Clerks push no-question absentee voting for fall

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

With only a Schoolcraft College millage question on the Northville Township ballot in the November general election, township Clerk Sue Hillebrand figures turnout won't be that big. She also knows, based on past history, that somewhere between 20 and 25 percent of ballots cast in Northville Township will be absentee ballots. Applications for absentee ballots went out this week for the November

But Hillebrand, the township clerk for 23 years, wishes it was far higher. Hillebrand would like to see it as close as possible to 100 percent. And she believes the best way to accomplish that would be to remove any obstacles to voting absentee.

"Instead of having (only) six reasons (to vote absentee), make it one reason - no reason," said Hillebrand, who's been pushing this idea for years.

Retired police officer and Allen Terrace resident Hugh Jordan points to some of the hundreds of police department patches and coins he has displayed in his Northville home. Jordan worked at one point for the Northville Police Department and officially retired from the University of Arizona Police Department.

Patches, coins show officer's travels

> By Julie Brown Staff Writer

When retired police officer Hugh Jordan travels, he's a man on a mission. He visits police and fire departments in search of patches and coins to add to his collection.

"I stop in and talk to them." said Jordan, a Northville resident who spent 20 years with the Northville Police Department followed by 15 with the University of Arizona police. "Some of them are really nice."

The walls of his Allen Terrace apartment are adorned with police memorabilia, representing 29 U.S. states.

"It's sort of like Where's Waldo? They're all over the United States," he said.

Jordan had some 2,500 Michigan police patches. which were getting overwhelming. Many went to police and fire training academies at Schoolcraft College locally, as well as the Tucson, Ariz., Police Academy in frames for dis-

Seven frames on his wall represent Michigan, he said, noting the difficulty of adding up and arriving at a total of patches. He does his own framing with Hobby Lobby frames.

A Kansas policeman friend has enhanced the collection. "He got me started on collecting Kansas ones. He is in Mission, Kansas," said Jordan,

MEMORIES OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

Retired Plymouth Township Police Chief Carl Berry said of his career, "I have a couple of scrapbooks. A lot of things happen in your career, the good things you want to remember. As you get older, you need to hang on. I've had more good spots than bad spots."

Berry, who now does private security, worked 36 years in law enforcement. He knows of Northville's Hugh Jordan, but doesn't know him personally.

When Berry was hired by Plymouth police in 1962, "I think I started out with (badge No.) 6 or 8, something like that." The No. 1 badge, the first issued by Plymouth, was given based on seniority. "That was my badge," Berry said. "It got passed down to me. It was kind of an honor."

He added the Plymouth Township Police Department originated in 1985.

Family ties

The Northville police frame includes patches for officers as well as auxiliary and dispatch. It makes sense Jordan would collect, as public safety is the family business.

Son Hugh Jordan III is a Northville Township firefighter, while son Jason Jordan is both a Huntington Woods policeman and a paid-on call city of Northville firefighter.

"And my daughter is a dispatcher in Farmington Hills," he said of Jennifer Jordan.

"I started when I was in Tucson," he said of his collecting, beginning some 15 years ago. "It seems like it's growing. It's just something I started doing. It gives me something to do and I enjoy doing it. It gives me some sort of pride."

Fellow Allen Terrace residents tell him, "This is unbelievable. This should be in a museum." Jordan has put on several memorabilia shows and re-

Locals scoff at website's Northville snob snub

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

When longtime Northville Mayor Chris Johnson heard his city had made a list of the 10 "snobbiest" places in Michigan, the first thing he did was look up the criteria used.

Turns out a website called RoadSnacks used a variety of things to put together the list it recently released, including the number of art galleries, private schools, median income and house value.

When he saw that, Johnson, ending his 28th year as the city's mayor, was "happy" to have made the list.

'Good median income, high home values and great schools? All good!" Johnson said Thursday. "However, the website needs to look up the word 'snobby.' The criteria listed does not equal snobby."

Friendly confines

Like a lot of Northville Township residents, Jeanette Samson spends a lot of time in the city of Northville, shopping, lunching and 7. Troy enjoying what she called the "small town" feel of the city and its people.

City

When she was told about the RoadSnacks list, she scoffed at the notion.

"That's terrible, and I don't think it's true," said Samson, who visited the city Thursday with her granddaughter, Lauren Azzopardi of Plymouth Township. "I spent a lot of time here, and I think it's a very friendly place."

RoadSnacks analyzed more than 60 places in Michigan to put together its list, one of several the site puts out.

Northville topped the list, but nearby communities also made the cut. Plymouth was third, and the City of Novi finished eighth.

Data driven

According to Chris Kolmar of RoadSnacks, the list was compiled not "on our own biases," but on "cold, hard data." Here's what the site began by counting every place in Michigan with more than 5,000 people based on the 2013 American Community Survey.

Then they looked at: » Median home price (Higher is snobbier)

» Median household income (Higher is snobbier)

ABSENTEE

Voting absentee is now allowed if a voter is at least 60 years old, unable to vote without assistance at the polls, expected to be out of town on Election Day, in jail awaiting arraignment or trial, unable to attend the polls for religious reasons, or appointed to work as an election inspector in another precinct on Election Day.

Absentee voting is popular in Northville Townhip, which has developed a "permanent absentee list" of more than 5,700 names of voters who want an application mailed to them before every election.

She said getting on the list is as simple as asking.

"A lot of people think you have to be over 60 to get on it," Hillebrand said. "You don't. Anyone can get on it."

Hillebrand said noquestion absentee voting would boost turnout in elections by giving voters who simply can't make it to the polls a chance to cast a ballot.

Active election

In the May election, for instance (the one where the state roads proposal was drubbed), only 3,500 of the more than 20,000 active township voters actually went to the polls.

But 3,800 absentee ballots were cast.

"A lot of people say,
'It's inconvenient for me to get to the polls," Hillebrand said. "People work lots of hours, their kids are active and it's hard to get to the polls."

City of Northville Clerk Dianne Massa, who has been on the job 17 years, is likely to have a much more active election in November. Mayor Chris Johnson chose not to seek re-election after 28 years, and there are two candidates running to replace him.

Add to that the three candidates running for two open city council seats, and it's one of Northville's busiest elections in some time.

No traction

With turnout generally around 20 percent (it could be higher this time because of the races), Massa agrees with Hillebrand's stance on absentee ballots.

"We should make it as convenient as possible for people to vote," Massa said. "I've been the clerk here for 17 years, and I've heard about (no-question absentees) for about that long. I have no idea why we can't get something passed."

Michigan Secretary of State Ruth Johnson supports legislation introduced earlier this year that would allow "no reason" absentee voting as long as the voter met the same identification requirements as when voting in person on election day.

Voters could apply for and receive an absentee ballot at their city or township clerk's office after meeting the ID requirements.

Lots of eyes

But Hillebrand would go farther. She said there are already "lots of eyes" on elections, and poll workers could establish the validity of a ballot without that person having to appear in person.

"The (absentee) application has several places to sign, we can compare it to the drivers' license file, we could compare the signatures on the application to the ballot," said Hillebrand, who said she's only had two instances of invalid ballots in 23 years. "We watch for that. It's as secure as voting in person at the polls."

State Rep. Kurt Heise, R-Plymouth Township, said he agrees that noquestion absentee voting should be allowed – "We're almost there now, because all a voter really has to do is go in and say he's going to be out of town," Heise pointed out – but that he supports the same legislation Johnson is backing.

"We're in a much more mobile environment than we've ever been, with a lot of things pulling on people's time," Heise said. "We're just about there right now, so let's go the extra mile."

While both Hillebrand and Massa would go farther than the legislation Johnson is supporting, they're at least glad something is being looked at.

Darga banks on experience in city race

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

Nancy Darga believes the City of Northville still faces a number of questions and challenges, which is why the incumbent city council member has decided to seek re-

'Northville is facing an period of transition," Darga said. "It is in the midst of new development that needs a sensitive oversight focused on preserving the unique heritage of the community. It also is facing the continued stress of the reduced tax base following the decline of property values from 2008. I am running again to use my experience to provide leadership and oversight in addressing these changes."

A graduate of Michian State, Darga, a licensed landscape architect, currently serves as executive director of the Ford Piquette Avenue plant in Detroit. She also served 25 years as chief of design for Wayne County Parks. During her tenure with the County of Wayne she was one of the founding members of the Friends of the Rouge, which helped her earn the Friends of the Rouge Award in 1997.

Among issues she believes are facing the city are keeping up services in the face of declining revenue, roads and water costs. "Continuing the expected level of city services with reduced resources due to the Headlee and Proposition A legislation continues to be a challenge," Darga said. "The passage of a road millage is one of the issues that will require a thorough explanation to the public on why the increase is needed.' She also said the creation of the Great Lakes Regional Water Authority will have "a big impact on the future of water service costs and contractual relationships." 'My former work with regional entities allows me to see the importance of the inter-connections and willingness to work with others," Darga said.

Although new development needs to be encouraged, she said, the type, quality, and scale of development "needs to directed to preserve the nature of the community.' "My work in developing alternate uses for historic sites, while protecting their historic character, helps me push for preservation in partnership with progress," Darga said.

Township among state's safest

By Brad Kadrich Staff Writer

Northville Township has been named among the safest communities in Michigan in a new report released by SafeWise.

SafeWise, a community-focused security organization committed to increasing safety education, awareness, and preparedness, recently released it's "50 Safest Cities in Michigan" report, using FBI crime data from 2013 to analyze and rank the communities, all of which have a minimum population of 5,000 people.

