men, women, teens, seniors and dancers, from the unfit to the elite athlete.

The highly qualified instructors at Poise conduct private and small group sessions by appointment. Prices range from $16 to $70 an hour. The 90-minute initial private ($50) is the best way to start. To achieve maximum benefits, we suggest attending two to three sessions per week.

Take the first step to a stronger body and call for your appointment today at (248) 349-3100.

GARDENVIEWS

(248) 380-8881

Starting their 10th year in the business, Gardenviews is better known as "a garden catalogue come to life."

Owner Lou Mascolo offers one-of-a-kind, found merchandise that trace its roots in lands far and away. Some of the unique items found at Gardenviews are huge iron gates from Egypt and original furniture pieces made from teak tree roots in Bali.

A chair made of salvaged teak makes an interesting conversational piece in your home collection.

Most of all, Gardenviews is a place where customers come to find inspiration for home decoration and gift giving.

Where do they get all this stuff? Lou and Lori travel extensively to gift shows across the country to bring back the latest trends in the industry.

"Once it's sold, that's it. It's gone. We don't keep re-stocking the item. We've already moved on to the next thing that everyone wants," said Lou.

Many people come to Gardenviews for its beautiful and affordable collection of high-quality, silk flowers and plants. All the merchandise is hand-picked by Lori, who managed to turn a small business segment into a significant one over the years.

"We sell so much that we can sell it for far less than our smaller competitors," said Lou.

More and more people are decorating their homes with seasonal expressions, such as a beautiful autumn wreath.

Every year, Gardenviews holds a Christmas Open House. Savvy customers know to visit on Nov. 1 to check out the best selections.

Although many local residents are familiar with the history of Gardenviews, it's a tale worth telling twice.

When Lou Mascolo was shopping around for a retail space, he wasn't thinking strip mall. What he had in mind was a space as unique as the store he had envisioned.

Then one day he found it in an abandoned gas station.

It took just three months to renovate the space.

Since then, Gardenviews has been featured in articles as an excellent case study in the renovation of old gas stations across the country.

Some customers are pleasantly surprised when they step inside the store for the first time, see all the colors and shapes, and realize this is much more than they had expected.

There's an air of openness and discovery in the store that is palpable, inviting customers to stroll the space and imagine all the David A. Woody, DDS, and staff invite you to join them at their new location in Grand Oaks Centre, Novi.

Conveniently located on the south side of Grand River, just west of Haggerty, this family-oriented local office is dedicated to quality care and friendly service.

Every effort has been made to provide for patient comfort. The décor is attractive and soothing. Patient care rooms are discreetly appointed with a relaxing view through private windows. Earphones and nitrous-oxide sedation are available upon request. The caring staff is intent on making you comfortable.

Dr. Woody has invested in the latest dental technology. Intraoral cameras and an interactive DVD system help explain treatment needs and options, a laser is used to help diagnose decay, and Air Abrasion can be used to remove decay without the need for numbing and drilling. A state-of-the-art sterilization system provides for your safety.

As a general practice, the office provides a full-range of dental procedures, with an emphasis on preventive care and a special interest in cosmetic dentistry.

Procedures range from tooth-colored fillings, natural appearing crowns and bridges, and beautiful porcelain veneers that mask worn teeth, close spaces and balance smiles without braces.

Particularly popular is tooth whitening, a simple procedure with dazzling results. The new ZOOM! system, as seen on Extreme Makeover, will whiten teeth in one office visit.

Take-home kits, with custom trays and professional strength gels, are also available and are currently on sale.

Dr. David A. Woody is a member of the Academy of General Dentistry, Michigan Dental Association, and Oakland County Dental Society.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Dental School, he and his family are long time residents of Novi.

ORIN JEWELERS

(248) 349-6940

Celebrating over 70 years in business, Orin Jewelers continues to offer quality, integrity and style, drawing upon the ideals established by the company's founder, Orin Mazzoni, Sr.

The Orin Jewelers legacy began in 1933 when Orin Sr. began with a watchmaker and jewelry business. He devoted his early years to building his reputation as a fine craftsman, offering quality work and service at a fair price.

Mazzoni's children were very important to the business as well. Growing up in the family apartment above the Garden City store, the children had the unique opportunity to learn the business at an early age, garnering a vast knowledge from their father. In time, the children were ready to take a more active role in the family business. In 1969, Orin Jr., along with his brother Michael and sisters Joyce and Carol, were ready to run the family business, beginning a new chapter in the storied history of Orin Jewelers, building upon traditions their father had established.

A new chapter in the Orin Jewelers story began with the opening of their second store, in downtown Northville, in 1983. Located on the northeast corner of Main and Center streets, Orin Jr. realized the importance of the store's building to the community, and put much time and effort into revitalizing and restoring it to reflect its original grandeur.

Equally important was the need to provide the community with a quality jeweler.

The staff at Orin Jewelers participates in many fund-raisers and special events.

Twenty years later, as the People's Choice Award winner for Best Jeweler in 2001 and 2003, Orin Jewelers continues to provide the Northville area with fine quality and service.

Orin's has their own design and repair shop (in the Garden City store) allowing them to custom-design a finished piece of jewelry from a customer's drawing or idea. Often a modification can be made to an existing piece of jewelry to make it a more personal item for a customer. Restoration and repair of existing pieces of jewelry is also a strong part of Orin's shop.

"A lot of times a customer will come to us because they cannot find anyone to repair their piece of jewelry," says Orin Mazzoni, Jr. "Quite often, that consumer ends up being a lifelong Orin's customer and cheerleader, recommending us to their relatives and friends because we took the time to repair their piece of jewelry. We try to evaluate each item that is brought to us. We recognize that it isn't necessarily the value of the item that is important as much as it may be the sentiment and history of the item that gives it the importance that it has to the customer."

Both Orin Jewelers locations have properly credentialed appraisers with the ability to provide professional, detailed appraisals.

