Northville ushers in the holidays this weekend...

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Northville's table is set. Sidewalks have donned the season's greens. Senses are tingling with the aroma of baking, hum of carols and twinkle of lights. And hosts are bustling with final touches before the first knock.

Hometown holidays return to downtown's doorstep tomorrow night with the start of the lighted parade at 6:30 p.m. This weekend, merchants and community groups will serve an array of activities to area residents — from decorating ideas to gift shopping and carriage rides to a story with Santa.

Invitations went out via e-mail, printed posters and word-of-mouth. No need to R.S.V.P., said Maureen Johnston, Northville Chamber of Commerce marketing and events director.

Holiday kickoff. "We want to invite Northville residents, friends and family to our hometown holidays," said Janet Bloom, Northville Chamber of Commerce marketing and events director.

Arch family, Ted, Austin, Jordan and Dawn, invite the rest of Northville to enjoy the upcoming holiday.

Women losing weight during holidays at Curves

After only a couple months in business, Curves in Northville has already been changing lives. It's a supportive, friendly place where women can come for 30 minute work-out three times a week. It's not a lot of time, but it can make a big difference.

Some women start losing weight the very first week they begin at Curves. Others lose more slowly, but find themselves toning up and losing inches.

"These women have been losing so much weight, they are just amazing," said franchise owner Leslie Rosaen. "Some have lost 14 inches their first month. The group as a total has lost hundreds of inches and hundreds of pounds over only a couple months.

At Curves, the women aren't getting fit by themselves -- they are doing it as a group. Some come with a buddy, but most just make friends as they are exercising at the center every week. The social aspect plays an important part in the program.

During each 30-minute session the women spend time working around a circuit that offers a complete fitness program, combining strength and cardiovascular training through hydraulic resistance. Upbeat music is playing all the time, and the women are talking together, encouraging each other, and having a good time. It's easy to forget that this is a business, and it's more like a fun

When Leslie Rosaen started out as a Curves member several years ago, she found that the enjoyable work-outs surrounded by interesting, energetic women were adding to her life in wonderful ways. She lost weight and became fit, but more importantly, Leslie really enjoyed exercising at Curves.

That's why Leslie decided to open her own Curves franchise in Northville with her husband, John Warner. She saw Curves as an opportunity to reach out to other women and help succeed at losing weight and getting stronger. Leslie's passion for helping others has been evident in her 30 years as a high school and middle school Spanish teacher. And now at Curves, Leslie takes her role seriously -- as a fitness coach, a motivator and a friend.

"My personal passion has always been to support and encourage people to be all they can be, so it is a dream come true to have the opportunity to help the women of Northville reach their health and fitness goals," said Leslie.

Leslie and other staff members also offer weight management classes with a high-protein, low-carb eating program. The program works with the fitness routine to help women lose weight, or just develop a healthier lifestyle. Just as important as the weight loss, the women that exercise at Curves of Northville are feeling good about what they are doing. They are healthy and energetic. The work-outs are more than just exercise. They are speeding up the metabolism and turning the body into efficient calorie and fat-burning machines. Some feel years younger.

"These women are feeling healthy, and have a lot of extra energy," said Leslie. "You feel great when you come to Curves. You are so energized after the work-out, you don't need or want to eat any junk food. You actually feel like eating healthy foods and you want to take care of yourself like you should. It is a total transformation."

Curves is easy to try out with flexible membership plans. They'll even give you a Guest Pass to try it out for free, just for the asking. They have plans that can fit within the budget -- and schedule -- of every woman.

Curves is located at 43261 Seven Mile Road, a mile west of Haggerty in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center in Northville. Stop by to take a look anytime Monday through Saturday or call for an appointment at (248) 344-4466. Go online at www.curves.com for more details.

Still under investigation

with witnesses and gather paperwork, Miller said. She would not speculate on how long the review would take.

"They haven't given me a time frame,"

In-house policy

Meanwhile, township board members, publicly resigned to wait until the final outcome, are acting in the arena where they do control the outcome.

At their 7:30 p.m. regular board meeting at township hall tonight, they will consider adopting new ethics standards.

"It's important to say, members have always had to conduct themselves in accordance with state law," said Township Supervisor Mark Abbo. "The board will decide on Thursday whether incorporating an ethics policy into our own code of conduct would be appropriate."

In the past, the board has discussed behavior guidelines. Township Clerk Sue Hillebrand said, adding Abbo supported her request to return the issue to tonight's agenda.

An ethics policy the board adopted in the mid-1990s lapsed, Hillebrand said, due in part to lack of complaints and lack of residents interested in administering it.

"It was a good check and balance for all of us," she said. She said under the policy board members would still be allowed to accept gifts such as a round of golf, but would be required to disclose all gifts valued at $25 or more.

Hillebrand said her desire to renew the policy is independent of the ongoing Werner investigation.

"I know the timing's suspect, but I brought this up last July," Hillebrand said. "Certainly, Brad's thing prompted me to think of it again."

'Undue pressure' allegations

The month-long state police investigation followed developer Sam Sackllah's allegations that he felt forced into agreeing to terms of a land purchase deal with Werner at the risk of stalling development of his 3.5-acre commercial project. To complete the retail-commercial project, Sackllah needed an easement along the front of Werner's Seven Mile Road home property.

Werner denied any wrongdoing. "I feel like I'm in the middle of

'CSI,' the truth is in the evidence, or whatever that show says," he said.

Board options

State law doesn't give board members or the supervisor power over their peer's fate, Hillebrand said.

"All seven of us are equals, even the supervisor," she said. "Certainly, we could ask an individual to resign, but they're not under any obligation to do so."

Only the governor has the power to remove an elected township officer, Hillebrand said. Even in that case, evidence of official misconduct, willful neglect of duty, extortion, habitual drunkenness or a felony conviction after the officer's election must be submitted.

Apart from the ongoing investigation, Abbo said the board can develop a policy for the future.

"In order to gain my support, I want teeth in this policy," he said. "I don't want a paper tiger. What do I mean by 'teeth?' Exactly what are sanctions for non-compliance and who will enforce them?"

"This is something we've been discussing for some time. This is nothing new."

"The holiday lighted parade is kind of the official kickoff for the holiday shopping season in Northville.

"Northville also welcomes Santa to town during the parade."

After his arrival by carriage Friday night, Santa will listen to children's wish lists in Bandshell Park. But he's changed his routine from previous years, opting to attend a new Northville Parks and Recreation event in town Saturday, while opting out of ongoing visiting hours at the park through the holidays.

This weekend, residents can enjoy free entertainment, holiday shopping for gifts and decor, and support local non-profit agencies. Here's what's on the menu:

Lighted Parade: 6:30 p.m. Friday

The parade of lit floats, holiday music and St. Nicholas will start and finish at the Northville Senior Community Center parking lot.

The route starts on Cady Street, then turns north onto Wing Street up to Dunlap Street where it turns east. The parade turns south on Center to head east on Main Street, then turns south on Hutton Street, west on Mary Alexander Court, south on Center back to the senior center's Cady Street parking lot.

The parade is expected to last 30-45 minutes. The Northville Christian Assembly will provide free treats, face stamping, music and children's activities in Bandshell Park.

Home tour: 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Friday and Saturday

The Northville Community Foundation is hosting its ninth annual holiday tour of five Northville homes decorated for the holidays.

The non-profit agency's largest fund-raiser of the year, the tour provides visitors decorating ideas that will fit into any home, said Foundation president Shari Peters.

Highlights will include a chocolate lover's kitchen, a black-and-white dining room and a three-story home with 15 trees adorned with ornaments to ostrich feathers.

Advance $18 tickets are available at Gardenviews, Changing Seasons, Community Financial, Main Street Bank and the chamber office.

Christmas Walk: noon-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday

The parking stalls and sidewalks along Bandshell Park will be filled with chamber Farmers Market vendors, selling evergreens to decorate for the holidays. Main Street will remain open to traffic, Bloom said.

"Just the bandshell area will be closed to accommodate the Greens Mart," she said, adding items for sale will include wreaths, centerpieces, evergreen roping, mistletoe and boxwood kissing balls, and painted wood lawn decorations.

Meanwhile, Santa will be in town, providing free horse and carriage rides, courtesy of the chamber.

"You can get geared up to sing Christmas carols with Santa to get you into the spirit."

Roasted chestnuts, popcorn, cider and fresh holly are among the items non-profit groups will be selling along the sidewalks, raising funds for assorted causes.

A Visit from Santa: 12:30-3:15 p.m. Saturday

Children preschool to third grade can visit St. Nicholas when he stops in at the Northville Senior Center.

The parks and recreation department is hosting an inaugural "Santa Sighting" where youngsters can join in games, crafts, collect their goody bag and visit Santa. Pre-registration is required for the $10 event by calling the recreation department at (248) 349-0203.

Children too shy to talk to the big guy can write a letter to Santa at a designated table. Recreation events supervisor Cheryl Mudd said Santa and Mrs. Claus will respond to every letter.

A professional photographer will attend to capture the moment for an additional fee, if parents are interested. The event will conclude with a raffle drawing and Santa reading "The Night Before Christmas."

Bubbles and Baubles: 6:30-9:30 p.m. Saturday

Northville High School students caroling will help set the mood for the Northville Arts Commission's second annual holiday gift show and gala.

The works of more than 50 area artists — from paintings to jewelry and scarves to sculptures — will be on display and for sale during the event at the Art House, 215 W. Cady Street. In addition to entertainment and refreshments, Bubbles and Baubles guests will receive a 10 percent discount on all purchases made during the preview evening.

Tickets cost $10 for adults and $5 for students when purchased in advance at the Art House or at the Northville Parks and Recreation Department office. Tickets at the door are $15. All proceeds benefit the Art House.

Art will remain on display through Dec. 16 during gallery hours: 1-7 p.m. Thursday; 4:30-8:30 p.m. Friday; 12:30-4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

25th Annual Christmas Walk: 1-4 p.m. Sunday

The Northville Historical Society presents an escape from high-tech holiday hustle and bustle with an old-fashioned afternoon at Mill Race Historical Village.

Costumed greeters, including St. Nicholas, will welcome visitors to the Griswold Street village of historic buildings all decorated for the season. Docents will describe the eight restored buildings and their role in community history.

Caroling and the acoustic music of dulcimers, bells and a mandolin will fill the air while weavers, rug hookers, basket makers and blacksmith demonstrate their timeless crafts. Refreshments will be available for purchase during the free event.

Maureen Johnston can be reached at (248) 349-1700, ext. 103, or via e-mail at mjohnston@gannett.com.

Christmas trees coming to a corner near you in Northville

The bells will be ringing ... the local Salvation Army Red Kettle Campaign begins Saturday at the downtown Hiller's Market, at the corner of Main and Center streets (in front of Orin Jeweler), at the Northville Post Office and at the Farmer Jack's at Haggerty and Six Mile roads. Volunteers are still needed to ring the bell! Call local coordinator Judy Kohl at (248) 348-2678. The kettle campaign continues through Dec. 23.

In Northville

It's always something

... continue to provide better lives and brighter futures for more than 2,000 children, families and adults in need in southeast Michigan each day. Keep up the good work!

Here's a date to save ... Girls Night Out and Guys Night Out are fast-approaching. During late night shopping hours Dec. 14 and Dec. 21, downtown merchants will assist in late-minute gift selection. Lots of special activities planned. More details in upcoming issues of the Northville Record.

Want to get involved in the Goodfellows Edition distribution ... Two-hour shifts Saturday, Dec. 9 still are available for volunteers. Contact Rotary Club president-elect Steve Hoppens at Shoppens@aol.com or (248) 349-4650. C'mon, it'll get you in the Christmas spirit ...

Speaking of the Christmas spirit ... your tree will be available the day after Thanksgiving. The Optimists Club of Northville/Novi will return to the corner of Center and Dunlap streets with all shapes and sizes starting at $60. It's close by and for a good cause.

Northville resident Barbara Glover, former Northville District Library board member, received the Trustee Citation of Merit Award from the Michigan Library Association.

As if you needed another reason to attend the parade tomorrow ... white "MooseVagens" will bring dancers, music and Miss Michigan Angela Corsi. The snowflake dancers are from Miss Harriet's Dance Studio. Miss Michigan, an alumnus of Miss Harriet's, will compete for the title of Miss America in Las Vegas in January.

And speaking of parades ... seven Northville High School girls will make their hometown proud at the Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit ... Kristen deBear, Abby Presley, Brianna Diegel, Marisa Woloszyn, Lauren Wysocki, Laura Catalano and Ali Evasic, members of the Mid-American Pompon All Star Team, will perform in the procession viewed by thousands on television and in person. They'll perform their routine up to 40 times, clad in uniform colors of red, silver, blue, and black with metallic pompoms.

A final parade note ... Novi and Northville OnStage Connection dance students also will head down Woodward Avenue Thanksgiving Day. Marianne Barcomb, Nicole Ross, Danielle and Julie Wesolowicz and Claire DeCoste will don "Santa's Angel Helpers" for the annual extravaganza.

Now even more reason to stop in the Taurus Café ... gallery owner Regina Abraham has partnered with the Picasso Café of Novi. Now fully licensed, the cafe — located inside STUDIO 427 — is now selling sandwiches, salads and soup.

Merchandise is arriving ... with Belli Couture designer maternity boutique already up and running in the renovated Northville Square, fellow retailers are following close behind. Owners of Madilu and Ethan Too were spotted earlier this week carrying boxes into their store at the northwest corner of the building. The children's boutique, established in Grosse Pointe in 2001, will feature baby to big kid stuff. Coming soon ...

He's done it again ... Northville resident Steve Mihalik recently released his 2007 photo calendar, this time featuring scenes from Mill Race Historical Village. A fund-raiser for the village, the $20 counter calendars — $16 of it tax-deductible — are available at the UPS Store and city hall, among other places. Look around downtown counters, Mihalik's current work — featuring downtown storefronts — is flipped open to a photo of Tuscan Café.

What's the weather forecast, anyway? Members of the Northville Garden Club, who will be distributing their pre-ordered greens this weekend in conjunction with the downtown Christmas Walk, might be popping in the Northville Record vestibule to keep warm. Thanks for the holiday cheer ...

Speaking of holiday wishes ... Century 21 Town & Country employees are collecting food items, paper products, cleaning supplies, baby care products and personal hygiene items for Northville Civic Concern. Donations can be dropped off in their lobby at 175 Cady Centre 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Plenty of time to stop by ...

