Board delays plan vote

■ School study session tonight

By Renee Gates

Keeping the Northville Hills subdivision together, permitting open enrollment students to use buses going down their streets, and allowing the Ravines and Brooklane subdivisions to remain at Meads Mill.

These are three of the scenarios that will be presented to the school district's board of education at a study session this evening concerning options for the proposed attendance boundary plan.

Board and administrators collected 125 feedback forms from community members and parents attending the four Attendance Boundary Community Forums held March 16 and 19.

After hearing parent concerns and reading their comments, the board of education delayed a vote on a finalized attendance boundary plan at their March 27 meeting. Last Thursday, the board held a March 22 study session to consider the community feedback and further examine alternatives.

"Right now, the concerns came from splitting the subdivisions, the Northville Hills subdivision, and from the middle school," said Dave Bolitho, assistant superintendent.

Maybury opens for the season

■ Staff offers syrup, dairy and animal tours

The kids squealed as they ran from pen to stall to coop.

"I saw a bunny!" "Lambs!" "Ooooooh!" Daniel Henning, 7, pulled for his mom, Chris, to look at the pigs, then the horses. On a St. Paul's Lutheran School field trip, the boys and girls and their chaperones explored the grounds of Maybury Farm — taking a horse-drawn wagon ride into the woods, visiting the barn and learning about the animals' daily routine.

"They had a great time," Henning said. "They learned about getting syrup from the sugar maple trees. It was awesome."

Yep, it's spring. Maybury Farm opened for the season last week.

As the visitors crossed the concrete path from the parking lot to the grass and dirt farm yard, they passed from the hurried pace of 2007 to the deliberate slow of a vintage working farm.

Nature's harmony

Not far from acres of Northville subdivision homes with every latest convenience, motorists can turn off Eight Mile Road onto Maybury land where a farm with roots in the 1900s is alive with spring.

The homestead visible from the main road has remained a beacon to the past. The barn, destroyed by fire in 2003, was replaced through efforts of the Northville Community Foundation, which continues to grow new pro-

"The animals have waited all season for their friends to come back," said Shari Peters, foundation president.

Kids pulling their iPod earplugs and piling out of SUVs tuned in instead to nature's harmony of birds tweeting, pigs grunting and horses whinnying.

Last Friday, volunteers Mark Sanchez and Kelly Johnson added an "open" banner to the farm entrance sign.

Their chores in recent weeks have ranged from building a fence along the pasture to sweeping the barn, and building a fire in the Happy trails? Cyclist seeking more bike-friendly downtown

A sign prohibiting all forms of non-motorized transportation hangs from the MainCentre building in Northville.

Doug Bingham wants people rolling into town on two wheels to stay a while.

Despite the area's attractive terrain, surrounding network of paths and retail bike specialists, downtown Northville is a little chilly to cycling enthusiasts, Bingham said. And he wants to change that.

"We're not a bicycle-friendly downtown," he said. "You think, 'They don't want me here with my bicycle.'"

He's taking his case to city officials and local business owners seeking signs to welcome cyclists, rather than shoo them.

And, Bingham thinks a few well-placed bike racks would be a good idea, too.

Cycling community

In a presentation to the Northville Downtown Development Authority last week, Bingham cited resident support for non-motorized connections during recent public forums on the city's strategic plan. In fact, the Northville Community Parks and Recreation Master Plan 2007-2011 adopted earlier this month by both the Northville City Council and Township Board of Trustees also encouraged pathways.

The goal of "creating a community of healthy residents by providing opportunities that encourage active lifestyles" specifically suggests increasing connections between parks, facilities and shopping districts that allow residents to cycle, walk and run.

Bingham planned to talk to city administrators, like Jim Gallogy, director of the city's public works department, about how pedestrians and cyclists can safely share city sidewalks.

Sharing the sidewalk

Currently, signs around town prohibit bike riding, rollerblading and skateboarding in some areas. Ordinance language further dictates cyclists must yield the right-of-way to pedestrians or risk a $15 fine.

Bingham described trailering his bike to Milford for a day of cycling, meals and shopping. The town is more receptive to cyclists, he said, so he ends up spending money there.

For example, the sidewalks are stenciled with the suggestion to "dismount" at certain sites, doubling as a warning and welcome.

He said similar markings on Main and Center streets would convey to visitors they're wanted as downtown patrons.

Racks for convenience?

Bingham told the development authority he had drafted a letter to a handful of merchants asking whether they would be amenable to a bike rack near their business.

City-owned racks currently are located behind the 120 West Main building and in front of city hall. Those sites don't help cyclists who want to shop, eat or browse the center of town, Bingham said.

"It's got to be safe — they're leaving their stuff," he said. "They don't want it to be damaged."

Last week's presentation was a first effort at proposing bike-friendly measures, with future action subject to approval by city leaders.

Bingham said a hearty welcome to cyclists — from families to serious riders — could benefit downtown businesses, as well as bikers themselves.

"Serious bikers, who ride miles to get here, they're not from here, but I want them to be comfortable," he said.

welcome center to fixing the service trails.

On Friday, a testy ram added to their to-do list by ramming into a barn wall, breaking a plank.

"He just keeps ramming his head into it," said Sanchez, who, like Johnson, is a laid-off Ford employee that can opt to spend idle hours working for a non-profit organization instead of in the plant.

Sanchez, a hydraulic repair worker, was green when he first reported to the Maybury last year. Now, he has learned the farm ropes, handling animals, driving the tractor and performing ongoing maintenance tasks.

"We're always looking for volunteers," said Peters, adding the farm staff includes farmer John and Norma Beemer, two part-time farm hands and two part-time docents. "Anyone who has time, we're more than happy to find something for them to do."

"There's always something." Through donations and tireless fund-raising efforts, the farm was born again, literally, from the ground up. Peters acknowledges progress, but she sees plenty of work ahead.

"This time of year, this all has to be landscaped again," she said. "Replacing fencing will be a big part of this spring."

"We have to repave all the paths, be it with dirt or woodchips or whatever. There's always so much work here."

Slow appreciation

But already this season, Peters said the farm has been reaping what it sows during visits.

Last week, she received a thank-you note from a scout troop and phone call from a woman who host-

"The mom said it was 'off the charts,'" Peters said. "To see everyone back is just great."

Eyes accustomed to watching TV or computer animation grew wide at sleeping pigs nestled contentedly in the mud and the large cow's slow hay chew.

After initially recoiling at the pungent barn smell, the little noses were quickly distracted by the abundance of sensations surrounding them: goats, pigs, sheep, bunnies, turkeys, cows, ducks and roosters.

"Little kids are the best," Sanchez said. "They're just like in awe when they see it."

"It gives you a good feeling," Johnson said she knows children will remember their visit to the farm. When Farmer Beemer held out the baby lamb, he was swarmed with little hands wanting to touch its soft white wool.

"They love it," Johnson said. "Just that look on their face."

Neighbors scrutinizing progress on construction of new home

Waterfront improvements awaiting permits

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Luci Klinkhamer considers herself a steward of the historic Mill Pond she has overlooked from her Lake Street home for 26 years. So, when she recently saw heavy equipment roll onto her neighbor's yard near the shoreline, she stepped up her watch. Her vigilance was spurred by seeing the swift pace in recent weeks of the existing home's demolition, removal of trees and start of site work at 412 Horton Street.

"There are ordinances in place they need to follow," Klinkhamer said. "Everyone in the neighborhood is assuming the city is going to monitor this." "We've tried to maintain the integrity of the pond as long as we've lived here." Crews have transformed the property from the former site of the yellow Cape Cod surrounded by trees along the water's edge to a blank slate for Jeff and Sharon Smith's new home. Officials have been visiting the construction site to ensure all is in order.

Just a glitch?

Klinkhamer's inquiries with the city turned up removal of trees from the site without written approval. Requests for environmental permits needed to create a new sea wall are in the works. Professionals hired to construct and landscape the Smith's new house said they are seeking required permission for every stage of the project. They attributed the lack of a formal tree removal permit to a glitch in the transition from original builder to the current contractor, and absence of city officials.

"People are calling city hall and they'll have to make it right with the city," Jim Gallogly, director of the public works department, who was pinch-hitting while the city's full-time building inspector was on medical leave.

Landscape Mike Socha, owner of Birmingham-based The Naturalist, said removal of trees without the proper paperwork was due to miscommunication, not disregard for proper procedure. He said he thought he had the necessary go-ahead.

"I'm aware of how all that stuff works," said Socha, acknowledging the landmark site's visibility and the scrutiny accompanying it. "I don't want to make people mad."

"They're going to put something up that's going to be absolutely fabulous.

"I think it was a big shocker when that house came down."

Proper permits pending

Gallogly said the city has record of the trees removed and will monitor appropriate replacement or payment to the city as stipulated in the woodlands ordinance.

"Our ordinance doesn't stop people from removing trees, it kind of controls it," Gallogly said. "They did apply for it, but they weren't granted it because we didn't realize they had a rush on it."

"As luck would have it, they did it while I was on vacation." So, when Gallogly returned, he temporarily shut down work on the construction site, pending receipt of soil erosion permits. County officials are monitoring that aspect of the prospect, he said Tuesday.

"I have not seen a permit, but they have been directed by Wayne County on how to correct the situation for soil erosion," he said. "And they have a time line to accomplish it."

All told, Gallogly said the project will need permits for demolition, tree removal, building, soil erosion and slope protection from city, county and state agencies.

"There's going to be no basement and no walls along the water's edge until we see some paperwork," said Gallogly, adding Michigan Department of Environmental Quality approval process takes a minimum of 45 days.

"I don't think anything is out of control here," he said. "I think the contractor made a couple of steps without a permit."

"I believe they have every intention of making it right."

NORTHVILLE CITY POLICE REPORT

A reason to stop

A 39-year-old Dearborn man is expected in court today on drunk driving charges stemming from a March 19 traffic stop by Northville officers.

According to police reports, officers were dispatched to S. Center Street and Seven Mile Road after a witness reported to dispatch seeing a suspected drunk driver. The man was pulled over after making a prohibited left turn from Center onto Main Street, then stopping at Wing Street where there is no sign.

After a preliminary breath test indicated the man's blood alcohol content was .226, the report said officers arrested him for drunk driving and transported him to the Northville Township police station where he was held pending bond.

Gasoline larceny

Northville police are on the lookout for a white Jeep Grand Cherokee that drove away without paying for gasoline.

According to police reports, the Jeep driver pumped 5.4 gallons March 19 at the Marathon station on S. Main Street. The report said the responding officer and station attendant reviewed the security video tape seeking the license plate number.

The case remains open.

Windshield smashed

A 51-year-old Taylor woman ending her shift at a downtown restaurant found her windshield smashed and right front tire flat.

According to police reports, the woman's white Mercury Marquis, parked on the upper level of the city Cady Street deck, was damaged between 2:30-10 p.m. March 16. With no suspects, the case is inactive.

Multiple offenses

A 22-year-old Dearborn man is facing enhanced charges after his March 17 arrest by Northville police on several charges.

According to police reports, officers arrested the man for drunk driving after administering a preliminary breath test which indicated a .20 blood alcohol level. The report said they also charged him with marijuana possession and driving on a suspended license.

Officers submitted the report to the Oakland County prosecutor's office due to the man's five prior license suspensions. He was held at the Northville Township police station where officers reported his arrest to the Dearborn Heights department which held two outstanding warrants for him.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL NOTEBOOK

March 19 Meeting

Absent: Mayor Protem Carolann Ayers Next meetings: March 29, April 2

Theater site rezoned

The Northville City Council unanimously adopted an amendment to the city's zoning ordinance, allowing the 361 E. Cady Street designation to be changed from industrial to central business district. Chuck Lapham and Chuck Gaidica, owners of the two parcels on the northeast corner of Cady and Griswold streets, requested the rezoning to allow for use of the existing building as a theater to house a non-profit professional performance group.

Exploring the budget impact, city administrators pointed out the land and building currently generate about $4,600 in property taxes annually, of which $1,200 is paid to the city. Privately owned, the property remains taxable. If the building and land at some point is turned over to a non-profit corporation, it would become tax-exempt.

Planning for recreation

Concurring with a resolution passed by the Northville Township Board of Trustees March 15, the city council unanimously approved the Northville Community Recreation Master Plan 2007-2012. The council included an amendment requesting scrutiny of operational costs for feasibility before implementation of new programming.

Town square progress

In a 3-1 vote, the council agreed to pay Farmington Hills-based McCarthy & Smith Inc. from $141,160-155,160 to act as construction manager on the town square project. The city manager is authorized to execute the contract for the services, with construction scheduled this summer. Councilmember Tom Swigart voted "no," calling the project "very, very premature."

Postponing Center Street

After lengthy discussion about the retail/residential project proposed for the corner of Rayson and Center streets, the council voted unanimously to postpone a decision on preliminary approval of the planned-unit-development application. A special council meeting to consider the application was scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight.

Maintaining mutual aid

The council unanimously approved the city's involvement in the Western Wayne County Police Mutual Aid Agreement, enabling the police department to send up to three officers to assist another jurisdiction.

Naming commissioners

The council unanimously appointed Mayor Protem Carolann Ayers and Councilmember Jim Allen to the newly constituted Parks and Recreation Commission.

At the study session last Thursday, the board asked the district to investigate several alternate scenarios to the proposed plan presented from the community feedback.

"We heard from the people in Woods of Edenderry, Crestwood and Fox Hollow. They really didn't want to swing toward Moraine Elementary, so we ran some numbers if they stayed in Ridge Wood or if they went to Silver Springs," Bolitho said.

"Then we looked at the impact of changing the Northville Hills configuration, what that would do to Winchester.

I ran a lot of different scenarios," he said.

The results will be presented at this evening's Board Study Session, 7 p.m. at Old Village School.

Study sessions are open to the public and are designed for board members to discuss topics and get information they need to make decisions - but decisions are not made or voted upon during the study session. Questions from the public are addressed at the end of the sessions.

Brownfield redevelopment plan nixed on state hospital property

■ Fate of project now uncertain

By Pam Fleming
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Grant Trigger tried to quell the tide of negativity on the Highwood project Monday night. But the Real Estate Interests Group representative's words fell on deaf ears.

Members of the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority voted unanimously to not approve a plan that would have saved developers $15 million in remediation costs on the proposed residential, retail and school project on Seven Mile Road.

The more than $800 million proposal REI and Schostak Brothers & Company planned on the site of the former Northville Psychiatric Hospital is now at a standstill.

Authority members voting to not approve the plan included Christopher Roosen, chair; Judy Costigan, Shirley Klokenga, John Miller, Bill Wehrle and Joseph Xuereb.

New member Mike Hale abstained from the vote due to his lack of participation on the authority.

The audience broke out in applause when the plan was turned down.

Prior to the discussion and vote on the plan, Patrick Bell from the Atwell-Hicks engineering firm, gave a short presentation about the firm's environmental findings on the site.

The township hired the firm to provide an estimate of the cost for cleanup, demolition and removal of asbestos on the site.

"We found the quantities identified and costs were consistent with general and customary costs for this type of development," Bell said.

Conditions on the property include medical waste, asbestos, abandoned buildings, oil wells, underground storage tanks and dumping sites with old railroad ties.

What's a brownfield?

Brownfields are abandoned, idled or under-used property where expansion or redevelopment is complicated by the presence or potential presence of environmental contamination, according to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The former Northville Psychiatric Hospital site in Northville Township qualifies under this definition due to medical waste and asbestos on the property.

Several residents spoke at the meeting to again express their disapproval of not only the brownfield plan but also the project in general.

Residents' misconceptions

Some residents are still confused about what a brownfield plan is, saying that they were against a "tax abatement" or tax break for the developer.

A brownfield plan is not an abatement but a vehicle which uses tax increment financing (TIF) to offset developers' cost to clean up property.

Trigger said residents were also confused about the potential loss of school tax dollars on the property if a brownfield plan had been approved.

"The plan would have no affect on the proposed school's budget," Trigger said. "These dollars come from the state."

He also noted that although REIS put a $31.5 million bid on the property that it has no responsibility to patrol the land.

There have already been 65 fire runs, more than 100 calls to police and 45 arrests since the property has sat idle, Trigger said.

Michigan State Police also made a run to the site when it was discovered that copper tubing was being stolen from the tunnels, according to Trigger.

Owners have right to develop

Trigger said another misconception was that the authority had the power to halt the project.

"There seems to be a belief that the development can be stopped by this authority," Trigger said. "The owners intend to develop this property."

"Unfortunately, the actions of the township board on February 15 have put us in a difficult position. I fear there will be other avenues explored by the developer now to protect their interests."

Roosen said the demand for such a project in the township just doesn't exist and that the residential component is highly speculative.

"I'm sad that the state has left this property in the state that it's in," he said. "They're expecting us to fix this mess. But, I think the developer is going to have to find a more creative way to deal with the property."

REIS will request use variance before Zoning Board of Appeals

■ Next stop? Circuit court

By Pam Fleming
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Attorney Robert Carson wasn't at the last Northville Township Zoning Board of Appeals to represent a client on the March 21 agenda.

Nor was he interested in market Trader Joe's request for a cart corral and sidewalk modification — the only item on the agenda.

According to Chip Snider, township manager, he was at the meeting to get the lay of the land for his clients, Real Estate Interests Group and Schostak Brothers & Company (REIS).

On Monday, REIS presented the necessary paperwork on a request for a use variance on the over 400 acres they want to develop on the site of the former Northville Psychiatric Hospital on Seven Mile Road between Northville and Haggerty roads.

Known as Highwood, the more than $800 million proposed project would include residential, retail, a school, senior housing and more if built.

Since REIS was not pleased with the numerous conditions placed on the project at the Northville Township Board of Trustees meeting on Feb. 15, this is their next step in appealing those conditions.

REIS must seek an appeal through the Zoning Board of Appeals before pursuing a lawsuit through Wayne County Circuit Court.

"They are requesting a use variance from the ZBA to allow the property to be used as they have outlined in their PUD (Planned Unit Development) proposal rather than the conditions established by the planning commission and board of trustees," said Jennifer Frey, community development director for the township.

"It seems as though it's a rather unorthodox approach to try to bring the township in compliance with their plan," Snider said.

Saying there has been a "lull in the action," he wasn't surprised REIS decided to take this route.

"We haven't heard from them in several weeks in attempting to massage the plan," Snider said. "This is the mechanism they've chosen so they can develop the plan that they have prepared."

Must go through ZBA first

Going through the ZBA is a necessary step for the developers in the process, as they have to exhaust all of their options before appearing before a judge.

In other words, REIS has to make sure they don't put the cart before the horse, so to speak.

"They're making sure they don't make that mistake," Snider said.

REIS had no comment on their action.

Members of the township ZBA will consider REIS' request at their 7:30 p.m. April 18 meeting at township hall.

LET'S TALK Jewelry WITH GARY S. WEINSTEIN GEMOLOGIST

BLACK DIAMONDS

Black diamonds are fast gaining popularity with men. A carbonado, as it is called, is actually rarer than a colorless diamond, which is the preferred gemstone for symbolizing marital love. Compared to other fancy (colored) diamonds, black diamonds are among the youngest. According to some geologists, black diamonds were collections of carbon atoms that were squeezed into crystal form some 3.5 billion years ago. It was not until volcanoes thrust them to the surface, between 100 million and 1.1 billion years ago, that they saw the light of day. Other geologists believe that black diamonds come from meteorites. Whatever their origin, there is no denying that black diamonds are casting their spell over diamond aficionados.

Once believed by the ancients to be splinters from the stars, April's birthstone continues to capture the hearts of lovers of great beauty. Are you looking for fine diamond jewelry a cut above the rest? Look no farther than WEINSTEIN JEWELERS OF NOV! where we only choose diamonds that have the advantage of having been cut by a master lapidary (a person who cuts and polishes gemstones). Brilliant choices of all colors abound here at 41990 Grand River Ave., whether you're searching for something outstanding for a man or a woman. Redford church official defends purchase of $3M pastor's home

■ Lawyer says views 'warped'

By Pam Fleming
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Calling our society's views "warped," the general counsel for Detroit World Outreach in Redford Township defended the church's purchase of a $3.675-million home in Northville Township.

Last week, Elder Marvin Wilder said the church's congregation fully supports officials' decision to buy the luxury home off of Seven Mile Road between Ridge and Napier for Elder Ben Gibert, senior pastor, and his wife and co-pastor, Minister Charisse Gibert.

The Giberts have been married for 14 years and have four children.

Church officials have been criticized recently because of its tax-exempt status on the home, which saves the church about $40,000 a year.

"I guess people don't appreciate the fact that we purchased the home, but it was a good buy," Wilder said.

"I understand that there may be some people who are angry that we don't have to pay taxes on the property, but it is a state law, well established in precedent."

Two garages, seven bathrooms

The luxury home at 19460 Via Piazza Drive, which includes 8,368 square feet of living space above grade and a 2,996-square-foot finished basement, features two garages, five full baths, two half baths and three fireplaces, according to the township.

"It's one of the higher quality, Class A homes," said an employee in the township finance department.

