Two candidates vying for school board opening

By Lonnie Huhman Staff Writer

The pool of candidates for the Northville Public Schools Board of Education opening has been narrowed down to two with the final interviews set to come.

Michael (Mickey) Barrett and Ann Kalass were selected by the school board at a special interview meeting on Oct. 29. They were picked from a group of seven, which included Joel Michalek, Richard Corriveau, Roland Hwang, Raymond Reame and Scott Frush.

Each board member ranked their top three candidates with the top two moving on.

"This is a difficult process. We're lucky to have such qualified candidates," said Board President Ken Roth.

Outgoing school board treasurer Joe Hige is stepping down from the board at the completion of his current four-year term on Dec 31. He has opted not to serve the additional oneyear extension of his term that is the result of a new state law that went into effect in 2012 requiring that school board elections across the state take place only during general elections, which occur in November of even numbered years. Both the final candidates have lived in the Northville community for more than a decade, and come with a lot of experience and skills.

Barrett ran for school board in the previous election in 2012, but failed in his bid. He's a retired educator, coach and business owner.

His background includes work as an insurance adjuster, teaching at the middle school level as a math and physical education teacher, owned and operated two separate companies, and coached basketball on all levels for 37 years, including at the University of Detroit-

Colorful Doheny employees raise breast cancer awareness

By Kurt Kuban

Lori Lehmann knows firsthand how devastating and lifealtering breast cancer can be. She was diagnosed with the disease in 2008, and finally completed her treatments in July. She says she is going to be fine, but talk about a big scare. It's something that makes you re-evaluate your priorities. That's why Lehmann was shocked to learn that many of her female co-workers at the Northville-based Jack Doheny Companies really didn't give much thought to breast cancer. In fact, she says some of them hadn't even had basic checkups. "I was shocked to find out that we have people here who haven't even had mammograms

- for years," said Lehmann, an executive assistant and longtime employee with the company. So she set out to bring a little more awareness to her co-workers. To coincide with National Breast Cancer Awareness

Audit shows Northville in sound financial shape

The Northville City Council looked at some financial outlooks at its last meeting that were mostly good, but the future forecast presents some con-

The city is allocating more than $121,000 in race track breakage funds toward areas of future need like paying for police and fire equipment.

Northville is committing breakage funds left over from fiscal year 2012 in the amounts of $1,539 for contingency/grant matching, $60,000 for police and fire equipment fund reserves and then from the fiscal year 2013 funding amount another $60,000 again for police and fire equipment fund reserves for a total of $121,539.

"Racetrack (Northville Downs) breakage funds which are in excess of the cost of police and fire department service provided at the racetrack, are recorded in the Public Improvement Fund," said Sandi Wiktorowski, city finance director/ treasurer. "Over the past decade, those funds have primarily been used for capital outlay and

Looking for new holiday decorating ideas this year? Visit the Northville Community Foundation's Holiday Home Tour, sponsored by Toll Brothers, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 15-16, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Once again five homes have been selected to be decorated. The style of each home is different and there is something for every taste. This year's tour is a blend of traditional, contemporary, earthy, cozy and even a modern condo. Each home is beautiful on its own but with a talented team of decorators the homes come to life with ideas on top of ideas for decorating your home for the holidays.

With homes ranging from a stylish new build to a 15-year-old traditional home this year's tour has got it all. One home is just loaded with custom features. From a "man cave" on the main floor to the elegant kitchen and newly renovated lower level, much is featured.

There's also a downtown Northville home that has been modeled after a Queen Ann Farmhouse.

Looking for some unique ideas for your home? One home includes a custom wine cellar and a London inspired room complete with an English "phone box." Another boasts a Scotland-inspired den and chic custom wallpaper, and yet another has beautifully designed stonework throughout.

This year, a bonus home has been added to the tour. This new build in downtown Northville is less than six months old and is upscale.

Proceeds from the Holiday Home Tour help fund the Northville Community Foundation's Senior Holiday Baskets program which provides gift baskets to senior citizens in assisted living facilities as well as the scholarship program for high school seniors.

Tickets for the 2013 tour are $20 in advance and $25 at the door. Tickets are limited and the event sells out each year. To buy tickets, visit Gardenviews or the Chamber of Commerce. He said his common sense approach will be a compliment to the current board.

"I want to give back," he said of his ultimate motivation.

Kalass is currently the CEO of Starfish Family Services, which is a private, nonprofit agency serving vulnerable children and families in metropolitan Detroit. She is responsible for strategic planning, fund development, board development, fiscal management, and program and organizational development for the $20 million private, nonprofit agency.

She previously worked 13 years in a variety of marketing and sales executive positions at Ford Motor Company.

With two children in Northville schools, she believes the district plays a big part in connecting the community.

"I see this as a chance to be of service," Kalass said of her motivation. "I want to help continue the excellence.

The final selection decision will come on Nov. 12. The school board will have its final interviews at 6:15-7:15 pm at Hillside Middle School and afterward at the regular meeting will make the decision.

The remaining fiscal year 2013 funding of $128.712 will remain unallocated until specific projects are identified.

Audit

Financially the City of Northville is in pretty good shape right now, but there are some challenges ahead.

The 2012-2013 audit of the city has been completed Plante Moran and was accepted by the city council at its Nov. 4 meeting. No significant issues were found in the city's financial plan

Auditors said this last year saw Northville in strong condition financially with it gaining some revenue through fire services from its arrangement with the City of Plymouth (about $158,000) and securing itself through refinancing of services with Allen Terrace and getting its health care costs in line. The city was also able to put a lot of money into infrastructure improvements.

There some slight increases in funding from property taxes and state shared revenue.

Challenges ahead will be the loss of personal property tax revenue as well as increasing fringe benefits and pension

The city will eventually lose $150,000 a year in revenue from the phasing out of the personal property tax by the state of Michigan, and there is no replacement of this funding.

here," Lehmann said. "Everyone was pretty good about going through with it." Jack Doheny Companies is currently undergoing a major $5 million expansion on the outskirts of downtown Northville. The largest industrial clean-up company in the country is currently adding another 10,000 square feet of office space. They have locations around the country, but Northville is the headquarters. And despite the fact that there are 140 employees based in Northville, it still feels like a family operation. So it wasn't surprising everyone jumped on board with the Lehmann's "operation pink."

"It's been great for morale. Everybody's gotten involved with it," said Kay Doheny, executive vice president of the company. "And it's been kind of funny seeing some of the guys wearing pink to work."

Doheny, who is the daughter of company founder Jack Doheny, is a longtime friend of Lehmann's. In fact, they attended school together and are fellow 1978 Northville High School graduates.

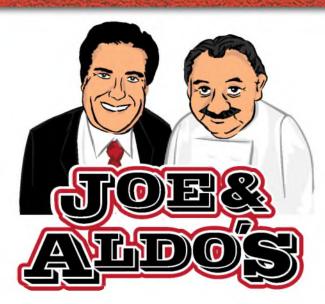

Lehmann said she feels blessed to work for such a close-knit company, especially one in her beloved hometown.

"We have a real good group of people here. It's a special place to work," she said. "I just hope we did help raise some awareness around here. I think we did."

Third case of MRSA reported at NHS

By Lonnie Huhman

Northville High School has its third case of MRSA since late summer, but this time it's not an athlete.

According to a notification sent out by Principal Robert Watson, Northville High School was notified Friday morning on Nov. 1 of a case of MRSA (Methicillin-Resistant Staphlococcus Aureus).

This instance of MRSA is separate from the two cases reported in August and September, he said, and it is not in an athlete. The student's wound has remained covered, minimizing the risk of exposure.