Due tribute goes out to Northville resident, Barbara Glover. The long-time Northville District Library board member, recognized for her dedicated campaign to establish an endowment fund for the library, received the Trustee Citation of Merit Award from the Michigan Library Association. Her dedication to the local library dates back to 1994, when the district was established and plans for the new building were developed. Congratulations!

And kudos to Northville residents, Mark and Paula LaNeve ... The couple served as honorary chairs for Judson Center's 23rd annual auction, "A Night to Embrace," last Saturday at The Townsend Hotel in Birmingham. Proceeds from the event will help Judson Center con-

New recreation program invites shutterbugs to show their stuff

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

A pool birthday party, plotting foul-line strategy, a summer concert — what's your Kodak moment?

"Northville Snapshots" is a new program Northville Parks and Recreation Department introduced in its fall brochure, inviting local photographers to submit 4-by-6 prints of their favorite recreation activity.

"I think we'll get a good response," said recreation department special events coordinator Cheryl Mudd. "It's free and it's fun and it's a different thing for people to think about."

On the line, bragging rights for turning in the photograph selected as the recreation staff's favorite. Judging will take place Nov. 30.

All submissions will be posted on a display board outside the department main office in the Recreation Center at Hillside. The winning entry will be posted on the parks and recreation Web site and appear on the inside cover of an upcoming brochure.

The staff has been collecting submissions all month. Mudd said she expects to see folks walking pets at the dog park, playing sports and attending special events.

Information to include with the photo: name, address, phone number, e-mail address and a few sentences why the photo subject is your favorite recreation activity.

Mudd requests the submissions be standard-size prints — not e-mailed — at least for the first year of

Report cards – just one tool

By Victoria Mitchell
STAFF WRITER

Jim Cracraft and Sue Meyer sent report cards home earlier this week with care.

The two Northville middle school principals sent the grade reports home with anxious students Monday for parent perusal.

But what happens when the cards parents view aren't exactly what they expected?

"I think it's important for parents to remember that a report card is just one measure," said Kathy Michel, director of the Sylvan Learning Center in Novi.

Michel said a report card can be indicative of many factors and not just subject comprehension including homework and other school-related issues.

Keep STUDY in mind

The tutoring center director said if a parent isn't happy with the cards they are looking at, she recommends keeping the acronym STUDY in mind, which stands for:

S — Stay on top of your child's study schedule. Be aware of assignments and whether your student is using time effectively to tackle homework.

T — Team with your child, the teacher and counselor. Work together to develop a meaningful contract that clearly outlines expectations and sets desired goals.

U — Use a daily assignment planner and project calendar.

D — Define your child's deficiencies and identify the skills that are needed to address performance problems.

Y — You are your child's greatest advocate. Be a partner to help your student achieve his or her highest academic potential.

Michel also cautions a low subject grade doesn't necessarily mean students lack knowledge in that class. Often, reading comprehension problems creep into negative grades in all subjects, including math.

"Integrated math is very comprehensive, involving problem solving skills," Michel said.

And for those parents pleased with the grades they see, learning experts caution don't give up on students' hard work.

Experts recommend spending 15 minutes per subject, per night whether or not homework is assigned.

And Michel adds, always stick with your gut when it comes to kids and school work.

"You know if your kid is struggling," she said. "School problems won't go away on their own, you need intervention."

REPORT CARD REVIEW

- First, be enthusiastic about whatever's good
- Deal with bad marks in a caring and calm manner
- Never use a report card to be punitive
- Instead, figure out what motivates your child and provide incentives
- If you feel a grade is unfair, contact the teacher for more information
- Consider including your child in a parent/teacher conference
- Finally, convey to your child that school is important

Two new officers on duty in the city of Northville

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Claudia and Brian have joined the ranks of Tony, John and Dustin.

The City of Northville's newest cops are riding alongside the veterans, learning names and faces of people around town. First-name familiarity is a wave to a passing patrol car or a call to the station heading out of town on vacation.

"I think that's what Northville is all about," said Northville Police Chief Gary Goss. "I think that's the quality of life our residents expect."

On patrol since this summer, Claudia Finn and Brian Dogonski bring the department to 16 full-time officers patrolling 2.2 square miles of city streets daily.

of professionalism, Goss said.

"To get the job here, you have to go through a very intrusive background check, a psychiatric exam and a medical exam," he said. After enduring the recruitment paces, new full-time patrol officers undergo three months of field training and a full year of probation.

"The field training officer program is pretty intense," Goss said. "Virtually everything you do is scrutinized."

"They're very well trained. We want them to be out there giving that personal service to our residents and our business community."

The Northville staff is college-educated and continually looking for additional training opportunities, he said.

Accident investigators and evidence technicians on the local force mean local officials don't have to call in the state police for routine investigations, Goss said.

"We retain those kinds of skills so we can do it on our own," he said. "It's just another level of service we provide."

The new recruits

Goss said Finn, 23, and Dogonski, 30, are fulfilling expectations. Dogonski's August hire followed working part-time for the Northville department four years.

"In both cases, we've been very pleased," he said. "You have to be personable. You have to be able to deal with people. You have to be a problem solver."

"Both these officers have that. They're progressing very well."

The new officers add to the range of age and experience in the Northville department.

"We've got a variety," Goss said. "We've got some senior folks on the department, Tony Tilger with 28 years, John Shier with 25-28 years. Claudia and Brian are examples of two of our younger folks."

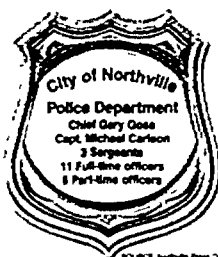

"There's a lot of energy on the department and a lot of talent."

New Northville Police Officers Brian Dogonski and Claudia Finn.

Police staff additions

Chief Gary Goss: Started Sept. 11, 2006. $80,000 annual salary, plus medical benefits and life insurance. No contract.

Full-time officers: Claudia Finn hired June 15, 2006. Brian Dogonski started part-time Sept. 30, 2002, hired Aug. 14, 2006. Starting pay $39,562, increased to $41,891 after six months, plus medical benefits and life insurance. Wages and fringe benefits negotiated by Police Officers Association.

Protect and serve

The new hires and recent promotions returned to full staff the $2.6 million department, which accounts for 40 percent of the city's general fund expenses.

"We could use a couple more part-time officers," said Goss, who joined the department Sept. 11, replacing retired chief Jim Petres. "Our full-time is up to snuff."

Goss said he planned to maintain the level of service and training programmed when he arrived. The veteran cop said quick response to service calls, low crime rate and officer follow-through sets the Northville department apart from other communities.

"We are proud of our response time here," he said. "But more important is the response that you get from our officers — they're problem solvers."

They handle traffic accidents, check doors and windows while homeowners are out-of-town and late-night patrol — all services residents value, Goss said.

"Oftentimes, the effectiveness of the department is the lack of crime."

CITY OF NORTHVILLE POLICE

Strike three

For the third time in six weeks, the American Legion, 100 W. Dunlap St., was burglarized.

On Sunday, Northville police responded to a breaking and entering report made by club employees arriving at work. Police reports indicated poker machine doors were pried open, but money inside boxes was not taken.

The previous two robberies netted suspects more than $3,700.

According to reports, investigators lifted prints from the cash boxes and reviewed videotape from midnight shift patrols to check for suspects outside the Legion building. The investigation was turned over to the department's detective bureau.

Devil's Night deer hunt

A Northville couple was ticketed for trespassing in Rural Hill Cemetery after dark Oct. 30.

After Northville police questioned the man, 64, and his wife, 58, about being parked inside the Seven Mile Road graveyard after closing hours, the man allegedly admitted to shooting a deer with a compound bow.

Police reports indicated the man said he initially lied to police about his actions because he knew he wasn't supposed to be on the grounds after dark and he had taken a deer on someone's private property, adjacent to the cemetery, without their permission.

The report said city officers contacted Northville Township police to inform them of the deer kill in their jurisdiction.

Traffic stop reveals felony charges

By Jennifer Sullivan
GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

A broken tail light may be the least of Richard Oren's troubles.

After a routine traffic stop Oren now faces three felony charges and was convicted of two misdemeanor charges. He was arraigned on Oct. 25 in Novi's 52-1 District Court for cocaine possession, carrying a concealed weapon and a felon in possession of a firearm.

The 19-year-old Northville man was pulled over by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies Oct. 24, on Kensington Road near Grand River for a defective equipment violation. What was supposed to be a routine traffic stop, ended up in an arrest.

According to a sheriff's report, Oren did not have a driver's license, and provided officers with a false name. A computer check revealed that his license was suspended and he had several outstanding felony warrants, including cocaine possession, carrying a concealed weapon and a felon in possession of a firearm.

Oren had been previously pulled over April 27 by Oakland County Sheriff's deputies at Pontiac Trail and Nine Mile based on suspicion that he was involved in narcotics activity. According to Assistant Prosecutor Tim McDonald, officers found less than 25 grams of cocaine in his vehicle, as well as a .38 caliber handgun.

When Oren was stopped on Oct. 24, officers told him to remain in his vehicle. Oren fled and led officers on a brief foot pursuit, that eventually ended with him being placed in handcuffs.

Oren pled guilty to misdemeanor charges of driving on a suspended license and providing a false or altered license on Nov. 1 in Novi's 52-1 District Court and was sentenced to 90 days in Oakland County Jail.

His preliminary exam was set for Nov. 15 in Novi's 52-1 District Court involving the three felony charges. According to McDonald, if convicted, the maximum sentence for cocaine possession is four years and/or a $25,000 fine. The maximum sentences for both carrying a concealed weapon and a felon in possession of a firearm is five years and/or a $5,000 fine.

Oren is serving his 90-day sentence in the Oakland County Jail while awaiting trial on the felony charges. As of Nov. 1, his jail sentence had been credited for eight days served.

Local survivors helping others beat breast cancer

By Renee Saunders
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Barb Freeborn was diagnosed with breast cancer two and a half years ago.

The Northville resident, also a wife and mother of a 31-year-old daughter and a 28-year-old son, detected the disease while doing a self examination.

She immediately made an appointment with her general practitioner who sent her to the hospital.

"When I went for my first appointment with the surgeon, he told me I either had breast cancer or a fibrocystic breast," she said. "I fell apart. Luckily, my husband was there."

But when Freeborn had go back to the hospital and faced the fact that she actually did

Cancer facts

According to the American Cancer Society, 212,920 women will be diagnosed with breast cancer in the U.S. Of those, 41,430 will die, but if caught in it's earliest stages, the disease is 98 percent survivable.

To learn more about breast cancer or to get in touch with someone in the Reach to Recovery Program, call 1-800-227-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

have the life-threatening disease, she was prepared.

"I was armed with research," she said. "It's important that anyone who's diagnosed read up on the disease. It helps you ask intelligent questions and have a better understanding of what you may go through."

Her cancer has been in recession for two years now, but she remembers how difficult it was to cope with the ailment.

That's why she volunteers with the American Cancer Society's Reach to Recovery Program, a one-on-one mentoring program that puts recently diagnosed women in touch with survivors.

"The person who's diagnosed isn't always in the best frame of mind to retain what the doctor says," Freeborn said. "All the support and knowledge that you have when you're newly diagnosed, the better you're able to fight the disease and meet the challenges you face."

Paulette Brodbeck knows how true that is.

Also a Reach to Recovery volunteer, the 63-year-old Novi resident said she actually put off getting her annual breast exam until she wanted to join a water aerobics class four years ago.

She needed a doctor's permission slip in order to take the class, and that was when her cancer was detected.

During treatment, Brodbeck said she started going to a support group for cancer patients. When she recovered from the disease, she began volunteering as a mentor for newly-diagnosed women.

"It's one thing to have family and friends who support you," she said. "It's something else entirely to be able to talk to someone who's already been through it."

Dr. Judie Goodman, an oncologist at St. John's Providence Hospital in Novi, said there is no scientific data showing whether emotional support helps a cancer patient heal.

But she said it is best for patients to approach the entire process emotionally at peace.

"Even if a woman has it in the early stages, just the words 'breast cancer' conjure so much fear that it's very challenging for many women," she said.

Goodman said if caught in the early stages, most forms of breast cancer are curable, so early detection is key.

She said women who have gone through menopause are more prone to breast cancer, but it isn't something to be ignored by younger women.

Excessive alcohol intake, excessive weight gain after menopause and women who are on hormone replacement therapy for more than five years are at risk for breast cancer, Goodman said.

"Just do the things that make sense," she said. "Exercise, don't eat too much ... do breast exams and get mammograms. Early detection translates into getting cured."

Workouts = stretching, sweating, grunts and giggles

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Janet Malinowski said it's not about donning a cute little workout ensemble.

The group fitness classes she attends — and it's quite a list — are for stretching, sweating and feeling healthy. The 37-year Northville resident swears by the Northville Parks and Recreation offerings for results — physically, mentally and socially.

"We're not here to become the 'beautiful girl,'" she said. "We're health-oriented, fitness-oriented. The clothing that we wear doesn't have to be a certain thing — just so it stretches."

Friendly faces

Recreation superintendent Pat Brown called the group fitness classes "the best kept secret in town." She also said the economics of programming means time slots are canceled if enough students don't show on a regular basis.

Members of a core group who gather regularly at the Hillside Recreation Center for "Body Pump" and "Body Step" light weight and aerobic classes are committed to a healthy workout regimen, said instructor Kirsten Ryan. The instructors lead all ages and skill levels in the workout that's right for them, she said.

Like the classes she led at the former Water Wheel Health Club, Ryan joins the mid-workout banter, laughter and, sometimes, coffee afterward.

Laurie Marrs enjoys a Wednesday morning "Body Pump" weightlifting class at the Recreation Center at Hillside. The class is taught by Kirsten Ryan.

"We do look forward to seeing those faces," she said.

The more, the merrier

Malinowski and others hope low participation doesn't doom their good thing.

"Our numbers are not great right now," Ryan said. "We just really need to get the word out."

This summer, the recreation department beefed up its group fitness roster by taking over Water Wheel Health Club classes when the owners revised their private club format. The joint city-township program offers the classes on a monthly or drop-in basis.

"It's very affordable if someone's looking for a fitness outlet," said Kathy Radecki. "It has been a nice way to meet some smiling faces. It's just a great thing."