Detroit World Outreach Church, which attracts about 3,000 parishioners to its services, purchased the home on Sept. 28, 2006, and did pay $40,361.40 in taxes last year.

That's because the church was not able to establish its tax exemption until this month.

"A lot of people are upset (about the tax exemption), but that's what the state statute says," said Thelma Kubitskey, township finance director.

"The uproar is because they bought a $3 million home that they don't have to pay taxes on, but we still have to provide service to (such as fire and police protection)," she said.

Kubitskey said with many taxing agencies getting a piece of the pie, that the actual loss to the township tax base is about $8,000-$9,000, not $40,000.

Handful of angry residents

Kubitskey said she received only four-five calls from residents March 19 after news of the home's tax exempt status was revealed in the media.

"When you look at the numbers, it's not a huge loss for the township. It just has other taxpayers upset. They feel like they're subsidizing the church," she said.

But Wilder said the luxury home is used for church business, such as board meetings and functions.

He noted that Gibert also pays taxes on another home he owns in Franklin.

"He is a taxpayer, and schools are funded by the state," Wilder said. "It's not like his kids are going to Northville schools for free."

Kubitskey said she realizes the church believes in wealth and that all of the paperwork was in order.

"It's more the principle of the thing," she said. "On a personal level, it's a pretty expensive home for a minister."

Wilder said that just last week "Pastor Ben," as he's called, saved someone's house from foreclosure.

"Every week we do that," Wilder said.

"People can shoot a ball through a hoop or putt a ball into a hole, make millions of dollars, and no one says a thing," Wilder said.

"But, they don't think a pastor should live the kind of life that a professional basketball player or golfer does. That shows how warped our views are. People of the church are held to a different standard."

Pam Fleming is a staff writer for the Northville Record. She can be reached at (248) 349-1700, ext. 105, or by e-mail at pfleming@gannett.com.

Who are Pastors Ben and Charisse Gibert?

According to the Detroit World Outreach church's Web site, Pastor Ben Gibert is known in many fellowships around the country as "The Accelerator" as it has been said that there is an anointing on his life that "accelerates" destiny and the plan of God in the lives of those that receive it.

Ben Gibert

He has a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from the General Motors Institute, a master's degree in science and business administration from Stanford University in California and 25 years of experience in the auto industry.

As senior pastor, president and CEO of Detroit World Outreach, he founded the Men of Valor Bible Study, which has been annexed into four other fellowships across the nation and in Canada.

Pastor Charisse Gibert has been involved in ministry for more than 17 years.

She has a bachelor's degree in journalism and a minor in art, advertising and design from Prairie View A&M University in Prairie View, Texas. She has also completed postgraduate courses toward a master's degree in counseling and Biblical studies.

An FCC-licensed broadcaster, she has worked in Christian FM and AM radio as a broadcaster, show host and deejay. In 2004, she completed her first book, "A Wise Woman Builds Her House," and has ghost written two published books and edited several book manuscripts.

Pastor Charisse assists her husband at Detroit World Outreach, where she founded the Woman of Virtue women's ministry.

Compost pick-up: City's program resumes Monday

■ Gather leaves, twigs, clippings and brush — only

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Rake away, this weekend. Weekly curbside pickup of residential yard waste resumes in the city Monday and Tuesday. So, residents can rid their yards of soggy leaves, twigs and dead plants and clear the way for spring growth.

Meanwhile, inspired gardeners can make their way to the city's compost pile to stock up on organic matter produced from last fall's leaves.

"People are so excited, they've been out working their yards," said Becky Dozier, clerk for the Northville Department of Public Works.

Starting next week, residents should place compost materials at the curb in separate containers on their regular trash pick-up days.

The city's compost pick-up program, which runs through Dec. 11, has specific guidelines for participation.

"No plastic bags is the biggest thing," Dozier said. "Containers must be 50 pounds or less, meaning manageable for one person to lift."

"We will not take sod and dirt or gravel that's sometimes in with plantings."

Also, she said pet waste belongs in paper bags in with the regular garbage, not set out for composting.

"The other thing is, do not rake debris into the street," Dozier said. The city doesn't send out the street sweeper to clean up after residents' yard raking, she said.

Meanwhile, the city offers compost material for free to gardeners who supply and load their own containers. The city yard at 650 Doheny Drive is open 7 a.m.-3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

City crews produce the material through the composting process of turning leaves collected during fall leaf collection. Public works staff members use the organic matter to improve soils in landscaping city parks,

Compost rules

Guidelines for the city residential compost collection program are:

- What to Compost — Grass clippings, leaves, yard and garden waste (excluding pumpkins), pruning debris and brush.
- Containers — Thirty-gallon paper compost bags or 35-gallon reusable containers with sturdy handles marked with "compost" or an "X," without lids.

Stickers for reusable containers are available from the public works department in city hall or from the city hall vestibule, which is open 24 hours a day.

No containers over 50 pounds or over 35 gallons in size. No plastic bags.

- Materials not acceptable — Twigs, branches, brush, and pruning debris must be tied with twine into bundles no longer than three feet in length and two inches in diameter or weighing more than 50 pounds. Trees are not accepted.
- Materials not acceptable — Food scraps, animal waste, chemicals, pumpkins or sod.

IT'S ALWAYS SOMETHING

Talk to the man: Corriveau in town first Fridays

Hey, no raking into the street! Pull out those oversized paper bags and load them with the leaves, twigs and plant debris you've cleared from your yard. The city's composting program resumes next week!

All kinds of signs that spring is in the air recently ... Not just the green sprouts from bulbs popping in planting beds all around town. But sights such as the mom dropping her Meads Mill Middle School student at the curb last week. She emerged from her white SUV clad only in a silky pink-and-white polka dot robe ...

And how about those white tablecloths flapping in the breeze on NOMI's patio? Like downtown staple, Poole's Tavern, they seated diners outside, taking advantage of the warmer temperatures.

Speaking of springtime ... get to Maybury Farm to visit the new babies — two new lambs, one last week and one three weeks ago, and daily arrival of chicks.

And finally, on the spring watch ... will the water wheel soon start turning again at the former Ford valve plant? It's such a nostalgic sight. It just makes the town appear more industrious ...

Yes, that was a siren you heard in the city yesterday. No emergency — just the public safety test of the tornado siren as part of Severe Weather Awareness Week.

Stop in for a free sample, says Kim Behmer ... Every Saturday from noon-4 p.m., the American Spoon owner offers a dessert or hors d'oeuvres for patrons to taste while they learn how to prepare them with the gourmet food store products. Yum!

How much does Joann Inglis believe in the Allen Terrace quality of life? The departing housing director has her mom on the waiting list ...

Hey, they'll even come to pick them up! The Friends of the Northville District Library is looking for donations for their annual used book sale. OK, the fund-raiser isn't until May 31-June 3, but they're gathering non-fiction and other good-condition books now! No encyclopedias. Call (248) 349-3020.

No knock on the canister collection ... but c'mon, it's been in the city hall showcase for a while. Someone in Northville must have a collection they want to show off. Contact the city clerk to reserve a month ...

Speaking of city hall ... administrators followed up on recent complaints regarding access to the senior center service pantry during drop-in board and card games. Word is ... the majority of card players indicated they are happy with the service and the policy. And yes, to play still costs a buck.

For everyone working on their taxes ... investment advisor Nicholas Hopwood's weekly newsletter cited interesting tidbits about deductions found in recent Kiplinger.com report. Oddball deductions included pet food, body oil and free beer. Courts ruled junkyard owners could deduct the cost of the food they set out for wild cats, which helped control rat and snake populations, making the location safer for customers. And while body oil was a legitimate business expense for professional body builders because it helps make their muscles glisten, free beer became a legitimate expense for a gas station owner who gave it away to customers. Hopwood noted this information is not intended as tax advice nor should it be taken as such.

Here's a man reaching out to his constituents ... Beginning in April, state representative Marc Corriveau will hold in-district office hours on the first Monday, first Friday and third Monday of every month. For hometown residents ... the first Friday of every month, Corriveau will be in Meeting Room B of the Northville City Hall, 215 W. Main St. from 10-11 a.m. Talk to the man.

City vacancy: Director steps down from Allen Terrace

Housing commissioners commend Inglis' compassion

By Maureen Johnston
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Joann Inglis is saying good-bye to 100 families.

The housing director has settled dozens of seniors into Allen Terrace apartments, supervised a million-dollar renovation project and managed day-to-day operation of the city-owned 100-unit building.

Now, she's looking for a new challenge.

The city posted the position last week. But Allen Terrace already was buzzing with change afoot.

"I kind of feel a little sad to see her go," said Jacqueline Bousha, a resident and member of the supervisory housing commission. "But I'm happy for her."

"She's not just a director, but a personal friend."

Time to move on

Nearly eight years ago, the city's seven-member housing commission, including the late Butch Casterline, interviewed Inglis for the job.

"I came because of (Casterline)," Inglis recalled. "He was so gracious during the hiring process. (Former city manager) Gary Word, too."

"I really appreciate the last seven years and the opportunity I've had. I will always appreciate what a great place this is — Allen Terrace and the city."

Inglis' 1999 jump from the private to the public sector landed her in an idyllic work setting. She complimented co-workers, the supervisory housing commission and city leaders.

Her new position with Fenton-based Premier Property Management, starting April 1, will take her into apartment communities throughout southeastern Michigan.

"I really enjoy working on policy, compliance and training — working with a new company will give me that opportunity," Inglis said. "It's just time for me to move on in my career."

"It was not an easy decision."

Attention to detail

Housing commissioner Bob Buckhave called Inglis "boringly dependable."

"She was so consistent she doesn't stand out, but she does one fantastic job," he said. "She's so careful and so efficient, she doesn't make mistakes."

"To do a job efficiently and still be liked, that's not easy to do."

Buckhave said Inglis followed through on the goal of creating a comfortable home for area senior citizens in the city-owned complex.

"Her whole job is to make sure 100 families are well taken care of," he said. "They're our resi-

Allen Terrace overview

Located at the top of High Street, Allen Terrace is an apartment community for active senior citizens, 55 years and older. Built in 1978, the city-owned facility has 98 one-bedroom apartments and two two-bedroom apartments. The rent for a one-bedroom apartment is $598 per month. Allen Terrace has no income requirements. Allen Terrace accepts applications from all interested persons, although preference is given to City of Northville residents, Northville Township residents, their parents and grandparents. For more information, call (248) 349-8030.

Wisdom of experience

The Northville Record headline, "Avocado no more," forever earmarked the 2003 Allen Terrace renovation for Inglis, when outdated kitchen countertops were removed as part of the project. "Seeing the whole building updated was a big accomplishment for the housing commission and I'm glad to be part of it," she said. Another highlight: Instituting an annual July

Resident Appreciation Week. As ambassador to the city housing complex, Inglis ushered in a new resident once a month on average. "A number of people have been here since before I came," she said. "I think 75 percent of the apartments have moved in the seven years." "It doesn't feel like that when I think about the people." During her tenure, Inglis said she has emphasized independent senior living. Outside agencies, like Northville-based Comfort Keepers, provide services to Allen Terrace residents from regular companionship to dispensing medication. "I've come to realize it's best to age in place," she said. "That's the best way to go." "It's what I would want for my parents, it's what I would want for myself." Hooper and Bousha cited Inglis' uncommon compassion for her aging clientele. iors," Bousha said. "She always personally answered all of our complaints in a timely manner." Hooper said the commission will look for a replacement as organized and efficient as Inglis. "It's a great day for whoever's getting Joann," she said. "But, it's a sad day for the City of Northville."

Northville harpist to perform April 15 at St. Paul's Lutheran

Jazz trio slated in concert series

By Pam Fleming
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Harpist Christa Grix of Northville said she fell under the spell of the instrument during her first lesson at age 16.

"I was first introduced to it while a sophomore at Mercy High School in Farmington Hills, because they had a harp," Grix said. "As soon as I played it, I knew that was what I wanted to play. I fell in love with it."

It must have been fate that she ended up at Mercy, since not many high schools have harps because of the expense, said Grix. A good harp can cost from $10,000-$30,000.

Local residents can enjoy Grix's musical talent when she presents a one-hour performance at 4 p.m. Sunday, April 15, at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 201 Elm Street in Northville.

She will perform with other members of her jazz trio Christa Grix and Friends — Ann Arbor residents Kurt Krahnke on bass and Pete Siers on drums.

The event, which is free and open to the public, is part of the church's concert series.

Interest in jazz came first

Grix said she became interested in jazz even earlier than she did the harp when she heard a jazz performance at age 14 at Mercy High School.

A native of Farmington, Grix studied classical music at Michigan State University and Boston University.

The two influences have shaped but not limited her explorations and accomplishments on the instrument.

Now a professional harpist for 25 years, she said she's still mesmerized by the harp.

"It's beautiful to see and beautiful to hear, and it never stops being a challenge to play," she said. "It takes a lot of dedication and commitment to become a harpist."

She will also perform on Wednesday, April 4, at Rose Point Unitarian Church in Grosse Pointe. And, on Saturday, April 14, she will play at Trinity Episcopal Church in Lexington, Mich.

"I teach in the summers in Colorado, and I'm a freelancer, so I go where people want to hear me play," she said. "It's a full-time profession for me."

Plays both jazz and classical

Equally adept as both a jazz and classical musician, she can make the transition from the jazz rhythm section to the symphonic string section sound effortless.

The appeal and respect her music generates has taken her throughout the U.S., Canada and Europe as an invited soloist and clinician at all the major harp festivals and conferences.

Grix released her first jazz harp recording, "Freefall," in 1996, on the Freefall Music label. Her second recording, "Check to Chic," was released in 2002.

She is chair of the American

Harp Society's National Conference in 2008 and is on the faculty of the Rocky Mountain Springs Conservatory, in Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Grix is married to graphic artist Michael Mullen. They live in Northville with their son, Brendan.

Mullen formed the Baseline Folk Society in Northville, which has open mic nights during which amateur musicians can play at the Northville Art House.

"We do that as a fun project and a contribution to the community," Grix said. "It gives area musicians who don't have a chance to perform professionally to play. That's one of the things we've done that I'm most proud of."

In her spare time Grix admits to being a voracious reader. "I read anything I can get my hands on," she said.

Physical Therapy Rehabilitation Update

SMOKING CAN WORSEN KNEE OSTEOARTHRITIS

Osteoarthritis sufferers who smoke may be putting the health of their knees in further jeopardy. New research suggests that among men with knee arthritis, the smokers report more pain and are twice as likely to suffer significant loss of knee cartilage. It is this elastic tissue that cushions the ends of the bones. In people with osteoarthritis, the most common form of arthritis, the cartilage breaks down, leading to inflammation, pain, and bone deformity. While previous studies have indicated that smokers may be at greater risk for developing osteoarthritis, the most recent study is the first to suggest that the condition may be more severe in smokers after arthritis develops. Thus, physical therapists encourage their patients to quit the habit.

If you smoke, it is in your best interest to quit for your own health and the health of loved ones around you. By now nearly everyone is aware of the serious and long-term harmful effects of smoking. Speak to your physical therapist about information and methods for breaking the habit. If you have questions about anything discussed in today's column, please call our office during business hours at 248.349.9339. We are located at 215 East Main, Suite B. New patients are welcome.

BE SCENE IN NORTHVILLE

SPELL-BINDING

Bob Ketterer is Northville's champion. One of the hometown representatives, he took third place at last Tuesday's third annual Senior Spelling Bee at the Northville Senior Community Center.

Highland resident Jeanette Morris, representing Milford, triumphed in the 11th round of the event, correctly spelling the words "desiccated," then "euthanasia," besting 17 competitors.

South Lyon's Gil Sievert took second after entertaining spectators with wisecracks throughout the hour-long competition. In the final rounds, he joked about a word Morris spelled correctly earlier,

"Any lady that can spell testosterone is going to be a tough nut to crack."

After a series of elimination rounds, Sievert slipped when faced with the challenge of spelling "altazimuth," an instrument for determining both the altitude and the azimuth of a heavenly body. Ketterer misstepped on "streptococcus," omitting the "t."

Morris rose to the challenge of accurately spelling two words in a row for the win.

The top three finishers earned gift certificates to local restaurants Baker's of Milford, Applebee's and Olive Garden.

1 - Northville's Bob Ketterer received third place in this past week's Senior Spelling Bee at the Northville Senior Community Center.

2 - Highland resident Jeanette Morris smiles as she wins the 2007 Senior Spelling Bee after spelling the word "euthanasia."

3 - South Lyon's Vivian Buckler says "shoot" as she misspells the word "accessible."

6 - Highland Senior Center representative Richard Gagnon reacts as he misspells the word "ptomaine."

Local resident to be inducted into Journalism Hall of Fame

■ Reports led to two men being freed from prison

By Pam Fleming
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Innocent men have been freed and corrupt judges removed from the bench because of Gene Fogel's relentless pursuit of the truth.

These are just two reasons the Northville resident and WJR-AM radio news reporter will be inducted into the Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame this year.

Winners will be honored at a banquet on Saturday, April 14, at The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

The Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame recognizes reporters, editors, publishers, owners, photographers, broadcasters and educators who have made outstanding contributions to the profession.

Since 1985, the Journalism Hall of Fame has continued the tradition of honoring journalists begun in 1952 by the Michigan Newspaper Hall of Fame.

Started with WJR in 1971

Fogel has been with WJR-AM 760 in Detroit since 1971, the same year he moved to Northville. He won the prestigious Peabody Award for a series of reports on the corruption in the Detroit Federal Bankruptcy Court.

The reports led to the removal of two out of three judges plus the arrest and conviction of two court clerks and the city's leading bankruptcy attorney.

He also received the Silver Gavel Award from the Michigan Bar Association for a series on flawed bite mark evidence which led to two men serving life prison terms being freed after being wrongly

How he got the court story

Gene Fogel did some of his award-winning reporting at WJR Radio when his beat was the federal court.

"I went to federal court every day," he said. One day he got word that the FBI was conducting an investigation in the federal bankruptcy court. The court had three judges who heard cases through a blind draw card system.

The illegal activity began when a local bankruptcy attorney started dating the court clerk in charge of the card system. "He bought her an apartment and a car," Fogel said.

As a result of the romantic relationship between the attorney and the clerk, "He always had the most generous judges," Fogel said.

convicted in a brutal rape case.

The men, who served 10 and 14 years, respectively, both won retrials and were cleared of any wrongdoing.

Fogel's reports also led to him receiving the annual Advancement of Justice Award from the State Bar of Michigan. In 2005, he won the Associated Press' Lifetime Achievement Award.

Worked in radio since 1966

Born in Detroit and raised in River Rouge, Fogel was the first person in his family to go to college.

"At the time, you had to carry a 2.0 average to stay in school," he said. "I took a class in public speaking my first semester and got an A on it. I thought, 'Wow, I don't want to flunk out of college. Maybe I'll take another speech class.'"

As fate would have it, the only class available in the speech department the next semester was Introduction to Radio and Television Broadcasting.

"It was like lightning striking me," Fogel said.

He graduated from Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo in 1963 and has worked in Detroit radio news since 1966.

In charge of the newsroom internship program at WJR for 25 years, he currently teaches two broadcasting classes at Oakland University in Rochester and assists with the campus radio station.

He said working with young people is a passion, and he enjoys seeing students move on to have successful careers in broadcasting and journalism. He's also a finalist in the 2007 Excellence in Teaching Award at the university.

Fogel, 66, took a retirement package last year after 35 years at WJR and now only works noon-7 p.m. Saturdays.

Rod Hansen, a WJR reporter who worked with him on the bankruptcy court and bite mark reports, nominated Fogel to the Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame.

"I was stunned," Fogel said about learning of the induction. "I didn't even know I'd been nominated."

Fogel said making a difference, whether it be uncovering corruption or getting people out of jail, has been the most rewarding aspect of his career.

"I think it's the role of the press to be the watchdogs of society," he said. "It's up to us to explain things to citizens and hold elected officials accountable."

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the home towns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

By the people and for the people

The role of elected and appointed officials in a democracy is to listen to their constituents and act accordingly.

Members of the Northville Township Planning Commission, Board of Trustees and Brownfield Redevelopment Authority have done just that in their decisions concerning the proposed multi-million-dollar Highwood project on the site of the former Northville Psychiatric Hospital on Seven Mile Road.

By voting Monday night to not approve a brownfield redevelopment plan and reimbursement plan for developers Real Estate Interests and Schostak Brothers & Company (REIS), members of the Brownfield Redevelopment Authority followed the voice of the people.

As one resident put it at an earlier authority meeting, "If you want us mad at you, then approve this."

More than once, residents spoke out against the township assisting developers in providing tax increment financing for several years to help them pay for remediation of the property.

Not only did they loudly express their opinions against the brownfield redevelopment and reimbursement plans but against the project in general.

Christopher Roosen, chairman, Brownfield Redevelopment Authority, said in denying the brownfield plan that one reason the township is not in favor of providing tax dollars to the project is the fact that leaders just don't see the demand for it.

In a shaky Michigan economy, with property values already down, why build another 1,000 homes off Seven Mile Road? Concerns have also been expressed about increased traffic on an already heavily-traveled road in the township.