Northville Township, which also made the list last year, ranked 35th. Among surrounding communities to make the list were Milford (fifth), Plymouth (24th), Plymouth Township (25th) and Farmington (27th). While Northville Township Public Safety Director John Werth acknowledges the statistics are a couple of years old, he said they still show the township is a "great. safe place to live, work and play." "Northville Township is a very safe community, and we work very hard to keep it that way," Werth said. "Any time you can land on a list like that, it's a good thing.'

To compile its list, SafeWise used FBI crime statistics, including violent crimes per 1,000 people (Northville Township had 0.62 in 2013), and property crimes (12.66). SafeWise listed the township's population at 28,734.

SafeWise officials noted that Northville police "establish community trust and partnerships through the accessibility of the Bicycle Patrol unit. And you might want to get stopped by these police officers. The Bicycle Patrol rewards safe behavior by handing out free ice cream vouchers to citizens caught wearing helmets when out on their own bikes.'

"Nearly half of these cities are making their second appearance on our list and 46 of them reported zero murders in 2013," Rebecca Edwards, SafeWise security analyst, said. "In a world full of violent headlines, it's encouraging to see that these Michigan neighbors really know how to look out for one anoth-

He's now collecting public safety coins "to keep everybody happy. I try to get all I can," said Jordan, who started at the University of Arizona in 1996 and was its Officer of the Year his second year there.

Grandson Cameron Irby, almost 10, who lives in Arizona, went with his granddad to a national patch show after Cameron built an impressive sight now in the apartment.

"He built an entire LEGO city," Jordan said with pride. "All these buildings are built from scratch." The LEGO cars are from kits and Jordan modified the city to say in part Northville Fire Department.

"He built and I was his financier, which I didn't mind at all," said Jordan, who's added to the awardwinning LEGO for which Cameron took the stage in front of hundreds of professionals for his

"They couldn't believe what he had built," said Jordan, who has nine grandchildren, three in Tucson and six here, in Livonia, Redford and Novi.

Far and wide

The coin collection includes multiple Michigan State Police coins, including for physical fitness. Jordan has taken the train from Ann Arbor to Tucson and has Amtrak and Union Pacific's Haz-Mat unit items in his collection from those treks.

"I stop and talk to cops along the way," he said. His University of Arizona commander and chief remain helpful with Jordan's hobby. "I'm looking for things that stand out, that look different."

Other highlights include a National Park Service badge and coin, both University of Michigan and Michigan State University items, law enforcement items for a Michigan Conservation Officer the U.S. Marshal for both east and west Michigan and such local departments as Bloomfield Hills, Canton, Royal Oak and Westland.

He also looks on eBay. "These are all the Kansas sheriffs I have so far," he said, pointing to one area. A number of Michigan sheriff's departments are also included.

There's even Fishers, Ind., and other "tiny towns you've never heard of." For big cities, Detroit is well-represented.

Jordan's girlfriend is from Pinckney and got him police items from there for his collection. He's even got a Geronimo, Okla., police patch, along with a signed Jerry Orbach Law & Order photo. There's a photo of him with fellow young Northville police officers aiming in unison at a target. Jordan has had two heart operations and melanoma. "There are things I want to see and do," including time with family, he said.

He's seen many changes in Northville upon his return, but still enjoys it. He volunteers mornings for Meals on Wheels.

"It makes me really feel good," he said of that volunteering.

His growing collection will, he hopes, someday go to a training academy, 'where the young police officers can enjoy it by looking at it. I want somebody to enjoy it. I don't want it sold." A police department with display space is another possibility someday.

"I've had a good life and I've enjoyed it," he said. "Every day I went to work, I said I'm going to have some fun today.'

He twice saw President Barack Obama while working in Arizona.

Families needed for foreign students

By Aileen Wingblad Staff Writer

"They're probably on pins and needles, just waiting and waiting.' That's the situation for a number of foreign students all set to spend the upcoming school year in the Farmington community or elsewhere but don't yet have a home to go to, said Gail Gregory, volunteer area coordinator for Youth For Understanding, a nonprofit exchange student organization.

About five students assigned to come to Oakland County - and possibly hundreds more tentatively assigned to other areas, but who could be placed in the Detroit area - are still in their home countries. And that's an issue that must be resolved soon, since school is set to begin early next month.

We really like to have them here by Aug. 31, but it can be extended a couple weeks," Gregory said. Arnold and Alisa Valden are among those in the area who have plenty of good things to say about being a host family. The couple never had kids of their own, but this is the third year in a row that they have opened their home and their hearts — to a foreign exchange student. Two years ago, they hosted a student from China and did the same last year. For their "three-peat," they've welcomed Swede Anna Bjorklund.

'It's great fun and very rewarding," Alisa said. "And all the information YFU says about it changing your life — believe it. Arnold, a teacher at Howell High School, said he first heard about YFU a few years ago, when he was attending a conference with students at Oakland Community College. "They had a table set up ... we decided to shake up life a little bit and invite someone into our house," he said.

Bjorklund, who arrived about three weeks ago, is attending Harrison High School as a senior and is already the volleyball team. "It's good, the whole experience is cool," she said, adding that she's been comparing life in the United States with what she expected, based on what she's seen in movies.

"It's kind of the same, but not, like, exactly,' she said, grinning.

For the Johnson family of Farmington Hills, this is their first experience with a foreign exchange student and already it's been a good one. Eri Sugamura, 17, of Japan flew into Traverse City recently to meet up with the Johnsons, who were in northern Michigan for a wedding. Sugamura attended the wedding, too, and got acquainted with the Johnsons' extended family and friends. And on Aug. 18 — her birthday — Šugamura was thriİled that the Johnsons celebrated with her.

"It was really fun," she said.

Meg Johnson said having an exchange student was her daughter Lilliy's idea; she's a sophomore at North Farmington High School and has studied Japanese for years. "I wasn't sure at first and told her we'd think about it," she said, explaining that she and Lilliy had spoken briefly with a YFU coordinator during an event at Novi High School.

"It happened kind of fast ... all of a sudden they had a student for us," Johnson said, smiling. Becoming a host family

So what does it take to host an exchange student?

It starts with filling out an application, available on the website. Prospective hosts have in-home interviews with YFU and are required to show the student will have basic accommodations — their own bed, a dresser and closet to store their belongings, a place to study and transportation to get them to and from school and extracurricular activities. Every exchange student knows English though to varying degrees — and is required to speak it rather than their native tongue, Gregory said.

"They're here for the cultural experience, to improve their English and to live life like real Americans live their lives," Gregory said.

Students come with their own spending monev and have health insurance, she added, and don't expect the host family to alter their usual routine and way of life. "And from what we see, they all want to be part of the 'school spirit' kind of thing — going to homecoming and prom and doing all the things they can to experience high school like we have here," she said.

Northville Rotary offering Youth Exchange Program

The Rotary Club of Northville announced that applications for the Rotary Youth Exchange Program are now available to current high school students and students graduating in 2016. The Youth Exchange Program is for the 2016-17 school year and students would leave in August 2016. The application deadline is Sept. 15.

The Rotary Youth Exchange Program provides students ages of 16-18 the opportunity of a lifetime. It's a chance to spend 11 months in another country learning the language and culture. Students apply through their local Rotary Club and district. Students generally apply in September to go on exchange the next year. Outbound students and their parents are guided through months of orientation and information about the country of their exchange year. Outbound students typically stay with two or three Rotary-approved families and receive a monthly stipend for incidental expenses.

Students and families who may be interested in the Rotary Youth Exchange experience should check out this YouTube link at http:// www.youtube.com/ watch?v=pGdwpF2BBp8.

Host families needed in Novi

The Novi school district participates through Oakland Schools in a Foreign Exchange Program with Educatius International for a select group of international students to join Novi High School for the 2015-16 school year. There is a need of host families for these students that can provide a private room, three meals a day and a supportive home environment.

To ensure that this initiative is a success, Educatius International is providing a monthly stipend to host families to offset the costs for hosting international student(s) into your home; depending on how many students, a referral bonus of $100 to any individual that refers a family that hosts; an orientation program for the international students, host families and the school; access to a local residential coordinator who will be available 24 hours a day; support as needed from Educatius International staff; and 24/7 emergency line.

Novi HS teens' work in Nicaragua opens their eyes, hearts

By Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Novi High School seniors Jakiyah Bradley, Hyunji Choi and Alison Mascarenhas are just back from a trek to Nicaragua, where they learned a lot about themselves and their world. The teens traveled with the buildOn organization.

BuildOn works with school communities in the developed world to break the cycle of poverty and illiteracy in the Third World by building schools alongside locals. The nonprofit gives students and educators service learning trips about how to live abroad with host families in rural villages, construct buildOn primary schools and even take cultural workshops, spokeswoman Alex Smith wrote in an email.

When students witness firsthand the enthusiasm for education from children who lack access to it, they gain a renewed appreciation for their own educational opportunities, Smith added. BuildOn has built more than 780 schools so far in Nicaragua, Haiti, Mali, Senegal, Malawi, Nepal and – most recently – Burkina Faso.

It also works in the U.S. The three Novi High seniors visited Nicaragua Aug. 9-17. Bradley is 16, Choi and Mascarenhas are 17. Their parents are Kate and Kyungho Choi, Anthony and Jacqueline Bradley and Dunstan and Vanita Mascarenhas.

Bradley, Choi and Mascarenhas answered questions for the Novi News about their August travels to Nicaragua. Have you been involved previously with buildOn and, if so, what kind of work have Bradley: I have not been involved in a buildOn projects before this trip.

Choi: No.
Mascarenhas: This was our first year involved with the organization. We mainly did fundraisers where the money went towards the school in Nicaragua.

What did you like most about the time you spent in

The Novi High teens with their buildOn group in Nicaragua.

Nicaragua?

Bradley: The trip was more about going to build a school that we spent so much time and effort fundraising for. We spent a considerable amount of time around kids who would attend the school. I loved the balance of working hard in the morning and immersing ourselves in Nicaraguan culture in the afternoon.