'For yourself'

Women and men enroll in day and evening classes held at the recreation center or the Northville Senior Community Center. Certified instructors lead exercises in aerobics, barbell lifting, yoga, cycling and stepwork.

"It's very strenuous," Malinowski said. "It takes a lot of endurance. You feel refreshed, energized and good about doing something for yourself."

Ryan said people can work in the classes at their own pace and she demonstrates less-taxing, alternate moves.

Some people attend one class per week. Others take in as many as their schedule allows.

"Everyone's different," Radecki said. "I try to get to five to seven classes a week because I have the time."

"It's nice that it's offered."

Township: Sending vests honors new vets

CBS news recently featured soldiers in Iraq and their plight to fight the war without proper equipment, like armored vehicles, radios and ammunition. It's disturbing, but true, and there isn't much any of us here back home can do to help our brothers and sisters overseas. But Northville Township is trying. By sending 35 bulletproof vests to troops in Iraq, the Northville Police Department is stating: "We're doing the best we can to help."

Voters wrong on incumbents

The post-mortem conclusion I have to the Nov. 7 election, made me wonder how could so many voters be so wrong. They certainly could not have voted for the incumbents based on performance. It must have been the sound bites and/or the gender factor. From my perspective, Granholm and Stabenow ran one of the sleaziest campaigns I have witnessed in my lifetime. The lies and smearing they perpetrated in their ads should leave them both feeling void of honor.

Granholm will go on muddling through four more years of blaming others for her failings and Stabenow will disappear for six more years, emerging occasionally to march in parades while falling in lock step.

Pledge from Corriveau

On Tuesday, Nov. 7, 2006, the voters in the 20th District changed my life. After the returns came, I thanked my wife, Wendy, my family members, my campaign staff, and the volunteers. I now want to sincerely thank the people who made this election possible—you, the voters of Canton, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Wayne. I am grateful and humble for the vote of support and confidence that you, the people, have given me.

I promise you that I will not break that trust. I will do my very best to represent you and your families. When I take the oath of office in January 2007, I will pledge to be your moderate voice in Lansing. I will vow to do my best, so help me God. I love our State of Michigan, and there is much work to do. I will need to ask for your help, your advice, and your direction. The lines of communication will always be open.

Please keep in contact with my staff and I. I will do a toll free number to contact me in Lansing. In addition, my office door will always be open in downtown Northville. I will have regular times set aside in each municipality to meet with you and discuss your problems. If I am unable to help you, I will find someone who can. I am asking for your email addresses so that I can send you frequent updates about my work in Lansing. Please send a quick note to my current email, MarcCorr@CorriveauLaw.com.

I welcome the opportunity to meet with your clubs and neighborhood groups. Please invite me to your gatherings, and if my calendar permits, I will be there! I want Michigan and the 20th District to prosper, and with your help, we will move forward together.

Marc R. Corriveau

Correcting the Jeep history

In last week's Northville Record, Renee Saunders wrote an article titled "Local Artist Saves Detroit History" with the subtitle "Restores original WWII Jeep" sign. The 1917 building/sign predates the Jeep by 23 years.

Having edited an automotive magazine I know full well that, "he who writes history, makes history". Unfortunately Renee has altered history, and I think the record should be set straight. A correction is in order.

"...restoring the original 1917 outdoor sign for the Willys-Overland Motor Company, the birthplace of the Jeep" is an incorrect statement, and should be corrected. No Jeeps built by Willys-Overland were ever built in Detroit, at this plant.

Willys-Overland did not invent, or create the Jeep. The American Bantam Corporation in Butler, Pennsylvania created and developed the first Jeep, submitting it to the Army on July 22, 1940. Of the 135 companies that were invited to submit a vehicle, Bantam was the only company to do so. Bantam was awarded a contract to produce 75 more vehicles for testing.

Sometime after September 23, 1940 both Ford Motor Company and Willys-Overland were given the Bantam blueprints.

On November 11, 1940, and November 23, 1940, Willys-Overland and Ford submitted prototypes to the Army based upon the Bantam drawings. It is recorded that the Willys is a direct copy of the Bantam but the Ford is somewhat different with the flat front which is still evident today.

On July 23, 1941 the Quartermaster Corps awarded Willys a contract to build 15,000 vehicles, and on October 16, 1941 Ford agreed to produce 15,000 units to the Willys specifications.

Both Ford and Willys went to American Central Body in Connersville Indiana, (a remnant of the E.I. Cord empire) and contracted for their bodies to be built by American Central. Some time later Ford met with Willys and the Ordnance Department and it was decided the Ford design would prevail for the hood, cowldash, rear body panel, tire carrier, strainer, and front floor. The remainder of the body, the sides and the floor would be of the Willys design.

One more fact that I find interesting is that not until 1950 did The Jeep Corporation copyright the name "Jeep".

I hope and trust that you will correct this error of timing and credit the Jeep origination to the Bantam Corporation and Karl Probst the consulting engineer who conceived the Jeep for Bantam.

The old way

Moraine Elementary student Julia Macciomei tries her hand at a washboard and wringer as she and other pupils explored the ways of American pioneers during their "Tin Cup Adventures" assembly that brought them many hands-on explorations.

Our government and equality

I voted for Proposal 2, which is meant to ban discrimination based upon race or gender, in hiring and public employment, as well as admission to public (tax supported) institutions like universities, etc. In supporting Proposal 2, I voted contrary to the recommendation of The Detroit News, The Detroit Free Press, both candidates for governor, and many prominent organizations. Evidently, racial and gender discrimination is not only alive and well these days, it is also politically correct.

While racial and gender bias may be politically correct, it is morally bankrupt. When a government does not treat all citizens equally, but favors various groups because of things like color or gender, that government has become tyrannical. At the University of Michigan, being black was given more points for entrance than getting a perfect score on the SAT, which is virtually impossible. When a highly qualified white female was passed over for admittance because of her race, I'd like to know why this was not a case of blatant bigotry? Government needs to treat all of its citizens equally. Isn't that what the Civil Rights movement was all about? To not do so is hypocritical and morally wrong and should be unconstitutional judged by any reasonable supreme court.

Old Village & Cooke thank yous

On Saturday, Sept. 30, the Annual Old Village/Cooke "Kids are Special" Golf Outing took place at St. John's Golf and Conference Center in Plymouth, Michigan.

A total of $7,644.49 was raised and divided evenly between Old Village and Cooke Schools. Each school received $3,822.25! These monies will assist in funding programs and materials not covered in the school budgets. Some of these areas are student equipment, student assemblies, music therapy, and leisure recreation activities such as swimming, bowling, and roller-skating.

The students of Old Village and Cooke Schools would like to express special appreciation to Mr. David Karoub for his ongoing generous support of this fundraising effort.

Special thanks to many Northville businesses that continue to support this outing. The names of all the businesses will be shared with the Old Village and Cooke parents through our newsletter.

It is through the generosity and thoughtfulness of people such as those who supported our golf outing for special needs students that we can provide high quality programming.

Michigan election message is simple: plenty of moderation

So now that the votes are counted, the victors promoted and the losers sent off to weep, what do we make of the election results?

A lot. Let's start with a quick look at the numbers. Turnout was way up: A total of 3,833,535 people voted, nearly half a million more than predicted. The turnout was higher still than in 2002, and Gov. Jennifer Granholm won five out of six of those new voters.

To the astonishment of everybody (including the Democrats!) control of the Michigan House of Representatives flipped, with Democrats gaining six seats for a 58-52 majority.

Senate Republicans, who had looked more vulnerable than their House allies before voting day, wound up keeping control by 21-17, although two of them won by just a few hundred votes. Had the Democrats won those two seats, they'd have had effective control.

I'd guess the increased turnout was a result of massive spending by all parties (it was the most expensive election in Michigan history, hands down.) GOP challenger Dick DeVos spent more than $41 million of his own money. Ironically, it appears the new voters his spending brought out voted overwhelmingly for Granholm. Senator Debbie Stabenow crushed her Republican rival, Oakland County Sheriff Mike Bouchard, by an even bigger margin.

So was the election a "tsunami" in favor of the Democrats? Only ... sort of. Though Granholm won reelection by a whopping 56 to 42 percent and Democrats overall were hot to vote against the Bush Administration, elections expert Mark Grebner thinks the core Democratic vote was not much larger than usual.

If anybody can be said to have won, it was the moderates, the centrists, the muscular middle, the sensible center — take your pick of names. One compelling fact: Of voters who call themselves Independents, Granholm and Stabenow took around 70 per cent.

For the last several election cycles, the prevailing wisdom amongst politicians has been that you should concentrate on turning out your committed partisan base and forget about the folks in the middle. Wrong! Swing voters do matter. Persistently disrespecting them is a recipe for political trouble, as this year proved.

The big mistake Democrats could make from this big win is to figure they've got a lock on the future and they can go back to being subservient to their traditional labor and liberal paymasters. Wrong again!

Many of the successful Democratic candidates were moderates, not ideological lefties. Democrats may have banked the majority of votes, but those votes were loaned by middle-of-the-road voters. That loan can be called in, pronto, if the Democrats screw up.

As for the Republicans, there appears to be an emerging split between those who think it would be wiser to moderate their approach and try a little bipartisanship and those who think the GOP conservative message needs to be sharpened, if anything.

Tom Shields, a smart Republican pollster and strategist, told the annual post-election "pundit summit" in Lansing last week that "Republicans really have to sharpen the differences between the two parties in order to succeed."

We'll get a pretty good idea of where the GOP is headed when talk turns to what to do about the repealed Single Business Tax.

Granholm last year packaged a fairly moderate package that was arguably revenue-neutral; Republicans trashed it in the legislature and dumped on it in hearings all over the state.

Spearheaded by the state Chamber of Commerce, some business types in recent months have been beating the drum for a net business tax cut of around $500 million in any SBT replacement.

Granholm's hand will be strengthened after the turn of the year when Democrats take control of the House. For the sake of the state, I hope moderates of both parties in the House and the Senate will decide to work with Granholm on the SBT.

Certainly, our business tax system needs big time reform. But yanking another $500 million out of state tax revenues, on top of a pre-existing billion-dollar-plus structural budget deficit, is just irresponsible. We are already a below-average tax state. And if Michigan is going to put in place a serious restructuring plan to get through our current economic crisis and lay the foundation for a more prosperous future, we're going to have to think boldly.

We need to move toward a knowledge economy. We've got to develop a public investment program to accentuate our state's enduring competitive assets such as our research universities and our environmental wonders. We must change our culture of dependency, entitlement and avoiding risks at all costs.

And we certainly have to change the workings of our dysfunctional political system. Big problems call for big ideas. But big ideas need to be broadly acceptable across a spectrum of Republicans and Democrats, in both the governor's office and the legislature. Thanks to this remarkable election, we now have a prospect of doing that, if we and our leaders step up to the plate.

Taubman Today

North Pole — "It's better to give than to receive," the old saying goes. Now with Holiday Gift Guides found at Twelve Oaks Mall, giving is easier than ever. Everyone has a list this time of year. Large or small, there's no shame in admitting that you might not know exactly what the people on your list need or want this holiday season. With the Holiday Gift Guides, you can get gift suggestions for everyone on your list.

Mall shopper Nina Crawford said, "I have a few specific gift ideas, but, honestly, it's primarily a list of names. I've got this long-lost uncle that no longer is lost, and I need to buy him a gift this year. Until the Holiday Gift Guides arrived at Twelve Oaks Mall I was clueless." With separate Holiday Gift Guides for Moms, Dads, Kids and Teens, you'll be able to polish off most of your list with some of the most popular gifts of the season. But don't forget about the Holiday Gift Guides full of Stocking ideas, Unforgettable Gift Ideas and, of course, definitely not least, the Holiday Gifts Under $25, which is perfect for finding the always-necessary teacher gift, or perhaps the small gift for your dog walker.

Here's a look at the Gift Guide

"It comes down to convenience," says Mike Fetrow, Creative Director at Taubman Malls' agency of record. "We supported the Holiday Gift Guide initiative from the get-go. It just makes sense." And that it does. The mall has seen a huge lift in customer happiness and satisfaction, which can be a hard thing to achieve around the holidays. Even with this year's long shopping season, anything to make the customer happy is always welcomed.

That happiness might also have something to do with the giant snow globe exhibit in Center Court. This year the holiday exhibit is bigger than ever. Four giant snow globes surround Santa and amidst the holiday to-do lists and party scheduling, it's a nice break from the holiday-endure during the holiday season. "It's one of the most festive holiday exhibits you can have," says one mall shopper as she left the exhibit on Friday afternoon. "My kids love it. My neighbor's kids loved it. I even saw my husband crack a smile. Amazing." Families who visit Twelve Oaks Mall this holiday season can actually step inside the huge 20-foot snow globe where it's always snowing. After exiting the giant snow globe, kids can visit with Santa and then the whole family can have a photo taken right in a scene from Antarctica with the magic of green screen technology. Speaking of pictures, "They are great holiday cards," claims one shopper at the mall. "The kids love it. It's great. It's just so cool to see the look in their eyes as they see themselves standing in the snow of the South Pole." Green screen technology is the same method used on the evening news when the weather person is standing in front of a map. It looks like a giant green screen with special effects make it possible to transport the person in the picture to one of two scenes from Antarctica. One family last week was seen leaving with multiple pictures. The mom was so impressed with the pictures that she hoped to make a photo album for the entire family. "This one's going in the fridge for sure," said Jody Rowland, mall shopper. "Holiday photos are priceless and this one really tops off my holiday experience." She also used a few of the Holiday Gift Guides to polish off her naughty/nice list this year.

In closing, it is important to note that as an alternative to the traditional gift, the mall is also offering Gift Cards. "Not everyone wants to give a traditional wrapped gift in a box," says one shopper, "not to mention I have no idea what to get my brother this holiday season, so I figured, what the heck, I'll just get him a Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Card, that way he can get whatever he wants." It's definitely an easy way to holiday shop, and between the Gift Guides and Holiday Gift Cards, never again should anyone on your list go giftless.

Finally, a card college students can't max out

By Drew Reed

It's true. Some even have trouble with credit card spending. For the holidays you can give them a card that can't go over the limit. Once dubbed the last-minute gift option, Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Cards are now a top-selling item nationwide. "If you're short on time, it's the way to go," says the mall manager.

Called as the king of options, Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Cards allow the receiver to choose whatever they want from almost any store in the mall. Perfect for any occasion, a Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Card allows users to choose exactly what they need (or want) from hundreds of first-class retail stores.

