Builder bucks Northville's bigfoot housing trend

Maria Taylor Correspondent

The house at 450 Fairbrook, located about a block south of the Northville Historic District, sits in a neighborhood where 21st century homes rub elbows with bungalows, mass-produced houses from the postwar era and the occasional Queen Anne.

Before the beams and Tyvek went up, it was a little brown ranch with black shutters, just 740 square feet. Now, it's well on its way to becoming a three-story, four-bedoom, 4½bath family home.

The 1952 ranch isn't alone in its makeover. Buying small or outdated houses for land and then rebuilding has become something of a trend in Northville city, where vacant lots for new homes are hard to come by.

"It's a relatively new phenomenon," said city assessor Karolynn Pargo, who pinpoints the start around 2012 or 2013. Currently, Northville has among the highest property values in southeastern Michigan, with an acre of residential land selling for about a million dollars nearly back to the pre-recession levels of 2008.

'We've got one of the nicest, friendliest downtown areas, a great school system and a unique, walking downtown," Pargo said. "People are willing to pay for land and move here ... because they like the old-world

Most new residents want either brand-new contemporary houses, authentic Victorian-era homes, or newly built Victorianesque houses, Pargo said.

Houses from 1950 to 1970, like 450 Fairbrook, aren't in high demand, and they've become more valuable for their land than for the actual buildings.

In the past two-year cycle October 2013 to September 2015), 10 sites in Northville city have been sold for land. Pargo estimates that at least seven of the sales included houses to be torn down. Most were older homes in need of maintenance - restorable, but around 1,200 square feet or smaller, too small for today's tastes. The bottom line for a new house in Northville is 2,000 square feet, she said, and most are into the 3,000square-foot range.

The home at 450 Fairbrook was purchased this May for $193,500 cash by builders Bob Barck and Mike Stacey of RJB Affordable Homes. Because of the lot size, Barck decided to keep the front three walls and the floor, building up and adding onto the back. When it's finished in mid-September, it will have tripled in size to 2,236 square

Northville Public Schools Superintendent Mary Kay Gallagner on Monday issued a state ment to reassure parents, district staff and the community that a Durham School Services bus driver — arrested on felony charges in Wixom — has been removed from active employ-

"Although this alleged incident took place during the summer months away from the Northville community, and did not involve students, we recognize that a matter of this sort raises concern on the part of our students and our families,' Gallagher wrote.

In a statement from Durham School Services — the company that provides contracted bus services for Northville schools - officials said, "the driver involved in the shooting has been placed on administrative leave; background checks were performed and were clear."

School district and Durham officials confirmed that job applicants receive fingerprint background checks. "We meet state and federal mandates for school bus driver/ monitor screening and training and there are many steps taken before employment: these include drug and alcohol testing; an MVR check and a criminal background check," indicated Durham spokeswoman Molly

"Monitors and drivers are also fingerprinted, which is sent to the state police who forward the information to the district who then approve (or not) the driver or monitor for assignment," Hart continued.

Gallagher added that when contracted employees are charged with a felony, the dis-

Not all Olympians compete in Rio. As it turns out, local athletes - like Elizabeth Clancy of Northville — are going for gold right here in southeast Michigan.

On July 24, as Rio's Olympic Village officially opened its doors, Clancy was dancing her heart out at the Michigan Senior Olympics ballroom competition, waltzing and cha cha-ing her way to the top.

In one afternoon, she did nine dances: waltz, foxtrot, tango, Viennese waltz, cha cha, bolero, mambo, swing and rumba. And when it was all over, she came away with nine firstplace blue ribbons, sweeping the prizes in every dance for the 50-and-up games of summer trict takes immediate action to remove the employee during the investigation and beyond, when warranted.

"The safety of our students is our top priority and we would like to reassure parents and members in the community that we have a stringent hiring process for bus drivers and monitors," Hart said.

In May, a bus monitor who worked for Durham in the Plymouth-Canton school, was arrested by Northville Township police on sexual assault charges against a minor. The case is still making its way through the court system.

"He is no longer employed by Durham School Services," according to the Durham statement. "The background checks showed there was no arrest history, therefore, our background/fingerprint checks did not show any activity."

Meanwhile, Northville Public Schools is preparing for the opening of the academic year in September. "As always, we are committed to working together with our police, school and community partners to ensure the safety and well-being of our students and our staff members," Gallagher said. As we finalize preparations for school, we act with vigilance and dedication to provide a safe and welcoming school setting for your children.'

Infrastructure work kicks off this week in city of Northville

The city of Northville has begun a major infrastructure project on some residential roads and water main lines, making asphalt-to-asphalt replacements in four sections of the city. Some 1,790 feet of water main will be replaced with new 8-inch pipes. The work began Monday and will continue through late November. The Northville City Council awarded an approximately $1.2 million contract to Nagle Paving Aug. 2. Nagle subcontracted the excavator who is installing the water main.

The projects include: » Elmsmere Drive, from Glenhill Drive. to the west end cul de sac, near Beck Road. Work began Monday and is expected to be completed within three weeks, prior to Labor Day weekend.

» Rayson, North Center to Horton, and on Horton, Rayson to Lake. Work will begin Aug. 22 for five weeks with an expected completion of mid-to-late September.

» Walnut, East Street to North Center Street. Work will begin Aug. 29 for five weeks with an expected completion in early October.

» South Wing Street, West Cady to Seven Mile. "While no one likes to navigate a construction zone, the resulting improvement will make the temporary inconvenience worthwhile,"

JIM GALLOGLY, director of public works

Work will begin Sept. 19 for 6-8 weeks with an expected completion in early November.

City officials decided to wait until after the Heritage Festival in downtown Northville before beginning work on South Wing, which carries a lot of downtown-bound traffic from the south. This repair will have the biggest impact for residents and visitors as the post office is located on that street and many drivers use Wing Street as an alternative to Center Street.

"While no one likes to navigate a construction zone, the resulting improvement will make the temporary inconve-nience worthwhile," said Jim Gallogly, director of public works.

Funds used to make these improvements came from a millage approved in 1997 that is dedicated to streets, sidewalks and drainage. The water main repairs will be funded through the budget that covers water and sewage infrastructure.

A survey of streets by engineering firm Spaulding deDecker was used to determine the priority ranking for road repairs and new water mains.

'Sometimes it's not only the worst street that gets done first, but it could also be one that needs to be resurfaced now so it doesn't cost four times as much to reconstruct later," Gallogly said.

These road repairs are really pavement management," he added. "We balance the condition of the road today and what it might cost to repair tomorrow. We spread the budget between complete reconstruction and resurfac-

Most roads will also get new curbs, except on Elmsmere, where there are no defined curbs, to maintain the look of a country setting. Sidewalk repairs — patching and complete rebuild with new concrete — will be done along the roads being updated, when conditions warrant repair or replacement.

For the water main replacement, wider pipes deliver better water pressure for firefighting purposes and are double in size from previous pipes. All water fittings will be copper. The water main improvements also eliminate any lead fittings that may have been in place.

The new connection for the water mains will be tested prior to being connected to the city water system. During the connection process, water service will be temporarily interrupted and homeowners will be notified before it occurs by workers going doorto-door. If a homeowner is not home, the shut-off shouldn't impact them.

Letters have been mailed to residents whose roads are being repaired, with information regarding parking, access and trash collection. Questions regarding roadwork and water main work can be directed to Andrew Wozniak at 248-752-0345. Watch the city website and City News, a weekly e-newsletter, for updates.

Northville Rotary members provide homeless lifelines with Blessing Bags

Joanne Maliszewski

Curiously, bags of stuff — toothpaste, juice, combs and toilet paper showed up on Marita Smith's desk at work and on her doorstep at home.

The bags of stuff are called Blessing Bags and they have played a key role in the Northville Rotary's Random Acts of Kindness project. But the idea for the 100 bags, filled with personal hygiene and other items for homeless individuals and families, has a winding kind of history for the

"We never thought we would get so many," said Smith, a Rotary member, who was asked to handle the Random Acts of Kindness project. "We thought maybe we could get 25 bags.'

The effort began with a story. Smith's good friend, Sarah Ackerman of Redford, has a sister, Michelle Hinzman, who works for the DHS Taylor office. She told of a homeless man living in a tent who was in need of the basics in life. A DHS employee looked through the office drawers and found some toilet paper and other small items to give the man.

The man was so happy," Smith said, recounting the story.

Moved by the homeless man's need for items most people take for granted, Ackerman, went to her Facebook page, shared the information and asked for donations. "Within days, stuff started coming in, Smith said. "It went that viral."

So the remaining question was: what if the Northville Rotary followed suit? It was a big move for Smith — who is not necessarily found on social media - and created a Facebook page announcing the Rotary's project.

Not long after, Smith received personal hygiene items and other stuff at work and at home. Other Rotarians also brought items in for the Blessing Bags. A week ago, the Rotarians drove the 100 Blessing Bags to the DHS in Taylor. "They were just flabbergasted at the DHS." The Rotarians also collected items for women, as well as washcloths and soap, laundry detergent and First-Aid kits, for the Blessing Bags. "It taught me how amazing social media can be," Smith said.

Deemed a total, allout success, the Northville Rotarians are already planning to repeat the project in the spring.

also loves the feeling of accomplishment that comes through hard

"I'm not kidding you — it's a lot of hard work," she said. Usually, that means two lessons a week, two hours each. If she's getting ready for a competition, practice time goes up to six hours a week, or even eight.