Many residents and authority members also expressed their thoughts on the fact that the developers "got a good deal" on the property with their $31.5 million bid, so why should taxpayers help them "foot the bill" to tear down abandoned buildings and clean up hazardous waste on the property?

Authority member Joseph Xuereb in his denial of the brownfield plan said, "We've heard opposition from residents, and they have real, tangible concerns. I haven't heard one positive comment about it. Nobody has a kind word to say." Xuereb also commented that there have been a lot of things that have offended the community about how the development is being proposed.

"They can't agree with our board or our planning commission on our ordinances," he said.

In the end, as authority member Shirley Klokenga said, "I think the developers can do their job without the township's help."

The flip side of the coin is that the developers do have the right to develop the property. And, they are already taking steps to seek an appeal on conditions imposed on the project through the Zoning Board of Appeals in April, with the next step being litigation in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Ultimately, what happens with the Highwood project is probably going to be up to a judge.

In the meantime, township leaders are doing what they feel is in the best interests of their constituents — the taxpayers of Northville Township.

In the end, those are the only people they have to answer to, and we applaud the courage and commitment they have displayed in making their decisions on the proposed Highwood development.

Michigan's budget crisis: Opportunity for real leadership

There is great angst and anxiety in Michigan today. Seems that every economic indicator one looks at is heading in the wrong direction. Home foreclosures, bankruptcies and unemployment (if you can sell) and personal income are down and the domestic auto industry and auto suppliers are shedding jobs like many of us wish we could peel off a few pounds. And the very jobs that we believe are our future and salvation are pulling up stakes and leaving town as well. Comerica is heading west, Chrysler may go east to China, while Pfizer's departure from Michigan has many of their employees, and local and state government officials heading to the medicine cabinet.

No job sector or region of our state is immune from the rapidly changing, disruptive information and technological world in which we exist.

The state budget is shambles with the budget deficit for this fiscal year hovering at nearly a billion dollars.

Last September, I, in an earlier column, said that after the 2006 election Lansing politicians would discover the budget was out of whack.

Specifically, I wrote in part: "The state budget that has not been solvent enough to provide significant increases to education over the past three years and lo and behold, in an election year when nothing has improved economically, suddenly there is money available? There is an old Southern saying that seems to fit: 'This dog don't hunt!'... Could it be that the budget is nothing more than an election year shell game to pull the wool over the voters eyes by providing increases (in theory) to politically popular programs in a cynical attempt to garner votes? Hmm? It is the classic shell game that will leave Michigan citizens without the promised services after the election? If so, responses will go from "hmm" to "How did that happen?"

As we all know, looking in the rearview mirror will not take us boldly into the future. The current debate in our state capital is revolving around "revenue enhancements" aka, tax increase and program cuts to help balance the state budget and provide the resources to invest in worker retraining and funding for our K-12 schools, community colleges and universities.

Yet, even the increased revenue being discussed is anemic as a true investment in educating our citizenry to be competitive in the 21st century knowledge economy. Even if Governor Granholm is successful in selling her 2 cent tax increase in services, schools across the state will still be facing deficit spending, cut backs and layoffs because the $178 per pupil increase will be absorbed by ever-increasing health and pension costs. The meager increases to Community Colleges and Universities will not be enough to stop the escalating costs of obtaining a higher education that is pricing many middle class students out of hope and opportunity.

If Michigan is going to retool for the future it is going to take bold decisive leadership that will force wholesale restructuring of our schools, community colleges, universities, county and municipal governments. Michigan's governmental structures at all levels were constructed at a different time and are no longer sustainable in today's environment. The sooner that our elected leaders come to this conclusion and take action to right-size government at all levels to fit this new reality, the better off we all will be. There is not enough tax revenue to address our problems without significant and fundamental restructuring and reform — period! Perhaps we can paraphrase a line from President Clinton's first Presidential bid: "It is not the revenue — it is the structure — stupid!"

Further, Michigan needs an International/Asia Economic Plan to ride the Asia economic wave that is coming out of the East. Here we are seven years into the 21st century and no statewide elected leader has been to Russia, India or China, where 3 Billion new capitalist and consumers exist, to tap this rich economic vein. We have the academic, business and professional talent in our rich ethnic communities to develop such a plan rapidly. Such a plan could serve as a blueprint that would enable Michigan to construct a two-way bridge between our state and these developing nations that would also help Michigan workers and families benefit from their rise. None exists today. This is juxtaposed with other states and nations that are working their plan and have been riding the eastern economic wave.

Without fundamental change, led by courageous and creative thinkers, Michigan will continue its slide and become an economic backwater, lose jobs and people and become an international exhibit of what was once an economic powerhouse from the bygone 20th century. It is our collective job to stop Michigan from becoming a rusted-out shell of its former greatness. Real change, requires real change.

Leadership matters and it is desperately needed in Michigan today. Further, the families struggling to pay the bills and educate their children don't care if the leadership comes from the left or the right — as long as it comes, and soon.

Lansing, Detroit continue political dances

Dressed in elaborate costumes, faces hidden behind stylized masks, the actors in the famous Japanese theater art form known as Kabuki engage in conflict and ritualized dramas of complex.

The term, "Kabuki dance," has come to mean a set of stylized, posturing maneuvers in which the performers act as if they will be hostile toward each other — even though everybody understands perfectly well that things will have to be worked out in the end. Everybody's benefit depends on it.

We observed last week two classical Kabuki dances performed, in our own unique form of theater, the political arena of the state capital. In Lansing, both Democrats and Republicans declared each other's proposals for resolving the state's $940 million budget deficit dead on arrival. Gov. Jennifer Granholm announced she would veto the $630 million in spending cuts and accounting changes passed by the Republican-controlled state Senate. The Senate contemptuously rejected the governor's proposed two cent sales tax on services.

Then they all repeated the play's classic and expected lines. Republicans called the governor's tax plan a further blow to the state's fragile economy and mocked her "the sky is falling" portrait of the state's deep financial troubles. The governor said the GOP cuts would hurt kids and local government services and criticized the "cut taxes at any cost" ideology of the Republican base.

One highlight of the GOP plan: The senators would cut state funding for the public schools by $34 per pupil from the current minimum appropriation of $7,085. Most, but not all districts, have enough fund balance to survive — barely — the cut. Schools, however, fix their costs early on, commit to spending decisions, and would find it terrifically hard to make cuts this far into the school year.

Local governments would also take a $40 million hit in revenue sharing payments, which already have been slashed by around $500 million since the state's economy began to soften in 2000. And so it is back to the drawing board. Meanwhile in Detroit on Friday, the Detroit School Board voted 6-5 to reject a plan to close more than two dozen schools, after a chaotic and contentious meeting that left no one happy.

Interim Superintendent Lamont Satchel told the board that failing to close schools would result in 1,800 employees being laid off. Worse, it could put the system in the grips of a state-required deficit-elimination plan that would require shutting up to 50 schools by 2010.

But not only did they not listen, board members declined to hear a presentation on the district's financial condition.

Opponents of the closure plan said it would hurt children forced to move to different schools. They also argued that the Detroit Federation of Teachers and members of the community should have been involved in preparing the closure plan.

They argued that any final decisions should wait until the arrival of new Superintendent, Connie Calloway. And board President Jimmy Womack said some board members were playing politics with their votes with an eye on their re-election campaigns.

None of this was calculated to reassure anyone about the quality of leadership. In the best of the state's largest city, the drama overwhelmed the financial realities.

The cold hard facts are that the state faces an enormous deficit in this fiscal year's budget, which must be solved before Sept. 30. The Detroit schools, already facing massive enrollment drops and reductions in state per-pupil aid have stark but clear choices: Cut costs, lay off staff — or do some of both.

Most political insiders, whether in Lansing or in Detroit, see these Kabuki dances for what they are:

About Phil Power

Phil Power is a longtime observer of politics, economics and education issues in Michigan, and was a regent of the University of Michigan from 1987 to 1999. He is also president and founder of The Center for Michigan, a moderate think-and-do tank. These opinions and others expressed in his columns are his own and do not in any way represent official policy positions of The Center for Michigan. Phil would be pleased to hear from readers at ppower@cnnet.com.

Posturing for popularity before highly motivated constituency groups, whether rabid anti-taxers or angry parents. And most political insiders understand full well that at the end of the dance-drama, consequences will have to be faced and some accommodation to reality will have to happen.

But you cannot blame ordinary folks for failing to understand what all this saber-rattling is all about. Looking on from the outside, dimly aware that we have major problems, the average person has to be wondering why their leaders can't find common ground.

Worse, repeated charades of this sort contribute to cynicism about our governments. They increase Joe and Josephine Average's suspicions that all this is just more political posturing.

All this came home to me last Friday morning when I spoke at a session at the Southeastern Council of Governments, the main local government association for the Detroit metro area.

Most participants were throwing up their hands in frustration at yet another cut in their already stretched budgets. But most also said they would soldier on, trying to make do with ever-thinning resources, doing their best to be good and responsible public servants.

Suddenly I wondered whether being responsible was the responsible thing to do. Or whether declaring that, yes, this is a crisis wasn't exactly the appropriate remedy to legislative irresponsibility and repeated budgetary Kabuki dances.

If cities have already slashed their recreation departments in the face of repeated budget cuts, why not just shut down all recreation programs and say that's it — until those who get voted into office are willing to make the hard decisions and ask the voters to pay. If cities have had to slash their police force beyond anything reasonable thanks to budget cuts, announce that fine, there will be no more day-time policing on the streets. And so forth.

Certainly, the profound instinct of serious, professional government officials is to try to make do, to carry on in the face of financial difficulties. It's the responsible, diligent thing to do. But it also enables elected officials to be irresponsible and continue to refuse to come to grips with the financial realities. Budget cuts have consequences. And if they are layoffs, school closures and elimination of public services, so be it.

Doing that just might push the political actors on our stage to take off their costumes and their masks and get down to business in the first act rather than waiting for the final curtain. That's a curtain, by the way, that Michigan very much needs to avoid.

Not Time for Thayer's Corner Park

In contrast to your editorial of March 22, I completely support the township's Board of Trustees decision to pass on the grant application for Thayer's Corners Park at this time.

Let's look at the facts. There is a Parks and Recreation Master Plan. Opening Thayer's Corners at this time is not in the plan. Can the plan be changed? Certainly, by following a well-documented process, which includes measuring the need for the facility and defining what it will be. That has not been done for this facility, at least not yet.

The statement by a loosely organized citizens group that there will be no operating costs is not credible. The "Friends of Thayer's Corners Park" has not presented its paperwork, membership list, or even proven that contributions are tax deductible. They presented no resolution by their Board pledging the startup money, nor did they "show us the money".

As far as I can see, the broad support cited in the editorial has so far consisted of 2 people speaking to the board, 3 members of the board, and 2 letters to the editor, one from the lady who addressed the board, the other from the wife of one of those board members.

In contrast, the dog park advocates spent three years attending board meetings, rallying support, and were finally granted use of 4 acres at Community Park. The $23,000 startup cost was loaned to the park by the board, and is required to be repaid from user fees. Operating costs are 100 percent covered by those same fees. The dog park complies with the board's often stated "Pay to Play" policy.

"Pay to Play" is becoming more and more important as we watch Ford, Pfizer, and Visteon shrink, and our region's economy decline. This community has homes in foreclosure, empty storefronts and empty commercial space, and hundreds of premium empty builder's lots which are not being built. Charging ahead with the grant application with so much uncertainty at this time would have been unwise. The township Board of Trustees made the right decision.

Thayer's Corner - Concept Versus Reality

A funny thing, indeed, happened regarding Thayer's Corner. At the February meeting, the Board reluctantly agreed to schedule a public hearing on a plan most saw for the first time that evening (unusual). At the March meeting, the public hearing was opened, and low and behold, an "altered plan" was handed out which was lacking operational costs and details that the majority of the board felt was critical before moving forward.

There's a valid reason for process and evaluation; everything from operational and development costs to environmental conditions that should be available, and known, before we commit to applying for a grant. None of the critical information and data was available at last week's meeting.

When the relocation of the barn was completed in 2005, the board was in agreement that Thayer's Park would remain closed until 1) the operational expenses and revenues were determined, 2) the money was available in the budget, and 3) that our partners - the City of Northville were on board. These conditions were important because of the challenges we were facing in paying for operational costs of our open, existing parks. None of the above has been accomplished!

I believe that our constituents expect us to do our homework before presenting their hard-earned money, no matter the amount, and want the board to exercise fiscal responsibility. Instead of discrediting the four trustees (Mark Abbo, Sue Hillebrand, Richard Henningsen and Chris Ruosen) for their decision to table the proposal, why not ask the "Friends" group why they didn't come better prepared with a thorough business plan?

There were outstanding issues that even the new Friends group didn't have time to address; the projected operating costs being the biggest question mark, as well as projected revenue and programming for the park.

Is the Thayer's Corner proposal a good idea? In concept, absolutely, it's a great idea and I hope that we can move forward and open a portion of the park for our citizen's enjoyment. If the critical financial issues can be satisfied, and a solid plan to develop, open and operate the park is presented, I'll be the first to reconsider my decision.

Citizen Input Needed for Thayer's Corner

Dear Northville Community (Township and City residents), On the evening of March 15, 2007, the Northville Board of Trustees (BOT) considered a motion to start development of Thayer's Corner Park, deemed a passive park. The beginning grounds were to include a community plot garden space (for those of you who want a garden but can't grow one in your subdivision), nature walking paths (other than Maybury or Hines Park), horse trails cuthrough to Maybury, deck overlook for pond, various other farm style inclined attractions and to keep operating expenses (once opened) at or near $0 to $200 for the Township and City. We were considering applying for a MDNR grant that would have given the park $50,000, Friends of Northville Parks & Rec granting $25,000 (with no strings attached) and requesting $25,000 from the Township for a total of $100,000. The board voted 4-3 to deny the application process and cease park development. The Supervisor stated he hasn't seen or heard any residents wanting this park available.

My request is this. If you would like any of these amenities available for your future use at this park, the BOT needs to hear from you either in-person, at a BOT meeting, telephone or e-mail for the next 12 months (date of next grant application). It's up to you.

Dreams Comes True in Northville

I would like to offer the town of Northville a giant thank you! You see, I moved to Northville one year and six months ago to start a new improved life. That I did! I stumbled through this town on accident and never left! I stopped due to a traffic jam to let my dog out to go to the bathroom. When I arrived at the park I asked an older man sitting on the bench, is this ok for my dog to wander? "Why yes young lady," he said "but why don't you cross over that bridge right there instead." I walked over the bridge and to my amazement there was a beautiful version of Green Field Village just for this town! Six weeks later I moved to Northville.

My dream was to open a massage therapy center. I sat in Star Bucks day dreaming. Time went on and I kind of forgot about my dream thinking maybe one day. As I walked around town wondering if this place was really for me. I begin to meet the people that would change my life forever. People who lived by the Motto of Pay it forward! People who truly lived by the Secret!

I soon met a woman, an angel name Carol Livermore and her friend Dr. Gail Majcher. They took me under their wing and introduced me to Dr. Jacques Martin-Downs and Doug Bingham and Dr. Dennis Engerer. I soon met Dr. Gary Greenly my dentist, again who wanted to call his good friend Dennis to help me. I met Kathy Ponder, Kathy Datallo and all the girls from St. Mary Mercy hospital! Kathy Bailey, a truly inspiring lady! There is so many, many more the town is filled with inspiring, helpful people!

When I didn't believe in myself...these people went out of their way to help me believe my dreams can come true! If you ever have a problem asking for help, walk through Northville for a minute you won't be able to refuse, they live on a mission to pay good forward!

They took me to their church and little by little my life started to unfold from the rock bottom I was at two years ago in another town and certainly a nother place to a proud 29 year old woman business owner in this amazing town of Northville. I cry when I think about how much God has blessed me to stumble upon little of Northville and all of its' people. I want to Thank everyone by offering Champagne, Wine, Chocolate fountain, and Horderves in a Celebration of a great town on April 2nd from 4pm- 8pm. 311 E. Main Street, Northville, Main Street Massage of Northville

This will be the last year for this little of 'house, because just like Northville, bigger and better things are to come fourth right here on this location! Just ask Dennis Engerer!

Sincerely With all my Thanks and Love,

Nicole Lee Salesky

Fund Repairs, Not Research

Only some three years ago Northville couldn't afford even $36,000 to keep our police and fire dispatch and other emergency services in town.

Now we seem to be hemorrhaging money, including over $200,000 reportedly already spent just for studies for a proposed 4 million dollar downtown redesign/rebuild project touted to lure visitors and tourists here for free events at Ford Field hosted by Parks and Recreation and our arts commission.

Did we really just spend $40,000 for yet another "feel good" study which yielded a 10 point questionnaire asking such pertinent questions as "If Northville were a song, what type of music would it be?" and "If Northville was a flower, what flower would it be?"

Pinch me folks, this had got to be a bad dream! This is all DDA/merchant based tax money. What we have already spent for studies alone would have gone a long way toward more appropriate essentials to revitalize the downtown, including an attractive, much needed (and quick) inch of resurfacing for cracked, patched and unsightly downtown streets; repairs for humped and heaving downtown sidewalks; a couple more CBD refuse dumpsters and perhaps a couple simple (and noticeable) signs informing visitors and shoppers where our public restrooms are and when they are open.

ARE SCHOOL BOUNDARY CHANGES AFFECTING STUDENTS, PARENTS AND PROPERTY VALUES, AND CAN WE BETTER UTILIZE OUR NEW MULTIPURPOSE ROOMS?

The Northville Public School Board has been through parents, students and voters on a roller coaster ride. In 2004 the voters approved a $35.7 million bond proposal for building additions and general improvements. In February of 2006 the school board was asking the voters to approve another $ 70.67 million bond proposal which included $25.24 million for a new seventh elementary school. The new school would address our future growth needs. The school property was on Napier Road, near the landfill, on property that would be purchased from Northville Township. Many voters did not agree with the location or the fact that it was costing Northville Township residents to purchase the property twice. The bond proposal was turned down by the voters.

The School Board is now communicating to parents and voters that apparently since the bond proposal failed, they must change the school boundaries in order to balance the growth, or even the possibility of a decline in enrollment for the new school year, due to economic factors. Portable classrooms may have to be brought in at a cost of $255,000. Most of the population growth would take place in the northwest and southwest corners of the school district, since this is where most of the new subdivisions and vacant land exists. These areas feed the Thornton Creek School in the northern section of the district and the Ridge Wood School in the southern part of the district. Therefore the students who attend these two schools and their parents are the most effected by the constant boundary revisions. These two schools are our most recently built schools.

Sixteen Elementary Schools, which is located in the center of the district, had six new classrooms, existing classrooms altered and a new spacious gymnasium added with the 2004 bond funds. The cost of this work was under $2.1 million. However most of the vacant land to the west of this school is occupied by Maybury State Park and acreage owned by the school district at the corner of Garfield and Eight Mile Roads and therefore cannot be built on. So this school requires a very large "feeder" area to draw its students from.

At the boundary meetings, I attended at Ridge Woods, Thornton Creek, and Old Village Schools, many parents voiced their concerns about their children experiencing four relocations since they have been in the district. The longer bus rides were also a concern. The constant moving may affect friendships, sharing of class work assignments, group projects, PTA, and other activities such as scouts, and sports. Some parents brought up the issue of boundary lines splitting neighborhoods and even each side of the street. Another major concern was how the constant boundary revisions negatively affect their property values. Parents felt if a house is located on the "front line" of the boundary it may be subject to constant boundary changes, and therefore be less marketable, if they ever have to sell it. Also, a child in a home that is located on the boundary line may have a playmate directly across the street who attends another school, thus sifting the ability for children, and parents to nurture friendships, attend the same activities, work on homework together, scouts, and car pooling, etc. Some parents said they can see Ridge Wood School from their home, and will drive by it on their way to their assigned school.

The houses on the "front lines" of the constantly changing boundaries thus become less desirable and the homes located closer to the center of the boundary, that are not subject to revisions become stable and therefore more desirable. The homes in the older more established neighborhoods, with a possible lower tax base, also become more desirable. In this real estate market it may be the difference between an offer, a good one or none at all.

The school board did not offer a clear explanation of why the boundaries needed to be revised. The only comfort the school board gave these parents is that children have to get use to change because it is going to happen in their future occupations and after all they will all be back together at the middle school and high school. Their long term growth report still mentions construction of a new elementary school, so boundaries are apt to change again in the future.

Possibly the two most important questions to ask the parents, to address the short term need, are:

- 1) Would you like to maintain current class size and revise the boundaries?
- 2) Increase class size and maintain the current school boundaries?

Parents and voters need to ask, why the school board did not add on to more of the existing schools with part of the $35.7 Million 2004 bond money.

Approximately $ 2.0 million of this bond money still exists. Based on the $250,000 elementary construction budget, each classroom cost less than $250,000. The board also had numerous opportunities since February 2006, to present a smaller bond proposal. Including this May election, however the deadline for submittal was Feb. 23, 2007. The election is costing the school district thousands of dollars to implement.