"Upon notification, as a precautionary measure, Northville High School relocated several classes in order to implement the prescribed cleaning regimen in the appropriate classrooms," Watson said Friday before noon. "As an added precaution, the entire building will have this cleaning regimen completed over the weekend. These measures have been reviewed with the Wayne County Health Department.

A MRSA infection is caused by a strain of staph bacteria that's become resistant to the antibiotics commonly used to treat ordinary staph infections.

After the first reported case, the school district initiated a prescribed cleaning regimen of the team locker rooms at NHS with additional cleaning until the full regimen was completed.

The second case the parent notified the district upon receipt of the information from a physician, and reported that the wound was covered, minimizing the risk of exposure. Again the district conducted a cleaning regimen.

According to the Oakland County Health and Human Services Department, factors that have been associated with the spread of MRSA skin infections include: close skin-to-skin contact, openings in the skin such as cuts or abrasions, contaminated items and surfaces, crowded living conditions, poor hygiene and medical procedures or a stay in the hospital.

Staph bacteria, including MRSA, can cause skin infections that may look like a pimple or boil that can be red, swollen, painful, or have pus or other drainage. More serious infections may cause pneumonia, bloodstream infections, or surgical wound infections.

"We appreciate the prompt reporting of this information and will monitor this concern should there be any additional reports," Watson

The Northville Educational Foundation (NEF) is kicking off its fifth annual Innovative Grants competition. Fueled by the success and excitement generated by the 2012-13 program's doubled funding and larger grant amounts, the 2013-14 program will offer one larger grant ($3,000 vs. the usual $1,000) and a total of $15,000 in available funding.

The group defines the term "innovative" as something new – such as a unique approach to learning or teaching - or a change to an established method. The majority of grant applicagrant cycle. "Each year we look forward to receiving these outstanding and exciting applications. We encourage teachers at all levels and at all school buildings to apply. We also encourage members of the community to continue to contribute to NEF to support these wonderful educational experiences for the students of Northville Public Schools," said Dwight Sieggreen, NEF director and Innovative Grants chair.

Innovative Grants is just one of the programs funded annually by the NEF. The foundation's proposed financial support to Northville Public Schools for 2013-14 totals $124,800.

Uncontested Northville City election draws few voters

Johnson

Only 636 ballots cast as Johnson, Allen re-elected with newcomer Ekong

By Lonnie Huhman

Dedicated voters made it out to vote in the uncontested Northville mayoral and city council election on Tuesday, which had 12 percent of registered voters casting a ballot.

"This is democracy in action," said Northville voter Robert Grant as to why he voted in the election. "Voting is part of being an American."

Voter Jake Sheehy came out because he wanted to make sure there were no surprises on the ballot.

"I didn't want to miss anything. I've heard of some other communities sneaking something in on the ballot, so I wanted to make sure," Sheehy said. "Plus it should be necessary for all of us to vote."

Only 636 ballots were cast in the election that saw Mayor Chris Johnson being re-elected again and Mayor Pro tem Jim Allen as well as newcomer Sam Ekong garnering the votes to fill the two open city council seats. Ekong will fill the spot left by outgoing council member Michele Fecht, who chose not to seek re-election.

With 97 percent of the turnout counted, Johnson received 576 votes while Allen and Ekong had 563 and 505 votes respectively. Johnson has served as mayor since 1987. There are 5,103 registered voters in the city of Northville. The mayor serves a twoyear term while council members serve four.

More than half the ballots cast were by absentee with over 400 received by the city clerk's office. Both city precincts had a slow trickle of voters throughout the day, but during the evening they saw a little bit more.

"It's been quiet," said poll volunteer Terry Mittman

Jan Paver, who was in charge of Precinct 1, said the uncontested race was probably the main reason for a lower turnout.

However, she was pleased with the new precinct location.

"We've got more space here, which will be good when there will be a more popular election," Paver said.

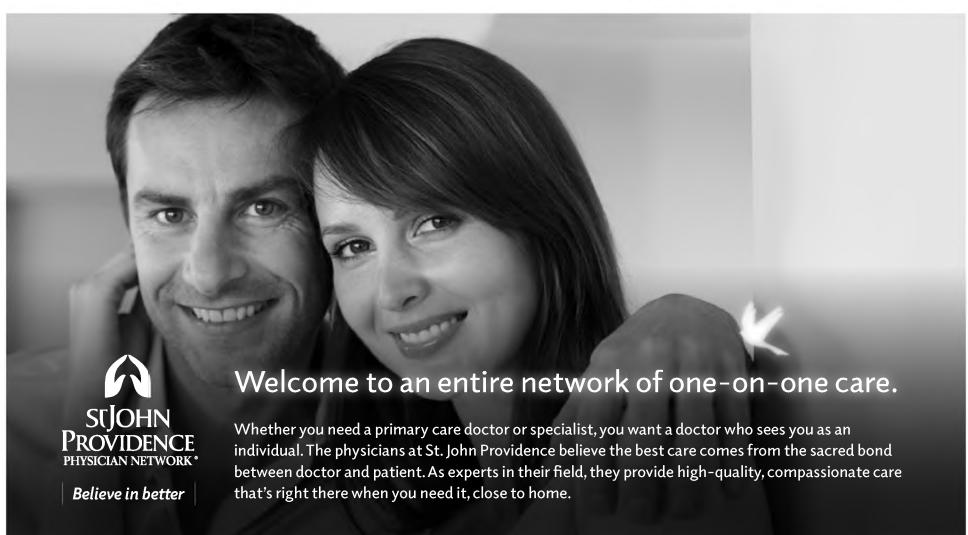

She said last year during the presidential election the lines at city hall were just too long and bothersome for normal city hall business to go on properly. Because of this it was moved to the more spacious gymnasium at the Community Center just down Main Street.

"I think this location will be perfect when we see more voters coming in," Paver said.

Honoring veterans

The Northville District Library will commemorate Veteran's Day a very special way this year. On Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. author Teresa Irish will recount the story of her writing of "A Thousand Letters Home," a moving and historic tale of life and loss, hope and perseverance, unwavering faith and true love.

A month after her father's death in 2006, Irish found nearly 1,000 handwritten letters her father had written while serving during World War II. Carefully tucked away the letters were postmarked from November, 1942 to December, 1945. In the top left corner of each was the signature of the sender, Aarol W. "Bud" Irish. The fragile and yellowed pages were addressed to Bud's parents and to the sweetheart who would later become his wife, Elaine Marie Corbat.

Bizarre Bazaar eases poverty burden in Third World

To date, women of the First United Methodist Church of Northville have raised more than $75,000 for FINCA's Village Banking, which offers micro-loans in Third World countries to open businesses, mostly for women.

"That's the part we're assisting with," said Norma Kwek, chair for this year's Bizarre Bazaar, set for 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 9, at the church, Eight Mile and Taft roads.

The local church women aim to encourage self-sufficiency among entrepreneurs in poorer countries. They also seek to follow the example Jesus set in his ministry.

Projects supported by Village Banking include livestock and grain among agriculture, sewing, cheese-making, other food and cosmetics and accessories. FINCA was founded in 1985.

The First United Methodist Church of Northville women encourage self-sufficiency among Third World entrepreneurs with their annual Bizarre Bazaar, a fundraiser.

This is the sixth year for the Bizarre Bazaar, put on by a committee of about a dozen women from the church. The Attic Treasures portion (a rummage sale but with no clothing sold) will be held separately this year from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, Nov. 8, and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 9, at the church.