Choi: The people I met, both the natives and the other people on my team. Working together with them towards the same goal: providing an education for those in need.

Mascarenhas: The people we traveled there with (a group from New York and a group from California), as well as getting to know my host family. From conquering latrines, to pick-axing trenches for the school, the people that I was surrounded by helped me deal with the culture shock of going from a Novi to a village with no electricity or running water in the mountains of Nicaragua. It turned out to the best week of my life.

What was most challenging about your Nicaragua trip?

Bradley: I was foretold about the difference between American culture compared to Nicaraguan culture, but living it for a week was eye-opening. Something as simple as brushing my teeth wasn't simple anymore because of a lack of clean water.

Choi: The culture shock. I was really surprised at how the lack of clean, running water and electricity really impacted how I spent each Mascarenhas: Just the stark difference between their life and our life here in Novi. I had to get used to walking a mile up a hill just to get to the work site, showering with only two buckets and going to the bathroom in a latrine. All the while, I had no way of contacting anyone from back home. I was terrified at first and didn't know if I'd make it through the week.

What kind of work did you do in Nicaragua?

Bradley: We worked with the villagers to lay the foundation of a primary school. The work included tying rebar, mixing cement, laying bricks, digging trenches and digging latrines.

Choi: We laid the foundation of the primary school that the villagers are going to finish in the next month. We tied rebar, dug trenches, mixed cement and laid bricks.

Mascarenhas: We built the foundation to the school. We had to do everything from mixing concrete to digging trenches to laying bricks to tying rebar. We also exchanged culture and language with the community.

Did the experience in Nicaragua surprise you in any

Bradley: I didn't anticipate that buildOn would give us so much time to immerse ourselves in the village. Being able to see the entire village come together to build the school made me realize that we can better our community at any time if you're willing to work hard.

Choi: I didn't realize how must personal impact it would have on me. Actually meeting the children that the school would helping was so eyeopening. It made all the fundraising and physical work worth it.

Mascarenhas: Honestly, I didn't realize how emotional and impactful the whole experience would be. I learned more this past week about communication and just being socially aware in general than I ever have before.

Has the trip changed your views on anything?

Bradley: My parents always tried to teach me the difference between things I wanted and things I needed, but I always thought I needed a lot of material things. My host family strongly emphasized family and barely had electricity and clean, running water, but they had everything they needed to be happy.

Choi: This trip has definitely changed my views on the world. I used to think that these problems were far off and that I couldn't possibly help make a change. Now looking at these places – not as other countries, but a part of the same world – I realize we all need to do our part to improve the world around us.

Mascarenhas: I'm so much more appreciative of my life of luxury here in Novi. One of the biggest things we learned on the trip was the perspective of needs vs. wants.

of needs vs. wants.

What are your other volunteer and extracurricular activities?

Bradley: Volunteer-wise, I tutor younger students kids in math and/or reading. I'm also on Novi/Northville's Relay for Life Committee.

Choi: Volunteer at church preschool and at Manor of Novi

Mascarenhas: I am involved in marching band and HOSA (for future health professionals) through the school and danced competitively and also played piano. I volunteer at my church and also help in the activities department at the Novi Manor.

What are your plans for after high school graduation?

Bradley: I plan to attend a university and pursue an interdisciplinary study.

Choi: University.

Mascarenhas: I plan on attending college and getting a degree in a science field. I'm also hoping to one day go to medical school.

Group recognizes former U.S. Rep. Bentivolio

The Council for Citizens Against Government Waste recently released its 2014 Congressional Ratings, highlighting the voting records of all 535 members of the 113th Congress. The report, which CCAGW has issued since 1989, identifies members whose voting records helped protect and save the taxpayers' money, as well as those who consistently voted against their interests, its officials said.

Former U.S. Rep. Kerry Bentivolio, R- Milford, was one of the few to receive the title "Taxpayer Super Hero." Only 17 lawmakers (nine senators and eight representatives) earned the title of "Taxpayer Super Hero" with perfect scores of 100 Americans and I wanted to reflect that understanding through my votes," Bentivolio said in a press release.

"CCAGW applauds the Taxpayer Super Heroes for their votes to cut wasteful spending and make government more accountable to taxpayers," CCAGW President Tom Schatz said. "In today's fiscal climate, the actions of these members are refreshing and their constituents should offer them hearty congratulations.'

This is not the first time Bentivolio has been recognized for his work in office. GovTrack rated his office the most transparent of the House's freshman class and second highest amongst all House members in 2014.

"Basically, I was one of the most honest guys in Washington," Bentivolio said of his GovTrack rating. "I just wanted to give a voice to the little guy in a place full of big

Foster Closet helps families with essential needs

By Nathan Mueller

Staff Writer

Michele Austin will always remember her first foster child, the one who came to her with a bag with clothes that didn't fit and a box of toys that were broken.

Unfortunately, seven vears and 17 foster children later, that scenario has repeated itself far too often for Austin and numerous other foster families.

So in September 2013, Austin set out to do something about it. The Foster Closet of Michigan was just over a year old and the Farmington Hills resident decided to form an Oakland County branch out of her home. Now two years later, the nonprofit organization has grown tremendously, from five branches when Austin started to 15 across Michigan. Her Oakland County branch has become the second largest in the state and she expects to service close to 600 foster children this year alone.

"(My wife and I) saw when the children came to us, they came with nothing," she said. "Families do get a stipend from the state, but it's not enough to take care of the needs of children in care.'

According to Austin, there are more than 13,000 foster children in care in Michigan, including nearly 900 in care in Oakland County. Her branch hopes to help those children and families by providing them with essential hygiene items, clothes, toys, games and more.

Her house has been taken over by the foster closet and regularly she comes home to find donated items on her back porch.

"It feels very much like Christmas morning,' she said of the times she discovers the donated goods.

Help needed

While Austin has been able to establish a strong volunteer base, more help is always needed.

She accepts new and like new items, monetary donations she can use to buy things for the kids and, especially, helping hands to sort through everything.

Austin posts many of her immediate needs on the organization's Facebook page (which can be found by going on Facebook and searching "Foster Closet of Michigan -Oakland County Branch") and encourages students to get their community service hours by volunteering at the

"To get a Certified Pre-Owned that comes with warranty, definitely get quality checked, that's important, especially with two girls in college," said five-time customer Julie Wilk.

"There are numerous benefits of purchasing a Certified Pre-Owned, including the outstanding warranty that comes with the vehicles," said Jere Law, Varsity Lincoln's General Sales Manager and Pre-Owned Director. "The 100,000mile free bumper to bumper warranty that comes alongside all Certified Pre-Owned purchases is better than a new car warranty! Additionally, any time the vehicle is in for a service visit, you can receive a loaner for no cost exclusively at Varsity Lincoln!"

"The warranty is key. With Certified Pre-Owned, you get the best from Varsity Lincoln," Law said. Certified Pre-Owned financing is available for as low as 0.9% APR.

"Leasing or buying from the number one dealer in the country gives you the best selection, price and service," Law said. "Our dealership is ready to assist customers with anything, whether it is special financing or a specific request. We can handle every unique situation."

"Loaded with features, a Lincoln will satisfy any customer," Law explained. "Certified Pre-Owned vehicles not only provide peace of mind on the road, but also provide a combination of sportiness and luxury. Benefits include FWD or AWD, EcoBoost, Navigation, Bluetooth, SYNC, an adaptive suspension, a panoramic roof, and heated and cooled seats for comfort, just to name a few," Law said. "Drivers will also enjoy peace of mind from knowing that Lincoln vehicles will hold their value," Law said. "Any depreciation has already been taken on by the previous owner. Plus, advanced styling and dependability add to a Lincoln vehicle's val-

"If you want a really nice experience with a dealership go to Varsity ... I see the difference," said first time customer Loretta Mackenroth.

This dealership provides The Varsity Lincoln Advantage. Varsity Lincoln team members are selected based upon their unwavering focus on customer care and satisfaction.

"Our customers speak for themselves and how their experience is. When you read the reviews our customers write online, you can see how happy they are, before, during and after the sale," Law concluded.

School supplies: Help Salvation Army help kids

Like the Christmas holiday, the back-to-school season has shoppers poring over advertisements, checking online and running in and out of stores for supplies their kids need as the the new academic year gets underway Sept. 8. For many families, the shopping frenzy may

For many families, the shopping frenzy may not register as even a blip on their expenditures. For others, however, many in Canton, the Plymouths, Belleville and Northville, back-to-school supplies are a very real financial concern and difficulty.

The National Retail Federation conducted a back-to-school survey recently by Prosper Insights & Analytics that showed parents will spend an average of $630.36 per student this year. That estimate is actually a drop from last year, when the average was $669.28. Still, this year alone, the NRF estimates that parents will spend up to $24.9 billion on stuff for school, including electronics, clothing and supplies.

The NRF estimates that over last 10 years, spending on school supplies has increased some 42 percent

That's why local organizations, such as the Plymouth Community Salvation Army, make annual requests for donated supplies to get kids in lower income families ready for school and on par with families who have more earning power.

Since its inception in 2008, the Back 2 School Blitz hosted by the Plymouth Salvation Army has sent 1,854 students back to school with grade-appropriate school supplies. This year's Blitz is also supported by the Plymouth-Canton and Van Buren school districts, the Wilcox Foundation, the Plymouth Kiwanis Foundation, the Plymouth Rotary Foundation and Payless Shoe Stores.

This is a good cause. Without efforts such as these, there would be a lot of kids returning to school without needed supplies or parents would drop into a financial hole equipping their kids for the new school year. This may not be about your child, but to use a very overused phrase, it does take a village to help kids be safe and successful in school. Joining forces to help those in need can only make the community stronger.

only make the community stronger.