The major premise to the maximum student population in each school is maintaining the current class size, which averages 23.5 students per classroom. Class size could go as high as 27. Secondly, maintaining total classroom numbers at or below 29, because this is the maximum classes that the current gym, art, and music programs can handle.

While I was visiting, and touring one elementary school, the new stage area, in the multipurpose room was being used for choir, while the rest of the recently constructed area was empty. So, the room was not being fully utilized to a maximum potential.

There needs to be further discussion on the "29 classroom number", since it seems to be a major player in the decision process. If you look at the existing school buildings, all of the buildings now have separate gymnasiums and cafeteria/multipurpose rooms. This was made possible with the 2004 bond money. Winchester and Silver Springs Schools had cafeteria/multipurpose rooms. In addition to these additions gym classes had to stop during the lunch hours. Why can't the old gym/cafeteria areas or the newly built cafeteria/multipurpose areas continue to be used for physical education, art or music? They once were dual purpose rooms prior to the alterations. In other words, a physical education class could be taking place in the gym, and another modified physical activity, art or music in the multipurpose room, thus pushing the "29" classroom cap per building to "30" or more. This modification to the program may allow the total class number at Ridge Wood, or other schools to go up and not require boundary revisions that affect children, parents, and property values.

If the recently constructed multipurpose rooms were used for art, music, or foreign language class, before and after lunch period, this could open up at least two classrooms per building. These rooms could be used for general education. At least twelve classrooms, district wide, in the existing elementary schools. Utilizing these additional rooms would provide for 288 students. Many school districts have had to eliminate courses such as music, art or foreign language. We possibly could move these classes into the recently built multipurpose rooms and therefore free up classroom space.

Did we spend millions of dollars creating multipurpose rooms simply to be used to eat lunch in, or are there more, and better ways to utilize these large rooms during the school day?

In Japan, art, music, and foreign language classes are brought to the students in their home rooms. This eliminating the need for specialty classrooms, wasted student time moving from classroom to classroom, and the home rooms get fully utilized, since they do not sit vacant while students are in music, art, or language class.

The school district's Managing Our Growth report came up with four scenarios for addressing growth; all required the use of portable classrooms. Full utilization of the multipurpose rooms would allow the portable classroom units to be distributed evenly around the district or not required at all, a savings to the taxpayers.

We must consider if it makes more sense to modify the delivery of the program to meet the student or modify the delivery of the student to meet the program.

The parents and the voters could be given further presentations on how each of the four scenarios effect boundary revisions differently or may be, but at all. The parents may see a scenario that requires no boundary change, but may require going to say 25 students per classroom vs. 23.5, bringing in a portable classroom for art, music, Kid's Club or other, and feel a slightly larger class size is a worthwhile compromise to having their child change schools again. At the present time the proposed boundary changes are based on holding class sizes to an average 23.5 students per class.

School boundaries, also could follow natural geographic features and major roads, such as vacant parcels, parks, lakes and mile roads, thus not dividing subdivisions. Young children normally interact with neighbors close by, and not on the other side of busy roads or large parks.

It is apparent that Dr. Ruzmienski, Mr. Bolitho, Ms. Gallagher, and Mr. Street have been working extremely hard on revising the boundaries. However, it is a huge task that still requires the input and assistance of the parents. Newly elected or existing board members must provide creative suggestions, listen to the parents, provide direction to the administration, and not rush into a decision prior to an election, in order for this issue to have a satisfactory outcome.

The parents and the voters must communicate to the school board their concerns, by participating in the planning meetings.

The parents of children in Northville Township where most of the constant boundary changes keep occurring must participate in the process, since their voices are well out numbered by households in the more established, eastern side of the school district, that see few changes. Also, the residence of Northville Township need better representation on the school board. Two of the current board members live in Novi, three in the City of Northville. The school board plans on finalizing their boundary plan on or shortly after March 27, well before the May 8, 2007 school board election. This will leave all of April for things to calm down before the May election for two board members. I hope the board is not rushing into a decision on this very important issue simply to put politics before our children.

SPOTLIGHT ON: ALLERGY & ASTHMA
CONTROLLING INDOOR ALLERGENS
 We've all seen the television images of pollen floating in the spring air, and we've come to associate them with allergies. However, there are plenty of indoor allergens to get people sneezing and experiencing other allergic reactions. Dust mites, pet dander, and mold are just three of the many indoor allergens. Carpet, curtains, and overstuffed chairs often have dust mites, so bare floors and walls are more effective in controlling them. Use allergen-proof cases for pillows, and wash bedding frequently in hot water. Keep only a few houseplants. To reduce mold spores, watch all potentially moist areas for leaks and fix them. Keep pets out of the bedroom. Aggressive cleaning will help control your allergens, whatever they may be.
 Allergy symptoms can certainly make a person's life miserable. Call the ALLERGY AND ASTHMA CENTER OF MICHIGAN to arrange a consultation

Teachers of the Year

As he reads from "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," Northville High School English teacher David Bowen patrols the aisles of his analysis of film and literature class. Bowen was recently named high school teacher of the year by Northville Public Schools.

Northville trio nominated for county award

By Renee Gates
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Ever since Nicole Bolt can remember, she has always wanted to be a teacher.

When she was a little girl, the Winchester Elementary third grade teacher said she ran an imaginary school in her basement. She always knew one day she would teach.

This month, Bolt, Victoria Kopistiansky at Hillside Middle School and David Bowen at Northville High School were nominated by their peers and administrators for the 2006-2007 Wayne RESA Outstanding Teacher of the year award.

"We are very proud of our teachers," said Jan Purtell, Northville education partnerships facilitator and the district coordinator for the award.

"It's a double honor. They are being honored as a district then their application will continue on to Wayne RESA to be nominated for teacher of the year," Purtell said.

Winchester's leader

Bolt has taught in Northville since 2001.

"She is one of the best teachers I have ever seen in all my 30 years," said Winchester Principal Pat Messing.

"Teachers here have asked to watch her teach reading and writing workshops. She has offered some professional development opportunities to our staff and to the district. She is really a high-quality educational leader."

Bolt takes the honor to heart and wishes she could share it with her Winchester colleagues and support team.

"I think back to my first year of teaching and how much I've grown," she said.

"Northville is a great district. I think you're just held to a higher level here and you just rise to the occasion. I really think being here has pushed me to being the very best I can be."

Hillside's song

Kopistiansky said she was both surprised and honored to receive the nomination from her administrators and staff. This is her 21st year as a vocal music teacher. She came to the district in 1994 at Cooke Middle School.

"Vickie is an outstanding educator who routinely goes above and beyond expectations to develop and implement an outstanding choral music program in the Hillside Middle School elective department," said Hillside principal Jim Cracraft.

"Her choirs consistently earn state recognition. She's hard working and a very dedicated middle-level educator."

Kopistiansky said she knew she wanted to be a music teacher ever since her junior year in high school.

"That's when my choir teacher asked me to get up and work with the kids on a song for competition," she said.

"I ended up conducting it for the competition, and we ended up getting the top ranking. That's when I knew. It was pretty cool," she said.

Kopistiansky

Kopistiansky has no plans on retiring any time soon. She may just go on teaching until her 30th year.

"I do love it, that's for sure," she said.

Not just high school English

"One of the things that really struck me with David is when he first got here he said he was really worried about the kids who didn't have anyone to eat lunch with," said high school Principal Rob Watson.

"He created a group called Chess and Gaming, and the first time he had a meeting there were 60 kids who showed up on a Thursday afternoon."

"When you hear about someone who has an impact like that and fills a need that people didn't even know we had, that's amazing," he said.

High praise for a man who started his professional career as a telemarketing coordinator for corporate America.

Recognition

According to Wayne RESA, each teacher's application will be compared with others across the county at the same level. The district winners are screened by a committee of Wayne County educators and past RESA Teacher of the year awardees. County winners receive a cash prize and are honored at a celebration held May 9. The county will announce the winners by the end of March. The district will honor its winners at the April 17 board of education meeting.

Also recognized by the district will be Amerman Elementary third grade teacher Juliann Ojace as Rookie Teacher of the Year; Cooke School para educator Kathy Sigler as Support Employee of the Year; and Hillside Middle School counselor Mary Daar for Ancillary Professional of the Year. The awards are not competed on at the county level, Purtell said.

college degree under my belt doing something completely different than this and really not satisfied. I was good at it, but really not satisfied with what I did," Bowen said.

He always had a passion for literature, and he considered how much he enjoyed being with his rollerblading team of 16-to-18 year-olds on weekends. He decided he wanted to be a high school English teacher.

"I went back to school at 25 years old and started over. It took four to five years to do the whole thing including the certification. It was a struggle," he said.

But one Bowen does not regret. "Being good at (something) is not enough and money is not enough. I got to love it, I got to enjoy it ... and so I made the right call."

The students and staff at Northville High School believe so, too. He has taught English there since 2001.

Seniors display their skills at first Art House exhibit

■ Young artists honored by the opportunity

By Renee Gates
RECORD STAFF WRITER

Tonight, Northville residents have the opportunity to view a very special art exhibit displayed for the first time at the Northville Art House.

The collection of ceramic art works, drawings, paintings and jewelry was not arranged by traveling artists on an artfair circuit, but rather by Northville High School's very own senior art students.

"I am really excited about it," said Laura Tonch, a ceramic artist. "It'll be interesting because it's my first one."

Every year the high school art department has a senior art exhibit, but this is the first time it is being held in the Art House for the community to enjoy as well, said high school ceramic teacher Monika Miller.

"In the past, we've done it just one evening in the cafeteria at the school," she said.

"(The Art House) has functions all the time and exhibits. So, we contacted them, and they're going to keep it up for almost a month."

The original run of the art show was until April 1, but another exhibit canceled and the Art House decided to keep the student's exhibit on display for an additional three weeks.

"They wanted to keep it up for the next First Friday, which is great because the kids get a little bit of exposure," Miller said.

First Friday is a walking art tour through downtown Northville's art galleries, the first Friday of every month.

Not every senior art student can participate in the art exhibit, Miller said.

The high school's six art teachers select the students based on their artistic ability and their concern for their work. Selected students are sent a letter inviting them to participate in the art show.

"It is an honor to be invited," Miller said.

Brad Mamo said he was honored to receive an invitation, although this will not be his first time displaying his art work in the Numbers Don't Add Up in the Proposed Boundary Changes

The "Managing our Growth" forums held in January and February by the School Board and Administration did not adequately address boundary changes. In the questionnaire, small class sizes were desirable but it didn't ask if it would be acceptable if it necessitated boundary changes.

The fact is that on February 14, 2007, count day should have ended the discussion by the Board and Administration of any boundary changes. The net increase in students was 3 for all nine of the schools. "Managing our Growth" was not an issue and the projections for next year are not for growth but more likely a decline.

The uncertainty in the Michigan economy does not look favorable in the next year for any significant growth especially with the Auto Industry's continuing cuts. So why is the School Board proposing the boundary changes? It isn't to manage overcrowding. The numbers the School Administration has doesn't necessitate any real changes. The key word is "balance". The six criteria the Board adapted March 13 for the boundary changes are what the Administration has deemed must be "balanced". In the proposal many of the criteria will not be met. One such criterion is minimize length of the bus ride (a budget savings). This seems to be the one criterion that will not be met in the Six Mile corridor.

Middle school students a mile from Meads will go over two miles to Hillside while students living off Seven Mile and west of Beck will travel over four miles passing up numerous students that would have to travel to Hillside, essentially crisscrossing. Elementary students would have to travel nearly three miles up Beck to Eight Mile instead of going to a school a mile away. The time on the bus would increase significantly for these students. Traveling north on Beck in the morning is almost impossible. Does this make sense in a budget crisis? Some neighborhoods will have to attend a different elementary school than their neighbor across the street. Is this a savings with two bus routes in the same neighborhood? This lacks any sense or logic.

Without any boundary changes, Meads Mill will have a decline next year. Ridgewood, the most populated school, can accommodate more students including the neighborhoods surrounding it without a significant increase. Is it really necessary to make boundary changes that affect children to "balance" the criteria or the numbers when essentially the enrollment projections will not be over capacity? Stability is much more important for children than a "balance" for numbers or criteria. All six of the criteria are more adequately met without any changes to the Six Mile corridor. There will not be an overcrowding issue in the foreseeable near future; probably not until there is an improved economy in the forecast.

Why change boundary lines when it is not warranted and it will have a negative impact on the children, especially those in middle school? We built the schools and additions with tax dollars so let's use them to provide our children with a sense of security and stability.

Northville (school board candidate)

Class Size Matters

Let's hope Carol Grimmer is wrong when she predicted that most Northville residents, if asked, would choose higher class sizes over attendance boundary changes. Even a "slight increase" say four extra students per class, would dramatically change the way our teachers can interact with our children and parents.

Research strongly supports smaller class sizes, the benefits of which can be seen all the way through the high school years.

Smaller class size improves the classroom atmosphere, there are fewer distractions, and students receive more individualized attention. Teachers are better able to identify a student who is struggling, and offer extra help. Smaller class size allows a teacher more flexibility to use different instructional approaches. Smaller classes also result in fewer disciplinary problems, allowing the teacher to spend more time on instruction. How does this translate for our children? Students from smaller class sizes substantially outperform students from larger classes in all subjects, and are better behaved (American Federation of Teachers, Daniel Gursky).

Northville Public Schools' reputation for excellence is a key factor for people moving into the district, my family included. Low teacher-to-student ratios are a part of the total package that makes this education system so attractive and property values in Northville are absolutely tied to the quality of our schools. Don't let's be frightened by the scare tactic of someone saying that attendance boundary changes will negatively affect property values. If anything, higher class sizes will more negatively affect the quality of education in our schools, thereby negatively impacting property values.

It is also irresponsible to suggest that changing schools would lead to such stress for our children as to cause thumb sucking, nail biting, bed wetting, bullying, or academic failure. This scare tactic, coupled with the threat of declining property values, does not address the issue of overcrowding, or offer a solution.

The most precious asset we have to consider is not our homes and their value, but the education and future of our children. If we settle for a few more students per class now, will we settle for other changes that further erode the education of our children down the line?

Ms. Grimmer contends that the school board doesn't have its collective eye on the right prize, our children. But I would argue that the priority of the board must be a quality education for our children, even if they must decide on some painful changes now that will help retain the integrity and quality of our schools for the future.

Northville High School senior and varsity basketball standout Alvin Storrs palms a ball in the gym the Mustangs haven't lost in for more than two straight seasons.

Storrs finishes junior, senior years with 38-4 record

By Jeff Theisen
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

Simply put, Northville senior basketball player Alvin Storrs did it all for the Mustangs.

Storrs led the team in scoring with 24.3 a game, in rebounding with 5.6 a night, snagged 5.5 steals and averaged a little more than a block a contest.

Despite leading the team in several categories, Storrs cared more about how the team did than his own personal stats.

"That's a strange part of him," Northville head coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He doesn't like to be singled out. He just wants to fit in to the team."

"Yet, when the game is on the line, he wants the ball. That's a quality that you hope for in every player, yet not every player has that."

It's unknown if Storrs is Northville's all-time leading scorer, but Schumacher said he's the highest scoring Mustang in recent memory. Storrs finished with 1,096 career points.

Having one player responsible for leading the team in so many categories doesn't always result in wins. It did in Storrs' case.

The Mustangs went 18-3 a year after going 20-1. They were a combined 38-2 during the last two regular seasons and captured a pair of division crowns and one league title and a runner-up WLAA tournament finish.

"He always wanted to involve his teammates into the game," Schumacher said. "He didn't want to just isolate it and take it himself."

Storrs will transfer his game to the next level at Grand Valley State — a school that has a history of making waves in Division II.

"It's been a goal all of his life," said Schumacher about Storrs playing in college. "I'm looking forward to making a few trips to Grand Valley to watch him play. That's a heckuva program."

"I'm so happy for him because he is such a genuine

Returnees bring big hopes

■ Mustangs have mix of good youth, strong veterans

By Jeff Theisen

Northville softball lost six players with multi-years of varsity experience, but head coach Teryn Chrzanowski still sees big things coming from her team.

She expects to compete for the division and conference titles in the WLAA.

Gone are four-year varsity members Christy Badeen, Emily Doren, Lisa Mueller and Laura Zima. Also gone are three-year varsity member Bridget Hughes and two-year player Kelly Lockman.

But plenty return from last year's 25-7 squad

Emma Wise, a senior, returns for her third year as the center-fielder. She posted the second-highest batting on the team last year and brought home All-Conference, All-District, All-Area and the team coaches award last year.

Elise Fleishaker is back as a utility player and will be a senior captain.

Kirstyn Wildey brings experience as a senior infielder.

Jenna Dumbleton has been on varsity since her freshman year. Now a junior and captain, she returns to the mound after leading the team with nine wins last year, along with All-Conference, All-District and All-Area honors.

Allison Holmes returns to varsity play for her junior year. She will pitch and play first.

Kelsey Lewis, a junior, is back for her second year as the starting shortstop.

Rousifer returns as the starting catcher. She was third last year in batting average and earned All-Division honors as a freshman.

"Our pitching and catching are outstanding. Jenna Dumbleton and Allison Holmes are both returning after successful sophomore seasons," Chrzanowski said. "Sarah Rousifer is returning as the starting catcher as a sophomore. They all have tremendous ability and experience."

"Our outfield will be very quick and strong with seniors Emma Wise and Elise Fleishaker returning and the addition of Megan Hofmeister. We have the potential to have a strong offensive lineup and we should have a good infield as well, once we find the right combination."

Chrzanowski expects competition in the division to come from Canton and Plymouth. Other top league competitors include

Pair of 'Stang records reset

■ Markstrom, Yassay start season off with top performances

By Jeff Theisen
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

The Northville boys track team came firing out of the starting blocks with a first-place finish in a 14-team meet Saturday at Eastern Michigan University.

Northville finished with 57 points, with Ann Arbor Pioneer in second with 51 and Saline in third with 50.

The Mustangs also set a pair of school records, including Mike Yassay in the pole vault and Erik Markstrom in the shot-put.

Yassay cleared 14-6, beating his old record of 14-1.

"Mike Yassay has trained very hard lifting weights and working on his pole vaulting technique the past four years to become the best pole vaulter in the history of Northville High School," Northville head coach Bill Cornelius said.

"His father, Mike Yassay, has worked as an unpaid vault coach for both the boys and girls teams the past four years and has supported the program by purchasing new poles for our vaulters.

"Both Mike and Mark are excellent examples of what one can accomplish by setting high goals and working hard to accomplish them."

Markstrom launched the shot-put 52-03 for a second-place finish.

"Erik Markstrom's progress in the shot put has truly been remarkable. Last year he was throwing in the 43- to 45-foot range. Erik's hard work in the weight room has definitely paid off based on his 53-foot throw on Saturday."

The 4x800 relay team of Jason Turnbull, Jack Dalton, Nick Kolbow and Habib Khan finished first in 8:23.27.

Other highlights included Kolbow with a second-place finish in the 800 meters (2:05.70); Cayon Corcoran with a second-place finish in the 60-meter hurdles (8.40); Turnbull with a fourth-place finish in the 1,600 meters (4:40.97); the 4x55 hurdle relay team finished third (33.95); and Eric Franceschi tied for fourth in the high jump (5-0).

SOFTBALL: High hopes

Walled Lake Central, Stevenson and Churchill.

"I am looking forward to this season. Although we lost a lot of players to graduation this year, particularly in the infield, our pitching and outfield remain intact," Chrzanowski said.

"We actually have quite a few options for our infield; we just have to see which players fit the best together prior to our first game."

Runners-up ready to rock

Mustangs bring back several big guns

By Jeff Theisen
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

Losing eight graduates from a team that made it to the state finals might take the Northville soccer team off of some people's radar screen.

Mustang head coach Ron Meteyer knows better.

"A lot of people are saying, 'You lost a lot to graduation. You had eight girls graduate, and they were all starters. You're going to be decimated,'" Northville head coach Ron Meteyer said. "I explained to the girls, we've relocated but they've got a lot to prove to themselves and everybody else.

"Nobody is expecting this team to be as good as it was in the past, so it's up to them to try to decide how far they want to go."

The cupboards are far from bare for the Mustangs.

Danielle Toney returns with more All-American honors from last year's season in which she produced 21 goals and eight assists.

"She's the big gun that everybody will be watching," Meteyer said. "Dani is a three-time All-American. She's very quick and very tough to move.

"She's going to draw double and triple coverage. It's really imperative that we get some other production from some of the other kids."

Toney is nine goals behind Lauren Hill's career scoring record of 81 goals. She will be one of four senior captains. Liz Wata, Julie Raymond and Kristen Slack are the others.

Sarah Stern is back for her junior season after posting 14 goals and 10 assists.

Mustang junior Theresa Yankovich is starting the season injured but Meteyer hopes to have her back before the playoffs after surgery to reattach ligaments in her knee. Yankovich posted 17 goals and 14 assists last year.

Goalies Julie Blaszcak and Liz Wata return after posting four shutouts each last year. Wata is third on the career list with nine shutouts, and Blaszcak is next with seven.

"They're two of the best in the league," Meteyer said. "They don't get the kind of notoriety that a lot of goalkeepers would because they share the space and time in there. They both get the job done for us every night."