Clancy rehearses at Dance Elite Ballroom Studio in West Bloomfield, where Davis rents space for his students to practice. "There are a lot of good dancers there," she said. "It kind of makes you work harder, dancing with others who are better than you.'

One of Clancy's favorite dances is the bolero, a sweeping, passionate Latin dance that's similar to the rumba. And she loves the waltz, too. "It just feels like you're floating." For her, the hardest dance step is the Cuban motion, or what nondancers might call the "hip action" in Latin dancing. It's harder than it looks. "It takes years to get it right," said Clancy. Even after a decade of dance, she's still working on it herself. But she's not discouraged. Instead, she takes it as a personal challenge. "A lot of people just want to do 'pretty' dancing," she said. "I like tech-nique." It's not rare for her to work on the Cuban motion for a half-hour straight, trying to get the rhythm so engrained in muscle memory that it comes without a second thought when it's time to take the stage.

Not all the dances take quite that much practice -like swing, one of the easier ones for Clancy. That's no surprise; she grew up in an era when swing was all the rage. "I had older sisters, and that's the kind of dancing they did," she said. Of course, little sister emulated them, and picked up the steps from a young age.

"It makes you happy," she said. "When they do competitions, they start out with swing because it puts you in the right frame of mind.'

Competition wasn't one of Clancy's goals when she first got into ballroom. That came later, after one of her instructors convinced her that she really needed to compete if she wanted to keep improving as a dancer. Since then, she's worked her way up from novice to pre-championship level, the second-highest of ballroom's three competitive categories. In addition to the Senior Olympics, Clancy has also competed at the Michigan Dance Challenge, usually held at The Henry Hotel in Dearborn. It's a huge competition, and people come from all over the world to participate. On Saturday evening, after the amateurs have finished their routines, she likes to stay and watch the pros. The best, she said, tend to be comes from a martial arts background, and got into dancing later on. The principles are the same. Clancy said: Balance and rhythm apply equally to sports and dance alike. That, and the stamina it takes to make tough steps appear easy and elegant.

Clancy said she's seen a lot of people get involved in ballroom because of TV shows like "Dancing With the Stars." (The easiest way to get started, she said, is through group classes.) Clancy is a "Dancing With the Stars" fan. Sometimes, she takes notes while the judges are critiquing the contestants, and tries to remember their tips for her next

Even with nine blue ribbons under her belt, Clancy admits she still needs to practice more than she does. Fortunately, she's got a built-in studio at her downtown Northville bridal shop, Elizabeth's Bridal Manor. It already has a barre and a wood floor, and all she has to do is move the merchandise racks to create the perfect practice space.

One of her employees, Diane Pittaway, has a dance background, too, and attended Clancy's competition in July. The next time they were at the shop, she was able to give her some pointers. And, Clancy said, "she's going to force me to prac-

In Clancy's bridal shop, customers often comment on the dance poster she has on the wall. Weddings and dancing go hand in hand, so Clancy is always happy to throw a little business her coach's way when one of her customers wants to choreograph a special dance. Usually,  $i\bar{t}$ 's for the bride and groom. Other times, it's for the mom and dad, or a special father-daughter duet.

Clancy's customers love the fact that she dances. It inspires them, she says, and it encourages them, "because I'm no spring chicken. When they see that I can do it, surely they can do it themselves.

Downtown Northville: Give DDA your ideas, thoughts

Joanne Maliszewski Staff Writer

For the most part, everyone has something to say. And the North-ville Downtown Development Authority wants to hear residents' and business owners' thoughts in preparation for a new strategic plan that's in the works.

So far, the DDA — as of last week — had received a healthy number of responses to an online survey, which is an integral part of the organization's planning process for the future of downtown Northville, said Lori Ward, DDA executive director.

Aug. 19, we stopped the survey to get a snapshot of the responses. The next day it was reopened and we will continue to collect information from the community," Ward said.

The survey is available online, and is straightforward. Among the questions are: purpose of your last visit to downtown Northville; what do you like and dislike about downtown; did you have trouble parking; how often you go downtown; how long was your last visit; as well as what factors would prompt you to visit downtown more frequently.

The survey is available at surveymonkey.com/r/S8Q5M26

"We have received a lot of good results,"

Ward said.
But DDA members and members of the and members of the steering committee involved with drafting a new strategic plan, want more results.

The DDA and a steering committee is now working on a new plan for the downtown's future. In March, the city council approved hiring Beckett and Raeder/ LandUSA for $58,900 to help complete the effort. Beckett and Raeder was hired in 2005 to complete the previous plan, which was finished 10 years

The new plan is expected to address redevelopment and consider the changing the economic landscape and demographics, such as increased diversity.

The last plan contained 47 action items. The DDA has completed about 80 percent of those items. One of the efforts, for example, was changing Mary Alexander to a two-way street, Ward said.

In addition to the consultants' work, the process includes a number of subcommittees, such as design, parking and marketing mix, including business retention and special events.

The study will also

The study will also include an assessment of available land in and near downtown North-ville. That includes the Foundry Flask acreage on Cady Street, the Northville Public Schools-owned buildings on Main Street and Northville Downs.

"Our study area is larger than the DDA district," Ward said. "We have included area ripe for redevelopment."

feet, not counting a potential 737-square-foot bonus room on the third floor and an unfinished basement. It's listed on Zillow for $549,900.

"We made really the best use of the space that we have. Restrictions and setbacks are pretty tight in the city," said Deb Ronayne, associate broker at Berkshire Hathaway HomeServic-

The new 450 is definitely bigger than its immediate neighbors, a one-story Cape Cod-style house and a Foursquare with a pillared front porch. But Ronayne wouldn't call it a bigfoot house. "Lots are filled to capacity, that's for sure," she said. "But when I think bigfoot, I think of a 4,000-square-footer jammed in Birmingham."

While bigfoot houses tend to stand out, Barck tried to make his project fit in with its surroundings. "We did the roof lines trying to keep with some of the architecture in the neighborhood," he said.

Ken Kilpatrick is a homeowner in the Northville Historic District and a letter carrier for USPS in Livonia. He's been watching the renovation's progress, and he admires the fact that Barck used the existing home as the base. "It's very rare that they come in and use the existing structure," he said. "Usually, they come in and raze the structure, with no regard for the architecture."

He also appreciates that it doesn't take up a huge chunk of the lot. "I realize the pressure: developers wanting to make money, customers wanting to buy big houses," he said. "It must be hard to be on city council, see plans for a huge structure, and not think, "Wow, that would be great for revenue.""

To him, that approach seems narrowminded. "We shouldn't be so fixated on revenue that we lose sight of how structures should be scaled because we will wind up with big houses taking up the majority of the lot. Families won't even have a yard to play in. It doesn't look real; it looks like overkill."

At the same time, Kilpatrick realizes that people don't come to Northville looking for '50s architecture. "There has to be a happy medium, and 450 Fairbrook kind of does that for me," he said. "It changes the past, but it doesn't erase

Renovations like 450

Fairbrook seem more the exception than the rule — especially in Cabbagetown, where a rash of tear-downs has provoked complaints from neighbors who resent the big houses going up next door.

Eileen Klinkhamer lives in Cabbagetown, in an old house she believes dates from the 1800s.

"Thirty-five years ago, I made a decision to live here because I didn't want to live in a subdivision: I wanted an old neighborhood," she said. Then, around 2006 or 2007, a 5,000-square-foot home went in next door, on a lot that once had big, old trees and a pond.

"They stripped every tree off that lot," she said. "These people are changing it to a treeless subdivision, no architectural value at all."

She's also concerned about losing the older homes in the area. Six of the 10 site sales in the past two years took place in Cabbagetown, in the northeastern part of Northville's Wayne County section.

Cabbagetown is not in the historic district, so the older houses don't fall under its special rules. Still, it's an old neighborhood, platted in the 1880s.

Jim Allen is chair of the Northville Historic District Commission, mayor pro tem, and president of the land-planning company Allen Design. He lives in a 1920s-era house on Carpenter in Cabbagetown. Of the 16 or so homes on his block, 12 are either modified or brand new. Two blocks away on Rouge Street, he said, only two original houses are left. All the rest are new.

Klinkhamer thinks the new houses will change the area's entire character. "They're too tall, taller than anything else in the neighborhood," she said. "They're too big for the lots, no backyards anymore. They are destroying our neighborhoods. It's going to be totally different than what was here before."

Klinkhamer feels that the city is being lax in terms of oversight. "There are rules on the books, but they're not enforced," she said. "One says you're not supposed to cover more than 30 percent of property with a building ... I don't need a measuring tape to tell you that they've built way over that."

City manager Patrick Sullivan said the ordinance can be "very technical," and not everything on a building counts toward lot coverage. Enclosed porches count. Open porches do not — partly to encourage them, he said, because they add to the city's historic look. In some cases, the Board of Zoning Appeals will grant a variance.

This spring, the Planning Commission passed a series of ordinance amendments in response to concerns that builders were mounding up dirt onsite, so that the starting point for a new house was already high off the ground. Sullivan said he's also reviewed some of the other complaints brought to the Planning Commission. "In every case I've looked into, when you really sit down with the building inspector, you find that they do comply with the code.'

For Eileen Gikas, changes to Northville's older and historic neighborhoods prompted her to run for mayor in 2015. "No one's against improvement and making property values go up," Gikas said. "But I wanted to see it done in a way that didn't cause tears and lawsuits among my neighbors."