The Bizarre Bazaar will include such companies as Mary Kay, Avon and Pampered Chef. Also sold will be jewelry, crocheted items, candles and soap.

"So there's a little bit of everything," Kwek said. "We always have our bake sale." Bizarre Bazaar admission charge is $2, with those admitted Friday advised to save their ticket stub for Saturday admission.

More information is available at the church, 248-349-1144, or on the Bizarre Bazaar page on Facebook. "It's a very informative page," Kwek said.

About 400 people attend each year, she said. "Simply that it is a fundraising effort and 100 percent of the money goes to helping people," she said of its appeal. "We're helping others."

About two-thirds of the micro-loan recipients overseas are women. The First UMC of Northville women don't have direct contact with them, but have a FINCA contact.

Northville man, 37, charged after running off with Plymouth girl, 15

By Matt Jachman Staff Writer

Lisa Schwartz called for prayers – and room to heal – Thursday in 35th District Court, minutes after a longtime family friend was arraigned on criminal sexual conduct charges involving her 15-year-old daughter.

Schwartz, of Plymouth Township, described herself as "definitely heartbroken, very betrayed, very upset" over the alleged conduct of Robert L. Messer, 37, who was discovered with the teenager Tuesday, two days after they ran away together.

"He was like her uncle, her dad," Schwartz said in a courtroom hallway, with her husband Neil at her side. "How much more can you trust a person than that?'

Messer, of Northville Township, had just been arraigned on one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct, three counts of third-degree criminal sexual conduct and one count of accosting a minor for immoral purposes. His attorney, Jonathan Jones, told Judge Mike Gerou that Messer would stand mute to the charges and waive a formal reading of them and Gerou entered a not-guilty plea and set bond at $2 million. That means Messer would have to post $200,000, or 10 percent, in order to be released. The judge scheduled a preliminary hearing for Friday, Nov. 8, and ordered Messer to have no contact with the victim. Messer, appearing on video from the Plymouth Township police lockup, told Gerou he worked as a barista at an area restaurant.

Two days missing

He and the 15-year-old were discovered Tuesday afternoon in the area of Chubb Road and Seven Mile in Washtenaw County. Acting on a tip from someone who recognized Messer's pickup truck, police found the pair sitting in Messer's truck in a field and Messer was arrested without incident.

Both were treated for what police described as superficial, self-inflicted injuries and the girl was reunited with her family.

The pair's return ended a two-day search that began when Lisa Schwartz reported the girl missing at about 6 p.m. Sunday. Police said her last known whereabouts had been with Messer at his home and that the two had left behind notes professing love for each other.

The girl is "doing better. She's accepting the fact of what happened," Schwartz said Thursday. "It's going to be a long road." She asked for continued prayers and respect from the media for the family's privacy.

Schwartz said the girl was receiving counseling and planning to return to school. She said the girl has talked a bit about the incident. "We're still trying to understand and put the pieces together,' Schwartz said. The age of consent in Michigan is

"I expect he's going to be fine and help me in his defense," Jones said.

He called the allegations against his client "a very serious matter.'

Police: Man was driving drunk with kids after trick or treating

By Eric D. Lawrence Gannett Michigan

A 31-year-old Lyon Township man was driving drunk and on a suspended license when he ran a red light with his three children in the car on Nov. 1, according to Northville Police.

The man also had two outstanding warrants from other communities.

Northville Police Chief Gary Goss said charges against the man could include secondoffense driving on a suspended license, drunken driving and operating while intoxicated with occupants younger than 16.

The man was stopped on Novi Road after an officer spotted him run a red light while driving east on Eight Mile at Taft Road about 2:45 a.m., Goss said.

The man's three children, a 1-year-old girl and two boys, ages 7 and 9, along with their 31year-old mother were passengers in the vehicle.

Both the man and the woman registered a blood-alcohol level of 0.11%, which is higher than the legal limit to drive of 0.08%, Goss said. The man was arrested, and the woman's brother was called to pick up the woman and the children.

The woman could face charges for allowing the man to drive the car.

Better but not necessarily bigger

Committee comes up with interesting ideas for master plan

> By Lonnie Huhman Staff Writer

Make it better not bigger.

More development will come to the city of Northville it's just a matter of what it will be and how it will look.

The joint committee helping to update the city's Master Plan gave its recommendations at its last meeting on Oct. 30. These included ideas for better pedestrian accessibility, a creative district and smaller residential lots. The end goal is to place community-led direction over areas that could soon be developed.

The committee was formed to study key areas (the school property on Main Street, Post Office area, Cady Street and Northville Downs property) within the city that could experience land use and/or development changes within the next five to 10 years.

Committee member Greg Presley said it best when he said their ultimate recommendation goal was to, "Make downtown better not

Future possibilities

One recommendation is to have a pedestrian spine or walkway running from Main Street down through Cady and then through the Downs property, which part of could become a residential area with smaller lots and varied housing options. Through this could run an extended Beal Street to Center and on the east boundary line of the track, the Rouge River would be opened up to become a more prominent water feature.

This considers development that would come if the race track or parts of it were sold. These are all just recommendations, but they will be put before the city's Planning Commission in the coming year as it formulates the finalized update of the master plan. This was last done in 2008.

City planners see change coming as the economic downturn of 2008 has shifted a bit toward a positive as of late. Interest has been expressed for properties in downtown Northville.

Concerns

Input was received from residents not part of the committee, and much of it centered on concerns they have about the future possibilities. A group of 15 people were on hand to ask about the dog park and Art House, however they were told those two areas are not part of the committee study area.

The potential increase in traffic and parking issues that could come in the area of the Board of Education/school administration building on Main and Old Village School is one concern. This area is currently being looked at by the city and school district as a potential consolidation project.

Another area of concern is parking. Many of the residents expressed concern that new development would make a sometimes difficult situation currently into a more problematic one in the future. Each committee member believes future development should not put pressure on current parking. A mix of private and public parking lots is recommended.

LOCAL NEWS

With any sale of the Downs property could bring changes for things like the Farmers Market, which currently uses a parking lot there. Its location could become an issue in the near future.

Changes coming

Other recommendations put out had mixed use (office, restaurant, commercial and/or residential) being a main land use designation for areas specifically along Cady and south Center to act as a transition from residential to downtown.

One interesting idea is to make the area in the vicinity of south Main and east Cady as well as Beal as a creative district. The Village Workshop, which is going in the old Belanger building, is one example of what this area could become. The committee talked about a micro-brew, jazz club, public art and an event space being placed in this area as ideas. This could also be a place for a future farmers mar-

The planning commission will begin looking at the master plan in early 2014 and more input will be needed for from the community.

A GREEN BREAKTHROUGH

Northville company develops diesel energy saver

By Lonnie Huhman
Staff Writer

A small, independently-owned company in Northville is making huge strides toward a future of cleaner air through more efficient diesel engines.

International Metals and Energy Technology (IMET) Ltd., based in Northville Township, has some breakthrough technology that reduces emission and saves fuel in a cost-effective way.

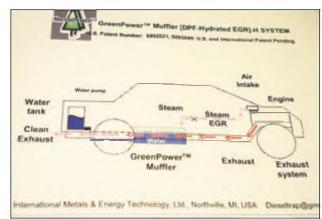

The company's Green-Power Muffler system was developed and patented by Northville resident Dr. Julius Rim. It recovers muffler-wasteheat to generate watervapor to be re-combusted in the cylinder combustion chamber at low combustion temperature (LCT). It also reduces engine-friction by use of the GreenPower Engine Oil Borne Catalyst (OBC)

In other words, IMET's system purports to solve the problem of energy waste within the modern diesel engine.