Defensive returnees include four-year starter Slack and sophomore Kelsey Baskins.

Slack already has an academic and athletic scholarship to attend George Washington next year. Meteyer said Baskins will be in charge of marking the opposition's best player each game.

Top competition from within the division should come from Bulldogs of Canton

"In our division, it's certainly us and Canton," Meteyer said. "Every team is bigger physically than us... but I don't think anyone can match our speed. Top to bottom, we have a very fast team."

Fighting for the lead in the opposite division should include Stevenson and Salem.

Goals and expectations are always high in this area for soccer. Meteyer said he wants his team to focus on the season as steps, try to win the division, focus on the league tournament and then worry about the playoffs.

Meteyer is aware of the lofty expectations, but he doesn't want his team looking too far down the road

"I hate it when they start talking that far in advance, because they lose focus on the game that night or what the game next week is," Meteyer said. "I said, 'If I hear anybody talking about state until we rap up the league, you are going to sit the bench. I don't care who you are.' The word got out pretty quick."

Mustang soccer off on right foot

By Jeff Theisen
RECORD SPORTS WRITER

After having to postpone the original first game of the season against Novi, the Mustang soccer team opened the year with a 3-0 win against South Lyon on Friday.

Jill Alumbaugh started the scoring with 15:07 left in the first half off a feed from Sarah Stern. The Lions were trying to use the offside trap, but Stern's feed sent Alumbaugh in free, and she buried it for a 1-0 lead.

Christine Collier sent Karen Mayhall in alone for the second goal with 3:15 left in the half.

The final goal came with just over eight minutes left to play. Mayhall tallied her second goal with a 25-yard blast off a feed from Camille Junca.

"I was very pleased with the outcome," Northville head coach Ron Meteyer said. "In every category we dominated the game. We got off to a good start.

"South Lyon put up a good fight. The first 20-25 minutes were close. They've improved a lot."

The Northville JV also posted its first win with a 4-0 shutout.

She had just passed on desert and was watching her one-millionth commercial about some magic pill that a shapely bikini-clad model swears that you take once a day and you will lose 15 pounds in a month while you sleep and have a body like hers in no time.... Guaranteed or your money back! For an over-50, menopausal, mother of three with a recent total hip replacement (she allowed me to reveal all that!), that is tough to take and really tough competition against my 'promoting positive lifestyle changes' and also just too enticing for most Americans who spend some $35 billion a year on over 30,000 diet supplements a year. My tough client/wife is tired of not losing the weight fast enough, but before she picks up that phone and orders one of those magic pills and abandons her New Year's resolution all together, I throw out some facts ...

Chris Klebba

- Reports shows that 64 percent of Americans think the government requires warnings about side effects on weight loss products, it doesn't - and 54 percent think products are approved by the FDA; they're not.

- There's no proof of effectiveness and no proof of safety. Why would you put it in your body?

- Chances are that model on TV never touched the product she is advertising.

- The Federal Trade Commission recently fined the marketers of four weight loss drugs a collective $25 million for false advertising: Xenadrine EFX, Cortislim, One-A-Day Weight Smart and Trimspa. The products will still remain on store shelves, the $25 million a mere cost of business.

- FTC Chairman Deborah Platt Majoros warns against celebrity endorsements of many of these products claiming: "Testimonials from individuals are not a substitute for science." The FTC's investigation in an Xenadrine commercial found that the people who appear in many of the before and after pictures in many ads lost weight by engaging in rigorous diet and exercise programs (surprise, surprise!).

- These supplements have been around for years and yet two thirds of Americans are overweight. If they really worked, why would this fact remain and be growing in the wrong direction?

As my final plea to my client, I explained that I was well aware that the road to 'positive lifestyle changes' translated means eating less and moving more. I also know this is about as exciting as walking on a treadmill for 30 minutes and eating more fiber. But, the bottom line is this has been, still is now, and will be the only safe path to long term weight control and health. And, I want this particular client to be around and be healthy for a long time. (Did you ever notice that no matter how much weight a woman has already lost, it's never enough?) She said I could say that, too. I'd better quit now.

So next time you are tempted by that shapely model, save your money, move a little more, eat a little less each day and don't be fooled; you are doing it right - and in the long run, you will be further ahead and a little richer. Good Luck!

First Team

Second Team

Northville senior Bret Spencer is part of the All-Area second team. The Mustang offensive production was led by Storrs, but the plays almost always went through Spencer.

"Everything we did ran through Bret," Schumacher said. "He could've played any position on the floor. He's not super big, maybe 6-2 or 6-3, and yet he could post up inside, he battled for rebounds, and he was probably our best inside defender.

"He's just a solid, fundamental player that made our team better."

The rest of the Second Team includes Catholic Central senior Dustin Hess, Novi senior Adam Chandler, South Lyon sophomore Eric Wedesky, Lakeland senior Luke Heiman and Lakeland sophomore Blake Heiman.

Celebrating

Salads with Pistachios

America's Top Chefs Share Their Favorite Recipes

FAMILY FEATURES

Want to add taste, color and crunch to salads any time of the year? Then sprinkle on pistachios. Chefs are going nutty over them, and for good reason. California grown, these pale green nuts have a subtle, delicate flavor that is wonderful in sweet as well as savory dishes or for eating out of hand. Traditionally used in rice dishes, stuffing, ice cream and pastries, pistachios are now a key ingredient in signature salads.

Harvest Salad with Caramelized California Pistachios and Green Apples

Chef Andrew Carmellini of A Voce Restaurant in New York celebrates the bounty of the harvest with this delicious — yet simple — salad featuring crisp green apples and caramelized California pistachios.

Ingredients:

- 4 cups arugula, picked and washed
- 2 cups watercress, picked and washed
- 1 bulb fennel, sliced in half lengthwise then thinly sliced
- 1 cored green apple, thinly sliced
- 3 stalks celery, thinly sliced
- 4 leaves basil, washed and coarsely chopped
- 3 tablespoons white raisins, soaked in warm water and drained
- 1/4 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 2 whole lemons, zested then juiced
- Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon breadcrumbs
- 1/2 cup California pistachios, caramelized

Method:

Combine all ingredients except cheese and breadcrumbs in mixing bowl. Season with salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste. Divide into 6 salad bowls; top with cheese, breadcrumbs and caramelized pistachios (see sidebar for caramelizing). Serve immediately. Serves 6.

Goat Cheese, Beet Roots and California Pistachio Salad

Executive Chef Pascal LeSeac'h of Pastis, one of New York City's hottest restaurants, loves serving this simple beet salad featuring California pistachios.

Preheat oven: 375°F.

Ingredients:

- 5 medium size beet roots
- 6 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
- 1/4 cup California pistachios, toasted and coarsely chopped
- 1 bunch flat parsley (1/4 cup chopped)
- 1 log (6 ounces) Montrachet goat cheese
- Salt and white pepper, to taste
- 5 tablespoons red wine vinegar

Method:

Clean beet roots with cold water, dry with paper towel, coat with 1 tablespoon olive oil and season with salt. Wrap beets in aluminum foil and place in oven 1 1/2 hours. Check doneness by poking with small knife. Remove and peel beets and slice 1/2-inch thick. Reserve and cool in refrigerator. While beets are cooling, toast pistachios, let cool, then chop. Clean and dry parsley, then chop with large chef knife. Slice goat cheese 1/2-inch thick.

To Serve:

Alternate slices of beets and goat cheese on salad plate. Season with salt and white pepper. Add vinegar and remaining olive oil. Garnish with pistachios and chopped parsley. Serves 2.

Spicy Pear and Endive Salad with California Pistachios

Nationally-renowned celebrity chefs and "Too Hot Tamales" Mary Sue Milliken and Susan Feniger offer this scrumptious salad featuring California pistachios from their award-winning Border Grill and Ciudad restaurants.

Salad Ingredients:

- 1/2 cup California pistachios, raw and shelled
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 Comice or D'anjou pears, quartered, cored, and sliced into 1/2-inch wedges
- 4 heads Belgian endive, cored and sliced lengthwise into strips
- 1/2 to 3/4 cup Cabrales blue cheese, crumbled
- 2 tablespoons pickled jalapeños, sliced
- 1/4 cup Honey Chipotle Vinaigrette (recipe follows)

Salad Method:

In small frying pan, combine pistachios, salt, pepper and sugar. Sauté over low to medium heat, stirring and shaking frequently until pistachios are toasted and sugar caramelizes and coats pistachios. Transfer pistachios to non-stick or parchment-lined cookie sheet and allow to cool. In large bowl, combine pears, endive, blue cheese, jalapeños and vinaigrette. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Transfer to 4 chilled salad plates and sprinkle with pistachios. Serves 4.

Honey Chipotle Vinaigrette

Vinaigrette Ingredients:

- 1/3 cup red wine vinegar
- 1 dry chipotle, stemmed and seeded
- 1/2 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1 1/2 tablespoons honey, warm
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt

Vinaigrette Method:

Combine vinegar and chipotle in small saucepan and bring to boil. Remove from heat and allow to cool. Place all ingredients in blender and blend until smooth and oil is emulsified. Adjust seasonings to taste. Makes 1 cup.

Pistachio Facts & Helpful Tips

The key to including nuts in the diet without adding extra calories is portion control. Use pistachios on salads, or in main dishes, to replace meat or poultry. California pistachios have versatility, texture and great taste. They also pack a powerful nutritional punch. A 1-ounce serving — 49 pistachios — contains more than 10 percent of the Daily Value for dietary fiber, vitamin B-6, thiamin, phosphorus and copper. One serving of pistachios has as much potassium as half a large banana. Pistachios contain mostly monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fat (11 of 13 fat grams), the types of fat recommended by the 2005 Dietary Guidelines For Americans. Pistachios also are naturally cholesterol free and trans fat free.

Other Pistachio Facts:

- A serving of pistachios has more fiber (2.9g) than 1 small tomato (1.1g) or 1 cup of raw spinach (.8g).
- A serving of pistachios provides almost 1 1/2 times the amount of thiamin as 1/2 cup serving of cooked, long grain, enriched white rice and 2 1/2 times the amount of thiamin in long grain, brown rice.
- The amount of vitamin B-6 in a 1-ounce serving of pistachios is comparable to that in a standard 3-ounce serving of roasted pork loin, 2 times that in a serving of peanut butter and 5 times that in a serving of black beans.
- Pistachios contain more phytosterols such as beta-sitosterol than any other commonly eaten nut, 61mg per serving or 279mg per 100g. Phytosterols may help lower cholesterol levels, thereby reducing the risk of heart disease. Preliminary research suggests phytosterols also may offer protection from certain types of cancer.
- The largest USDA study of food antioxidants reveals pistachios are one of the best sources of beta-carotene of all tree nuts and peanuts. Pistachios also provide the most lutein and zeaxanthin of all tree nuts. Antioxidants are compounds in foods that may help fight cancer, heart disease and Alzheimer's disease, and help maintain healthy arteries.

To Caramelize Pistachios:

Ingredients:

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pinch cayenne pepper
- 1/2 cup California pistachio kernels

Method:

In a medium saucepan, heat sugar with water, salt and cayenne pepper over a high flame. Cook until mixture is soft and bubbling. Add pistachios and stir 2 to 4 minutes, until caramelized (pistachios may clump together). Remove pistachios from pan and lay on a cookie sheet lined with wax paper. When pistachios are completely cool, break apart and reserve.

To Make Pistachio Oil:

Toast 1 cup pistachio kernels. When cool, finely grind in food processor. In a saucepan, warm 1 1/2 cups olive oil and ground pistachios and stir until blended. Transfer to a jar and let stand overnight at room temperature. Strain. Substitute in place of olive oil to add flavor to any recipe.

Stop your hibernating and get ready for spring time

By John R. Hall
SPECIAL WRITER

Humans are not unlike bears during the winter months. They tend to hibernate from the world and ignore some of the fitness programs that keep them in shape the other nine months of the year. It's human nature. So with spring fast approaching, there is one local business that wants people to come out of hibernation and improve their quality of life.

FEEL BETTER THAN EVER

Fitness Together of Novi and West Bloomfield has the programs to bring people out and make them feel happy with their bodies and with their health. Boo Sadikot, owner of Fitness Together, wants his customers to feel better than they ever have before. And he has been successful at helping people to understand that there is a big difference in fitness programs — especially when it comes to personal attention.

"Public gyms are not the answer to a fitness program," he said. "They are crowded, intimidating and confusing. Most people aren't getting the results they want on their own because they purchase a membership and that is all they get."

A DIFFERENT APPROACH

Fitness Together's business model is totally different. Its motto is "One client, one trainer, one goal." The focus is on individual attention. "Our training facilities offer fully equipped private suites for the best one-on-one training," Sadikot said. "There is never a wait for equipment. It is just you and your trainer in the suite for the entire session."

Sadikot knows that people tend to focus more on their health when the warmer months are approaching. They look for results and the Fitness Together approach fits right into their expectations.

"We guarantee your results," he said. "Tell us your goals and we'll develop a plan to get you there fast."

FOR THE BUSY PERSON

Sadikot also knows that people have busy schedules, which makes him wonder why they would want to wait in a gym for exercise equipment to become available. "You exercise with a personal trainer in your own private studio with state-of-the-art equipment and then get on with your day," he added.

With over eight years of experience, Sadikot has fine-tuned a program that will get people in shape within 16 weeks or the sessions are free. He backs the guarantee up by noting, "I have never once failed to help my clients achieve the results I promised them."

SHARING THE PROGRAM

Sadikot goes one step further, too. He is willing to share Fitness Together's Five-Step Fitness Program for free. People calling him, (248) 348-9230, will learn about the program in a few minutes.

To recap — personal service, guaranteed results, and a commitment to helping all customers feel better about themselves than ever before — the best reasons to call Fitness Together today. As Sadikot said, "We take personal training to a new level."

Try these encouraging tips

Losing weight and getting fit can be a rewarding journey. Before you start, or anytime you feel your motivation wanting, think of the following for affirmation and inspiration.

- Be patient. Of course you want to see results quickly. But remember: Being honest with yourself, visualizing your goals and making the commitment to change your lifestyle are the keys to long-term success. These things take time.
- Rediscover good eating. Learn everything you can about low-fat cooking, try some exotic fruits and vegetables, or taste test some low-fat products until you find your favorites. Rather than feeling deprived, look at food in a new, exciting way. It will do wonders for your willpower.
- Think movement! Introduce some everyday activities to help make exercise more of a habit than a chore. Take the stairs instead of the escalator and walk rather than drive. Plan active outings instead of going to a movie. You can even make cleaning the house an aerobic exercise: Dance like crazy — no one's watching!
- Stay flexible on food. You don't have to mix all your favorite goodies, nor should you feel guilty or abandon your goal if you occasionally splurge. Enjoy every bite, then balance the rest of the day — or the next day — with healthier foods.
- Splurge on water. Think of water as a treat — your body sure does! Try it bubbly (in flavored seltzers) or on ice with citrus slices. Drinking eight 8-ounce glasses of water per day is essential to losing weight. It also keeps digestion smooth, cleanses your body, and curbs hunger. And it's great for your skin!

The ABCs of Writing a Classified Ad that Works

Avoid Abbreviations. A few accepted and recognizable abbreviations are OK, but an ad full of them just confuses the readers. They will go on to the next ad rather than decipher yours. A good rule of thumb is "Spell it out, or leave it out."

Be Available. List your telephone number so that potential buyers will know how to contact you. State the best hours to call so they'll know when you can be reached.

Consider Your Readers. Put yourself in the readers' place. If you were considering buying this item, what would you want to know about it? Give the item's age, condition, size, color, brand name and any other important information needed to describe it completely and accurately. Sell the benefits of owning the item.

Don't Exaggerate. Misleading information may bring potential buyers to your home but it will not help you make the sale. You'll lose the prospect's trust and faith as well as the sale.

Enclose the Price. Price is one of the biggest concerns of classified shoppers. Ads that list prices will get their attention first. Including price also helps you avoid inquiries from callers not in your price range.

GREEN SHEET CLASSIFIEDS

Design your room for free on the Web

Using today's most innovative technology, consumers can now see what their redesigned room will look like — without ever leaving the comfort of their home.

Flooring manufacturing company Mannington has launched a "Virtual Decorator" on its Web site, Mannington.com. The Virtual Decorator program is a completely customizable, flexible tool to help consumers 'see' what their finished room will look like by experimenting with different wall and floor combinations. And unlike other programs of this type — it's free.

Consumers can access it directly at: <http://VirtualDecorator.Mannington.com>, or through the main Mannington residential flooring site at: Mannington.com.

In a recent study, consumers said that visualizing what the room will look like is one of the most difficult parts of shopping for a new floor. This unique program offers two ways to visualize the redecorated room — by using pre-selected room scenes, or by downloading an image of a room from their own home.

The basic Virtual Decorator provides 15 rooms to choose from — bathrooms, living rooms, foyers, and kitchens. Consumers can choose a room and with a click of the mouse, change the flooring, wall color, even alter the angle at which the floor is viewed.

But for the ultimate in customized visualizing, there's "My Virtual Decorator." Not only is it the most innovative and useful program of its kind, unlike other sites that charge $9.99 or more for a download, Mannington's "My Virtual Decorator" is free. Just go to:

<http://VirtualDecorator.Mannington.com> and follow the download instructions for the free "My Virtual Decorator" program. Then either choose a pre-selected room, or download an image of the actual room to be decorated, and start experimenting.

Consumers can achieve thousands of combinations using different floor and wall options. In addition, the cutting edge technology that My Virtual Decorator uses creates perspective and scaling of the items placed in the room, for the most precise visuals available today.

Floors can also be split, meaning two floors are arranged in the same room, allowing for superior customization; and floor options can be placed on walls as well (which, in the case of porcelain tile, is extremely helpful).

The site also keeps track of the most recently viewed creations, and provides the option of saving rooms to come back to them later, or sending them via e-mail. For "before and after" comparisons, rooms can be printed out as well.

Mannington.com also has a wealth of other information designed to assist consumers as they shop for flooring — from a free design book to a store locator.

For anyone looking to redecorate, Mannington.com and Mannington's Virtual Decorator offer superior visualizing, the ultimate in customization, and expert design advice — all for free.

Natural wood cabinets are one of the latest design trends in kitchens.

What's tops in kitchen renovations?

Whether building a new house or remodeling a current one, the kitchen is one of the most important rooms in the home.

There are certain kitchen trends that have emerged this past year that are popping up in many homes across the country.

According to the American Institute of Architects, which regularly keeps track of housing trends through their Home Design Trends Survey, the following are some of the most prevalent "wants" in today's kitchens:

- Larger pantry space
- High-end appliances
- Integration with family space
- Natural stone counters
- Island work areas
- Natural wood cabinets

Synthetic, solid-surface countertops that experienced a boom in years past have started to decline in popularity, with natural stone such as granite still ranking above others.

Plus, there is a greater number of square feet being devoted to kitchens to account for their popularity as the family gathering spot.

And the number of separate cooking facilities throughout the home are increasing, including the additions of outdoor kitchens in many areas of the country.

Today's homeowners are looking for high-end appliances, natural stone countertops and room for the entire family in their kitchens.

Aging eyes need more lighting

We may get wiser as we get older, but we also have a harder time "seeing the light" — literally. At age 60, most people need four times more light to see as well as they did when they were 20.

Fortunately, the lighting industry offers a wide range of design-friendly options to satisfy the needs of senior eyes.

You don't have to completely remodel your house to see well. Lighting solutions can be tailored to fit your unique lighting issues, budget and structure of your house.

American Lighting Association experts Dan Blitzer and Monty Gilbertson, a certified lighting consultant with Lighting Designs by Wettstein's, offer the following tips on lighting your home for the aging eye:

Lighting Your Kitchen, Bed and Bath

Kitchens, bedrooms and bathrooms are areas where people generally want more light as they get older, Blitzer says. For kitchens, Gilbertson suggests under cabinet lights. These can be as simple as fluorescent tubes hidden under the cabinets to direct the maximum amount of high-quality light down onto the countertops where you will be preparing meals. This solution requires minimal construction.

In the bath, avoid fluorescents, Gilbertson advises. Instead, opt for 100 percent color rendering light bulbs, positioned on either side of your bathroom mirror. Consider installing a dimmer on bathroom lights. Research shows that very low-level regular light, or light in the red spectrum, maximizes night vision while minimizing the disruption of our circadian rhythm, Blitzer says.

Tailor lighting to fit a senior's unique issues.

Use Track and Recessed Lighting

Another option for your kitchen is to install recessed lights overhead, just in front of the cabinets. This allows the maximum light to fall on both your work area, as well as inside the cabinets when the doors are open, Gilbertson notes. Recessed lighting can be effective anywhere in the house that you require more light. But, cautions Blitzer, be sure the face of the bulb is installed well above the ceiling to eliminate glare. "Glare is a serious issue for older eyes," he notes.

Track lighting is also a good solution for putting light exactly where you need it most. Modern track lighting is available in a wide range of design-friendly styles, including flexible tracks and beautiful pendant lights.