Admittedly, Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Cards are not always the best gift option. For instance, if you've recently had a spat with your significant other and you show up on Christmas morn armed with a Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Card, you might be in a bit of trouble. In that particular case, it might be better to reference the corresponding Twelve Oaks Holiday Gift Guides for Gift ideas with a tad more "tree presence." There are Gift Guides for nearly every type of person on your list: Mom, Dad, Kids and Teens.

to Stocking Stuffer Holiday Gift Guides and the ever popular Holiday Gift Guide for Gifts Under $25. And don't forget the Gift Guide for Unforgettable Gifts, loaded with exciting gifts they'll tell their grandparents about. "There's a Holiday Gift Guide for everyone," said another mall spokes person, and all of the Holiday Gift Guides can be referenced, in detail, online at www.findyourgo.com. The mall was scoured top to bottom, store by store, to find the best gifts for every person on your list, then categorized and compiled in pocket-sized brochures for easy reference as you shop. "I used a Holiday Gift Guide for every person on my list and polished off all shopping in a matter of hours. It said one shopper as she left it Friday afternoon. But for those who are too much or a Twelve Oaks Mall gift option. When you're that certain Oaks Mall, "It's better to buying the wrong gift." "I'd rather let them pick out what they want. And best of all, a Twelve Oaks Mall Gift Card fits right into a gift list. I can easily mail it or come last second."

So there you have it, as well as the ability to choose anything from the store in the mall, or both go home happy.

PLAYOFF TIME

Mustangs claim fifth in WLAA tourney with 43-38 win

By Jeff Theisen
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

The Northville Mustang girls basketball team ended its regular season with a 43-38 win Nov. 7 against Westland John Glenn to capture fifth place in the WLAA tournament.

Both teams came out firing, with the Mustangs holding a 16-14 lead after one quarter of play.

The Mustang offense stayed hot, while the defense put the clamps on the Rockets. Northville went into halftime with a 28-19 lead.

The Mustangs didn't let up in the third, pushing the lead to 41-24. The Rockets fought back, holding the Mustangs to just two fourth quarter points, but the lead was too much to overcome.

"In the middle two quarters we did a great job holding them to two field goals and six free throws," said Pete Wright, Northville head coach. "Our defense did not allow them many open looks."

"We lost a little bit of focus in the fourth quarter and turned the ball over, allowing John Glenn back in the game."

Chelsea Atzinger had a big game for Northville with 19 points and nine rebounds. She was 7-for-9 from the floor and was 4-for-4 at the line.

Annie Tassie added eight points and four assists, and Allison Holmes added seven points.

The Mustangs played Wednesday against the Novi/Plymouth winner. Check online at northvillerecord.com for an update to see if the Mustangs make it to Friday's district final at South Lyon.

Colts defense Super tough

Freshman Colts beat Falcons 6-0 in title game

The Colts completed their undefeated season with an exciting, defensive battle against the Livonia Falcons making them 9-0 on the year with a 6-0 victory.

It was the consistent play of the Colt defense all season that got them to the Super Bowl and they didn't let up in their biggest game of the year. Gang tackling was the order of the day as Sam Goode, Chad Banfield, Jordan March, Ian Welsch, AJ Batshon, Luke Wegryn, Mason Pitt and Mike Beydoun stuffed the Falcon running game in the first half. The Falcons could not move the ball on the ground in the first half. The Colts held them to a negative eight yards in the half.

It appeared that the Colts would break the scoreless tie in the second quarter as they mounted a 17-play drive which began on their own 38. Jake Meacham pounded the ball off tackle for big chunks of yardage and several first downs, and Owen Kipke ran 19 yards on a power sweep. But the Falcons stiffened at the goal line, leaving the Colts empty on the drive.

The Falcons then took over on possessions. Realizing they couldn't run the ball against the defensive wall consisting of Brian and Matthew Huber, Jake Beason, Christopher Koumariotis, Matthew Komorous, Alex Salah, Robert Sneed, Michael Minick, Daniel Wicket, Austin Hayek, Redding Haines, Alex Thomas, Michael Toth, Gavin McCreadie, Kyle Killeen and Bradley Huth, the Falcons began to display their aerial attack late in the second quarter. They completed two passes for 15 and 10 yards for consecutive first downs, but again, the defense stiffened as the half ended with neither team posting any points.

The second half opened with Mason Williams, Justin Zimbo and Jordan March punching through the Falcon defense, making a key first down that kept their initial drive of the half alive. Alec Melucci then got in on the act as he raced around right end for 42 yards, but two motion penalties on the Colts and a determined Falcon defense again denied the Colts from scoring.

Robert takes over strong Northville team

By Jeff Theisen
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

Clint Robert takes over the reins of the Northville hockey team, but he is hardly new to the team.

Robert coached the junior varsity team under and worked with last year's head coach Brad O'Neill, which should make for a fairly seamless transition.

"With coach O'Neill having to step down this year, the concern was with the continuity and how things would flow," Robert said. "It doesn't seem like anyone has really missed a beat. That was the first thing I noticed is the effort is there. Everyone is giving 100 percent right now, so that's a good thing.

Quote: "I certainly expect to repeat as division champions and win the conference this year. Build on the momentum from that, and I think we can make some noise in the state playoffs. There's a lot of talent on this team and a lot of heart."

"Brad O'Neill and I ran a lot of same systems anyhow ... it's been a smooth transition."

The Mustangs had 55 kids show up for the first day of try-outs. Robert kept 23 players, including 13 from last year's team which won the divisional title and finished runner-up in the WLAA conference tournament.

"It's a veteran laden team, and we've got 10 new guys," Robert said. "It's a good mix. We're expecting things from everybody."

"I think this team is going to hang its hat on the depth of the team. We can get scoring from all four of the lines."

Robert expects the offense to be led by Brandon Wales, Mike Garbarz, Anthony Deneau, Kyle Storey and Steve Dawson.

Kyle Ziomek, a fourth year returning starter and captain, will anchor the defense. Other contributors are Matt Kreager, Wes Gates and Drew Lamoureux.

Robert said three goalies are fighting for playing time. "We're still kind of looking to see who is going to be the main guy," he said. "They're all right there right now."

The Colt defense again rose to the occasion as Evan Kilteen intercepted a pass deep in Falcon territory. Eight plays later, Melucci bolted over from the one-yard line giving the Colts a 6-0 lead. The Colts chewed up 10 minutes of clock in the third quarter only to come up with six points.

The game was still left in the balance heading into the fourth quarter. The Falcons came out throwing on their next drive, connecting on a 25-yard strike, but William Wright, David Moorman and Shane Gregory kept the Falcons at bay with bone jarring tackles.

The Colts were four-and-out on their next possession, giving the Falcons another chance to capitalize, but again, the defense was too tough. With 5:12 left in the game, David Weber prevented a Falcon first down with a solo tackle in the open field.

It was then Meacham's turn to grind out the clock. He earned the ball on four consecutive possessions, making key first downs and eating up clock. Again the Falcons stopped the drive, getting the ball back with 40 seconds remaining.

The Colt defense then shut the door on any hope of a Falcon miracle comeback. Evan Kilteen came up with another key turnover by recovering a fumble created by Melucci's hit of the Falcon quarterback. The play ended the Falcon season and preserved victory for the Colts.

Although the Colt defense ruled in this game and throughout the season, it was the Colts feared running attack that kept their opponents up all night. On the season, Jake Meacham finished with 331 yards on 75 carries and 4 touchdowns. Owen Kipke finished with 368 yards on 68 carries and 2 scores. Alec Melucci finished with 775 yards on 119 carries and 15 touchdowns.

Expectations include: "I certainly expect to repeat as division champions and win the conference this year," Robert said. "Build on the momentum from that, and I think we can make some noise in the state playoffs. There's a lot of talent on this team and a lot of heart."

Livonia Churchill, Livonia Stevenson and in the division, Livonia Franklin pose the biggest threat in the WLAA Robert said. "You always have to watch out for the Livonia teams," he said. "We lost to Livonia Stevenson in the conference championship game. Being an ex-player from Livonia Churchill, I'm really looking forward to those matchups."

Shamrocks use balancing act

By Jeff Theisen
NOVI NEWS

Head coach Todd Johnson has experienced it all with the Catholic Central program. He enters his 11th year with the Shamrocks and fourth as head coach.

The Shamrocks won it all two years ago and came up on the short end of a 2-1 loss last year to Orchard Lake St. Mary's.

Winning six state titles since 1999 creates a tradition that is tough to live up to, but Johnson tries to relieve that pressure each year.

"The success of past teams obviously weighs on these guys. We downplay it tremendously in our program from year to year," he said. "They're well aware that there's enough talent in the locker room that they're going to be in the picture for the state tournament.

"I like our team. We have really good depth. We've got a really nice blend of returning players and some high-skilled young kids."

Top scorers include Jeremy Christopher and Chad Wilhelm.

"Those two guys are probably the top two candidates," Johnson said. "But as much as any year in the past, we have four lines that can score. I would say that there is going to be very little separation between our top scorer and our bottom guy."

Johnson said defense will be a strength for the Shamrocks. "I have eight guys that can play that will create a lot of competition for the lineup."

The top defenders are Dominic Scala, Greg Merrill and C.J. Popur, who transferred in and won't be eligible until early January.

Goaltending will be the only position that doesn't bring back starting experience. Two seniors are fighting for the job, but they haven't been game tested.

"We have unproven goaltending at the elite high school level," Johnson said. "They're great kids and they're working really hard. They're probably not going to let me put two or three of them in there at one time, so we've got to figure out which one is going to win the job."

Johnson expects the Eaglets to be the top competition in the Catholic League.

"Orchard Lake is going to be loaded again," he said. "Brother Rice probably has the best player in the state. I'm not quite sure what to expect from U-D."

The Shamrocks don't set team goals, but Johnson points out a couple of things the Shamrocks always aim for.

"It would be nice to play in the Catholic League championship game again," he said. "It would be nice to make a long run in the state tournament, get back to Compuware and get back to the semifinals and state finals where the place is full and the electricity of the state tournament."

The season starts Saturday on the road against the Eaglets of Orchard Lake St. Mary's.

Do You Know The Condition Of Your Home? Give Your House A Home Check-Up

Have you lived in your home for 8, 12, 15, 20 years? Have you checked the condition of the attic, insulation, ventilation, exhaust systems, electrical system, plumbing, foundation, exterior damage, furnace, hot water tank, etc.? Have you checked for gas leaks or carbon monoxide levels from gas appliances?

We can provide you a Home Check-up to ensure you know the existing conditions of your home. Good knowledge of your home's condition can save money on repairs. For instance, replacing damaged sections of the roof rather than re-roofing the entire house, or completing repairs to unknown water leaks, air leaks, or for unknown gas or carbon monoxide leaks are a few things to consider. This will provide you Peace of Mind in knowing and understanding issues which should have attention to them and avoid major issues down the road.

Randall Patterson

Have you had routine service for the heating and cooling systems in your home? Have the systems been checked for efficient operations? This can help reduce your overall heating and cooling cost.

Have you checked your doors and windows for air leaks? This may also identify broken seals in thermal pane windows as well as identify maintenance that would be required to keep windows in good condition and provide ease of operations for the windows. Windows stuck closed may simply be painted shut, or a symptom of condensation build up that has formed a glue like substance on the window frame. Ensure that you know which is the case and what type of attention is required.

Is the storage area in your basement in the area of your hot water tank and furnace? Is this area full of boxes and storage items to the point that your furnace may not have the sufficient air intake available in this area to run efficiently and safely?

Are all the appliances in good safe operational condition?

Have your home checked for any air leaks which could be reducing your Home Energy efficiency from around doors, windows, drains, water pipes, and roof stacks.

Ensure your attic has the proper amount of insulation and ventilation. Ventilation is the typical item found to be improper in the majority of homes in this area. Proper ventilation will help prevent condensation/moisture build up in attic space. Proper ventilation will also help avoid excessive heat in attics which could lead to pre-mature shingle failure. Do you have mildew or mold growing in your attic?

Ensure the bathroom vents are not venting into the attic space which could cause excessive moisture build up and possible mildew/mold development.

Ensure all exterior drainage and water run off for the roof is properly moved away from the foundation and structure. This will help avoid damp basements and wood siding decay.

Are there any unknown water leaks for the plumbing system of the house? Are all showers, faucets, toilets and drains operating properly?

Do your lights dim when the dishwasher or furnace/Air Conditioner are running, or do you have a breaker that often trips?

Do you have squeaky floors in your home, or cracks in certain areas of the wall and around door/window frames?

Is your garage door up to date with safety features and is it operating safely for the auto reverse? Does it have a safety eye installed?

Have you tested your home for levels of Radon?

Call us to have your home inspected to identify items which should have attention paid to them and avoid long term damages and discover unknown issues. This process will provide you and your family Peace of Mind about your home.

Scapparé: upscale service; no attitude

Kate Phillips
SPECIAL WRITER

New clients have to stop to catch their breath when they walk into Scapparé.

It's shockingly lavish. With massive curved ceilings, bold colors and luxurious window coverings, the salon and day spa doesn't look like something that's usually found in southeast Michigan.

The five-year-old salon is straight out of a chic magazine — the type of place where celebrities get waxed and highlighted. The atmosphere is like a combination of Beverly Hills and an old-world chateau, overflowing with velvet curtains and soft pillows.

A grand piano fits right in, and the delicate music brings even more elegance to the beautiful surroundings.

"I'm still shocked when I walk in every day," said Chris Cortis who owns the salon and day spa with his wife Lindsay. "We keep doing updates so the salon still looks amazing to us, day after day."

At home in Scapparé

Scapparé is the type of place where people would dress up to get their hair done, but it's actually quite relaxed. There's no snobby attitudes, just old-world hospitality.

At Scapparé, the stylists and technicians treat clients like personal friends. That's because after a couple visits they are already friends. Once people try Scapparé they won't go anywhere else. Even new clients feel like welcomed guests.

Just like a party at home, guests sit down to plenty of festive refreshments — pastries, coffee and cake, or even wine and cheese.

The staff develops close relationship with their clients, often styling hair for several generations of families, and supporting them through the happy and sad occasions of life, from cradle to grave.

Guests feel comfortable talking about whatever is on their minds. It's a place to share laughs as a stylist shares in the intimate beauty processes of life.

"Our staff is very down to earth and friendly," Lindsay Cortis said.