"All of our appraisals are reviewed and signed by one of our Registered Jewelers or Certified Gemologists, ensuring accuracy and proper identification and valuation of the jewelry being examined," says Orin. "We frequently have customers come to us for appraisals because of referrals from their family, friends, and sometimes even their insurance agent or company, because of the detailed nature of the appraisal we provide."

Orin's is heavily involved in the various events held in the city throughout the year, exhibiting in the annual Chamber Business Expo; sponsoring events during the Art-in-the-Sun, 4th of July and Holiday Lighted Parades; dressing their sales staff in period costume during the Victorian Festival, just to name a few. A scholarship is offered at Northville High School each year to a graduating senior, in addition to many other fundraisers, programs, and community events.

Orin Jewelers, located at 101 E. Main St., is open Monday through Wednesday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Thursday and Friday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

ST. JOHN'S GOLF & CONFERENCE CENTER

(734) 414-0600 • www.stjohnsgc.com

St. John's Golf & Conference Center is a facility rich with history and beauty.

Its story began in the late 1940s when St. John's Provincial Seminary opened its doors. A new chapter began in 2000 when the facility reopened as St. John's Golf & Conference Center, a comprehensive center for corporate and social conferences, weddings and celebrations.

The Center provides a remarkable setting and boasts a number of unique features including: stately Romanesque architecture; two elegant ballrooms, which can accommodate up to 300 guests and have 25-foot ceilings with hand-painted inlays; 23 distinct meeting rooms, ideal for corporate functions; and a challenging 27-hole championship golf course adjacent to Carl's Golf and retail center and year-round, heated driving range. A full-service restaurant, The Mission Grille, is open daily for lunch and dinner during golf season and weekdays for lunch during off-peak season. For many obvious reasons, couples choose St. John's for their wedding site. Although only Catholic ceremonies are performed in the chapel, both Catholic and non-Catholic couples may rent the facilities for wedding receptions.

The story will begin yet another chapter in August when St. John's will break ground for a full-service hotel, which is slated to open in December 2005. The Inn at St. John's will be adjoined to the east side of the conference center. It will offer 118 rooms, including Presidential Suites. During the construction period, St. John's will maintain a regular business operation.

St. John's is located at 44045 Five Mile Road, in Plymouth.

BRIARPOINTE VETERINARY CLINIC

(248) 449-7447 • www.bpvvet.net

Briarpointe Veterinary Clinic in Novi opened its doors in June 1996. Originally, a satellite practice for Pearce Veterinary Hospital in Southfield, the practice has grown so much that both Dr. Studer and Dr. Parker are now at the Novi location full-time.

Briarpointe is a full-service veterinary clinic offering surgery, dentistry, diagnostic work, prescription diets, preventive medicine programs, vaccinations, pet education and more.

"We recommend people bring in their pets for yearly check-ups. Because a dog's life is 5-7 years to one human year, their life is more compressed and therefore a lot more things can change within a year," said Dr. Studer.

Dr. Studer enjoys the ever-changing aspect about being a vet.

"Every situation is unique even though you've seen it many times before," said Dr. Studer.

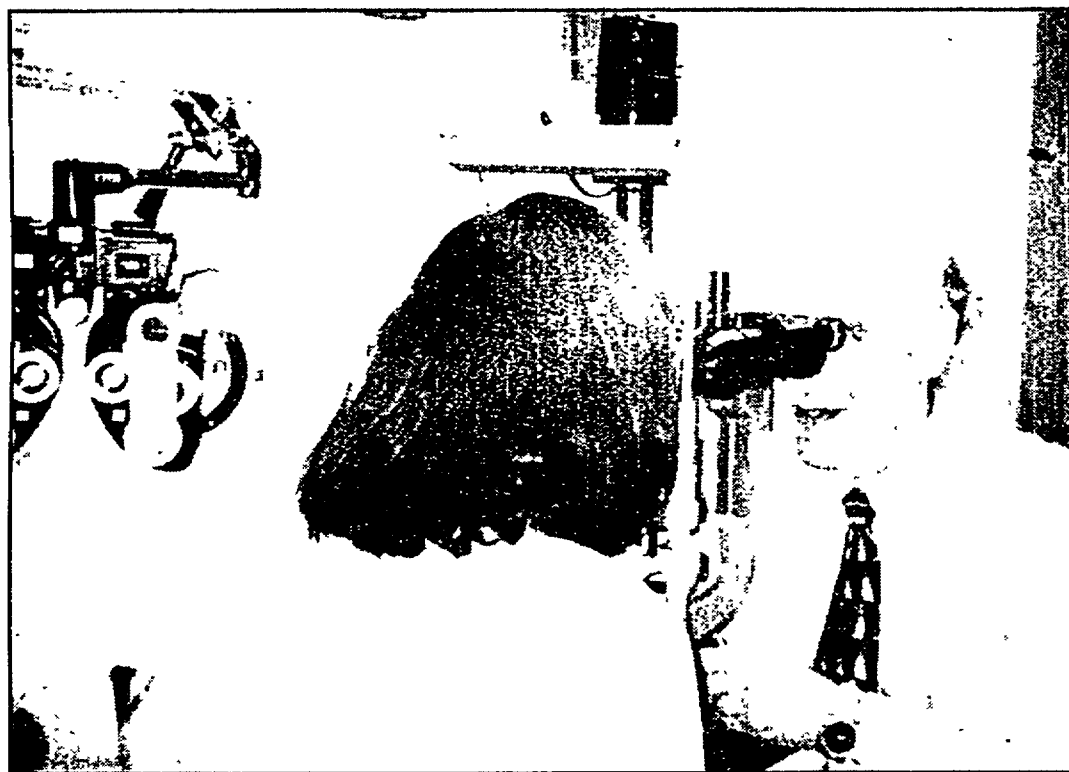

Dr. Studer graduated from Michigan State University as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine in 1973. In 1993 he received a Master's Degree in counseling from Oakland University and is a Licensed Professional Counselor.

