REMEMBER

Northville honors fallen soldiers

Jim Allen says he can't remember a Memorial Day hotter than Monday.

While the City of Northville fire chief listened to solemn tributes during ceremonies at Rural Hill Cemetery, he monitored by radio emergency crews who helped residents weakened by the 92-degree sunshine.

"We had actually eight people — heat-related, dehydrated — that needed to be cooled down," Allen said. "There was only one transport (to the hospital)."

"That was a larger number than we've had, even on the fourth of July."

Thirteen members of the city's paid-on-call fire fighting force surrounded the ceremonies, Allen said.

"We had the utility rescue unit out, one of the trucks out and at least four people on bike patrol working the parade route," he said. "We were talking about that at the station (Monday) night."

"That was the hottest one we remember."

In his dress uniform seated among the dignitaries during the Rural Hill tribute, Allen kept an eye on the Northville High School marching band members who followed the invocation with "The Star-Bangled Banner."

"Those suits are very warm," he said. The stu-

■ Hey, where was Gov. Granholm?

Gov. Jennifer Granholm packed a little too much into her schedule to make it to Northville Monday, according to her staff.

"We were confirmed to do the program following the Memorial Day parade," Heidi Watson, a spokesperson from the governor's office, said Wednesday. "Then we just couldn't make it work logistically. The group was told."

Parade committee chairperson Dana Manuel, dents, most stripped down to T-shirts, slipped away to cemetery shade after playing "God Bless America."

Northville Mayor Christopher Johnson and Brigadier Gen. Carol Ann Fausone were among the speakers who asked the audience to remember those who had put national security before their own safety and made the ultimate sacrifice. The Hon. John MacDonald of the 35th District Court received a plaque commemorating his 30th consecutive year marching in Northville's Memorial Day parade.

After the closing prayer, Allen said he heard mixed reaction at the announcement Gov. Jennifer Granholm was unable to visit Northville that day.

Nonetheless, the tribute was well-attended and who planned Northville's Memorial Day ceremonies on behalf of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4012, said last week she was looking forward to Granholm returning to her former hometown. Northville residents who watched televised news reports Monday night saw footage of Granholm in Sterling Heights.

"She was coming from the east side, then going back to the east side," Watson said. "We couldn't make it work. It happens with her schedule. We get a lot of invitations."

well-received by area residents, said Allen, 68.

"It was a very, very nice program," he said.

"The VFW does a very nice job putting the thing together and getting people who really have a fitting message for Memorial Day, honoring those who have served their country."

And after an hour of speeches, poems and music, the community members who fell in step behind the parade procession turned on the path back to Seven Mile Road.

Many observed another Northville Memorial Day tradition, sharing complimentary ice cream bars provided by the Casterline and McGuire families. Among them: Jim Allen.

"I've done that since I was a little kid," he said.

"Why should I change it now?"

Park campers look forward to 'S'mores and Snores'

Jennifer McFall imagines stretching out on a sleeping bag, admiring stars.

That will be after she and her husband, Tom, tuck Trent, 5, Wyatt, 4, and Erin, 2, into their sleeping bags in their borrowed tent. The deep woods quiet also will follow an evening filled with nature exploration, melting s'mores and campfire camaraderie.

The Northville family is one of 10 signed up so far to pitch their tent in Maybury State Park June 10-11.

"It's going to be really neat," McFall said. "We're not necessarily big campers."

"It's like going up north, but you don't have to drive up north."

Back to nature

The Friends of Maybury State Park, park staff and the Northville Parks and Recreation Department together planned a "S'mores and Snores" Maybury Family Campout.

The inaugural campout is limited to 25 families of four, said recreation superintendent Pat Brown. The department will schedule similar events if this one is successful, she said.

"It's a beautiful park out there," Brown said. "They're going to enjoy the outdoors and nature. They're going to be together."

"They won't be in front of video games or the TV."

This is the first time the state park has allowed camping since the group camp area was closed down several years ago, said Friends member Jerry Mittman. The June 10 campsite will be near the daycamp building, accessible from the Beck Road entrance, so indoor restroom facilities are nearby, he said.

The event is for experienced and new campers, Mittman said.

CITY PLUGS IN, POWERS BACK UP

But Tuesday electrical outage sparks question: was area properly marked?

AS FIRST REPORTED ON
WWW.NORTHVILLE-RECORD.COM

By David Aguilar
RECORD EDITOR

The lights went out in downtown Northville Tuesday following a series of explosions which sent at least six 25-foot flames bursting into the air.

No one was injured, and power was restored at about 1:15 p.m.

But the three-hour power outage rendered about 1,400 DTE customers powerless, including much of the downtown district.

According to officials, an excavating company punctured a cement-encased DTE electrical circuit buried about 10 feet below the ground along Griswold, between Main and Cady streets.

"We knew what it was when it went off right away," said Frank Kocian, 82, who was driving the backhoe at the time of the explosion and who watched as six highly-charged flames went sailing into the air, licking the leaves of nearby trees.

"At first, we thought it was an old footing," Kocian said, reviewing the charred remains of an exposed electrical circuit responsible for delivering power to residents as far away as Beck and Nine Mile roads.

"It was plenty hot."

Power: back up, but who's to blame?

Kocian said he and two of his employees were continuing installation of a 12-inch water main in the area at the time of the explosion. He said they intended to install a catch basin for overflow storm water behind a house located at the southeast corner of Griswold and Main.

But Kocian, who has for 55 years owned Northville-based Kocian Excavating, said no one ever marked the area for buried electrical lines.

"We called Miss Dig five times, and walked the site with them three times," Kocian said. "If it was marked, we would have known where it was."

Kathleen Fournier, CEO and

"The records available to us indicate they did mark the site. We are continuing to look into this."

John Austerberry
DTE Spokesman

Executive Director for Miss Dig, said the company is not responsible. She said her company functions as an intermediary between private property owners and public utility companies, which sometime subcontract line-marking work.

"Miss Dig does not do the marking," Fournier said. "The individual utility marks their own lines."

DTE spokesman John Austerberry said a preliminary review of Miss Dig records indicate the Griswold site was marked in mid-May by an DTE subcontractor. But he could not specify which portion of the site had been tagged.

"The records available to us indicate they did mark the site," Austerberry said. "We are continuing to look into this."

Businesses grind to a costly halt

Power outage leaves local businesses out bucks, answers

By Tracy Mishler
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Kimberly Behmer had a melting mess on her hands Tuesday morning as a power outage caused her to lose hundreds of dollars in frozen gelato.

The owner of Northville's American Spoon Foods bought five blocks of dry ice from Guernsey Farms Dairy to preserve the Italian ice cream, but that wasn't enough.

"We lost several pans of product," Behmer said. "Right before the power came back on, we needed to buy more dry ice, but Guernsey's was out."

At $10 per block of dry ice, Behmer said the power outage sent a financial charge through her small downtown parlor.

"With the concert series starting Friday, we're fully-stocked," she said.

Jenny Hopkins said she had to shut the doors to Rebecca's Family Restaurant on Center Street.

"We have a generator to keep the ice cream and food cold, but not enough power to run the restaurant," said Hopkins, manager of Rebecca's. "It hurts, but there's nothing you can do. It's out of our control."

Hopkins said she locked the doors and put a note on the front door during the outage to inform customers of the closure.

"My first thought when they said (a main power line was struck) was this won't be a couple of hours," she said. "On a hot day like this, we would definitely do a lot of ice cream business."

Students at Hillside Middle School and Moraine Elementary School were released early due to the outage.

Dr. Kenneth Stopa said the outage didn't stop his chiropractic business.

"Patient's still (came) in," said Stopa, of Main Street Family Chiropractic Center. "We had to reschedule a lot of people, but we still (had) walk-ins, and we worked by candlelight."

Stopa said although he wasn't able to X-ray patients, he was able to perform manual treatments and adjustments.

Hiller's Market had to turn away 30-40 customers due to a broken generator.

Store manager Doug Nied said it took about a half hour to get the store running at full power with only two generators.

"We didn't lose any food, and the coolers (were) at the perfect temperature," Nied said.

One business able to operate during the outage was the Starting Gate.

"It's business as usual," said daytime bartender Nancy Mahaney. "The owners bought generators big enough to run all essentials. We're well prepared."

Mahaney said she expected to gain more business while the power was out.

"A lot of people in town probably went home (during the outage), but there are still a lot of people wandering in," she said. "We're happy to have them."

Terry Hundley called her husband to bring in coolers and take products home at Tuscan Cafe.

"We just want to know who's responsible and who's going to pay, not just for the loss of business, but also the goods," said Hundley, owner. "We still have to pay rent whether the power's on or off."

to invest in equipment, the organizers contacted REI. The outdoor outfitter, at Six Mile and Haggerty roads, is offering discounted tent rentals for Maybury campers.

"There's a lot of enthusiasm," Mittman said. "The park wants to get people out there. The Friends, of course, support that."

"For parks and recreation, it's just a natural tie-in for all three groups."

Sampling camping

When families pay their $25 to register, they receive a campout schedule. Brown said. Activities planned include: a history walk, story telling, guitar music and singing, a campfire, s'mores and a light breakfast Sunday morning.

"We hope it sparks interest in the park," Brown said. "I think it will be fun."

McFall invited her sister-in-law, Sondra Rader, and her children, Tarek, 4, and Holt, 1, to join her family for the campout. They will bring their own tent and dinner to grill outdoors before the evening's activities begin, she said.

However, Friends member McFall said the campout is not just for people with young children.

"I've always wanted to go there at night, but you're not allowed to," McFall said. "I hope people come. It's not something you can normally do."

Mittman, an experienced camper who helped coordinate the event with recreation and park staff, said this event is a great way for people to try out camping. There's even a back-up, inclement weather plan to move sleeping bags inside the day-camp building, he said.

"With the high price of gas, this will be an excellent opportunity to have 'up-north' camping experience almost in one's backyard," he said. "It gives you the feeling you're in the middle of the woods."

"It's a great family activity."

DOWNTOWN: Committee wrapping up recommendations

volunteers were committing to paper the evening before.

Downtown strategic planners — during 10 public workshops, 17 stakeholder meetings and 35 steering committee meetings held the past two years — are putting final touches on steps to enhance the downtown with a few tweaks, while maintaining its historic character.

Final process

During the May 25 meeting, downtown steering committee members reviewed a draft report prepared by the city's strategic planning consultant, Beckett and Raeder of Ann Arbor. A final version of the current 40-page text document, plus photos, diagrams and figures, is due to the city council this month.

The report, rich in consultant language of "market analysis, assessments and physical opportunities," will sport the volunteers' words in appendices.

Committee members talked about changes Northville residents might actually see after the hired guns leave town. The chunks of the plan they're looking at are downtown makeover, parking and marketing.

On target?

As Oestreich paused by the Main Street clock Friday, she considered what she would change about downtown Northville.

"It's nice to modernize things to make them more convenient, but that's when you lose the history," she said. "Parking is a challenge sometimes, but not a problem if you're willing to walk a block."

Oestreich said her daughters' youth, Olivia, 2, and Ariela, 10 months, prevented them thus far from enjoying the downtown concerts or play at Fort Griswold. But, that time is fast approaching, she said.

Most often, Oestreich said her family's visits to Ford Field or Mill Race Historical Village are outings separate from downtown shopping.

"It's like it's cut off," she said. "It's not like we come here and go there."

Makeover not 'extreme'

The Downtown Steering Committee Downtown Makeover sub-committee identified the following priorities:

- A town square, including providing more green space and engaging adjacent Mary Alexander Court businesses
- Integrating the Farmers Market into downtown
- Encouraging sidewalk cafes and outdoor seating, including evaluating ordinances related to right-of-way encroachment
- Improving the connection to Ford Field, including creating a visible connection from Hutton Street
- Creating non-motorized connections and developing clearly identified pedestrian circulation systems with the downtown
- Improving the appearance of the streetscape and parking lots, including regular landscape maintenance and installing way-finding maps
- Enhancing green space and pocket parks, including additional opportunities for people to gather in sun and shade.

What's next?

June 8: Beckett and Raeder to submit final report draft to the city
June 13: Downtown Steering Committee to submit comments
June 26 (tentative): Final presentation to city council and public.

"It's two separate things."

A regular patron of the Thursday Farmers Market, Oestreich said she liked the current location at Seven Mile and Center streets. She wondered where it could be moved without further gumming up the parking situation.

"I guess that land is probably worth a lot."

Community Bible Study

Wednesdays
7:00pm-8:00pm

at 21944 Rossdale Ct.
Northville

This is a Bible study for the whole community. No prior study of the Bible is needed and it does not matter what religious or spiritual background a person has. This will be a Bible Study that will have the Holy Spirit as its guide. If another day of the week is better for you than Wednesday, give me call and let me know. Some of the topics that will be discussed: How a person can be thoroughly furnished with all good works. The two different kinds of understanding that the Bible tells us about: milk and meat. How to identify those that the Lord has sent to deliver his Word, and those who have not been called. Study about Jehovah's two sticks. Also, what the Word of God says about government.

Clock ticking for chance to attend Old Timers luncheon

Any acting wanna-bes out there? Here's your opportunity. As the Northville Parks and Recreation Community Theatre considers "Baby," "Pump Boys and Dinettes" and "Bye, Bye Birdie" for its inaugural production, director Christina Johnson is looking for talent. If you want to get involved in the June 5 auditions from 6-9 p.m., call (248) 515-8963. Show dates will be Aug. 4-6.

Speaking of shows ... what's with the Main Street display of lawn sculptures just west of Clement? More than a dozen children, water creatures, botanicals for all to enjoy ...

And coming up tomorrow night ... it's time for the First Fridays Art Walk again. Local galleries and participating businesses downtown host exhibit openings, special displays, music and complimentary hors d'oeuvres from 6-9 p.m.

The Art Record sent out a postcard invitation titled simply, "Diction," to preview the Northville Arts Commission's opening reception 5:30-8:30 p.m. tomorrow, featuring Kristi Beaver, Mitch Cope, Sergio DeGiusti, Dick Goody, Ray Katz, Frank Pahl, Mary Potts and Clinton Snider. The exhibit runs through Aug. 6.