It's a fun environment for the stylists as well as their guests.

"People love coming in here, because they can tell that we enjoy what we do," said Chris Cortis. "That makes for a very friendly, comfortable atmosphere."

Relax at the spa

The lavish atmosphere makes the perfect setting for relaxing spa pedicures.

Last year Scapparé remodeled the pedicure area, to include elegant ostrich leather thrones that preside over a basin of warm water filled with mystical potions.

While guests soak their feet, the chairs actually massage their backs, enshrining them in warm relaxation. It's easy to forget about the time, as all of life's cares drain away with the last of the bubbles.

The spa pedicures bring morture to dry feet in the winter, and keep feet looking beautiful, no matter what the weather.

"Our pedicures are the ultimate in relaxation," said Chris.

A massage extends the relaxation with healing touch. A licensed massage therapist provides a massage for every need, like Swedish, deep-tissue, prenatal and even hot stone massage.

A massage is the perfect way to unwind after a stressful day, or relax muscles before a ski trip or sports game.

Some clients spend an entire afternoon at the spa, feasting their senses on a day of rejuvenation, and prepping their body for the week ahead of them.

Restorative anti-aging facials wrap pale cheeks in Swiss luxury. As the face brightens and starts to look less fatigued, the smile rolls out and the eyes begin to dance again. Facials can help men and women look as young and vibrant as they feel.

Priced for affordability

Even though Scapparé is an upscale salon, the prices aren't upscale. Many customers are surprised that Scapparé doesn't cost more than the average salon.

The Cortis family prices services low enough so guests can afford to stick around for an entire evening of salon and spa treatments. Clients are not being well-served if the salon is empty.

"Our clients keep coming back because this is a good value," said Chris. "People are getting a lot for their money."

Educated staff

The value in services at Scapparé is tripled when taking into account the education of each stylist, technician and massage therapist.

It's always been a priority for staff to attend seminars throughout the country, to learn about new styles, good products and national trends. The group just returned from a hair texturizing seminar in Manhattan.

No expense is spared to make sure that stylists stay on top of their game.

"We spend a lot of money on education, to stay up-to-date," said Chris. "That's what people expect when they come here."

Part of the expertise of the stylists is learning how to create a style that is perfect for each client. The stylists look for clues to help figure out exactly what a client wants — from body language to past conversations.

They get to know a lot about each person, so they can help talk through decisions about new colors and styles. It's not so much the opinion of the stylist that matters — it's the preferences of each individual client.

"We want people to love their haircut when they leave," said Chris. "If we don't think they'll like a drastic change, we try to persuade them to take things a little at a time so they can get used to it."

"It matters most to us that our clients are happy with the way they look."

Scapparé is a full-service family salon and day spa providing cuts, color, hair straightening, up-dos, make-up, eyelash and eyebrow tints, waxing, acrylic nails, manicures, pedicures, facials and massage.

Review attorney credentials with great care

Q. We are in the process of reviewing proposals for an attorney. One law firm charges the same hourly rates for all of its attorneys while another law firm has different rates for their attorneys. I am wondering what you think about those options.

A. It all depends upon the experience, expertise and reputation of the attorneys. If one law firm is charging the same rate for all their attorneys, are all their attorneys equally experienced in the particular area of law that you need? More than likely that is not the case and you may be better off hiring a law firm that has varying rates depending upon the experience and length of service of the attorney even if the hourly rates for some of the attorneys may be higher than the hourly rate charged by the firm who charged the same rate for all of its attorneys. Remember the old adage, he who charges least knows best what he/she is worth.

Robert
Meisner

Q. Our management company has strongly recommended a law firm for representation of our association and says that they have worked with this law firm on hundreds of projects. I have looked at the fee agreement of the law firm and have some questions concerning its ability to represent us in a dispute with the management firm which they claim they will not do. What are your thoughts?

A. While the law firm and the management company may have a good rapport, you must insure that the law firm is independent of the management company in such a way that it can resolve various disputes between the association and the management company including negotiating the management contract. Some law firms are so dependent upon referrals from management companies that they will not get involved in any disputes with the management company which may undermine the ability of the association's counsel to effectively represent it in certain situations. You are best advised to have an attorney who is independent enough for the management companies to be able to represent the association zealously without any interference from any outside sources.

Northville condos focus on quality and affordability

The Manchester Properties' tradition of offering the American dream at an affordable price continues with the company's Northville Green condominium community.

The development, located on Randolph Street just south of Eight Mile in Northville, offers one- and two-bedroom condominium homes that have been completely refurbished from the landscape to the façade to the interiors. The three two-story buildings containing 52 one- and two-bedroom single-level floor plans with one or one-and-a-half baths feature all appliances, including in-residence washer and dryer, walk-in closets and carports.

According to James O'Malley, president of Manchester Properties Inc., the Northville Green community presents an opportunity for people who wish to own a condominium home moments from downtown Northville at a low price, starting at $114,900.

"What appeals to homebuyers about Northville Green, in addition to the value, is the fantastic location," he said. "The walk-ability to downtown is outstanding; it is in close proximity to I-275, I-96, M-14 and Eight Mile Road, and the Northville school systems are highly acclaimed."

O'Malley said Northville Green Condominiums will likely attract first-time homebuyers, single professionals, young married couples, single parents as well as empty-nesters.

He also said the materials used in the renovation of the condominium homes are of significance because of the level of quality not typically found in condominiums in this price range.

"We tried to move more toward name brand materials - for example, the faucets are by Kohler, the cabinetry is by Merillat and the carpeting is by Shaw," O'Malley said.

Northville Green sales associate Diane Kohn said homebuyers will also

Fall maintenance tips help homeowners live right

Work on house prevents headaches down road

Now that fall is well under way here in Michigan it's the perfect time to take advantage of the still-cooperative temperatures to make sure our homes are ready for another unpredictable Michigan winter. Regular home maintenance prevents future damage, maintains proper operation, and preserves the aesthetic quality of a home.

It's especially important for owners of a newer home – those who have purchased in the last three years – to implement a yearly home maintenance plan in order to prolong the lifespan of the home's materials and workmanship. Pulte Homes' Director of Research and Development Jim Petersen offers Michigan homeowners some simple tips to help prepare a home for the winter months and prevent future damage.

■ Change your air filters – they've been working hard all summer! This is the single most important task for maintaining a properly working heating and cooling system. Filters are located at the furnace.

■ Drain sediment from water heater to minimize rust and limestone buildup; also, test the pressure relief valve while the tank is full. See the water heater owner's guide for further instructions.

■ Trim tree branches and shrubs so that they are not in contact with the house or roof.

■ Winterize your sprinkler system – turn off the timer, and drain the water from the pipes. Turn off the water to all outside faucets; drain and remove all hoses.

■ Clean gutters and downspouts. Be sure to clear any debris from the elbow where the gutter connects to the downspout. Look for cracked caulk at the end caps of gutters and between the elbow and gutter.

■ For wood-burning fireplaces, clean the firebox and screens before each use; for all fireplaces, conduct a check-up twice a year using the manufacturer's instructions.

■ Check smoke and carbon monoxide detectors.

■ Have a professional inspect your furnace and vent stack before the heating season begins.

■ Clean and lubricate garage door hinges, rollers and tracks on overhead doors using a silicon spray.

■ Check sump pump operation and flush system.

■ Check the roof and roof vents, looking for loose, missing or damaged shingles; also look for damaged flashing, debris, or clogged roof vents.

■ Check "weep holes" in frame of window to ensure that they are not blocked by debris or dirt. Clean weep holes are necessary for proper water drainage.

■ Check the seals around all exterior doors to ensure there is a tight fit between the door, the jamb and the threshold. Wood doors and thresholds need to be inspected and re-finished regularly to ensure water does not penetrate the wood and leak inside the home.

Pulte Homes promotes the importance of home maintenance and inspection. By beginning a seasonal maintenance and inspection routine, you can avoid unnecessary repairs in the future. Following this short list of recommendations will help you better weather whatever the Michigan winter brings.

RE/MAX has advice on selling your home

If you are considering or are in the process of selling your home, RE/MAX of Southeastern Michigan recommends the following three important steps to properly prepare for the sale during the less active fall season:

1. Set the stage. There are many homes on the market for a buyer to choose from. Make your home stand out. For the exterior, pay attention to curb appeal. Make sure the outside of your home is well maintained - mow the grass, rake any leaves and cut back your shrubs. For the interior, eliminate the clutter - sellers will think your home is too small or not laid out well if closets are overflowing and counters are filled with excess papers and mail.

2. Go back to basics. Sellers need to be realistic about the market. It's competitive right now. Price your home right and make sure it's in good condition. Buyers have many options these days and can easily move on to another home if they don't like what they see.

3. Use an experienced agent. An experienced agent can help sellers and buyers navigate through the home sale process, especially during the closing when details are prone to fall through. An agent has the knowledge and expertise of where to turn in any situation.

A leader in the metro Detroit real estate market, RE/MAX of Southeastern Michigan encompasses Oakland, Macomb, Wayne and Monroe counties, with more than 1,250 sales associates in 63 offices serving the region. # Realcomp II waives fees for fourth quarter

As a result of steady membership and continued financial stability, Realcomp II Ltd. - Michigan's largest real estate Multiple Listing Service (MLS) provider - is passing savings along to their nearly 15,000 Realtor members by waiving agent MLS fees through November and office fees for the entire fourth quarter of this year. Realcomp's Board of Governors approved the decision.

"As we have experienced growth within our organization and positive results within our financial planning, we are capitalizing on an opportunity to give back to our members," said Karen Kage, CEO of Realcomp II Ltd. "We sincerely appreciate those who make our organization successful, and this is one of the ways we're saying thank you."

Realcomp is Realtor-owned and is overseen by a board of governors comprised of leadership from Realcomp's seven Shareholder Boards and Associations of Realtors located in southeastern Michigan. Realcomp's primary function is to provide real estate information and technology solutions to its Realtor members, so that they may better serve their customers. Realcomp receives operational support from membership and user fees.

In another recent effort that supports Realtors, Realcomp held its annual Tools of the Trade Expo at the new Detroit Science Center. Nearly 900 Realtors converged on the Science Center, a new venue for the expo this year, to experience presentations, vendor exhibits and previews of the latest technology innovations in the real estate industry.

Realcomp is headquartered in Farmington Hills and has continuously operated as a full-service provider to the real estate industry, offering Multiple Listing Services, real property data, products and training since 1994.

Q What has Catherine Bach been doing since The Dukes of Hazzard TV show?
—Rebecca Musick, Raven, Va.

Since playing Daisy Duke in the 1980s series, Bach, 52, has remained out of the spotlight. She spent most of the '90s raising her two young daughters, and in 1998, she and her husband, Peter Lopez, became founding members of C.O.A.C.H. For Kids, which provides free medical services via mobile clinics for children and their families in low-income areas of Los Angeles County. Bach made many of the outfits she wore on The Dukes of Hazzard, including the cut-off short-shorts that came to be referred to as "Daisy Dukes" in reference to her character's signature look.

Q I always enjoyed Mr. T in The A Team. What's he up to these days?
—B. Hopwood, Artesia, N.M.

Mr. T, 54, is back on TV this fall as a self-help guru, traveling the country to dispense his brand of tough love to those in need on the new TV Land series I Pity the Fool, which premiered in October. "I inspire, motivate and get people started," says the newly slimmed-down star, who doesn't have a doctorate but claims a "street degree" in helping the less fortunate.

Mr. T is back on TV in I Pity the Fool.

Reba is a "Giant" on CMT

The spotlight shines on Reba McEntire when CMT honors this star of movies, Broadway, television and country music in the two-hour special CMT Giants—Reba. Dolly Parton, Faith Hill, Trisha Yearwood, Kelly Clarkson, Martina McBride, Jennifer Nettles, LeAnn Rimes and Wynonna perform some of Reba's biggest hit songs, and there'll be a special performance by the beloved redhead herself. CMT Giants—Reba premieres Saturday, Nov. 18, at 7 p.m. Central.

Q There was a TV movie about John Denver starring Gerald McRaney as his father. But who played John?
—Harold Morris, Van Buren, Ark.

Chad Lowe, the younger brother of actor Rob Lowe, played the folk/pop singer in Take Me Home: The John Denver Story, which aired in 2000. Denver, whose hit songs included "Take Me Home, Country Roads," "Rocky Mountain High" and "Thank God I'm a Country Boy," died in 1997 when the airplane he was piloting crashed off the coast of California.

Brandon De Wilde

Brandon De Wilde, the actor who memorably portrayed young Joey in the 1953 movie Shane, received an Oscar nomination for that role and went on to star in his own short-lived TV series, Jamie, later that year. De Wilde, who also appeared in the films All Fall Down and Hud, was in Denver on the way to perform in the play Butterflies are Free when he was killed in a car accident in 1972 at the age of 30.

Q Can you please tell me the whereabouts of the actor who played the boy in Shane?
—Mary Lou Wright, Olney, Ill.

Lonestar makes a musical 'Mountain'

The country group Lonestar has built a musical legacy on heartfelt anthems of family, love and fidelity. Mountains, the band's ninth album, salutes ordinary people overcoming obstacles and hardships—"an album's worth of really passionate songs that we all believe in," says lead singer Richie McDonald. "Nothing To Prove" and "I Wanna Do It for You" celebrate loving relationships, while "Hey God" provides a simple prayer of thanks.

Wild Mustangs of the Badlands

by KAREN
KARVONEN

It's rugged country fit more for beast than man. In the remote South Dakota badlands, once sacred to American Indians who stalked buffalo on its plains, coyote howls echo off the walls of deep canyons—and 500 wild mustangs run free, thanks to former bronc rider, bullfighter, cattle rancher and rodeo photographer Dayton O. Hyde.

In the late 1980s, Hyde was driving through California on a trip to buy cattle when he passed a huge government holding pen where wild horses were corralled to protect federal land from excessive grazing. "It made me so mad to see them sad-eyed and dejected that I decided to do something," says Hyde, now 81.

In 1988, Hyde bought an 11,000-acre ranch near Hot Springs, S.D. (pop. 1,129), to take in and release captured mustangs. He created the Black Hills Wild Horse Sanctuary to protect not just wild horses and the prairies, but also America's equine heritage.

"These horses represent our Western history," he says, "and it's important to keep this link with the past, to keep this old blood alive. Someday we will want to go back to the mustang to re-infuse their 'smarts' and hardiness into our domestic horses."

