Speak up tonight on sewer project

Plan will affect older neighborhood

Northville Township leaders are interested in hearing from residents who have questions about a sanitary sewer system improvement project planned at the township board meeting at 7:30 tonight.

The project would involve homes not necessary, as they say they have not had problems with their septic tanks. Township staff members say stud-

He said there has been evidence of E. coli in storm water coming from these septic tanks that, in general, are old, some more than 30 years old.

The Wayne County Health Department has to support the fact that there is an environmental problem

Northville guitarist, singer wins Talent for the Title

Awarded trophy, $500 in cash, photo session

BY PAN FLENING STAFF WRITER

Nick Grochowicz of Northville won the judges over with his eclectic song "Pretty Bird," by the indie band Montgomery Bus Boycott in the 2010 Talent for the Title contest last Thursday.

This band was inspired by the Montgomery Bus Boycott in Montgomery, Ala., in the 1950s and the sacrifices that the Freedom Riders made.

"I was inspired by the heart that they (civil rights activists) had — putting themselves out there," Grochowicz said.

"The song touches on their experiences riding from a place where it was legal for them to ride on a bus to another county where it was illegal and the struggles that that would have on one's soul," he said.

The finals were postponed at Town Square in downtown Northville until June 10 due to the storm that brought the event to an abrupt halt on June 4.

Grochowicz, 26, won a crystal trophy, $500 cash prize, a complimentary photo session at Steve Fecht Photography in Northville plus some other prizes to be determined.

He is a student at Schoolcraft College in Livonia studying recording technology and started playing guitar seriously about four years ago.

"I always had performance issues," Grochowicz said. So, winning the talent contest title was rewarding for him.

"I was surprised," he said after the announcement. "There's a lot of great talent here. I'm still taking it all in."

WANTS TO BE PRODUCER

Grochowicz graduated from Wayne Memorial High School and hopes to become a producer/ middle man for local artists who go to recording studios. "I want to help them get what they're paying for," he said.

For the last month, Grochowicz has been a regular at the Broughton Music & Art Center open mic nights at 7 p.m. on Wednesdays for those who want to hear more of his music.

Grochowicz' performance could be compared to the solo guitarist sensation John Mayer. "He's a lot cuter than me," Grochowicz said.

JUDGES' AWARDS

Judges' awards were presented prior to the category awards. In the Junior Music Solo category, judge Gary Weinsenburg selected Sophia Sdao, who performed a classical piano selection, Sonata No. VI by Haydn.

In the Junior Music Band category, The Breaks, consisting of Patrick Kornmeyer, guitar; Mike Dause, drums; and Aaron Zalewski, bass, won a Judges' Award.

The Senior Music Singer/Songwriter Judges' Award went to Grochowicz.

The Junior Solo Dance Judges' Award was presented to Pranati Movva, who performed a classical Indian dance.

In the Junior Music Solo category, the Judges' Award went to Cynthia Nabozny, who performed the song "Warwick Avenue" by the artist Duffy accompanied by pianist Xander Greene.

The melodic death metal band Malevolent Awakening won the Senior Music Band Judges' Award, who performed the song "Monochrome." Band members include Tobias Pace on drums; Sean Philips on lead guitar; Evan Ross on vocals; and Craig Prost on bass.

Co-chairs Awards included Laurie Jarski, who presented her award to Grochowicz, and Mary Starring, who presented her award to Movva.

CATEGORY WINNERS

Crystal trophies were presented to each of the category winners as well as the overall winner.

The Junior Dance Solo winner was Sarah Macek, who performed a contemporary dance. The Junior Music Singer/Songwriter winner was Sdao. The winner of the Junior Music Singer/ Songwriter category was Emma Noble, who performed her song titled, "The End." Winner of the Junior Music Band category was The Breaks, who performed the song "Standing Alone In The Dark."

In the Senior Music Solo category, Kaley Moore, who performed the song "My Heart" by Paramore, won. She was accompanied by guitarist Tom Mariotti.

The Senior Music Singer/Songwriter category winner was Grochowicz.

The Senior Music Band category winner was InVirtuous, comprised of Jason Grewell, Dave Tonch, Paul Cundiff and Jim Caroll, who performed their song, "The Abyss," written by Cundiff.

Elvis show at Andiamo Novi takes audience back to the King's time

Video, vocals offer memorable performance

BY PAN FLENING STAFF WRITER

Elvis is in the building — at The Andiamo Novi Theater, that is.

The local theater's production of "Don't Be Cruel — The Life and Times of the King," is now playing Wednesday-Sunday evenings through midAugust, and local Elvis fans should not miss this show. It's not billed as a tribute show, but instead takes a look at the "real" Elvis — pointing out the ups and downs of his life. The original production, cowritten by Michigan natives Nancy Edwards and Lauren Bickers, is a multimedia theatrical event brought to life through storytelling, video and a musical montage — putting "Elvis" in the spotlight once again as he chronicles his life through his own eyes starting with the day he died.

Under Edwards' direction, the talented cast portrays Elvis and many familiar faces from his life — leaving them feeling as if they have spent an evening with the King himself.

The legend lives on, and, committed to keeping the King's spirit alive, is Max Pellicano of Grosse Pointe who portrays Elvis in the production.

His uncanny resemblance and equally chilling performance have mesmerized thousands worldwide. Pellicano's "Elvis to the Max" show is regarded as the No. 1 Elvis show in the world. According to Rolling Stone Magazine "If Elvis was alive, he'd be doing Max impersonations."

Equally appealing are the well-researched video clips that depict news reels and happenings of the day during Elvis' time as well as many touching videos and photographs of his Army days, his life with his young bride, Priscilla, their daughter, Lisa Marie, as a baby, his Memphis home, Graceland, and more.

These are some never-seenbefore glimpses into the life of the King that tell the true story of his most-unusual journey.

Silhouetted images of those people who made Elvis who he was — from his mother to his manager — are another special part of the show.

And, of course, the band at the end, complete with backup singers, make the production a winner all the way around. Even if you didn't live in

Elvis' time, this historical look will teach you what his life and that era was all about. The performance is suitable for all ages.

With Father's Day coming up this weekend, tickets to the "Don't Be Cruel" performance would be a perfect gift for any father who digs Elvis.

NEF hits 5 percent of $1M goal

The Northville Educational Foundation (NEF) plans to raise several million dollars to enhance educational excellence in Northville Public Schools. These dollars will fund program expenses as well as provide endowment funds for future expenses. An anonymous donor has pledged $1 million to the Northville Educational Foundation. The Community Challenge began on April 14 to raise an additional $1 million. Over the past two months Northville Educational Foundation has received over $55,000 in donations and pledges - over 5 percent of the goal.

The Northville community has responded to the NEF challenge in many remarkable ways including a $2,000 donation by the NHS Class of 2010 at graduation ceremonies and $9000 in contributions to Thank NPS Staff for a Great Year with over 1,000 certificates of appreciation distributed to honored NPS staff members. A couple celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary asked for donations to the NEF in lieu of gifts. Proceeds from bake sales have been contributed along with checks and pledges from over 200 other community members and businesses.

The Foundation's volunteer Board of Directors encourages contributions from students, families, employees, alumni, grandparents, community members and local businesses.

The Northville Educational Foundation is not in a position to fill the funding gap facing Northville Public Schools estimated at over $7 million in 2010-11 which is the result of severe state funding cuts. However, the NEF works with Northville Public Schools to determine specific projects that NEF can fund - above and beyond those which the district can support. These programs will enhance the excellent educational experiences for all students - a hallmark of Northville Public Schools.

2004, and that the environmentally-unfriendly practice was done years ago by a company that no longer exists.

General Oil Company produces products made from recycled oil, provides savings to customers and promotes a sustainable environment.

The firm recycles valuable components in industrial used oils so they can be recycled by manufacturers again and again. "This preserves a valuable resource and reduces our carbon footprint and our impact on the environment," Westerdale said.

The firm owned the property near the recently shut-down well from the early 1980s until 2004. "When we bought the place, we thought the remediation had been done properly, and, obviously, it hadn't," Westerdale said. Westerdale thinks the original owner was a company called Mergraf Oil, which he believes owned the land in the 1950s or 1960s.

"This was before we knew not to dump things into the ground," he said. "There was a time when it was believed that the earth would filter out the bad stuff." General Oil never recycled oil at the Northville location.

"We simply blended product," Westerdale said. "All we did was bring oil in, put it in tanks, blended the product and sent it out. We still do this. We see ourselves as part of the solution, not part of the problem."

'We simply blended product. All we did was bring oil in, put it in tanks, blended the product and sent it out. We still do this. We see ourselves as part of the solution, not part of the problem."

Even now, General Oil is one of the companies helping to clean up the land, according to Westerdale, even though the firm wasn't involved in the pollution itself. "We've stayed very active," he said. "We're still at the table working on this."

Westerdale said the cleanup effort is being well-handled. "They're monitoring wells, and we're containing the problem."

CURRENT OWNER

The current owner of the property, Doheny Supplies, Inc., at 777 Doheny Drive, is also involved in the remediation effort. The firm employs 55 people in Northville and is the world's largest supplier of sewer cleaning and industrial air conveyance vacuum trucks. The firm has turned the site into a parking lot for the company.

Jack Doheny is CEO, and Dan Weber is president of the firm. The land was purchased about six years ago, and the company has been cooperating with the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality to cleanup the property. The firm tore down some existing structures and placed a barrier surface on the land.

choose to sell their home. One resident said in an -mail to the Record that, Many of us have had our well water tested recently and have received excellent reports. This begs the obvious question, if our septic tanks are conaminating the Rouge River, wouldn't our well water be contaminated as well?'

Weaver said that well water could be fine but a septic tank could still be releasing contamination.

He also said that he believes he addition of a sanitary sewer system would increase the values of the homes in this neighborhood, and that there is an opportunity for homeowners to obtain assistance in paying the assessment through the Community Development Block Grant program.

The township will assist the esidents in funding the project cost. The remainder of the cost will be distributed among property owners benefiting from the service.

The estimated cost to the homeowners is about $820 a year for 20 years. Additional out-of-pocket costs per homeowner are expected to include costs to abandon their existing eptic system and construct a anitary lead on their property. Typical bimonthly sewer ervice charges of $103 will ilso apply once sanitary sewer service becomes available. Improvements to one pump station in this section of the township are also planned. which will cost about 17 cents a month per average residential user, according to the township.

PROPERTY VALUES

"I think we can improve the quality of the water in the area and their property values," Weaver said.

Furthermore, he says country and the state officials say septic tanks are not the preferred way to deal with human waste.

"Sanitary sewers are essential to the health, safety and welfare of the people, as septic systems are subject to failures," Weaver said.

The township is planning to run sewer lines but not water lines to this neighborhood.

WAYNE COUNTY COMMENTS Carol Austerberry, acting environmental health director for Wayne County, said the Wayne County Public Health Department did not conduct or participate in a study regarding E. coli levels in Johnson Creek. However, in 2008, the Wayne County Department of the Environment had a technical role in a quality assurance project plan for illicit discharges draining to Johnson Creek.

She also said if a septic system is determined to be in failure as defined by the Wayne County On-site Sewage Disposal System Evaluation and Maintenance Ordinance, then a property owner must do one of the following:

1. If a public sanitary sewer is available, the owner shall apply to the municipality for a permit to connect the structure to the available public sewer.

2. If no public sanitary sewer is available, the owner must apply for a permit from public health's Environmental Health Section for any remediation which involves repair, expansion or replacement of the disposal system.

"The Wayne County Public Health Division is not aware of E. coli contamination in Johnson Creek," she said. But, the Wayne County Public Health Regulation states that, "On-site sewage disposal systems are subject to failure due to soil conditions, saturation with ground water, misuse, lack of maintenance, old age or other reasons.

"Failure or potential failure of septic tank disposal systems poses a threat to public health, safety and welfare and constitutes a threat to the quality of surface and subsurface waters of the county. Connection of structures to available public sanitary sewer systems at the earliest, reasonable date is necessary for the protection of the public health and safety."

Vegetables, fruit trees, terraced areas to view

BY PAM FLEMING STAFF WRITER

Everybody knows that economic times are hard.