Housing should match lifestyle, budget

By Cynthia Grochowski
DAILY PRESS & ARGUS

When deciding on a new home, careful thought must be given to several factors before committing to a location or floorplan to ensure the dwelling is livable and affordable.

Finances

"One of the first things to consider is budget," Gino Pulice, owner of GPI Custom Construction, said. "This way you can determine what you can afford."

Budget applies to everyone, from singles to senior citizens. When looking at the budget, improvements or finishing for both interior and exterior should be factored in.

Future energy expenses are becoming more of a concern for new home buyers and builders than in the past.

"Ask about the alternative for energy savings when building," Tom Sonk, owner of Omega Homes, advised. "If you are going to build, you should have a well-built house that is energy efficient."

Cathedral ceilings and huge windows are nice, he acknowledged, but sacrificing size and putting an energy payment into a mortgage payment will put a homeowner ahead as energy prices rise.

The style of the home can translate into money-savings also.

"A colonial is the least expensive for growing families, and it can be added onto in the future," Sonk said. "A ranch runs

A HOMEBUYER'S QUESTIONS

- Will the house fit into my budget?
- Does the house hamper or compliment my lifestyle?
- Is the house energy efficient?
- Is the house in a favorable location?
- How much maintenance does the house require?
- Will this house suit my lifestyle in 15 years?

about $20 more per square foot than a colonial since there is more roof, more foundation work and such."

Lifestyle

New home buyers should carefully consider what kind of home will support their lifestyle for the years ahead. Many people age 55 and older want to downsize and have less responsibility and maintenance with a new home. Families need room to grow and space to store things. Middle-aged couples may anticipate housing an Knowing upfront your budget and if you will use your new house to raise a family, house an elderly relative, or ease into retirement, will insure your affordability, comfort and enjoyment of your house.

"Lifestyle factors are the No.1 consideration," said Cathi Waun, marketing director of Abbey Homes. "Many people think they want bigger bedrooms, but more often people spend the majority of time in the kitchen and family rooms."

Daily living, entertainment and conducting business, whether personal or professional, should be considered when deciding on floorspace. Auxiliary rooms, such as a home office, library, storage closets or mudroom, may be necessary in a home owner's lifestyle.

Privacy is another important consideration. A younger family may want the kitchen open to the family room or place the master bedroom on the main floor and other bedrooms upstairs. Older families may favor a single-story layout.

"Some may consider a story-and-a-half with the master bedroom and all living areas on the main floor and a few bedrooms upstairs in case the kids come to visit," Pulice said.

Keep in mind the home will eventually be up for sale sometime in the future.

"You may like a tri-level house, but multi-levels do not have good resale value," Pulice advised.

Seniors

Senior lifestyles may find a house cumbersome to deal with. An independent living senior community, offering apartments or condominiums, may be more suitable to their lifestyle.

Avery Eenigenburg, community manager of Heritage Place at Ridge Valley in Milford, said lifestyle and budget are also important for those considering a new home in a senior community.

"Seniors should ask themselves which amenities are important to them, such as housekeeping, meals, recreation, and if those amenities are fee-based," she said.

Seniors must also determine what type of property upkeep and utilities they are willing to handle with their unit and how close they need to be to shopping, transportation, medical facilities and such. Physical restrictions must be considered when looking at floorplans.

Generally, senior-community apartments are leased, whereas condominiums are purchased.

"A lease may work out better for someone not sure about committing to a condo," Eenigenburg said.

Rental assistance through the state of Michigan may be available at certain communities. Seniors who can't afford the market rate but do not qualify for low-income subsidy should inquire about such assistance when visiting communities.

Location and Amenities

The school district should be a major consideration for both quality of life and resale value of a house or condo according to Pulice. If the home is in a development, decide which of its amenities are important, such as greenspace, lot size, pool or clubhouse. Proximity to shopping, employment, other family and transportation should be looked at also.

Don't forget landscaping needs. Homeowners who use their decks more than their backyards may want a smaller lot to save time and money on lawn-and-garden maintenance or put money into an outdoor living area.

Finishes

Finally, homeowners need to match their lifestyle to the maintenance of a home's finishes.

Wood trim and granite counters take more time and care than vinyl siding and plastic laminate. Pets are tough on hardwood floors. Large windows give a nice view, but need periodic cleaning.

Above all, a new home should feel comfortable, not enslaving or cumbersome.

Considering the amount of maintenance the new house will require — and who is willing to perform those tasks — should be a major consideration when buying or planning a new house.

Enhance protection with customized materials

When you're building a new home, you select a floor plan and then customize it. Why not customize your building materials, too? Especially if those materials can help prevent mold, help resist storm damage, prevent floor squeaks and dents, and reduce energy consumption.

These top quality products can help build a beautiful home — inside and out — with greater durability and energy efficiency:

■ The Strength to Endure. A home needs to be able to stand the test of time. By using Plytanium Plywood instead of oriented strand board (OSB), your home will be more impact-resistant and durable — especially during inclement weather.

■ Help Prevent Floor Squeaks. Plywood is also versatile enough to use as a sub-floor for residential construction. It has excellent nail holding properties, which helps to minimize floor squeaks. It is the perfect sub-floor for a variety of floor coverings including hardwood, carpet and tile.

■ Prevent Mold. Did you know that more than 70 percent of homes have mold, and most of the time, it's in the wall cavity? Paper, a food source for mold, is found on traditional paper-faced drywall. DensArmor, paperless drywall by Georgia-

Pacific incorporates glass mats on the surfaces of the drywall panel instead of paper facings found on traditional drywall. Building or remodeling with DensArmor, can help protect a home's interior wall surfaces from the potential for mold development.

■ Protect Wet Areas. Areas throughout the home such as bathrooms and kitchens are most prone to mold growth. Simply installing a tile backer with glass-mat facings and an acrylic coating can block moisture from entering the wall cavity. This innovative design protects tile installations and the wall cavity from the effects of moisture in damp areas.

■ Hit the Roof. Designing a home with durable roof sheathing provides outstanding performance while offering the important benefit of reducing cooling energy consumption. A roof sheathing with the Environmental Protection Agency's Energy Star, qualification can keep your home comfortable while potentially saving on cooling energy consumption.

Navy blue: Nautical but nice

By Olivia Barker
GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

Interior designers are feeling really blue. After several seasons of seeing bright peacock and robin's egg splashed around homes, rich navy blue has emerged as a trendy color for the first time since perhaps the '80s, popping off white walls in classic nautical style.

January's House Beautiful features navy throughout; while dark-blue paisley bedding graces the cover of the early spring Williams-Sonoma Home catalog.

The 2007 HGTV Dream Home, a mountain retreat in Winter Park, Colo., is also in the navy: In the main lodge room, deep-blue sofas and chairs contrast with the stone and wood construction, while navy Silestone covers the counters and island in the kitchen.

When designing the space, Hilton Head, S.C.-based Linda Woodrum realized that she "didn't need to compete" with nature's greens and browns; she needed to complement them. With all that texture, "I just thought blue was a wonderful color to set it up."

The dark shade added a touch of formality to a typically casual Rocky Mountain lifestyle. Residents there "enjoy the beauty and being outdoors," she says, "but sometimes you kind of like to dress up and put your party clothes on."

Entryways provide invitation to home

Does your home's front entrance cause people to take notice or drive on by? Is it inviting or just another entrance? Much like a manicured lawn and well-maintained exterior add curb appeal to a home, so does the front entrance.

"Ten years ago, homeowners personalized their entry by incorporating decorative glass," says Jeff Kibler of Peachtree Doors and Windows. "Today, homeowners desire more dramatic entries and an entire entry system."

If you're considering remodeling your front entry or building a new home, you face many decisions about a door's basic material and performance, complementary windows, accessories and security.

Basic Materials

Entry doors are primarily constructed of steel, fiberglass or wood. The material that is right for your home will depend on cost, desired look and, to a limited degree, geography.

Steel is the most economical and popular material and is also sturdy, secure and can be painted to match a home. Steel is susceptible to denting, rusting and corrosion in coastal areas, however.

Wood, the second most popular material, has an inherent richness in texture, provides security and can be painted or stained. Wood requires regular maintenance to prevent rot and keep it looking good.

Fiberglass doors make up the fastest-growing segment of the entry door market. A smooth fiberglass door provides the characteristics of steel but won't dent or corrode in coastal climates. Textured fiberglass looks like a wood door but does not require extensive maintenance.

Performance

Energy performance is a growing concern today, and Energy Star ratings indicate more energy-efficient products. Generally steel and fiberglass doors, because of the dense insulation inside, are more energy efficient than wood doors.

Another source of inefficiency can be the frame system. Components of the entry should fit snugly into the frame without gaps in the seams. Peachtree uses a single frame system for a door, sidelights and some transoms, which provides cleaner sightlines, minimizes spots for air or water infiltration and prevents sagging.

If you're interested in reducing maintenance, a fiberglass door with a frame clad with aluminum or another material may be your best option.

Decorative Elements

Mechanics aside, most homeowners are interested in an entry's looks. Windows of various shapes and sizes can be incorporated into a door for style. Decorative glass, available in many patterns, can add panache to the entry door, sidelights and transoms.

"Homeowners continue to use decorative glass to put a signature on their front entry," Kibler says. "It reinforces an architectural style of a home and dresses up an entry."

Where and how to buy

Entry doors are generally sold through lumberyards, home centers and window and door dealers.

The installation of a new door, especially a door with sidelites, transoms and complementary fixed windows, can be quite involved. Installation should be left to a professional contractor or a skilled do-it-yourselfer. To help you consider all of the factors that can shape your home's invitation, visit www.peachtreedor.com to request free literature and locate a dealer near you.

Explore mortgage opportunities for remodeling and construction

By Cynthia Grochowski
DAILY PRESS & ARGUS

The tough economy shouldn't scrap anyone's plans for upgrading existing living conditions. The right kind of loan can make a house stand out in a tough real estate market or become a new residence without changing an address.

Whether sprucing up an existing house to sell, purchasing a house that needs updating, or remodeling a current home to improve living space, the right mortgage can make it affordable.

Securing a loan based on the future value of a residence once improvements are completed is a popular method to achieve this. For example, Plus Mortgage, offered through Republic Bank, allows buyer's to invest in the current housing market.

"The financing is all in one package," Sherrie Hayter, vice president loan officer at Republic Bank in Hartland, said.

This approach saves the borrower money, such as having one set of closing costs instead of two. "In many cases the interest rates are better," Shelly Pies, senior loan officer with Republic Bank in Howell, explained. "You have one payment. You are not paying on a mortgage and then a home equity line credit and then a construction loan."

Classified as a rehab or tear-down mortgage, this type of purchase or refinance loan is

"Adding square footage is always a plus, but kitchen and bath remodels are No.1. They may even find their house more livable once they remodel."

- Shelly Pies

Senior loan officer with Republic Bank in Howell excellent for updating a house in which a borrower does not have a lot of equity.

"This allows the borrower to make improvements before they have equity," Hayter said.

Mortgages based on the future value of the rehabilitated house is especially useful for borrowers looking to invest in real estate.

"A lot of customers are using this program to pick up foreclosed homes and fund the rehabilitation," David Morgan, vice president branch management at Republic Bank in Brighton, said.

Repairs are treated like construction loans with interest paid as funds are drawn down from the construction account. These mortgages may also be flexible, with access to current rates when construction is done.

"You can pick a program for the construction financing, but you are not locked into that program for the mortgage," Morgan said. "You have the flexibility of modifying the program."

Borrowing to update a current home can also be less expensive than buying or building new. It also saves a borrower from losing their Homestead cap, Hayter pointed out.

"Adding square footage is always a plus," Pies said, "but kitchen and bath remodels are number one. They may even find their house more livable once they remodel."

According to "Remodeling" magazine, bathroom and kitchen remodels experience a 87 percent cost recovery, wood replacement windows a 85 percent recovery, and a two story addition a 83 percent recovery.

Future value mortgages can also be used for tear downs. Tear down refers to demolishing an existing home in order to rebuild, or building a new home next to the existing home, then tearing down the old home once the new one is completed.

Purchase a vacant lot for building can be mortgaged this way also.

"We calculate into the cost to build the cost to buy the land," Morgan said. "The first draw will pay for the land."

Add warmth of stone and save money

Stone work exudes warmth and stability to any structure where it is used.

Those qualities can be had for a fraction of the labor and price of traditional stone work by utilizing stone veneers. Decorating with stone veneers has been a growing trend, as people become more aware of the endless possibilities they present.

A beautiful stone veneer will add instant curb appeal to your home or business with its unique architectural style that is sure to draw attention.

Available in both natural and man-made material, thin, stone veneers are generally around two inches in thickness. Manufactured stone is cast from technically advanced molds creating a believable natural stone look, at an affordable price.

Stone veneers can be used for both interior and exterior wall applications. With the proper surface preparation, you are limited only by your imagination.

Interior ideas include fireplaces, kitchens, dens, wine cellars, or any wall that could use a facelift.

Exterior applications include exterior walls, foundations, garages, sheds, both residential, as well as commercial.

Unlike brick, stone veneers can be attached to a wall without resting on a ledge. Manufactured stone is lighter in weight for ease of installation. Installation requires a sound surface, such as drywall, brick, masonry block, or even plywood. Grouting may or may not be required, depending of the style of stone, and the desired final appearance. The process can be completed by a do-it-yourselfer, builder or contractor.

Don't forget to review insurance

Home improvements can mean added value to your home, a more pleasurable living space and possibly the need to change your homeowners insurance policy.

According to the Insurance Information Institute, around 40 percent of homeowners who say they have significantly remodeled their homes have not updated their homeowners insurance to reflect the added value.

You shouldn't wait to add additional coverage after the improvements are completed. Talk to your insurance agent about what your renovations will entail before you begin, and he or she can help determine if your current policy will cover the added value and the potential extra liability you'll need from having workers in your home.

You'll also want protection if the remodel is damaged or destroyed before it's completed. Otherwise, you'll probably have to pay for the loss out of your own pocket, which could be a very expensive venture.

Repair or nightmare?

Research can help you avoid disaster

By Melonee McKinney Hurt
GANNETT NEWS SERVICE

Imagine hiring a contractor to remodel your dowdy kitchen into a bright, airy space that would make the Pottery Barn catalog look shabby. When the job is finished, the home has a sparkly new kitchen - and a handful of liens on the property because the contractor didn't pay his subcontractors.

The government's Consumer Action Handbook notes that complaints about home repair contractors, along with auto sales and rentals, are perennially near the top of the lists.

"It's an imperfect industry that consumers don't know a lot about. They have a very high expectation that is completely torn apart when you get into the process," says Kathleen Calligan, president and CEO of the Better Business Bureau of Middle Tennessee. "If you are at a party, you are going to hear a contractor horror story."

Do your homework

Wayne Evans, owner of ProServ Residential Services of Franklin, Tenn., says that to prevent a nightmare, homeowners in search of remodeling or renovations have to do their homework before hiring a contractor. He says that should go beyond just asking a neighbor or friend who they've used in the past.

"It starts with a typical situation where someone is sitting in church and says, 'Hey, I need to have my house painted. Who do you use?'" Evans says. "I really haven't found that a lot of folks go much further than that."

Evans says a good bit of his business involves reworking something that's been done wrong or doing a job when another contractor fails to show up. Calligan says the Better Business Bureau files are full of contractors who leave a bad track record in one area, only to set up shop elsewhere under a new name.

"We have known some that are pretty blatant," she says. "They don't think that anyone is tracking them. They know legally they have a pretty wide veil covering them. so they will go do some work in, say, Hendersonville, not be a quality builder and move to some other county and get a different business license and do business as usual. That is the most disturbing of all."

Evans adds that this is why it's important to get references from more than one source.

"We have testimonials on our Web site, but I advise people to call someone else, too. Someone unsolicited," Evans says.

Know what you want

Evans says that before homeowners ever make a call to a contractor, they should have a clear idea of what they want or need done in their home. Otherwise, this can be fuel for miscommunication.

"A lot of times people don't really know what their goal is," Evans says. "They need to break it down into phases and think about what's involved in each phase. You may get a great referral on a painter, but he may not know how to install drywall, so you might end up with really sloppy drywall."

Next, he says, check with your local chamber of commerce and Better Business Bureau. Any reputable, ethical businesses should be registered with the BBB.

"I also recommend that people check with their local banker," Evans says. "Real businesses have real footprints. If you are searching for a contractor and are coming up with goose eggs, you better be careful about your selection."

Evans also advises checking references with local suppliers. One of the biggest complaints against contractors is failure to pay sub-contractors or suppliers. If the company in question is known for paying for its supplies and subs, chances are their reputation will be good.

Ask for references

Kathie and Roy Esteban relocated to Tennessee from Florida recently and needed to add two rooms and a bathroom to their house. Kathie Esteban says she found her contractor, Associated Central Tennessee Contractors, already working on another job in her neighborhood.

"We had been looking in the phone book and in the paper, when we saw someone in our neighborhood who was also adding on to their house," Esteban says. "We went in and looked at his workmanship and talked to the homeowner. When you are spending $77,000 on an addition, a reference is so important."

"Many consumers expect the construction industry to be perfect, and it's not," Calligan says. "It's the nature of construction. Timelines don't flow. Building materials can be inferior; there are different qualities of skilled craftsman. All of those play in to the end result. All of those things can be worked through if there is a commitment by the builder to satisfy their customer."

One last thing both Calligan and Evans stress not to overlook are personalities.

"There are some projects where I am in and out of someone's house for months," Evans says. "We have to be able to get along. Ask your potential contractor if he or she is a solutions provider. That's who you want for your project."

State officials recommend these steps to find a good contractor and avoid scams:

- Make sure the person is properly licensed. Write down the license number and check it by calling your state's contractor licensing agency.

- Get recommendations from friends and neighbors, and check any references given to you by a prospective contractor.

- Make sure the contractor is insured to cover workers' compensation, damage and general liability.

- Get written estimates from at least three contractors based on identical project specifications.

- Get a written contract for all work that includes specific details of what is to be done, materials used and any cleanup afterward. It should include a completion date and payment schedule. Make sure it includes any oral promises the contractor made.

- Never pay the entire cost of work up front. A deposit of one-third of the total price is considered standard procedure.

- Avoid hiring anyone who engages in high-pressure sales tactics or who make claims or attach conditions that seem questionable. Examples: strangers who show up at your door claiming they "just finished a job nearby and have material leftover" and offer to do a job for a discounted price; anyone who requires a large down payment; anyone who gives only a post office box address, with no street address, or a telephone number that is just an answering service; or anyone who refuses to give you a written estimate, contract or references.

- To file a complaint against a licensed contractor, visit the Better Business Bureau at www.bbb.org.

WSU development a boon to Detroit's economic future

Wayne State's South University Village, hailed as the first major market-rate residential project of its kind in Detroit in more than 30 years, is about to become a reality. Grand Rapids-based developer, Prime Development, and the university are scheduled to break ground this month on the $36 million residential and retail establishment and parking structure.

Located on the former site of the old Vernor's ginger ale factory, South University Village will be a major commercial corridor marked by exciting shops and restaurants, state-of-the-art residential facilities and a thriving gateway to the Wayne State University campus.

Studio One Apartments, LLC will build and finance the new 155,000-square-foot five-story mixed-use building — of which 26,217 square feet is first-floor commercial plus four levels of market-rate residential rental units — projected to cost $20 million. The university will build and finance a four-level parking garage — projected to cost $15.9 million — to serve the needs of the general public, the residential/retail complex and the university. The planned completion dates and openings are set for spring/summer of 2008. The project, including the residential/retail building and public parking structure, will be located on four acres on the west side of Woodward and the south side of Forest, between Canfield and Forest, immediately north of The Whitney restaurant. The parking deck and apartment building will be connected, enabling residents to park and walk to their building.

Phase 2 will add another $20 million of new construction in 2010-12 with a second five-story apartment or condominium project along Canfield just west of The Whitney restaurant. Thus, South University Village represents more than a $50 million investment in the city of Detroit over the next five years.

According to Wayne State University President Irvin D. Reid, South University Village highlights Wayne State's role as a lead partner in the development of Midtown and the revitalization of Detroit.

"South University Village will create 195 temporary construction-related jobs and approximately 65 new jobs associated with the bank, retail operations and parking structure," Reid said. "This is a significant achievement in the history of our city and a model for the economic benefits of public-private partnerships in our state."

Gov. Jennifer Granholm believes Wayne State serves as a model for how research institutions are helping shape Michigan's economy.

"Wayne State is helping to drive our state's 21st century forward by educating students and conducting cutting edge research," Granholm said. "Now the university is, once again, demonstrating just how valuable it can be in shaping a vibrant community with economic development projects that are building on the successful Tech Town project."

Detroit Mayor Kwame Kilpatrick concurred, citing the infusion of investment that South University Village attracted from the western side of the state.

"The fact that a Grand Rapids-based developer chose to invest major dollars and resources into this project demonstrates that business opportunities abound for companies across the state that have yet to do business here," he said.

Marcel Burgler, principal of Prime Development, noted that, in addition to recognizing economic opportunity, he and his partners were welcomed by the city.