Rim said diesel trucks

percent fuel energy.
More than half of it is in exhaust emissions. This is where the GreenPower

Muffler comes in.
It reduces engine

It also prolongs the life of the engine.

"We have a breakthrough technology that is gaining momentum,"

Rim said from his main office and Tech. Center on Tournament Drive. "With the coming regulations this technology will become even more important."

IMET's technology has been recognized with several honors including a grant award from the Port of Los Angeles for marine diesel engines, and in 2011 by the Society of Automotive Engineers as an Automotive Innovation Technology Competition Finalist Winner.

Through the grant, IMET is commercializing and demonstrating the GreenPower Muffler technology for ocean going vessels at the Port of Los Angeles.

The market potential for this technology, for marine and land vehicles could exceed over $1 billion starting in 2016 when stricter emission regulations go into place in the U.S. Mazda has recognized IMET as a forerunner in diesel emission control technology

IMET origins

All this came from a company that began as a product of the decision by General Motors to drop its case of making diesel engines more popular in the U.S. Rim said in Europe, diesel accounts for around 60 percent of the vehicle market. He said it's a cleaner fuel when used properly.

"We were pioneers at

"We were pioneers at the time," Rim said of his days at GM as an engineer developing diesel engine technology. "But instead of improving the image of diesel in America, GM quit."

So Rim along with a small team has worked over the last 30 years to further develop these ideas. IMET has another facility in Jackson. He relocated the base of operations to Northville in order to be closer to the automotive companies and related partners.

In the coming years, IMET will look to partner up with bigger firms and license its technology to help increase its value with the goal of being a $100 million company.

"We are a small, independent company, so we need some funding help," Rim said looking forward. "But we have a technology that will play a big part in the future."

IMET is now competing for the Accelerate

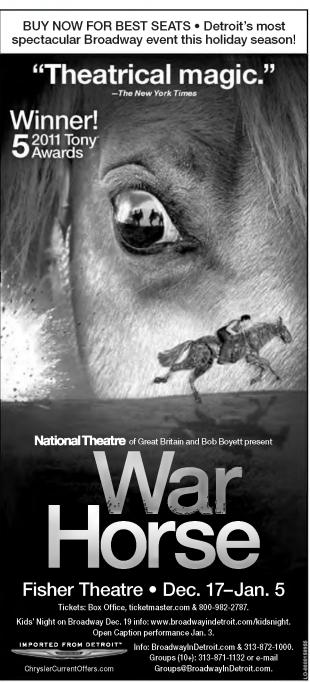

Michigan Innovation Competition final with Grand-Prize on Nov 14-

Tech Savvy Notebook: Catching up on tech buzz

f a tree falls in a forest and nobody is there, it still makes a sound especially if it has its Facebook account set to public. Recently, Facebook rolled out its new search feature to the global community. In doing so it set everyone's past private posts to public. Awesome.

To make sure your past posts and future posts stay private, log on to Facebook, click on account settings, and change your security to make your past and future posts private. It only takes about 30 seconds to change and can spare you some embarrassment from having the wrong people see the wrong posts. Of course, this Facebook change is another teachable moment in why nothing you want kept private should ever be posted to a social network.

Twitter plans IPO

Meanwhile, the social network everyone thought was a fad is now planning an IPO. And it probably couldn't come at a better time. As of this being written, Facebook's stock is nearing its 52-week high of $50.99 per share while LinkedIn is hovering around $245 per share. LinkedIn's 52-week high is $257.56 and it's 52-week low is

Reports show Twitter plans to raise about $1 billion with its initially offering. Impressive for a company that is only seven and a half years old. Twitter now has an estimated 200 million or more users including the Pope who joined in September. It also offers some interesting multimedia including free NFL instant replays courtesy of Verizon Wireless as well as universal emergency alerts.

Apple iPhone hacks

The new Apple iPhone 5s has a fancy finger print scanner and it only took about 10 days for hackers to discover how to break in. It turns out a picture of the user's fingerprint or a cat's paw can both be used to hack into someone else's phone. So I guess the moral of the story is, if you are a phone burglar make sure to befriend some cats.

Make your home smarter

I've written about Nest Labs extensively in this space thanks to a pair of smart thermostats that allow owners to control the temperature of their homes from their phones. Nest thermostats are full of modern features that save time and energy for users. Now Nest has done it again with an advanced smoke alarm called Nest Pro-

The Nest Protect ($129) is a smart smoke alarm that can also be controlled by a mobile device. The smart smoke alarm will send alerts to phones when a battery needs to be replaced, instead of chirping. Moreover, if the Nest Protect senses steam or smoke from cooking or taking a hot shower too long, it will ask you if everything is okay, instead of buzzing and freaking out your family members, pets, neighbors and anyone within a square mile.

When there is smoke, Nest will use a combination of mobile, visual and phone alerts to tell you where the smoke is. The new Nest Protect can be pre-ordered at Nest.com and comes in black and white.

A little slice of Northville in Troy

United Shore Financial Services took a new approach when naming the different conference rooms in its headquarters located in Troy. All the rooms are named after Michigan towns, including Northville (in photo). In all, 22 towns are represented in the mortgage lender's 140,000-square-foot building at 1414 E. Maple Road. On the second floor are conference rooms Ann Arbor, Royal Oak, Grosse Pointe, Plymouth, Flint, Ferndale, Farmington, Detroit and Berkley. The third floor includes Rochester, Dearborn, Pontiac, Birmingham, Clawson, Lake Orion, Northville and Clarkston. On the fourth floor are Auburn Hills, Troy, Franklin, East Lansing and Oxford. The rooms include mural photographs by Kim Kozlowski of Novi. "We wanted something that would make our meeting areas stand out and, at the same time, celebrate our home state," USFS CEO/President Mat Ishbia said. "Our employees are our greatest asset, so choosing the cities and towns they are from or currently live in was an easy choice.

Book signing

Barnes & Noble, 17111 Haggerty in Northville, will host a book signing by sports writer Steve Kornacki from 7-9 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 8. The former beat writer for the Ann Arbor News, Detroit Free Press and FOXSportsDetroit.com. will be signing his new book, "Go Blue!: Michigan's Greatest Football Stories.'

The book is based on intimate interviews with former players and coaches. Due to his long history covering Michigan football, Kornacki was given open-door access to Lloyd Carr, Bo Schembelcher, and Gary Moeller, all of whom provided hours sharing personal accounts. Stories include being in the Michigan locker room after Schembechler's last game in the "Big House" and hearing his rousing speech leading the team in The Victors as they punctuated each verse by thrusting red roses toward the ceiling.

Carr recalls his walk down memory lane the

OPINION

Our fundamental purposes are to enhance the lives of our readers, nurture the hometowns we serve and contribute to the business success of our customers.

Monday a day to honor veterans

On Monday, the nation will celebrate Veterans Day. Dating back to Armistice Day ending World War I in 1918, the annual national holiday honors our military veterans who have served during wartime, and is a reminder that our freedoms have not been given to us but earned on battlefields all over the

One of the questions we hear every year on Nov. 11 and will likely hear again Monday is, "Have you thanked a veteran today?'

All over the country, communities and military organizations will host ceremonies where we do just that – thank America's 21 million military veterans for the sacrifices they have made for each and every one of us.

In Northville, members of VFW Post 4012 hold an annual Veterans Day ceremony at 11 a.m. at the flagpole outside the post, located at 438 South Main Street. It is a solemn remembrance of all those who have served in America's wars.