So, this year, the Gardeners of Northville & Novi are featuring vegetable gardens in their annual walk on June 26, among other attractions.

"In these current economic times, a lot of people are resorting to growing their own vegetables, fruits and herbs," said Gina Van Horn of Novi, a longtime member of the club and co-chair of the event with Audrey Murphy and Marcia Korzeniowski.

So, this year's gardens will include vegetable gardens, herb gardens and fruit trees, as well as perennial gardens and annuals."

The theme of this year's walk that will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. is Blooms & Bounty, reflecting the produce-producing yards.

This is the club's fourth garden walk, and it's only held every two years.

ROOMS WITH A VIEW

John Styles of Novi, who is not a club member, is sprucing up his yard as his is one of seven stops on the walk.

Styles, who has worked in production at The Oakland Press for 40 years and lived in Novi for 20 years, loves to garden. One of the side yards features an arbor entrance.

'We were trying to create a journey," into their yard, Styles said, who is assisted in the garden by Greg Schultz, an unofficially adopted brother of his who lives with him and his wife, Bonnie.

"Every time you turn a corner, you see a different garden," Styles said. His yard on the walk is called Rooms With a View.

The yard includes ferns, bluebells, geraniums, Carol Mackie daphne (which is hard to grow), a gazebo and two ponds.

His and Schultz' latest project is a shade garden with a bench and stone wall that features rocks from all over Michigan - from Lake Superior to the Ohio border. 'It's nice at night," Styles said. One area of the Styles-Schultz garden even features a metal floor lamp wired with Styles said. Once they got older, the Styles took the pool down and created a beautiful garden in its place.

Styles has been taking care of lawns since he was a boy in charge of his parents' lawn, and he even has a couple of side jobs at the end of the subdivision where he lives.

"I've been gardening since I was old enough to push a lawn mower," he said, grow-ing up in Oak Park.

He lived in Farmington Hills for 15 years before moving to his half-acre lot in Novi.

"I love to be outside, and weeding is my therapy," he said. He also enjoys sharing perennials.

"Gardening helps me think through problems," Styles said. "It's very calming to me." Another yard on the tour belongs to Connie Marcangela of Northville. It features a raised vegetable garden, terracing, a water feature, herb garden and more.

TIE A YELLOW RIBBON

To show support for members of the armed forces throughout Michigan, the club will also be part of the Grow a Yellow Ribbon Garden effort that began in 1945. This tradition at each garden and the central venue will feature a yellow ribbon in one place at each garden.

CIVIC CENTER ATTRACTION

A main attraction of the walk will be at the Novi Civic Center on 10 Mile east of Taft. This central stop on the walk will feature garden vendors with such items as twig furniture, ornamental glass and other yard ornaments, pottery, sculpture and gardening aprons, plus refreshments, with parking behind the Civic Center. This portion of the walk is free and open to the public. Tickets for $10 will also be sold there as well as at Gardenviews, 117 E. Main St. in Northville; Backyard Birds at 627 S. Main St. in Plymouth; Dinser's Flowers and Greenhouse at 24501 Dinser Drive in Novi; and at Farmer John's at 26590 Haggerty in Farmington Hills

Proceeds from the walk will go to charitable causes and community service projects.

Garden Club arbor dedicated in former president's name

Flowers were her passion in life

BY PAM FLEMING STAFF WRITER

Members of the Northville Garden Club congregated Monday morning to honor one of their own - the late Geraldine Kohs.

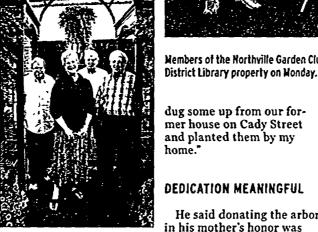

Club members met to dedicate à beautiful arbor on the east side of the Northville Public Library and stone in memory of Kohs, who passed away at age 97 in May. The arbor was a gift to the city from Kohs' sons, George Jr. of Clarkston, Curtis of Milford and Gary of Birmingham.

Their mother was presi-dent of the garden club from 1962-64. The current president, Patty Page, dedicated the arbor. The family also donated a beech tree that was planted at Mill Race Village in honor of her.

"We'd just like to thank you all from our hearts," Page said.

'My mother's life was always about flowers," Gary Kohs said. "That made her happy. Even when she was at her sickest, if we brought her flowers, that was about the best thing we could do."

our views State budget Let facts, not rhetoric, guide choices

Republican candidates for state office — particularly those running for governor and the Legislature — will fall all over themselves to show how they are most against spending and taxes. Before they make their arguments — and before voters believe them — they would do well to read a recent Senate Fiscal Agency analysis of Michigan's recent history of spending and taxation.

That analysis of Michigan's lost decade (1999 to 2009) has spurred the usual political suspects to reaffirm their usual political views when it comes to taxation and economics.

Too bad. There's a great deal of important information in the report showing Michigan's budgetary troubles aren't just the result of the automakers' collapse.

A few of the most vital points:

• "The past 10 years saw a long and persistent decline in per capita income ranking. From being ranked 18th in 2000, Michigan fell to an all-time low of 37th in 2008."

Michigan has transitioned to a poor state, with plenty of consequences. Ever wonder why certain groups talk about a huge state budget and use figures like $44 billion? Spending has grown, thanks to federal programs such as Medicaid — programs to help the poor.

Michigan has not engaged in an orgy of new state-controlled spending since 2000. It couldn't. • "With the advent of the Headlee amendment, state

• "With the advent of the Headlee amendment, state revenue, as measured in inflation-adjusted dollars, stayed in a constant range of around $10 billion to $12 billion per year. However, with the start of the 2001 Michigan recession, that number fell significantly. Today, the revenue for the general fund is around $7 billion. After adjusting for inflation, state revenue is approximately 5 percent less than the level in FY 1967-68."

Michigan lawmakers cannot tax willy-nilly. Headlee, adopted in 1978, caps taxation rates. The state, though, is now about $8 billion below that limit. When your general fund drops from $10 billion to $7 billion, you have a revenue crisis, not a spending crisis.

• "In terms of taxes per person, Michigan ranked 28th in 2007 after being ranked as high as seventh in 1999. In terms of taxes as a percentage of state personal income, Michigan was ranked 21st after being ranked as high as 10th in 1999. The falloff in the tax burden is due partially to a slowing economy and partly to changes in the tax base over the decade."

Problems with The Ranch

I am writing in regards to Dr. Broe's response dated June 3. I met Dr. Broe back on Jan. 2, 2002, at a hearing in the Michigan Plaza Buikting, eighth floor in Detroit. My wife and I filed a complaint (Special Investigation #2001A0632014) with the State of Michigan Department of Consumer and Industry Services on Aug. 14, 2001. We wrote a complaint that stated numerous negligent incidents of that summer which had occurred at Broe's Rehabilitation home know as "The Ranch." The action lead us to the State of Michigan Department of Consumer and Industry Services Bureau of Hearing, heard by Gregory Holiday, administrative law judge for the State of Michigan.

Dr. Broe stands back and throws accusation at Tom Hughes and calls us racists. Ms. Manning insults us with a lack of understanding?! Well, I say the legal documents are available that show, repeatedly, that Broe Rehabilitation Service Inc. shows a complete lack of proper care to its residents and its management has been misinforming the public and state officials for more than a decade. With the incident of a resident having bit - yes, BIT - Mr. Hughes last year in which he received medical treatment at St. Mary's Hospital (there are records/reports). With all that has taken place over the last several month. Dr. Broe has not talked to Northville Township Director of Public Safety John Werth? What is he waiting for? My wife and I live one block south of The Ranch and Mr. Tom Hughes. Police records from 2001 show 34 responses to the home, 11 of which were incidents of violence, residents gone missing, disorderly, uncontrollable and more. I have the records. Police records show year after year these types of runs to The Ranch, Broe speaks of things with no records or proof. Ann Manning speaks of her "belief" of "understanding by our community." I seriously question her ability to speak of social attitudes or our community. Ms. Manning made a statement to the Detroit Free Press regarding the April 27, 2010, Metro section article titled "Autistic man is accused in case" written by Mr. Eric D. Lawrence. In referring to The Ranch, "the facility does not serve residents with violent histories", Incredible, Ms. Manning is to say that Broe's Rehabilitation Services, Inc. has never taken in a residence (to The Ranch home) who has not had an incident of violence? To sum up Broe and his management is to read Mrs. Broe's comment in the article at hometownlife com dated June 3, 2010. She makes comment on the Local 4 TV-obtained video of a Broe rehab worker abusing a patient who had a brain injury and was wearing a head helmet that "the woman did not beat the resident with a leather whip but a cord that holds a name tag or keys." We all should be grateful the staff didn't have a cat o' nine tails. All documents regarding the complaint from 2001 have been supplied to Channel 4 and 7 local news stations, attorneys and Rep. Marc Corriveau.

hours renovating the house. The bathroom was completely refurbished, a ramp was built, rooms were painted, window treatments were made and much more. Some of the businesses that donated their time included Ed Doody Wallpapering and Painting, Windows by Design, Karla DeClue, Interior Design and Michael Weiss from MPM Company. Dana Mulder from Mulder Design Group provided us with a landscape design and has been instrumental in helping implement it with the help of many people who have donated their time, services and supplies. We owe a huge "thanks" to the agents and staff of Keller Williams Reality of Plymouth who have provided several people on three occasions to plant, dig, mutch, etc. They also provided funds to furnish landscape materials. Thanks also go out to Bill Withers for his delivery service and for redoing our paver walkway; Brian Ginnard for rebuilding our steps; Tommy Tree for removing a large tree and stump; Christensen's Plant Center of Plymouth for donating plants: Stone City of Northville for donating flagstone for a new walkway, and Adam DeLamielleure of Unilock Michigan for donating pavers. Highland Landscaping, ABL/Imperial Landscaping and Gordon's Landscaping bonated mulch and topsoil. Preen was donated by the Howard Buettner Group (Keller Williams). Wendy's donated chāt, McDonald's donated beverages and Solid Grounds Coffee House donated coffee for the workers And, finally, On May 22, our fourth annual Run for Hope walk/run, sponsored by Health for Life Chiropractic, was held at Maybury State Park with the help of the Northville Road Runners. Trinity Health Systems and Monroe Bank & Trust provided volunteers. Mary Ericson from Tonic Massage & Myofascial Release, LLC, Nancy Cassel, Absopure Water, Dick's Sporting Goods, Running Fit, Biggby Coffee, Trader Joe's, Detroit Bagel Factory and Busch's Markets all provided goods or services. I wish I could publicly thank each and every individual who has helped New Hope in some way. Because of all of our wonderful supporters, we plan to be offering grieving adults and children support for 10 years and more.

occurred a few years ago with similar results. We lost several trees, our neighbor had a large tree fail on their roof.

This area was without power for several days. Both Bioomcrest and Northview Streets were blocked by large failen trees. After a call to Chip Snider, who quickly responded by contacting Wayne County, Mike Rogers office, the trees were finally cut and removed June 9.

I spoke briefly to the county tree crew, who were leaving after clearing only Northview Street to inquire why they were not clearing Bloomcrest Street. Their reply was, "it's not on the work order." I asked why they don't do it while here. Their reply was "OT" (they wanted to come back on overtime pay).

It is clear that the residence of Northville Township cannot rely on Wayne County for our safety or services when we have another storm or, worse yet, a severe disaster such as occurred in the City of Dundee, Northville Township must implement its own plan of action

And ..

• "Despite all of these changes, Michigan's corporate tax burden fell from 12th in 1989 to 29th in 2007. This was the largest drop in tax burden among all the states."

Part of this is the consequence of job and income loss. Part of it stems from policies to reduce the income tax. Part of it stems from spending habits, whereby residents spend more on untaxed services versus goods that carry a sales tax.

"Thus, the overall picture is one in which state revenue is now at historic low and tax burdens have fallen significantly."

These are the facts that should guide voters and legislators on budget policies.