To keep the sanctuary's horse population in check, Hyde sells some of the foals each year. Proceeds from the sales and money collected through volunteer-guided tours support the sanctuary, which is one of the few spots in the world where people can see large herds of appaloosas, paints, palominos and other wild horses running and romping on the open range, watch golden eagles soaring above sandstone cliffs and witness an age-old American Indian tradition.

"Horses represent our Western history," says Dayton Hyde.

Each summer, some 400 Lakota Sioux set up teepees along the Cheyenne River and hold an annual Sun Dance ceremony, a religious ritual honoring community, courage and endurance. "I can hear the drumming and chanting clear down in the prairie house where I live," says Hyde, who extended an invitation in 1998 for the Sioux to convene on his property.

The sanctuary's scenery is so spectacular that Ted Turner made the 1995 movie Crazy Horse on Hyde's property, leaving behind the replica of Fort Robinson built for the production. Disney filmmakers shot scenes of the Wounded Knee massacre for Hidalgo at the sanctuary.

Growing up in Marquette, Mich. (pop. 19,661), far from the Old West, Hyde always was fascinated with horses and ranch life. Eager to become a cowboy, he ran away from home at age 13 to live on his uncle's Oregon cattle ranch in the late 1930s. Hyde caught and broke mustangs for ranch work and took over his uncle's spread. Later he became a bronc rider, rodeo clown and rodeo photographer—and a celebrated one at that. Lying flat in the arena and shooting straight up, he captured dramatic, low-angle photos of bucking broncs with all four of their feet off the ground, and often put himself in great danger in pursuit of the perfect image.

"I would get bulls coming over the top of me," recalls Hyde, whose photos appeared in Life magazine and later were included in his autobiography, The Pastures of Beyond, which detailed his evolution from riding to rodeo, photography and wild-horse ranching.

Now, says Hyde, these horses can "race around and be free."

Some 500 wild mustangs range on the 11,000-acre Black Hills Wild Horse Sanctuary in South Dakota.

Today, Hyde's love of the land and horses has inspired others. Susan Watt visited the sanctuary more than 10 years ago and has been its volunteer program development director ever since. "I was so impressed with what Dayton had done to protect these horses that I wanted to learn as much as I could from him," says Watt, 58.

Hyde himself has traveled a long way since he was a young cowboy who longed to capture and tame wild horses. Nowadays, all his dreams are about keeping them wild and unfettered.

"I owe these horses a lot of joy in my life," says Hyde, who has found a way to pay them back. "Now they have a home that can never be developed, where they can race around and be free."★

People with COPD breathe better with SPIRIVA.

If you have a history of smoking and breathing problems, it could be COPD (chronic obstructive pulmonary disease). COPD includes chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

Ask your doctor about SPIRIVA, because it:

- ▲ Is the only once-daily, inhaled maintenance prescription treatment for COPD
- ▲ Helps you breathe better for a full 24 hours by keeping airways open
- ▲ Is not a steroid

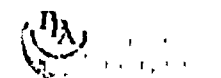

SPIRIVA does not replace fast-acting inhalers for sudden symptoms. Tell your doctor about your medicines, including eye drops, and illnesses like glaucoma and urinary or prostate problems. These may worsen with SPIRIVA. Stop taking SPIRIVA and contact your doctor at once if you have vision changes, eye pain, sudden breathing problems, hives, or swelling of the throat or tongue. Side effects may include dry mouth, constipation, and problems passing urine.

SPIRIVA is one of several treatment options that you and your doctor can consider, along with making lifestyle changes. For more information, call 1.877.SPIRIVA or visit spiriva.com

SPIRIVA® HandiHaler®

(tiotropium bromide inhalation powder)

SPIRIVA® HandiHaler®

(tiotropium bromide inhalation powder)

For Oral Inhalation Only

Brief Summary of Prescribing Information

INDICATIONS AND USAGE

SPIRIVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is indicated for the long-term, once-daily maintenance treatment of bronchospasm associated with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), including chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

CONTRAINDICATIONS

SPIRIVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is contraindicated in patients with a history of hypersensitivity to atropine or its derivatives, including ipratropium, or to any component of this product.

WARNINGS

SPIRIVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is intended as a once-daily maintenance treatment for COPD and is not indicated for the initial treatment of acute episodes of bronchospasm. If such a reaction occurs, therapy with SPIRIVA should be stopped at once and alternative treatments should be considered.

Inhaled medicines, including SPIRIVA, may cause paradoxical bronchospasm. If this occurs, treatment with SPIRIVA should be stopped and other treatments considered.

PRECAUTIONS

General

As an anticholinergic drug, SPIRIVA (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) may potentially worsen symptoms and signs associated with narrow angle glaucoma, prostatic hyperplasia or bladder neck obstruction and should be used with caution in patients with any of these conditions.

As a predominantly renally excreted drug, patients with moderate to severe renal impairment (creatinine clearance of  $\leq 50$  mL/min) treated with SPIRIVA should be monitored closely (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Pharmacokinetics, Special Populations, Renally Impaired Patients).

Information for Patients

It is important for patients to understand how to correctly administer SPIRIVA capsules using the HandiHaler inhalation device (see Patient's Instructions for Use). SPIRIVA capsules should only be administered via the HandiHaler device and the HandiHaler device should not be used for administering other medications.

Capsules should always be stored in sealed blisters and only removed immediately before use. The blister strip should be carefully opened to expose only one capsule at a time. Open the blister foil as far as the STOP line to remove only one capsule at a time. The drug should be used immediately after the packaging over an individual capsule is opened, or else its effectiveness may be reduced. Capsules that are inadvertently exposed to air (i.e., not intended for immediate use) should be discarded.

Eye pain or discomfort, blurred vision, visual halos or colored images in association with red eyes from conjunctival congestion and corneal edema may be signs of acute narrow angle glaucoma. Should any of these signs and symptoms develop, consult a physician immediately. Miotic eye drops alone are not considered to be effective treatment.

Care must be taken not to allow the powder to enter into the eyes as this may cause burning of vision and pupil dilation.

SPIRIVA HandiHaler is a once-daily maintenance bronchodilator and should not be used for immediate relief of breathing problems, i.e., as a rescue medication.

Drug Interactions

SPIRIVA has been used concomitantly with other drugs commonly used in COPD without increases in adverse drug reactions. These include sympathomimetic bronchodilators, methylxanthines, and oral and inhaled steroids. However, the co-administration of SPIRIVA with other anticholinergic containing drugs (e.g., ipratropium) has not been studied and is therefore not recommended.

Drug/Laboratory Test Interactions

None known.

Carcinogenesis, Mutagenesis, Impairment of Fertility

No evidence of tumorigenicity was observed in a 104-week inhalation study in rats at tiotropium doses up to 0.059 mg/kg/day in an 83-week inhalation study in female mice at doses up to 0.145 mg/kg/day and in a 101-week inhalation study in male mice at doses up to 0.002 mg/kg/day. These doses correspond to 25, 35, and 0.5 times the Recommended Human Daily Dose (RHDD) on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis, respectively. These dose multiples may be over-estimated due to difficulties in measuring deposited doses in animal inhalation studies.

Tiotropium bromide demonstrated no evidence of mutagenicity or clastogenicity in the following assays: the bacterial gene mutation assay, the V79 Chinese hamster cell mutagenesis assay, the chromosomal aberration assays in human lymphocytes in vitro and mouse micronucleus formation in vivo, and the unscheduled DNA synthesis in primary rat hepatocytes in vitro assay.

In rats, decreases in the number of corpora lutea and the percentage of implants were noted at inhalation tiotropium doses of 0.078 mg/kg/day or greater (approximately 35 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). No such effects were observed at 0.009 mg/kg/day (approximately 4 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). The fertility index, however, was not affected at inhalation doses up to 1.689 mg/kg/day (approximately 760 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). These dose multiples may be over-estimated due to difficulties in measuring deposited doses in animal inhalation studies.

Pregnancy

Pregnancy Category C

No evidence of structural alterations was observed in rats and rabbits at inhalation tiotropium doses of up to 1.471 and 0.007 mg/kg/day, respectively. These doses correspond to approximately 660 and 6 times the recommended human daily dose (RHDD) on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis. However, in rats, fetal resorption, litter loss, decreases in the number of live pups at birth and the mean pup weights, and a delay in pup sexual maturation were observed at inhalation tiotropium doses of  $\geq 0.078$  mg/kg (approximately 35 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). In rabbits, an increase in post-implantation loss was observed at an inhalation dose of 0.4 mg/kg/day (approximately 360 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis). Such effects were not observed at inhalation doses of 0.009 and up to 0.088 mg/kg/day in rats and rabbits, respectively. These doses correspond to approximately 4 and 80 times the RHDD on a mg/m<sup>2</sup> basis, respectively. These dose multiples may be over-estimated due to difficulties in measuring deposited doses in animal inhalation studies.

There are no adequate and well-controlled studies in pregnant women. SPIRIVA should be used during pregnancy only if the potential benefit justifies the potential risk to the fetus.

Use in Labor and Delivery

The safety and effectiveness of SPIRIVA has not been studied during labor and delivery.

Nursing Mothers

Clinical data from nursing women exposed to tiotropium are not available. Based on lactating rodent studies, tiotropium is excreted into breast milk. It is not known whether tiotropium is excreted in human milk, but because many drugs are excreted in human milk and given these findings in rats, caution should be exercised if SPIRIVA is administered to a nursing woman.

Pediatric Use

SPIRIVA HandiHaler is approved for use in the maintenance treatment of bronchospasm associated with chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, including chronic bronchitis and emphysema. This disease does not normally occur in children. The safety and effectiveness of SPIRIVA in pediatric patients have not been established.

Geriatric Use

Of the total number of patients who received SPIRIVA in the 1-year clinical trials, 426 were  $\geq 65$  years, 375 were 65-74 years and 105 were  $\geq 75$  years of age. Within each age subgroup, there were no differences between the proportion of patients with adverse events in the SPIRIVA and the comparator groups for most events. Dry mouth increased with age in the SPIRIVA group (differences from placebo were 9.0%, 17.1%, and 16.2% in the aforementioned age subgroups). A higher frequency of constipation and urinary tract infections with increasing age was observed in the SPIRIVA group in the placebo-controlled studies. The differences from placebo for constipation were 0%, 1.8% and 7.8% for each of the age groups. The differences from placebo for urinary tract infections were -0.6%, 4.6% and 4.5%. No overall differences in effectiveness were observed among these groups. Based on available data, no adjustment of SPIRIVA dosage in geriatric patients is warranted.

ADVERSE REACTIONS

Of the 2,663 patients in the four 1-year and two 6-month controlled clinical trials, 1,308 were treated with SPIRIVA (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) at the recommended dose of 18 mcg once a day. Patients with narrow angle glaucoma or symptomatic prostatic hypertrophy or bladder outlet obstruction were excluded from these trials.

The most commonly reported adverse drug reaction was dry mouth. Dry mouth was usually mild and often resolved during continued treatment. Other reactions reported in individual patients and consistent with possible anticholinergic effects included constipation, increased heart rate, blurred vision, glaucoma, urinary difficulty and urinary retention.

Four multicenter, 1-year controlled studies evaluated SPIRIVA in patients with COPD. Table 1 shows all adverse events that occurred with a frequency of  $\geq 3\%$  in the SPIRIVA group in the 1-year placebo-controlled trials where the rates in the SPIRIVA group exceeded placebo by  $\geq 1\%$ . The frequency of corresponding events in the ipratropium-controlled trials is included for comparison.

Table 1. Adverse Experience Incidence (% Patients) in One-Year COPD Clinical Trials

Arthritis, coughing, and influenza-like symptoms occurred at a rate of  $\geq 3\%$  in the SPIRIVA treatment group but were  $<1\%$  in excess of the placebo group.

Other events that occurred in the SPIRIVA group at a frequency of  $\geq 1\%$  in the placebo-controlled trials where the rates exceeded that in the placebo group include: Body as a Whole: allergic reaction, leg pain; Central and Peripheral Nervous System: dysphoria, paresthesia; Gastrointestinal System Disorders: gastrointestinal disorder not otherwise specified (NOS), gastroesophageal reflux, stomatitis (including ulcerative stomatitis); Metabolic and Nutritional Disorders: hypercholesterolemia, hyperglycemia; Musculoskeletal System Disorders: skeletal pain; Cardiac Events: angina pectoris (including anginal angina pectoris); Psychiatric Disorder: depression; Infections: herpes zoster; Respiratory System Disorder (Upper): laryngitis; Vision Disorder: cataract. In addition, among the adverse events observed in the clinical trials with an incidence of  $<1\%$  were: ataxia, fibrillation, supraventricular tachycardia, angioedema and urinary retention.

In the 1-year trials, the incidence of dry mouth, constipation and urinary tract infection increased with age (see PRECAUTIONS, Geriatric Use).

Two multicenter, 6-month, controlled studies evaluated SPIRIVA in patients with COPD. The adverse events and the incidence rates were similar to those seen in the 1-year controlled trials.

The following adverse reactions have been identified during worldwide post-approval use of SPIRIVA: dizziness, epistaxis, hoarseness, palpitations, pruritus, tachycardia, throat irritation, and urticaria.

DOSE AND ADMINISTRATION

The recommended dosage of SPIRIVA HandiHaler (tiotropium bromide inhalation powder) is the inhalation of the contents of one SPIRIVA capsule once daily with the HandiHaler inhalation device (see Patient's Instructions for Use).

No dosage adjustment is required for geriatric, hepatically impaired, or renally impaired patients. However, patients with moderate to severe renal impairment given SPIRIVA should be monitored closely (see CLINICAL PHARMACOLOGY, Pharmacokinetics, Special Populations and PRECAUTIONS).

SPIRIVA capsules are for inhalation only and must not be swallowed.

Dietary Guidelines for Diabetics

Whether you're trying to prevent diabetes, better manage your disease or slow complications from developing, the American Diabetes Association (ADA) has developed guidelines to help you choose the right meal plan to meet your goals.

The guidelines, published in the September issue of Diabetes Care, offer nutrition advice based on a person's medical condition.

"When you're talking about diabetes, there is no 'one-size-fits-all' diet," says Ann Albright, an ADA spokeswoman. "For people with diabetes and those at risk for type 2 diabetes, medical nutrition therapy should be tailored to a person's specific health issues and personal preferences to help maintain optimum health."