Dr. Parker graduated from Michigan State in 1982 with an undergraduate degree in medical technology and again in 1988 as a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine. He is a member of the Association of Avian Veterinarians and has a special interest in gastrointestinal diseases.

"We share the same goals and positive attitude when it comes to treating our patients," said Dr. Parker of his working relationship with Dr. Studer.

Briarpointe is located at 47330 Ten Mile Road, in the Briarpointe Plaza on the northeast corner of Beck and Ten Mile roads. Hours are Mondays and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Dr. Shepherd takes the time to answer patients' questions so they can see the whole picture.

DAVID M. SHEPHERD, MD

(248) 347-8030

Board-certified ophthalmologist David M. Shepherd, M.D., brings years of training and experience, the latest technology, a superbly qualified and dedicated staff, and the finest in eyeglasses and contact lenses to give his patients the best in one-stop eye care.

"Our overall goal is to preserve and improve vision," says Dr. Shepherd, a graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School. His ophthalmology training was completed at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, and he has been in practice for over 27 years.

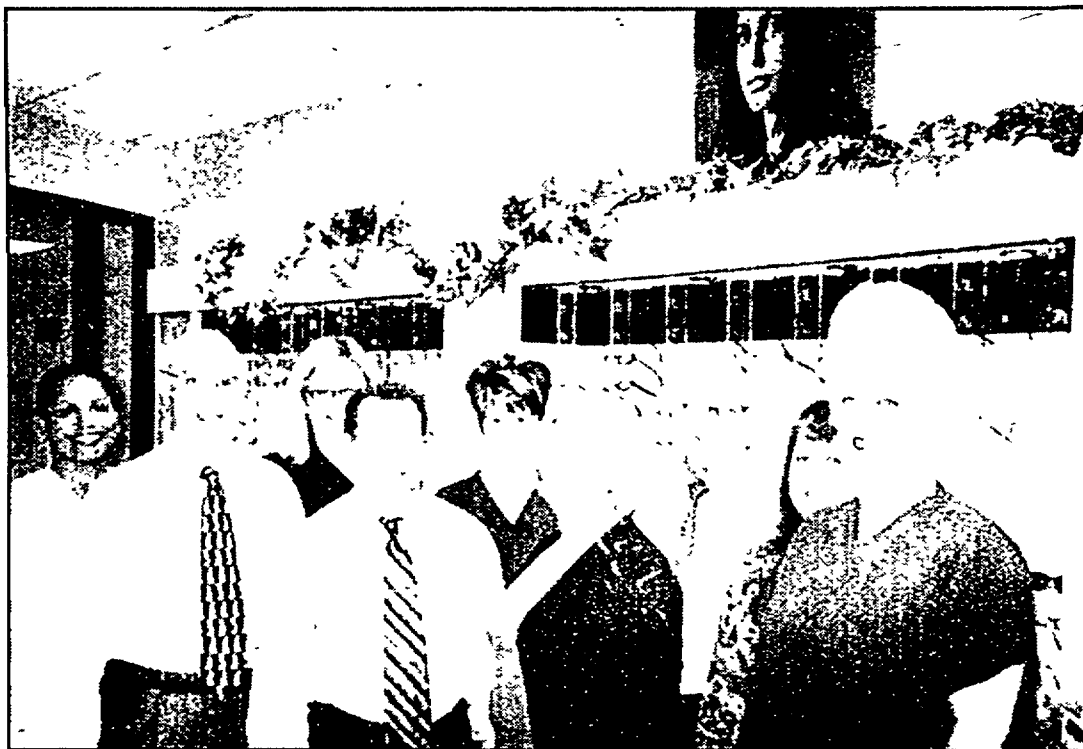

Dr. Shepherd specializes in no-needle, no-stitch, micro-incision cataract surgery, which allows his patients to resume daily activities more quickly after surgery. He uses the IOL Master machine to select the lens implant. He says this method is more accurate than ultrasound and significantly reduces the need for glasses for distance vision after cataract surgery.

He also treats diabetic eye diseases, glaucoma, other ophthalmic conditions of the eye, and offers preventative treatment for macular degeneration.

The Ophthalmic Diagnostic Suite houses state of the art equipment used in his office.

"The office has two lasers on site," says Dr. Shepherd. "Patients don't have to go to the hospital for laser treatment." The office also has a defibrillator for

Optometrist Dr. Martin B. Rudick, O.D., a graduate of the University of Michigan and the Illinois School of Optometry, performs routine eye exams, and prescribes and fits eyeglasses and lenses. He has the latest in contact lenses: disposable, color, bifocal, soft and gas-permeable lenses.

Both Dr. Shepherd and Dr. Rudick are very thorough in their examinations and enjoy helping their patients to understand their eyes and their vision.

Style-Eyes Optical, handled by optician Gary Brakoniecki, carries stylish frames from Gucci and Marchon to Ralph Lauren and Guess to low-cost frames. Ongoing specials include getting up to $25 off a pair of glasses or 20 percent off a complete pair of glasses with the purchase of a one-year supply of contact lenses.

The business is located at 41935 W. Twelve Mile Road, in Novi, just east of Twelve Oaks Mall. — By Susan Misukaitis

Greetings to all and welcome to the Milford Memories Festival!

We are glad you chose to come to our community and see what Milford is all about. Visit our art fair comprised of 265 artists from all over the United States and Canada; eat delicious food at our fabulous restaurants or festival vendors; and enjoy terrific entertainment by numerous musicians.

The 13th annual Milford Memories offers something for everyone — young and old alike. Be sure to take in all of the events from Kids' Central to the Civil War Encampment and the artists' booths to the Central Park entertainment on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Also, take in the beauty of our downtown, including its historic buildings, its lovely parks, Victorian lights and outstanding landscaping.

We truly hope you enjoy our Festival and our community, but most importantly, we hope you will return to Milford.