Special for the June first Friday, the Sherrus Gallery of Fine Art will feature Indiana artist Tom Slack painting an oil rendering of downtown Northville during a wine and cheese reception, starting at 6 p.m.

Then ... Slack is back! At the Cady Street Art House on Saturday, the artist will conduct a seven-hour workshop, focusing on his unique method for capturing and incorporating light and reflections in oil, acrylic and pastel art. For registration information, call (248) 380-0470.

And speaking of talent ... Members of the Hillside Middle School eighth grade Girl Scout Troop 438 have been working extra hard lately.

Elizabeth Bullington, Jessica Coman, Madeline Frogner, Emily Horbatch, Marie Samson and Melissa Scott have been organizing the first Girl Scout Thinking on Your Feet Day in pursuit of their Silver Award, an athletic event for elementary students to benefit Northville Civic Concern.

It's a date! Members of the grass-roots group, Voices of Maybury Farm, have rescheduled their monthly meeting to 3:30-5 p.m. this Sunday. See you at the Northville District Library!

Speaking of Maybury, the Friends of Maybury State Park and their friends will observe National Trails Day 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Saturday by reconstructing trails damaged by winter weather. Interested in helping out? Meet at the park maintenance shed behind the park office near the Beck Road entrance. Wheelbarrows welcome!

Speaking of wheelbarrows ... or any other type of lawn and garden or household item you might be ready to part with. The Stockhausen's annual fund-raiser community garage sale is fast approaching. The Dunlap at Wing Street yard will be filled with donated treasures July 13-15 sold by volunteers with proceeds to benefit the Girl Scouts and Northville Historical Society. More details to follow ...

And if you're not too tired of Jimmy Hoffa jokes yet ... is that what the digging has been about all these months at the Eight Mile and Taft gas station?

Congratulations to Northville resident, Eileen Ashley! The Detroit regional manager for Comerica's Wealth and Institutional Management Division has been promoted to senior vice president. A 28-year Comerica veteran, Ashley also provides clients with private banking, trust and estate administration, portfolio management, and securities and insurance services.

And in the "Something New" department ... it's the Friday flick at the Northville Senior Community Center. The romantic comedy stars Sanaa Lathan as a woman who has achieved professional success, but still yearns for a fulfilling personal life. Showtime: 1 p.m. Cost: $1.

And speaking of fulfilling lives ... the Old Timers are looking for comrades to share memories of Northville at their annual luncheon June 5 at Genetti's. The clock is ticking ... For information, call (248) 349-1814.

Police still searching for kidnap, robbery suspects

Stolen truck found, suspects still at large

By Tracy Mishler
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Northville Township police recovered the red 1996 Dodge pickup stolen by two men who allegedly assaulted, kidnapped and robbed a 49-year-old South Lyon man May 24.

The truck was found Friday night at Bucca's Restaurant in Livonia on Six Mile Road, east of Haggerty Road.

"Our technicians we're able to secure evidence from within the truck," said Lt. Greg Rhodes. "But we still have no major leads."

According to police, the victim, Carl Kroll, who refurbishes and sells homes, was contacted by the suspects to view a Redford home.

After unlocking the door, Kroll said the suspects assaulted him, put a towel over his head and took his wallet.

Rhodes said the men then found the victim's checkbook and forced him into his own truck.

"He was forced to lie on the floor of the truck and the suspects drove to Republic Bank (on Eight Mile Road in Northville Township)," Rhodes said. "The suspects wanted the man to withdraw $5,000 from the bank's drive-up window, but couldn't because of the large amount."

Rhodes said the suspects then parked across the street and forced Kroll to go inside the bank and bring the money out.

"He went in, withdrew the money and mouthed 'help me' to the teller," Rhodes said. "The teller then hit the alarm, and we then responded to the scene."

According to police, the man crossed Eight Mile where the truck was parked and gave the suspects the $5,000, who then fled the scene.

Kroll told police the suspects, described as two black males, did not display weapons.

According to police, Kroll was treated at Providence Hospital in Novi and released.

Rhodes said Northville Township police are working with Redford police officials, but have no leads.

Police asked that anyone who has any information about the kidnapping and robbery to call the Northville Township Police at (248) 349-9400 or the Redford Township Police Department at (313) 387-2500.

POLICE BRIEFS

Missing tires

A 50-year-old Northville Township man called police after tires stored under his deck went missing. According to reports, the man believes the tires were taken by his neighbor's lawn service. Police contacted the neighbor who said she would prefer to contact the lawn service. The case is closed.

Smoke bombs set off

Northville Township police arrested three Northville High School students May 18 after they allegedly set off smoke bombs in two bathrooms and a hallway.

According to reports, the police liaison officer was tipped off by students knowing the suspects. Each student was questioned about their role in the incidents.

Police issued each student an appearance ticket for possession of a noxious substance. The case is closed.

Road rage leaves marks

A case of road rage left a 35-year-old Northville woman rattled on Six Mile Road. According to reports, the woman told Northville Township police she turned into her apartment complex on Cove Drive from Six Mile Road and a man in a silver Volvo station wagon followed her. The woman said the suspect then exited his car, opened her door and began yelling about her driving. She said she quickly closed her door and drove around the lot of Cedar Lakes Apartments until she thought the suspect left. According to reports, when the woman returned to her car the next day, the right rear door of her Pontiac G6 was scratched. The case is closed.

Muddy feet

Northville Township police were dispatched to a home under construction on East Crystal Downs after a Toll Brothers employee found the rear basement window of the home broken out and muddy footprints on the basement floor. Police said the suspect entered the home from the basement and left through the garage, which was locked. Damages were estimated at about $500. The case is closed.

Assaulted

A 44-year-old Senate Coney Island employee called Northville Township police after she was allegedly grabbed by the mother of a former employee. According to reports, the woman said she was standing behind the restaurant counter when she was grabbed on the arm by the 49-year-old Plymouth woman. The victim said she did not get along with the suspect's daughter and that was the reason she was upset. According to police, the victim does want to press charges. The case remains open.

Stolen BB guns

Police were dispatched to Meijer on Haggerty Road after a 17-year-old Livonia man was caught allegedly stealing two BB guns. According to reports, loss prevention officials witnessed the man in the sporting goods department looking at the BB guns. They told police it looked like the man had a gun concealed in the front pocket of his pants. The man was later observed selecting two BB guns, removing their packaging and concealing them in his clothes. He was also observed taking a bottle of pellets and attempting to leave the store without offering payment. Police arrested the man for retail fraud. He was given a June 8 court date at the 35th District Court in Plymouth.

Police bust Plymouth man for alleged sex act

By Tracy Mishler
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Northville Township police stepped up Hines Park patrols following a recent arrest of alleged gross indecency between two males.

According to police, a 39-year-old Plymouth man was arrested May 8 for allegedly performing oral sex with another man, near what is known as the "Table Top" at Five Mile and Sheldon roads.

"One of our bicycle officers on patrol came upon the two males being intimate with each other," said Detective Sgt. Matt Mayes. "One of the suspects fled, but the officer was able to arrest the Plymouth man."

Mayes said the fine for gross indecency is five years in prison or a $2,500 fine, depending on the judge's discretion.

The suspect pled not guilty at his May 25 arraignment at 35th District Court in Plymouth.

A preliminary exam is scheduled for tomorrow, Mayes said.

"When it's not a crime against a person, we routinely release attorneys until the prosecuting attorney determines if there is enough evidence to pursue charges or deny," he said.

"A warrant was issued for the suspect on May 15, but now we're just waiting."

Mayes said township police have increased patrols in Hines Park, and violators of state laws will be arrested.

"This has been a problem at this location in the past," he said. "Our concern is that this is a park that is frequented by families and children."

"We will enforce state laws and make sure Hines Park is a safe place for families to go."

Student wins comic contest

By Victoria Mitchell
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Arlaxis Baese knows 'the moral of the story: You can't teach an old dog new tricks.

But it is how she arrived at the familiar conclusion that is drawing state attention.

Baese, 9, was chosen as the Michigan winner in the Create-A-Comic contest sponsored by Marvel comic books and Target department store.

"I like drawing, and I like writing, so I kind of made a comic," she said.

After sitting for a crash-course in panel layout with Silver Springs Elementary School fourth-grade teacher Jason Brooks, Baese went to work.

With only the brief instruction, she decided to invest her new super powers to make a Monday contest deadline.

Baese said it was worth the effort.

"I got to make up my own idea," she said.

Ka-Pow!

The award-winning comic centered on a menacing dog who wouldn't stop chasing a particular squirrel.

When the dog was injured and needed surgery, guess who the doctor was? His arch enemy, the squirrel.

But the squirrel didn't hold a grudge. He fixed the dog right up. And what do you think the dog did as soon as he was better? He started chasing the squirrel.

Brooks said his winning pupil did a great job.

"It's fairly challenging to tell a story graphically," he said.

Silver Springs Elementary School fifth-grader Arlexis Baese recently authored the comic book "Tasty" which won first place in a statewide contest sponsored by Marvel comics and Target.

"There was a definite beginning, middle and end.

"Arlaxis was very clear at what it was she was saying and it was a very witty."

Baese said she combined two things she loves: animals and having a message at the end of each story she writes.

Wham!

Baese's fourth-grade classmates were more than happy to hear she won.

"It was pandemonium in here," Brooks said.

Baese's first-place finish reaped rewards for the entire class.

The prizes included a $500 Target gift card for Brooks to spend on his Silver Springs class, a $10 Target gift card for Brooks and each student, a year's subscription to the school library for "Marvel Adventures - Spider-Man" and "Marvel Adventures - Fantastic Four" and an official-winner's certificate.

Brooks said he will frame Baese's certificate.

"This is a really big deal," he said.

CAPITAL OUTLAYS

School officials scour budget for funding sources

This is the second installment in a series regarding the Northville Public Schools 2006-07 budget, including the impact on teachers, administration, infrastructure and children.

By Victoria Mitchell
RECORD STAFF WRITER

A $45,000 price tag accompanies the cost of a new roof for the school district's bus garage.

The board of education had planned to pay for the repairs with bond money.

But voters' Feb. 28 rejection of the district bond proposals means roof repairs will be paid for from Northville Public Schools' main bank account, said board treasurer Joan Wadsworth.

"That item is definitely in the budget for the coming year because we feel that is something we need to do," Wadsworth said.

She said construction funding, like roof repairs, used to come from the general fund years ago, before cutbacks in state funding and increases in expenses like pension and health care costs outpaced the below-inflation increases.

"Northville, like many other districts, has relied on, to an increasing extent, bond funds to do some of the large capital projects that maybe in the early days under Proposal A, or even under the previous system, were part of the general fund," she said.

Wadsworth said the question now becomes which spending area will be reduced by the roof repair expense?

"We can take it out of the general fund, but it means something else gets sacrificed,"

2006-07 Northville Public Schools Budget

Behind the scenes budget talks

The next Northville Public Schools finance subcommittee meeting is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, June 6.

she said. "And one of the things we're struggling with right now is how much can we put in for new text books."

Other infrastructure-related proposed budget additions include $30,000 for a new truck and $8,000 for district furniture, also items originally slated for bond money spending.

According to preliminary documents, infrastructure related expenses make up about 13 percent of the Northville Public Schools proposed $63.3 million 2006-07 fiscal year budget.

"When we look at the amount of money we take in, we put most of it toward kids, salaries and the things that affect the kids most closely," Wadsworth said.

Members of the board of education anticipate adopting the district's 2006-07 budget during the June 27 regular board meeting.

A public hearing will precede a budget decision along with the opportunity to attend the board's June 6 finance subcommittee meeting.

MEETING NOTEBOOK: NORTHVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

May 23 Meeting

All members were present
Next Meeting: June 13

Donation

Members of the Northville Public Schools Board of Education accepted a $35,000 donation from Alice Karoub to purchase communication devices, host school assemblies and celebrations at Cooke School, and to fund various programs at Old Village School.

Retirees

Members of the board of education unanimously approved the 2005-06 retirement requests submitted by Jere Akin, Carol Alexander, Rosemary Barlett, Sue Borchert, Dennis Colligan, Joanne Colligan, Holli Curl, Richard Deskovitz, Joyce Dunkerley, Lauren Ewbanks, Barbara Francis, Michael Francis, Lucie Greenberg, Joyce Greywall, Rhonda Hargrave, Charles Hayes, Sandra Hoom, Martha Lahiff, Barbara Lowry, Gail MacDonald, Don Matheson, Gloria Ollar, Janice Peammon, Donna Shannon, Judy Shattuck, Michael Sieting, Betsy Sole, Carol Witt and Jan Wolyniak.

Honorees

Northville Public Schools Superintendent Leonard

Rezmierski acknowledged members of the district for outstanding achievement in the area of academics. Northville Public Schools received the 2006 MASH Education Excellence Award for October is Math Month at Amerman Elementary School, Hillside Middle School teacher Dwight Sieggreen won second place in the DaimlerChrysler gold awards and Amerman Elementary School teacher Richard Tabor won third place in the DaimlerChrysler gold awards. Rezmierski also acknowledged members of the community for the district's support in the recent Relay for Life and the moving memorial for former first-grade student Hannah Doody at Moraine Elementary School.

Educational Foundation

Members of the board unanimously appointed Nancy Clarkson and Eric Barritt as board trustees for the Northville Educational Foundation effective July 1. "Both of these individuals will bring tremendous experience to this group," said board president Karen Paciorek.

Amerman Elementary

Amerman Elementary School Principal Steve Anderson presented a detailed report on the achievements and initiatives reached by the school during the past year. Goals worked toward this year included improving school and home communications, improving school climate, increasing learning opportunities and continuing faculty professional development. Added learning opportunities this year included a sign language class and film and computer clubs. Goals for next year include: improve spelling, develop an anti-bullying program and create parent informative materials. Highlights of the year described by Anderson included numerous academic achievements and the school's 50-year celebration.

Summer School

Summer School Coordinator Bob Boshoven discussed the district's 2006 Summer Connections program during last Tuesday's regular meeting. Registration will run through June 26 and includes classes for students in elementary through high school. School courses and enrichment opportunities are offered. New offerings this year include Biology, Spanish, string instrument instruction and "Fun Fridays."