For people who are at risk for diabetes, the guidelines call for a diet high in fiber and nutrient-rich foods, with whole grains making up half of all grain consumed.

For people who already have diabetes, the guidelines recommend obtaining carbohydrates from fruits, vegetables, whole grains, legumes and low-fat milk; eating fiber-rich foods; keeping saturated fats to less than 7 percent of total caloric intake; eating at least two servings of non-fried fish per week; limiting trans fats; and restricting cholesterol intake.

Specific dietary recommendations also are included for people with type 1 diabetes, pregnant or nursing mothers with diabetes, older adults, and those living in long-term care facilities or managing acute illnesses. The recommendations note that altering a person's diet cannot prevent type 1 diabetes.

The guidelines emphasize the importance of sustained, moderate weight loss for people who are overweight or obese and increased physical activity for all people at risk for or living with diabetes. In addition, they urge people with diabetes to avoid fad diets, such as those that promote extreme low-carbohydrate or high-protein intake.

"Fad diets come and go," Albright says. "We want people to be provided with sound nutrition advice that will help them in making choices for maintaining good health for the long term."★

The Nation's Most Ordinary Citizen

by MARTI ATTOUN
Photos by Jonathan Olson

Bob Burns may be the most ordinary person in America. He's 54, married, wears glasses, makes mortgage payments on a three-bedroom, ranch-style house, and works 40 hours a week as a maintenance supervisor at Windham Technical High School in Willimantic, Conn. (pop. 15,823).

Burns drinks coffee each morning, reads the newspaper each day, walks his dog each evening and attends church most Sundays.

The 5-foot-8-inch, 190-pound Burns is such an average Joe that he's the unpretentious star of the 2005 book The Average American: The Extraordinary Search for the Nation's Most Ordinary Citizen by Kevin O'Keefe.

"I'm a little bit of a local celebrity," says Burns, who feels honored to be singled out for being perfectly ordinary. "I'm just the everyday person who does his or her job to the best of his ability."

On a typical workday, Burns might deliver a cartload of textbooks to a classroom, fix a leaky flush valve in the boys' bathroom or inspect the fire extinguishers on the school buses.

"The job can be a handful, like any job," he says, striding down the hallway at Windham Tech in size 10½ work boots and Rustler jeans that he bought on sale at Wal-Mart. "It's a $50 million building and it's my job to keep it safe. I just take it one day at a time."

At 3 p.m. quitting time, he checks his e-mail for last-minute work requests, hops in his 1996 white GMC pickup truck and drives three miles to his home in Windham, Conn. (pop. 22,857).

Bob Burns delivers textbooks at Windham Technical High School in Willimantic, Conn.

Nationwide search

Finding the most common man among nearly 300 million people was uncommonly difficult for O'Keefe. "I thought at first I could go to the Census Bureau and someone could hit a few buttons and I'd have a name," he says.

Instead, O'Keefe's search turned into a two-year journey that took him from Keene, N.H., to the Hawaiian island of Maui. Along the way, he met dozens of colorful characters and distilled a profusion of statistics—from the average home size to the average commute time—into 140 criteria that define the average American.

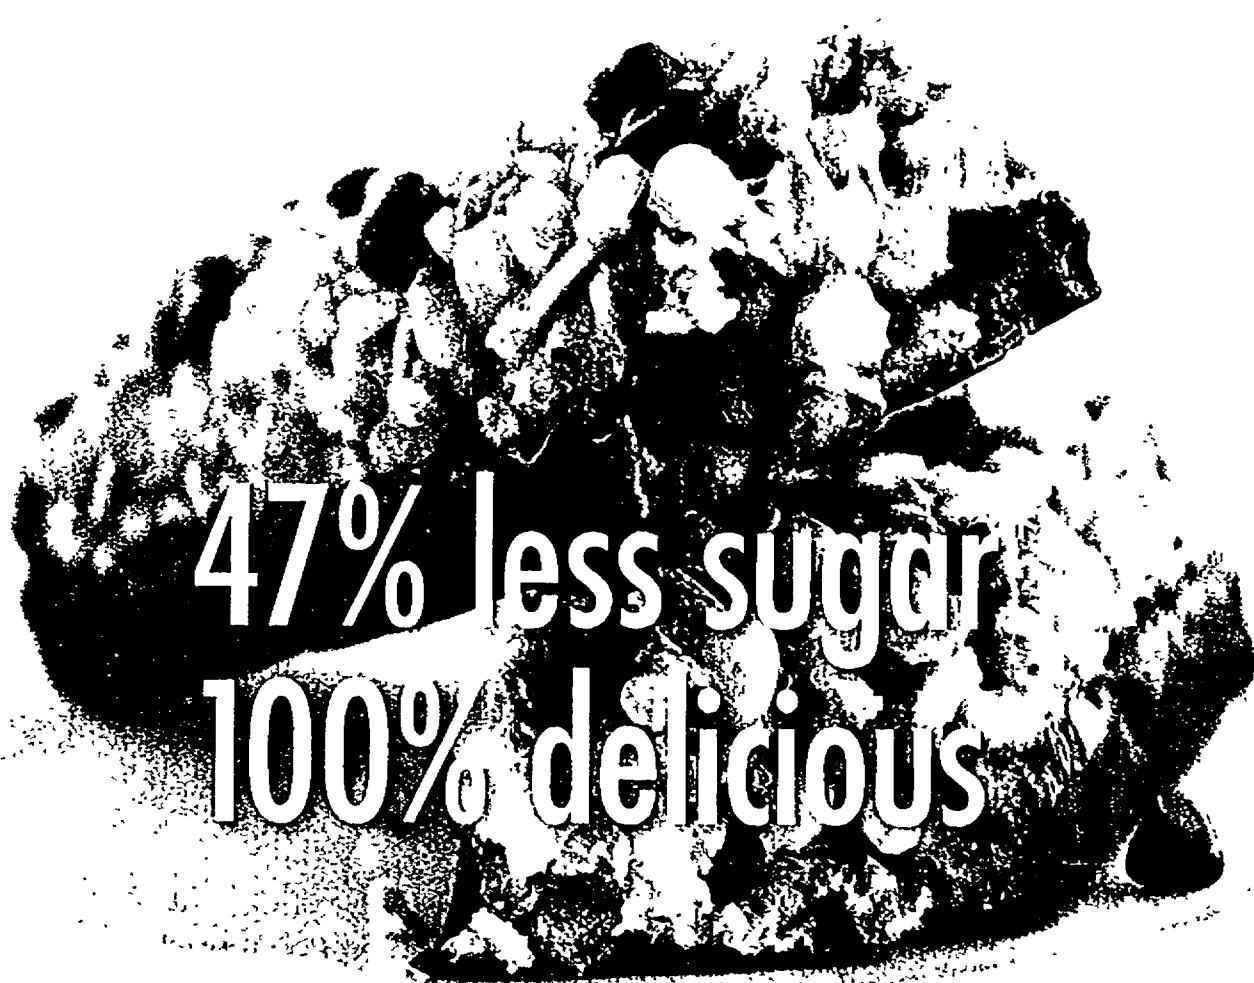

"The biggest surprise was—Bob," O'Keefe says. The only person O'Keefe found who matched all 140 criteria happened to be someone that he knew from his high school days. When O'Keefe attended Edwin O. Smith High School in Mansfield, Conn. (pop. 20,720), Burns worked as a custodian there.

Today, O'Keefe aspires to be like Burns. "It's important to have balance in your life," he says. (Continued on page 13)

Like 63 percent of Americans, Bob Burns says he's living the American dream.

Living Healthy With Diabetes

The Basics

Quite simply, diabetes is a disease in which the body does not produce or properly use insulin. And while there's no mystery behind the fact that insulin is a hormone needed to convert sugar, starches and other food into energy, the exact cause of the disease remains unknown.

The two major types of diabetes are Type 1, or insulin dependent and Type 2, the one affecting the most Americans who are diagnosed with the disease. Factors like having a parent or sibling with the disease, being overweight and not getting enough exercise increases the odds of developing Type 2 diabetes. Since we know that genetics and environmental factors appear to play important roles in the spreading of diabetes, why not set a few reasonable diet and fitness goals?

Meal Check

People with diabetes have the same nutritional needs as anyone else. The American Diabetes Association suggests that you 'rate your plate,' as an easy way to make sure you are eating a variety of healthful foods at each meal. No artistic talent necessary: when you sit down, simply draw an imaginary line through the center of your plate and then divide one of those halves into fourths. One fourth of your plate should be filled with grains or starchy foods; one fourth should be protein and the last half can be filled with non-starchy vegetables or salad. This may not be an exact science, but it's a great way to get you focused on portion control.

Also try heading off temptation before it gets the best of you. Send leftovers home with your guests, at restaurants – especially those known for gigantic portions – ask that half of your meal be wrapped up to take home or consider ordering an appetizer and side dish in place of an entrée. If you simply can't pass up a bargain and that XXL-sized bag of snack food finds its way from the supermarket to your kitchen, divide it into single serving portions and store them in a hard-to-reach place.

Have fun planning an active weekend outdoors. Who knew that raking leaves or washing your car could provide such healthy rewards?

Sure, knowing what to eat can be confusing but if you stick to eating lots of vegetables and fruits, choose whole grains over processed grains, brown rice or whole wheat pasta and fish 2-3 times a week, your body will thank you.

Read any good labels lately? Ingredients are listed on labels in descending order by weight, meaning the first ingredient makes up the largest portion of the food. Make sure you zero in on things you'd like to avoid a lot of, like sugar or saturated fat.

Get Moving

Physical activity can help you control not just your weight, but your blood glucose, blood pressure and cholesterol levels as well. You may not think you are accustomed to regular physical activity but just look around you: skipping the elevator at work and taking the stairs; parking at the far end of the parking lot and walking to the store and getting off the bus a few blocks early are all things easily incorporated into your daily routine. Have fun planning an active weekend outdoors. Who knew that raking leaves or washing your car could provide such healthy rewards?

Ready to pump it up a notch? Aim for at least 30 minutes of moderate-intensity physical activity, five or more days a week. What exactly is "moderate intensity?" Some examples are walking briskly, mowing the lawn, dancing, swimming or bicycling. If you are not accustomed to physical activity, you may want to start with a little exercise and work your way up. No matter what kind of exercise you do, you should warm up before you start and cool down when you're done. To warm up, spend 5 to 10 minutes doing a low-intensity exercise such as walking. Then gently stretch for another 5 to 10 minutes, repeating these steps when you cool down.

Make sure to do physical activities you really like because the more fun you have, the more likely you are to stick with it. Finding a buddy — of either the two or four-legged variety — can also be helpful.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, as of 2002 there were 18.2 million cases of diabetes in the US with 1.3 new cases diagnosed every year. There are indirect costs of more than $40 billion associated with the disease in things like disability and loss of work.

The incidence of diabetes is on the rise around the world and is directly linked to the rate of weight gain across the globe. There is good news, though, when it comes to the prevention and treatment of Type 2 diabetes. Modest weight losses as a result of diet and lifestyle modification have been found to make a dramatic difference in preventing the development of the disease in people who are at risk. What are you waiting for? Get moving!

Like most Americans, Burns enjoys outdoor grilling and prefers smooth peanut butter.

Close to home

Like 60 percent of Americans, Burns lives in his native state. Born in Willimantic, he graduated in 1971 from the very high school where he works.

The year after graduation, he met his wife, Sue, thanks to a matchmaking co-worker. Burns walked three miles to Kentucky Fried Chicken where Sue was working and nervously placed an order with his bride-to-be: "Is there a Susan here? I'd like to order a shrimp box dinner."

The shrimp dinner led to a first date, then a pre-engagement ring three months later. "I knew right away that this was the one for me," Bob says. "You know when the hammer hits your head."

The couple have three children: David, 30, an attorney in Bolton, Conn. (pop. 5,017); Nicole Starkey, 27, a juvenile caseworker in Windham; and Jared, 24, stationed at Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene, Texas.

The family's tidy 1968 red shingle-sided house is bordered with blooming gladiolas, coneflowers, tomatoes and raspberries and, as is the national norm, has a paved parking area leading to the garage. While the couple's children are grown, they frequently pop in for visits and two granddaughters help keep the house abuzz. As with most Americans, the Burns consider their family to be "extremely" or "very important."

Bob met Sue, his wife of 34 years, at a Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant.

Bob and Sue provide a spare room as a "home away from home" to six to eight cadets each year from the nearby U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. (pop. 25,671).

"They're such easy guests," Sue says. "Usually, it'll be a three-day weekend and they'll come here and watch sports with Bob."

Sixty-four percent of Americans are football fans, as is Bob. He's also a baseball fan and coached Little League for 15 years. That's typical, too, of most Americans, who are charitable with both their time and money.

When he wants to relax, Bob goes fishing. In the summer, he enjoys grilling his latest catch, alongside hamburgers and Polish sausage, on his backyard deck. A grill on a deck, porch or patio is standard at most American homes, as are pets. The Burns have three—cats Roger and Jinx and dog Missy.

A white picket fence frames the couple's backyard that is shaded by towering spruces. No, a picket fence isn't among the 140 criteria of the average American, but it seems a perfect fit, along with the Stars & Stripes flying in the front yard.

Like 63 percent of Americans, Bob says he is living the American dream. "I may not be the wealthiest person in the world, but I'm happy with what I've got," he says. "I've been married 34 years to the same person. I'm very proud of my kids. I couldn't ask for more." ☆

of natural daylight indoors with a savings of $77 over the life of one bulb!*

Ever since the first human went into a dark cave and built a fire, people have realized the importance of proper indoor lighting. Unfortunately, since Edison invented the light bulb, lighting technology has remained relatively prehistoric. Modern light fixtures do little to combat many symptoms of improper lighting, such as eyestrain, dryness or burning. As more and more of us spend longer hours in front of a computer monitor, the results are compounded...and the effects of indoor lighting are not necessarily limited to physical well-being. Many people believe that the quantity and quality of light can play a part in one's mood and work performance. Now there's a better way to bring the positive benefits of natural sunlight indoors.

The Balanced Spectrum® floor lamp will change the way you see and feel about your living or work spaces. Studies show that sunshine can lift your mood and your energy levels. But as we all know, the sun, unfortunately, does not always shine. So, to bring the benefits of natural daylight indoors, use the floor lamp that simulates the full spectrum of daylight. You will see with more clarity and enjoyment as this lamp provides sharp visibility for close tasks and reduces eyestrain.