But our veterans need more than just that annual pat on the back. In particular, recent veterans of the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan could use the same commitment from their nation as they have shown in its defense. When the government was shut down recently, one of the many repercussions were delays in the delivery of veterans compensation, benefits, health care and other issues.

In addition to the thousands of veterans killed in action, thousands more returned from wars in Afghanistan and Iraq with visible – and invisible – scars of war. Veterans of all conflicts have suffered divorce, mental anguish, unemployment and an array of other problems since their return.

It's not going to get any better. In postwar Afghanistan and Iraq, another million veterans are returning to civilian life, facing a bleak postwar landscape. It is understandable the nation has become war weary, but we still must not ignore the plight of veterans.

We owe these people - these warriors and defenders of our freedom - more than just a pat on the back once a year in November. They didn't let us down, and we can't let them down.

Think about that as we commemorate Veterans Day Monday.

LETTERS

Full of holes

A letter writer went on record ("Right-wing indifference", Oct. 24) and submitted written statements that are, after reading and giving careful thought to, are much like Swiss cheese - full of holes. Somehow the writer sees that the number of people born into poverty is due to the Catholic Church and its stance on birth control when neither one has anything to do with

Consider the following. Why has this country in such a short period of time risen to such a superior economic status relative to other nations that have been around much longer? Two reasons: freedom and capitalism. The abject poverty the writer attempts to attribute to Catholicism is really due to the socioeconomic policies in those societies.

My parents were poor immigrants that raised 10 kids. Their first home was a structure with four walls, a roof, and dirt floor. Yet because of the freedom this country offered them, they managed to raise their standard of living and raise the 10 of us. In turn we have become successful because of the opportunities afforded us by the capitalist system. In fact, it was my parent's faith in their Catholic religion which helped them to persevere. So to say that abject poverty is due to the Catholic Church's stand on birth control is totally wrong and distorted. My siblings and I are proof that this premise is false.

Moreover, as a practicing Catholic, neither I nor my fellow practicing Catholic friends have ever gone about in a manner that one can say we "fervently work to impose" a backward and restrictive view of reproductive rights on others. First of all, since when did our Catholic faith become backward? Tenants of faith are not subject to change and the belief in the sanctity of life is one of those. If Catholics choose to practice birth control, it's a choice (oh my gosh, we allow choice) made between them and God. They are choosing not to practice and adhere to the teachings of the Church.

The diatribe about people of religion not caring for others, that is, making the claim that we object to school lunch programs, health care, etc. is also a feeble attempt to portray a negative image and link people that practice religion as a pox on society. Trying to lay the blame for societal ills at the foot of people that are politically active and also have religious convictions is a very lame stance.

Keep Bentivolio in office

So, the power brokers of the Republican party decide to take back a political office that is rightfully "theirs." Somehow, an ordinary American (Kerry Bentivolio) got elected to Congress without their permission. That just won't do, so they troll around for somebody from their own political class to run against him. They pick the guy who operates a multi-million dollar law firm that processes most of the mortgage foreclosures in Michigan.

Actually, that isn't a joke, even though the political class seems to be amazingly blind and deaf. Wasn't it just a few months ago that the Karl Rovians were complaining that many of the 2012 conservative candidates like Sharon Angle and Christine McDonnel had an un-electable public image? Yes, they are really doing this. A David Trott has lately started using his money to buy up endorsements from anyone in the 11th District who can help get him elected to Congress. Trott knows that Bentivolio, the incumbent Republican, has only his own office salary for an in-

The regular Americans who live in the 11th District want to see an actual non-Madison Avenue conservative stay in office without being beholden to the party bosses and other well-connected fixers who make their money from selling access and influence. If we can escape the jealous party apparatchiks again in 2014, it will demonstrate that government doesn't have to be forever run by an inherited monopoly of bought and sold politicians.

GUEST COLUMN

What to do about gerrymandered Michigan lawmakers' districts?

f we're going to save America from repeated near-disasters like last month's war over the government shutdown and the near-default on our debt, we've got to have an urgent conversation about gerrymandering, both in Michigan and the entire na-

The practice of gerrymandering — drawing congressional and legislative districts to favor one political party or the other is at the core of our deeply dysfunctional and hyperpartisan political system that produced the shutdown and nearly resulted in default.

Virtually all the "tea party"backed, hard-right congressional representatives who provoked the recent crisis are from districts so heavily gerrymandered Republican that they're in virtually no danger of voter backlash in a general election. If an incumbent's seat is gerrymandered safe, there's no political downside to adopting whatever radical ideology is fashionable at the moment.

Indeed, it could be a political plus, if it inoculates an incumbent against a primary challenge from someone even further right. Gerrymandering is an ancient and widespread institution, long used by politicians to protect incumbent politicians of both political parties.

These days, it has been coupled with its enabling cousin, the partisan primary election, to contort our politics into hyperpartisan gridlock. Primaries provide the political leverage in a gerrymandered district so that the only election that counts is the primary.

What this means, for example, is that primary turnout is often low — usually about 15 percent to 20 percent of eligible voters — and comes mainly from fiercely partisan members of the party's base — Republican or

So if you're a Republican in a gerrymandered district, it makes political sense to be rightwing; Democrats in the same circumstances tend to pander to left-wing groups. Politicians on both sides win the primaries by appealing to their partisan base, and the general elections are a shoo-in.

Most experts agree there are very few truly competitive congressional districts in America, perhaps as few as 40 out of a total of 435. According to U.S. Rep. John Dingell, D-Dearborn, the longest-serving member of Congress in history, gerrymandering represents a big part of what happened in Washington over the past few weeks.

"Some of the Republican members form heavily gerrymandered districts have nothing to fear from voters in a general election; everything is determined by the primary," Dingell told me.

Richard McLellan, a heavyduty Republican if ever there was one, agrees. So does Mark Grebner, head of Practical Political Consulting in East Lansing and one of the smartest political thinkers in this state.

In Michigan, he counts as gerrymandered Republican at least three congressional districts, four or five state Senate seats and at least 10 state House districts

The only good thing emerging from the recent mess in Washington is a new realization of and focus on the malign influence of gerrymandering on American politics.

But the more essential and complicated question is what to do about it. Many urge we take the drawing of district lines out of the hands of politicians (usually state legislators) and give the job to independent, nonpartisan folks like retired

This is the system adopted in Iowa, where there is some evidence it has reduced overt partisanship in drawing lines. I still think it's naive to believe you can ever totally take politics out of redistricting, the most political act of all.

Grebner proposes a similar alternative: Pass a redistricting law that prohibits any political considerations in drawing congressional or legislative districts. "Put criminal penalties on violations," Grebner says, while admitting the idea is pretty radical. And I'm not sure how a jury will decide what constitutes a "political consideration."

Another possibility would be to adopt the "open primary" system, in which candidates for office run in primary elections just as they do now, but in which the two top vote-getters whether a Republican and a Democrat, or both Republicans, or both Democrats — run against each other in the fall general election.

That way, both candidates wanting to maximize total vote would have political reasons to reach beyond their narrow base to members of the other party or independents. This system is under trial in California, where it's resulted in the defeat of two liberal congressmen who didn't reach beyond the Democratic

Unless we cut the cancer of gerrymandering out of the core of our political system, our days as a great nation are numbered, doomed by a dysfunctional, hyperpartisan and crisis-prone politics.

We need a serious conversation about reforming this practice, now.

Student athletes make their community proud

f you've been paying any attention to our sports sections this fall, especially the last couple weeks, you know that teams from Northville High School are having one heck of a run.