Thank you, Northville Record, and John Heider for having coverage of last night's storm on your website so quickly! This is the only coverage of last night's storm that I have found. I've checked Channel 7 and Channel 4 websites and the Detroit Free Press but none of them has any coverage of the storms last night. I'm a Northville resident and have been out of power over 12 hours now and wanted to know what was going on and when power will return. Thanks for the great video!

Kudos from New Hope

New Hope Center for Grief Support is celebrating 10 years of serving grieving adults and children in Northville, Plymouth and much of southeastern Michigan. The support we've gotten has allowed us to provide free services to over 9,000 people who have lost a child, a spouse or other loved one.

Learn from last storm

After the weekend storm, the area in which I live (Hiltcrest Manor Subdivision, north of Main Street and east of Beck Road) experienced severe winds which moved eastward and then down into the City of Northville to wreak more damage. The same scenario pian or action.

The most concerning issue with this storm and the prior one is that I experienced no Northville Township response effort, while the City of Northville was abuzz with fire, police, DPW workers and supervisors assisting in the cleanup. I did not see any Northville Township support staff in our distressed area.

I am aware that the city and township have different models of government, tax rate, lack a DPW department. However, funding should be made available for public safety personnel to visit the area to assess the damage. There should be a plan, or person, in place to survey the damage, report to the proper agencies or respond if there is an urgent need. Funds should be available to hire a private contractor, if necessary, to clear the debris vs. calling, waiting days and hoping for Wayne County to respond. As a resident, it would be comforting to know that someone from Northville Township police or fire are checking damaged homes for injured occupants, fire, or if unoccupied, the home secured, and owner contacted. Along with fallen trees and debris being inspected for live wires, trapped or injured individuals.

We cannot rely on neighbors calling in reports. As you may recall the home fire that occurred several years ago, in a subdivision off of Five Mile or Six Mile, where neighbors watched the fire, assuming someone had called in, when no one had, according to the past fire chief. Persons who may be disabled, elderly or on a medical device that requires electricity should be on a registry so they may be contacted, in person, when another long-term power failure occurs.

These severe storms are perfect training opportunities should a full-scale disaster occur. If the township responds well to small situations, the big ones should follow. From my past experience, we cannot rely on Wayne County to help us. These are opportunities for the CERT, volunteers to get involved. I hope our township government will assess the latest storm response and discuss areas that may need improvement or training that could be implemented. Thave discussed these concerns with Mr. Werth and he was very supportive of a registry for at-risk township residents. Again, I hope the township board and taxpayers will support Mr. Werth and consider further funding for his department, staff, disaster relief efforts and the purchase or rental of necessary equipment for use in the future.

A Family Adventure !!! Fun for

Eagle Scout: Laabs keeps family tradition

In keeping with his family's tradition, Dawson follows his two brothers' footsteps as he is the last of the Laabs sons to attain the rank of Eagle Scout. His two older brothers, Denver and Weston, will proudly pres-ent Dawson for this prestigious award at his Eagle Court of Honor on Saturday, June 19 at 5:00 p.m. at Maybury State Park's organizational campsite.

The Laabs family has been heavily involved in scouting since their oldest son, Denver, first joined Tiger Cubs back in 1991. Mom, Sue Laabs, served as den leader for all three boys in Pack 721, over a span of fourteen years. Dad, Dave Laabs, served as Scoutmaster of Troop 755 for six years, and continues to serve as assistant and as Scoutmaster of a Detroit area troop to the national Jamboree this summer in Virginia. Denver graduated in 2008 from Central Michigan and is now employed as a district executive in the Great Lakes Council of the Boy Scouts of America. All three sons have served as senior patrol leader of their troop, the highest youth leadership position offered. Dawson currently fills that role under the direction of Troop 755 Scoutmaster Mike Kowalczyk.

To attain Eagle, a scout must earn a minimum of 21 merit badges, serve in a leadership position, and plan and execute a community service project. Dawson has exceeded the minimum requirements by earning 33 merit badges so far.

For his project, Dawson organized a spring landscaping event at Northville's historic Mill Race Village. He met with their volunteer coordinator, Keith Paterson, who shared what needed to be done. On April 17, nearly 40 volunteers from the troop, and other friends, showed up with wheelbarrows, shovels, rakes, chainsaws and gloves. The crew spent several hours spreading mulch on every trail, around every tree, and under the arbor ing lat ines the na Adult volunteers trimmed the arbor vitae as well, while the kids all helped carry away the fallen branches.

Dawson Laabs will officially attain the rank of Eagle Scout on Saturday, June 19 at 5 p.m. at Maybury State Park's organizational campsite.

Festival activities here, as well as my brother's wedding last year," Dawson explains.

Only about 4 percent of registered scouts achieve the rank of Eagle. Troop 755's numbers are higher than that, however, under the supportive guidance of Bill Phillips, Eagle advisor to the troop.

In addition to scouting, Dawson excels at football, swimming, and ultimate Frisbee for NHS. He also is passionate about music, sings in the NHS choir, and has written close to 20 songs that he performs on his guitar. "The High Adventure trips Troop 755 has organized have been the highlights of my scouting career and of my life," said Dawson. "Some of my favorite journeys include backpacking in Wrangell-St. Elias National Park in Alaska, sailing through the Florida Keys, dog-sledding in northern Canada in below zero degree weather, and I'm looking forward to the National Jamboree with 40,000 other scouts this summer and a Northwest Quest adventure next year in the state of Washington. These trips inspired me so much that I wrote a song about it

"I chose this venue because it has impacted me in so many ways. I've attended Victorian called 'High Adventure', that I entered in the PTA Reflections contest this year."

With the scouts celebrating their 100th year in 2010, the Laabs family is one that is grateful for all it has offered.

Northville's The Gathering Place offers breakfast, lunch

Owners say business has been brisk

BY PAN FLEMING STAFF WRITER

A14 (NR)

A new breakfast-and-lunch restaurant, The Gathering Place at 505 N. Center Street next to Hiller's Market, has only been open since April 30, but business is already booming, according to the owners, Dan and Kim Russo.

Formerly Emily's, an upscale French restaurant that closed two and a half years ago, the restaurant is in an historic, two-story Victorian home, built around 1870. The restaurant is billing itself as one that serves breakfast, lunch and decadent desserts.

The restaurant features a couple of dining nooks, including a romantic table for two that would be perfect for a proposal dinner or anniversary, as well as a spacious main dining room with a fireplace on the main level and a private dining room upstairs that seats about 25.

Hours of operation are from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily, with the bakery open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Also, a special afternoon tea is served from 4-6 p.m. each Thursday.

The Russos did not have to do much to the house itself once they took over the location. But, they did paint and purchase new tables, chairs and carpeting. "Isn't it beautiful?" Dan Russo asked. Outdoor seating is also available for about 20 people.

MILFORD RESIDENTS

The Russos, who live in Milford, have been married about three years and met when they both worked in the auto industry. He's still owns a company, GGT, with a couple of partners that builds all-electric trucks, vans and small cars.

He's Italian and has been in the U.S. for seven years. She's American, and this is their first restaurant venture together. He was in the restaurant business about 25 years ago when he worked for Hyatt Regency Hotels. They are leasing The Gathering Place house from Jim Hiller of Hiller's Markets. tion from the community," Dan Russo said. "It's just been fantastic."

He said the restaurant is a great meeting place for a late breakfast or early lunch that's more upscale.

The main dining room can be rented for special occasions in the evenings. Alcohol is not served, but private parties can bring in their own.

"The fact that we're closed at 3 o'clock makes us available for special dinners," Dan Russo said. "You can have your own dining room."

Valet parking is also available. The restaurant serves a variety of teas, fluffy omelettes, pancakes, waffles, and other breakfast items, sandwiches, salads and appetizers.

Chocolate Chambord Gateau (cake), one of the many delicacies baked for Northville's The Gathering Place.

The chef is Amal Tayta of Dearborn, a recent graduate of Schoolcraft College's Culinary Arts Program.

She was formerly employed at the Dearborn Inn and the Marriott Hotel.

"I'm very excited to be here," she said. She's created a special seasoning blend used on the oven-roasted redskin potatoes served with omelettes. The French toast is another signature dish.

"Nothing on our menu is fro-zen or pre-prepared," Dan Russo said. "We use all fresh ingredients and serve Zingerman breads."

Cheryl Hawkins, also a Schoolcraft College graduate, is the pastry chef. She used to work for Hyatt Regency Hotels as well as The Whitney.

"She's really an artist," Dan Russo said. "She traveled all over the country with Hyatt and now bakes out of her home," Tayta said. "It's been great," Kim Russo said. "It's been an easy opening for us, and it's been great fun so far. I was looking to get out of the auto industry."

She said some of her friends thought she was crazy going into a business that she knew nothing about.

But, we're doing fine," she said. "We had more than 400 people our first weekend." The restaurant also provides catering for any occasion plus desserts to go. For more information or to make reservations, call (248) 924-2118.

agent for companies who provide credit card services and products, was able to access personal information and used that information to enter into lease agreements with additional companies using the victims name and credit information. Continued investigation indicates that additional criminal acts may have occurred and could extend from Michigan to Texas.

Northville's Solstice Run slated for June 26

BY SAM EGGLESTON CORRESPONDENT

The streets of Northville and Northville Township will be filled with runners next weekend as they gather in town to compete in the various races of the 2010 Northville Solstice Run.

The event, which will take place June 26 starting at 7:30 a.m., is in its eighth year and has seen continual growth since its inception in 2003. This year, with an expected turnout of over 2,000 runners, the Solstice is poised to become the 12th largest race in Michigan--quite a feat considering the top turnouts are for longtime events such as the Free Press Marathon.

"It has grown so much in the last couple of years," said Alan Whitehead, the executive race director and founder of the event. "It's turned into a much bigger event than it was when it started."

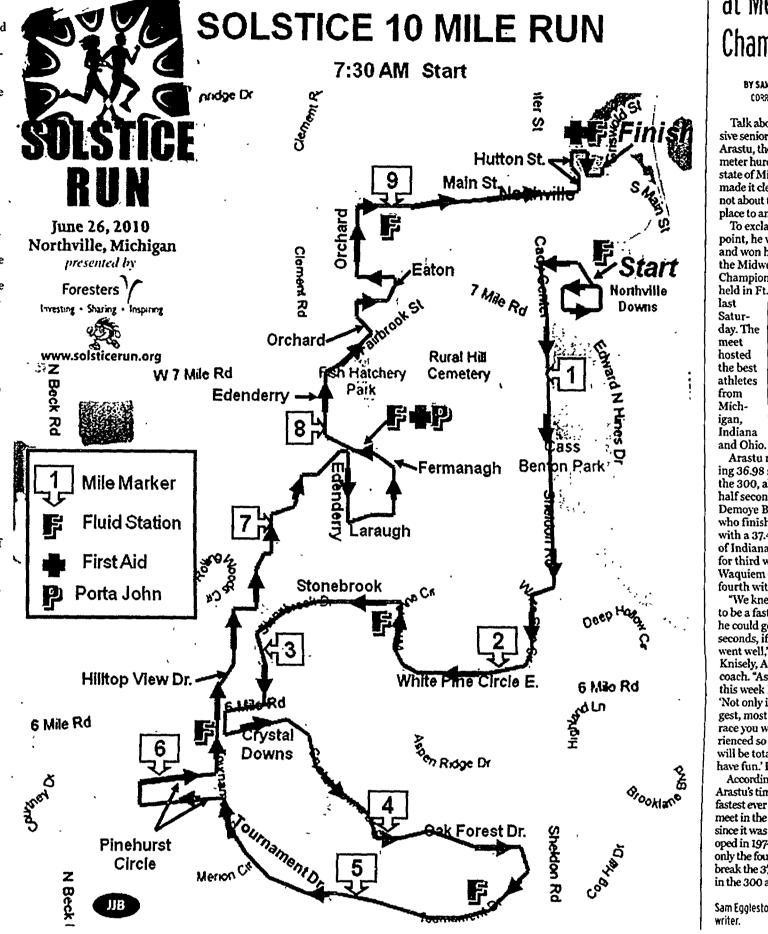

That's due not only to the challenging course, but also to the desire of event organizers to include everyone from any age group, skill or level.