"Wayne State, the mayor's office and the Detroit Economic Growth Corporation (DEGC) went to great lengths to make developing Studio One Apartments a painless endeavor," he said. "Moreover, extensive market research proved to us that there is a great demand in the city of Detroit for high-quality rental apartments. We expect to be very successful."

"There is great potential for South University Village," said David Egner, president of the Hudson-Webber Foundation, which funded the initial feasibility study for the project. "South University Village made sense as a property that filled a void for much-needed housing, public parking and retail," he noted. "Moreover, it represents a sound economic investment for all parties involved."

The Michigan Economic Development Corp. (MEDC), the DEGC, TAKTIX, a Detroit-based real estate consulting company, and Prime Development, as well as private and public corporations and foundations, shared the vision that led to the efforts to make South University Village happen.

"TAKTIX worked with Wayne State on the plans for the old Vernor's site to accelerate the university's master plan to provide market-rate residential housing on campus for faculty, staff and the community at large," TAKTIX principal Larry Marantette said. "In this way, we and the other South University Village partners are contributing to a vibrant Midtown."

The MEDC granted approval for brownfield tax credits to support the South University Village project last December. Since that time, Prime Development has confirmed Fifth Third Bank as an anchor tenant and is working diligently to secure other retailers to service the $20 million residential apartment and retail establishment on Woodward and the supporting WSU public parking structure on Forest (Phase One).

"We believe in Wayne State's ability to transform Midtown into a thriving residential and retail center," said Gregory Kosch, president and CEO of Fifth Third Bank Eastern Michigan. "Fifth Third is growing and we're here to stay. Upon learning of South University Village, we jumped on the chance to solidify our roots in this growing community with a substantial financial investment and a bank branch and lending office right in the complex."

According to the Michigan Department of Transportation, traffic on Woodward at the site is 23,500 vehicles per day. Midtown Detroit, in particular, has experienced more than $1.6 billion in new residential and commercial construction over the past 10 years, according to the University Cultural Center Association.

Closed circuit cameras have liability concerns

Q. Our board is in the process of reviewing and updating our community association's security measures. One proposal we are considering is installing closed circuit television cameras in our common areas and parking lot. What are the benefits of installing closed circuit cameras in parking lots? Are there any down sides to doing so?

A. A closed circuit camera system is becoming a common site in community associations across the country. While it may help to reduce crime, it also requires that the association monitor the cameras and may pose additional liability on the association in regard to what is reasonably foreseeable and/or expected in connection with crime prevention. If in fact the camera does not need to be monitored that, of course, would be beneficial as small communities may not have the money or the man power to monitor the cameras. Whether the cameras should be monitored or not depends upon the willingness of the association to provide 24-hour security. You are best advised to consult with your attorney in that regard.

Q. Many of our co-owners wish to propose an amendment to our condominium bylaws but the board seems to be refusing to do so. What do you suggest?

A. Check your bylaws because most condominium association bylaws provide for a process whereby the members upon a certain percentage of the membership can petition the board to call a special meeting to vote on a proposed bylaw amendment. The board should at least consider the request of the co-owners and if they are obligated to do so, call a special meeting. You should, however, check with your community association attorney to insure that your petition is properly worded and drafted and signed by persons who are legally authorized to sign petitions in connection with the holding of a special meeting.

Builder helps customers build their own home

Howard Satovsky, a 35-year veteran Master Builder in the Western Oakland and Wayne County markets has decided to switch hats in 2007 to a style better suited to the current economic climate and Web savvy clients.

Area builder spearheads 120-unit development in Oak Park

The initial phase of a new condo community, The Oaks on Lincoln, is now open for sale. Kaftan Communities, an innovative developer with current condominium projects in Royal Oak, Southfield and Shelby, made 40 homes available for purchase at The Oaks and plan to finish renovations on at least 80 more units this spring.

Despite a slumping local economy, Kaftan is optimistic that a recovery is imminent; therefore, the developer is continuing to open new condo projects. At a time when many businesses are laying off employees, Kaftan has hired additional personnel and engaged numerous local outside contractors for this new development.

"We have faith that the economy will turn around in the near future," said Jeffrey Kaftan, president of Kaftan Communities. "Rather than waiting for things to improve, Kaftan wants to be an active part of the recovery. We are very excited to offer these stylish and affordable homes in the north Oak Park community."

The Oaks on Lincoln is conveniently located near downtown Royal Oak, Huntington Woods and Ferndale, and is within easy walking distance of grocery stores, restaurants and the Jewish Center.

Situated on eight acres, the development is on Lincoln Drive, just east of Greenfield and minutes from I-696, I-75 and M-10 expressways. Exterior features include a swimming pool, professionally landscaped grounds and immediate access to the paved pathways of Rothstein Park.

Both townhouse and garden-style floor plans are available ranging from 1,010 to 1,460 square feet. The units include basements, new appliances, cabinets, countertops and flooring and are projected to start at under $100,000. Available upgrades include granite countertops, maple cabinets, stainless steel appliances and hardwood floors.

"Buying your first home is part of the American Dream," Kaftan said. "First-time home owners are too often overlooked by builders. Kaftan's mission is to create communities designed with first-time buyers in mind."

For more information regarding The Oaks on Lincoln, visit www.kaftancondos.com or call (248) 968-2900.

Detroit to be featured at CREW Midwest conference

Downtown Detroit's riverfront will play a key role in a May conference of several hundred commercial real estate professionals from 11 Midwestern states and Ontario.

Scheduled for May 3-5 at the Detroit Marriott at the Renaissance Center, the annual Commercial Real Estate Women (CREW) Midwest Regional Conference (MWRC) will feature Detroit River development efforts in several conference sessions, including a narrated river cruise, an expert panel discussion of Midwestern waterfront revitalization projects and a keynote address by Matt Cullen, General Motors Corp. general manager/economic development & enterprise services and an active proponent of Detroit River redevelopment.

The Thursday, May 3, afternoon riverboat cruise will highlight recent and planned developments on the Detroit and Windsor sides of the Detroit River.

On May 4, the conference's signature panel, "On the Waterfront: Revitalizing Riverfronts and Leveraging Lakefronts," will examine successful waterfront development projects in the Midwest and Ontario. The Friday morning event will feature speakers from participating regional CREW chapters — including host chapter CREW Detroit — presenting case histories, best practices and biggest challenges.

Cullen, an instrumental figure in Detroit's riverfront revitalization since GM's 1996 purchase of the Renaissance Center, will deliver the conference's keynote address during Friday's afternoon luncheon.

GM has signed on as a $10,000 "Superior" level conference sponsor, says Joan Cleland, conference chair and president of Acquest Development Inc. in Bloomfield Hills. Other sponsors include the Michigan Economic Development Corporation and Oakwood Healthcare System Foundation as a sponsor of the conference "NetWalks" — morning walking and running tours of Detroit led by local CREW members.

Multiple sponsorship opportunities from $1,800 to $10,000 — which also include exposure at CREW Detroit events and on its publications and Web site throughout 2007 — are available. For more information, contact Debra Osuch at (586) 731-3100.

CREW Detroit, one of the largest local chapters of the international CREW Network, worked for two years to win the event, Cleland says.

For general information about the conference and CREW Detroit membership, contact Norma Beuter, CREW Detroit administrator, at beuter@comcast.net or visit www.crewdetroit.org/07mwrc.htm for regular updates.

Ask American Profile

Q Please tell me all you can about David Caruso.

—M. Jones. Ardmore. Okla.

The New York native became known in the series NYPD Blue but quit the hit TV show in 1994 to make his mark in movies—which didn't work out as well as he'd hoped. In 2002, another series, CSI: Miami, put him back in the spotlight. "For somebody who fell to the place that I fell in terms of unemployment and a damaged reputation, the fact that this town was willing to give me another chance is incredible," he says of Hollywood. Married and divorced three times. Caruso resides in Miami and Los Angeles.

David Caruso stars in CSI: Miami.

Q Tell me about the actress who plays Ducky's mother on NCIS. She is wonderful. I remember her as a movie star. Is her name Nina?

—Betty J. Rector. Santa Fe. Texas

Your memory serves you correctly. The Holland-born actress who plays Victoria Mallard on NCIS is Nina Foch, who has been working in Hollywood since 1943. One of her earliest roles was one of the victims in Return of the Vampire; one of her best known was opposite Gene Kelly in An American in Paris. Now 82, Foch has continued to work steadily through the years with guest appearances on popular TV shows such as Dharma & Greg, L.A. Law, Hunter and Murder, She Wrote.

Nina Foch in Vampire (above) and on NCIS

Q This one might be a bit tough. There used to be a show on TV called It's a Man's World starring four men, and one of them was Ted Bessell from That Girl. Who were the others?

—Melody Kinder. Spokane. Wash.

It's a Man's World was a short-lived 1962 TV series that starred a pre-That Girl Ted Bessell, plus Randy Boone (who would star in the 1967 series Cimarron Strip), Michael Burns (who would go on to play Barnaby West on Wagon Train) and Glenn Corbett (later Paul Morgan on Dallas).

Q What is actress Susan Blakely doing now? Where does she live?

—Agnes Brunetti. Shenandoah, La.

A former fashion model turned actress who came to stardom in the 1970s in the movie The Towering Inferno and the TV mini-series Rich Man, Poor Man, Blakely, 54, recently guest-starred on the TV series Cold Case. She appears in a new movie on the independent circuit, Grisly Park, designs her own line of jewelry and lives in Los Angeles.

Actress Susan Blakely designs a line of jewelry.

Q The hosts on What Not to Wear have such great chemistry. Are they romantically connected?

—Barbara M.. Bowling Green. Ohio

"I get asked if Stacy and I are a couple all the time!" says Clinton Kelly, who co-hosts the popular TLC fashion makeover series with Stacy London. "We're not romantically involved at all. It's more like brother and sister. We adore each other but also irritate and pick on each other, too—like siblings in the backseat of a car during a family road trip."

Clinton Kelly and Stacy London host TV's What Not to Wear.

Q Is Helen Reddy still performing?

—Mary Sutton. Alliance. Neb.

Reddy, 65, whose hit single "I Am Woman" became a pop anthem for the 1970s "women's lib" movement, retired from performing in 2002. "Fans came from 13 different states for my final show in Canada," says Reddy, who felt like it was finally time to hang up her singing career after having been in the spotlight since childhood. She now resides in her homeland of Australia, where she works as a licensed hypnotherapist.

The way anti-inflammatories work in the treatment of COPD is not well defined Important Information: ADVAIR DISKUS 250/50 is approved for controlling symptoms and preventing wheezing in adults with COPD associated with chronic bronchitis. The benefit of using ADVAIR for longer than 6 months has not been evaluated. You should only take 1 inhalation of ADVAIR twice a day. Taking higher doses will not provide additional benefits but may increase your chance of certain side effects. Lower respiratory tract infections, including pneumonia, have been reported with ADVAIR. Patients at risk for developing bone loss (osteoporosis) and some eye problems (cataracts or glaucoma) should be aware that use of inhaled corticosteroids, including ADVAIR, may increase your risk. You should consider having regular eye exams. ADVAIR does not replace fast-acting inhalers for acute symptoms.

ADVAIR DISKUS 100/50, 250/50, 500/50

(fluticasone propionate 100, 250, 500 mcg and salmeterol 50 mcg inhalation powder)

What is the most important information I should know about ADVAIR DISKUS?

In patients with asthma, long-acting beta₂-agonist medicines such as salmeterol (one of the medications in ADVAIR) may increase the chance of death from asthma problems. In a large asthma study, more patients who used salmeterol died from asthma problems compared with patients who did not use salmeterol. So ADVAIR is not for patients whose asthma is well controlled on another asthma controller medicine such as low- to medium-dose inhaled corticosteroids or only need a fast-acting inhaler once in a while. Talk with your doctor about this risk and the benefits of treating your asthma with ADVAIR.

ADVAIR should not be used to treat a severe attack of asthma or chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD) requiring emergency medical treatment.

ADVAIR should not be used to relieve sudden symptoms or sudden breathing problems. Always use a fast-acting inhaler with you to treat sudden breathing difficulty. If you do not have a fast-acting inhaler, contact your doctor to have one prescribed for you.

What is ADVAIR DISKUS?

There are two medicines in ADVAIR: fluticasone propionate, an inhaled anti-inflammatory belonging to a group of medicines commonly referred to as corticosteroids; and salmeterol, a long-acting, inhaled bronchodilator belonging to a group of medicines commonly referred to as beta₂-agonists. There are 3 strengths of ADVAIR: 100/50, 250/50, 500/50.

For Asthma

- ADVAIR is approved for the maintenance treatment of asthma in patients 4 years of age and older. ADVAIR should only be used if your doctor decides that another asthma controller medicine alone does not control your asthma or that you need 2 asthma controller medications.
- The strength of ADVAIR approved for patients ages 4 to 11 years who experience symptoms on an inhaled corticosteroid is ADVAIR DISKUS 100/50. All 3 strengths are approved for patients with asthma ages 12 years and older.

For COPD associated with chronic bronchitis

ADVAIR 250/50 is the only approved dose for the maintenance treatment of airflow obstruction in patients with COPD associated with chronic bronchitis. The benefit of using ADVAIR for longer than 6 months has not been evaluated. The way anti-inflammatories work in the treatment of COPD is not well defined.

Who should not take ADVAIR DISKUS?

You should not start ADVAIR if your asthma is becoming significantly or rapidly worse, which can be life threatening. Serious respiratory events, including death, have been reported in patients who started taking salmeterol in this situation, although it is not possible to tell whether salmeterol contributed to these events. This may also occur in patients with less severe asthma.

You should not take ADVAIR if you have had an allergic reaction to it or any of its components (salmeterol, fluticasone propionate, or lactose). Tell your doctor if you are allergic to ADVAIR, any other medications, or food products. If you experience an allergic reaction after taking ADVAIR, stop using ADVAIR immediately and contact your doctor. Allergic reactions are when you experience one or more of the following: choking, breathing problems, swelling of the face, mouth and/or tongue, rash, hives, itching, or welts on the skin.

Tell your doctor about the following:

- If you are using your fast-acting inhaler more often or using more doses than you normally do (e.g., 4 or more inhalations of your fast-acting inhaler for 2 or more days in a row or a whole canister of your fast-acting inhaler in 8 weeks' time), it could be a sign that your asthma is getting worse. If this occurs, tell your doctor immediately.
- If you have been using your fast-acting inhaler regularly (e.g., four times a day), your doctor may tell you to stop the regular use of these medications.
- If your peak flow meter results decrease. Your doctor will tell you the numbers that are right for you.
- If you have asthma and your symptoms do not improve after using ADVAIR regularly for 1 week.
- If you have been on an oral steroid like prednisone, and are now using ADVAIR. You should be very careful as you may be less able to heal after surgery, infection, or serious injury. It takes a number of months for the body to recover its ability to make its own steroid hormones after use of oral steroids. Switching from an oral steroid may also unmask a condition previously suppressed by the oral steroid such as allergies, conjunctivitis, eczema, arthritis, and eosinophilic conditions. Symptoms of an eosinophilic condition can include rash, worsening breathing problems, heart complications, and/or feeling of "pins and needles" or numbness in the arms and legs. Talk to your doctor immediately if you experience any of these symptoms.
- Sometimes patients experience unexpected bronchospasm right after taking ADVAIR. This condition can be life threatening and if it occurs you should immediately stop using ADVAIR and seek immediate medical attention.
- If you have any type of heart disease such as coronary artery disease, irregular heart beat or high blood pressure, ADVAIR should be used with caution. Be sure to talk with your doctor about your condition because salmeterol, one of the components of ADVAIR, may affect the heart by increasing heart rate and blood pressure. It may cause symptoms such as heart fluttering, chest pain, rapid heart rate, tremor, or nervousness.
- If you have seizures, overactive thyroid gland, liver problems, or are sensitive to certain medications for breathing.
- If your breathing problems get worse over time or if your fast-acting inhaler does not work as well for you while using ADVAIR. If your breathing problems worsen quickly, get emergency medical care.
- If you have been exposed to or currently have chickenpox or measles or if you have an immune system problem. Patients using medications that weaken the immune system are more likely to get infections than healthy individuals. ADVAIR contains a corticosteroid (fluticasone propionate) which may weaken the immune system. Infections like chickenpox and measles, for example, can be very serious or even fatal in susceptible patients using corticosteroids.

How should I take ADVAIR DISKUS?

ADVAIR should be used 1 inhalation, twice a day (morning and evening). ADVAIR should never be taken more than 1 inhalation twice a day. The full benefit of taking ADVAIR may take 1 week or longer.

If you miss a dose of ADVAIR, just skip that dose. Take your next dose at your usual time. Do not take two doses at one time.

Do not stop using ADVAIR unless told to do so by your doctor because your symptoms might get worse. Do not change or stop any of your medicines used to control or treat your breathing problems. Your doctor will adjust your medicines as needed.

When using ADVAIR, remember:

- Never breathe into or take the DISKUS[®] apart.
- Always use the DISKUS in a level position.
- After each inhalation, rinse your mouth with water without swallowing.
- Never wash any part of the DISKUS. Always keep it in a dry place.
- Never take an extra dose, even if you feel you did not receive a dose.
- Discard 1 month after removal from the foil overwrap.
- Do not use ADVAIR with a spacer device.

Children should use ADVAIR with an adult's help as instructed by the child's doctor.

Can I take ADVAIR DISKUS with other medications?

Tell your doctor about all the medications you take, including prescription and nonprescription medications, vitamins, and herbal supplements.

If you are taking ADVAIR, you should not take SEREVENT[®] DISKUS or Foradil[®] Aerolizer[®] for any reason.

If you take ritonavir (an HIV medication), tell your doctor. Ritonavir may interact with ADVAIR and could cause serious side effects. The anti-HIV medicines Norvir[®] Soft Gelatin Capsules, Norvir Oral Solution, and Kaletra[®] contain ritonavir.

No formal drug interaction studies have been performed with ADVAIR.

In clinical studies, there were no differences in effects on the heart when ADVAIR was taken with varying amounts of albuterol. The effect of using ADVAIR in patients with asthma while taking more than 9 puffs a day of albuterol has not been studied.

ADVAIR should be used with extreme caution during and up to 2 weeks after treatment with monoamine oxidase (MAO) inhibitors or tricyclic antidepressants since these medications can cause ADVAIR to have an even greater effect on the circulatory system.

ADVAIR should be used with caution in people who are taking ketoconazole (an antifungal medication) or other drugs broken down by the body in a similar way. These medications can cause ADVAIR to have greater steroid side effects.

Generally, people with asthma should not take beta-blockers because they counteract the effects of beta₂-agonists and may also cause severe bronchospasm. However, in some cases, for instance, following a heart attack, selective beta-blockers may still be used if there is no acceptable alternative.

The ECG changes and/or low blood potassium that may occur with some diuretics may be made worse by ADVAIR, especially at higher-than-recommended doses. Caution should be used when these drugs are used together.

In clinical studies, there was no difference in side effects when ADVAIR was taken with methylxanthines (e.g., theophylline) or with FLONASE[®].

What are other important safety considerations with ADVAIR DISKUS?

Osteoporosis: Long-term use of inhaled corticosteroids may result in bone loss (osteoporosis). Patients who are at risk for increased bone loss (tobacco use, advanced age, inactive lifestyle, poor nutrition, family history of osteoporosis, or long-term use of drugs such as corticosteroids) may have a greater risk with ADVAIR. If you have risk factors for bone loss, you should talk to your doctor about ways to reduce your risk and whether you should have your bone density evaluated.

Glaucoma and cataracts: Glaucoma, increased pressure in the eyes, and cataracts have been reported with the use of inhaled steroids, including fluticasone propionate, a medicine contained in ADVAIR. Regular eye examinations should be considered if you are taking ADVAIR.

Lower respiratory tract infection: Lower respiratory tract infections, including pneumonia, have been reported with the use of inhaled corticosteroids, including ADVAIR.

Blood sugar: Salmeterol may affect blood sugar and/or cause low blood potassium in some patients, which could lead to a side effect like an irregular heart rate. Significant changes in blood sugar and blood potassium were seen infrequently in clinical studies with ADVAIR.

Growth: Inhaled steroids may cause a reduction in growth velocity in children and adolescents.

Steroids: Taking steroids can affect your body's ability to make its own steroid hormones, which are needed during infections and times of severe stress to your body, such as an operation. These effects can sometimes be seen with inhaled steroids (but it is more common with oral steroids), especially when taken at higher-than-recommended doses over a long period of time. In some cases, these effects may be severe. Inhaled steroids often help control symptoms with less side effects than oral steroids.

Yeast infections: Patients taking ADVAIR may develop yeast infections of the mouth and/or throat ("thrush") that should be treated by their doctor.

Tuberculosis or other untreated infections: ADVAIR should be used with caution if at all, in patients with tuberculosis, herpes infections of the eye, or other untreated infections.

What are the other possible side effects of ADVAIR DISKUS?