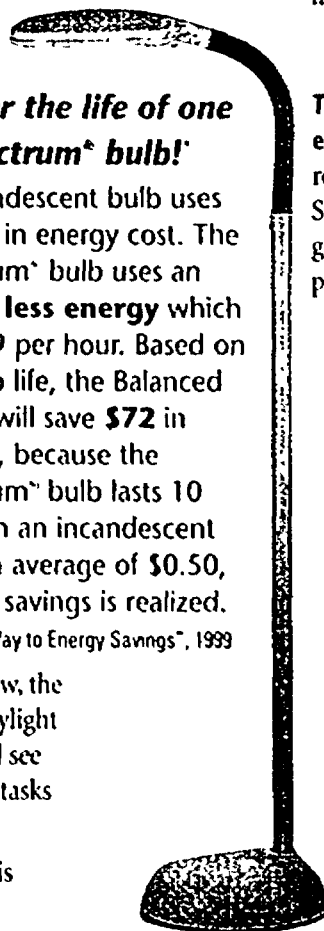

Its 27-watt compact bulb is the equivalent to a 150-watt ordinary light bulb. This makes it perfect for activities such as reading, writing, sewing, needlepoint, and especially for aging eyes.

Experience sunshine indoors at the touch-of-a-switch. This amazing lamp is easy on the eyes and easy on the hands. It features a special "soft-touch, flicker-free" rocker switch that's easier to use than traditional toggle or twist switches. Its flexible gooseneck design enables you to get light where you need it most. The high-tech electronics, user-friendly design, and bulb that lasts 10 times longer than an ordinary bulb make this lamp a must-have.

SAVE $77 over the life of one Balanced Spectrum® bulb!

A 150-watt incandescent bulb uses $0.013 per hour in energy cost. The Balanced Spectrum® bulb uses an average of 70% less energy which saves you $0.009 per hour. Based on 8,000 hours bulb life, the Balanced Spectrum® bulb will save $72 in energy cost. Plus, because the Balanced Spectrum® bulb lasts 10 times longer than an incandescent bulb priced at an average of $0.50, an additional $5 savings is realized.

Making 'Kangaroo' Music

by BOB GULLA

TV's Captain Kangaroo

The door-mounted bell at the Runcible Spoon, a boutique in Newport, R.I., rings as shoppers bustle in and out, perusing the selection of elegant linens, artisan tableware and imported ceramics as Bill Thomas, 62, works the register.

Most customers don't know that Thomas, whose wife, Joan, owns and operates the store, is one of the creative minds behind a whole generation of popular children's music.

From 1974 to 1983, he composed songs for the TV series Captain Kangaroo, the longest-running children's program in the history of commercial network television (1955-1992). The show, which started its soft-spoken creator, Bob Keeshan, and a menagerie of colorful characters, featured hours of feel-good, kids-world-view music written by Thomas and other composers.

"It was a great job and I loved doing it," Thomas says. "The beauty of it was, I wasn't restricted. I could write a song about almost anything."

Thomas had just gotten out of the Navy in 1969 and was singing at a popular harbor pub in Newport when a friend asked him to compose music for an independent film. One of the folks involved also worked for Captain Kangaroo in New York. Coincidentally, Thomas had just finished writing a pilot for a children's radio show with Noel Paul Stookey of the folk trio Peter, Paul and Mary. "The producers of Captain liked the songs I had written," Thomas says, "and they wanted me to help them update the show's song library."

Thomas was hired to compose songs to "fit" film footage from various archival sources about everyday things. "Originally, I'd write to whatever was on hand," he explains. He wrote dozens of songs and married them to various movie clips, creating something entirely new in the process—"film songs" about how sunshine makes shadows, being a friend and what toys do in the dark (reassuringly, they stay where you leave them).

Little did he know that his Captain Kangaroo creations would turn out to be forerunners to content that years later would become the bread and butter of cable channels MTV and VH1. "I guess you could make the leap and say the songwriters for the show came up with some of the first music videos," he says with a smile.

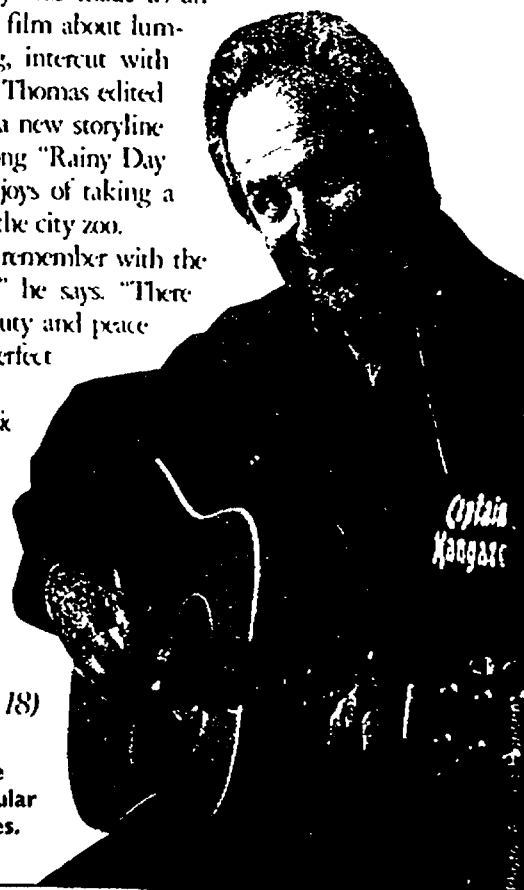

One of his favorite pieces started with footage of a boy in a yellow slicker walking through a soggy forest in the Pacific Northwest. It originally was made as an educational short film about lumber and forestry, intercut with shots of wildlife. Thomas edited the footage into a new storyline to support his song "Rainy Day Zoo," about the joys of taking a rainy-day trip to the city zoo.

"That's one I remember with the most admiration," he says. "There was so much beauty and peace in it; it seemed perfect for the show."

Thomas' music went hand-in-hand with the tranquil, feel-good sentiments on which Keeshan insisted for the program. "There was an

The Soloflex Whole Body Vibration (WBV) Platform sends mechanical g-loads (accelerations) through your body to help increase muscle strength, balance, flexibility, vitality, etc.

It's elemental physics, Watson. Gravity is acceleration. Gravity can be induced by resisting a load (e.g. lifting weights), and now, by mechanical means (WBV). That means you can stand still on a WBV Platform and get a good workout. Cowabunga, what a discovery!

And what a godsend for people who have trouble sticking with regular exercise.

Commercial WBV platforms cost $3,500 to $13,000. Our home unit costs only $495 delivered and, to help increase your gains, allows all kinds of complementary exercises to be performed while vibrating ~ from yoga to serious iron-pumping.

integrity to the show," he says. "It wasn't phony. Its heart was always in the right place."

"The show represented all the best about human existence," says former executive producer Joel Kosofsky. "There was kindness, warmth, sympathy, love and humor."

Three of Thomas' "film song" videos, along with a collection of other original tunes from the show, can be found on his new CD/DVD, Time Can Be So Magic: Songs from Captain Kangaroo, available at www.timecanbesomagic.com.

"Bill's rich imagination and his concern for the child's individual growth made his music impossible not to share," says Stookey, who sings on the album.

Back at the store, Thomas doesn't attract attention as a man who has created happy memories for a generation of baby boomers. "I don't know if I've made any difference," he says humbly. "But at least I've communicated with people on an emotional level. That's what music is about." ☆

Homemaker Invents A Shine That Lasts

Miracle Polish Ends Struggle With Tarnishing Metals. By D.H. Wagner

Lately, I have noticed quite a few newspapers and magazines praising a polish formulated by a homemaker. The articles report that Donna Maas grew frustrated with rubbing and scrubbing her silver, brass and other metals only to see them quickly become dull and tarnished again. Determined to put an end to her constant battle with tarnish, Donna formulated a metal cleaner and it's transforming the industry.

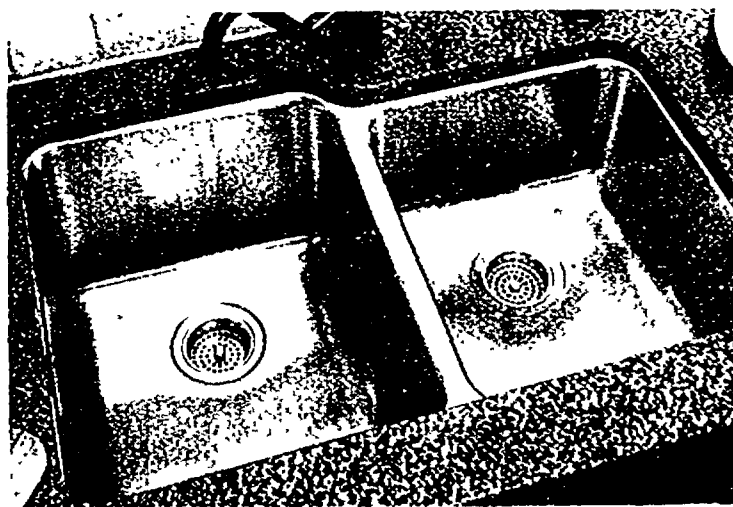

Anita Gold, nationally syndicated columnist and expert on the restoration of antiques calls MAAS (named after its inventor) "The best and most amazing polish in the world." Ms. Gold wrote in her column, "A truly miraculous polish referred to as 'miracle polish' that'll turn the most disastrous pieces into the most de-bright-ful is MAAS Fine Polishing Creme For All Metals, which cleans, restores, preserves and polishes to perfection any brass, copper, chrome, silver, stainless steel, aluminum, gold or any other metal with amazing results - no matter how badly stained, spotted, discolored, flood-damaged, weathered, dirty, dingy, drab, or dull they may be."

Since I had an old brass lamp in desperate need of restoration, this journalist decided to put MAAS to the test. The lamp had been stored in the garage and was in far worse condition than I remembered. I was flabbergasted as I watched the polish wipe away layers and years of tarnish. Never have I used anything so easy. The lamp actually looks better than when I purchased it. Better yet, months later it's still glowing!

The polish worked so effortlessly, I decided to refurbish my mother's antique brass and copper cookware. The badly stained pots and pans developed black spots that had been impossible to remove. MAAS wiped away years of built-up residue even from the most discolored pieces. While polishing, I noticed MAAS applying a shine on the stainless steel sink. WOW! The shine is unbelievable and although I wash dishes every day, the shine keeps-on-shining. And it's no longer covered with ugly water spots, water just rolls off the protective finish and down the drain.

A consumer study of 28 metal polishes reports, "MAAS Polishing Creme has no equals in all around polishing performance..." MAAS retained its shine longer than every polish tested. The Miami Herald says, "Polishing product can renew old silver." The Chicago Tribune headline sums it all up by saying "One Amazing Polish Is The Best At Everything."

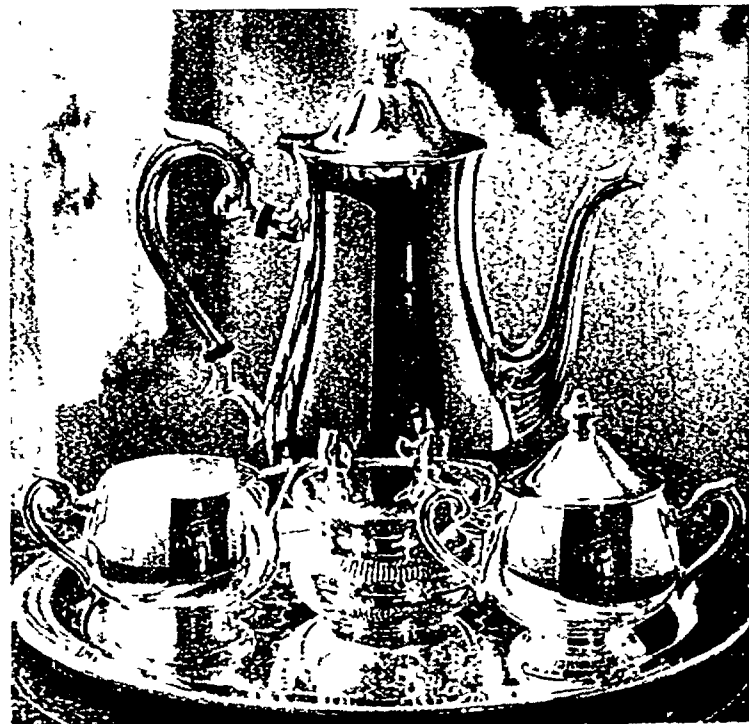

How did a homemaker come up with something the industry's experts couldn't? The reporter in me had to find out.

During our interview Donna explained, "I enjoy the warmth that beautifully polished metals add to a home. However, not the hours it took to keep them tarnish free. The harsh cleaners left my hands dry and burning - one instant silver dip smelled so bad I felt sick. That's when I became determined to find a better way to care for the metals in my home."

And that she did. Her formula developed with a chemist friend quickly restores and leaves a deep, rich one-of-a-kind luster beyond anything I've ever seen.

"To my surprise," Donna reveals, "the formula far exceeded my original goal. MAAS restored glass fireplace doors, clouded crystal vases, fiberglass, linoleum even plastic. The restorations were so remarkable everyone suggested that I sell my invention on television".

Donna sent samples of her polish to televised shopping channels and both QVC and Home Shopping Network asked Donna to personally appear on TV to demonstrate her product. As soon as viewers saw how effortlessly MAAS removed tarnish, stubborn spots, and stains from the piles of badly oxidized metals on stage MAAS hit big time. 17,000 viewers called during MAAS' debut and encore performances quickly brought a million dollars in record-breaking sales.

Sheila Oetting in Florida wrote Donna saying, "Thank you, for a wonderful product! Family treasures with 30 years of tarnish, grime and corrosion are gleaming. I'm so thrilled to see the beauty that had been hidden all those years."

Leona Toppel was about to throw away a brass chandelier. "No amount of elbow grease could shine it up. With very little effort (a big plus since I suffer from arthritis) MAAS made that chandelier look like new. It's been years and to everyone's surprise it's still glowing."

Boeing and McDonnell Douglas tested and approved the polish for use on jet aircraft. The U.S. Air Force, Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Department of Defense worldwide have ordered MAAS.

"MAAS outperforms every polish I've tried," Donna beams with satisfaction. "So if you're as tired as I was of cleaning metals just to see tarnish reappear a few weeks later, MAAS it!"