The Solstice Run will again feature a 5K walk and a 10K run, but will also have a Mustang Mile for those who want something relaxing and enjoyable and for the younger competitors. In addition, for the first time, the Solstice is featuring an endurance race of 10 miles.

"There just aren't enough streets in Northville and Northville Township for a half marathon," noted Whitehead. We still wanted to do something for long-distance runners. That's why we did the 10-mile run this year."

That 10-mile course sets the Solstice apart from other races in Metro Detroit. That's important, considering the competition to draw the interest of the state's runners. Last year, on the same weekend as the Solstice, there were 31 different races being held.

We had to do something that would set us apart," said Whitehead, "So far, the IOmile race has the most registrations.

Arastu wins 300 hurdles at Meet of Champions

> BY SAM EGGLESTON CORRESPONDENT

Talk about an impressive senior year. Ali Arastu, the top 300meter hurdler in the state of Michigan, has made it clear that he's not about to take second place to anyone this year. To exclamate that point, he went out and won his event in the Midwest Meet of Champions, which was held in Ft. Wayne, Ind.,

Arastu

Arastu ran an amazing 36.98 seconds in the 300, almost a full half second ahead of Demoye Bogle of Ohio, who finished in second with a 37.45. Max Tuttle of Indiana ran a 37.68 for third while Ohio's Waquiem Comar was fourth with a 37.95.

"We knew it was going to be a fast race and that he could go under 37 seconds, if everything went well," said Joe Knisely, Arastu's track coach. "As we trained this week I told him, 'Not only is this the biggest, most competitive race you will have experienced so far, your legs will be totally fresh. Go have fun.' He did."

According to Knisely, Arastu's time is the fourth fastest ever run at the meet in the 300 hurdles since it was first developed in 1974. He's also only the fourth athlete to break the 37 second mark in the 300 at the meet.

Mustangs finish ninth at state golf finals

Squad wraps up season over two tough days

BY SAN EGGLESTON CORRESPONDENT

It was a season of unexpected moments for the Northville Mustangs boys golf team.

In the beginning of the season, no one would have guessed they were going to be undefeated in dual matches, or secure another Central Division championship. Even at that point, it was impressive that the team earned a KLAA conference champi-onship or a MHSAA District tournament title.

When the smoke had cleared and the Mustangs were marching toward the state finals, it became clear that the team had what it takes to make a run at the crown.

And, then, another unexpected moment happened.

Northville finished ninth place overall, well below where they had hoped.

Other than Brandon (Cameron), who shot a two-under-par 70 on day one, everyone was disappointed with the way that he played," said Matt Stetson, Northville's coach. "Of the eight teams that finished ahead of us, we had played six of them in multiple tournaments and have at least one win over all of them. For some, it is two or three.'

Northville finished with a 301 on the first day and turned around to shoot a 294 on the second day. Unfortunately, it wasn't enough to move up.

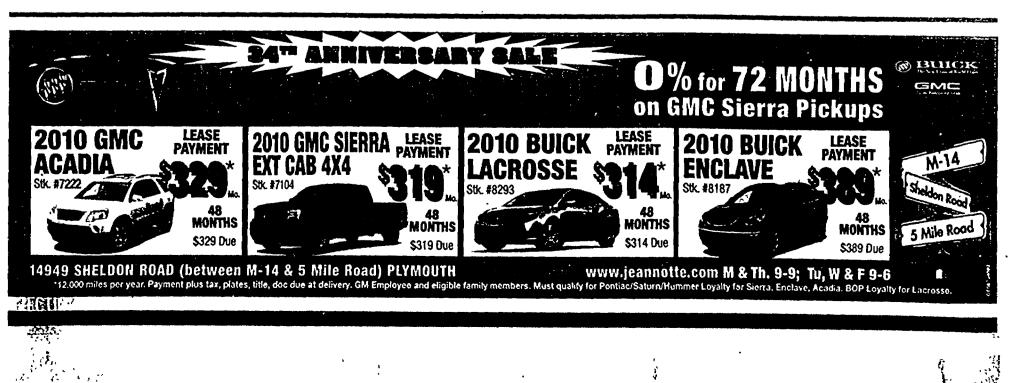

Detroit Catholic Central won the tournament with a 288 and a 281 for a total of 569. Forest Hills Central was second with a 583, followed by Brother Rice, Temperance Bedford, Grand Blanc, Davison, Battle Creek Lakeview and Plymouth.

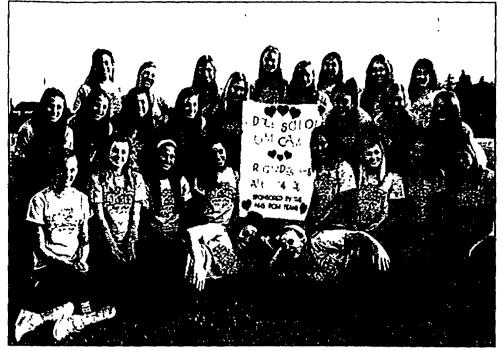

Leading Northville was Trevor Grigg, who shot a 75 on the first day but rebounded with a threeunder par 69 on day two for a 144. He finished in a tie for sixth overall.

Cameron, who finished just out of the top 10 individually, shot a 70 and 76 for a 146 while Blake Bonatz shot a 79 and a 72 for a 151. Shooting a 156 was Alex Bernstein with a 77 and a 79, while Mike Walton shot an 80 and a 77 for a 157.

"As I have said all along, it is about peaking at the right time of the year, and for us it did not come at states," said Stetson. "All in all, it was a successful year."

Catholic Central wins golf title

Shamrocks add themselves to list of elite golf programs

BY SAM EGGLESTON CORRESPONDENT

The Catholic Central Shamrocks golf team did more than win a state title last weekend when they dominated the competition in East Lansing--they made it clear their program was one of the elites in the state.

The Shamrocks, coached by Bill Hayes, became one of only three teams in the past decade to win the Division I golf team championship twice. In 2003, the Catholic Central linksters shot a 636 to win it. In 2010, it took the Shamrocks just 569 strokes to complete the two days.

Four starters for the Shamrocks broke par, the best performance by a team in the : MHSAA online record books. The performance put Catholic Central ahead of Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central by 14 strokes to secure the first-place victory. "It's just unbelievable what they did today," Catholic Central coach Bill Hayes said to the Detroit Free Press about the four sub-par scores. "I expected them to play well, but I never expected this. What took place today; I'm still a little in shock.'

Leading the way for the Shamrocks was Mike Panek, who finished second overall. He shot a remarkable 68 on the first day and a 71 on the second for a 139. Charlie Green carded a 70 and 70 for a 140 while Blake Tschirhart shot a 75 and a 69 for a 144. Not to be outdone, Austin Sophiea shot a 75 and 71 for a 146 over the two days and Conner Street went 76 and 76 for a 152.

Panek admitted to the Free Press he almost didn't go out for the golf team. - "It's unreal; I never thought-" I'd be able to do it," Panek said. "At the beginning of the year I didn't even think I would play golf. I had given up on it. I had a bad summer and just didn't think I was going to play."

Panek said this was likely his last competition as a golfer. He has no college golf plans or interest in amateur tournaments

"All my teammates said 'We need you, you've got to do this for Mr. Hayes,' " Panek said about playing his final season.

Rounding out the top five were Brother Rice with a team total of 590, while Temperance Bedford and Grand Blanc each recorded a 591 to tie for fourth.

Bedford's Nate Gonring, who will play for the University of Toledo next season, scored 68 to go with Friday's first-round 70, to win medalist honors.

Playing in the state finals is nothing new for the Shamrocks, who finished fourth in 2009, fifth in 2004 -and seventh in 2002. The team also played in the state finals in 2000 and 2004.

Board increases athletic fees, implements budget reductions

The Northville Public Schools Board of Education at its June 1 regular meeting approved an increase in middle and high school pay to participate athletic fees for the 2010-11 school year, along with several Athletic Program budgets reductions.

These actions are the result of severe cuts in school funding from the state for the current 2009-10 school year that will carry over into the 2010-11, as well as possible additional cuts. Northville Public Schools has faced a budget deficit of just over $2 million for 2009-10, with an additional $7 million budget shortfall anticipated for 2010-11. Under state law, the school district, along with public schools across the state, is required to adopt of balanced budget by June 30.

Under the new pay to participate athletic fee structure, the annual fee for middle school students participating on athletic teams will increase from $100 to $150 per athlete and the annual fee for high school students participating on athletic teams will increase from $200 to $300 per athlete.

As in the past, the fee will be paid only once each school year, even if the athlete plays on more than one team. In an effort to limit the financial burden on families, the district also is instituting a $750 family maximum per school year to include middle and high school athletes from the same family.

REDUCTIONS

Athletic program budget reductions approved by the board for the 2010-It school year include:

Continuation of a reduction in transportation services implemented earlier this school year that provides "one-way" bus transportation only for athletic team travel to competitions. Parents, coaches and athletes are responsible for ensuring transportation returning from away events. (High school football and middle school teams are an exception to this policy.) In addition, the "no weekend" bus transportation policy, put in place several years ago, remains in place.

 District funding for athletic awards and coach development and training will be eliminated.

¹¹ • District funding for several assistant varsity coach positions will be eliminated.

In addition, middle and high school coaches, as well as team parents, are being asked by the Board of Education to curtail non-essential costs for individual teams, which are often borne by the athletes' families. This includes reducing or eliminating additional team apparel not required for competition and reducing spending on banquets, pre- and post-game meals, and other non-competition related equipment and gifts. Feedback from the Managing Our Future Forums in December was clear," said Board of Education President Dr. Marilyn Price. "Our stakeholders value our athletic and extra-curricular programs and the Board of Education would like to maintain the district's current athletic programming options. However, in order to accomplish this goal, a combination of budget reductions and revenue generation is necessary.

"Our number one priority in implementing the fee increases and budget reductions is to help keep our students 'in the game."

*Despite these extremely challenging financial times, there remains a strong desire among our Board of Education and district leaders to continue to offer students a wide variety of athletic experiences, said Northville Superintendent Dr. Leonard R. Rezmierski. "Our high school and middle school sports programs instill confidence, build self-esteem, and provide an opportunity for students to set and achieve goals, both individually and as part of a team.

"I am confident that working together we can manage these financial challenges with a continued focus on providing the best possible educational experience for our students, 🗠 whether in the classroom or on the playing field."

for all of the parking for runners and participants. Each runner will have a D-Tag attached to their shoes that accurately time them right down to 1/1,000ths of a second. The computer-tracked time will begin when the runner crosses the start line and stops when they cross the finish line.

*If you're in the back of the pack, your time doesn't start until you cross that starting line," said Whitehead, noting that's the fair way to keep track of each runner and the standard used in distance races even at the Olympic level.

The event will finish, as it has every year, at Ford Field. To help the racers this year, the Solstice volunteers will be handing out GU Brew, a sports beverage that helps give athletes energy.

There will be eight watering stations this year, too, which is the most the event has ever had. To help accommodate the needs of the athletes, the Solstice organizers are still looking for volunteers to lend a hand.

Runners in all races will be given a shirt for participating--and not just some old cotton mock-up either. This year, the Solstice participants will each receive a tech shirt, which is made of water-wicking material.

"You get one of those if you run the Mustang Mile or one of the big races," Whitehead said. "We didn't want to exclude anyone."

As always, the net proceeds from the event will be handed out to local charities, which include Northville Parks and Recreation, Kids Against Hunger, Athletes With Disabilities Network and the Karmanos Cancer Institute.

Registration for the event is underway and can be done online via www.solsticerun. org until 9 a.m. June 24th. After that, runners will have to register Friday from 11 a.m .until 7 p.m. and Saturday from 6:30 a.m. until 8:15 a.m. The cost to participate is $42 for the 10 mile until race day and $50 on race day; $30 for the 10K run until race day and $35 the day of: $30 for the 5K run/walk until race day and then $35; and $15 for the Mustang Mile until the day of and then $17. Seniors of 60-years of age and older get a $3 discount for the 5K run/walk.

For more information, or to register, visit www.solsticerun. org. For those interested in volunteering, please contact Alan Whitehead at awhitehead@mi.rr.com.