The Salvation Army is asking for any help local residents or businesses can muster. Based on lists offered by school districts, needed supplies include: new backpacks (particularly for older students), binders, markers, wide-ruled paper and one-subject notebooks, pens (red, black and blue), No. 2 pencils, rulers, protractors, compasses, composition books and folders.

Also on tap this year is help for local teachers in our districts — Plymouth-Canton, Van Buren and Northville — to help them with supplies for the classroom. Let's be honest. It's not a secret that teachers as a whole tend to spend out of their own pockets for stuff in their classrooms. That stuff — and the public may certainly donate — includes Kleenex, loose leaf paper, hand sanitizer, Kleenex, glue sticks, dry erase markers and red pens.

If you have one child, the average $630.36 may not be a huge pinch. But what about families in need who have two, three or four kids? With four kids, that spending total increases to more than $2,500. That's not an easy pill to swallow if you are struggling to put food on the table and a roof over your kids' heads.

In addition to school supplies, the Army will accept donations of new socks and underwear and gently used clothing that will be distributed through the Plymouth Canton Community Clothing Bank, a partner of The Salvation Army throughout the year.

Monetary gifts are also welcome and will be used to buy Payless gift cards and miscellaneous school supplies that will be distributed to each child. Following the distribution to registered families, the remaining school supplies will be divided between the Plymouth-Canton and Van Buren districts to be shared where the need is greatest.

Meanwhile, the start of school is about three weeks away. The Plymouth Salvation Army will collect items through Aug. 31 at its facility, 9451 S. Main Street, Plymouth. Parents in need may register beginning this week to be eligible to receive school supplies.

Let's get the whole community behind these kids. Their eventual success is our success.

UPS ambassador

I have owned Elizabeth's Bridal Manor in Northville for over 26 years, and for 21 of those years, Chris Ross has been my UPS delivery man. He is a fixture in the business community.

This remarkable man has served the Northville businesses and residents with a great sense of humor,thoughtfulness, service above and beyond the call of duty, with a perpetual smile on his face.

I have never witnessed him having a bad day. He brings joy to all who know him, and he literally spreads sunshine wherever he goes, no matter what the weather conditions and no matter what his workload is.

He always demonstrated humility, sincerity and exceptional, positive attitude toward all whom he services. I have always told him that he should be the poster boy or Goodwill Ambassador for UPS, and he always responded with his good-natured laugh, and thanked me for my sentiments.

My staff and I will greatly miss Chris and wish him all the best.

Whose grasp?

State Sen. Patrick Colbeck's proposal for fixing roads sounds like it might be an answer and is headlined that a "fix is within our grasp."

However, utilizing his figures and calculating when our roads would be fixed with this plan indicates that we would have good roads in about 21 years. That calculation utilizes his version 2 roads and would build roads that according to him would last twice as long.

At that time about one-third of the roads would be of the higher quality and other roads would be brought up to that quality as they were replaced. If version 1 roads were built it would take over 10 years to get into good roads. Either of these proposals are unacceptable.

The governor's proposals and identification of the $1.2 billion requirement makes very much sense when used with Sen. Colbeck's numbers. Utilizing his numbers with a $1.2 billion funding it would take less than four years to get to good roads with version 1 roads and if Mr. Colbeck's version 2 roads were built it would take less than six years to get to good roads and have his "sustainable solution."

We got into this mess because we as a state population were unwilling to pay the appropriate taxes to maintain our infrastructure. Mr. Colbeck seems to believe we should continue that. That sounds like "politics as usual" as he likes to say. We need funding that provides $1.2 billion to roads and it should be one that everyone supports.

I say a 21-year solution to our road problem is no solution or a "politics as usual" solution. It certainly does not sound like a "fix within our grasp."

Shot in the arm

The new requirements to get an immunization waiver might just save my life.

Failing to immunize your child could be a major risk for your child and other children. As a middle school boy, I hate immunizations as much as the next person, but I would rather get poked and be safe from a disease than risk getting a disease and possibly dying.

I think it's a great idea that parents have to learn about the consequences of not immunizing their child to get the county waiver. As a student, I do not want to ruin my life by getting sick from a parent's wrong or misinformed decision.

In today's society, some parents are getting incorrect information from the Internet. This could lead to not immunizing a child, which could get him/her or others sick. On a positive note, a trained professional now must teach these parents about the consequences of not immunizing Diseases like measles are coming back in the United States, so we have to arm ourselves by getting a shot in the arm, but on the bright side, sometimes we get a lollipop in the end.

Path to road fix

After yesterday's (Aug. 19) 12-hour session on the floor of the Michigan State House, we did not have the opportunity to vote on a road package. We were all there and ready to vote, in hopes that a compromise plan was imminent. I am disappointed that we could not move forward, but not surprised, since a long-term road funding plan has been debated for decades.

The process of finding a solution is complex and many residents may be frustrated by our inaction, which on the surface, looks easier to solve.

I have the responsibility to represent everyone in District 38, consisting of the citizens of Walled Lake, Novi, South Lyon, Lyon Township Novi Township and the Oakland County portion of Northville. There is not a vote I take, nor a question I ask in committee, when I don't consider my entire district's residents. Every representative and senator strives to represent their district in the same manner.

Each of the 110 representatives, the 38 senators and the governor have their own thoughts on a road solution that their constituency would approve and the budget would support. For obvious reasons, it is not efficient for all of us to be involved in the negotiations. We have submitted our ideas to leadership. Leaders from the Republican and the Democrat side, of both the Senate and House, along with the governor, are currently participating in relentless road plan negotiations.

I respect this process of negotiations. No one will be completely in favor of the final outcome, but all possible solutions and budget impact, will have been extensively considered and debated.

I am told that we are close to a compromise that each caucus will evaluate and also debate prior to voting. We need a thoughtful, substantial, long-term solution, not a "quick fix" or "patch"

Some of you have asked for my reaction to the Road Plan. I will reserve my comments for the road plan agreed upon at the conclusion of these intense negotiations.

I sincerely respect the views of all residents in District 38 and should you wish to contact my office, please email me at kathycrawford@house.mi.gov or call 517-373-0827. My office is open Monday-Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. If you call, staff may be answering other calls or in a meeting. Please leave a detailed message with a number or email where you may be reached and we will return you call as soon as possible.

GUEST COLUMN

Safety key: Resolve the dispute over meat labeling with Canada and Mexico

ongress in 2002 passed a requirement that meat sold in the U.S. carry a simple label stating where the product was born, raised and slaughtered. While that label has been valuable to consumers, the World Trade Organization recently found it to be in violation of our trade obligations with Canada and Mexico.

I disagree with this ruling. But, if we do not change the way we label meat, we face the threat of retaliatory tariffs by two of our closest trading partners. That retaliation would harm American businesses and consumers. So we must change our law.

That's why I joined Sen. John Hoeven, R-N.D., and several of our Republican and Democratic colleagues to introduce a commonsense bill to do just that, while also retaining the right for American consumers to ask for information about where their food comes from.

The Voluntary Country of Origin Labeling and Trade Enhancement Act of 2015 would fully repeal mandatory country-of-origin labeling to satisfy the WTO decision. We then create a voluntary option for our farmers: a voluntary label, similar to what Canada uses to label its meat.

The U.S. Trade Representative, the government agency responsible for overseeing our trade relationships, believes our proposal would comply with the WTO decision. It's also noteworthy that Canada and Mexico have themselves said that a voluntary label is a reasonable approach in testimony before the WTO in 2012.

Sadly, even before our bill was introduced, Canada joined with the big multinational meat packers to wage a campaign to stop Congress from pursuing this voluntary label. They insist that the U.S. must not only repeal mandatory labeling but that the U.S. has no right to establish a voluntary program (even if Canada has one) or they will retaliate against us.

Let's be clear — since our bill repeals mandatory country of origin labeling, Canada has no veto or legal standing to stop the U.S. from deciding to pursue voluntary policies in our own country. It's easy to understand why Canada and Mexico don't want us to pursue a voluntary label: They want to absolutely make sure they never have to compete head-to-head with American products.

This debate boils down to two simple questions: Do American consumers have a right to know where their food comes from? And, should American farmers and companies have the same right to accurately label a Product of the U.S.A. when our friends in Canada are already doing the same through their own label? The answer of course is yes!

I'm confident the majority of the U.S. Senate supports this commonsense approach. That's why the Senate must pass our bill as soon as possible so we can stop any retaliation. Then we need to refocus on all of the wonderful and important partnerships Michigan has with our Canadian neighbors.

Debbie Stabenow, a Democrat from Lansing, represents Michigan in the U.S. Senate.

Then I received an email from an attorney that told me that a relative I have never met owned diamond mines in South Africa. If I paid just a few thousand dollars for transferring fees, I could claim ownership of the mines. Sounds like all my money troubles with the IRS could get handled then and I would still have enough to rescue my poor nephew. I just needed to avoid being arrested by the IRS for a little longer.

Watercraft accident

Deputies from the Oakland County Sheriff Department's Marine Unit responded to Pontiac Lake around 6:45 p.m. Aug. 21 on a report of a personal injury accident involving two small watercraft. Two subjects were riding their PWC's together when one turned into the path of the other resulting in the collision.

The victim, a 24-yearold male from Novi, sustained injuries to the left side of his body and was transported to McLaren Oakland Hospital by Star EMS, where he remains in stable condition.

The crash remains under investigation and alcohol does not appear to be a factor in the crash.

Tax-return fraud moves to states, officials say

A new wave of tax swindlers who've attempted to bilk the federal refunds of honest taxpayers have moved on to the states, an Internal Revenue Service official told the recent National Conference of State Legislatures legislative summit.