Joell Beether

Events Manager

Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce

Everyone will enjoy this year's summer fun

On behalf of the Milford Village Council and the entire Milford community, welcome to our Milford Memories festival. Every year as our largest community event begins, we see the population of the village grow to nearly 10 times its normal size. As the excitement builds and the 600 plus volunteers get busy, all the familiar sights and sounds come rushing back. Joining our own superb downtown restaurants and merchants will be more than 265 artists and crafters, street musicians and food and beverage concession stands. With Friday and Saturday dancing and entertainment in Central Park and, of course, the Civil War encampment with its "guaranteed to make you jump" canon, please enjoy you days and nights with good, old-fashioned fun.

Once again thank you for visiting our home town.

Ron Fowkes

President, Milford Village Council

Weekend offers fun for all

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

Milford plans to make 13 a lucky number as the village gears up for the 13th annual Milford Memories Summer Festival.

The art and entertainment festival starts Friday, Aug. 13, and features arts and crafts, music, food and much more.

Joell Beether, events manager for the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce, said she is looking forward to Milford Memories because of the increased number of artists coming to town.

"People are amazed at the variety of goods offered for sale," she said. "From handmade jewelry to children's toys, all types of pottery and unique clothing — we have it all."

Art in the Village will again be the main attraction of the festival with more than 265 artists taking part this year. Beether said so many artists want to exhibit at Milford Memories, that there will be some set up on Liberty Street.

"We had to figure out creative ways to make room for everyone," she said.

Music has become a traditional part of Milford Memories and performances will take place throughout the weekend. Musicians will be located at Mill Pond Pavilion, the Central Park Gazebo and the beer tent in Central Park. Beether said there will be a mix of musical styles from local performers.

In addition to the beer tent, Central Park is the home of many of the weekend's events. Children's games and activities will be at Kid Central, the ever-popular Cold Butt Euchre tournament, the blindfolded canoe races and pancake breakfast will all be in Central Park.

The park is also home to the Civil War encampment. Beether said that event has grown in recent years and will feature a new William's gun this year.

"It's really a neat experience to walk back there and check it out," Beether said.

She also noted there will be no Mutt-a-Rama this year as the festival organizers attempt to become pet free. Beether said the Chamber hopes those attending will just leave their pets at home.

"It's really scary for little children to be staring directly into a dog's face, so we are hoping everyone just cooperates."

The shuttle bus will run again this year. Visitors will be able to catch the shuttle from a pick-up spot behind Holden's Party Store on S. Milford Road and be dropped off at the Village Party Time store at Huron and S. Main streets or at Commerce and union streets in front of the Milford Historical Society.

There will be plenty of nourishment on hand, as well with Gravity, Five Lakes Grill, Lei Ting, Starbucks, Milford House Bar and Grill, Coffee Works and the Village Butcher all offering their best items.

Beether said the Chamber is expecting 100,000 people to attend this year's Milford Memories. She said the event has remained so popular because of the Milford community. Beether said that while the event is very large, it isn't overwhelming.

"It's just a great event," she said.

Milford Memories will run from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 13; 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 15. Shuttle buses will run continuously throughout the weekend.

Main Street will be closed to traffic starting at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 12.

The Milford Memories festival increases the community's population tenfold for the weekend. The festival runs all day Friday through Sunday, Aug. 13 to 15.

Get your fill at Milford Memories

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

A summer festival wouldn't be the same without good eats. Milford Memories aims to please again this year as local restaurants and vendors combine to make sure visitors get their fill.

Sharon Flora organizes the food vendors for the festival and said this year's offerings include all the fried and grilled goodies people love. Flora said the most popular items in the past have been the roasted corn, roasted almonds and butterfly chips, which are deep fried, sliced potatoes topped with sour cream, cheese and other items.

"That definitely is a specialty item," Flora said.

Sausages, hot dogs, kettle corn, funnel cakes and elephant ears will all be available for hungry festival-goers.

Flora said she often gets request from people for food they would like to see offered, such as the elephant ears. She also said she tries to keep in mind what people like to eat at festivals as well as what items are different from what is offered by local restaurants.

"I don't like to take business from them (the restaurants)," Flora said.

Many of the local restaurants will themselves be tempting visitors with special treats. Steve Grostick, chef de cuisine at Five Lakes Grill, said they will be serving up a chicken chimichanga in a flour tortilla and a green chili sausage with peppers and onions. Grostick said Five Lakes scales down its selections to keep with the festival atmosphere. He said the sausages are usually a popular choice.

"That goes over real well," Grostick said.

They will also have beer and wine and a seating area in front of the restaurant on Main Street.

Jim Eggl, owner of Gravity Bar and Grill in Milford, said he will have a seating area on Main Street as well serving hot dogs, bratwurst, beer and wine. Eggl said he will also have a band, Whack the Mole, performing Friday and Saturday nights.

He said he always tries to be involved in Milford Memories in some way and this will be the first year Gravity has taken part.

"It's a great opportunity for us," Eggl said.

The Village Butcher will again be hosting Billy Bones as he barbecues chicken and ribs in front of the store on Liberty Street. Owner Greg Holinski said they will also have shrimp cocktails. He said this is the third year his business has had food offerings during Milford Memories and that they've served more and more people each year.

Starbucks will be selling their Starbucks brand beverages, such as frappicinio, and Jones Soda during the event.

Perry Sinacola, owner of Milford House Bar and Grill, said his restaurant will be serving some traditional festival foods such as jumbo hot dogs, Italian sausage and pizza by the slice. He said they will also be serving beer and wine.

Lei Ting and Milford Coffee Works will also be serving special food throughout the weekend.

Julie Sanborn (left) and Chris Smith work the Pancake Breakfast for the Rotary Club of Milford at last year's Milford Memories. Last year, more than 550 volunteers helped make the festival a success. Organizers are continuing to look for people to help out — both this year and in future years.

Volunteers make festival possible

By Aileen Wingblad

STAFF WRITER

Even though Milford Memories is just a week away, it's not too late to volunteer to help out.

At Milford Memories 2003, some 555 volunteers logged 2,300 hours, augmenting the efforts of the staff of the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Milford Memories steering committee. This year, Milford Memories Volunteer Coordinator Cathy Dykstra hopes to see 700 people sign up for the downtown Milford event, to be held Aug. 13, 14 and 15.