Runners are invited to visit Northville's Arts and Acts throughout the downtown area after the race.

Eight questions you should ask your attorney student recently told me that he understood my lectures better A when I presented it as an outline or list. Maybe this is true because he is a tax student and he preferred numbers. Nevertheless, I'm going to give you a list of eight questions that you should be able to answer before you sign an attorney engagement letter and pay a retainer fee.

1. Will you be notified if there are changes in the law once the project is completed?

If you just paid $1000 to have documents prepared, wouldn't you like to know if those documents became obsolete in a few years? What if Michigan amended the law that governed the documents or Congress repealed a provision in the tax law? Will you be notified of changes or updates in the law.

2. Are appeals or amendments to documents (or tax returns) part of the arrangement?

If the attorney quotes you a flat fee, what if an appeal is necessary? How about if the document or something needs to be fixed later? You should know what your attorney means when he or she says "I'll be with you through the end.'

3. Who will be the principal attorney handling your matter?

Many complaints I hear from clients of large law firms is that they hire (and pay) for the power of a big law firm, but are relegated to having their work handled by of Business a 1st or second year associate attorney. If you are paying "big firm rates", you should have an experienced attorney handling your case. This is something you may want to know.

4. How long will your files be maintained by the law firm after you matter is completed?

What if your house burns down? You move? Or you simply cannot find your file or a document, letter or record from the legal proceeding? If you know up front (or at the end of your matter) that your files will be destroyed within a year or 30 days after the representation is completed, maybe you will store the files with a little more care.

5. How will your personal and identifiable information be safeguarded?

Attorneys (as well as accountants and financial advisors) are bound to maintain the security of all personal, private information that may lead your identification. In other words, your private information must be safeguarded and protected. So, if you are communicating with your attorney via e-mail, are you sure that his or her e-mail cannot be hacked? Who will have access to your files within the law office? What about when the matter is completed? Are files destroyed, stored off-site... thrown in a dumpster?

6. Is your attorney experienced in the legal matter before him or her?

Here's an obvious one: if someone asked me to represent them in their drunk-driving case, I'd have to decline; I am not experienced in these matters and it would be unethical for me to pretend I am. Now if I described myself as a corporate attorney, what does that really mean? Does it include ALL areas of corporate law? Does it mean I've been "involved" in commercial litigation? Does that include litigation within the Bankruptcy Court or investment arbitration cases? How about appeals of cases in the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati? The Michigan Court of Appeals? Or filing quarterly reports to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission? Preparing corporate tax returns? It is one thing to file articles of incorporation in Lansing, another thing to prepare a franchise agreement. Find out how experienced your attorney is in your matter. Are they "cutting their teeth" at your expense? 7. Who is the client?

If you and your spouse or business partner need an attorney, who is the attorney representing? All of the parties? One of the parties? Is each client signing a "conflict of interest waiver 7 This is especially important in dual-representation matters; the parties need to be aware that their confidential communications" will be shared with ALL parties under representation.

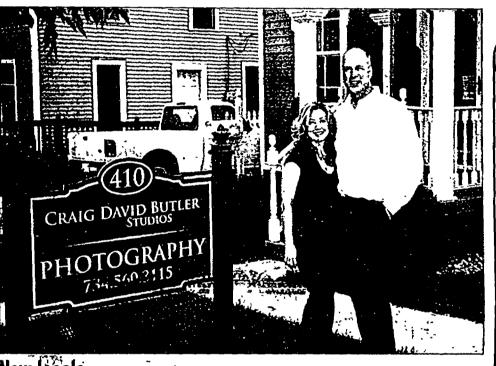

8. Will other professionals be retained to assist your attorney?

, It is not unusual for an attorney to retain the services of an "outside specialist" to assist in a matter or to provide consultation. These experts may be attorneys, CPA's, or expert witnesses such as medical doctors. It is the obligation of the client to pay for the cost and fees of these professionals. While these services are most-often necessary for the representation (e.g. a physician serving as an expert witness in a medical malpractice case), these fees can be exorbitant.

Most clients review an attorney's retainer agreement looking for the "hourly rate" they will be charged, reviewing the miscellaneous charges they are responsible to pay each month. Although looking at the "sticker" and the cost is not a bad thing, you must look beyond the surface. Your assessment should not be based on the obvious or assumptions about the relationship with your attorney, look to the core of the matter at hand and in the long-run you will be happy you did so.

How Long Should Your Résumé Be? Is One Page Too Short? Are Two Pages Too Long?

Experts sound off on if it matters - and why

Rachel Farrell, CareerBuilder.com writer

Résumés are a subject of great debate in the world of careers. What to include, what not to include; serif or sans serif font; what color paper and which jobs to highlight? And, more commonly in today's job market: How long should my résumé be? And does it matter?

We asked résumé experts for their take on whether job seekers should use a one- or two-page résume and why it matters. Here's what they had to say:

The argument: One page

"Many people feel that a longer résumé makes them look more accomplished or important - not so. Recent college grads and those who have only had one to two jobs don't need more than one page. Avoid excessive spacing to fill up the page as well and instead flesh out your skill sets - even if you think you have none due to little experience." -Kristen Fischer, author of "Ramen Noodles, Ren: and Résumés : An After-College Guide to Life"

"Someone newer to the work force may have a one-page resume, with a more seasoned employee having two or more. Most experienced employees cannot fit their work history onto one page, and that's fine. What is critical is that the important information stands out. A very brief summary of who you are, what you're looking for, your key at the beginning of your résumé in the top quarter of the page — then the employer could quickly scan where you worked and when, along with more details listed under each position." - Michelle D Roccia, senior vice president of corporate organizational development from Winter,

Wiman "I personally believe that a one-page résumé, for the most part, is the way to go -- unless you are a very senior executive with a number of accomplishments through your long career. Otherwise, short and focused is better." - Jim Joseph, author of "The Experience Effect" and president of Lippe Taylor

"Remember the length Golden Rule: You want your résumé to highlight your best attributes, and hiring authorities shouldn't have to search for them on your résumé. For this reason, stick to the one-page rule and carry over to a second page only if your experience warrants it. This will force you to choose only the most important information for your Group "While I understand that most candidates want a two-page résumé (or longer), I happen io know that employers put the most focus on a candidate's first page. Their attention starts to wane before they even flip the page. Therefore, appropriate and strategic editing is a smart move. Most job seekers find it difficult to be so objective about their lengthy and accomplishmentbased history, so here's a good tip to keep in mind: Job seekers have to think of themselves as a product and their résumé their marketing campaign. Any good , marketing director knows to focus on their target consumer while creating a marketing campaign, right? Same thing applies here. You aren't writing your resume for yourself, but rather, for your potential employers." ---Lauren Milligan, résumé expert and job coach at ResuMAYDAY

"A one-page résumé is needed to get you in the door. At the outset of the process, most companies are using software them. A two-page résumé is necessary once you've gotten in the door and are sitting in front of a human being. That said, it should not be dense. Bullet points are preferable to paragraphs." — Frances Cole Jones, author of "The Wow Factor: The 33 Things You Must (and Must Not) Do to Guarantee Your Edge in Today's Business World

"Less is always more when it comes to resumes today, with one page preferable, as overworked HR departments need to process information faster and are mostly using electronic solutions to identify candidates to start with anyway. On top of this, the more experience you put on there, the more dollar signs begin to flash in hiring managers' heads, and they worry about what it's going to cost to acquire such an experienced candidate." -Scott Steinberg, CEO, lead analyst, TechŠavvy Global

"It does matter, but primarily in relation to the quality of the content. Do not try to create a two-page résumé if you really only have related experiences that fill up one page. Using bigger font and wider space margins do not help your cause. Similarly, if you have a long, impressive career of related professional achievements, there is no need to try to shrink it all down onto one page. Having said all of that, do not go longer than three pages. You should be able to be able to present the best of the best in less than three pages, and if you must, you can add a note 'Additional work history provided upon request." -- Sara Sutton Fell, CEO of FlexJobs

The argument: Two pages

"A two-page résumé is important: Given the nature of today's job search, applicants are searching via the Internet recruiters are either sifting through the résumés or résumés are searched automatically via a computer program. The more information you provide, the better your chances for a call back. - Allison Rapaport. founder of www.hospitaldreamjobs.com

"it is important to remember that whoever will be looking at your résumé will probably be looking at 50-100 others ---- so first impressions are critical. Like Goldilocks tasting the porridge, a two-page résumé is 'just about right.' A one-page résume gives the impression that you do not have a lot of experience. Anything more than two pages gives the impression that you are 'all over the place' and simply don't have the ability to focus. Managers want to be reassured that you can zero in on what you need to do and get it done." - Mario Almonie, managing partner, Herman and Almonte PR

The argument: It doesn't matter

"I am less concerned about a one-page résumé than assuring that a candidate for employment provides the necessary information in a concise, direct manner. It's the qualifications that need to get noticed. Tell the employer what you can do for them. Be concise but keep it to two pages. Grab their attention first and foremost. Design your résumé to bring out what the employer is seeking and align these requirements to your own personal strengths. Don't sell yourself short - quite literally." - Wendy Powell author of "Management Experience Acquired"

"It really comes down to relevant content. If you have the experience needed to back up the position you're seeking, then you need to share it. If it's more than two pages then let it flow. If it's just fluff to fill Experienced hiring managers are very good at identifying fabricated content"- Joel Rudy is COO of Photographic Solutions Inc

"Job seekers focus on the wrong thing when they obsess about whether hiring managers prefer a one- or two-page résumé. Job seekers with great experience, skills, industry connections and attitudes can stop worrying about the oneversus two-page résumé dilemma and be assured that hiring managers are not going to rule out a terrific candidate for sending a two-page résumé instead of a one-page resume. - Janet Civitelli. Ph D . workplace psychologist and founder of career advice website Vocation Village com

"Your résumé is your introduction to a new company. It says volumes about you before you ever get a chance to and may decide if you get to say anything yourself. One or two pages don't really matter, but two pages in most cases are all you need. Résumés should incorporate both responsibilities and accomplishments, conveyed in specific and measurable form - how did you make or save your company money?" - Ira Bershard, Kaye Bassman

"I've seen stacks and stacks of résumés and have strong opinions on how they should be organized and written. As far as number of pages required for a résumé, the idea that everything should fit on one page is dated. Don't leave key experience out just because you're trying to keep it to one page. But DO make sure all of the key important experience is on the first page and highlighted appropriately A good way to accomplish this is by creating a 'career highlights' section at the beginning of your résumé " Jenna (Gruhala) Oltersdorf. principal Snackbox leaves out compelling selling points shortchanges both the applicant and the hiring company. The length of your résumé should be determined by how long you can keep the story you're telling compelling. You need to pique enough interest to generate an interview, not hide your strengths in a pile of unimpressive blather and puffery." - Barry Maher is the author of "Filling the Glass"

"Although I do prefer to see a one-page résumé, it's a mild preference and I definitely think this issue gets overemphasized I have hired applicants that submitted a two-page résumé and would do so again in the future. My best advice is to keep in mind that hiring managers often scan résumés for only 20-30 seconds each. Because of this the wording of your bullet points is crucial they must be succinct and attention grabbing. Also consider placing a bulleted list of work accomplishments (from all jobs) at the top of your résume. This technique is gaining more and more popularity as it can really help to grab the attention of the manager that is scanning the résumés." - Krus Alban, director of strategic partnerships, iGrad

The verdict: The length of your résumé will vary based on your experience. If you're a new graduate, or you have less experience, keep your resumé limited to one page. If you're a seasoned employee in the work force, it's OK to have your résumé a little longer

No matter how many pages you choose to include, make sure to include all of your pertinent career information on the first page - and in the top portion --- of the document

Heed safety rules in and around pool

BY JULIE BROWN OSE STAFF WRITER

In her work with the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross, Julie Smerecki pushes water safety.

Smerecki is community safety and aquatics manager for the local Red Cross. "I think for the most part people are aware of the pool rules," she said. "Sometimes we tend to forget."

It's important to have an emergency plan in place, Smerecki said, including training in CPR and first aid, which the Red Cross offers.