Bond Survey

Ed Sarpolus, vice president of Epic-MRA, discussed results of the district's post-February bond election survey with members of the board and administration. Sarpolus attributed core bond issues as the strongest reason for election defeat. Sarpolus said the economy was not a leading factor. He suggested a stronger informational campaign reaching many community residents, including seniors, if the district decides to return with another request. Sarpolus said when residents were asked to rate the district, 95 percent gave the district a great or excellent rating. Only voters in the February election were polled.

Schools of choice

Members of the board unanimously approved a motion to accept the administration's recommendation to continue with the opt-out provision of the school law governing non-resident schools of choice for the 2006-07 school year.

Wayne RESA budget

Members of the board unanimously approved a motion to accept the resolution approving the 2006-07 Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency budget. All Wayne County districts are required to participate in the agency's budget development process.

Bid awards

Four bid award items were unanimously approved by members of the board of education. Nearly $2.5 million dollars from the 2004 bond fund was approved for roofing projects at Amerman and Moraine elementary schools and miscellaneous bond-approved projects at Amerman, Moraine and Thornton Creek. "It is going to be a very busy summer," said Assistant Superintendent Dave Boliho.

ELA purchases

Members of the board unanimously approved a request for English Language Arts purchases for the elementary and middle school curricula. Nearly $30,000 was approved for the elementary school level, of which the Northville Mothers' Club paid $28,000. More than $2,500 was approved for middle school English text books.

Members of the board also unanimously approved existing course descriptions for classes offered at the high school.

Assistant superintendent Casey Reason said a documented course study now exists for every Northville High School course.

Member comments

School officials said the board will host a special study session 7 p.m. Monday June 5 to discuss ongoing growth and the possibility of future bond offerings. The meeting will take place on the third floor of the district administration building, 501 W. Main Street.

Board trustee Joan Wadsworth reported the Northville High School choir trip to New York City was a success. High school singers performed at an 80-year-old elementary school in Queens and in a church near the base of Ground Zero.

Executive session

Members of the board and district administrators entered into executive session at the end of the regular board meeting to discuss the option to purchase or lease property.

The hub of the community offers residents a pool, exercise room, library, arts & crafts room, media room, general store and dining room

*The introductory rate of 4.99% APR ends on the last date of the billing cycle applicable to October 31, 2006. The last date of the billing cycle is November 5, 2006. To qualify for the introductory rate, the account application must be submitted no later than July 15, 2006, and the proceeds of the new Home Equity Line of Credit may not be used to pay off an existing LaSalle Bank Home Equity Line of Credit or Fixed-Rate Home Equity Loan. After the introductory period, the Annual Percentage Rates (APRs) on LaSalle Bank's Home Equity Lines of Credit are based on Prime plus or minus a margin. Prime is the highest Prime Rate as published in the "Money Rates" section of The Wall Street Journal on the last publishing day of the calendar month immediately preceding the billing cycle. The margin tied to Prime varies and depends on the approved credit line amount and combined loan-to-value. As of April 28, 2006, Prime was 7.75% and the regular rate on LaSalle Bank's Home Equity Line of Credit products varied between 7.00% and 10.75% APR. Prime is a variable rate; as it changes, the APR on your account will change. The maximum APR is 21%. A balloon payment will result at the end of the ten-year draw period. Home Equity Lines of Credit advertised are limited to owner-occupied, 1-4 family principal residences, do not include bridge lines of credit, and are subject to no less than a second lien position on your property. You must carry insurance on the property that secures this loan. Flood insurance required if necessary. There is a $50 annual fee after the first year. Annual fee may be waived for customers participating in certain LaSalle Bank checking account programs. There is a $395 early termination fee if you close your account within 36 months after account opening (except MA and NJ). All third party closing costs are paid by LaSalle Bank in states with no state or local mortgage, intangible, or stamp taxes. Consult your tax advisor concerning the deductibility of interest. The APRs are subject to change without notice. This offer may not be combined with any other home equity offer. The Kings Mill Women's Club will be holding its annual flea market fund-raiser sale 9 a.m.-3 p.m. June 3. Club members Wilma Wondolkowski, left, Barbara Komp and Nell Herman display sale items.

Kings Mill hosting annual flea market

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Wilma Wondolkowski was winding her way among neighbors' tables when she spotted it: a pickle crock.

The Northville Township resident happily hustled her bargain home. She knew the recipe to combine cucumber, vinegar and spices in the ceramic container to create crunchy dill treats.

"I was looking for a small one," Wondolkowski said. "I found it last year."

This year, the vice president of the Kings Mill women's club is organizing the co-op homeowners' annual flea market, the setting last year where she found her treasure.

The 9 a.m.-3 p.m. sale will be held Saturday. In the event of inclement weather, the 25th annual event will be pushed to the following week, June 10.

Cover the loop

Goods will be set up throughout the 400-home development, accessible by two entrances from Northville Road between Six Mile and Seven Mile roads. Several tables will be set up at the Kings Mill clubhouse, located close to the southern entrance.

"People will have clothes, jewelry, housewares, maybe tools, furniture, knick-knacks, pictures," Wondolkowski said. "It's like a huge garage sale."

Many Kings Mill residents are seniors deciding it's time to part with rarely found items, she said.

"They hold on to everything for years and years," Wondolkowski said. "If you're looking for something old, we'll have it."

For a cause

Members of the 50-member Women's club volunteer their time during the event, selling 50-50 raffle tickets. They will donate their share of the raffle proceeds to local non-profit organizations.

members also pitch in, selling donuts and coffee, and loading items.

Visitors can park at the Moose Club across Northville Road from the Kings Mill entrance, Wondolkowski said. She estimated one-third of the homes will participate in the sale.

Shoppers can walk the Jamestown Circle loop, covering courts one through 25.

"Some of the residents set up tables at the end of their court," Wondolkowski said. "There's also a bake sale."

"There's just anything in the house."

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the home towns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Northville is on the move

With the Memorial Day unofficial start of summer behind us, we can look ahead for our family's entertainment.

Take your pick, as Northville jumps into the season.

Tomorrow night, the Northville Arts Commission unwraps its summer clock concert series, hosting the Northville High School Jazz Ensemble at the gazebo downtown. Fridays throughout the summer, residents can take in the free concerts from 7:30-9 p.m. at Bandshell Park.

It's also the first Friday of the month, so local galleries and related businesses are hosting their First Fridays Art Walk, including chamber of commerce arranged complimentary horse and carriage rides. Check out the oil painting of Northville in progress during the Sherrus Gallery reception 6-9 p.m.

Local businesses offer an array of shopping opportunities, outdoor dining spots and live entertainment.

Volunteer activities include Northville's new theater group auditions, acting as a Mill Race Historical Village docent and stocking shelves for Northville Civic Concern.

Also going on in town: Thursday's Farmers Market, the recreation department's badminton tournament and the Art House's new exhibit opening.

On Saturday morning, volunteer group Friends of Maybury State Park invited residents to meet at the Beck Road park entrance to work on reconstructing hiking trails.

Remember the bored kid's familiar refrain? "There's nothing to do."

It's not going to fly this summer in Northville. If you're looking for something to do, get up and get going.

City: Memorial Day parade fitting tribute

Congratulations to the VFW Post 4012 and American Legion for hosting Monday's dignified memorial ceremonies for the nation's past and present service personnel. Residents turned out for a respectful salute and the community's public safety squads and public service departments provided a safe and orderly environment. Memorial Day is a day for remembering ... and gratitude for just how lucky we are to reside in a community like Northville.

Township: Drivers should 'click' it

Township police were happy to see residents were clicking-it. Though a small number of tickets were issued during the department's annual Click-it-or-Ticket campaign, police officials said it was nice to see drivers thumbing their seat belts as they passed through each of the three check points. According to police, the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning had 93 percent compliance from drivers last year. This year, they're hoping for at least 95 percent. Keep it up, Northville.

Schools: Good-bye, graduates!

Saturday is the Northville High School Class of 2006 Graduation Ceremony. The senior class is expected to walk the runway at Compuware Arena grabbing diplomas and beginning down the path of adulthood. We congratulate the students, parents, teachers and administrators for creating a solid base for the community's young adults to draw from. The 2006 class boasts the highest number of national merit students, numerous award winners and a solid body of responsible citizens.

Tough times require tough solutions

According to John Street, the Northville Public Schools director of business and finance, 89 percent of the district's General Fund budget is spent on employees salaries, health care and retirement costs. In the spirit of open government, it would be helpful to post the proposed budget and the annual financial audit on the district Web site for easy access.

It has been reported that most, if not all, of the increased funding per pupil from the state will be needed to cover rising health care and pension costs. At the state level, proposed legislation is pending to change the pension benefits for new school employees, as well as to allow school districts to join together in pools to leverage lower rates for health care coverage, in order to reduce future costs.

The Board of Education has the authority to negotiate for less costly health insurance options this year, in representing the children and taxpayers in the district, as well as to actively support the proposed state legislation to contain costs.

According to the June 2005 Northville Public Schools newsletter, school board members were among supporters of the K-16 Coalition who marched to the State Capitol last year, but unfortunately, it appears that the K-16 Coalition's proposal does not provide any cost containment measures.

In an article, entitled "Legacy Costs - Lessons learned from Business and Industry," from the March 2006 Michigan School

Business Officials newsletter, board member, Darcie Birkett wrote, "For years, employee compensation has typically represented more than 80 percent of school budgets. In Michigan, retirement contributions are averaging almost $1,000 per pupil and next year's rate increase will add about $90 to this cost. Tom Clay of the Citizen's Research Council predicts this number 'will continue to increase dramatically in the future.'" He concluded, "Let's lead in expectation and adjust accordingly, lest we in education are soon referred to as 'a pension hedge fund and health insurance business that happens to educate kids.'"

Renew safety net for community youth

When I was a girl watching the High Flying Wallendas at the circus, I was only slightly aware of the black safety net below their act. It was reassuring it was there if needed. Without a net, I would have been too nervous and scared for the performers to really enjoy the show.

Northville Youth Assistance is like that net in our community. It exists to support and hold up our youth and their families. It will help those who fall from a deliberate act, like shoplifting at 12 Oaks, or those who just temporarily sag, when a parent is gone, and need support for a short period of time. NYA helps parents be better parents. It helps youth with activities to help them grow and learn in positive situations. The safety net of Northville Youth Assistance allows all of us in the community to watch life progress for these children knowing that support, programs and knowledge are there for those needing them.

With a budget of $162,000 a year, NYA helped over 1,100 youth from the age of 5 to 17 last year. With only three staff members (one director, a part-time clerk and a part-time social worker) and many, many trained, screened volunteers, the agency advocates for youth and their families.

NYA provides the following programs: mentors, tutors, after middle school homework help and music lessons, community service in lieu of suspension for high school and middle school students, counseling for troubled youth referred by the courts and police, youth empowerment classes for elementary grades, an orientation class for incoming ninth graders called Pillar, Challenge Day at Hillside and anti-bullying sessions at Meads Mill and support for the Northville Youth Community Action Council students at the high school.

In addition, NYA funds nationally known speakers for both student and parent education. These programs take place in partnership with the schools, PTA's, police and courts in our town.

Since 1987, Northville Youth Assistance has been one of the quieter jewels in the crown of Northville's sense of community. Its work is performed by staff and screened volunteers quietly, confidentially, but skillfully. It is a program of prevention as well as intervention. It is hard to determine the benefits of service given for nearly 20 years or crimes gone undone, or children who have grown to be successful by having such a program.

NYA is a shared service of Northville Township and the City of Northville with facility support by Northville Public Schools. We are grateful for the community's past support. The millage for parks and recreation, the senior services and NYA will come up for a vote in the Township on Tuesday Aug. 8, along with the public safety millage for police and fire.

Be sure and continue the safety net for our kids and their families in Northville.

Please register to vote. Please vote Yes, Yes on Aug. 8.

Downtown challenge: If we rebuild it, will they come?

In June, the Downtown Steering Committee, appointed last year by City Council, is expected to submit a formal plan outlining development opportunities in downtown Northville. The second in a five-part series leading up to that public presentation ...

It is time for a downtown makeover.

We do not need an extreme makeover, because we have already have a great downtown. But it has been a long time since we have reinvested in our downtown. Twenty-five years ago, we planned and implemented streetscape improvements that made us the envy of neighboring small towns. These communities have since remade their own downtowns. Now, they are hot destinations with their new streetscape, sidewalk cafes and green space.

So why do a downtown makeover? Two reasons: First, you, through the many public workshops attended, have asked us to. We all want a thriving and vibrant downtown, all while maintaining our small town charm. Second reason: Because in this increasingly competitive marketplace, we need to.

Many projects have been identified through the Strategic Planning process. For instance, the Town Square is nice, but it could be larger and more green. All that concrete paved area, although pretty, soaks up the sun's heat and makes it uncomfortable to sit for long. Better to have a grass lawn area that is more inviting and cooler for those summer evening concerts.

Also, it would be nice to visit the Farmers' Market in town and perhaps linger over lunch at a downtown street café.

Further, Ford Field is a great park, unique in that it is so close to the center of the downtown, but it is hidden from view. A new plaza overlook, with better connection to the park, would bring this treasure of green space into the downtown experience.

Finally, the downtown streetscape is now two decades old and shows it. Refurbishing where necessary, informative way-finding signage, better cut-throughs to parking lots, access for bicyclists are all elements of the Strategic Plan soon to be implemented.

Now the question becomes: If we rebuild it, will they come?

If we only made these physical changes, they may or may not come. Remaking the downtown is only one half of the formula for downtown commercial success going forward. The other half is proper marketing and promotion. Although the merchants would certainly love to see more people going past their doors, this may not happen unless we rightly market ourselves.

Greg Presley

Manufacturing still in state's future

Some so-called advanced thinkers who have been claiming that manufacturing will "vanish" over the next generation would have been startled if they had attended the CEO Forum put on last month by the Michigan Manufacturers Association.

I was asked to moderate a panel on the "Michigan manufacturing transformation and what it means to the state." The participants were some of our top manufacturing executives — and what they had to say made my eyes widen.

Manufacturing, they assured us, is anything but dead.

In Michigan, of course, manufacturing plays an enormous role, accounting for nearly a quarter of gross state product (almost twice the average national rate) and 15.3 percent of the state's workers. Nationwide, barely one in 10 workers toil in manufacturing today.