ADVAIR may produce side effects in some patients. In clinical studies, the most common side effects with ADVAIR included:

- Respiratory infections
- Throat irritation
- Sinus infection
- Yeast infection of the mouth
- Bronchitis
- Cough
- Headaches
- Nausea and vomiting
- Diarrhea
- Musculoskeletal pain
- Dizziness
- Fever
- Ear, nose, and throat infections
- Nosebleed

Tell your doctor about any side effect that bothers you or that does not go away. These are not all the side effects with ADVAIR. Ask your doctor or pharmacist for more information.

What if I am pregnant, planning to become pregnant, or nursing?

Talk to your doctor about the benefits and risks of using ADVAIR during pregnancy, labor, or if you are nursing. There have been no studies of ADVAIR used during pregnancy, labor, or in nursing women. Salmeterol is known to interfere with labor contractions. It is not known whether ADVAIR is excreted in breast milk, but other corticosteroids have been detected in human breast milk. Fluticasone propionate, like other corticosteroids, has been associated with birth defects in animals (e.g., cleft palate and fetal death). Salmeterol showed no effect on fertility in rats at 180 times the maximum recommended daily dose.

What other important tests were conducted with ADVAIR?

There is no evidence of enhanced toxicity with ADVAIR compared with the components administered separately. In animal studies with doses much higher than those used in humans, salmeterol was associated with uterine tumors. Your healthcare professional can tell you more about how drugs are tested on animals and what the results of these tests may mean to your safety.

Birthplace of a Revolution

by SEAN CONNEELY

Just before daybreak in mid-April, the lonely clang of a bell echoes through Lexington, Mass. Answering the call, members of the Lexington Minute Men slowly assemble on the village green, where they exchange worried glances as they await the impending arrival of the Redcoats.

For more than 35 years, the Minute Men, a local history organization, has staged an annual re-enactment of the Battle of Lexington, the 1775 skirmish that sparked the American Revolution. The drama heightens when 60

Redcoat re-enactors march to the village green.

Redcoats—portrayed by re-enactment regiments from across New England—march onto the green. The scarlet wall of British soldiers brandishing muskets with bayonets creates an intimidating sight for both the Minute Men and wide-eyed spectators.

It's a scene that has personal significance for Bill Poole, a seven-year veteran of the Minute Men. "One of my ancestors was actually on the green that day," says Poole, dressed in a light-blue frocked coat and linen breeches.

"I've often walked across the green and glanced down at my shadow, and thought: 'He was here,'" says Poole of his distant relative Ebenezer Locke, a 41-year-old farmer at the time of the battle.

In the pre-dawn hours of April 19, 1775, 77 members of the local militia gathered on the Lexington Green. Under the command of Capt. John Parker, the men waited apprehensively while a force of some 700 British troops known as Regulars approached on foot from Boston. The Regulars were on their way to nearby Concord (pop. 16,993) to recover munitions.

When the British forces reached the green, the tension quickly escalated. The Colonists, sensing the futility of making a stand against such odds, began to disperse. Then a shot rang out and mayhem ensued. Minutes later, when the muskets fell silent, eight Colonists lay dead, and as many as 10 more were wounded. The Regulars, who suffered one wounded soldier during the exchange, regrouped and continued on their way to Concord. The American Revolution had begun.

The re-enactment in Lexington (pop. 30,355) takes place on the third Monday in April as part of Patriots' Day, a state holiday in Massachusetts and Maine that commemorates the armed conflicts between British troops and defiant Colonists.

Carlo Bertazzoni

"I've always loved history, and participating in this event gives me the opportunity to bring it to life," says Carlo Bertazzoni, 44, an 11-year member of the Lexington Minute Men. "It shows that history is not just in a textbook. The people love it."

The 100 dedicated history buffs that make up the Lexington Minute Men spend much of their free time marching in parades and giving educational talks throughout New England, all in anticipation of Patriots' Day.

During Lexington's celebration more than 10,000 visitors attend the re-enactment as well as other festivities, such as a road race and an afternoon parade featuring fife and drum bands from across the country.

Settled in 1642, Lexington often is referred to as the Birthplace of the American Revolution and celebrates that moniker. A favorite stop for visitors is Buckman Tavern, where in 1775 many in the militia gathered prior to the Regulars' arrival. Today, sightseers can take year-round guided tours of the tavern, which displays its original red door marked with a bullet hole from the battle.

A look at the town's past also can be found at the Minute Man National Historical Park, which includes historic buildings as well as a stretch of Route 2A, known as Battle Road—the route the British retreated along after they clashed with Colonists at Concord.

Dawn McKenna, a 40-year Lexington resident, says it's hard to overestimate the significance of the town's Patriots' Day celebration. "I think the celebration grounds us as Americans," she says. "It's the most important day of the year." ☆

CLIMB EVERY MOUNTAIN

Cancer survivor Sean Swarner scales the world's tallest peaks

From atop Mount Everest, a summit so high that he could see the curvature of the Earth, Sean Swarner radioed base camp on May 16, 2002, and asked his brother to call their parents and share the news: "Your son made it to the top of the world!"

Through tears of triumph, Swarner unfolded a silk flag printed with the names of dozens of cancer victims and planted it in the snow. "Every person who had ever had cancer, was battling cancer or didn't win the fight with their cancer was right there with me," says Swarner, a two-time cancer survivor who has climbed the world's tallest peaks on six continents to inspire people afflicted with the disease.

"I'm eternally grateful for a third chance at life," says Swarner, 32, who lives in Boulder, Colo. "I think I'm here to share hope and inspiration."

Grim prognosis

Swarner's fight for life began at age 13. While playing basketball at Willard Junior High School in Willard, Sean Swarner unfurled a flag bearing the names of cancer victims when he climbed Mount Everest in 2002.

Prayer flags fly in the breeze over a Mount Everest base camp.

Swarner trains with his dog in the Colorado Rockies.

Ohio (pop. 6,806), he jumped to make a basket and felt his knee snap. The next morning, every joint in his body was swollen.

"The long and short of it is the doctor said, 'You've got more on your plate to think about than the knee,'" recalls his mother, Teri. "He said we'd need to see an oncologist."

Sean was diagnosed with advanced-stage Hodgkins disease and his parents were told his prospects were grim. The teenager endured weeks of intense chemotherapy treatments that left him weak, bald and bloated.

"I'd been on the cusp of becoming a handsome young man," Sean recalls. "Now I felt like a troll waddling out from beneath his bridge each morning, head shiny and thighs rubbing together."

During his treatment, Sean's father, Scott, gave him a bright green T-shirt with the message: "I Don't Always Look Like This" printed on the front and "On Chemo" on the back.

After a year, when Sean's cancer was in remission, he celebrated by packing up his get-well cards and running a 5K race. In a dreadful twist of fate, in 1990, a golf-ball-sized tumor was found in his right lung and he was diagnosed with a rare Askin's sarcoma. Once again, Sean's chances of survival were slim, but amazingly he conquered cancer a second time.

"I think I'm here because of the miracles of modern medicine, family support and prayer," Sean says.

An inspiration to others

Having beaten cancer twice as a teenager, Sean planned to become a counselor for cancer patients.

However, while studying at the University of North Florida in Jacksonville in 1999, he decided that he could be more helpful by serving as an inspiration to people with cancer.

In 2001, Sean set a goal to become the first cancer survivor to summit Mount Everest, the world's tallest peak. "I wanted the highest platform to shout the potential of the human body and spirit," he says. "I wanted to shout from the rooftop of the world that there is hope."

That same year, Sean sold all his belongings and he and his younger brother, Seth, founded the not-for-profit Cancer Climber Association, which funds his climbs and helps other cancer patients realize their dreams. The brothers moved to Colorado, living in a tent at first while contacting companies about sponsorships. Sean trained by climbing the Rocky Mountains with 100 pounds of rocks in a backpack.

Despite his vigorous training, when Sean arrived at the base of 29,035-foot Mount Everest in 2002, he was humbled by the feat before him. For weeks, he acclimated to the altitude by climbing several thousand feet up the mountain during the day, then descending to sleep at night. He battled bone-chilling cold and 100-mph winds as he jabbed his ice axe into the snow to use as an anchor to keep from blowing off the mountain. He crossed crevasses several hundred feet deep on aluminum ladders lashed together. Each footstep became a life-or-death decision in air so thin that climbers often die from lack of oxygen.

On the final push to the summit, Sean was rewarded with a scene of unforgettable beauty. "The sunrise was gorgeous—orange, red, blue, purple—off to my right, and to my left there was nothing but stars at eye level."

The flag, dedicated to cancer victims, wasn't all that Sean left in Nepal. He visited the Bhaktapur Cancer Care Center where he met a teenage boy, thin and bald, and felt as if he were looking in a mirror. Sean unpacked his green "On Chemo" T-shirt, which he'd brought along for good luck, and gave it to the boy.

"I told him when he got better and his cancer was gone, he had to give the shirt to someone else."

Keep climbing

After conquering Mount Everest, Sean set his sights on scaling the "Seven Summits"—the tallest peak on each of the world's seven continents—and planting a flag with names of cancer victims.

In 2003, Sean climbed Africa's Kilimanjaro and Europe's Elbrus; in 2005, he climbed South

America's Aconcagua and Australia's Kosciusko. In January, he stood atop Antarctica's Vinson.

Sean shares his personal challenges and mountaineering feats when he visits hospitals and speaks to groups around the country. He also relates his story in a recently released autobiography, Keep Climbing: How I Beat Cancer and Reached the Top of the World.

"Sean is the most inspirational guy you'll ever meet. He's so humble and down-to-earth, yet has accomplished so much," says Zac York, 19, who suffered a brain tumor at age 12 and was not expected to walk again.

Last summer, the Cancer Climber Association helped York buy gear and train for his goal of climbing 14,494-foot Mount Whitney, the tallest peak in California. Sean was beside him every step.

York, a freshman at the University of Arizona in Tucson, walks on crutches and bad weather cut his ascent short, but not his sense of accomplishment. "I spent a week in the mountains with the best people in the world," York says. "Sean shows you that there's always hope. Look at him—he's scaling the world's highest peaks with one lung."

Sean has one more mountain to climb to complete the Seven Summits—North America's Mount McKinley. He tried to reach the 20,320-foot Alaskan peak last year, but a 100-foot fall rattled him, scuttling his attempt. In May, he'll try again in hopes of standing atop the mountain on the fifth anniversary of his Mount Everest summit.

He won't be alone. In his chest pocket, Sean will carry a flag with the names of thousands of people stricken by cancer. It's his way of encouraging others to climb their own mountains. ☆

Glenda survived a serious car accident that nearly killed her and left her partially paralyzed. Despite that, after finishing college at West Point, she went on to medical school, got married and gave birth to her son, Avi. But the pressures of being a new mom and an overwhelmed psychiatry resident eventually took their toll. Her weight climbed to an all-new high.

"I was desperate. My life was coming apart at the seams until... I found NutriSystem."

"Between my pregnancy and my injuries, it was impossible to keep my weight down. Dealing with a physical handicap and scars was hard enough; it was especially difficult to be overweight on top of that.

Then I discovered that my husband was having an affair, and my marriage began falling apart.

Part of me kept thinking: if I were slim, would things have ended this way? I desperately needed control of my life but just didn't know where to start.

Then I tried NutriSystem. Since then, I've lost 53 pounds* and three jeans sizes on the NutriSystem program, and I've gained so much self-confidence.

NutriSystem changed my life!

I had decided if I had more control over my life—my weight, my health, my appearance—maybe things would be a little bit easier. One night I was on the internet looking up options for weight loss surgery when I saw an ad for NutriSystem. That's when I made the decision that I was going to do this. Instead of arranging for surgery, I joined NutriSystem and placed an order for food. For the first time in a long time, I felt hopeful.

Now, a year after reaching my goal, I still have people telling me how amazed they are at my transformation.

*Results not typical. All other weight loss claims are based on an independent survey of NutriSystem clients who stayed on-program for an average of 12 weeks. Clients may have been remunerated. On NutriSystem, you add-in fresh fruit, vegetables, salads and dairy items. †When choosing Auto-Delivery.

It's like having my own personal chef!

The NutriSystem program is so convenient and a real time-saver, especially for busy moms like me. Now, I have more time to play with my son and relax because I'm not cooking all the time. Having your meals delivered to your door is priceless. It's so simple: I just open a box, lay out the food, add some fruit and veggies and go to town.

I hate dieting. It's always felt like I was punishing myself and depriving myself of something I love—food! But NutriSystem food really tastes great! I got to eat my favorites—and I still lost weight.

Plus! I was never hungry.

The secret is the NutriSystem Glycemic Advantage™

The power of the Glycemic Advantage™ allowed me to eat carbs and lose weight. You see, the people at NutriSystem have found a way to separate good carbs from bad. So I ate pizza, pasta and chocolate and still lost weight.

Plus, it was totally affordable. For about $10 a day,† NutriSystem gives you three meals and snacks—and membership is absolutely free.

I started seeing great results, and everyone noticed.

When I started the program, the most challenging part of losing weight was being the only one who believed I could do it. No one really expected me to lose as much weight as I did.

Now, when I look in the mirror, I'm proud of the job I did, and I still get people telling me how great I look.

I cleared out my closet and got rid of eight bags of clothes that were too big. I would have never had the guts to do that before. That really represents a change in my self-esteem and my self-confidence. Losing weight has brought out a confidence in me that was always there but just hidden.

If I can do it, you can, too!

Here I am: 53 pounds* lighter and three jeans sizes smaller. I feel great, have more energy, and best of all, I've gained the self-confidence I deserve. Believe me, if NutriSystem can work for me—with everything I've been through—it can work for you, too. Call today.

Taking the Bible Behind Bars

by KAREN KARVONEN

The men who study the Bible with John Steeves aren't your average churchgoers. Dressed in orange prison garb, many await sentencing for burglary, trafficking in narcotics, rape or murder.

But that doesn't faze Steeves, 83, a World War II veteran and volunteer minister from Neenah, Wis. (pop. 24,507). For nearly 45 years, he has spent three days a week sharing the Gospel and straight talk with inmates at the Winnebago County Jail in nearby Oshkosh.

"I was a high school teacher and had a family of eight to support, so my time was limited. But I thought it was something I could do to serve God," says Steeves, who responded to a fellow parishioner's request at his local church to lead Bible studies in the county jail. "That was in '62, and I'm thankful for the opportunity and heart for this work that God has given me."

Steeves is undaunted by the fact that nearly 75 percent of the men he counsels return to lives of crime after their release. He believes the Lord gives second chances—and third, fourth and fifth chances as well. He teaches that redemption and salvation are possible if people truly want to change, and accepts the reality that some, sadly, do not.

"Some of them read and understand the Bible very well," Steeves says. "The trouble is they are good at talking about the Bible, but they aren't living it. I always stress that they need to walk the talk."

A soft-spoken, grandfatherly man, Steeves may seem an unlikely candidate for a jail ministry. But as a young U.S. Army recruit, he long ago witnessed mankind at its worst. The young soldier landed on the beach of Normandy, France, in 1944, and was wounded in the D-Day invasion. After recuperating for a month and a half, he fought in three more battles.

"I've seen what men like Hitler, who didn't follow the truth of the Bible, could do," Steeves says.

Steeves also knows firsthand what a difference that a helping hand can make. When he was 5, his parents broke up, and he was given up for adoption.

"The family that took me in was a blessing," Steeves says. "I could tell God was watching out for me from the beginning."

Through the years, Steeves has steered many men toward a spiritual path.

Fred Sowatzka, 60, began attending Steeves' Bible studies in 1971 when he was jailed and battling addictions to drugs and alcohol. "He really changed my life," says Sowatzka, who even joined his mentor's church when he was released. Sowatzka since has started a jail ministry of his own and, for the last 12 years, has provided religious guidance at the nearby Outagamie County Justice Center in Appleton, Wis., where he is full-time chaplain director for 550 inmates.

Ed Demler, a chaplain with the Winnebago County Sheriff's Department, estimates that Steeves' jail ministry has touched at least 66,000 people. "It's so inspiring for me to see a man who is so committed," Demler says. "John never gives up on people."

Steeves finds great satisfaction in bumping into the inmates he's helped in the community. "Wherever I go, I run into people who say, 'Hey sir, remember me from jail?'" Steeves says. "It's hard for me to remember everyone, but I know that the Lord is working in their lives, and I know that my life has been so worthwhile because of the time I've spent in His ministry." ✨

Handy Hints

Helpful Tips for Around the House

See-through junk drawer in a bag

Store your extra fasteners in a clear plastic bag instead of a coffee can or junk drawer. Searching for the correct nut, bolt or whatever is as easy as looking "through" the bag, reaching in and plucking it from the mix.

Ant-proof your hummingbird feeder

If it bugs you that ants come to your hummingbird feeder and treat it like a picnic table, try this. Punch a little hole in the bottom of a shallow can and thread through the line that suspends the feeder. Tie a large knot in the line so the container rests on the knot. Seal the hole at the top and bottom with silicone caulk. Then punch a hole in a smaller can, slip that over the string and caulk it to the bottom of the first can. After the caulk hardens, pour in water and your feeder will be ant-proof. It acts like the moat around a castle.

PVC tool holder

Build this PVC rack to store your tools on the wall. Use a jigsaw to cut a 1/4-inch-wide notch down the length of a 2-inch-diameter PVC pipe. Cut several 3/2-inch-long sections with a hacksaw or miter saw, and drill two 1/8-inch holes behind the notch. Use 1/4-inch drywall screws to attach these pieces to a 2x4 screwed to the wall.

Furnace filter reminder

When you buy a new box of furnace filters, write the months of the year on the individual filters if you change them monthly. That way, you'll always know when you last changed the filter.

Easter Dinner

If you have guests coming over for Easter dinner, consider these two delicious recipes as part of an elegant meal.

Light, tender and lemony, the Chicken Piccata recipe submitted by Peter Quaglia of Stover, Mo., is an ideal spring entree. The Italian-inspired dish also is easy to prepare quickly. "When I was very young, I watched and helped my grandmother cook," Quaglia says. "Since then, I've had a passion for cooking. This is one of my creations."

For the grand finale, try Linda Robinson's Strawberry Torte. As tantalizing to the taste buds as it is elegant-looking, the dessert can be made in stages. Make the cake layers the day before Easter and wrap tightly in plastic wrap. Then, just before serving, whip the cream, slice the strawberries and assemble the cake.

"This recipe was given to me by a co-worker many years ago," says Robinson of Jamaica, Vt. "It became a family favorite, especially for my son."

Jamaica, Vt.

Chicken Piccata

- 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
 - 1 egg
 - 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, divided
 - ½ cup chicken stock
 - ½ cup all-purpose flour
 - ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
 - ¼ teaspoon paprika
 - ¼ cup butter
 - 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley
 - 1 lemon, cut into ¼-inch slices

1. Pound chicken breasts between sheets of wax paper until very thin, about 1/4-inch thick.
2. Whisk egg with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Combine remaining lemon juice with chicken stock. Sift flour, garlic powder and paprika into a large bowl.
3. Melt butter in a large heavy skillet. Dip chicken into egg mixture and then coat well with flour mixture. Place in skillet and cook over medium-high heat for about 1 minute on each side. Pour chicken stock mixture over chicken. Reduce heat to medium-low, cover, and cook until chicken is very tender, 10 to 15 minutes. Transfer chicken to serving plates.
4. Stir sauce in the pan and spoon over each chicken breast. Sprinkle with parsley and garnish with lemon slices. Serve immediately. Serves 4.

4. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Cool 5 minutes and then remove to plates.
5. When completely cool, arrange strawberries over the egg-white side of one layer. Top with second layer, with the egg-white side down. Spread whipped cream on top. Serves 8.

Creating New Easter Traditions

Most families have their own Easter traditions, from dyeing eggs to filling baskets with jellybeans and chocolate bunnies. This year, consider a new tradition or add a twist to an old one to create an unforgettable Easter memory. Here are a few ideas:

Teach children the importance of Easter. Before your family egg hunt, write questions about the holiday on pieces of paper and place them along with treats inside plastic eggs. After all the eggs are found, ask the kids to open one egg at a time to discover their treat while parents answer the question inside.

Decorate an Easter tree. A week or two before Easter, use garden shears to clip a few budding branches, about 20 inches long, from a flowering tree or shrub and arrange them in a water-filled vase. Place the vase in a warm room, and when leaves appear after several days use ribbons to hang hollowed painted eggs from the branches.

Create a unique centerpiece. Fill a tall glass vase with alternating layers of dyed eggs and Spanish moss, then place a piece of moistened florist foam just inside the mouth of the vase, adding extra moss around the edges to disguise the foam. Insert fresh flowers such as tulips for a festive bouquet.

Make gelatin eggs with your kids. Prepare one 3-ounce package of flavored gelatin, using only $\frac{1}{2}$ cup hot water and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cold water. Use a small funnel to fill hollowed eggs with liquid gelatin, then refrigerate until gelatin is firm. To unmold eggs, tap the shells, hold them under lukewarm water and peel as you would a hard-boiled egg. Refrigerate in an airtight container until you're ready to serve.

Celebrate with a sunrise breakfast. Prepare a picnic breakfast of boiled eggs, sweet rolls and fruit in Easter baskets. Get up early on Easter morning and go to a quiet place to watch the sunrise. Spread a blanket, read the Easter story and enjoy your family feast together. ✨