"People don't realize how large of a volunteer pool we need to draw from," Dykstra said. "Without volunteers, Milford Memories wouldn't occur."

There is a variety of volunteer opportunities available for Milford Memories, from children's activities, beverage stations and maintenance to street patrol, the information booth, the beer tent and more. Dykstra said she will do all she can to accommodate requests, but asks that each person commit to a two-hour shift.

"What we are looking for are individuals who are interested in giving back to the community," she added.

"And through this positive contribution, volunteers are doing something that makes Milford attractive to outsiders."

What's more, volunteering is a tremendous way to enjoy the summertime spectacular — by being involved in it and being involved in its success, said Joell Beether, events manager for the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce.

"Volunteers are the backbone of our events," Beether said. "If we didn't have volunteers, we wouldn't have events."

Many volunteers return each year to Milford Memories, but Dykstra said new faces are always welcomed — and needed. "I'd love to hear from anyone who wants to help. The ultimate would be to get 1,500 volunteers, but I really would like to see at least 700."

To volunteer for Milford Memories 2004 or for more information, contact the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce at (248) 685-7129, e-mail the chamber at info@milfordmemories.com or visit the Web site at www.milfordmemories.com. All volunteers receive a T-shirt, bottle of water and a meal ticket.

OR, DON'T.

An exercise in freedom.

By deciding to continue reading, you've just demonstrated a key American freedom—choice. And, should you choose to turn the page, take a nap or go dye your hair blue, that's cool too.

Because while rights like freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom of the press get all the attention in the Constitution, the smaller liberties you can enjoy every day in America are no less important or worthy of celebration.

Your right to backyard barbeques, sleeping in on Sundays and listening to any darned music you please can be just as fulfilling as your right to vote for the president. Maybe even more so because you can enjoy these freedoms personally and often.

So take a moment to celebrate all the little liberties you enjoy in America. Or, forget all this and choose to take them for granted—it's a free country.

FREEDOM. APPRECIATE IT. CHERISH IT. PROTECT IT.

Catch up with friends at beer tent

By Philip Allmen

EDITOR

Whether stopping by Milford Memories for the artisans, food or activities, most everyone eventually makes it to the beer tent at Central Park.

It is, after all, reunion central.

"It's the best area of the weekend," said Beer Tent chair Ann Bergstrom. "Everyone you haven't seen in ages comes down. It's a lot of fun. It's a great place to meet people. People get together, reminisce about old times and make plans to meet again in the future."

The beer tent will be open Friday through Sunday. Friday hours are 7 p.m. to midnight, Saturday hours are noon to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to midnight, and on Sunday, the tent will be open noon to 4 p.m.

And this year's event will be bigger than ever, Bergstrom noted.

"We've enlarged the fenced-in area, because the crowds are getting larger and larger," she said.

Labatt Blue is the official beer sponsor. Those ages 21 and over will have a choice between Labatt, Rolling Rock (including low-carb beer Green Light), Beck or bottled cocktails.

But there's plenty more to do at the beer tent than simply drink.

DJ Meats of Highland will be located inside the fenced-in beer tent area, serving up various delicacies to the public. Food items will run $5 to $9, said Bergstrom.

And music will rock Central Park throughout the weekend, with each performing band at the park featuring classic rock.

"We seem to get the biggest crowds with classic rock," Bergstrom said. "All the entertainment is coming from the Huron Valley, which is great."

On Friday from 8 p.m. to midnight, Mr. Moody will take the stage. Saturday afternoon features The Icemen, while The Shin Dig takes the stage Saturday night. On Sunday afternoon, Groove Kings will round out the beer tent entertainment.

Even if it's just for a brief spell, the beer tent is the place to be.

"The beer tent is a great starting off point," said Bergstrom. "Grab some lunch, have a glass of beer and plan your weekend at the festival."