But manufacturing employment in Michigan has been plummeting for years. That's partly the result of off-shoring of low-skill jobs to low-wage countries like China, but also the consequence of astonishing productivity gains.

So does that mean that manufacturing has no future in Michigan's economy? Not at all. Frank

Fountain, senior vice president of DaimlerChrysler, characterized the future of the sector as "lean, smart, moving forward."

How is that possible, with Michigan hemorrhaging jobs and the economy the raging political issue?

A little dose of history might help us understand, especially when we consider the evolution of farming, once the mainstay of the American economy. In 1900, 40 percent of U.S. jobs were on the farm. Today, less than 1 percent toil in agriculture.

But that small number of farmers now produce enough food of high enough quality to feed the entire world — thanks to fantastic increases in productivity.

Manufacturing accounted for around 40 percent of all U.S. jobs in 1950. That had fallen to 14 percent by 2000. And many economists estimate that will fall further to less than 10 percent by 2025. Once again, that's mainly the consequence of enormous increases in productivity.

So what does this mean for us in Michigan? According to my panelists, it's all about autos. The special problems of manufacturing in our state are in very large part the result of particular problems of the domestic auto industry. That's because their business model is now out of synch with the globalizing world economy.

Restrictive work rules imposed by labor contracts, hinder productivity growth. "Legacy costs" such as fat pensions and gold-plated health care programs, add thousands to the cost of each car.

Yet once these problems get worked out, the future looks pretty bright. Peter Alvarado, vice president of U.S. Steel International, offered some interesting comparisons. The steel industry in the 1990s, he explained, went through much the same kind of transition the auto industry is experiencing today.

High wages and restrictive work rules made the industry's cost structure uncompetitive. Plants were closed, workers laid off. Companies went broke or consolidated. But a smaller and healthier steel industry arose from the wreckage; an industry that was more productive, competitive and profitable.

Look for the domestic auto industry to go much the same way. Already, factories like the Chrysler engine plant in Monroe County are showing that a skilled labor force (community college degree or better required), sane work rules and flexible labor contracts can result in productivity gains that make the plant cost competitive — even paying United Auto Workers' wages.

Nobody wants to talk about it, but plants like that will set the pattern for the national labor contracts that will be renegotiated in 2007. And already the auto industry is closing plants, laying off employees, shedding costly pension and health care practices.

Everybody hopes that the result will be a healthier, if smaller, industry. And a lot of it will be happily located right here in Michigan.

Toward the end of our discussion, talk turned to what, if anything, state government can do to help. In a series of straw votes, the manufacturing CEOs present produced some surprising conclusions. Making sure we have a quality educational system, both K-12 and higher education, was deemed the most important factor in the survival of manufacturers. Education was ranked ahead even of labor relations, restrictive union contracts and state tax policy.

Those who claim that cutting taxes alone is the recipe for a healthy Michigan economy ought to sit up and take notice.

Speaking of which ... at lunch, former Gov. John Engler advocated a "no skills, no sports" policy for high schools and urged that schools develop a specific skills plan for every student.

His remarks hammered home the message that in the game of economic survival, skills, talent and knowledge trump everything else.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm, GOP challenger Dick DeVos and all the rest of us would do well to pay close attention.

NO EXCUSES

Traffic violations have consequences

By Tracy Mishler
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Chris Williams was running late. And though the 26-year-old Northville Township resident admitted fault to the police officer who pulled him over, he was slapped with a two-point speeding ticket and violation for tinted windows.

"I wasn't trying to make excuses," Williams said. "I knew I was speeding, but I guess honesty doesn't mean anything these days."

Williams said he didn't try to fight the ticket, but wonders if he was busted because he was a man.

According to a recent Response Insurance National Driving Habits survey, 22 percent of men and 13 percent of women attempt to talk their way out of being issued a moving violation.

Sgt. Michael Wildt said police aren't out to get anyone, male or female.

"Our purpose is to keep the roads safe," said Wildt, of the Northville Township Police Department. "We're not out there just to issue violations, but to increase safety on the roads and increase drivers' awareness of traffic laws."

Stop making excuses

With 19 years on the force, Wildt said he's heard every excuse in the book, from both men and women.

Excuses used: "I'm in a hurry." "I'm late for work." "I'm late picking up my child from school or an event." "I was on my cell phone."

Wildt said people always try to use their cell phone as a crutch for speeding, going too slow

Dispelling myths

• In the state of Michigan, it is illegal for police departments to have quotas for the number of tickets issued.

• Most police departments require officers to show up for traffic court.

• Crying won't get you out of a ticket.

• In Northville, men and women are issued traffic violations equally.

or weaving.

"It's not a law not to talk on the cell phone," he said. "But it gives more reason for police to issue a moving violation."

According to Response Insurance, 19 percent of drivers who talk on their cell phones while behind the wheel, as opposed to 14 percent of non-cell phone users, try to escape without fines.

Northville motorist Jeff Vandreuemel said there is no point to using excuses when being stopped by police.

"They've heard them all," said Vandreuemel, of Westland. "They know when you're lying. And unless the excuse is so far off the wall, what's the point?"

Wildt said whenever he's pulled drivers over for a moving violation, there is a 50-50 chance he won't issue a ticket.

"Each officer uses their own discretion," he said. "Whether the moving violation was caused by being on a cell phone, eating, looking at paperwork while driving or even looking at your kids in the back seat," he said.

"These are violations we can issue because attention was not fully on the road."

Want to fight it?

"Everyone has an option to set up a court date, with an informal or formal hearing," Wildt said. "I'm never offended if someone wants to go to court."

Although getting out of the ticket may not be guaranteed, Wildt said everyone has a right to explain their side of the story.

Wildt said officers issue violations because the images from accidents never leave their mind, even after 19 years.

"We are there and we are at the hospital later," he said. "The drivers we pull over don't know all this. If I issue a violation, then maybe next time they will stop or slow down."

Hair-raising: City hall showcase a place to visit interesting exhibits

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Today's equivalent might be a photo captured with the touch of a phone.

But in the 1800s, the most commonly carried pocket-size memento of a loved one was a lock of hair, often in a locket.

From knowledge of that Civil War tradition, Ron Bodnar's unique hobby of collecting historic hair was born.

"It was a remembrance," he said. "It was a cherished photograph in the parlance of the times."

During the past five years, Bodnar has spent about $2,000 at auction purchasing tiny locks, taken from famous manes at the time of their death. They come with documentation certifying their authenticity, he said.

"I paid less than they were worth," he said. "One thing led to another, pretty soon I had four, five, six."

"One thing that really spurred me is I realized the interest."

Area residents can check out the display of 14 quarter-inch mounted pieces of hair and related memorabilia in the showcase at city hall, 215 W. Main Street.

Submitted photo

Bridget Bodnar shows a powderhorn from George Washington's era, part of the historic hair display she created, now on display at City Hall.

'Historically minded'

When Bodnar learned about about the display opportunity, he pursued sharing his collection with the public. His daughter Bridget arranged items related to the hair donors, including an ax head found near Abraham Lincoln's childhood home and a powder horn from George Washington's era.

"She's as historically minded as I am," Bodnar said. "What we hope will happen is it will encourage people — kids and adults — to say, 'I think I'll take out a book to study the history of these people.'"

"It's become a thing of interest, we really want to share it."

'Fascinating'

City hall receptionist Wendy Gutowski said visitors have commented on the unique exhibit. Bodnar's historic hair will remain on display through June.

"They're fascinated," she said. "There's a lot of looking up real close."

"Most people don't understand anything like this even exists."

Shari Allen, whose city hall post is across the hall from the showcase, keeps a photo scrapbook of the monthly displays. Past themes have included photos of mothers and fathers during May and June, patriotic, collector teacups, miniature shoes, clocks counting down to the new year, Irish heritage, 1970's era photos of the city staff, Barbie dolls, Valentine's Day and Depression glass.

Gutowski said the main criteria is that the display is from a non-profit entity.

Prize: Lincoln

Bodnar can tell stories about each of the hair samples he's collected. His favorite? Lincoln.

"My hair came from the wound examination," he said. "This was from a culture that routinely handled hair."

"They didn't just throw it away as you and I would."

Bodnar said a clump of Lincoln's hair was held privately for 80 years, before progressively smaller pieces were auctioned.

"The piece I have is quite gray," he said. "Among the black hair, there was a lot of gray, even though it still looked dark."

"Lincoln's essentially is off the market at this point."

One man's tresses ...

The concept of cherishing hair seems less odd if you put it in perspective with today's Exhibit idea?

Anyone interested in displaying an interest or collection in the city hall showcase can apply to the city clerk's office using a form downloadable from the city's Web site at www.ci.northville.mi.us.

larger-than-life personality, Bodnar said.

"Now, it's professionally done," he said. "Clippings like Tom Cruise's hair, you're going to have $10,000."

Factoring in the historic significance of lives like George Washington, Abe Lincoln and Alexander Hamilton, that final shred of their existence becomes more valuable, he said.

"It is kind of a wacky thing," he said. "Most people would think it's yucky."

Bodnar said he knows hair belonging to Marilyn Monroe and the Beatles have netted tidy sums.

"I would always go for historical over the Beatles," he said.

SPOTLIGHT ON: ALLERGY & ASTHMA

Presented by Michael S. Rowe, M.D., F.A.C.P., C.C.R.I.

A PRODUCTIVE LIFE WITH ASTHMA

Millions of Americans live full, productive lives with asthma. To become one of them, it is important to understand the severity of your condition and educate yourself about your condition. Once you have developed an asthma management plan with your allergist or other physician, it becomes critical to take medications appropriately. To prevent missed doses, take your medication at the same time each day, put a sign on your bathroom door or refrigerator, and always carry your inhaler with you for quick symptom relief when needed. Reduce the risk of asthma attacks by knowing and avoiding your triggers. Common asthma triggers include tobacco, dust, pet dander, mold, pollen, and stress. Track your symptoms in an asthma diary.

For nearly 2 decades, Dr. Rowe, a board certified allergist and certified clinical research investigator, has directed several medical studies to develop new treatments and procedures for allergy and asthma patients. At the ALLERGY AND ASTHMA CENTER OF MICHIGAN, we are looking for volunteers to participate in these studies, and, if you qualify, you could be part of breakthrough research that will give doctors a new method for the treatment of allergies and asthma. For further information, call (248) 473-6400. Our office is located at 24120 Meadowbrook Road, STE 201, Novi. New patients are welcome. "The Caring Allergist Who Gets Results."

P.S. Asthma sufferers may want to get tested for allergies so any additional triggers can be avoided.

HUMBLE PIE

Hillside honoree shares praise

By Victoria Mitchell
RECORD STAFF WRITER

There isn't anything unassuming about Dwight Sieggreen's wall of honor.

Except for the man being honored.

The Hillside Middle School seventh-grade teacher is quick to downplay the accomplishments represented by certificates hanging on his science room wall, including the newest addition: a second place finish in the Closing the Technology Gap in Education awards.

Take two

Two Northville teachers were among 30 state winners honored at an awards ceremony hosted at the New Detroit Science Center this month.

In addition to Hillside Middle School teacher Dwight Sieggreen, Amerman Elementary School teacher Richard Tabor was awarded $3,000 after finishing third in the competition.

Tabor teaches fourth grade science and will put the winnings toward his Solar Sprint project.

The project, sponsored by a grant from the Toshiba America Foundation, is a study of motion, force and electricity challenging students to apply their knowledge in the design, testing and racing of solar cars built with Legos. Tabor's project also allows students to integrate the study of electricity as an alternative energy source and means of transportation.

Colin Powell witnessed.

Sieggreen said he looks at his accolades as a reminder of what he must live up to each day.

For him, it's not about awards. It's about two things: kids and animals.

Recognition

The objects of Sieggreen's affections will be the recipients of his recent prize.

He won $7,500 after placing second in the DaimlerChrysler Corporation Fund and New Detroit Science Center "Closing the Technology Gap in Education" awards.

The award honors teaching excellence in the areas of science, math, engineering and technology.

Sieggreen said with the exception of funding technology updates, the money will go to the Hillside Middle School frog nursery, an artificial rain forest housed in the school's old semi-greenhouse.

Rare and exotic frogs, destined for zoos around the country, reside in the nursery. Inhabitants include: Red-Eyed Tree Frogs, Chinese Fire Bellied Toads and Poison Dart Frogs.

Sieggreen quickly points out, Poison Dart Frogs aren't poisonous at Hillside.

"Although I don't advise anyone to kiss a frog," he said.

Dedication

The frog nursery and adjacent animal room brings Sieggreen to Hillside Middle School every day at 7:30 a.m., leaving at 3:15 p.m. to return once again at 6 p.m.

It also beckons him on weekends.

The frog room has been a six-year labor of love for Sieggreen.

"If I'm not here, it is because I am on a grant somewhere," Sieggreen said.

His students are always involved, lending a hand.

One young student checks water conditions, another keeps an eye on the filters. Chores like feeding and cleaning are continual.

"All in all, it takes a whole cycle of kids," Sieggreen said.

He said his students' expressions entering the animal room says it all.

"I'm really proud of what science has done here," he said. "Science is fun, you never lose interest."

Validation

Despite the smiles on his students' faces, outstanding academic successes and a cowering resume, Sieggreen credits his success to the support of the Hillside Middle School team, including his colleagues and principal Jim Cracraft.

"It doesn't happen with one person," Sieggreen said. "We have a team here."

"We have a science team. I'm just one of the group."

But sometimes winning awards is nice reinforcement, he said.

"I've been 37 years in this business, and I wonder if I still have what it takes," Sieggreen said. "It's nice."

Northville resident honored for 'heart of gold'

Susan Housholder-Hughes saved her husband Sean's life after he collapsed in a hotel room in Colorado.

"I had to do to my husband what I have to do to patients," she said. "I think it saved his life, and it was just more fuel for my passion."

The 50-year-old Northville resident has dedicated the past 30 years of her life to saving the hearts of others.

And for her dedication: Housholder-Hughes was chosen as this year's recipient of the Coeur d'Or (Heart of Gold) Award for Excellence by the American Heart Association.

"I thought they called the wrong number when they said I was nominated," Housholder-Hughes said. "I was shocked, and then I started to cry."