LOCAL NEWS

IRS official Paul Mamo characterized the latest form of tax fraud as a blend of identity theft with filing fraudulent tax returns.

Steve Ryan of McDermott Will & Emery, which staffs a national association of tax companies, said those perpetrating the tax fraud are not taking information out of the system. Rather they are putting false data into the system to secure the tax refunds due lawabiding taxpayers. While the fraud at first focused on federal returns because the refunds are greater, states are now the targets.

"We want this to end. It is bad for the industry and it is terrifying for the individual," Ryan said.

Losses are in the billions of dollars, with Mamo noting the IRS stopped $68 billion involving 19 million fraudulent returns from 2011-

Ryan explained that his clients, while they are prohibited from reviewing returns done via popular tax-return programs, did first spot issues with lots of returns going to a single ZIP code or bank account.

David Sullivan, tax

administrator for the state of Rhode Island, said states could combat fraudulent returns being submitted from dead individuals, but now people go into the system and assume the identity of the taxpayer. And when the refund is sent via a debit card, it becomes very difficult to track down and re-

Corey Smith of the Tax Division of the U.S. Department of Justice and part of the DOJ's Stolen Identity Refund Fraud Board, said many of the actors are overseas in Nigeria, Ghana, Eastern Bloc countries, Russia, Romania and China.

There are some steps states can take to counteract this fraud, Sullivan said. One step is to rely on "out-ofwallet" information to verify the identity of the taxpayer.

Another step states can take is to slow down the issuance of refunds, allowing time for more through verification. This, however, can affect those awaiting EITC payments, he said. Likewise, the use of debit cards is intended to help taxpayers who are "unbankable," providing the "cheapest" way to get them their refunds, Sullivan said. He explained that if they are forced to use check-cashing businesses, there is often a steep fee.

Northville children's author shares 'growing up' foibles tale

By Julie Brown Staff Writer

Northville resident and author Mary Kaye Rhee is proud of the book she's self-published for children, Elwood Doberman, Jr.

"I do a lot of writing. I like to do it as a hobby,' said Rhee, who's called Northville home for almost 40 years. Illustrator Elisa Chavarri previously lived in Northville.

'I had a real good illustrator with this one," Rhee said of Chavarri, who now lives in Alpena. "I told the illustrator to make it like Northville. It's got Victorian houses. Way in the distance, you can see the clock. It's really cute." The story is about a rebellious pup who learns that growing up involves a few missteps. Rhee, mom to four grown children and grandma to four, recalled her husband reading the Northville Record a few years back and spotting an item on Chavarri.

"I was looking for an illustrator for my book,' Rhee said, noting the book is geared mainly to children ages 4-8 with the Northville name changed to "Furry Hill." She was pleased when Chavarri agreed to illustrate her book.

The women met to work out details. "She lived on Main Street at the time with her husband," Rhee said. It took them about two years to complete Elwood Doberman, Jr., and after the Alpena move, technology helped them work togeth-

"I always tell people it's a book based on a true story," Rhee said. "Growing up always involves some missteps and tumbles along the way."

Puppy Elwood manipulates his parents and ultimately must go to

Mary Kaye Rhee of Northville is a children's author who wrote "Elwood Doberman, Jr."

West Pointer Academy, "which is a doggie boot camp where he kind of thinks it over." The book has a happy ending.

"It's really a comment not only on parents, but also children," Rhee said. She wrote it years ago and put is aside. "But I didn't have an illustrator and I didn't know where to go," she said. "That was really fun to work with her," she added of Chavarri.

Everything was done over the computer, all the files and everything. That technology is all so advanced now," the author said.

Chavarri on most days can be found working from her studio in her home she shares with her husband, her cat and dog, and her daughter, Lucia. She has previously illustrated A Smart Girl's Guide: Boys and Puzzle Palooza for American Girl, Fairly Fairy Tales for Śimon & Schuster and Fly Blanky Fly for Harper Collins. Chavarri is a native of Peru.

Rhee and her husband, in addition to the children, their spouses and grandchildren, have a dog, four "granddogs"

and a "grandcat."

"I did some teaching years ago in Taiwan," she said. She began to write at age 50 and now, at 65, thought about self-publishing. After receiving her bachelor's degree in English from Calvin College, Rhee completed her master's degree in library science from the University of Michigan.

She and Chavarri are working on another children's book for the same age group, as well as children's parents and grandparents. Stories she writes relate to growing up, including sibling rivalry and how we don't always want to accept faults in our loved ones.

She's got a number of stories she's worked on. "I hope to get at least 10 by the time I'm on the other side of the Jordan," Rhee said.

Her dad was a preacher. "I grew up with parents who read to me constantly," said Rhee, who followed suit with her children when they were young. Her family also watched Sesame Street together.

Elwood Doberman, Jr., is available on Amazon and at Barnes & Noble.

Mavericks' late goal nips rival

Zondlak, D'Aloisio lead 1-0 win vs. Lakeland

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

Brendan Zondlak took care of the back end, while teammate Dante D'Aloisio made his presence known up front Monday with the game's only goal as host Milford stopped Lakeland in a spirited boys soccer match, 1-0.

The Mavericks, who opened their season Friday with a 5-2 victory at Holly, improved to 2-0 thanks to D'Aloisio's gamewinner with only 10:45 left, a shot that caromed off a Lakeland defender.

David Bonhard got credit for the assist on D'Aloisio's goal, which ricocheted from 25

Milford had its fair share of scoring chances, but Lakeland goalkeeper Owen Christmas proved stingy for the first 79 minutes until the Mavericks took advantage of a re-direct.

After a scoreless 40 minutes, the theme at halftime by first-year Milford coach Thomas Hipple was to get more shots on goal.

"I just shot it and it directed off a few players and it went in," D'Aloisio said. "We just didn't put any on net and when we did, it went it. He just told us to keep attacking them and we're going to get the win. It's a big rival win."

Mustangs' Johnston eyeing top prep title

Two-time state Division 1 state runner-up healthy

> By Brad Emons Staff Writer

And now it's Connor Johnston's turn. After two runner-up finishes to rival Tim Wang of Novi in the MHSAA Division 1 singles top-flighted finals, the Northville High tennis standout enters his senior year as the clear-cut favorite.

Johnston, a nationallyranked junior who committed to micnigan iasi December, says he is healthy after overcoming a groin injury which sidelined him from U.S. Tennis Association junior tournaments from February to Memorial Day weekend.

Johnston went 21-2 last year for the Mustangs, with his only two losses coming against the Columbia University-bound

After a seventh-place team finish at last year's Division 1 state finals, Johnston is optimistic the Mustangs can make some noise in this year's state tourney. His biggest threats to an individual singles title should come from last year's state semifinalists, Ian Yi of Ann Arbor Pioneer and Josh Mukherjee of Bloomfield Hills.

But Johnston is looking at the bigger picture.

"I think my team is at its peak," he said. "I think we're really good. We have 10 seniors and we've got some really good freshmen. We're very deep. Any of the doubles can play any position. We're really good and I'm really excited about

Defending state champs impress in season opener

Novi reloads, dominate Brighton Quad

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

All the pieces fell nicely into place last season for the Novi boys tennis team, which captured its first MHSAA Division 1 state title in school history.

And 22-year coach Jim Hanson hopes history repeats itself as the Wildcats try to duplicate their dream season of a year ago, when they captured every match and tournament on their schedule.

The biggest loss to graduation is USTA nationallyranked Tim Wang (Columbia University), the two-time No. 1 singles state champion.

But Novi looks to reload as six of the team's top 10 play-

"Our team goals are to win the KLAA Central Division, KLAA Association and regional," Hanson said. "We want to play our best tennis of the year at the Division 1 state finals in Midland."

Senior Koushik Kondapi, who has moved into the No. 1 singles slot, didn't lose a game in three matches at Brighton. He finished 35-1 last season at No. 2 singles en route to a state title.

State champ Alex Wen, who went 36-0 last season at No. 3 singles as a freshman, also returns while moving up to No. 2 in the lineup. Unfortunately, Wen's day at Brighton was cut short when he had to retire due to illness after leading 6-2, 5-3 in a match against Groves.

Junior Aakash Ray, who competed at No. 2 doubles last year, inherits the No. 3 singles position, while freshman Sid Amarnath, who is ranked No. 14 in singles by the USTA Southeast Michigan section, takes over at No.

Ray captured his first two matches before rain cut short his third at Brighton. Amarnath won all three of his matches in straight sets.

Doubles remains a strength as the Wildcats got straight set wins in all six flights, led by senior Maxx Anderson and junior Daniel Yu, No. 1; sophomores Robert Chen and Aditya Chitta, No. 2;

Three freshmen have cracked the veteran lineup. They are very promising players. We will again battle with Novi at regionals. We will see many strong teams this season, including Novi, (Birmingham) Brother Rice, Ann Arbor Huron and Ann Arbor Pioneer. We anticipate finishing higher in the state tournament than we did in 2014."

Risdon's 2015 outlook: "I'm hoping to pull off enough points at regional and get to states. That's ultimately the goal. Every single match, tournament and practice, I just want to get better. My philosophy is '100percent effort 100 percent of the time.' If we can do that, we can achieve our goals, which is to get through regional and pull it out. I have a group of boys that are working hard, they're enthusiastic, they're disciplined and they're just going to keep getting better. I just know it. Even from the first day at practice, we've gotten better. I'm looking forward to it. I just have to forget where they're at today and (see) where they're going to be in a month from now."