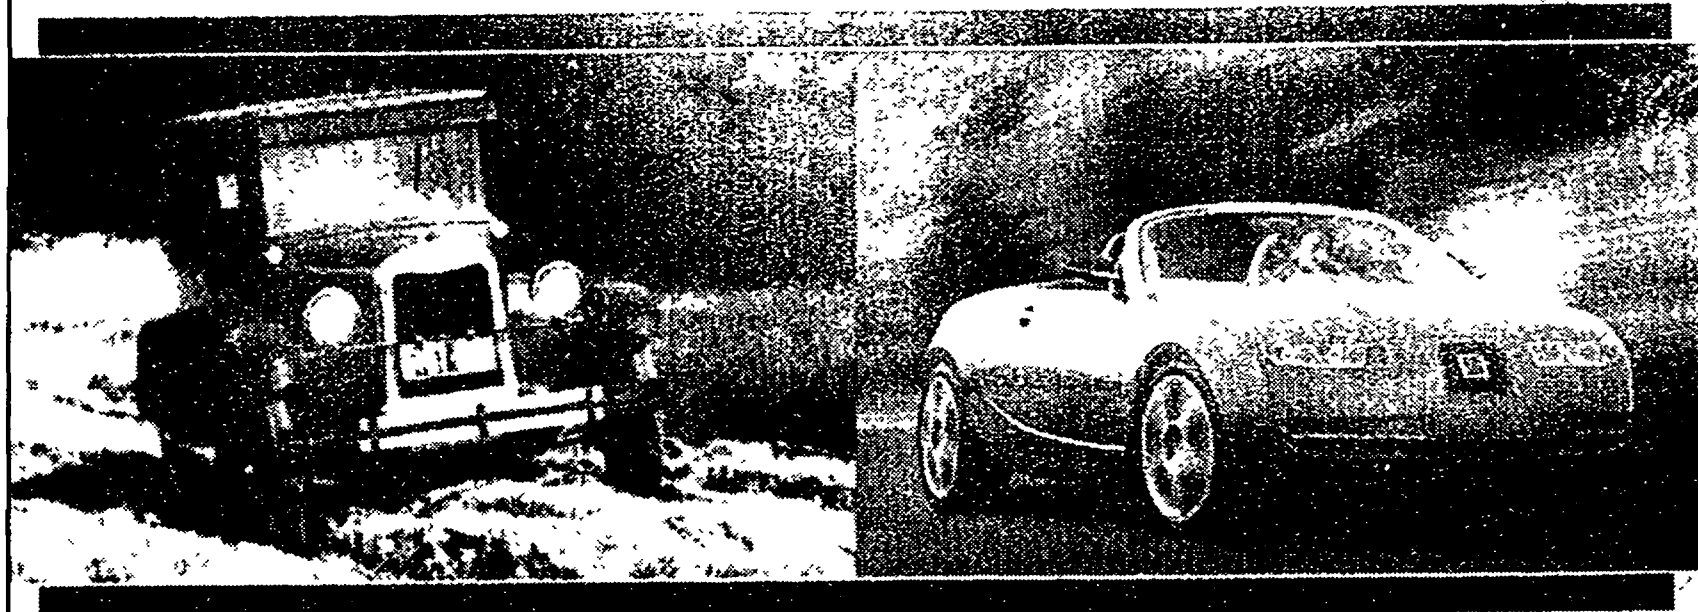

Entry to the beer tent is free during the weekend afternoons. Anyone is allowed inside the beer tent before 4 p.m. In the evening, admission is $3 and open only to those ages 21 and over.

"Everyone you haven't seen in ages comes down. It's a lot of fun. It's a great place to meet people."

History comes alive at Milford Memories at the Civil War encampment.

Civil War lives and breathes during weekend

By Kate Phillips

STAFF WRITER

Milford Memories began as a celebration of Milford's history, and the history is still a main focus of the event. Civil war re-enactors will camp out in Central Park every day and will mingle with crowds on Main Street.

"It's fun for families because they will experience living, breathing history," said Joan Spiroff, committee coordinator.

The blue and the gray will fight it out — with about 40 soldiers firing on one another. Two cannons will blast away. The soldiers will also demonstrate the more mundane parts of army life — cooking, camp chores and artillery drills.

New this year is the world's first machine gun, which was actually pulled by a horse and used in several Civil War battles. It shoots 20 rounds per minute. Soldiers will demonstrate its capabilities.

"This gun was very important because it worked rain or shine," said Spiroff.

A group of women will set up a typical 19th century village, complete with bath house. They'll be making soap, candles, cheese, and will even host an old-fashioned taffy pull. They'll talk their way through the tasks.

During the festival, small units will march some of the drills down Main Street. They'll take plenty of time to talk with the people, too.

"What I like the best is talking to people," said local re-enactor, Gordon Peterson. "I explain what happened in the Civil War and why it happened."

"Slavery was a big issue of the war, but there was also the issue of a strong centralized government. The southern states were more in favor of a loose confederate of autonomous states, while the north favored a central government. Before the war, when people talked about our country, they would say 'The United States are...' after the war, they would say 'The United States is...' We were one nation instead of a group of states."

"When I talk history with kids, I try to make it seem like it was not long ago, and not far away."

The encampments will be available 1 to 8 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. - 9 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday. Look for specific events on the daily schedule posted at the encampment, which is toward the rear of Central Park.

Artisans a big draw at Milford Memories

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

While people may stay at Milford Memories for the music, food and general pleasant atmosphere, they come for the art. Art in the Village is the festival's main draw and people can't get enough of quality items offered.

Dianne Quinn, who organizes Art in the Village along with her daughter, Raychel Rork, said this year will feature the most artists ever, with 116 of the more than 265 artists coming from places throughout the country and Canada to take part.

"It's going to be a great event," Quinn said.

She said there will be art to satisfy every taste from paintings to sculptures to wood work to jewelry to art that can be worn. Quinn said there is also something in everyone's price range, as well.

Milford Memories has become so popular over the years that Quinn has a very long waiting list of artisans who would like to participate. Since Milford can accommodate only so many booths, many artists are left out each year.

"This is really hard to do," Quinn said.

She said one of the reasons so many people want to be involved is because of Milford itself.

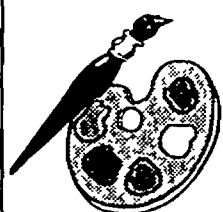

"Milford is a beautiful, darling town," Quinn said.

She said the town has made many improvements over the years which has added to its attractiveness. Quinn the people who are moving to the area are all looking for unique artwork for their walls.

"So it's a perfect fit," she said.

Same Ownership,
Same Great Service!

Museum will open during festival

By Aileen Wingblad

STAFF WRITER

While enjoying Milford Memories' excitement and fervor along Main Street and in Central Park, take a few minutes and stroll on over to the Milford Historical Museum for a calming step back into time.

For the first time ever, the museum will be open for extended hours during Milford Memories, providing a prime opportunity for people to gaze inside the community's roots.

"Traditionally, the festival is a homecoming thing," said Judith Reiter, president of the Milford Historical Society. "Milford Memories says 'you really can come home again' — and the Milford Historical Museum is where the memories are kept."

The museum will be open on Friday, Aug. 13, from noon to 4 p.m. and Saturday, Aug. 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Docents will be on hand to guide visitors through the charming 1853 Greek Revival-style home on Commerce Street which is bursting with historical artifacts and memorabilia including furniture, photos, housewares and more. Those interested in purchasing historical photos which the historical society has mass-produced — Bird's Eye View and a panoramic view of Milford — can do so by stopping in at the museum as well. Money raised goes back to the historical society.

Refreshments will be available on site with members of the Milford Historical Society selling hot dogs and lemonade. Those proceeds will go to the historical society, too.

Reiter urges everyone to consider making the museum one of their stops during Milford Memories, including folks who have been through the museum before. "We have a new museum director, Debbie Sanchez, and assistant director, Marlene Gomez, and they are looking at the museum through different eyes," she said. "I really think that besides one's own experience, having it interpreted with a different perspective gives one a different experience. Besides, we're air-conditioned, which is always welcome this time of year."