According to the American Heart Association, the Coeur d'Or Award for Excellence recipient is an exemplary health care professional and/or community philanthropist involved in the field of cardiovascular disease.

The recipient demonstrates energetic support and guidance to the association and provides significant contributions toward achieving the goal of reducing death and disability due to heart disease and stroke.

First lady

Housholder-Hughes is the first woman to receive the eight-year-old Coeur d'Or Award.

As a American Heart Association board member, registered nurse and physician's assistant at the University of Michigan in preventative cardiology, Housholder-Hughes said heart disease is in her genes.

Losing her mother and grandfather to the disease fuels her passions to help others and fight

CPR: a matter of life-and-death

During the month of June, Life Support Training Institute will be educating members of the Northville community on how to respond to cardiac emergencies.

According to the American Heart Association, cardiovascular disease is the nation's No. 1 killer among men and women.

Life Support Training Institute is offering a free family and friend's cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and automated external defibrillator (AED) class through the American Heart Association.

"When performed effectively, CPR doubles the chance of survival," said Debra Yake, CPR instructor and trainer for the Life Support Training Institute in statement. "CPR is a vital, life-saving skill that everyone needs to know, and when your spouse, parent of child's life is on the line, the training allows you to overcome your fear and act quickly and confidently."

She said she was grateful for the honor.

"These are awards that stun me, because I'm just doing my job," she said. "Nursing has never disappointed me in 30 years. I've been fatigued, but the work has never disappointed me."

Housholder-Hughes said she chose her field of study about a year out of nursing school.

"I was fascinated by the heart as an organ," she said. "Everyone equates their heart to life."

And the award goes to Housholder-Hughes will be presented the Coeur d'Or Award for Excellence at the Washtenaw Heart Gala Friday.

Her daughter, Amanda, 19, will introduce her.

"It's really an honor to be the first woman to receive this award," Housholder-Hughes said. "Women contribute so much, not just to their families, but to society."

"Being a woman is an award in itself, and I want more women to be up at the podium receiving awards."

Housholder-Hughes said after the glow from her award fades, she will continue her journey to promote cardiovascular well-being.

"I will continue to help those who have this disease live quality and productive lives," she said. "When you're a cardiac nurse, a person is not just a sick heart."

"When a person contracts an illness, their whole dimension of life is altered. As a nurse, we can treat them and help them live their lives."

County, township police guarantee park security

By Tracy Mishler
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Alice Leonard would rather be safe than sorry.

Her morning routine includes a cup of Joe from Starbucks and a quick run around Hines Park to wake up before heading to the office.

The 34-year-old Northville Township resident said park security is a big concern. She always locks her purse in her trunk and waits for others to run with instead of going alone.

"You never want to take the chance," Leonard said. "We all believe our communities are safe. But it's when you least expect it that something happens."

She said running in the park is easier than dodging traffic on the streets, but it's scary by yourself.

Lt. Ray Garbarino of the Northville Township Police Department said all county parks in Northville are patrolled by township, county and state police.

"The parks are patrolled more during the day, but we do go through at night because (people) can't be there after dark," Garbarino said. "We patrol Wayne County parks just like any other area."

Garbarino said there's no guarantee against cars getting broken into, but it's more common when things are left in plain view.

"The easiest and smartest thing is not leaving anything in your car," he said. "And if you have to, leave it out of site."

Garbarino said the biggest issue is keeping people out of local parks at night.

"We don't have a lot of crime in the parks," he said. "It's fairly quiet, but we do have a few incidents."

"It reflects the rest of our community."

Tracy Sincoc said Northville's seven community parks are overseen by a supervisor at each site.

"We're very fortunate in this community," said the director of Northville Parks and Recreation. "We have minimal vandalism and minor incidents, if any."

Sincoc said if residents do have concerns, they can speak to one of the supervisors or on-site attendants.

Executive Sgt. Larry Crider problems arise from Hines Park because Hines Drive runs through the park.

"There are many entrances and exits (in Hines Park)," Crider said. "The potential for people using it for other than a park is common."

Crider said one thing police have seen a lot of in Hines is drunk drivers leaving the bar and parking there.

"Park patrol is funded by the county," he said. "People shouldn't worry when their in the parks. We do a good job patrolling with the help of other agencies."

Stefanie Russell worked for free, but the experience she received was priceless.

The 21-year-old 2002 Northville High School graduate couldn't refuse the opportunity to work as an intern for celebrity designer Vera Wang in the Big Apple.

Although she had to delay graduation from the University of Michigan by one semester, Russell said the internship helped seal the deal on what she wanted to be.

"It was one of those things I had been talking about all summer," she said. "I got my resume together and started applying online."

With majors in business, finance and marketing, Russell said she wanted to work in design, but more on the corporate side.

From September to December 2005, Russell spent her evenings in a 300-square-foot apartment and walked 2.5 miles to work each day, 40 hours per week unpaid.

Instead of fitting models and mixing patterns, Russell crunched numbers and helped create a helpful database for the company.

"I did financial analysis of daily and monthly sales figures and special promotions," she said. "I also executed plans with the public relations team on special events."

Russell said one of the most exciting parts of her internship was working side-by-side with Wang.

"I worked with her several times," Russell said. "She didn't know my name or anything, but it was neat and interesting working with her."

Fashion forward

"I've always liked to go shopping, and I've always been interested in fashion," Russell said. "Now that I'm back home, I've been applying to designers and companies (for a full-time job)."

Stefanie said she will be graduating in June and plans to head back to New York.

"I want to get things set up by time I graduate," she said. "I definitely plan to get my master's degree, maybe from New York University."

Russell's mom, Sheryl, said it was exciting having her daughter working for a big-name designer in New York City.

"It was exciting but scary having your daughter go to New York by herself," Sheryl said. "We're very proud Stefanie and her accomplishments. (The internship) was a huge achievement."

Joe Barberio is ready for the tournament to begin.

The fifth annual Northville Parks and Recreation Badminton Tournament starts tomorrow, and the athletic supervisor said this year's tournament is sure to bring in scores of fans.

More than 100 badminton players are set to take the courts in singles, doubles and mixed events over the weekend, along with eight world class players from across the country.

"Badminton is the world's fastest racket sport," Barberio said. "If people have not seen badminton indoors and only at outdoor picnics, it's a completely different sport."

Barberio said world class players are known to be able to hit the bird at 200 mph off the racket.

This year's tournament welcomes the 2005 Chinese Taipei Open winner Halim Haryanto; U.S. Olympian Kevin Han; 2006 Thomas Team member Raju Rai; U.S. Thomas Cup Team member Eric Go; U.S. National Team member Erin Hois; Katarina Prax; Camilla Stroom; and four-time U.S. National Champion Cathy Zimmerman.

"I'm amazed just watching local competition," Barberio said. "It will be amazing to watch the professionals."

In the past, the tournament welcomed all competition. But this year, bringing world class players meant additional restrictions.

Barberio said in order to play, participants must be a member of the United Badminton Association and pay per event.

Winners will be chosen at the end of the tournament for singles, doubles and mixed events.

"It's free to come and watch, and it's guaranteed to be a good tournament," Barberio said.

FINALS BOUND

By Sam Eggleston
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

It's time for the best of the best to meet in one place and prove who stands out amongst their peers.

The Michigan High School Athletic Association Division 1 state track and field finals will be held June 3 in Grand Rapids and the Northville Mustangs will have 10 athletes representing them for the girls and boys teams.

The Mustangs are hoping to earn some top places in the finals with the seven girls and three boys who qualified via the regional meet two weeks ago.

Making the trek for the boys will be sophomore standout hurdler Cavan Corcoran, senior distance runner Jasen Turnbull and junior pole vaulter Mike Yassay.

Yassay, who made the trip to the finals last year, is the school's record holder with a leap of 14 feet earlier this season. He is currently ranked fourth in the state. The top ranked vaulter is Midland's Luke Dinnan with a 14-7 performance.

"I'm not guaranteeing any heights," Yassay said while attending last week's high school prom. "I will guarantee, however, that I'm going to try my best. We'll see what happens."

Turnbull will run the one- and two-mile events. Corcoran will run the 110-meter hurdles at East Kentwood High School Saturday.

Turnbull's regional time of 4:24.24 is ranked fourth in the one mile with Ann Arbor Pioneer's Peter Christmas ranked first with a run of 4:18.80. In the two mile, his time of 9:48.41 is ranked 17th with DeLaSalle's Pete Loy running a 9:27 for the top ranking.

Corcoran is ranked 12th in the hurdles with his regional time of 14.83 seconds. Ramon Ortiz of Grandville is first with a 14.25.

The girls will be represented by the outstanding ability of senior Bryn Smetana, sophomore Lindsay Hagan, sophomore Brianna Jenkins, junior Julie Foucher, senior Rachel Deneau, senior Gretchen Warner and junior Mary Sprader.

The team of Sprader, Hagan, Warner and Smetana will attempt a top finish in the 4-by-800 relay. They are currently ranked 20th with their regional time of 9:53.75. Saline is ranked first with a 9:22.60.

Smetana will try her hand at an individual run in the 400-meter dash. Hagan will also compete in the two-mile run.

A time of 59.69 seconds in the regional ranks Smetana 9th in the state with Ypsilanti Lincoln's Erin Humphrey in first with a sizzling time of 54 seconds. Hagan is ranked 37th in the two-mile with her performance of 11:39 at the regional. Clarkston's Jenny Morgan is first with a 10:59.30.

Pole vaulters Foucher and Deneau have cleared 10-feet and 9-7, respectively. Deneau is ranked 17th in the state with her 9-7 performance and Foucher is 24th, having cleared 9-4 in the regional. Ranked first is Rockford's Caitlyn Gager with an 11-8.

The most inspiring story for the Northville crew is that of Jenkins, who won the high jump at the regional with a leap of 5-2 to earn a trip to the Division I Lower Peninsula track and field state finals.

"Jenkins, who has been injured most of the season with a back injury, performed exceptional and suffered through the pain to advance," said coach Nancy Smith.

Jenkins is ranked 12th with her jump, with Lowell's Amy Vanens ranked first on the MHSAA's Web site with a leap of 5-4. Four others have the same height and one cleared 5-3. Jenkins is in the next group, technically all tied for a seventh-place ranking.

RUMBLE: Williams rugby's top forward

expected, losing in the Division II playoffs to Forest Hills, 17-6, after beating Perrysburg in the first round, 15-12.

"It was a tough season but we learned a lot," Williams said. "We had four or five freshmen that ended up starting by the end of the year and that is huge. We definitely have a lot of potential for the coming years."

Williams should know. He's one of the most experienced players coming back for next season. A suggestion from former football standout Mac Stilec and rugby standout Joe Prain convinced Williams to try of for the squad last season.

It was love at first scrum. "It's a special game," Williams said. "It's great. I take my fun, I give my hits and it's always fun."

Williams has earned a place of respect on the team as well, earning a nod as captain this year along with Cam McNamara, Corbeil and Jon Pace.

"He's more than just a good rugby player," Cornell said. "Williams is a good guy. He's always trying to help other people learn the game and get better."

Many players find rugby to be more than challenging in a competitive nature. Stamina is usually a problem for those who aren't aware of the nearly non-stop demands of the game.

But Williams knows what it takes to stay in shape. Not only does he play football for Northville High School, he wrestles for them, too.

"When you wrestle you're in the best shape of your life," Williams said. "I'm usually feeling pretty good going into rugby."

And next year he's hoping to feel

Sports SPEAKS

Scrum (n): In rugby, it's basically the "face-off" when two teams lock together and push for possession of the ball, which is inserted into the scrum by a scrum-half, the loose equivalent of a quarterback on the football field.

Scrum involved players on each team to "bind" together by wrapping their arms around each other before settling into a scrum position. Once prepared the referee—or sir—tells the two sides to ready, hold and engage. The ball is then inserted between the two teams and they push against each other to secure the ball, which is "loosened" out with their cleats to the back of the scrum. The scrum half then picks up the ball and begins the play even better. The Knights will be looking to get back on track and, hopefully, back into the Division I playoffs.

Williams' personal goal is to be leading that charge. To help him reach it, he's trying out for the Michigan All-Star rugby team this summer.

Make it or not, he's just happy to get a chance to get on the pitch and get wrapped up in the scrums and rucks rugby has to offer.

"I want to go out there and play the best I can," he said. "But rugby is about more than winning. It's about friendship and camaraderie. That's what makes it so special."

The end is near! The end is near!

Every reporter who announces their departure is entitled to a farewell column. Since I really don't know when my final farewell is going to be (sometime in July is the best guess) I figured I'd write mine now.

At 26 years old I've lived a pretty full life already. I graduated from high school back in 1998, played college sports, left college in 1999 and went on to be a sports writer in the spring of 2000.

Since then, this job has taken me places — from Escanaba, in Michigan's beautiful Upper Peninsula, to Kenai, Alaska and then to the communities of Novi and Northville. I've been blessed with great sports to cover, great athletes to write about and great people to work with.

In my travels and my writing and, especially, over the past five years covering Novi and Northville I've learned that athletics are reciprocal. Some teams are a really good and then get to be bad only to be really good again. I've seen teams go from being one of the last place squads in their league to holding the championship trophy the next year. I've seen underdogs tackle Dragons. I've seen favorites lose at home in the playoffs in front of a sold out crowd after beating that same team in the regular season.

Sam Eggleston

In short, I've learned the old adage of "what goes around, comes around" is very true. And not just in sports.

When I moved my expecting wife down here five years ago I told her it would be for a year, until I could find another position back in the Upper Peninsula. Until then I had only held a job as long as six months before leaving. It came back around on me, holding me in Northville and Novi for five short years before the opportunity presented itself for my family to move back to where my wife and I grew up and to what we still consider to be home in the Upper Peninsula.

Life is quieter there. Slower, at times. Rush hour consists of about a couple thousand people. More folks visit Twelve Oaks each day, I'd guess, than travel the roads of the Upper Peninsula's biggest town in a work day.

I go back in search of my true calling. I'm hoping it's fiction writing, but who knows. I may end up becoming a professional ballet dancer. I doubt it, but I'm guessing stranger things have happened (well, maybe not).