They maybe started last year or two years ago. This is the third year for some of them, none of them are four years yet. I'm optimistic. I have coach (Jeff) Prueter and coach (Dan) Baker. We play in a very difficult division with both Novi and Northville, but we always go out and give our best effort. Though our record does not always show it, the guys on our team work hard and are a fun group to coach. My goals for this year include having a unified team with good senior leadership and seeing the guys work hard and become better players who enjoy playing tennis. We are excited to have 10 players returning from last year's team and are looking forward to seeing what the six new players on our team will do for our team this year."

Looks like a bunch of the guys are ready to step up in the lineup and play right from the start. There's a great vibe at practice and I see a lot to like in our returning players. Promising newcomers: Brendan Ramboer, Soph., No. 2 doubles; Nelson Turnage, Jr., No. 3 doubles.

Carlson's 2015 outlook: "We lost a lot of seniors, so we've got a lot of young guys. I'm hoping to finish in third place in the KLAA North this year, which is

Mustangs capture opener

Northville opened its boys tennis season Aug. 20 at home by scoring a team-high 16 points followed by Clarkston (11) and Plymouth (1). Among the singles winners were last year's MHSAA Division 1 runner-up Connor Johnston (No. 1) and Oliver Daniel (No. 4). Janak Mukherji (No. 2) and Stephen Freeman (No. 3) each placed second. The Mustangs also swept all five doubles: Ryan Gallagher and Arvind Kalyana (No. 1); Hoon Oh and Jonathan Bi (No. 2); Samir Rajani and Giuliano Daniel (No. 3); Victor Lee and Yannis Bi (No. 4); and Evan Simoff and Michael Ying (No. 5). Northville's Robert Hong and Jimmy Dales also captured the No. 6 exhibition doubles.

at the Novi Sports Club. "He's awesome," Johnston said. "All the guys love him and we get great coaching.

But despite the loss of Wang in the top singles flight, rival Novi remains one of the state's elite teams with several starters returning.

"I think we'll be very competitive with Novi," said Johnston, who ironically resides in Novi. "I think it will be a battle. They're whole lineup is deep. They're good."

Johnston's groin problem started last November, when he had to withdraw from a USTA Midwest Level 3 event in Grand Rapids. In February, he had to withdraw again from another tournament and didn't play competitively again until the USTA Midwest Level 3 Memorial Day Weekend Tour-

In June, Johnston was back in form, beating the top-seeded Wang in three sets, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, for the Southeast Michigan District Muthig Qualifier Boys

But any summer momentum gained was cut short later in the month at the important USTA Midwest Closed Tournament in Indianapolis, when the fifth-seeded Johnston had to retire from his opening-round Boys 18s singles match due to Johnston and his doubles partner Daniel Boussom (Goshen, Ind.), however, did make a run to the Midwest Closed semifinals before falling to the second seeds Sameer Kumar (Carmel, Ind.) and Vincent Lin (Schaumburg, Ill.), 7-5, 6-2.

But his national ranking took a precipitous drop and kept him out of the coveted 156-player field at the USTA Boys 18 Nationals last month in Kalamazoo. Johnston's current USTA Boys 18 ranking is No. 340, with current 12-month singles record of 19-7.

I wished we could have played in it," Johnston said, "but I'm playing a lot of USTAs this year ... and I won't get hurt this year."

Johnston did play in the doubles draw with partner Alexander Knight (Miami Shores, Fla.), a red-shirt sophomore from Michigan, as they captured their first-round match before being ousted in the round of 32 by the ninth MHSAA boys tennis rules, meanwhile, allow two outside USTA tournaments for players during the fall high school season. Johnston said he'll play at least one over Labor Day weekend, another Midwest Level 3 tourney in Grand Rap-

According to TennisRecruiting.net, Johnston is a five-star recruit who ranks No. 1 for the class of 2016 in Michigan, No. 3 in the Great Lakes Region and No. 60 nationally.

Johnston is committed to Michigan and plans to sign with the Wolverines this November.

"My parents liked Michigan a lot and it's close to home, which is always good," Johnston said. "It's (got) great academics and a great team and the coach (Adam Steinberg) is awesome. I love everything about it. It just felt like home."

Illinois was his second op-"I really liked the coach (Brad Dancer) there and they're really good at tennis, but Michigan was just the choice and that's what I wanted," Johnston said.

Meanwhile, there's nothing Johnston wants more this fall than to win an individual MHSAA singles state crown. He has focused on one aspect of his game to prepare specifically entering the fall season.

"I've developing my serve almost every day," he said. "I just hit a bunch of baskets of balls. I try one or two baskets of balls of serves every day.

Huss' 2015 outlook: "The expectations are pretty much to win everything they play in. Also, the main thing is to keep our cools, get to the state mee and see what happens. But you can't predict anything like that when you get to that level. They're not scared to be ranked No. 1. I don't know if they will be, but they're not afraid of that at all. This team has the opportunity to do something special. With only one senior in the lineup – and a very important senior, when it gets down to it - it's five (players) counting four (scores). Given the fact that we're six or seven deep is bodes very well for Novi."

Novi guard Hankerson commits to Wisconsin-Green Bay

By Brad Emons

Kam Hankerson is planning to lace up his basketball sneakers in Titletown, USA, just a stone's throw away from Lambeau Field.

The 6-foot-4, 180-pound guard, who will be a senior this year at Novi High, recently made a verbal commitment to attend the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay, an NCAA Division I school.

Hankerson, who can play both the point and off-guard positions, earned honorable mention all-KLAA and All-Area recognition as a junior, when he averaged 7.0 points, 7.5 rebounds and 5.5 assists per game while helping the Wildcats to a 12-9 record and 7-3 mark in the KLAA's Central named Green Bay's new head coach in the spring after going 218-92 in nine seasons. He replaces Brian Wardle, who left to become the head coach at Bradley after leading the Phoenix to an NIT berth.

Hankerson, who possesses close to a 40-inch vertical jump, caught the attention of Green Bay's new coaching staff during a trip to nearby Milwaukee during the off-season with his AAU team, Powerstroke.

Former Purdue player Linc

Hankerson decided to make an unofficial visit to Green Bay, which plays in the Horizon League, and was immediately sold on the program. "We were going to Chicago anyways, so we decided to take a trip, go up there and see what it's all about," Hankerson said. "Once we got there, they offered me and I liked the campus. They had a new coaching staff that had success at other places before that. It just felt kind of right. After I visited a couple of other places, I took them up on their offer. Hankerson shot up the recruiting charts during the off-season and had interest from other Division I schools, including Illinois-Chicago, where he took an unofficial visit, along with Indiana-Purdue-Fort Wayne, Central Michigan and Northern Illinois.

"What they ended up saying is that I could play multiple spots on the floor, which is what they really like about me,' Hankerson said of Green Bay. "I played the point guard position in high school. "In the off-season, I just tried to get more consistent shooting-wise. I'm an all right shooter, but I just want to become better. I'm always working on my IQ with the game, along with my shooting ability right now."

Hankerson joked that his verbal commitment is firm to Green Bay – unless Michigan or Michigan State come calling.

'It's the only offer right now, so I took them up on it," Hankerson said.

Hankerson's stock among the 2016 class shot up dramatically during the off-season. He recently attended Michigan Elite's camp, which invited the top 25 players from each class at the Hype Recreation Center in Dearborn Heights, along with Michigan's camp.

He's worked extremely hard this summer and really it's his ability both to get to the basket and finish consistently," Novi coach Brandon Sinawi said. "And he's definitely improved his mid-range jump shots. The biggest improvement I've seen from him is his maturity and understanding what he's supposed to do on the floor, in transition, in the halfcourt and then, obviously, working with his teammates.

"He's also done a great job of really piecing things together. He's had a great summer and we're definitely excited for him at Novi and look forward to to his senior year. He's done a great job in the weight room. He's in better shape and he's going to reap the benefits as a player.'

And Sinawi thinks Green Bay is the perfect fit.

"He made a smart move," he

DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

USA Hockey opens for business as area spectators eye new era

By Tim Smith Staff Writer

Yes, the Plymouth Whalers have left the building.

No worries, not with USA Hockey's National Team Development Program ready to skate into a fresh new era in the Beck Road arena.

Consider that hundreds of hockey fans of all sizes and ages turned out for Wednesday's open house and "pick a seat night" at the newly minted USA Hockey Arena.

"I think we had to be sold on it a little bit," said Dannette Nyquist of Canton, there with husband Steve. "We were hesitant, wondering, but it's the only game in town."

The Nyquists were Whalers season-ticket holders since 1999 and decided to jump in the USA Hockey waters virtually sight unseen. It helps that they'll sit in Section 103, six rows behind the home bench, where they sat for OHL con-

"You become like a small family, almost," she said. "You know the people behind you, you talk about their families. Ĭt's good to know that they've all come back, too."

Easy call

Steve Nyquist called it a "no-brainer" to sign up for USA Hockey's mix of international, college and junior con-

"I'm not driving to Flint," he said with a laugh, referring to where the Whalers relocated as the Firebirds.

The Peter Karmanos-owned franchise was sold following the 2014-15 season to a group that moved it to Flint.

Wednesday's open house included open skating with players, as well as free pizza, pop and hockey talk from fans, players and coaches alike who are all impressed with the planned transformation of longtime Compuware Arena.

'A lot of people are happy; little kids are excited to come see us," said Dylan St. Cyr, a Northville native who will play (there also will be a U-18 team). "They're holding posters, getting pumped about it, they want to eat with us.

I think it's cool to get to know your fans. Then they come out and watch and say, Yeah. I skated with him.' That would be kind of cool."

St. Cyr and others said they expected it to take a while for the general public to get a better idea of what USA Hockey is all about. The NTDP was based out of the Ann Arbor Ice Cube last year.

Being the first year, I think it's nice to see how it's going to develop," he said. "By the second year, I think it's all going to be settled in and ready to go.

'That will be pretty cool, too. We'll see. I think it's going to take a couple games to get the word out there."