I've only been the editor of the Record for a little more than a year, but I've been around prep sports long enough to know for a public high school to have the kind of success Northville has had this fall is pretty astounding. It just doesn't happen very often.

The girls cross country team just won the state Division I championship over the weekend. It is the first time a cross country team from Northville High School has ever earned that honor. At the end of the summer, the team, led by Coach Nancy Smith, set a goal for themselves – to win that elusive state championship. The team went to work, and put in the time and effort to succeed. Runners Rachel Coleman, Lexa Barrott, Taleen Shahrigian and Cayla Eckenroth set a high ceiling for themselves and led the team to new heights.

They have done their community proud. And captured some memories nobody will ever be able to take away from them.

But it definitely doesn't stop there. Their male counterparts also had a great showing at the state championships at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn. Coached by Chris Cronin, the men's cross country team finished in fifth place, which is the best effort in the program's history. Individually, senior runner Dan Sims took All-State honors for the third time.

How about the football team? Sure, many people are still stinging a bit from the team's playoff loss to rival Catholic Central on Friday. It was a crushing defeat, because the Mustangs had also set some lofty goals for themselves and experienced such success this year.

The Mustangs have nothing to hang their heads about. They just completed what is probably the most successful season in the school's history. They won their conference, and beat some quality teams along the way, including Canton and Walled Lake Western (not to mention cross-town rival Novi). And

Not to be forgotten, the tennis team also just finished its season, and placed 15th in the state. That's pretty darn good as well.

The volleyball and girls swimming teams are set to compete in the playoffs this week after a very successful regular seasons as well. We wish them all the luck.

The Northville girls cross country team just won the school's first ever state championship in the sport. Their hard work and dedication should be an inspiration to us all. They have made the community proud. From left are Cayla Eckenroth, Nicole Mosteller, Alison Robinson, Emma Herrmann, Lexa Barrott, Rachel Coleman, Erin Zimmer and Taleen Shahrigian. JOHN HEIDER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER

I'm not sure what's in the water over there at Northville High, but I sure wish I could bottle some of it up.

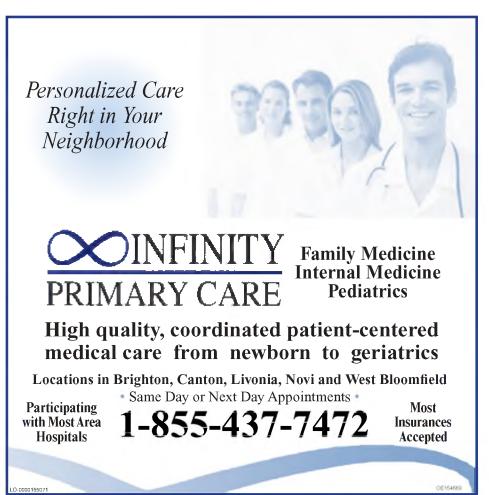

Seriously, these student athletes deserve all the praise in the world. By participating in athletics, they have begun to pave a successful path for themselves. They have already learned the importance of hard work and how special it is to be part of a team, where everyone pulls for a common cause. They probably don't realize it, but they are having some of the best experiences of their lives right now.

And, in the process, they are making their hometown proud as can be. Keep up the good work Mustangs!

Did you see a UFO over Meadowbrook Road?

Former Novi resident remembers 1960s incident

By Lonnie Huhman Staff Writer

Nancy Tremaine remembers seeing the flying saucer over Borchart Street and then she remembers running toward her home on Meadowbrook Road.

However, it's after that summer night in the early 1960s when things took a turn for the former Novi resident. The sighting would go on to impact the rest of her life and now she's looking for some answers.

"It was a very traumatizing experience that stayed with me," she said of the incident when she was 12 years old and saw what appeared to be a UFO floating over Novi.

Tremaine said she was taken up into the craft. She doesn't remember much, but it has been coming back to her lately

In recent years, she has gone through regression therapy and has sifted through years of forgotten memories with the help of Dr. Harry Willnus, a UFO researcher who said this story is similar to many others.

Now she is seeking answers and other witnesses to the UFO sighting. Some might think she was imagining it or making this up, but she stands by her account.

"I'm not a liar and I'm not afraid anymore," Tremaine said during a recent visit to the place where it all happened. Although he didn't see the UFO, former Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole, 93, is one such witness. He was on duty at the police station the night the incident occurred. He recalls hearing dispatch receive a call from an off-duty Novi police officer doing security at a construction site off of Meadowbrook at the time. The site had equipment and materials stolen from it in the previous weeks, so the officer volunteered to watch it.

"He called into dispatch and said there was a strange object

Former Novi resident Nancy Tremaine describes being abducted by a UFO in Novi in the 1960s in the location she's standing – off Orchard Drive near Meadowbrook Road. Tremaine, who says she's been targeted by UFOs for many years, says that many local residents remember seeing a large object floating above the area during that time. Former Novi Chief of Police Lee BeGole recalled his officers working in the area and reporting a strange object as well. JOHN HEIDER | STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER overhead," BeGole said.

Police dispatch took multiple calls that night from people stating they saw a strange object, including one from a city council member's wife.
Not a believer in UFOs, Be-Gole said it was a strange night nonetheless.

Tremaine is not exactly sure of the year it happened; she believes it was 1961, but it could have been some time during the span from 1960-62. Tremaine is sure it was summer because it happened during dusk and there was still a little bit of light outside. She was at her friend's home when the friend's father asked them to come outside and see what was in the sky.

They looked up and saw a silver saucer-shaped object with red, green and white lights that appeared to have been either rotating or pulsating. She said it was very noticeable.

"It was humongous to my young eyes," she said of the UFO.

Tremaine said she saw a light beam down onto the officer's unmarked car. It was then her friend's father said she should run home. As she made her way, she felt a sensation like being shocked.

She was told she had been missing and later ended up at home with little memory of what had happened. Later she was told to forget about it.

Putting together the pieces is one step in her healing process. She's asking Novi residents if they remember that night and, if so, would they reach out to her via this writer's contact info here:

STATE CHAMPIONS!

Girls win program's first cross country crown

> By Sam Eggleston Correspondent

Nancy Smith made it clear that Northville girls cross country team had to knock down some mental barriers in order to make a run for the state championship last Saturday.

The Mustangs, led by Rachel Coleman, didn't just knock down barriers - they blew the doors right off the hinges as they raced to the top Division 1 spot in the state and took home the school's first-ever cross country title. The team collected 107 points at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn, while Saline was second with 139 and Hudsonville third with 164.

If that wasn't impressive enough, the Mustangs also placed four runners in the top 30, giving each – Coleman, Lexa Barrott, Taleen Shahrigian and Cayla Eckenroth all-state status.

They worked as a total team, which they have done all year long, and used their strong packs to secure the win," Smith said. "To have four all-state athletes today with the weather just shows how strong and determined they were. In the past 13 years, I have only had one reach the podium (Devon Rupley). That shows how talented this group is." Shahrigian said Northville has been a strong team for the past several years, but this year something just had to

"We wanted to make history this year," she said. "The past few years, we've come into the state meet ranked pretty high up there, but it's never showed at the state meet. So this year we just wanted to make it hap-

Catholic Central continues forward in state playoffs

> By Sam Eggleston Correspondent

It was a tale of two quarters Friday night when Northville played host to Detroit Catholic Central in the opening round of the MHSAA football playoffs.

Unfortunately for the Mustangs, both of those quarters were dominated by the Shamrocks in a 35-14 decision.