After a summer of knocking on doors, Gikas concluded that many longtime residents feel like they're being pushed out or pressured to sell as market values increase. Others, like Klinkhamer, are concerned about losing housing that's affordable to the average person. "When older people move out and their houses get torn down, there will be nowhere that anyone will buy here unless they can afford a $600,000 home," she said.

Gikas, who works in media sales, has lived in the historic district for more than 20 years. During her campaign, one hot-topic issue was demolishing a 1952 ranch in the historic district, at Cady and First Streets, to make way for a custom home — a request that the Northville Historic District Commission ultimately granted.

Carri Lee is an archivist at the Northville Historical Society and has spent hours researching older buildings in the city. "With midcentury modern architecture, it's a really tough fight," she said. "People have this idea of what Northville architecture should be, and that doesn't fit it."

Still, she says that buildings from the midcentury and later do tell a part of the city's history, even if they're not Victorian, and taking them all down would be a bit shortsighted. "The thing is, if we don't let those stand for a while, they'll never get to the point where they're interesting."

India Day celebrated this Saturday in Novi

AQL India Day, the largest celebration of Asian Indian culture and traditions in the Midwest, will return to Novi 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday, Aug. 20 at the Suburban Collection Showplace, at 46100 Grand River Ave. in Novi.

The annual event is free and presented by the India League of America Michigan, in collaboration with Michigan Asian Indian community organizations. It features live entertainment, authentic food and diverse exhibitors.

"Each year, more than 25,000 attendees come together to enjoy the tastes, sounds and sights of India," said Ramesh Gudapuri, AQL India Day chairman. "This growing, one-of-a-kind event gives us the opportunity to salute India's Independence Day, which is held on August 15, while sharing our culture and traditions with not only family and friends, but also the public in metro Detroit."

AQL India Day delivers a festival-like atmosphere that is fun for all ages featuring a variety of special performances throughout the day. From patriotic songs and folk music to classical and Bollywood-inspired dancers, the line-up will include 60 live performances with more than 350 entertainers from local groups as well as regional dance academies. During the event, the winner of Miss ILA Michigan 2016 will be announced.

The opening ceremony for AQL India Day will begin with a parade at 10:30 a.m. with participants performing music and dancing while dressed in traditional costumes representing each Indian state. The route will end at the main stage where all dignitaries and special invited guests will be welcomed with a marigold garland and red tilak, a customary religious mark worn on the forehead. The ceremony will conclude with the lighting of the lamp, a Hindu custom to give thanks to the Lord and acknowledge a new event.

Numerous local restaurants, including India

Flavors, Delhi Hut, Chutneys and Bawarchi, will be on-site to provide a selection of authentic Indian food. More than 100 exhibitors, such as Ram Creations, Satrangi Jewelry and Shiva Collections, will sell authentic Indian apparel, costumes, arts and crafts, home furnishings and jewelry. Ford Motors, General Motors and FCA Group also will have the latest automobiles models on display.

Event sponsors include the title sponsor Plymouth, Mich.-based AQL, or Automotive Quality & Logistics that serves automotive and manufacturing companies throughout the North American region. Additional sponsors include: Ford Motor Company, General Motors, FCA Group, McDonald's, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, Beaumont Health System, DTE Energy and Consumers Energy.

For more information about AQL India Day, visit www.ilamichigan.org or email indiaday@ilamichigan.org.

Novi couple organizes Sept. 10 'Fox in the D' fundraiser

On Saturday, Sept. 10 at the Westin Book Cadillac in Detroit, "Team Fox in the D,' led by Team Fox members Donna and Mike Rajkovic of Novi, will host a gala to benefit The Michael J. Fox Foundation in honor of family, close friends and the Parkinson's community

The evening aims to raise $50,000 or more to enable MJFF to continue aggressively funding research to find better treatments and a cure for Parkinson's disease.

The event they are planning will be a tremendous party with a serious purpose – making Parkinson's a disease of the past.

They will welcome guest speakers to talk about the immense progress that has been made over the last couple of years in Parkinson's research, as well as the importance of evercise

Following the panelists, the event will feature dinner, music and dancing to some of Detroit's best bands.

If you are interested in attending or would like make a donation, please visit us on our Facebook Page at Team Fox Detroit or our Team Fox fundraising page at www2.michaeljfox.org/goto/teamfoxinthed.

"We chose to host a Gala as part of Team Fox because we wanted not only to help raise money for a cure, but to bring awareness of the latest research, as well as how individuals can get involved. It's our way to do something personally to further the Foundation's mission. They are funding cutting-edge research to bring meaningful advances in treatments and eventually a cure to people affected by this disease," said Donna.

More than 5 million people worldwide are living with Parkinson's disease, a chronic, degenerative neurological disorder whose symptoms typically progress from mild tremors to complete physical incapacitation. There is no known cure for Parkinson's disease.

Plants, other substances can pose real danger to pets

Aileen Wingblad

It took just one quick whiff for Jason Schlaff to know his golden retriever, Booker, was in serious

The usually healthy 78-pound canine had vomited, which put out a particular odor that Schlaff recognized as a sign that he had ingested hops. That can lead to a deadly situation, interfering with a dog's ability to cool itself and resulting in hyperthermia.

Less than a half hour later, Schlaff had Booker at an emergency veterinary clinic. The prognosis wasn't good.

They gave us a 50-50 chance that he'd survive. By then, his temperature was 104 degrees – 100 degrees is normal for a dog - and then it was at 106.1 degrees. At 108 degrees it's fatal. I was beside myself," he said, recalling the devastation of hearing that his 3year-old pet could die after eating hops – a component used to brew beer and contained in its byproduct, which some use as fertilizer.

As one of the owners of the Farmington Brewing Company, Schlaff has a continuous supply of that byproduct. And, he said, his company's practice is to recycle those organic leftovers and keep them out of the waste stream. He had recently given some to his parents for their garden, and Booker had apparently gotten into it while they were dogsitting. Schlaff had come to pick up Booker when the medical crisis emerged.

Fortunately, Booker was successfully treated and released from the clinic the next day. And while his story might seem like a fluke, it's not. According to Plaza Veterinary Hospital's Christian Ast, DVM, pets becoming ill or dying from eating plants, certain foods that aren't dangerous to humans, medication and other substances is all-too-common.

"Most days, someone is asking about the safety of something their pet found in their yard or a medication," said Ast. For example, acetami-nophen – commonly known as Tylenol - can be toxic to pets, especially cats. So can aspirin, Alleve, Advil and similar products. The artificial sweetener, Xylitol, contained in sugar-free gum and some sugar-free children's medication, also can pose major health issues to animals, as can garbage that a pet decides to root through and snack on.

Even certain house plants can be potentially deadly, which Melanee Riegel found out the hard way a few weeks ago. Her kitten, Sharknado, got seriously ill after biting the leaf of a lily. Riegel had bought a couple of the plants that morning at the Farmington farmers market. She knew Sharknado – less than a year old at the time – liked to bite at plants, so she decided to keep an eye on the situation to see if the lilies would survive at their new home in Farmington Hills.

But it was Sharknado that ended up with the close call.

Spreading awareness

After seeing the kitten bite through a lily leaf, Riegel searched the Internet and read that lilies can be toxic - and can destroy their kidney function. An emergency vet told her to keep a close watch on Sharknado, and the next morning Riegel noticed a sign of trouble - drooling.

Next stop was the emergency clinic, where Sharknado spent the next 48 hours. Some $1,400 in treatment later, and some worrisome moments, Sharknado was back to her feisty self.

"It's not that I'm complaining about the bill, but I just feel terrible because I (brought the lilies into our home)," Riegel said.

She also said she was "super startled" to learn that simply inhaling toxins from the plant can make a cat seriously ill, and has been sharing that information to friends and family. "Hopefully, spreading awareness will save other kitties pain, or worse," she said.

Ast agrees, and refers pet owners to the ASPCA poison control online resource, at www.aspca.org, where information on common plants, household chemicals and medication can be found. There's also the option of calling a poison control expert to discuss a particular case for $65. Detailed evaluation of a pet's situation and consultation with one's veterinarian for the best treatment options are part of the service, too.

Ast also suggests doing a walk-through of your house, looking for things that could pose a potential problem. "It's like baby-proofing your home, but instead it's for pets," he said.

And should your pet run into trouble - or if it's even just suspected don't hesitate to seek professional help, he added.

"It's always better to call early. Some people might be sheepish or embarrassed about that, or think it's silly," Ast said. "But it's better to call and have it be no big deal. And if it's not, you can have it checked out right away either with your regular veterinarian or an emergency clin-

Novi police: Almost quarter pound of pot found in car

Susan Bromley
Staff Writer

A man caught speeding was also caught with marijuana, although he initially tried to deny the obvious, police said.

A Novi officer on patrol clocked the suspect's vehicle last week traveling 60 mph in a 45 mph zone on Napier Road and stopped the vehicle at Ferhoodle and Aichebaun.

According to a report, the vehicle took longer than usual to stop, and the officer could see the driver making furtive movements to the passenger seat area. The driver said he knew he was speeding. However, when the officer questioned him about marijuana in his vehicle after smelling it, the subject denied there being any.

Published: August 18 & 24, 2016

He eventually admitted he had some in his vehicle, police said, and gave up a clear plastic bag with marijuana that was later weighed at 22.5 grams. He said he doesn't have a medical marijuana card, but was in the process.