Buzz-worthy

Greeting younger fans was the NTDP mascot, wearing a bald eagle costume and USA Hockey jersey. So far, the mascot does not have a moniker. The buzz inside the building caught the attention of Danton Cole, a former NHL player who is head coach of the U-17

"It is exciting and I think the neat thing is, for the first little while, every day when we walk in something else is being workea on, paintea oi changed," Cole said. "I think that lends to the atmosphere of excitement and getting us fired up for the season.'

Cole said educating fans about what USA Hockey is bringing to Plymouth continues to be on the front burn-

"As a new program coming in here, the Whalers were here a long time," Cole said. "Just to put a face on our product and the program that we have and the people we have working here, just talking to the fans, I think that's always important.

"Let them know how much we care about what's going on here and how much we appreciate what they do for the team."

had a team-high 19 kills in a first-round NČAA win over Loyola-Marymount. "This year, we kind of have the mindset of coming out strong. Every day, we have two-adays. We're practicing hard and getting ready to get mentally and physically tough. It's a long season and we're going to try and do our best, go hard from beginning to end so we can have that better season and hopefully make a better run this year."

Big Ten outlook

MSU (11-9) finished sixth in a loaded Big Ten last season. The Spartans are one of six teams, including two-time defending national champion Penn State, which appear in the preseason top 25 ranking from the conference.

The Spartans were tabbed sixth in a preseason poll formulated by a vote of the conference's 14 head coaches Aug. 12.

Although the Spartans lost top-notch libero Kori Moster (550 digs) to graduation, Marquette University transfer Autumn Bailey, the Big East Player of the Year, is there to help pick up the slack.
"She's really good and adds a lot to our team," Reinig said of Bailey. "We have a lot of our core team coming back. We were a young team last Reinig made all-Big Ten, all-region and was an AVCA honorable mention All-American a year ago as she averaged 3.7 kills per set to go along with 83 blocks.

Reinig hopes to piggyback on her strong sophomore season showing with a few more personal goals in mind.

Not satisfied

"Last year I was all-Big Ten and all-region – great accolades," Reinig said, "but what made me a little salty was honorable mention All-American. And that was my biggest dream coming to college. So that's my ultimate goal, to be a true All-Amer-

Reinig, a preseason all-Big Ten first team selection, has worked on her defense during the off-season. Last year, she finished with 107 digs and wants to show she can be counted upon as an all-around

"So far in my college career, I haven't played all six rotations; I've played a little back row," said Reinig, who is on the dean's list while majoring in economics with a minor in math. "But I've really just worked hard to work on my back row game as well as my front row. ... I need to get better at both so I can play all six and stay on the court as much as possible, which hopefully happens.'

As a freshman, Reinig appeared in 25 matches while missing most of the non-conference season with mononucleosis. She rebounded from her illness to earn Big Ten all-freshman honors as she racked up a total of 234

"Chloe had a breakout sophomore year after mono held her back and didn't allow others to see what she was truly capable of as a freshman," MSU head coach Cathy George. "I'm really looking forward to seeing her game take another step this fall."

Early start

Reinig began to blossom as a volleyball player prior to moving to South Lyon from Illinois during the summer following her eighth-grade

She said she broke the mold in the Reinig family, which also includes father Geoff and mother Carol, along with two older siblings, Garrett and Crystal (both of whom attended MSU), along with a younger brother, Gunnar.

Reinig

"Actually, it's kind of weird, they're all musically inclined and into artsy things and I'm like the only athletic person in my entire family," Reinig said. "I did basketball and soccer in elementary school and as soon as I hit middle school, I got serious about volleyball."

Reinig first attended Birmingham Marian High School, where she was a member of the 2009 Class A state championship team before she transferred to South Lyon as a sophomore.

During her junior year, she broke the Lions' single season record for kills for 653, while earning first team all-state honors twice. She also received numerous national prep accolades, including being named a 2012-13 Under Armour first team All-American. Reinig also played club volleyball for Michigan Elite.

National invite

In February, Reinig was invited to participate in the U.S. Women's National Team open tryouts in Colorado Springs, Colo. But during the second day of practice, she collided with another player and suffered a shoulder injury.

"I really couldn't lift my left arm at all, so it kind of hindered my playing," Reinig said. "I was fine three weeks later. But it was still great to be around all these great collegiate athletes, hear about their school and their sto-

Reinig stayed close to home and East Lansing for a majority of this summer.

'We made a huge commitment, where as a team, to play more throughout the whole summer," she said. "We're not forced to play by the coaches, but we had open gyms and we did a lot of our own self-practice together which helped us a lot. We did that two or three times a week, as well as running and lifting and staying in shape and going to classes."

Reinig then transitioned into official MSU practices and the dreaded two-a-days.

She realizes it will help prepare the Spartans for a challenging non-conference schedule, which also includes No. 7 North Carolina and No. 25 Duke, followed by a grinder of a Big Ten slate, which begins Sept. 25. "It gets pretty brutal,"

Reinig said. "The practices are not bad themselves or terribly hard, it's just playing volleyball. But it's just being in the gym for all those hours in a day can wear on you."

Eduardo DeOliveira and finished on a one-time shot by Nick Harder. Plymouth, which outshot Novi 9-7, put it away with 29 minutes left as Michael Blake scored on a breakaway. "Their 4-3-3 formation gave us trouble as all three of their forwards.—Huxtable Blake all three of their forwards – Huxtable, Blake and Dylan Dwyer – were very fast and talented dribblers," Novi co-coach Rachel Kain said. ready, you just got to be on your toes," said Zondlak, who is a senior. "You just got to be ready.

In the second half, Zondlak was more than ready as he doublecrossed his own goal to make a pair of key saves and keep the Eagles off the board.

'Tonight, being a senior, I told him he was going to play the whole game," Hipple said of his keeper. "He was absolutely amazing. He made three or four outstanding saves to keep us in the game."

Lakeland is 2-4 now in its last six matches against the Mavericks dating back to the 2012

"To be honest, we played well," Lakeland coach Anthony Ibrahim said. "It's a tough pill to swallow. We had a lot of chances ... first two chances in the first half. Eric Reiter and Chase Rospond had a couple. And even towards the end, when we were 1-0 down. But that's the name of the game. You don't capitalize on your chances and you get one shot, one unlucky deflection and there goes the game 1-0."

But Ibrahim, also in his first season as varsity coach, came away encouraged despite the loss "I think definitely we had an outstanding performance from Tyler Green in the midfield,' he said. "He was exceptional today. I think (Rospond), the big tall guy, the target up top, worked his socks off. He was great ... unlucky to miss a couple of chances. But I thought they all played well. I thought they all came out and ready to go. It's just tough coming in the first game of the season and it's your rivals, but you just got to take if from there and learn from it."

The two rivals were able to put on good show for such an early clash.

"The Milford-Lakeland game is always kind of a sloppy game." Hipple said. "It's kind of up and down, (a) north-south kind of game. When we were able to just control ourselves and play, we looked good. We still have some holes we need to fill, but it's early.

"Collectively, we couldn't have played better as a team on the field. And then on the bench we did very well, keeping everyone under control. I think it was a good team effort."

But it's only one win and it's a long season.

"I think we played well, but there's always room for improvement, like there always is,' Zondlak said. "And I think we'll get better by the end of the year.

Matcats thriving on summer circuit

By Brad Emons Staff Writer

The South Lyon Matcats wrapped up their summer league schedule highlighted by Simeon Mardossian's thirdand fifth-place showings, respectively, at the USA Wrestling National Freestyle and Greco Roman finals recently in Wisconsin.

Mardossian is now ranked third in the nation with USA Wrestling as a future Olympian.

'Simeon is an absolute monster on the mat," head coach Steve Richardson said. "He wrestled his best matches of the season during this tournament, defeating a previous year's champion."

The Matcats also competed last weekend in the Summer Beach Wrestling state finals, held in Potterville, with Jaxton Kimling taking first, while Travis Richardson and Julien Kimling finished second and third, respectively.

"Beach wrestling is just that, we wrestle on the sand with modified rules," Richardson said. "This is Michigan's inaugural year for this type of wrestling. It was a lot of fun. The kids really enjoyed something different.

Summer wrestling is for the diehards that want to compete all year. So this tournament brought out some of the best in the state."

The Matcats also moved into their new home at The Playground in downtown South Lyon.

"George Daraban id his team understand that we are a growing club that is recognized as one of the best in the state," Richardson said. "Our new home allows us to have extended practice times, usually limited by the school system. This has allowed our kids to continue to work hard and get better."

Snyder leads fifth mission to China to promote investment, tourism

Michigan Gov. Rick Snyder will lead an eightday investment mission to China, focusing on promoting continued job-creating business growth and investment for Michigan, as well as the state as a tourism destination.

Snyder is meeting with government officials, industry executives and key media in China. The state delegation left Aug. 21 and returns Aug.

"We have built strong relationships in China since our first mission in 2011 and we will continue to make the case that there is no better place in North America for Chinese companies to expand than in Michigan," Snyder said. "Chinese travelers are now going all over the world and the United States and this is a great opportunity to tell people about Pure Michigan tourism. We will also be working to open more doors to new markets in China for businesses from across our state."

Snyder will visit Beijing, Guangzhou, Shenzhen, Hangzhou and Shanghai, where he will promote Michigan business opportunities, make a series of company visits and connect with senior government leaders. As part of the trip, he will also meet with several automotive organizations, including Chinese Association of Automotive Manufacturers and China Council for the Promotion of International Trade Auto Committee.

Snyder also plans hold business media roundtables in Beijing and Guanzhou and meet with tourism media at the Mutianyu section of the Great Wall and the Canton Tower in Guanzhou.