"Everyone knows our identity and that is 'smash-mouth football' and we embrace it fully." Catholic Central assistant coach Michael Mach said. "Tonight, both our offense and our defense lived up to that and did a great job. We knew they (Northville) were a potent offense, so we were up against a challenge, but our kids responded, giving up just one score until the game was out of reach. We forced turnovers, squeezed their receivers well and pressured the quarterback consistently."

The Shamrocks used their tenacious defense to not only keep the Mustangs out of the end zone for most of the night, but also to score a touchdown in a scoop-and-score play by Cameron Hendershot as he rumbled 46 vards to give his team a 21-7 lead heading into halftime.

"I am proud of the effort and determination our team showed," Northville coach Matt Ladach said. "Despite Catholic Central will visit Walled Lake Western at 1 p.m. Saturday. The Shamrocks (8-2) still haven't allowed any team other than Brother Rice to score 20 or more points on them this season, while the Warriors (9-1) bounced back from their loss to Northville two weeks ago to defeat Canton last week, 44-41. There is no lost love between the Shamrocks and the Warriors. The two teams were once bitter playoff rivals, squaring off in 1999 and 2001. Walled Lake Western and coach Mike Zdebski won the first game, 24-7, on their way to win the Division 1 state championship. Two years later, Catholic Central and coach Tom Mach topped the Warriors, 31-0, in a Division 1 semifinal and went on to win the state title. The Shamrocks will, as always, rely on their defense (9.8 points against per game average) to keep the Warriors' offense (39.7 points per game) in check.

losing the turnover battle and being on the short end of some big plays, our players fought hard all night long.

The two teams stood toe-totoe in the third quarter, with neither defense allowing a score, but Connor Holton scored on a 10-yard scamper with just over 10 minutes remaining in the contest to keep momentum in the Shamrocks' favor.

Holton added his third touchdown of the night on a 55-yard run three minutes pretty excited for this meet and it showed in the results."

The Mustangs have been cycling through their preparations for the postseason and many swimmers came into the Central Division championships having been tapering.

Northville will be prepping for the state finals this next week, which take place Nov. 22-23.

"The swimmers that were tapered for the meet had a lot of time drops," McNeff said. "These girls put a ton of hard work in all year and it is great when you see them swim their

"I was really proud of everyone who swam and ended their season," McNeff said.

"It was nice to get a win, but we are still more focused on next week."

Scoring points for the Mustangs in each event were:

later to make it a 35-7 game with just seven minutes remaining.

The Mustangs refused to give up and found their way into the end zone on a run by senior quarterback Joey Hewlett from a yard out with 4:47 left in the contest. It was all Northville could muster before the clock ran out, ending its season with an 8-2 record.

The Shamrocks scored the opening touchdown in the second quarter on a 25-yard run by Holton. Northville answered with an 8-yard pass from Hewlett to Nick Stegmeyer to tie the game, Catholic Central regained the lead and kept it with a 67-yard run by Zach Bock with 4:22 left in the second quarter.

"Offensively, our backs and our line were also solid with their execution," Mach said. "Connor (Holton) set the tone with some outstanding downhill running. He's an ultra-competitive kid and tonight he gave us exactly what we want out of our tailbacks – 20-plus carries, 100 yards rushing and find the end zone. And Zack (Bock) is a playmaker. Every game, you just know he's going to break a big one. You don't know when, but when it happens, it's fun to watch. He is electric."

The Shamrocks, who climbed to 8-2 with the victory, managed 384 yards of total offense, with all but 49 coming on the ground. Northville was held to 335 yards, with 177 coming through the air. Unfortunately for the Mustangs, they also committed three turnovers with two interceptions and a fumble.

Ladach said that while his team's season comes to an end, the Mustangs hope to meet the Shamrocks in the very near future.

"There has always been a fair amount of animosity between our schools. I was very proud of the competitive attitude of the game and of the mutual respect our teams showed for one another. This will be a good rivalry for a long time."

That pack set a strong pace right in the beginning of the run and didn't look back, even when the soft ground fired up an injury that has been plaguing Shahrigian the past two years, causing her foot to cramp.

She carried on, however, grimacing in pain, but keeping up with the pace set by Coleman, Barrott and Eckenroth.

But the tale of the victory isn't always about just the top runners who earn all-state status. In fact, this victory rests squarely on the shoulders of a rather unsung hero, who finished in 61st to guarantee her squad the first-place finish.

Nicole Mosteller ran her best race of the season with a time of 19:10, leading Erin Zimmer, who was 66th in 19:11, across the finish line, while Emma Herrmann rounded out the squad with a 19:32 for 100th place.

"Nicole Mosteller had the best race of the season when it counted the most," Smith said. "She stepped up and secured the win for us by being the fifth runner today. I have been able to count on Nicole to grind it when it counts the most. She made the most of her last race today."

The difference between the top five runners for Northville at the finals was a mere 47 seconds and the difference between the top seven was just 1:09.

"I am so proud of each of these individuals and couldn't have asked for anything else," Smith said.

The Mustangs will take a few weeks to bask in the glory of the state title, but it won't be long before those who will be back next year get back to work. Barrott and Eckenroth will both return for next year. The former was the third-best sophomore in the state finals race and the latter was the top fresh-

Mustangs gallop to fifth-place finish

Boys cross country team posts best-ever showing at state championship

> By Sam Eggleston Correspondent

The Northville boys cross country team went into the state finals Saturday looking to make history - and that's exactly what it did.

The squad, coached by Chris Cronin, pounded out 202 points for a fifth-place finish in the Division 1 state championship race at Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn, the best finish of any team in the history of the program.

Winning the finals was defending state champion Milford with 165 points, while Waterford Mott finished second with 170, Traverse City Central was third with 180 and Saline was fourth with 196.

Leading the way for Northville was Dan Sims, a senior who used a very strong last Sims was injured the entire month of September and the state finals marked just his fifth race of the season.

"Simply put, Dan was amazing once again," Cronin said. "Dan is one of those leaders who has the ability to make his teammates better - he has been a program changer for Northville cross country.'

Another program changer is Nick Noles, who finished 21st at the finals with a time of 15:58 to earn his second career all-state nod. The first time was in 2011, when he became the first freshman in the program to earn that honor.

When Nick entered the infield at MIS in about 30th place, I knew his position was secure," said Cronin, who knew his standout junior would give his all over the final length of the run. "You never wonder if Nick had anything left at the end of a race.

Next for the Mustangs was iunior Sean McCullough, 46th in 16:22, followed by sophomore Conor Naughton in 67th with 16:29. Jason Ferrante, a junior, ran to 178th in 17:09.

"Sean's finish was incredible today," Cronin said. "In fact, according to the official race splits, McCullough covered that last tenth of a mile in 25 seconds - the quickest finish of any Mustang."

Ferrante's time was likely hampered due to an injury that kept him out of the regional. He could be seen favoring his leg while warming up before the race.

"When he was with Naughton and McCullough at the two-mile mark, I thought he might be able to finish strong, but the last mile proved too much," Cronin said. "I couldn't ask for any more from Jason. He showed up and gave his best."

The final two for the Mustangs were Nick Dufresne and Jacob Kamm, who finished in 17:27 and 17:43, respectively.

Northville Rowing Club ends season on high note

By Sam Eggleston Correspondent

The Northville Rowing Club is well aware that Mother Nature doesn't always cooperate when it comes to scheduling an event.

But the team, which competed in the Leelanau Chase two weeks ago, didn't let inclement weather prevent it from turning in some impressive performances.

That determination kept the team from letting a full day's delay get in its way, as the two-day event was forced to run all races on a single day following poor weather conditions.