Making sure all those in and around a backyard pool know how to swim well goes a long way in preventing tragedy. The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross has a number of pool safety tips on its website, semredcross.org, under "Safety Tips."

Red Cross spokeswoman Andrea Tomaszewski notes the chapter offers courses such as first aid and CPR all year. Various locations are available, including the Livonia Training Center, 20319 Middlebelt, south of Eight Mile. "It's a fairly new location," Tomaszewski said. Classes there and elsewhere are popular. "Especially this time of year, people want to be ready for a medical emergency," Tomaszewski said.

Smerecki noted swimming lessons, for children and adults, reduce the likelihood of tragedy. "Most of your community pools, your recreation centers there seem to be swimming lessons happening," Smerecki said. She agreed excessive drinking and swimming don't go together.

They just need to be aware of that," Smerecki said. "If something should happen, you want to be fully aware.'

Memorial Day weekend included several area drownings, and Smerecki and colleagues are always eager to get the word out on water safety, including life jackets for boaters. "That's why we encourage everyone to get training so they would know what to do," she said. "I definitely think people are more in tune just because there are so many aquatic facilities," Smerecki added. She encourages a proactive approach, "so people are safe in and around the water."

The local Red Cross website includes the following tips for summer pool safety:

Understand the risks. •Home pool drowning is a leading cause of death for children younger than 5.

 Children were often out of sight less than five minutes and under the care of one or both parents at the time of many home pool drownings.

•It is never safe to dive in an aboveground pool. Many inground pools are not safe for diving.

Take action to prevent drowning. Secure your pool or hot tub with barriers such as these:

 Surround the entire pool with a fence or barrier that is at least 4 feet high, has a self-closing and self-latching gate and is designed so that a child cannot climb over, under, around or through it. •Remove or enclose steps or ladders to prevent access to an aboveground pool. •Mount a lockable structural barrier that fully encloses the top of a hot tub and will not collapse under

Consider placing a safety in the pool to detect unau-

the weight of a child.

•Keep children under active supervision when in or around the water. Have weak swimmers wear a U.S. Coast Guardapproved life jacket - do not rely on water wings or inflatable toys.

•Remove any pool toys from the pool or hot tub area when the area is not in use. Do not use alcohol and/or drugs before or while using a pool or hot tub. •Establish and enforce rules, such as no one swims alone, stay away from drains, no loose/dangling items and no diving (if appropriate). Obey set limits for how much time is spent in hot water. •Children younger than 5 should not use a hot tub. Pregnant women or people with chronic medical conditions should obtain a health care provider's approval.

•At a minimum, pool and hot tub owners should keep the following equipment readily available: phone with emergency number posted near it; first aid kit; emergency signal, such as a whistle; multiple life jackets in various sizes; for pool owners, a reaching device and throwing device.

UN FAFEN.

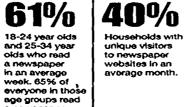

In the past two years, the newspaper business has faced unprecedented challenges, but make no mistake: newspaper media - print and digital - remains strong and will emerge from the current environment an even stronger multi-platform force.

Number of adults who read a print newspaper every day, more than 115 million on Sunday. That's more than the Super Bowl (94 million), American Idol (23 million) or the average late local news (65 million)

Newspapers make a larger investment in journalism than any other medium. Most of the information you already read from "eggregators" and other media originated with newspapers. Three tips for a greener garage

You may be one of the millions of people making ecofriendly changes around your home, but have you thought about going green in the garage?

Garages store more than just cars. They store paint and cleaning supplies, tools and lawn care equipment — all of which can pose environmental hazards. These tips from the experts at Black & Decker will help you green your garage.

GAS-FREE

This spring, millions of Americans will be working hard to improve their backyards, but what does that mean for the environment?

According to the EPA, did you know that:

• Gas-powered lawn equipment produces as much as one-tenth of the smog-forming pollutants from all mobile sources?

• It is estimated that the few ounces spilled during refueling lawn and garden equipment alone total about 17 million gallons of gasoline, most of which evaporates into the air to contribute to the air pollution problem?

• The average gas mower produces as much air pollution in one year as 43 new cars driving 12,000 miles each?

Keep your garage and the area surrounding clean without the mess of gas-powered products. Gas-free products — like the Black & Decker 36V Cordless Mower, 24V String Trimmer and full line of 18V outdoor products — mean no fumes, no unnecessary trips to the gas station and no gas to potentially store or spill. And when you use them — zero emissions in your yard.

↓ 1 2 4 1

The garage is the perfect place to set up your own home recycling center. It's also a high-traffic location, reminding your family to make recycling a habit. Avoid clutter by investing in stackable recycling bins, and reach out to your local recycling center for sorting requirements and regulations.

Gas powered lawn equipment produces as much as one-tenth of the smog-forming pollutants from all mobile sources.

Make sure your garage is well insulated. The Environmental Protection Agency says that sealing and insulating garage walls and ceilings can be a cost effective way to improve energy efficiency and save money on your utility bills. This can include weather stripping, installing energy-efficient windows and installing an energy-efficient door from the garage to your house.

Going green in the garage is easy — on you and on the environment. For additional information on how to "go green," visit: blackanddecker.com/convertamerica.

CUT COSTS TO GREEN YOUR HOME

With the arrival of warmer weather, it can be a challenge to keep your home cool and comfortable, yet keep your energy bills in check. By taking steps now to make your home more environmentally friendly, you'll not only help save natural resources, but you'll save money, too.

To help you get started in "greening" your home, American Standard Heating & Air Conditioning offers these tips.

Pre-set indoor temperatures. One of the easiest and simplest things you can do is install a programmable thermostat.

Reduce energy, increase home comfort. For efficient air conditioning, make sure your system meets the newest government energy standards. For example, you can save up to 47 percent on heating and air conditioning with the American Standard Allegiance (R) 15 Air Conditioner. It surpasses current government efficiency standards when installed as part of a complete system, and cools with an environmentally friendly ozone-safe refrigerant to help keep costs to a minimum.

Lights out, costs down. Turn lights off when you leave the room or add in a dimmer to see instant energy savings. For example, you can save up to 50 percent energy when replacing a standard light switch with a Maestro Occupancy Sensor with eco-dim Dimmer from Lutron Electronics.

Welcome This month's edition will inspire you to work and have fun

Summer is just days away and this month's Inspire is full of information to fill your days and weekends. Whether it's a do-it-yourself project to expand your outdoor living space or a bike ride for fitness or charity, this month's Inspire has it all.

As Michiganians, we cherish the relatively short warm weather season. It's not uncommon to see everyday activities — parties, barbecues and more — move outside around the pool, deck and/or patio.

Contributing Writer Linda Ann Chomin interviews local business owners who can help you expand and enhance your outdoor living space. There's lots of information and some expert recommendations about decks, brick pavers and patios.

Bicycling is fun, relatively inexpensive (once you have the bike you like) and a great way to stay in shape. You don't have to ride like Lance Armstrong to enjoy bicycling — anyone can ride a bike.

Don't forget a helmet and brush up on rules of the road before heading out. Many charity bike rides have already begun.

My personal favorites are the MS rides in Michigan. Over the years, I've completed the West Michigan route (challenging at times but the beautiful scenery made up for some of the unexpected hills) and what was previously known as the metro-Detroit ride.

I started doing the rides more than 20 years ago because of good friends who were coping with MS. I could ride so I did and it was fun! Great cause and one of the best organized charity rides around. Great rest stop snacks and cheerful volunteers. Believe me, it makes a difference.

The 2010 rides for MS mark the 25th anniversary of the Bike MS Ride in Michigan and the Michigan Chapter plans to host more than 1,500 cyclists over a series of rides.

The Mid-Michigan Ride is set for July 17-18. A one-day event at Island Lake State Recreation area is planned in September along with a two-day ride which starts and ends at Frankenmuth. I can't help but think the end of ride celebration will be great in Frankenmuth.

The Mid-Michigan two-day event — which starts and ends at Lake Fenton High School in Linden — takes riders along country roads through Gaines, Byron, Oak Grove and Williamston. Riders spend the night at Michigan State University and then head back the next morning.

A celebration barbecue is held at the end of the ride. It's great fun and so satisfying. You will forget about any aches and pains.

The MS ride is just one of many summer and fall rides that showcase the winding roads, small towns and yes challenging hills in Michigan. Check out the list inside then fill up your tires, strap on a helmet and perhaps I'll see you on the road.

Sundaes 101: Make ice cream parlor treats at home

When a trip to the ice cream parlot isn't in the cards, bring the ice cream parlot home with DIY sundaes! Making the perfect sundae might look like a hefty task, yet with a little creativity this all-American dessert is one of the easiest to make.

There is no wrong way to craft this ice cream dessert, but read on for tips that will help you recreate the ice cream parlor in your kitchen.

• Dishes. Glass bowls are traditional favorites, but be imaginative and rummage through your forgotten dishes to find something special. Chill the dishes for 30 minutes in the freezer to keep the ice cream from melting while creating your sundae.

• Ice cream. Pick ice cream flavors that go well together or use vanilla, which tastes great with everything. Scoop the ice cream with a slightly warmed metal scoop to make it easier.

• Mix-ins. From crushed cookies to gummy bears, there is no limit to what can go in a sundae. Fruit and chocolate chips are popular toppings and toasted nuts provide a crunchier texture. Create a mix-in buffet by placing all the goodies on the kitchen counter with a bowl and a spoon for each.

• Toppings. Once dishes are filled with ice cream and mix-ins, drizzle syrup over top. Caramel, chocolate, strawberry, peppermint and English toffee are popular choices. Don't forget the whipped cream and cherry, if desired. Sprinkles, malt powder and mint leaves make good finishing touches as well.

• Dig in! Long-handled spoons are great — they are ideal for scooping out everything, right down to the bottom. And remember kids love colorful spoons with funny characters or motifs on them.

Try these sundae recipes for creative combinations. For more summer sundae ideas, visit www.BlueBunny.com.

Make over that backyard living space

By Linda Ann Chomin Contributing Writer

A deteriorating deck or cement patio can take the fun out of being outdoors. With summer-like weather finally here, it's time to think about reclaiming this living and entertaining space.

Makeovers can be easy and affordable especially for do-ityourselfers. Newer materials like composite decking and brick pavers not only update that extra "room" but add a comfort factor.

Doug Mans is tired of getting splinters in his feet from his old deck so he's taking on a new project. This summer, he's planning to resurface the area where his five children play. Many of his customers at Mans Lumber & Millwork in Canton and Trenton are doing the same. Some 60 to 70 percent of the material Mans ships these days is for redecking.

"It's affordable because the current structure is good," said Mans of Canton. "They're tearing up the surface and putting down a new surface using composite decking, a new generation of decking that's mostly maintenance free."

Homeowners are expanding these living areas as well by rethinking uses for the space.

"They're creating backyard kitchens, family rooms, adding flat screen TVs, firepits to extend their season into October, spas, gazebos, screened porches. It's almost like another room without being heated," said Mans.

Mans is adding a screened porch so he and his family can sit outside even after the sun goes down and the mosquitoes come out. It's easy to do with a little help from experts.

"We have great people at the counter to walk you through your project, ask you the right questions, make sure decking is going to be safe," said Mans."We work to their budget."

MATERIALS

Composite decking materials cost about 50 to 100-percent more than treated lumber or cedar and look like wood without the maintenance.

This "green" option is made from reclaimed or recycled wood and plastic fibers, resists fading and does not require staining, only an occasional power wash. Treated lumber is less expensive and allows homeowners to replace or build decks on a budget.

Mike McCoy encourages homeowners to do their homework if they're considering redecking. He specializes in designing and building decks and home remodeling. McCoy has a screened porch on the deck of his Farmington home that he "virtually lives in six months a year." "Get on the Internet, look on manufacturers' websites, get information on different materials available," said McCoy, owner of Coy Construction in Walled Lake. "Should I go wood or nonwood? What color of railings? There are lots of different issues. They should think about what their objectives are."

If you're planning on living in the home 10 or 20 years McCoy recommends composites to eliminate maintenance. For someone who will be selling a home soon, redecking adds resale value. McCoy suggests treated pine or cedar to keep costs down. The majority of the time, regardless of condition of the deck surface or railing, the substructure is constructed with wolmanized lumber and need not be replaced.