A K-9 unit was called to the scene, and the dog alerted to several spots in the vehicle, leading officers to discover a marijuana joint on the driver's side floorboard, another clear plastic bag with 4.6 grams of marijuana in the center console, a white plastic tube in the center console with 32 grams of marijuana, a black plastic container in the glovebox with 29 grams of marijuana, and a "one hitter" inside a tennis shoe on the front passenger seat.

All of it was confiscated. He was arrested on a possession of marijuana charge.

Not a good idea

A Novi officer on patrol at 1:56 a.m., Aug. 11, stopped a vehicle at W. Pontiac Trail and Wellington Drive for a defective brake light.

The officer asked the driver to provide his driver's license, registration and proof of insurance, at which point he stated that he never applied for a license. The passenger provided a Mexican passport.

During a search of the vehicle, the officer stated in a report he saw a case of XX Dos Equis beer and two open beer bottles, both approximately half full. The officer also smelled marijuana coming from the trunk and a K-9 unit was requested, however, no illegal drugs were found.

The driver said he and his friend were at the bar and left some time around 1 a.m. after having two beers apiece.
They drove to Walmart and purchased the case of beer, returned to the car, opened two beers and had a "sip."

The officer told the he didn't think it was a good idea to drink and drive and asked his passenger to place the open beer bottle back in the box while he drove home. He said they did not consume the alcoholic beverage while driving.

The driver was cited for no operating license and open intoxicants in a vehicle.

Shopping cart anger

A woman who appeared angry allegedly pushed a shopping cart into a vehicle while that car's owner watched it happen.

The owner of a Chevy Equinox called police at 4:07 p.m., Aug. 10 and said she was sitting on the curb in Novi Square on W. Pontiac Trail waiting for her laundry to dry when she saw the suspect who appeared to be angry and was mumbling to herself.

The woman was a stranger to her, but she watched as the suspect grabbed a shopping cart, took four steps, and then pushed it into the parking lot. The cart then crashed into the front bumper of her Equinox, causing minor damage. She attempted to talk to the woman, who got in her vehicle and left the scene, but not before the victim got a photo of her license plate.

The officer attempted to make contact with the suspect but was unsuccessful. He advised the victim to take her vehicle to a body shop for an estimate.

Stranger danger?

A mother reported to Novi police a suspicious van driving by at 11:09 p.m., Aug. 5, on Sunnybrook Lane.

The woman said her daughter was playing outside of their home with friends and came inside to tell her that a gray minivan, driven by an elderly white male, was driving by slowly and "watching" her. Her daughter said the vehicle made a U-turn after passing the residence and left the area, and the man did not speak to her or her friends.

An area check was requested.

Egged

A father told Novi Police that his teenage son heard loud banging noises shortly before 11 p.m., Aug. 6 on the exterior of their home on Ingram Road and when he arrived home a short time later, saw the front of his house had been hit with approximately six to eight eggs.

There did not appear to be any permanent damage. Extra patrol was requested.

Hit and run

A driver who apparently backed into a mailbox left the scene when the homeowner went into her house to retrieve her phone.

Police responded at 8:44 p.m., Aug. 7, to the home on Duana Street, where the woman said two suspects parked in front of her residence and went into the park. Upon returning the male driver backed his vehicle into her mailbox, causing it to fall off its stand.

She yelled at the suspect, who stopped and asked if she had screws, and he would fix the mailbox. She said he could not fix it and she wanted his insurance information.

When she went inside to grab her phone, she returned to find the suspect driving off. She was unable to get a license plate.

OFFICE OF THE WAYNE COUNTY DRAIN COMMISSIONER

NOTICE OF DAY OF REVIEW OF DRAINAGE DISTRICT BOUNDARIES AND REVIEW OF APPORTIONMENTS

Notice Is Hereby Given that on August 31, 2016, the Wayne County Drain Commissioner will hold a Day of Review of Drainage District Boundaries and a Day of Review of Apportionments from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. at the Wayne County Department of Public Services - Road Division, Central Maintenance Yard, 29900 Goddard Road Extension, Romulus, Michigan 48242.

The Day of Review is for the purpose of reviewing and revising the boundaries of the Drainage Districts below. Maps depicting the proposed revisions to the boundaries of each Drainage District can be reviewed at: www.waynecounty.com/doe.

The Day of Review of Drainage District Boundaries is an opportunity to review the Drainage District boundaries with the Drain Commissioner or a member of his staff. The Drain Commissioner, engineers and other staff members will be available to assist individuals throughout the day, and make revisions where necessary. There is no need to schedule an appointment for a specific time on the Day of Review.

The Day of Review of Apportionments is an opportunity to review the apportionment with the Drain Commissioner or a member of his staff. The Drain Commissioner and other staff members will be available to assist individuals throughout the day, and make revisions where necessary. There is no need to schedule an appointment for a specific time on the Day of Review. The computation of costs for the Drains will also be available at the Day of Review.

Drain assessments will be collected in the same manner as property taxes. If the assessment period is greater than one year, you may pay the assessments in full with any interest to date at any time and thereby avoid further interest charges.

Persons with disabilities needing accommodations for effective participation in the Day of Review should contact the Wayne County Drain Commissioner's Office at (313) 749-8340 or through the Michigan Relay Center at 7-1-1 (TDD) at least 24 hours in advance of the Day of Review to request mobility, visual, hearing or other assistance.

You may appeal the Drain Commissioner's decision to revise the district boundary to the Wayne County Circuit Court within ten (10) days. You may appeal the Drain Commissioner's determination of apportionments to the Wayne County Probate Court within ten (10) days.

A general description of the lands by section number proposed to be added or deleted from the Drainage Districts as recommended by a licensed professional engineer or surveyor for each of the Drains is as follows:

Motor City Youth Theatre asks for help funding new roof

Sharon DargayStaff Writer

Motor City Youth Theater (MCYT) will lose it's insurance unless it replaces the roof on its Grantland Street playhouse

Nancy Florkowski,
MCYT founder and director, estimates the roof
will cost $10,000-$12,000, a hefty price for the Livonia-based troupe that has called 27555 Grantland its home for 11 years. She tried selling the two-floor building earlier this year, hoping she'd find a onestory venue locally that could accommodate wheelchairs, but had no takers.

Now she's simultaneously leading a Go Fund Me campaign online for the roof while holding rehearsals for "Bye Bye Birdie," at the playhouse.

The cast of 14 youth actors will perform 7-10

SUBMITT

Reese McClelland of Madison Heights gabs on the phone during a scene from Motor City Youth Theatre's production of "Bye Bye Birdie."

p.m. Friday, Aug. 19 and 2 p.m. Saturday-Sunday, Aug. 19-20 at the Grantland Street theater. Tickets are $5-$10, available at eventbrite.com/e/ bye-bye-birdietickets-27081615842.

The Go Fund Me campaign has raised more than $5,000 in two weeks. Nearly 100 supporters have aided the cause, wishing the theater "good luck" and expressing praise and gratitude for Florkowski's work with young actors.

"Both my children have spent many hours training, building, learning and expressing their creativity under Nancy," Tiffany Troost wrote in an email to the Observer. "My daughter went on to attend Churchill High School to be part of the Creative and Performing Arts program (CAPA). She is now a student at Western Michigan University pursuing a degree in Fine Arts. My son is a senior in the fall at Churchill High School and also in the CAPA program."

Troost said Florkowski and her staff had "contributed to my children as well as many children throughout the years."

Kids and adults

Although MCYT also stages at least one show annually with adult actors, "kids come first." Youngsters perform Shakespeare in July and other shows throughout the year. This fall adults and youth actors will come together for the first time to perform one-act plays.

"I've had kids in Shakespeare who were severely dyslexic, autistic. I take everyone," Florkowski said. She is proud of the teaching methods she has used for 26 years.

"I treat kids as human beings. Kids are treated like equals. They help me block and do the dances. It's them being leaders."

MCYT has a chair lift for audience members who can't climb stairs to the second-floor theater, but it doesn't work well for young wheelchair users.

"One level would be wonderful. All on one level. I've had parents say my (wheelchairbound) child wants to do theater but you can't have them here," she said.

"People stand outside and freeze in the winter because we have no lobby."

Florkowski dropped plans for expanding the Grantland playhouse after discovering she'd have to enlarge and improve the parking lot.

The project price tag was approximately $100,000.

approximately $100,000.

She has mixed feelings about the building, but says she loves it and calls it "home."

"Even if we sell the building, we have to put a new roof on it. The roof is old and it's going to have to be replaced before winter. And it's steep, so it's costly. You can tell by looking at it that it's not good.

"Our insurance company said get a new roof or we won't work with you. We pay almost $3,000 a year in insurance and I was thinking that was a lot."

She and her husband, Fred, who assists with the theater, are looking into other insurance carriers.

Join Kids Without Cancer Sept. 10 for Motor City Quack Attack

You're invited to join Kids Without Cancer and partners at Oakland County Parks for the second annual Motor City Quack Attack. This is a family-friendly event which involves 5,000 rubber ducks racing for a cure to childhood cancer.

The Motor City Quack Attack will be held at The Red Oaks Water park in Madison Heights on Saturday, Sept. 10. Gates open at 11 a.m. with the duck launch at 2 p.m. Organizers will have music, a photo booth and a raffle.