"The weather is a factor all year round for Michigan rowing teams," said Van Papouis, director of rowing for the Northville club. "But it's especially tricky in late October. There was snow on the ground on our drive to Lake Leelanau

And if snow wasn't enough, the chilling temperatures and intense wind made any thought of being out on the water nearly unbearable and resulted in Saturday's cancellation.

Even Sunday's 40-plus degree weather and biting wind made for potentially miserable conditions, but the Northville rowers were quick to figure out a way to keep their internal temperatures and their spirits high, earning several

The girls program also had a second-place finish on the day. Northville senior Emily Tatge took the silver in the girls singles race with a time of 19:34, outpacing rowers from Skyline, Rockford and East Grand Rapids.

Abbott breaks school record for career kills over the weekend

It was one heck of a tournament to end the regular season schedule, and now the Northville volleyball team is carrying plenty of momentum with it as it enters the postseason.

And if that wasn't a sweet enough result, the Mustangs also watched as senior Symone Abbott set the new record for kills at Northville. She is currently at 630 kills on the season, surpassing the mark she set last year.

Northville also has several other players making plenty of noise statistically.

Junior Olivia Boisineau reached 100 blocks on the season during the tourney, while senior Rachel Zawodny is leading the team with 779 assists on the year. Four players are neck-and-neck in aces, with Abbott recording 65 so far, Cassidy Minghine coming in with 64 and Zawodny and Katherine Boss at 62 and 60, respectively.

Data whiz takes on National Association of Realtors duties

Today's ever-evolving technology world is transforming the real estate industry, not only with new applications and tools, but also in generating volumes of information about how people approach and conduct real estate transactions. To help Realtors understand and interpret these trends, the National Association of Realtors has hired Todd Carpenter to fill a new position, Managing Director of Data Analytics.

Carpenter was previously NAR's Director of Digital Engagement, and most recently worked at Trulia.com as Senior Manager of Industry Engagement. He assumed his new responsibilities recent-

"I am very excited to be returning to NAR, and to be a part of this groundbreaking initiative," said Carpenter. "NAR has access to an enormous amount of data, and I'm going to be looking at how we can use that data to help our organization, our brokers, and our members make better business decisions that, in turn, help the consumers they serve."

NAR is also creating a data scientist position; this person, yet to be hired, will report to Carpenter. Both positions will form a new Predictive Analytics group, which will be working closely with the Center for REALTOR Technology, NAR's world-renowned Research Division, and other NAR groups to create analytics

The new NAR Predictive Analytics group will examine and analyze member and customer trends from a variety of data sets to better inform business planning. That means helping the association determine and develop services and resources that provide value to Realtors, and giving Realtors insights into ways they can better meet the needs of their clients and customers. Beyond NAR's data sets, Carpenter will also be responsible for acquiring and licensing data from other sources to achieve these goals.

NAR's interest in Big Data began with the Master Member Profile System in 2008, which studied a variety of in-house and outsourced data warehouse capabilities.

Tough to get someone back on board

Q: One of our board members resigned, and we do not know what to do. We did not want him to resign and we do not have a replacement. Do you have any answers?

A: Generally, directors serve until their successors are elected and qualified or until they resign or are removed. In the absence of an election, the former board has an obligation to remain. Unless the governing documents impose term limits, directors can stay on beyond their terms. In effect, you can refuse the resignation of the director, although, it is questionable whether or not a court will uphold such refusal, depending on the circum-

Q: I have heard of something called co-housing communities, and I am wondering if you can give me a general description of what that is all about, and what your thoughts are.

A: Co-housing communities generally include 10 to 30 homes or units that are close to and face each other and the common areas. Roads are on the outside. Typically, the community design plays a significant role in resident bonding and increases the likelihood that residents will run into each other when they are outside of their homes. Many co-housing communities I have represented also have a common house, usually a kitchen, dining room, laundry area and more that serves as an activity hub. Residents typically pay assessments to keep up the amenities and they are asked to maintain their community involvement by doing communal chores and participating in a certain number of common meals each week. These activities are vital to the community because they tend to be when the neighbors really begin to bond. There can be, however, issues concerning the governance of co-housing in the normal course of condominium living since decisions must still be made by a body which typically is a board of directors but in co-housing may be the community as a whole.

Business Insider Courtesy of Career Builder

During job interviews. employers will try to gather as much information about you as possible, mostly through perfectly legal questioning, but sometimes through simple yet illegal questions. It's up to the interviewee to recognize these questions for what they are.

Any questions that reveal your age, race, national origin, gender, religion, marital status and sexual orientation are off-

"State and federal laws make discrimination based on certain protected categories, such as national origin, citizenship, age, marital status, disabilities, arrest and conviction record, military discharge status, race, gender or pregnancy status, illegal," Lori Adelson, a labor and employment attorney and partner with law firm Arnstein & Lehr, tells Business Insider. "Any question that asks a candidate to reveal information about such topics without the question having a job-related basis will violate the various state and federal discrimination

"However, if the employer states questions so that they directly relate to specific occupational qualifications, then the questions may be legitimate. Clearly, the intent behind the question needs to be examined."

If you are asked any inappropriate questions, Adelson advises not to lie, but, instead, politely decline to answer. "Could they not give you a job because of that? Sure. But if they do, they would be doing exactly what they're not supposed to do."

We compiled the following illegal interview questions that are often mistaken as appropriate from Adelson and Joan K. Ustin & Associates, a consultant firm specializing in human resources and organization development.

Some common interview

Have you ever been arrested?

An employer can't legally ask you about your arrest record, but they can ask if you've ever been convicted of a crime. Depending on the state, a conviction record shouldn't automatically disqualify you for employment unless it substantially relates to your job. For example, if you've been convicted of statutory rape and you're applying for a teaching position, you will probably not

Are you married?

Although the interviewer may ask you this question to see how much time you'd be able to commit to your job, it's illegal because it reveals your marital status and can also reveal your sexual orientation.

Do you have children?

It is unlawful to deny someone employment if they have children or if they are planning on having children in the future. If the employer wants to find out how committed you will be to your job, they should ask questions about your work. For example, "What hours can you work?" or "Do you have responsibilities other than work that will interfere with specific job requirements such as traveling?"

What country are vou from?

If you have an accent, this may seem like an innocent question, but it's illegal because it involves your national origin. Employers can't legally inquire about your nationality, but they can ask if you're authorized to work in a certain country.

Is English your first language?

It's not the employers' lawful right to know whether a language is your first language. In order to find out language proficiency, employers can ask you what other languages you read, speak or write fluently.

Do you have any outstanding debt?

Employers must have permission before asking about your credit history. Similar to a criminal background history, they can't disqualify you from employment unless it directly affects your ability to perform the position you're interviewing for. Furthermore, they can't ask you how well you balance your personal finances or inquire about you owning property.

Do you socially drink?

Employers cannot ask about your drinking habits, because it violates the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. For example, if you're a recovering alcoholic, treatment of alcoholism is protected under this act, and you don't have to disclose any disability information before landing an official job offer.

When was the last time you used illegal drugs?

It's illegal for employers to ask you about past drug addiction, but they can ask you if you're currently using illegal drugs. A person who is currently using drugs is not protected under ADA. For example, an employer may ask you: "Do you currently use illegal drugs? What illegal drugs have you used in the past six months?"

How long have you been working?

This question allows employers to guess your age, which is unlawful. Similarly, they can't ask you what year you graduated from high school or college or even your birthday. However, they can ask you how long you've been working in a certain industry.

What type of discharge did you receive in the military?

This is not appropriate for the interviewer to ask you, but they can ask what type of education, training or work experience you've received while in the military.