The investment mission will be led by the Michigan Economic Development Corp. Concurrent with the governor's investment mission, MEDC is leading seven Michigan companies to China to meet with prospective business partners, distributors and buyers to increase export opportunities from Michigan to China.

In addition to Snyder, the state delegation includes Elizabeth Clement, deputy chief of staff; Michael Finney, senior adviser for economic growth; Dave Murray, deputy press secretary; Jamie Clover-Adams, director, Michigan Department of Agriculture & Rural Development; Kevin Kerrigan, MEDC senior vice president auto sector; David Lorenz, MEDC vice president - Travel Michigan; Kathy Kleckner, MEDC director - business attraction; Brian Connors, MEDC international business development manager - China; and Lindsay Eister, MEDC senior protocol officer.

Snyder's daughter Kelsey, a University of Michigan sophomore who is studying the Mandarin language, will also accompany him on the mission. The governor and his family are paying all costs associated with her participation.

The trip marks the Snyder administration's fifth mission to China.

Other missions led by Snyder or Lt. Gov. Brian Calley have included Japan, South Korea, Canada, Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Brazil, Mexico, Israel, Chile and Columbia.

Customers want items returned from House of Renew store in Birmingham

By Jay Grossman Staff Writer

From chipped china to the bronzing of baby shoes, the House of Renew in downtown Birmingham carved out a successful business restoring valuables and preserving memories.

Now, the shuttered business is creating bad memories for some of its former customers.

The store had been operating since 1976 on the second floor of the Merrillwood Building at 251 Merrill Street. Birmingham Police Cmdr. Scott Grewe said based on the complaints he's fielded over the past several weeks, it appears the business closed in late July without a lot of notice.

We do have several people working with our detective in trying to resolve the situation," he said last week.

A Northville resident who didn't want his name used is one of five customers who have contacted police about getting their items returned.

"I left a figurine with them to repair in November of 2014. I have always waited at least six month for the repair, but when they did not call, I tried to contact them and their mailbox was full," he said.

Neither the company's website nor Facebook page provide any information about the store closing. Grewe said the first person who contacted the police department filed an actual report, while the other four made informal complaints.

"The one person who filed a police report was able to get their property back and the situation was resolved," Grewe said. "The owner of the store indicated to the detective that she was trying to secure a lease at a different location that fell through. She said most of the property is in storage and that it's just a matter of locating the individual pieces. But she is being cooperative.

According to the company's website, the business restores pieces from Hummel, Royal Doulton, Roseville, Boehm, Herend, Meissen, Wedgewood, Tiffany, Lalique, Daum, Baccarat, Steuben and Waterford.

Legal and financial decisions are important for new parents received a phone call from a client who told me that his son and daughter-in-law just gave birth to their first child. After I congratulated him on becoming a grandfather for the first time, he asked what legal and financial advice he could give his son

He said that his son did not have a lot of resources and that, in the not-so-distant future, his daughter-in-law plans to go back to work.

I told my client that whether his son was rich or poor really didn't make a difference. There are certain things that he should do to protect his newborn.

The first thing I recommended was that his son and daughter-in-law do a will. A will is essential for anyone with chil-

Most people think the reason you have a will is to make sure your property, upon your death, goes to the right person. Although that is the reason most people end up doing wills, the most important issue for parents with minor children is who will raise the children if the parents can't. The main benefit of a will in this case is to name a guardian for the child. In the unlikely event that both mom and dad pass away while the child is a minor, who will raise that child? For parents who don't have a will, that means the decision will be left to the courts and that can create all sorts of family disputes.

I recognize that for a lot of young couples, money is always an issue and that is why some people choose not to do a will. That should not be an excuse. You can do a will for free.

In Michigan, we have what is known as the Michigan Statutory Will, which is a free, fill-inthe-blank form that fulfills the needs of many people. You can download a copy of the Michigan Statutory Will by clicking on www.bloomassetmanagement.com/ bloom-university/formslegal-tax.aspx.

I also recommend reviewing life insurance needs. If something happens to either parent or both of them, what happens to the financial needs of the child? For the majority of people, I recommend term insurance, which is the most cost effective type of life insurance.

My last recommendation was to consider setting up a college fund through something like the Michigan Education Savings Plan. As soon as you have a child, you should start thinking of their future education.

Establishing a college fund allows parents and other family and friends to make a contribution for the child's education. Instead of family and friends buying toys for the child - which will last about 10 minutes - they can help the child throughout their lifetime.

Having a child is a wonderful event, but it brings adult responsibilities. If you are a parent, make sure you've taken care of the basics so that if something does go wrong, your child will be protected.

Northville home rich in history, elegance

> By Julie Brown Staff Writer

A Northville Township home at 801 Griswold is "iconic because of its aesthetics, large piece of property," according to Realtor/listing agent Dawn Mueller of Coldwell Banker Weir Manuel of Northville.

The home had been part of Chase Farms originally, Mueller said, and the Chase Farms subdivision was also part of the farm.

When I first listed it, to the present time, I receive numerous calls on it with stories about the property or one of the owners. Everyone admires it as they drive by," added Mueller of the Griswold home, owned by the widow of well-known auto dealer Don Massey, who advertised his Cadillacs extensively on local TV and radio.

Massey's widow is relocating, making the property available. Mueller noted its large size of acreage, almost 15 acres, unusual in the Eight Mile Novi-Northville area, and

Mile Novi-Northville area, and "how important it was to the community."

"I know that everybody who lives in the neighborhood has a story about it," said Mueller, in the real estate field for 11 years. There's an old doorbell circa 1920s, possibly with the original owner's name, although Mueller had difficulty verifying that.

"It's just one of those old nostalgia things they left in the property," she said. Muell-er talked to the owner who lived there before Don Massey, and noted, "He had lots of stories to tell."

Mueller said such a listing is unusual for a Realtor. "Oh, it's so much fun, absolutely," she noted. "This is a once in a career.'

Yes, deed terms must be clear indeed

Q: When interpreting a deed, must courts give effect to the clear and unequivocal terms of the deed?

A: Yes. In a recent dispute involving title to a strip of land between a subdivision and the ocean, the court examined the deed, the declaration, and the accompanying maps, and found nothing to indicate the disputed strip was part of the that governed the subdivision.

Q: I had a large amount of damage occur in the bathroom of my condominium unit that was traced back to a leak due to a failed toilet bowl gasket. Unfortunately, my association believes that, despite having a master insurance policy in place, the loss is not covered because it's been over five years since the gasket was installed. Does the association have an obligation to tender a claim on my behalf to its insurance carri-

A: Many master policies include language that occurrences that happen suddenly, as opposed to over a long period of time, do qualify for coverage. In addition, there may be a question as to whether you, as co-owner, are included as an insured party under the terms of the policy. If you are a named insured, you might have a right to tender the claim under the policy yourself. In that case, you may want to request a copy of the policy from the association for review purposes. Also,the association may not want to have a claim filed for situations such as this, as it may impact their claims' loss history and therefore affect its premium rates in the future. This is why many associations will only seek and obtain insurance policies that include the Association as the only named insured. As a result, co-owners will have no authority to make claims, potentially undermine the Board of Directors' discretion, and expose it to all manner of unsubstantiated claims.

Be prepared for the 3 toughest interview questions

BY SUSAN RICKER

t's no surprise that a job interview can be a nerve-wracking experience. After all, your life could change based on how you interact with somebody in 30 or 60 minutes' time. No pressure, right? If you prepare well and have confidence in your abilities, though, you'll increase your chances of success. And when your interviewer asks the following three tough questions, you'll have a strategy ready and be able to sing your career's praises.

1. Why are you leaving your current job, or why are you currently unemployed?

This can feel like a loaded question. There may be a complicated reason that led to your decision to leave your job and it's hard not to blame your employer in the explanation. However, framing it as though your last job was the end of one chapter and you're ready to begin a new one will signal to your interviewer that you're futurefocused and ambitious, not a risky hire with baggage.

For instance, if your current or recent place of employment didn't offer opportunities for advancement, a competitive salary or a schedule that plays to your strengths, bring up your career goals and explain that you're excited to find those opportunities at the interviewer's organization. Or, if you took time off for family or personal reasons, discuss how you're now ready to put the focus back on your career. Either way, end your response with why this is a better fitting role for you and where you are in your career now.

2. What is your greatest weakness?

The most notorious of all tough interview questions, this head-scratcher seems impossible to answer correctly. That's because the interviewer is most likely interested in how you answer the question. Job candidates who take the approach of turning a weakness into a strength — like caring "too much" about their work or being a perfectionist — aren't really giving the interviewer any information about themselves. After all, no one is perfect or can perform their job well 100 percent of the time.

The interviewer is much more interested in a candidate who is self-aware and understands how they work. Do you have a tough time with deadlines? Are you a perpetual procrastinator? Is public speaking your greatest fear? These are challenges you might have to overcome to do the job well, and explaining how you're working on those shortcomings is what the employer is hoping to hear.

3. Where do you see yourself in five years?

The first person to respond to this question with, "In your job" was clever. Now that it's been used in numerous books and movies, it's a little cliché. Instead, answer honestly and with originality about your next career steps and what you're going to do to get there. For example, do you want to create the next big cellphone app? What technology development classes are you taking to help with that process? And how do these plans tie into the job you're interviewing for?

However you answer, just be sure to keep your response career-focused. Steer clear of talking about time for your family or hobbies, or what you plan to do with the salary that comes with the job. Your interviewer isn't interested in hearing about your plans to finally buy your dream home. Remember that you're primarily having a business conversation.

The job interview is a time to get to know the organization you want to work for, and for them to learn more about you as a potential employee. Answering the tough questions honestly and with creativity is what will allow you to stand out from the competition and really shine.