Proceeds from the duck race benefit Kids Without Cancer, a non-profit organization founded in 1981 whose vision is a world in which no child has to face a diagnosis and battle cancer. This event will fund pediatric cancer research at Children's Hospital of Michigan, Wayne State University, and Karmanos Cancer Institute.

Supporters can "adopt" a rubber duck ($5/duck) and test their luck in the waterpark's river ride. The first three ducks to pass the finish line win. First place prize is $1,000 cash; second place $500 cash, and third place $250 cash. Ducks can be adopted online: www.motorcity quackattack.com/

Sue Sargent of Livonia serves on the Board of Directors for Kids Without Cancer. She lost her daughter Chrissy to the disease at age 12.

Wrote Sargent in an email, "I became involved with this organization in memory of my daughter Chrissy who passed away in 1993. She was only 12 years old and diagnosed with ovarian cancer. During her 3 month illness, I was on an emotional roller coaster, I could only focus on saving my daughter's life. Sadly, Chrissy was not able to beat the mon-

Adds Sargent, "Later, I realized there are many children who have cancer. Too many children. I don't have much money to give, so I decided to volunteer. I didn't think I had skills, but over time I found that I do, and I use them to be a voice for children fighting this awful disease that is robbing them of their childhood or their lives."

Can't Afford the Nursing Home?

6 Important Points to Know About Nursing Home Medicaid

Though there are many complexities to Nursing Home Medicaid planning, it's important to understand Medicaid is there to help families like yours. Medicaid planning is the best way to ensure you receive the benefits to assure you protect as much of your hard-earned assets as the law allows, and to receive the care you need

I. It's NEVER too late

Medicaid planning can begin anytime, even if your loved one is already living in a skilled care facility. But the sooner you plan, the more options you will have to protect what's important to you.

2.You can keep YOUR home

If you're married, and you or your spouse needs to go into a nursing home, your home is exempt from Medicaid's calculation of what your contribution to the cost of care should be (unless your home is in a trust). If you are unmarried or widowed, it isn't that simple, because the costs associated with the home can become complex. Either way, without proper planning, your home will likely be lost to Medicaid after your death. Planning is key to preserving your home whether married, single or widowed.

3. Don't GIVE AWAY the store

Since major changes to laws in 2006, "gifting" away your assets creates unforeseen circumstances and can make you ineligible for benefits for 5 years or more! Far from protecting yourself, you will be undermining your own security.

4.You DON'T Have "TOO MUCH MONEY"

There are strategies an experienced attorney can help with, even saving money.

5. Carefully CHOOSE when you apply

Applying too early can mean a longer wait for Medicaid qualification than necessary, while applying too late can mean having to pay for months of care you may not have had to pay.

6. Get the RIGHT help

Medicaid planning is a complex matter. You need expert assistance to keep your assets safe. Our office has proven success and expertise in Medicaid law.

RULE OF THUMB:

Do not apply for Nursing Home Medicaid without a plan to ensure you qualify.

Michigan woman lobbied to include synchronized swimming in Olympics

Jay Grossman Staff Writer

One of the pioneers in Olympic synchronized swimming grew up on a farm in western Michi-

"But we didn't farm," Frances Jones, 91, said of her childhood in Hastings. "My dad worked for the railroad as a telegrapher — he taught me enough of the Morse code so I could send an SOS if I needed to. My mom was a florist with her own greenhouse."

Jones started out as a swim instructor at a YWCA branch in Lansing and eventually served as president of the U.S. Synchronized Swimming Association. She led a team of swimmers called the Lansing Sea Sprites on a pair of world tours that included stops at the 1960 and 1964 Summer Olympics. She even coauthored a book on synchronized swimming.

Jones always thought the sport should have been called "aqua gymnastics" to give it a broader appeal.

'Back then, it was considered an art form ... something you saw in the movies with Esther Williams," she said of synchronized swimming. "The Olympics wanted nothing to do with an art form, so we had to kill that Hollywood art form and create a sport."

The early years

Jones was born in 1926 and raised during the Great Depression. She and her two older sisters grew up with a strong Christian faith in a hardworking family. They were taught at an early age to be self-reliant and inquisitive.

"My sisters did the cooking and I was my mom's hired hand," Jones said. "I helped her in the greenhouse and learned how to make Christmas wreaths out of pine cones and silk flowers.

Each of the sisters also learned how to sing and play a musical instrument. For a half-hour or so each evening after dinner, the girls would gather around a small piano in the living room and sing church songs and love songs.

Jones learned to swim in Thornapple Lake, just outside Grand Rapids. She learned how to dance at a young age and was a natural leader.

During her four years at  $\overline{W}.K.$  Kellogg High School in Nashville, Mich., she was a cheerleader, drum majorette, choir singer and member of the drama club. She played the French horn in the high school orchestra and was the decoration chairperson for the senior prom. At Eastern Michigan University, she majored in physical science and developed a deep understanding of human anatomy, its muscles and movements. She also joined the dance club, learning everything from the waltz to the boogiewoogie. Those lessons would later help Jones when it came to developing routines for her swimmers.

Married life

It was at EMU that she was introduced to Stan Jones, a Methodist minister's son who had just returned from the battlegrounds of World War II and was now enrolled at Albion College. They met at a friend's wedding and Jones knew things were getting serious when Stan invited her to the Sigma Chi Sweetheart Ball.

"We enjoyed each other's company very much," she said. They married in 1949, beginning a lifelong partnership.

By now, Jones had a job as the health education director for the YW-CA. She taught several dance classes and all levels of swimming.

"I had a class of girls I taught swimming for four years and I didn't know what else I could teach them," she said. "I read in the paper that the iunior national synchronized swimming duet championships were being held in Detroit, so I went to see what that was about."

She went to the event and decided she wanted to add a class in synchronized swimming.

"I asked the director if I could add it to my weekly schedule and I'll never forget what she told me," Jones said. "She said, 'Fran, the Y frowns on competition for girls and you should not add it to your schedule.' Right then, I knew I was going to quit and form my own sports club."

Jones went home and discussed her idea with Stan. With his encouragement, she submitted her resignation.

"He didn't even hesitate," she said of her husband's backing. "He was all in."

It was the early 1950s and Jones was ready to conquer the world of synchronized swimming.

From Lansing to Rome

To start her club, Jones recruited swimmers from around the state and secured three local swimming pools for training.

Synchronized swimming requires precision. rhythm ... and a great set of lungs. It combines dancing, swimming and gymnastics, with duet and team competitions.

The inaugural group was mainly made up of high school swimmers. Jones had them rehearse the choreographed sequences on the deck before moving to the

"That way they could see each other," she said. "They could see who was fast and who was slow ... and I could see what they were doing, so I could easily correct them."

She called her team the Lansing Sea Sprites.

"I was a volunteer and

I never took money for my coaching," Jones said. "All I wanted was cooperation and girls who were willing to respond to my rules and type of training.

It wasn't long before the team saw results. Two of her swimmers, Sandy Giltner and Judy Haga, were U.S. Solo and Duet champions in 1958-59. Both swimmers were from the Lansing area.

In 1960, she led her team on a promotional tour through Europe that wrapped up at the Summer Games in Rome. Jones started working with swim teams from other countries, helping to train international judges so they could identify the required movements and posi-

It was the height of the Cold War and Jones reminded her swimmers to accept and appreciate the different cultures. Each weekend, the girls organized their own Sunday church services.

"We traveled from country to country on trains," Jones said. "We were just treated beautifully — every swim club bent over backwards to do something for us. We put on shows all over the map.'

Her team enjoyed prime seats during the Olympic Games in Rome. Jones said they were so close to the action that one of the torch-bearers smiled at her swimmers as he made his way up the stairs.

The day after the Games ended, during the gala program, Jones and her team put on a synchronized swimming demonstration for the Olympic steering committee. Afterward, they returned home and continued competing in national meets.

"My teams always finished in the top 10 usually they ended up in sixth place." she said. "It was tough beating the California clubs ... they had more practice time and they always finished at the top."

'Pants, blouses and bathing suits'

Four years later, Jones led another delegation of swimmers around the globe to promote synchronized swimming, this time for an extended period of four months that included stops in 21 countries.

A number of the swimmers were students from Michigan State University who took off the semester for the trip. Jones said her husband stayed home with their two young children, with her own mother chipping in with the chores.

'Stan gained 15 pounds from my mom's cooking while I was in Europe," she said. "He was a very supportive husband."

The team performed at the Crystal Palace in London, where the Queen of England sent a personal representative to watch the demonstration. They next traveled to Rome, then to Syria.

She recalled crossing the border into Syria for a show in Damascus. Their bus contained well over 30 pieces of luggage and the armed border guards wanted to inspect each piece.

"I told them it was bus full of swimmers and all they'd find were pants, blouses and bathing suits," Jones said. "I then pulled out a letter from the State Department and the gentlemen who invited us to perform in Damascus and they allowed us to cross without inspecting the suitcases.'

The tour ended at the 1964 Summer Games in Tokyo. Jones said each of her swimmers received a kimono and the team was warmly received at several dinners hosted by the Japanese govern ment.

It took another 20 years, but eventually everything fell into place and synchronized swimming was officially recognized at the 1984 Summer Games in Los Angeles. Jones was invited to the Olympics that year to work with the swimmers.

"When they finally got it in the Olympics, you could hear me sing the hallelujah choir from California," she said of the moment. "I was very proud of our country."