"If they like the size, shape and design there's no need to tear out structure," said McCoy."If the deck is too small or poorly designed, it can be enlarged. For people who have lived there for years, they might want to consider building a screened in porch on top of deck, shingled to match the house, trim painted to match the exterior of the house."

The color of the deck floor need not match the railing. For those tired of sealing and staining wood, plastic or composite is a good choice.

McCoy recommends homeowners go to a lumberyard to see the multitude of options available.

"The color of the railing should match trim of the house not the brick," said McCoy. "You can make a mistake on the railing color but not on the floor color. They shouldn't be concerned with the color of the floor because standing outside the deck or in the house you can't see the floor. Why a lot of people go with cedar railing is to paint. You can come up with a 100 different colors."

Brick pavers and retaining walls are another option for reclaiming outdoor living space.

Gone are the cement patios homeowners have grown bored with for a number of reasons.

Brick pavers and flagstones, unlike cement, last for years. Marco Scappaticci poured many of these patios as a licensed builder. He notes that brick pavers rank as the oldest type of installation pavement and were used in ancient Rome.

Scappaticci's customers at the Rock Shoppe in Plymouth are buying a lot of flagstone for walkways and patios and the pavers.

The Rock Shoppe offers acres of brick pavers, fountains and landscape supplies along with seminars for do-it-yourselfers every other Saturday at 10 a.m. These tips for using brick pavers, retaining walls, water and container gardens allow homeowners to enhance outdoor living spaces.

"Brick pavers, retaining walls and natural stone are basically maintenance free," said Scappaticci, Rock Shoppe president and owner.

Scappaticei's back yard incorporates a natural pond with retaining walls, brick patio and flagstone sidewalk.

"They're putting ponds in patio or deck, near the deck, under and outside the deck," said Scappaticci. "People are coming up with new ideas all the time. We work one on one with them so they can complete a project without making problems and mistakes."

Angelo's supplies in Farmington Hills offers seminars for installing brick pavers June 29, July 27, Aug. 31 and Sept. 28 at its location in Farmington Hills. Call (800) 264-3562 for information.

"It's easy to do. It's a physical thing to do but homeowners can do it," said manager Earl Quinn.

All do-it-yourselfers need is a battery-operated screwdriver to build a gazebo onto a deck or grassy area in the back yard. These structures not only accent the landscape but add valuable living space.

Earl Poplars can attest to gazebos continuing popularity. He and his brother, Joe, have been manufacturing and selling kits through their Gazebos LTD business in Milford since 1981. Costs vary depending on size of the gazebo. Add extra for screening or double tier.

"Some people put a light and fan in the middle of them, bring in toasters and cable TV. The closer you put to the house the more you're going to use them," said Earl Poplars. "You can mount on concrete, brick pavers, incorporate in or next to a deck. We've sold a lot to people taking it up north to a cottage. You're looking at 3 to 4 hours to put up. It's all pre-drilled and made from western red cedar," added Poplars.

Accent pieces such as fountains are popular this year as well for jazzing up outdoor living spaces.

"Fountains are nice in the back yard around the patio so you can watch and listen, and make an impressive statement in the front yard too," said Scappaticci.

Post-Workout Protocol

EXPERTS SAY POST-WORKOUT ROUTINES ARE CRITICAL FOR SUMMER EXCROSE

Write down what you did during your workout to better target fitness goals.

As summertime workouts heat up, proper post-exercise cool-downs become even more important. Whether you are a weekend warrior playing in local summer leagues or a serious runner getting ready for fall marathon season, warmer weather activities increase sweat, break down muscles and deplete the body of electrolytes and other essential nutrients.

While most people know what to do before and during a workout to keep their bodies fit during the warmer summer months, many fall short when it comes to following a proper post-exercise routine.

Fitness expert Lorrie Henry says, "What you do after your workout is just as important as a pre-workout routine, especially during the summer when people tend to be more active." Henry has shared some of her post-workout tips to help everyone have a fun and healthy summer season:

• Cool It: Take the time to cool-down after an intense workout. Spend the last five to seven minutes of the workout on a lower speed or intensity to return your heart rate to normal, and consider walking the last two minutes on a treadmill.

• Stretch Out: Avoid next-day soreness and stretch your muscles immediately after exercise. Do the basic arm and leg stretches and move your joints by rotating your wrists, ankles and neck a few times.

• Keep Track: Write down what you did during the workout (i.e. miles ran, fitness classes attended, etc.) to help keep you on target with your fitness goals.

• Refuel Smart: After a tough workout, grab a nutrient-rich drink for maximum benefits. Henry shared, "It's essential to get protein back into your body to help rebuild and repair muscles. Ice-cold chocolate milk, such as protein fortified low-fat Rockin' Refuel from Shamrock Farms, tastes delicious and helps your body recover after exercise with 20 grams of protein and nine essential nutrients — making it a great on-the-go choice after a game or workout."

• Take A Breath: Take a few minutes to relax and reflect on what you have accomplished. Whether you are focused on fun, fitness or both, keeping an eye on and acknowledging where you have been and where you want to go can be a great motivator.

Remembering simple tips can help maximize your summer workout. For more information on the healthy benefits of refueling with chocolate milk, visit www. rockinrefuel.com. •

Shape up your summer snacking

Snack healthier on organic or baked potato chips.

Summer is here, and that means barbecues, get-togethers and outdoor parties with friends and family. With so many tempting treats, it can be hard to snack smartly, but some easy substitutions here and there can keep the whole family on track all summer long.

"The secret to healthy eating is to eat real foods, and ditch anything artificial," says Ashley Koff, registered dietician and founder of Ashley Koff Approved (AKA). Ashley founded AKA as an easy resource of foods that help empower everyone to make healthier choices. All AKA foods have been reviewed by Ashley and approved as a healthy and quality food choice.

Ashley says you can enjoy your favorite foods; just watch those portion sizes. Don't give up that daily latte, but order a small instead of a large. And yes, you can have the quintessential summer snack — potato chips — but look for a bag of baked chips made from real, whole slices of potatoes (not potato bits molded back into the shape of a chip), like Kettle Brand Baked Potato Chips(R). They're delicious, crunchy and lower in fat so you don't feel like you're missing out.

If you're faced with a buffet table of delicious food at a family get-together, look for real, recognizable foods and load up your plate with fruits and vegetables. Ashley recommends to "always choose high-quality ingredients — for example, swap soda for water or coconut water and cream-based dips for guacamole."

When trying to incorporate food changes, get the family involved. If the whole family is on board, it will be much easier to stay on track and achieve healthy living goals. Here are some summer snacks that are Ashley Koff Approved (and yes, they taste good):

1. Real potato chips: Choose organic or baked (with the skins still on) and re-pack into portion-controlled containers, or look for 100 calorie packs, perfect for on-thego munching. For a nutritionally balanced snack, pack string cheese and salsa along with your chips for some extra protein and veggies.

2. Peanut butter and fruit: Take an organic, whole grain waffle and spread on nut butter (almond, peanut, hazelnut or even sunflower seeds if you're skipping nuts) and top with fresh, sliced strawberries.

3. Quick sundae: Use plain, organic yogurt and add toppings like organic berries, granola or whole grain cereal for flavor and crunch as well as additional nutrients.

4. Dip it: Dips are a perfect way to upgrade nutrition and even squeeze in some veggies. Skip the cheese or ranch dressing and use Greek yogurt for a protein punch. Salsa is a fresh, flavorful addition to any summer spread. Instead of eating a chip with every bite of salsa, crumble a few organic corn tortilla chips into a salad to make a satisfyingly crunchy taco salad with zesty salsa, beans, avocado and chicken.

No matter what happens this summer barbecues, family get-togethers or pool-side parties - keep these tips in mind to snack smartly all season long.

Avoid 'lost' signs by tagging your cat

You've seen the posters decorating mailboxes, telephone poles and trees in your neighborhood. The picture of a cat — usually curled up in the sun or giving a curious look to the camera — with "LOST" in bold, capital letters and a contact number underneath. Sadly, less than 5 percent of lost cats make it home.

Many of these lost cats end up in animal shelters, some are adopted by new families and others, unfortunately, aren't so lucky. An estimated 70 percent of all animals euthanized each year are cats who enter shelters without identification tags, according to the North Shore Animal League America (NSALA), the world's largest no-kill animal rescue and adoption organization. Many shelters are full, and can only hold cats for a few days or less, giving grieving owners limited time to locate their lost pet.

Cat owner and author of "Oh My Dog," Beth Ostrosky Stern is passionate about saving the lives of animals and providing them to loving families. "Through my work with North Shore Animal League America, I have seen firsthand how many cats enter the shelters. I'm a firm supporter of cat tagging to help ensure a safe return home. I would be completely devastated if my cat, Apple, were lost, Having her wear an identification tag is a simple step, but gives me peace of mind that if she were to be lost she can be identified and returned home."

Whether your cat stays inside or roams the outdoors, tagging is the best way to keep him safe. Even indoor cats may sometimes slip through an open door or window for some fresh air, so it's important to remember they need identification tags as well. Special cat collars are available also, so that your cat won't get caught on any objects when he's playing inside the home or exploring the great outdoors.

Many cat owners may not know how simple it is to get a tag for their cat. The maker of ARM & HAMMER Super Scoop and Multi-Cat litter products is even offering cat owners the opportunity to receive customized identification tags via mail with the purchase of two ARM & HAM-MER cat litters. Visit www.pettagoffer.com for more information.

Tagging cats is just one safety tip. Other tips from NSALA to keep cats healthy, especially during the summer months include: • Never leave a cat in a car — cats can quickly overheat and die from heatstroke.

An estimated 70 percent of all animals euthanized each year are cats who enter shelters without identification tags.

Keep cats inside during a thunderstorm cats are easily frightened by loud noises and are more at risk of being struck by lightning.

• Check cats daily for fleas and ticks, and talk with a veterinarian about prevention products to keep cats safe.

• Change litter regularly to maintain a fresh and healthy litter box for cats.

• Watch for signs of heat stress, including glazed eyes, a rapid heartbeat, excessive thirst, restlessness, lack of coordination, unconsciousness, deep red or purple tongue and vomiting.

Farmers markets are sprouting up all over Oakland and Wayne counties this summer, offering fresh and locally produced goods, community support and a gathering place for local neighbors.

The Michigan Farmers Market Association recommends a few shopping tips to make your weekly trip to the market a success. Always bring cash, as it helps vendors if you have small bills and change. Bring a large cloth or net shopping bag to consolidate purchases. Try not to carry a purse — fanny packs and pockets are the best way to carry money and keys. Expand your cooking horizons and try the new and unusual fruits and vegetables at the market. If you aren't sure how to prepare them, ask for tips. Farmers may even have recipes to help you out.

From the White House to the house down the street, fresh produce from home gardens and farmers markets is more popular than ever. And along with the abundance of home grown goodness come new and easy ways to create and preserve delicious, wholesome food in your own kitchen.

CAN-DO CANNING

People everywhere are rediscovering home canning as a practical and enjoyable way to preserve garden produce at its finest. Almost every vegetable and fruit can be canned and enjoyed throughout the year.

Here are some tips on picking produce — either from your garden or the farmers market — for canning.

Snap Beans: Harvest when so crisp that they snap readily.

Corn: Try to complete canning within four hours of picking, before sugar is converted to starch. Kernels should be plump, milky and bright. If immature, corn will be watery and tasteless. If too mature, corn will be starchy and tasteless.

Greens: Use young, tender leaves of mustard, spinach, kale and collard greens. Kale is better if harvested after a frost.

Tomatoes: Select tomatoes that are firm and ripe but not overripe. They should be free of bruises, spots, decay, molds, cracks and growths. Otherwise, tomatoes may be low in acid — too low for safe canning.

Plums: They should be tree-ripened for best flavor, with deep color and a powdery bloom. Can quickly, if possible, since they become mushy very rapidly.

For canning tips, recipes and a variety of tomato sauces, salsa and pickle mixes, visit www.mrswages.com or call (800) 647-8170.