The historical society has an important tie to Milford Memories — the festival was begun when a member of the historical society wrote a musical play, "Milford Memories," added Reiter. "And we are here for when people come in to this community, drawn in by the wonderful ambiance and all the history that is here. We have it nicely packaged and interpreted here in the museum."

Also throughout the weekend, the historical society will be selling its new 16-month Milford Beauties calendar, featuring mature local ladies at the community's restaurants. The calendars cost $10 and all money raised will go toward the renovation of the historic Ford powerhouse in Central Park.

Admission to the Milford Historical Museum is donation only. The museum is located at 124 E. Commerce, just west of Main Street. For more information, call the museum at (248) 685-7308.

Adults get in on the games at Memories

By Kate Phillips

STAFF WRITER

Games aren't just for kids. Adults can get in on some of the fun, too.

Cold Butt Euchre

What could be better than sitting on an icy stool in the middle of August? How about enjoying an afternoon of euchre while you're at it.

About 20 teams can join the euchre tournament — but they have to sit on 200-pound blocks of ice the whole time. The teams compete until only one team is crowned the winner and earns a $100 jackpot.

"After awhile the cold is just too much. Most people wear warm clothes or waterproof pants," said tournament organizer Katie Regan.

This chilly event was carried over from Milford's Ice Spectacular because of popular demand.

Cold Butt Euchre will be Saturday at noon.

Look for the tournament at noon Saturday in Central Park. Card-sharks can register and pay a $30 team fee the day of the event. The event is sponsored by Brien's Services, Inc.

Blind Canoe Race

The blind canoe races are a riot to paddle in, but they are just as fun to watch. Teams of three jump into a canoe and try to paddle their way around an obstacle course. Here's the catch — both paddlers are blindfolded. The navigator shouts out directions to the other two. Water splashes, canoes rock and sometimes tip. It's like watching a Survivor immunity challenge on television.

Last year one boat of young adults tipped, and paddled on in with the canoe below the water line. It was like a Donald Duck cartoon. Luckily, the Milford Fire Department watches from its own boat, in case someone needs assistance.

"Everybody has a good time doing it," said organizer Katie Regan.

The race starts at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday where the Huron River meets Central Park. First, second and third place teams walk away with gift certificates to local businesses.

The first place winner receives $80 in Chamber bucks; second place earns $50 in Chamber bucks and third place gets $20 in Chamber bucks.

Sponsor Heavner Canoe Rental supplies canoes and all equipment. Teams can sign up at the event. A portion of the $15 team fee goes toward the annual Huron River clean-up.

Children's activities abound at festival

By Aileen Wingblad

STAFF WRITER

Milford Memories is unquestionably a family affair — and that includes plenty to do for the younger set.

Kids will find that Milford's Central Park is the place for fun, fun, fun starting at Kid Central. Sponsored by Farmer Jack, it's a spot for and about youngsters, featuring games, prizes and other activities. From 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Kid Central will be a nonstop good time.

Craft-loving children ages preschool through 12 years can choose from beadmaking, collage design and other projects to take home as one of their special 'Milford memories.' There will also be several vendor booths on site offering accessories for children that can be personalized, as well as a treasure hunt, games and a toy fish pond. "There is a lot of variety and a lot to pick from," said Robin Fletcher, Kid Central chair.

Next, things really start to rev up around 3 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 14, at the remote control car races — Festival 500 — held on the park's sand volleyball court. Sponsored by Brien's Services, the event has four divisions for gas and electric cars, and — new this year — adults with 1/8th scale cars. Entry fees range from $3 to $10.

Area runners gear up for 5K race, 1 mile fun run

By Philip Allmen

EDITOR

Lace up your running shoes and begin your stretches.

The sixth annual Milford Memories 5K race is ready to rumble through Milford Village on Sunday morning of the festival.

The race, which begins at 8:30 a.m. on Aug. 15, starts at the corner of Canal and Main streets and winds through the community to Mont Eagle and Garden streets, where it eventually turns around and returns at the starting point. The race route remains the same as it has in years' past.

"It has worked out pretty well," said run chair Dave Armstrong.

While weather always plays a role in the turnout for the 5K race, Armstrong said he expects a similar number of participants this year as last year. In 2003, 286 runners lined up for the 5K race and 1 mile fun run that precedes it at 8 a.m.

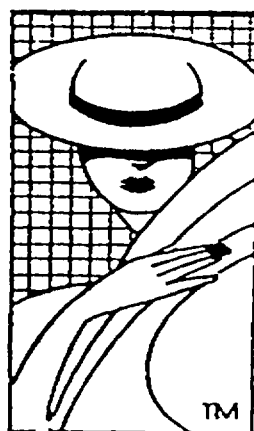

"The weather on race day makes a big difference for the race," Armstrong said. "We've never had terrible weather for Milford Memories."

Most runners sign up on the day of the race, but there are benefits to signing up in advance. Participants receive an official T-shirt, but race organizers typically run out before the final registrant arrives. Anyone registering before the race is guaranteed a souvenir to remember the day.

Sponsors an integral part of Milford Memories

By Aileen Wingblad

STAFF WRITER

What would Milford Memories be without sponsors? Just a memory, apparently.

"We would not be able to have Milford Memories without our generous sponsors. They make it all possible," said Cora Lengeman, membership/sponsorship manager for the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce. "Because of our sponsors, we are able to offer all the wonderful things we do at Milford Memories."

This year, Milford's champion summertime event has more than 50 sponsors. Presenting Sponsors — those giving $10,000 or more in cash or in-kind donations — include the General Motors Proving Ground, Farmer Jack and Milford Times.

"The General Motors Proving Ground has been very involved with the festival since its inception. It is one of our longest-running big sponsors, and we are very grateful to them," Lengeman said.