Red, white and blue

The family moved from Okemos to Orchard Lake after Stan was made vice president at the Burroughs Corp. in 1965. Jones left the Lansing Sea Sprites that year and formed the Michigan Aquarius Club. Her daughter Candice was one of the original mem-

Stan died in 2008. Jones has been living in Bloomfield Township for the past nine years and is now a resident at Samaritas Senior Living on Telegraph Road. She keeps fit through exercise, a healthy diet and a positive attitude.

"I run twice around this building daily if I can," she said.

Many of her swimmers send Christmas cards and visit whenever they're in the area. Jones admits she's been glued to the TV since the 2016 Summer Games began Aug. 5. The synchronized swim teams are scheduled to compete Aug.

"This time, we have much better competition," she said. "I'm wondering if China is going to beat us, but I don't know. I still think our team can win it all."

Crawford to share history amusement park history

State Rep. Kathy Crawford, R-Novi, and chair of the Novi Historical Commission, will recapture the magical wonder of the Walled Lake Amusement Park and Casino 1:30-3 p.m., Monday Aug. 22, when she gives a perspective of the park's heyday to Fox Run retirement community residents. Her presentation will be held in the performing arts center.

She will bring artifacts found on the Amusement Park site when it was excavated for the current Pavilion Shore Park, just west of Fox Run. These artifacts include some broken tile from the bath houses as well as bathhouse tags which were hooked onto bathing suits indicating personal baskets in the bathhouse.

There are a few other small items in a little shadow box that will be displayed, as well vintage photos of the park and casino and some pictures of postcards and signs. Fox Run residents will share their stories of The Walled Lake Amusement Park and Casino during her interactive presentation.

Crawford will discuss the early history of Walled Lake, all of the various activities on the property, the rides on the amusement park property, the large speed boats and boardwalk activities. The casino was not the type of casino having gambling, but it was a large dance hall where many big bands played. Tommy Dorsey and Stevie Wonder were among the headliners who performed there.

Crawford is passionate about preserving the history of The Walled Lake Amusement Park and Casino and beach, as well as preserving all of Novi's history.

Hundreds of thousands of people from the metro Detroit area and beyond made Walled Lake their weekend and vacation destinations every year. Camping was available nearby at what is now called Lakeshore Park. Cottages on the lake were available for rental. Companies, such as Ford and GM had their annual picnics there and the headline celebrities performed at the casino several nights a week.

"There was something on the property for everyone, no matter the age: fishing, swimming, boating, amusement park rides, contests of strength, such as tug-ofwar competitions between large regional companies, picnics, camping, music, dancing, roller skating rink and more," Crawford said. Amusement parks such as Walled Lake, Edgewater Park, and BobLo were extremely popular in the 1940s-1960s. One of Fox Run's residential buildings is named in honor of Edgewater.

"One of my favorite memories of the The Walled Lake Amusement Park was the 'House of Mirrors' which completely distorted your reflection, making you very short and squatty or long and lean." said Crawford. "That seemed so magical to me. It would be impossible for me to think of the park, however, without imagining the wonderful tantalizing smell of cotton candy being made before your very eyes. It was hypnotizing to watch all of the colors being added and smelling that warm sugar being fluffed."

A number of Fox Run residents have told Crawford of their special dates they had at the park. At least one resident couple had their first date at a dance in the casino and then eventually married.

"Oddly enough, many of us who lived in rural Novi very close to the park were not allowed to go there unless our fathers took us," said Crawford, who was never was allowed in the casino. "Too much riff-raff there," her dad told her.

Crawford's presentation will include a free raffle for door prizes related to Novi history as well as the Novi Library, where a local History Room is located. An ice cream social -- with ice cream from the Guernsey Farms Dairy -- will be held at the conclusion of the presentation. Fox Run is on 13 Mile Road, just west of M-5.

Truck traffic shows need to reclassify Six Mile

s Six Mile Road is being reconstructed between Haggerty and Northville roads, as previously announced by Wayne County Executive Warren Evans, our residents need to understand the scope of the work being performed.

The project includes removal of existing pavement, installation of new sewers, reconstructing 1.5 miles of new concrete surface, placing a new asphalt surface, new pavement markings, guardrail improvements, sidewalk and signage. Completion of the road improvements is anticipated to be mid-November barring unforeseen delays. The work would include adding a third lane, a lane to turn into your subdivision, and also widening intersections to five lanes.

Six Mile Road has remained open to westbound traffic for the entire project. In light of the construction with heavy equipment, truck haulers for the removal of dirt, old sewers, etc., and workers on the road, it should be obvious that other truckers not involved in this construction project use the recommended detour

Instead, I have noticed garbage trucks — not under contract by Northville Township, but from surrounding communities - loaded with compost, and double-bottom truck trailers from other construction sites, head west toward the landfill or the concrete/asphalt recycling center in Salem Township or beyond

If we are seeing this obvious behavior by truckers traveling west down Six Mile during reconstruction, what are we to expect once the school year begins and our school buses and parents will be transporting their children to the five schools off Six

Our Northville School Board should get actively involved to make certain our Northville School buses have priority and parents driving their children to schools are not bogged down with truck traffic other than from the Six Mile construction project.

This, of course, leads me to the Six Mile classification that states it is a Primary Unrestricted Class "A" Truck Route. If the trucking companies, garbage and compost haulers, double-bottom tractor trailer debris haulers from other building construction sites, head west to the landfill. I can just imagine the truck traffic we will experience once construction is completed.

As a residential community on both sides of Six Mile, we have to demand the truck route classification be changed to a residential county road, with a 35 mph speed limit, our school zones identified by flashing lights with a 25 mph speed limit, and pedestrian light crossings at Bradner and Winchester intersections.

Six Mile is almost identical to Taft Road, Meadowbrook, Nine Mile and other residential routes where subdivisions and schools are present with no identifiable commerce. Action is required now to preserve our quality of life, safety of our school children and our residents who wish to cross Six Mile. This should be priority number one addressed by the Wayne County Road Commission, Terry Marecki and Warren Evans.

Our Northville Township trustees should support our residents, and strongly suggest reclassification of Six Mile from a truck route to a residential county road. Wayne County working with Northville Township is the only way to convince Washtenaw County that Wayne County citizens of Northville Township matter. All the future Washtenaw meetings regarding the landfill and adjacent truck yards is a political tactic to stall what is needed.

Ronald J. Pawlak is a 38-year resident of Northville Colony.

LETTERS

Thank you Salem

Thank you to all our friends and neighbors for your encouragement and support. Our bid to represent Salem Township as trustees fell just short. In fact, the results were very close.

What started as a small grassroots group of concerned Salem residents has grown into a coalition of hundreds of supporters who are just as passionate about protecting our peaceful rural lifestyle and having a diverse government as we are. We are certainly not giving up. Many of you thanked us for making you aware of our current township challenges and offering practical solutions. We believe in our rural character and that it is worth protecting.

Due to your overwhelming support and many residents urging us to continue with a writein campaign, we are strongly considering this option for the Nov. 8 general election. Maybe we will see you then!

Once again, thank you for your trust and support. Our most sincere gratitude.

Kim Whiteside, Mark Griffith, Larry Petroskey, Wayne Wallazy Salem Township

Clinton best choice

During the past year I have been a backer of Bernie Sanders and was disappointed that he came in second. However, I never thought or spoke bad about Hillary Clinton. Everyone who voted for Bernie should remember his classic line "She is 100 percent better than anyone on the other side." That was true when he said it and it is true today.

What can be said about Donald Trump that has not already been said? Narcissist, egoist, a legend in his own mind, first-class liar, an unapologetic idiot, etc. This is a vengeful man who only accepted his former foes back in the fold after they bent down and kissed his ring.

VP aspirant Mike Pence is in a category of his own. A close relative who lives in Indiana, told me Pence stood a better chance of being run out of town than being reelected governor. Antigay, anti-women's rights, anti-birth control, antiunion, anti-worker, antiminimum wage — hell, it wouldn't surprise me if his middle name isn't Anti.

But, he is a true "New" Republican by pimping for the rich and rightwing intolerant bigots.

James Huddleston

Clinton's nomination excites

Still excited about July 28, 2016, the historic milestone in America first female nominated for the presidency of the USA! Home run hitters (can you tell I am a baseball fan?) were: Mr. Khan; General Allen; 9/11 survivors and first responders; Jennifer Granholm; diverse, average citizens; Chelsea and Hillary Clinton.

The American public heard from the real, authentic, caring Clinton the human being. In her patriotic, optimistic, hopeful speech she honored her deceased mother, her husband, daughter, grandchildren, extended family and friends. She quoted John Wesley, founder of Methodism: "Do all you can ..." ; plus F. Roosevelt's words about fear and lines from a song from the Broadway musical "Hamilton"; her book "It Takes a Village"; her famous, courageous, radical words from 1995 in China: "Human rights are women's rights. Women's rights are human rights." I like especially "Where there are no ceilings, the sky's the

While listing her and her party's policy plans Hillary Clinton invited Sanders' supporters, dissatisfied Republicans and independents, undecided voters to join the Democratic cause. They will help defeat her dangerous, undisciplined, clueless opponent. "Join us." "We are stronger together." In Hillary Clinton's closing words, she accepted the nomination "with humility, determination, confidence we can work together so we can rise together."

OFFICE OF THE WAYNE COUNTY DRAIN COMMISSIONER NOTICE OF DAY OF REVIEW OF DRAINAGE DISTRICT BOUNDARIES AND REVIEW OF APPORTIONMENTS

Notice Is Hereby Given that on August 31, 2016, the Wayne County Drain Commissioner will hold a Day of Review of Drainage District Boundaries and a Day of Review of Apportionments from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. at the Wayne County Department of Public Services - Road Division, Central Maintenance Yard, 29900 Goddard Road Extension, Romulus, Michigan 48242.