I have few regrets in looking back over my five years. Like an athlete I've had to decide if I've done my best and "left it all out on the field." I think I have.

Since my arrival we've been recognized by the Michigan Press Association as some of the best sports coverage, sports writing and sports features six times and have earned two Suburban Newspaper Association awards. We received a special tribute from Senator Nancy Cassis and Speaker of the House Craig DeRoche. We even earned a plaque from the Northville High School Athletics Boosters for our drive to promote local athletics and athletes.

It's been a great run. I've made a lot of great friends, written about a lot of great people and events and have even signed an autograph or two (hold on to that, kids, and maybe it'll pay off one day). But, most importantly, I've been able to be a part of something: The magic that is high school athletics. The moments in seeing a player score his first touchdown, or when she wins the game at the buzzer or the special electricity crackling in the air when four years of hard work pays off with a college athletic scholarship.

It's been fun. Now go play.

NEW GIRL: Jennifer Ulmer steps right in with Mustangs

"Hopefully we do real well," she said of this week's district playoffs. "We got a really good draw and I think we can go pretty far if we play like we've been."

Ready for college

Ulmer's move her senior year has done one thing: prepared her for the move to college.

"That's what my parents keep saying," she said. "Now I get to do it all over again. At least I'm a lot closer to home. My parents can come and see me play more and, if I need to, I can come home for the weekend."

If all goes well, the Mustangs will play well into June with the state championship game slated for June 17 at Troy High School. It won't be long after that Ulmer will be preparing for the move to East Lansing to start her career with the Spartans.

Michigan State was one of Ulmer's top two schools along with Auburn University Schools in Ohio, she said, just weren't an option.

"I didn't want to go to any school in Ohio," she said. "I just wanted to get away and meet new people. I wanted something different."

While at Michigan State, Ulmer said she'll most likely study business before trying to become a pediatrician.

It's been a fun ride for Ulmer, who said she hopes her soccer journey is far from being over.

"I'm hoping my best soccer has yet to come," she said. "It's an exciting time right now. I'm really enjoying it."

Softball gets win

By Sam Eggleston
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustangs softball team knows all about momentum and rolling into the playoffs.

The squad, coached by Teryn Fox, is at full speed right now after cruising to a six-inning 12-2 mercy victory last week over Walled Lake Central in the Western Lakes Activities Association cross-over game.

Fox said she's hoping her team can carry the victory into playoffs.

"This was a great way to head into the long (Memorial Day) weekend before preparing for districts next week," Fox said. "We plan to make a run in the state playoffs. If we play like we have been, we have a good shot."

The Mustangs climbed to an impressive 24-6 overall record with the victory, 14-3 in the Western Lakes.

Against Walled Lake Central, the Mustangs didn't have much of a problem finding the right combination to secure the victory. Strong defense, great pitching and outstanding batting went a long way.

Earning the win on the mound was sophomore Jenna Dumbleton, who also went 3-for-3 at the plate. Also cranking out strong hits was Emma Wise, who was 2-for-2 with a walk, and Christy Badeen, who was 2-for-3 with two doubles and a walk.

Bridget Hughes went 2-for-4 and scored three runs while Emily Doren and Britany Birdsall each went 1-for-1. Lisa Mueller, Kelly Lockman, Laura Zima and Sarah Rounsifer each added a hit in the winning effort.

Northville actually trailed, 2-0, in the middle of the third inning after the Vikings scored runs in the second and third. The Mustangs rebounded nicely, scoring five runs in the third, three in the fourth, three in the fifth and one in the sixth.

"The girls played awesome today," Fox said. "The offense came alive in the third inning and didn't slow down. Everyone was hitting the ball hard."

And it wasn't just offensively the team found their groove. The defense made some tough plays to earn the win.

Badeen, playing first, made a huge play for Northville in the fifth inning, diving to snag a line drive with her backhand before getting up and stepping on first for the double play.

"It was as good of a play as I've ever seen a first baseman make," Fox said.

Home Owners... How Much Electrical Service Does Your Home Require?

Homes built in the 1940's and 50's generally had 60 Amp of electrical service installed to the home. This in itself does not mean that the electrical service is unsafe. 60 amp service is typically fine for a small house with two people living in the home. The electrical service can become an unsafe issue when the home owner replaces a 15 amp glass fuse with a 20 amp or larger size fuse. This will allow the circuit to draw more electrical power than it intended. This will cause the wires to overheat and create a possible fire hazard. Another concern today for 60 amp service is the total limitation of electrical power than can be used in the home with multiple appliances running at the same time. With modern electrical appliances, and our current lifestyles, homes can demand higher electrical usage than 40 or 50 years ago.

Modern appliances which draw larger electrical demands include: electric stove/ovens, electric clothes dryers, and central air conditioners. These units can draw as much as 30 amps each. Therefore if your home is limited to a

Randall Patterson

60 amp service to the home, then you can easily see why fuses blow and breakers will trip. This in itself identifies the overall electrical service to the home would be undersized. Other modern electric appliances include microwaves, electric hot water heaters, window air conditioners, sauna/spas, computers, televisions, audio components, amplifiers, hair dryers, curling irons, etc. These items place an overall larger demand on the electrical service coming into the home today than in the past. All these items require that the home be sized appropriately for the electrical demand that your family can place on the service, with various items being used simultaneously.

Generally homes today are recommended to have a minimum of 100 amp service to the home for modern demands of today's family lifestyles.

The service size should be based on the electrical requirements for all electrical appliances installed, based on how many appliances could be running at the same time, and the number of people in the home that could be requiring electrical demands at the same time. This total should be used to determine and identify the electrical requirements for the home.

Many homes today have 150 amp or 200 amp service. In addition if your family has hobbies which require additional electric needs, such as a welder, or a pottery kiln, a home based computer network, or a finished basement with a home theater, etc., then these demands for electricity should also be considered for determining the home's electrical requirements.

Here are some increased risk items to remember:

- Increasing the number of circuits, receptacles, lights without considering the overall additional draw on the electrical service to the home

- Adding additional 20 or 30 amp appliances without upgrading a small electrical distribution panel

- Smaller rated fuses/breakers are replaced with higher rated fuses/breakers

- More electrical demands from various smaller appliances due to family growth, hobbies, and lifestyles

As a simple example for how a circuit can draw more electrical demand than intended is as follows.

If you should plug in a standard home toaster and a microwave, with a hair dryer on the same circuit, and have them all operating together, the circuit could draw more current than intended and therefore trip the brake or blow the fuse. If this happens often and the homeowner decides to replace this with a higher rated fuse or breaker, then this is a potential for overheating the wires and creating a fire hazard.

Ensure that your home has the proper sized electrical service for the demand your family requires. Call us to have your home checked for your home's electrical demands and service.

Call us to have your home checked and improve your home's exterior drainage.

Utopia Salon and Spa

AT A GLANCE

Utopia Salon and Spa

- Owners Tita Daskal and Kelly Sesi
- Currently at 182 East Main Street in Northville
- New location immediately next door at 170 East Main St.
- Targeted Moving date August/September
- Lower Level Utopia Underground
- First Floor Spa and Beauty Bar and Boutique
- Second Floor Exclusively Hair
- Regional platform salon for Redken.
- Call 248.465.7700 for appointments

If you think you can't afford the hottest salon in Northville, think again. Utopia, the area's premiere salon and spa, is raising the bar with an expansion next door. The inspiration for their latest venture comes from dynamic owners, Kelly Sesi and Tita Daskal, who seem to know exactly what the public wants when it comes to a salon/spa.

As Tita Daskal notes, their growth will reach beyond their walls. Not only is the salon changing, it's changing Northville as well. "We've brought the industry to another level...What we're doing here is very much like New York."

Targeted moving date for the new facility will be in August/September 2006, which will be at 170 East Main Street, next to their current address. Their new location will provide a greater opportunity for clients to try their services.

Going underground

Utopia Underground is one of the most exciting features of this new venture. The brain-storm of Sesi and Daskal, it will occupy the lower level of the three-story building. Utopia Underground will offer clientele the chance to visit the exclusive salon at reduced prices.

"This is where our newly-talented hairdressers will have a chance to work on clients under our supervision at a lower cost," according to Kelly Sesi. "This not only gives our newly-talented staff experience, it gives the community a chance to try our services."

Utopia Underground will be a destination for the entire family as a time and money saver. Children's haircuts will be priced at $15, women's at $25, men's $20, tints $30, and highlights for $45 at Utopia Underground only.

"We have a name in the community. Those who think they can't afford us can come to the hottest, trendiest salon in town," Sesi added.

Upscale

For those who currently enjoy the luxurious elegance of Utopia Salon & Spa, rest assured, they have a pleasant surprise for the remaining two floors. Sesi invites clients to see for themselves once the project is complete; however, the look and feel (and, of course, service) will be that of an upscale hotel.

The first floor will contain the spa. The nail rooms for manicures and pedicures will be separate for discreet service. The first floor will also contain their beauty bar, where they'll carry exclusive lines of makeup like Paula Dorf and the Art of Shaving, perfumes as well as other boutique items. Why not get your holiday shopping done early with their gift concierge?

"We'll get the gift ready ahead of time. Just tell us what you want, from $25 to $500, and it'll be wrapped and ready to go," said Daskal.

Facials and massages will be performed on the first floor. It must be true that our skin has over 20,000 pores, because each and every one of them will tingle after a facial with Utopia's Josephine Isshak. Their ECHO2 facial - short for exfoliation, cleansing, hydration and oxygenation - transforms the skin through a process using pure oxygen gas along with Vitamins A, C & E. This stimulates the production of new cells, leaving skin feeling soft and supple. Step by step Josephine's nurturing and capable hands will put you in, well ... Utopia. The salon recently gained additional popularity by a visit from the Spy Spa in Hour Magazine which raved about facial services.

Upstairs

The second floor will feature the hair design exclusively. The owners prove once again they are on the cutting edge by providing hi-tech tools including flat screen televisions at every station and laptops for clients to use during their downtime on services such as color and highlights. Each stylist will also follow her appointments on a palm pilot. Hair color will be performed in the Redken state-of-the-art color lab. The new work stations were created with input from their stylists.

"We listen to employees. For example - what do you like, what works and what's comfortable?" said Daskal.

The salon staff receives continuous education from locations all over the globe including New York and Europe, as well as in-house education from Bumble and Bumble, Redken and others.

Other exciting additions include makeup artist Angela who has worked with many exclusive makeup lines as a freelancer. Sesi raves about her eyebrow sculpture. If makeup artists aren't occupied, complimentary five-minute makeovers are available from the talented staff like Daniella Macuilli who know how to make glamour fun. Utopia can make wedding parties even more memorable with specialized treatment in house or on location.

Clients are frequently rewarded with discounts for other services at the salon. Specials will be held every month. During June, they'll feature Father's Day promotions with selected items 20 percent off. Handicapped facilities will allow full access with an elevator as well as front and rear entrances to the new location. Look for a huge grand opening party in October.

Visit their Web site at www.myutopiasalon.com. Call 248 465 7700 for appointments.

Brave new world: Web changes way in which homes, firms are marketed

BY JULIE BROWN
STAFF WRITER

Mike Bernacchi's been teaching marketing at the University of Detroit Mercy for years. Changes in real estate marketing are among those the Huntington Woods resident has seen during that time.

"It has become a much more intriguing game in selling real estate" in the past 15 years or so. "Buyers are better schooled."

Sellers and buyers generally understand that real estate companies have to proclaim who they're an agent of, the UDM professor said. "Nobody even thought of that 15, 20, 25 years ago."

Usually, agents in the past worked for the seller although some now market themselves as being for the buyer.

"It's changed because of the media that's used these days," with the Internet a relatively new addition to the marketing/advertising mix. Ads for firms sometimes ride the crest of a national reputation, such as Century 21 or RE/MAX.

Firms compete to show they have a maximum number of property listings. "It shows there's confidence in the marketplace that you have these listings," Bernacchi said.

The newspaper industry's not dead, he said, but faces growing competition from the Web, something newspapers have addressed by developing Web outlets. "I think most of us will probably start with the newspaper."

He finds that national firm ads are often "humorous and in good taste." One, for example, shows a man who's had a lifelong desire to live in a tree-house.

Such marketing is easier for a national firm that has an established image, but smaller firms can also develop messages that are funny and catchy yet informative, the professor said.

"If you can carve out a unique presence in any medium, you have a chance for success. A good strong effort I think goes a long way."

He sees the industry's future more and more in Web listings or very localized newspapers, some free. That can be beneficial, he added, in that it's a less expensive way for real estate firms to do business.

Bernacchi finds home purchases are a part of our emotional connection once we're in the housing market. He values "the stake next to the rake" in selling homes.

"Many of us ride around looking for homes. I don't think that part of the industry will ever go away." Feeling comfortable with a location and specific home helps people connect, and Bernacchi believes women generally have an edge in that.

"All of a sudden, you connect. It's on your radar screen." Home selection is important from an emotional standpoint, he said, particularly with homes being the most expensive purchase we make.

"That becomes part of our brand. The home becomes our brand and our identity."

Charlie Diederich, director/marketing and advertising for the Newspaper Association of America, has views on real estate marketing as well. Under one measure, newspapers have enjoyed through 2005 11 straight years of gain in real estate advertising "which is a pretty phenomenal feat."

Total online advertising has grown essentially from zero in 1995. "It's also gone up year after year," said Diederich, whose association is planning a June 5-6 seminar for newspaper people in Denver on this topic.

"We sort of forget our math class." There's a difference between percentage and dollar amount growth, he said, and newspapers have more than held their own in the latter in real estate.

It's a mixed review in terms of market share, however, with the advertising pie being split up more. Realtors now spend on lead generation, Diederich said, paying companies such as The Money Tree for names of those interested in mortgages.

Assessment refusal appears specious

Q. One of our condo members is refusing to pay his monthly assessment because he claims that according to the association bylaws, there was one person lacking from the Board of Directors when the budget was implemented. Therefore, he is arguing that all assessments and fees were null and void. Do you think he has an argument?

A. It all depends on your bylaws but in a similar case out of Connecticut, the court ruled that even though the association's bylaws required four board members, the fact that only three people sat on the board at the time the budget was adopted was irrelevant to the budget's validity. The court said that it is common for boards to have temporary vacancies, and that as long as a quorum was present at the meeting at which time the budget was adopted, the budget is valid. It appears, therefore, that the argument of your co-owner is specious but you are best advised to consult with a knowledgeable community association lawyer.