This year, GMPG will be sponsoring the shuttle buses which bring visitors from Holden's Party Store pick-up spot on South Milford Road to the Village Party Time Store and Huron and South Main streets and to the Milford Historical Society at Commerce and Union streets.

In addition, GMPG will be sponsoring the two-way radios used by the festival workers. Be sure to visit the GM booth near Central Park which will feature a new General Motors truck.

The Milford Times is another sponsor that has been a major part of Milford Memories since its inception. "In the beginning, we wanted to do all we could to make this event a success, so we committed ourselves to promoting it," explained Bob Peri, Milford Times account executive. "We do this all for the privilege of having the status of sponsor. This is a great event for the community that brings in thousands and thousands of people." As a sponsor, Milford Times provides advertising space for Milford Memories in Hometown Newspapers and Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. "We're a part of the community, so we want to be part of the event that showcases it," Peri added.

Farmer Jack's sponsorship includes Kid Central, the fun area geared for the younger set in Central Park. Its donations will cover the cost of supplies for many of the games and other activities, as well as birthday cake for Sunny's Birthday Bash on Sunday, Aug. 15. Visit its booth to learn about the Farmer Jack Club Mom and Baby Bonus Club, which offers savings on purchases, tips and timesavers for families.

Lengeman said sponsorship has its rewards, including the company name or logo on various banners, print advertising and, for presenting sponsors, radio spots. And securing that sponsorship is something that is relatively easy — and for good reason. "It's not difficult to get sponsors because people are very interested in Milford Memories. They know it's a very well-run festival and that about 100,000 people come out to enjoy it. That's a lot of people looking at your company name."

Lengeman said work will begin in September to solicit sponsors for next year's Milford Memories. "Our goal is to obtain a sponsor for each and every event," she said. Anyone interested in sponsorship opportunities can may Cora Lengeman at the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce at (248) 685-7129.

Music delights at Milford Memories

By Erin Johnson

STAFF WRITER

Walk up or down Main Street during Milford Memories and there are plenty of sights to see. Open your ears while strolling and you'll find there is much to hear, as well.

"We've got a little bit of everything," said Joell Beether, events manager for the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Country, reggae, folk and much more will be heard throughout the weekend. Many of the artists are from the area, as well.

Music has become a large part of the festival and Beether said it helps provide a nice atmosphere for those who come to shop or just browse.

The music will be coming from several different spots during the festival. Beginning on Friday, musicians will be performing in two-hour intervals at both the Mill Pond Pavilion and the Center Street Gazebo.

On Friday night, Mr. Moody will be playing in the beer tent in Central Park and Saturday night will feature The Shin Dig. On Saturday afternoon, the beer tent will be open to families during the day who want to hear The Icemen or The Groove Kings on Sunday afternoon.

Beether said some of the performers have been part of Milford Memories in previous years, while others contacted her via e-mail. She said many sent CDs of their music and some of the artists performed in person, both of which helped her decide who to invite to perform.

And on Saturday and Sunday, several radio stations will be on hand. Stations W N I C, WKQI and WDTW will be broadcasting on Saturday and WDVD and WDRQ will be in Milford on Sunday.

Ken Collins returns to this year's festival.

"So that should be a lot of fun," Beether said.

Performances at the Mill Pond Pavilion and Center Street Gazebo will begin at 10:30 a.m. and run until 6:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday; 3:30 p.m. on Sunday. Performances at the beer tent will be from 7 p.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday and from noon to 4 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Armstrong said. For the 5K race, there are 14 male and 14 female divisions based on age, and trophies are awarded to the top three finishers in each of the 28 divisions.

In addition, the top male and top female runners, as well as the top male and female runners ages 40 and over, will be recognized.

For the fun run, Armstrong said all finishers will receive a certificate, and the top three male and female runners will receive a trophy. About 40 runners compete in the 1-mile race each year.

"It's exciting, it's fun, it's crazy," said Brien Worrell, event chair. "We turn the volleyball court into an oval 8 circular track with criss crosses, and Xs. And since it's an outdoor track, it's really fun. People don't often get the chance to race on a track like this, outside."

Last year, the event brought in about 30 competitors with hundreds more watching. Trophies are awarded to winners, and all competitors receive a certificate of participation. Register up until one-half hour before race time, when all cars must be ready.

Saturday night, the Carl's Family YMCA is the place to be for teens. The annual teen dance, now in its fifth year, will be held there from 7 to 11 p.m. Returning this year is D.J. Tom Poster of High Voltage Sound and Light, who will provide terrific entertainment including energizing music accented by a fog machine and a big screen video display. The dance is open to teens ages 13 to 17.

"This is for the kids in that 'gray area' that have nothing to do that night. They want something of their own to do — and they really have a great time at the dance," said Karen Friedman, who has chaired the dance for the past several years. Admission is $3, and pizza, bottled water and soft drinks will be available.

"The uniqueness of the race is it leads into all the other activities going on," said Armstrong. "It's a bigger run since so much is going on (throughout the day). People come and bring the family for everything else going on."

To compete in the 5K race, runners can pay $18 in advance or $20 on race day. The cost for the fun run is $10. Applications can be picked up at the Huron Valley Chamber of Commerce office or downloaded off the Internet at www.milfordmemories.com. The races are sponsored by Specialists in Orthopedic Surgery.

"We'll have impromptu dance competitions, limbo contests, door prizes," Friedman added. "This is for teens who are looking to have a good time, see their friends from school and want to meet new friends."

Friedman reminds parents to make sure their child is old enough to be allowed in the dance, and asks that they make sure they pick them up on time. "We are trying to provide a fun, safe environment for area teens during Milford Memories," she said.

Younger kids will have a reason to return to Central Park on Sunday. It's Sunny's birthday! The Milford Memories mascot will be celebrating its third birthday and wants many well-wishers to help. Sponsored by Heinsight Optical, the fun begins at 1 p.m. "All kids ages 4 to 12 can come and enjoy a fun-filled hour of games, prizes and cake," said Jacquie Collins, who is organizing the birthday bash.