The Day of Review is for the purpose of reviewing and revising the boundaries of the Drainage Districts below. Maps depicting the proposed revisions to the boundaries of each Drainage District can be reviewed at: www.waynecounty.com/doe.

The Day of Review of Drainage District Boundaries is an opportunity to review the Drainage District boundaries with the Drain Commissioner or a member of his staff. The Drain Commissioner, engineers and other staff members will be available to assist individuals throughout the day, and make revisions where necessary. There is no need to schedule an appointment for a specific time on the Day of Review.

The Day of Review of Apportionments is an opportunity to review the apportionment with the Drain Commissioner or a member of his staff. The Drain Commissioner and other staff members will be available to assist individuals throughout the day, and make revisions where necessary. There is no need to schedule an appointment for a specific time on the Day of Review. The computation of costs for the Drains will also be available at the Day of Review.

Drain assessments will be collected in the same manner as property taxes. If the assessment period is greater than one year, you may pay the assessments in full with any interest to date at any time and thereby avoid further interest charges.

Persons with disabilities needing accommodations for effective participation in the Day of Review should contact the Wayne County Drain Commissioner's Office at (313) 749-8340 or through the Michigan Relay Center at 7-1-1 (TDD) at least 24 hours in advance of the Day of Review to request mobility, visual, hearing or other assistance.

You may appeal the Drain Commissioner's decision to revise the district boundary to the Wayne County Circuit Court within ten (10) days. You may appeal the Drain Commissioner's determination of apportionments to the Wayne County Probate Court within ten (10) days.

Burke assumes reins for Mustangs attack

Senior standout assumes QB role after 10-1 season

Brad Emons Staff Writer

Northville's Jack Burke will be wearing two different, and important, hats this season for the Northville football team

The 6-foot-1, 190-pound senior made his presence known in the defensive secondary a year ago with 30 solo tackles, 45 assists and a team-high five interceptions en route to first-team All-Area honors.

And Burke now will serve in an even bigger role as the team's starting quarterback as he takes over for two-year starter Justin Zimbo, who graduated after carrying the 10-1 Mustangs' offense with 2,286 in total yards, including 1,488 yards passing (98-of-165) and another 798 rushing.

Burke did get one start during the regular season for the injured Zimbo and performed admirably by keeping Northville unbeaten and demonstrating why he's ready to take the job in 2016 as a full-time starter.

"The first thing is that he's a great See NORTHVILLE, Page B3

EXPECT NOVI ATTACK TO BE MORE DIVERSIFIED

Bageris-to-D'Annibale combination proves potent for Wildcats

Brad Emons Staff Writer

Last year Novi's football team got a taste of postseason

And even though they lost two-time Area Player of the Year Emanuel Jackson (Western Michigan University), the Wildcats appear primed to be even more of a factor in Novi went 0-3 to start the 2015 season, then captured six of their last eight games including a 31-28 upset win in the first round of the MHSAA Division 1 playoffs over West Bloomfield before losing 49-35 at Novi Detroit Catholic Central in the district final.

The dynamic Jackson, an All-State selection, finished with 92 catches for 1,065 yards and nine touchdowns, while also rushing for 959 yards and 18 TDs as Novi finished 6-5 overall.

Irreplaceable?

"Not so fast my friend" as Lee Corso would say. "We have the opportunity to be more balanced, I think," said Novi fourth-year coach Jeff Burnside. "There were over 2,000-plus yards in those two seasons for Emanuel, but the problem is we still got a lot of weapons. And now those weapons are a year older."

No quarterback had a better season in 2015 than Alec

CC reboots after strong Final 4 run last season

Northville, Novi should be contenders in KLAA Central

Brad Emons

Coming off its best season in 20 years, Novi Detroit Catholic Central will try and take it one step further

The Shamrocks captured their first regional title since 1996 before falling to eventual MHSAA Division 1 champion Grand Rapids Forest Hills Central in the state semifinals,

CC, which finished 20-3-3 overall last season, lost three first-team All-Area players to graduation including standout goalie Peter Kirouac, defenders Justin Murray (University of Detroit Mercy) and Cole Moscovic, along with secondteam All-Area defender Matt Turton

And even though freshman standout Charlie Trevisan elected to play with the Academy Wolves, the Shamrocks still possess plenty of firepower with the return of second-team All-Area midfielder Justin Savona, who is joined by midfielders Cade Kozlowski and Valentino Ivezaj, both seniors, along with junior defender Jared Lee.

"My personal opinion, I think we're as good or if not better than last year," CC fifth-year coach Gene Pulice said. "But as we saw, it takes a lot more than being good to win a state championship – not to take anything away from (Grand Rapids) Forest Hills Central because they were very good. I think we're look-

Seasoned Shamrocks eye more success in 2016

'Battle of the Big House' is Catholic Central's opener

Brad Emons Staff Writer

All signs point to another stellar football season for Novi Detroit Catholic Central.

Heading into a tough season opener Saturday, Aug. 27 against Sterling Heights Stevenson in the "Battle of the Big House at University of Michigan Stadium, the Shamrocks should once again be formidable after finishing 9-3 a year ago before losing to eventual MHSAA Division 1 champion Romeo in the regional final.

Coach Tom Mach, entering his 41st season, likes what he sees so far from his 2016 class of the Shamrocks.

We're really happy with their attitude," said Mach, who is 357-93 overall with 10 state titles and six runner-up finishes. "It looks like a team that likes each other and looks like a team that's come together, and looks like a team with some brotherhood. So we all had a good feeling coming out of the last couple of weeks.'

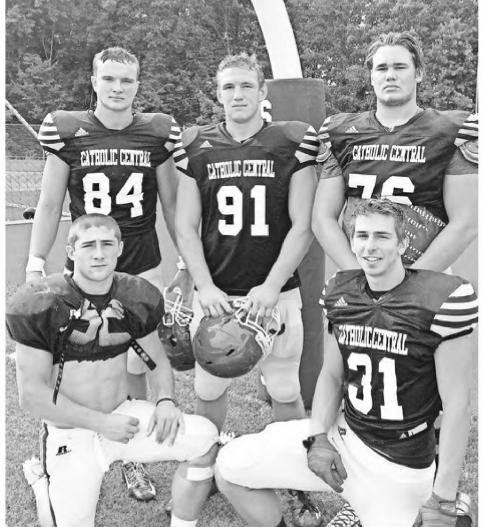

Despite a steamy first week of practice, Mach was pleased with the effort.

"And I was very happy with the kids the way they came back this year," said Mach, fourth among all MHSAA coaches in wins. "They had worked really hard in the off season and they worked really hard in the summer. Got themselves in great shape. As hot as it's been this year we didn't really see any effect of the heat on us. I mean, everybody was hot, but they kind of pushed through that. We started early and left early as much as we could to keep them out of the hard part of the heat during

Last season, Austin Brown seized the starting quarterback job in his third week as a freshman and appears to be seasoned veteran heading into his second season.

'It's hard for a young guy to recognize all the defenses and to be able to know which man to go to," Mach said of the 6-foot-1, 180-pound sophomore. "You got to follow your one-two-three reads. Actually in high school and college I think mostly they go one-two and that's it. But he's the kind of guy that if he doesn't have that, he can make things happen. He's got a good sense for when to take off with the ball and cause you a lot of trouble trying to control him. He's a pretty exciting quarterback and he showed a lot of poise last year and I'm sure he's going to do the same this

Senior Nicholas Capatina is the top returning running back after gaining 700 yards (6.5 per carry) to go along with nine touchdowns.

What we do in our offense is that we do a lot of different things," Mach said. "He (Capatina) is the tailback, and our tailback is important, but we also have an emphasis on the fullback. We give the ball to all three backs. He's going to get his share for sure. He did a great job for us last year and we're expecting the same this year. But we also believe that you can't be dependent on just one back."

Also penciled in to play in the backfield is senior Tyler Morland, along with fullbacks Matt Young and Cameron Ryan, a pair of juniors.

Meanwhile, both Jackson Ross and Jack Morris return at the tight end position, while Chris Jakubik and Matt Harding, a pair of seniors, will also be Brown's top targets in the passing game.

The offensive line will be anchored by senior Blake Beuter (6-4, 265) and William Butler (6-1, 235).

'We've got some experience coming back on offense and I think that helps us a great deal," Mach said. "I'm look-ing forward to what is going to happen because they've done it for a year in actual competition. You can't replace that and that's a great thing."

Defensively, first-team All-Area picks Ross (48 tackles, 3.5 sacks), Beuter (43 tackles, 2.5 sacks) and Morris all return along with a strong linebacking corps that includes junior Isaac Darkeangelo, Morland, Ryan and Young.

The secondary, however, has to be rebuilt with the departure of first-team All-Area defensive backs Alex Bock (Ferris State) and Tyler Laurentius (Hillsdale College).

"Our guys are tough minded," Mach said. "They're ready to go, the guys vying for the positions. We do have enough guys that we can take a good look at everybody, move them in-andout. In our philosophy we get everybody ready to go two ways, so if something happens we always have a guy that's going to be ready to back up and

Promising newcomers: Chris Jakubik, Sr. Safety-WR, P (6-1, 190).