Q. We are constantly barraged with advertisements regarding new gimmicks for mortgage financing adjustable rates and now the pitch is for fixed rates. How do we know what is good or bad?

A. Several mortgage companies are spending big dollars to entice you to come up with programs which in the last analysis may result in negative amortization and, therefore, increased interest over the long term. You should always consider what the basic interest rate and payments are going to be and what, if any, payments are going to be applied against principal. You should also recognize that the dollars they are spending for advertising will no doubt result in most instances in increased costs to you as the consumer. You are best advised to get competitive bids for mortgages and compare the products in detail with your financial adviser.

Merger strengthens Village Green

Village Green Companies, a leading manager and developer of luxury apartment communities, has announced their joint venture with St. Louis-based The Lipton Group, Inc. The venture, which forms Village Green/Lipton, LLC in St. Louis and remains Village Green elsewhere, will merge substantially all of the Lipton Group's multi-family management contracts on June 2, 2006, excepting a few agreements that will follow within weeks of the closing date. The merger makes the combined Village Green/ Lipton, LLC entity #21 on the National Multi Housing Council's (NMHC) list of largest property managers based on their recently released 2006 listing.

"Our focus has been to develop substantial scale in the markets where we operate," said George S. Quay, IV, president and COO of Village Green Companies. "We have looked at the St. Louis and Kansas City markets as strategic expansion opportunities for Village Green for many years. Through

The Lipton Group is a professional management company that has been involved in the St. Louis real estate market for three generations. The Lipton family will continue to own, develop and asset manage its holdings in the St. Louis market. Over the past 10 years, the company has expanded and grown through both acquisitions of property and third party fee management.

our merger with the Lipton Group we will develop a strong operating platform with our corporate infrastructure coupled with Lipton's high quality team, assets and local name recognition."

"Many goals have been accomplished by entering into this strategic alliance with Village Green," said Randy M. Lipton, principal of The Lipton Group, Inc. "I am confident that they will successfully add value to the assets managed through best practices, depth of professionals in the property management field and increased buying power. Additionally, this will allow penetration of the St. Louis market and growth of the portfolio due to The Lipton Group's reputation and Village Green's professionalism and strength."

Over the past 10 years, the company has expanded and grown through both acquisitions of property and third party fee management.

The Lipton Group Inc. holds the designation of AMO (Accredited Management Organization) through the Institute of Real Estate Management, and is also a member of CCIM and NMHC. The Lipton Group knows the St. Louis market and enjoys an excellent reputation. The St. Louis Apartment Association named The Lipton Group the Property Management Company of the Year twice in the past 10 years.

Village Green Companies, a third-generation real estate firm (founded in 1919) headquartered in Farmington Hills with regional offices in Chicago, Cincinnati and Minneapolis, is one of the leading builders, developers and managers of apartment communities in the nation. Ranking among the Midwest's largest developers of rental residences at luxury and market levels, the privately held company, as a result of the merger, has a portfolio of more than 38,000 units and 163 apartment communities.

The award is for significant contributions to architecture by those who practice in the education or corporate field.

Roy Rocco Romano of Clawson earned the Robert Hastings Award. He is a principal with TMP Associates in Bloomfield Hills and has worked in the field 34 years. He is a graduate of Lawrence Technological University with a bachelor of science degree in architecture.

Young Architect of the Year is John Paul Minear, an adjunct professor of architectural design at Lawrence Technological University. He is senior architect with Integrated Design Solutions in Troy, where he is one of their lead designers in the college and university market. He studied at Lawrence Tech, earned a master's from the University of Michigan and did postgraduate work in London, England.

Sen. Mark Schauer is the AIA's Legislator of the Year. The Battle Creek resident serves as the Senate Democratic floor leader.

Two members of the Detroit Chapter of the AIA have been elevated to the College of Fellows. Frederick F. Butters is an architect and practicing attorney engaged in law practice defending liability claims against design professionals. He is a principal attorney with Thomas M. Keranen & Associates in Bloomfield Hills. Alan H. Cobb is director of design, vice president and corporate director for Albert Kahn Associates in Detroit.

Butters earned architecture degrees from Lawrence Technological University and his law degree cum laude from Wayne State University.

Cobb earned his architecture degree from Lawrence Tech.

Integrated Architecture, with offices in Grand Rapids and Ann Arbor, was designated Firm of the Year at the Michigan Society's annual Celebration of Architecture May 12 in the Rackham Building on the U-M campus in Ann Arbor. The firm also received two design awards.

The Michigan Chapter of the AIA also announced a number of winning designs, including: Steamworks by McIntosh Poris Associates of Birmingham in Toronto, biddison architecture + design of Farmington Hills for Infineon Technological in Livonia and Kinetic Post in Southfield, the Synagogue Lubavitch Campus of Living Judaism in West Bloomfield, which was designed by Luckenbach|Ziegelman Architects with offices in Ann Arbor and Birmingham.

The Van Tine Guthrie Studio of Architecture in Northville has had at least one winning entry in an AIA program since 2000, and this year has another interiors project, Stola N.A. in Ferndale.

"It's more about us driving traffic to a Web site," he said of the newspaper industry. Newspapers are figuring out how to build up their Web sites for that purpose.

"Once we've done that, we have done our job." Consumers seek unbiased, trustworthy information from the Web.

"Home sellers and buyers are arriving better-informed," he said. Newspapers can provide both in print and online very specific consumer content, competing with the Web.

"They can't do the local side as well as a newspaper can," Diederich said.

Looking good: Lowe's has ideas for home improvement

Cut a laminated project panel—or have a Lowe's employee cut the panel for you—to measure 16 inches square (you can use the leftover panel to create more boards). Sand and prime the panel and aromatic cedar blocks from the home organization department. Spray-paint the panel with a base color (we chose red). When dry, tape off an 11-inch square in the center of the board. Spray-paint the square with a different color (Lowe's used taupe), and allow to dry. Using white electrical tape, create a 9-panel grid in the

"It's the best time to invest in Michigan?"

In the 75 years since my grandfather founded our company, there has rarely been a better combination of low interest rates and a larger inventory of homes, making this year the best time to purchase your home.

PEPPERCORN MUSHROOM SIRLOIN

At O'Charley's, we've dressed up our steaks, but you can still come as you are. Introducing O'Charley's own new Butcher's Cut Premium Steaks—and our commitment that, no matter the cut, you'll get a great steak every time you visit us. We start with only the finest Midwestern grain-fed, USDA Choice beef. Aged for tenderness and flavor, these steaks are then hand-cut and trimmed by our very own butchers to the perfect size, weight and thickness. Finally, each is seasoned with our unique blend of spices and grilled over an open flame. It's a steakhouse steak, with a side of good times you'll only find at O'Charley's.

Ask American Profile

Q Does Vanna White get to keep all the clothes she wears on Wheel of Fortune?

—Catby Smith, Allentown, Pa.

No, she doesn't keep her stylish wardrobe, which is loaned from various designers. "The clothes either go back to the designer or they're auctioned off at charity," says White, who was honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame this spring. "And I've never worn the same outfit twice." She really enjoys dressing up for the show. "It's like being a Barbie doll and getting all new clothes every day!"

Rich Little is a man of many voices!

Q Is my favorite comedian, Rich Little, still performing? I miss seeing him on TV.

—Eryl Burmuorth, Phoenix, Ariz.

Living in Las Vegas with his wife, Marie, the master impressionist performs regularly at the Orleans and the Suncoast hotel/casinos, as well as taking a few select dates around the country. "One of the audiences' favorite impressions is still Johnny Carson," he says. "They like Andy Rooney and Ronald Reagan, and these days I'm doing a lot of George W. — he's given me some great material." Little's earliest impressions were of his teachers in high school, for which he got into constant trouble. He recently released a DVD called One's a Crowd, which is available on his website, www.richlittle.com. In the works: a DVD of A Christmas Carol and Robin Hood, in which he plays all the parts—no surprise!

Vanna White dresses up.

Q I've seen a lot of reissues of Crosby, Stills & Nash albums lately. Does Stephen Stills have any new solo records?

—A. Leigh, Lawton, Okla.

Stills, 61, one of the founding members of the band Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, recently released Man Alive, his first solo album in 14 years. The CD marks a bit of a musical reunion because it features his former CSN&Y mates Graham Nash and Neil Young. "They were my biggest support team, saying, 'C'mon, you've got to get this album finished,'" Stills says. The charity-minded father of seven heads The Stephen Stills Children's Music Project, which buys instruments for various after-school music programs.

Q What can you tell me about Cynthia Watros from Lost? I know I've seen her on other shows.

—Dona Schumann, LeRoy, Minn.

The Michigan-born actress first became known on The Guiding Light, for which she won an Emmy. When she left the show in the late 1990s, she landed roles on The Drew Carey Show, the comedy series Titus and now the runaway hit Lost. Although Lost is filmed in Hawaii, Watros' main residence is in Los Angeles with her husband and their twin daughters. She was pregnant with the twins during the time she was starring in Titus, in which her character wasn't supposed to be pregnant. So, the show's directors "disguised" her condition by having Watros stand behind objects, hold various bulky items and wear dark clothes. When they ran out of camera angles and props, they came up with a plot twist that involved her character breaking a leg and being confined to a wheelchair.

A Sunset Beach Salute

by WARREN
HYNES

Marvin Hume was a 20-year-old college student in December 1941, when he learned two buddies had been killed during the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor. Joseph Hittorff and Walter Simon were Hume's childhood friends from Collingswood, N.J. (pop. 14,326). They died on a Sunday morning two and a half weeks before Christmas amid a cascade of bombs that killed more than 2,300 Americans.

Fuming with rage, Hume's desire to enter the military "was absolute." He enlisted and served in the U.S. Navy for three years and, during his missions, saw unforgettable images of death and destruction.

Hume, 85, doesn't talk much nowadays about those World War II images, but they are at the heart of a memorial ceremony he has conducted the last 33 years just outside the beachside resort town of Cape May, N.J. (pop. 4,034). From May to October, Hume conducts a daily flag ceremony on Sunset Beach to honor the sacrifices of the nation's war veterans.

Fifteen minutes before sunset, Hume stands at the base of a flagpole on Sunset Beach, alongside a family that wishes to honor a deceased loved one who served in the military. As the sun prepares to touch the horizon over the Delaware Bay, Hume plays God Bless America and The Star-Spangled Banner over a loudspeaker system, then helps members of the family lower the American flag while Taps is played.

Hundreds of beachgoers stand at attention during the songs, many of them with tears in their eyes.

"It's so honorable and patriotic," says Gary LeFevre, 35, of Hanover, Pa., attending a ceremony honoring his late grandfather, Clyde LeFevre, who served in the U.S. Air Force during World War II. "I wanted to instill this in my children's life."

Hume never could have scripted the story of how he came to conduct the ceremony. After World War II, he worked for an aircraft company in St. Louis. But his passion was collecting minerals and, in 1957, Hume gave up his engineering career to start a rock and shell shop in Atlantic City, N.J. Over the next 15 years, he developed a successful store and wholesale business.

The Civilian Conservation Corps

by MARTI
ATTOUN
Contributing Editor

Olin Bell climbs a small hill to a sandstone building that once housed a well pump at Meramec State Park in Sullivan, Mo. He's on a treasure hunt of sorts.

Olin Bell points out his name, etched in a stone wall.

Peering through his glasses, Bell searches the rock wall, then stops and settles his hand over the faint letters of his name scratched into the mortar.

"I mixed the mortar and had an old nail and did that. I was 18," says Bell, 85, who helped quarry the rock and build the pump house while working with the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) in 1939.

Bell is among fewer than 500,000 living CCC veterans—part of an army of 3 million who built America's state and national parks, forests, bridges, dams, fish hatcheries, fire towers, roads and lakes between 1933 and 1942. Their craftsmanship endures in treasured landmarks across the nation, including the three-story pine log headquarters of the Chippewa National Forest at Cass Lake, Minn., the seven-arch bridge at Cumberland Mountain State Park in Crossville, Tenn., and the 24,000-square-foot adobe National Park Service building in Santa Fe, N.M.

Nicknamed Roosevelt's Tree Army, the CCC planted 3 billion trees to replenish the nation's depleted forests.

The CCC boys developed the Okefenokee National Wildlife Refuge in Georgia, built Waterbury Dam in Vermont's Wincooski River Valley and planted so many trees—a staggering 3 billion—that they were nicknamed "Roosevelt's Tree Army."

Desperate days

President Franklin D. Roosevelt created the corps on March 31, 1933, during desperate days of the Great Depression. Hungry and broken-spirited young men needed jobs and the nation's natural resources needed replenishing and protecting from erosion, fire and excessive timber harvesting.

"I don't know what we would have done without it," says Al Vaughn, 83, of Sullivan (pop. 6,351). "There was no work. I remember very well one cold winter and we got turnips and cornbread. That's what we lived on that winter."

Single, unemployed males, ages 18 to 25, could enlist in the CCC and earn $30 a month. Five bucks went into their pockets and $25 automatically was sent home to their parents.

Vaughn and Bell, who both worked at CCC Camp 2728 near Meramec State Park, get together monthly with other members of the National Association of Civilian Conservation

A CCC recruitment poster

Corps Alumni to reminisce about their muscle-building work, which included hauling river rock for the fireplace in the park's dining lodge and

"So many boys had never been to a day of school in them days," Gandy adds. "They didn't have shoes to go to school in the winter. Those boys were actually wanting an education and they were a jewel to teach." An estimated 400,000 young men learned to read and write at CCC camps.

U.S. ARMY

Al Vaughn, now 83, was a strapping 17-year-old when he enrolled in the CCC in 1939.

Between 1933 and 1942, the Civilian Conservation Corps:

- Developed more than 800 state parks
- Built 46,854 bridges, 27,191 miles of fence, 8,065 wells and pump houses, 3,116 lookout towers, 204 lodges and museums
- Installed 5,000 miles of water supply lines
- Restored 3,980 historic structures
- Surveyed and mapped millions of acres and thousands of lakes

The seven-arch bridge at Cumberland Mountain State Park in Crossville, Tenn., is among thousands of CCC landmarks.