By Mike Hogan Contributing writer

Figuratively, our planet has never felt so small. Even the most remote destinations can be reached physically within a few weeks. But if you're travelling electronically, there's no place you can't go.

Colleen Kelly is a prime example of a modern young professional. She's counted Plymouth, Canton and Livonia among her lived-in Michigan cities, as well as Nashville, TN and Vancouver, BC. Now living in Novi, Kelly uses websites like Facebook to stay in contact with her widespread friends and family.

"My family was the reason 1 joined Facebook." Kelly said. "They're spread out over the U.S., Canada. the U.K. and China. It's hard enough to figure out where they are, and what time it is where they are located to even think about calling. E-mail and Facebook messaging is just more efficient."

Kelly uses a program called Trillian to talk to friends, instead of using the phone. Trillian is an instant-messaging program that combines multiple IM clients like AOL Instant Messenger, Yahoo! Chat, Google Talk and Facebook Chat into one program. Kelly says it simplifies her contacts and makes it easier for others to contact her.

"I have Trillian on my home and work computers for instant messaging," Kelly said. "They usually just use that when they need to get a hold of me instead of calling. They usually just chat or if they need to talk, they'll IM me to call them."

Social networks defy a lot of the problems associated with distance. They can also be used to combat time, in a way. While some people might lose contact after a few decades, even a few years, it's become more common for people to have longer-lasting friendships because of the Internet.

In Redford, Kathleen Neary uses Facebook to keep track of friends from high school. Although she graduated from high school in 1987, Neary has been able to recently catch up with many of her old friends.

"One person is in Seattle now, and another person who I went to grade school with is in Nevada," Neary said of her old classmates. Without access to a social network. Neary may never have reached these people. Neary's father, now in his 70s, uses Skype to keep in touch with family members in California and Florida. Skype is a program that lets computer users make voice and video calls over the Internet. Recently, Skype has been adapted as a phone application for smartphones.

from home on a frequent basis. Although he may not be home much, he's committed to calling his wife in Canton on a daily basis. To keep this obligation, Novak uses Skype on his BlackBerry.

"My wife is a technophobe, so we use the good old-fashioned cell phones." Novak said. "I bought her a smartphone so I could send her e-mails, but she hated it. So, when I'm out of the country, I use Skype to call her cell phone."

Novak purchases minutes through Skype, then makes a call either though the application on his BlackBerry or his laptop. He says this method is vastly cheaper than making a typical phone call.

"[Buying minutes] is far cheaper than the ridiculous international calling rates," Novak said. "But it can get dicey when the hotel wireless isn't any good."

Novak says the data charges can be "outrageous" through his smartphone, so he mainly uses Skype on his laptop.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Summer: the perfect season to design an eye-catching and comfortable kitchen

In high-traffic rooms where food is stored, prepared and served, most design experts recommend using a semi-gloss paint finish for easy clean-up and maintenance.

In the summer, most activity moves to the great outdoors. Porches, patios and decks are the official "heart center" of most homes during the warm weather months, especially at mealtimes. Instead of congregating in the kitchen as they do in the colder season, families tend to gather on the patio to enjoy dinner and recap the day's events.

This leaves the kitchen, with the exception of basic food preparation, vacant and, quite possibly, looking even a bit forlorn and outdated now that it's temporarily unused. So why not take advantage of this seasonal vacancy and turn this space into something more modern and family friendly before the cold winter months return?

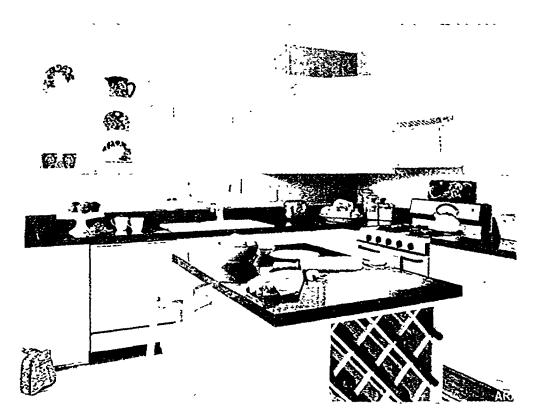

Because it plays such a prominent role in any home, an outdated kitchen can lessen the impact of the well-thought-out style you've worked hard to infuse into the rooms that surround it. Sure, it might be a functional cooking workspace, but it's also the one room where people tend to gravitate. Why not make it a place where you can work sensibly and have family and friends gather comfortably to share a meal or lively game night?

Taking a tired kitchen from drab to fab is an easy goal to achieve on any budget. All you need is a little paint, a few decorating elements and some creativity.

First, think color. Chances are you haven't changed the palette in that room in years, and with paint, it's the quickest, easiest and most cost-effective change you can make. In high-traffic rooms where food is stored, prepared and served, most design experts recommend using a semi-gloss paint finish for easy clean-up and maintenance. Because of its shiny finish, it also tends to brighten a room because it reflects more light than other finishes.

What's more, you now can find a highquality semi-gloss finish in zero-VOC paints, such as Dutch Boy's odor-eliminating Refresh paint with exclusive Arm home

When repainting your kitchen, don't forget to think beyond walls and trim. You can also update aging chairs, the table and even old cabinets with fresh new paint colors.

& Hammer technology that reduces household odors — another great feature for busy kitchens.

"Because it delivers exceptional lowodor application, durability and washability, Refresh semi-gloss sheen is a smart choice for any room of the house," says Mary Ward, Dutch Boy Paints senior product manager. "Add its odor-reducing technology, and it's really the ideal coating solution for kitchens where pungent food odors can linger in the air."

When deciding what colors to include in your updated space, think appetizing. Color experts and Feng Shui practitioners caution against using blue, saying it's an unnatural color for food and also an appetite suppressant. Soothing greens are said to aid in digestion. Golds boost vibrancy in poorly lit rooms. Earth tones provide a formal, yet calming, feel to a room. Reds and oranges have long been associated with stimulating appetite.

When repainting your kitchen, don't forget to think beyond walls and trim. You can also update aging chairs, the table and even old cabinets with fresh new paint colors. Add in some new fabric for chair cushions, and you've easily transformed stale, old furniture without much expense.

If you're looking to upgrade to new furniture, remember that a round kitchen table instead of a traditional, long rectangular one also can add new intimacy, making this favorite gathering space even more inviting. To further update the room, ditch the 1970s lighting and go for something more modern and fun, such as decorative, funky glass pendant lights. Another new trend to try is on the opposite end of the decorating spectrum - 1950s retro-inspired fixtures. Whatever you choose, don't forget to also install some functional, yet attractive, task lighting for the work areas.

Overall, think "mix and match" to add a little more casual feel to the space. Steer away from the kind of fussy curtains your grandmother might choose and update off-the rack window treatments with tassels, cording, beads or contrasting fabrics for more visual appeal. Or, for even more punch, consider covering windows in fashionable fabric Roman shades. Instead of a dated oilcloth tablecloth, cover your tabletop with funky, unexpected placemats to offer a more contemporary edge. Don't have money to update that old linoleum floor? An inexpensive patterned rug hides scuffs and wear and instantly brightens the space.

Break the rules and have fun in decorating. When you're ready to gather together back inside after a summer season of dining on the deck, your creativity will give you a space where you'll want to spend time during the cold months. *

Hit up a local cycling trail for a low impact, scenic workout

By Alison Bergsieker CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Take a bike ride in Michigan, and you may find yourself pedaling along an expansive waterway, between sandstone cliffs, through a scenic beach town or through untouched wilderness.

Michigan is home to more than 1,300 miles of bike trails that cater to on-road, off-road, bike commutes and country riding.

With several public parks, trails and bike paths in the Oakland and Wayne county areas, local residents are taking to cycling as a hobby, competitive sport or means of exercise. Milford resident Brian Walsh, 27, frequently rides his bike to work in Ann Arbor — 30 nules each way — for exercise. He and his mother, Sheryl Walsh of Novi, cycle and run with several local groups, including Sunrise Runners and Tri Club, based out of the Farmington YMCA.

"Cycling for me has been a gateway to a new lifestyle Walsh said." Without mountain biking. I never would have started road biking. Not long after that, I started running. Now I'm an avid triathlete."

Walsh said compared to running. cycling is an easy low impact workout once the rider adjusts to the saddle.

"I burn around 1,000 calories an hour on the bike, whereas the average person

The Sunrise Runners and Tri Club meets at the Farmington YMCA Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5:45 a.m. to train. burns about 100 calories per mile while running," he said. "An hour of running is very challenging for a lot of people."

Lakeshore Park in Novi and Island Lake Recreation Area in South Lyon are popular among local cyclists.

"Lakeshore Park has probably the most technically demanding trails," Walsh said. "It tends to be a slower ride because there's so much challenge to it."

Farmington Hills resident Tom Neal, social director of the Sunrise Runners and Tri Club, said Island Lake Recreation Area is an ideal venue for riders of all levels.

"For bike training, Island Lake is the safest place," Neal said. "You have a sixmile road with loops on each end, and there is no traffic on the road. We have a number of people in our group that train for Iron Man there."

Sunrise Runners and Tri Club hosts about 30 members, many whom are Farmington YMCA members or residents from surrounding communities.

"As a group, we've been doing more biking," Neal said. "What I would like to see is a strong advocacy about really improving all construction of highways to include bike shoulders because the communities need to be more biker and walker friendly."

The group trains every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 5:45 a.m. and meets in the Farmington YMCA lobby. Residents who would like to join the group need not be YMCA members.

To learn more about the Sunrise Runners and Tri Club, contact Pam Horetski at (248) 556-4020 or email Tom Neal at ttneal@sbcglobal.net for more information.

Work out your credit to get financially fit

Running shoes — check. Sunscreen — check. Snazzy shades — check. Diet plan that emphasizes fresh veggies and lean meats — check. You have everything you need to stay healthy this summer.

But what about your financial fitness?

The arrival of summer not only means more active time outdoors, it often also means more opportunities to spend. Will you be taking a summer vacation? Maybe you're looking to move into a new house while the kids are out of school for the summer. And don't forget those energy bills you'll need to pay to keep your house cool and comfortable.

Just as you take care of your physical health in preparation for summer fun, you need to pay attention to your financial well-being as well - and not just when the weather's warm, but all year round. And just as the key to losing weight is to eat fewer calories than you burn, financial health depends on your ability to earn and save more money than you spend.

Here are three important steps to take toward financial fitness this summer:

BUILD A BUDGET

A balanced, nutritious diet is the foundation of good physical health and a balanced, smart budget is the cornerstone of financial health. If you've never had a budget before, it's time to create one. If your budgeting efforts have been sketchy in the past, it's time to knuckle down.

Creating a budget is simple but detail oriented. Start by writing down on a sheet of paper every source of income you have in a month (your job, your spouse's salary, your eBay auctions, etc.). Next, list all your fixed expenses - ones that you can't skip paying, like rent or mortgage costs, insurance and so on. Then, list expenses that are flexible and could be trimmed, like entertainment, dining out, cable subscriptions, and so forth.

If your total expenses exceed your income in a month, you need to put your spending on a diet.

AVINGS SKILLS

Eating well and exercising daily are your investment in your future health - ones you rely on to ensure you've banked the nutrients and strength you need to stay well as you age or to help you fight off illness now. You also need to set cash aside in case of emergencies. Treat your monthly payment to your savings account like any other debt you can't shirk - pay yourself that money before you spend it on flexible expenses or fun. In fact, think of it as the most fun money you'll spend in a month - watching the bank account total grow can give you a very positive, empowered feeling.

CREDIT CHECKUP

No financial fitness plan would be complete without a credit checkup. Unwise use and poor understanding of credit contributed to the real estate crash and the overall poor health of the economy, many money experts say. A credit checkup can help you better understand your overall financial health.

Your first step is to check your credit score and report online. Think of a credit score as an indicator of your overall financial health. A good score tells potential lenders that you know how to manage money and are likely to be a good credit tisk. A lower score may be a symptom of poor financial health. Web sites like freecreditscore.com provide valuable credit monitoring tools to help you assess your credit health and how your financial health habits alfect your credit.