"You had to be quiet when you put the coal in the stove at night or someone would hit you on the head with a shoe," says Noble Bandy, 85, of Leslie, Mo. (pop. 87).

The discipline they learned prepared enrollees for military duty during World War II, which also spelled the end of the corps in 1942. However, in only nine years, the "boys" had matured into men and left a remarkable visual legacy—from forest restoration in Maine to development of Malheur National Wildlife Refuge in Oregon—that forever changed the nation's landscape.

Bronze memorials and museums

In 1993, CCC alumni chapters nationwide embarked on a mission to place at least one bronze statue of a CCC worker in every state as a memorial to the achievements of the corps. So far, 35 6-foot statues have been placed at CCC-built parks and former camps. Each statue costs $18,050, plus freight.

"It's a nickel-and-dime thing," says John Sekesky, 88, of Rose City, Mich. (pop. 721), chairman of the project spearheaded by the chapter in Grayling, Mich. (pop. 1,952). "The men dig into their own pockets. Sometimes we can get a grant for $1,000 or $2,000."

"Grayling was surrounded by CCCs with 12 camps within 30 miles," Sekesky adds.

A glimpse of day-to-day camp life is showcased at the CCC Museum and Research Center in St. Louis. There, a metal cot is neatly made up beside a coal stove, while hand-saws, shovels and axes line one wall, and thousands of camp newspapers and photographs depict the young men at work and at play.

The museum and national alumni headquarters are housed at Jefferson Barracks, an induction camp where recruits spent two weeks getting physical examinations, inoculations against typhoid and smallpox, and exercise before being assigned to permanent camps.

"You can find the spirit of the 1930s in this building," says Harry Dallas, 84, the museum's director. "Some fellow will die and his family will send his mementoes here."

Dallas, who has given free museum tours for 21 years,

From left: Noble Bandy, Al Vaughn, Francis Gandy and Olin Bell reminisce at the entrance to CCC Camp 2728, signed up for the CCC after seeing a notice in the Jackson County Courthouse in Murphysboro, Ill. "I was just a kid," he says, "but this work was not haphazard. We had engineers, civilians who directed us."

Dallas marvels at the efficiency of the entire corps. In fact, only 17 days after the CCC was established, the first camp opened: Camp Roosevelt in the George Washington National Forest near Edinburg, Va. (pop. 813).

"This has always been a big part of the history of our community," says Joan Sharpe, 61, president of the Camp Roosevelt CCC Legacy Foundation in Edinburg. "A community close to a CCC camp was infused with about $5,000 a month. The guys came to the lumberyards and the restaurants. A lot of those boys fell in love and married local girls."

"The CCC had a huge impact when America was on its knees economically," adds Sharpe, who believes the nation owes the CCC boys a wealth of gratitude.

"I call them our quiet heroes." ☆

Sometimes there is another side to depression

It could be bipolar disorder

Like many people with depression, treatment may have made you feel better. But after you stopped feeling "down," maybe you started feeling way "up." You may not realize that these symptoms could be the manic side of bipolar disorder.

Depression is often recognized first. There may be weeks, months, or even years between your high and low moods.

No one's to blame. Bipolar disorder is a chemical imbalance and millions are undiagnosed or diagnosed incorrectly.

You may need treatment for bipolar disorder, not for depression. Your doctor needs to know about all of your symptoms to make the correct diagnosis and to prescribe treatment to control your ups as well as your downs.

Answer the questions on the right. Take them to your health care provider and discuss your symptoms. To learn more about bipolar disorder, call or go online.

RECIPE: Cauliflower Cashew Salad

Peg Housenga
Zeeland, Mich.

Styling: Mary Carter

Cauliflower Cashew Salad

Salad:

- 1 head iceberg lettuce, washed and torn into small pieces
- 1 head cauliflower, washed and cut into bite-size pieces
- 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
- 2 cups seasoned croutons
- 2 cups cashews

Dressing:

- 1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Combine lettuce, cauliflower, cheese, croutons and cashews. Set aside while making the dressing. Stir together the mayonnaise, sugar and Parmesan cheese. The dressing and salad can be made ahead and combined just before serving, making this a great potluck dish. Serves 10 to 12.

Tips From Our Test Kitchen:

Try adding 1/2 cup chopped green onions. Adjust sugar to your taste. A lower-calorie dressing can be made using plain yogurt instead of mayonnaise or salad dressing.

NOW AVAILABLE IN UNITED STATES

Product used in Japan for 71 years relieves pain in 10 minutes without taking dangerous drugs

Relieves pain from arthritis, back, bursitis, carpal tunnel, tendonitis, sprains, strains and more

By John Whitehead, Media Services

A product that relieves pain in 10 minutes without taking dangerous drugs has been used safely in Japan for 71 years. It is now available in the United States.

This product is a patch that contains ingredients that not only relieve pain quickly, but, also help remove toxins from the damaged area.

It can cut your pain relief costs up to 82% less than using pain relief drugs and pain relief heat products.

An improved version of this product is being offered in the United States by Biotech Research under its brand name of PainNOT™ Patches.

PainNOT™ Patches relieve pain from arthritis, back, bursitis, carpal tunnel, tendonitis, sprains, strains, sports injuries and more. It relieves pain for 8 hours for each patch application.

PainNOT™ Patches are super easy and convenient to use. They do not have the mess, odors, and stain problems of pain relief creams. The patch contains the ingredients in layers of fiber. When applied to the skin, the ingredients then penetrate deeply through the skin to the source of the pain and muscle, joints and bones. The patches come in a variety of sizes.

Therefore, you can put the PainNOT™ Patches on large areas such as your back, or on small areas such as fingers and toes. The patch is also thin and lightweight unlike the big bulky pain relief wraps that are on the market.

For more details on the PainNOT™ Patches here is my educational interview with John Whitacre, Chief of Staff, Product Development for BioTech Research.

Q. How did this pain relief method used in the PainNOT™ Patch originate?

A. Its origin is in ancient Oriental medicine. It is now well known to science that there are many remedies from Oriental medicine are now proving to be very effective in clinical studies.

This particular Oriental pain relief method was brought to market commercially by a Japanese pharmaceutical company in 1934. But they took it a step further. They took the ingredients that brought the pain relief from the Oriental medicine remedies and put them in a remarkable patch. This patch has the ingredients in very advanced forms of fiber. When the patch is applied, the ingredients are released over a long period of time through the skin deeply into the muscles, bones and joints to the source of the pain.

BioTech Research® has developed an improved patch which includes cloth fabric which breathes. The former patches were made of rubber which can cause perspiring.

There are many benefits to a pain relief remedy that goes directly to the source of the pain.

Q. What are the benefits derived by going directly to the source of the pain?

A. First of all, the pain relief is faster. You don't have to wait for the digestive process to get results. Pain relief with these patches start in 10 minutes.

Going directly to the pain source also has this major health benefit. You are not putting pain relief substances all through your body in places where they are not needed, but, rather you concentrate the substances at the point of the pain.

Also, you are not putting pain relief substances through the liver, which is one of the main causes of side effects of ingestible pain relief remedies.

Not only is the PainNOT™ Patch safe to use, but, it also helps the body carry toxins away from the damaged area causing the pain.

Q. How long does the pain relief last?

A. Each patch application relieves pain for up to 8 hours.

Q. Why do many of the pain relief drugs cause heart attacks and strokes?

A. The main mechanism of action of these synthetic drugs is COX-2 Inhibition. The COX-2 enzyme causes inflammation by stimulating the bad prostaglandins which are hormone-like substances in the body.

But, these synthetic drugs can produce bad side effects because the COX-2 enzyme is also necessary for cardiovascular health. Therefore, by eliminating it completely or limiting COX-2 too much,

Simply peel patch from backing and apply.

I have had pain since last year on top of my hand behind the thumb, most likely caused from golf plus bone inflammation or arthritis. It gets worse whenever I play golf. Up until now, I've only used Naproxen. PainNOT Patch has worked great for me. I wear the PainNOT patch when I play golf, and it stays on very well, especially as my skin gets warmer. I really love using them. Shirley Pruett

The doctor told me that I needed surgery for my back but I did not want to go through that. Now when I feel pain in my back I use the PainNOT™ Patch. In 10 minutes I start experiencing movement in my back again and even the next day my back feels wonderful. Your product is incredible and I'm glad that I used the PainNOT™ Patch. Mike Blubaugh

Each container has both small and large patches.

Ingredients in the patches penetrate to the muscle, joints and bones for pain relief.

For a couple of weeks I had been experiencing a lot of tightness in my lower back. I had tried pain relievers and medicated creams and I just couldn't get relief. I tried the PainNOT Patch and it started to soothe my back almost immediately. The patch is very thin and discreet so I didn't worry about people asking me what I had on my back. Soon after applying the patch my lower back felt great. Audra Boone adverse cardiovascular effects can occur, as you have seen in media reports and the recall of a number of these synthetic pain relief drugs.

Q. How do the PainNOT™ Patches work to relieve pain?

A. The ingredients cool and reduce inflammation. Then the ingredients gently warm the damaged area deep to muscles, joints and bones.

The natural response of the body to the increased temperature is to try to maintain a condition of homeostasis. That means that the body automatically tries to lower the temperature in the area. Therefore, it expands blood vessels to increase blood flow.

When the PainNOT™ Patch delivers heat to the tissues, the blood vessels actually increase in diameter via a change called vasodilation. Then oxygen and nutrients in the bloodstream are able to pass through the walls of the blood vessels more easily and carry toxins away from the damaged issue.

As the damaged, inflamed areas receive the increased supply of blood, the cells are nourished and cleansed and inflammation is reduced. A person then experiences pain relief. The heat also relaxes muscles and expands other tissue to relieve tension and pressure on nerves.

Q. How do readers get the PainNOT™ Patch?

A. They will not be in stores for an extended period. In the mean time, readers can order directly from BioTech Research.

End of interview.

PainNOT™ Patches come in a giant size box of 60 patches (30 large patches and 30 small patches) for $49 plus $3.95 shipping and handling. helps Hume lower a soldier's casket flag at sundown.

Sunset Beach Gifts is one of several businesses operated by Marvin Hume's family.

One day, while Hume was making a delivery to Sunset Beach, Preston Shadbolt, the owner of a shell and mineral shop, asked if Hume wanted to buy the place. Hume agreed to a price, and they sealed the deal with a handshake.

The man asked Hume for one favor: Continue his ritual of playing God Bless America each night at sunset while lowering Old Glory. Hume did that and more: He put an ad in a local newspaper asking for casket flags to fly on Sunset Beach. "I've never had to advertise since," he says.

Thirty-three years later, Hume and his family run three gift shops and lease a restaurant at the end of Sunset Boulevard. Many flag-ceremony participants ask for the chance to lower their loved one's casket flag, while others, who have not lost a loved one in battle, volunteer to lower one of the donated casket flags that Hume keeps in storage.

Americans, ranging from military generals to church camp participants, have lowered flags at Sunset Beach, and they've honored veterans from military engagements ranging from World War I to the war in Iraq. Hume recalls one recent flag volunteer, a nearly blind boy with multiple sclerosis. When the flag fell into his hands, the boy started crying.

"He said, 'This is the proudest moment of my life,'" Hume recalls. "The American flag in his hands had honored someone who had served his country."

Hume shrugs off any notion that he's a hero. He'd rather praise his childhood buddies, Hittorff and Simon, who made the ultimate sacrifice. "I don't do it for accolades," Hume says. "I do it because of how I feel inside." ☆

Helpful Tips for Around the House

Soil oasis for perennials

If your yard has poor soil, don't fret—you still can plant perennials without bringing in truckloads of topsoil. Dig a hole double the width of the plant's root ball and half again as deep. Fill the bottom third of the hole with peat moss, the middle third with aged manure and the top third with potting soil. Mix thoroughly before planting. Your plant will thrive in its nourishing little oasis for years.

Keep your paint roller from getting a flat side while drying, and keep it up and out of the way. Tie a string to a small piece of wood and pull it through the roller. Tie the other end up and let the roller hang freely to dry. Once dry, store the roller in its original plastic package to keep it clean and dust-free.

Painting basement steps presents a puzzling dilemma: If you paint from the top down, you'll be stranded in the basement until the paint dries. If you paint from the bottom up, you have to work practically upside down.

Next time, try this: Paint every other step the first day and the other ones the next day. You can escape the basement by stepping over the wet ones. It may sound silly, but it works!

Paint scraper and chisel sharpening

Get sander help. Run down with a fine belt to quickly sharpen scrapers, chisels and even shovels. Maintain the factory-made bevel for best results. Remove your sander's dust bag so sparks won't ignite any wood dust within.

A block of rigid foam from a craft store (or packing box) makes an inexpensive and handy drill-bit holder. Just poke the bits into the foam, reusing the same hole each time you return a bit. Push the bits all the way to the bottom of the foam block so the holder won't be top-heavy and topple over. It's a great way to stash small screwdrivers, chisels, nail sets and other dinky tools, too.

Handy Hints

Less-mess paint pouring

It's almost impossible to pour paint from one paint can into another without dribbling paint down the side. Hold a paint stirrer or other flat piece of wood across the opening of the can as you pour into the other, and paint will run smoothly down the wood, not the can.

Measuring reminder

Place a self-adhesive label on the side of your tape measure for jotting down measurements. This comes in especially handy when you're on a ladder, need to cut an odd-shaped piece or at the hardware store. The label can be easily erased or replaced as needed.

SELF-STICKING LABEL

Bumper ball

Prevent injuries by covering the ends of the guide rails on your table saw. Cut a slit in a couple of tennis balls and place them over the ends of each rail. They're good bumpers—easy to remove and cheap.

TENNIS BALLS

Loose post cure

You can firm up loose posts set into concrete by driving cedar shingles around the base, trimming off the protruding portion with a utility knife, then sealing the top with flexible caulk.

Finger-saving push sticks

Construct a pair of these push sticks from 3/4-inch-thick plywood for guiding lumber when using table saws, band saws, shapers and jointers. The front notch helps hold wood when you don't want your fingers near the blade; the back notch holds wood flat so it doesn't lift or flip up off the table surface. ★