Mach says: "Strength-wise I think our offensive line we're hoping to be improved from last year. And our offensive backs, many are back and have a year under their belts. I think we'll be a little stronger on offense to begin the season probably than defense. We lost four guys in the secondary and they were all good. We're going to have to do a lot with that going into our first game. Some guys have had some experience, so we hope that pays off early.

Bageris, who is embarking on his third year as a starter.

The 6-foot-3, 195-pound senior, who possesses a laser-like arm and quick release, completed 188-of-305 passes (61.6 percent) for 2,344 yards and 22 TDs to go along with an impressive 146.7 passing efficiency rating.

"He's a great leader, he brings the joy and enthusiasm every day to practice," Burnside said. "And he's always got that with him all the time. He's the type of kid the kids will follow. He knows when to have a little bit of funto break the tension - but he also knows when to ramp it up, get guys going.

Also back for his senior year is the explosive Anthony D'Annibale, who finished with 55 receptions for 882 yards and 11 TDs. Complementing him will be speedy junior Traveon Maddox, Jr., who came on to add 25 catches for

We want to see Anthony kind of be the primary guy, but then we have Traveon Maddox," Burnside said. "We have a couple of newcomers in Nick Williams and Drew O'Connor that can help

Coming out of the backfield will be senior Nathan Hankerson, who ran for 360 yards and averaged 5.5 per carry.

What a great off season," Burnside said of the 5-11, 190-pound senior. "He's a load and we expect that he can really run the rock, and Aahmaud Jenkins, for that matter, too. It's not going to be a look where one kid is just going to jump in and replace him (Jackson). What it is is that we have five or six very talented players that we're going to have to find an equal balance to get them the ball. I think we maybe more difficult to defend this year because you've got to defend everybody on the field, just not just number five.

Leading the way on the offensive line is first-team All-Area tackle Adam Guirey, a 6-4, 275-pound senior who did not allow a sack, along with senior center Jeff Kilikevicius (5-9, 240) and senior tackle Johnny Davis (6-3, 240).

The offensive line as a whole have had a tremendous off season," Burnside said. "They are very strong. I would venture to bet that all of them easily 300-pound bench press guys and probably very close, if not well over, 500pound squat guys. Very strong guys that we're dealing with."

Meanwhile, the two guard spots are up for grabs.

'We're returning two tackles and center," Burnside said. "Now it's just ..

SCOTT CONFER

Novi senior wide receiver Anthony D'Annibale (middle) caught 55 passes last year for 882 yards and 11 TDs.

can we find the two guards? I think one guard is pretty well locked in. The other guard position is still a little bit more

Last season the Wildcats gave up nearly 30 points per game, so Burnside is looking for more consistency

The top returning starter is Ethan Carter, a first-team All-Area pick who recorded 46 tackles, including seven tackles for loss, to go along with five sacks on the defensive line. He is joined up front by junior De'Shaun Clayton. Other returning starters include senior linebackers Ian Patterson, Scott Latham and Conner Moore, along with seniors Ryan Welch and Jenkins in the secondary.

"Defensively we return quite a bit," Burnside said. "We're trying to simplify things for the kids to just play fast.

We've done some things this year. We've gone to a different style of tackling, take the head out and try to be concussion aware. The kids have really bought into that. When we start tackling we'll see if it really works or not. The kids like what we're doing. We've been simple since day one. They really got a great handle on what we're trying to do defensively. It's should be very exciting. We're just going to try and turn them loose and let them play.'

The Wildcats open with Thursday home games against Hartland (Aug. 25) and Grand Blanc (Sept. 1) before traveling Friday, Sept. 9 to Waterford Kettering.

"What I've talked to our kids about is just worry about today," Burnside said. "Get better today. Let's focus on today, attitude and effort with the proper joy Coombs' 2016 outlook: "We'll be really young this year. We have 13 or 14 players so far and we hope to get a few more bodies out and have 17 18. Johnson is a quality player and we're going to try and control the middle of the field as much as possible. Alex at sweeper is a leader. He has good speed and can shut down things for us. Cleminte will impress people. He's on the young side, but has reall skills. We're looking for another defender and ing pretty good." Junior Trevor Ostrowski, who possesses a basketball and football background, will fill the void in goal for the graduated Kirouac.

"He's never played soccer, but he's a beast of an athlete, Pulice said of Ostrowski. "We'll be in good shape with him. We got lucky there.'

Northville (16-3-1) could have easily made a run in the Division 1 tourney, but was derailed in the district semifinal by CC in a shootout.

The Mustangs, who captured the KLAA Central Division and Kensington Conference crowns, lost Area Player of the Year Garret Weaver (U-D Mercy), along with first-team All-Area selections Nick Toupin and Jake Reitzloff. Second-team forward Johnny Rodriguez also graduated.

Northville, which returns second-team All-Area midfielder Mario Plachta, simply will be reloading under 26thyear coach Henry Klimes.

Among the other key returnees for the Mustangs include senior forward Ben McCauley, senior goalie Evan Treiber, junior midfielder Owen Marshall and senior defender Alex Braeseker.

We graduated a great team, but Northville High School has lots of young talent to make another serious title run," Klimes said. "We had around 120 trying out for this year's program. We're looking forward to a fun season."

Meanwhile, Novi (11-6-2) elevated JV coach Todd Pheiffer to the varsity coaching spot after long and successful run by Brian O'Leary, who stepped down from both the boys and girls varsity positions last December.

The Wildcats lost first team All-Area performers Matt Netter and Connor O'Leary to graduation, along with second-teamers Nick Harder and Adam Huber.

"There are 14 players back from last year's team that finished third in the KLAA Central," said Pheiffer, who guided the Novi girls to the Division 1 state semifinals in June. "We will be counting on these returning players to lay the foundation for this year's team. And by adding some quality new talent to the roster, we are hoping to build on what they accomplished last year.'

Novi Franklin Road Christian (5-9), a member of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference's Red Division, will certainly miss goalie Daniel Weaver, who made second-team All-Area honors before graduating.

But third-year coach Paul Coombs returns a solid nucleus led by sophomore defender and center-midfielder Blake Johnson, along with senior captains Paul Alex, a sweeper, and Evan Lorey, a forward.

"Right now we're working on trapping and passing,' Coombs said. "If we do that we can win and stay in games. If we can keep the ball close and make passes, we can give teams some aggravation."

leader," Northville eighth-year coach Matt Ladach said. "Attendance-wise and in the off season, he works his butt off every day, he leads by example. And he's such a smart, young man it's like a coach on the field both on offense and defense. He's throwing the ball real nice and as you saw last year he runs the ball hard like a fullback.

Burke averaged 7.79 yards per carry in limited offensive action, but he'll have plenty of outside weapons to throw to with the return of junior wide receiver A.J. Abbott (20 catches, 419 yards and eight TDs) and senior wideout Jack Peterson (21 catches, 243

Vying for the running back position will be juniors Antonio Washington and Benair Covington, along with sophomore Nick Prystash, 'In reality, we lose our top three rushers from last season - (Adam) Ghabra, (Zach) Prystash and Zimbo - all graduated," Ladach said. 'So between our three guys competing at tailback, and Burke at quarterback, there are going to be a lot of yards to be made up from what we lost last season. In the same breath if you tell me we run for more yards this year than we did last year, I won't be surprised because we have more threats at wide receiver right now than we did in the past and teams are probably going to play with a safety. And if they don't, we're going to beat them over the top.

The Mustangs will be rebuilding their offensive line with the biggest loss being first-team All-Area pick Alex Angeles (Wayne State).

'Zach Marks is the only returning guy and at the other four spots we've got great competition now," Ladach said. "We've been blessed to really have some talented kids up front, but this year the guys are working hard. I anticipate that we will be solid.

Northville's defense features two standout linebackers in senior Ryan Nelson, the team's leading tackler (28 solo, 76 assists), along with Western Michigan University commit Trenton Guthrie (37 total tackles).

Senior Jake Bates will also help anchor the defensive line, while cornerbacks Gary Wu, Abe Khoury and Nate Holloway return in the secondary to join Burke.

Coach (Mark) Nowicki has been working with them in the nickel package," Ladach said. "We're going to have some decent depth in the secondary. Up front the competition is wide open.

The Mustangs also have one of the state's best kept secret weapons in iunior specialist Jake Moody, who stands No. 2 in his class nationally and 11th overall, according to Kornblue Fab 50 rankings among kickers.

Moody was 9-of-12 last year on field goals, including a school-record 51yarder. He also had 34 touchbacks into the end zone.

Meanwhile, the Mustangs may be hard pressed to duplicate last year's 10-0 start (best in school history). It ended with a hard-fought 34-27 loss in MHSAA Division 1 district finals against Canton.

But Ladach is optimistic his team can challenge again for a title in the KLAA Central. The Mustangs also face a tougher non-league schedule which includes Dearborn, Brighton and Walled Lake Western.

"There's not a game on our schedule that we can't win," Ladach said. "We felt the same way last season. In the same breath there's not a game on our schedule that we can just show up and win, so we're going to have our hands full. Every single game will be a battle. If we're not executing we're going to be in trouble.'

But Ladach likes what he sees early on during the preseason.

'Just a ton of great kids," he said. "Great character guys, guys that want to step in and do roles, take on new responsibilities and be great leaders. We continue to change the culture at our high school, just not football, and be positive leaders.'

JUNIOR GOLF

Livingston best in Moose Ridge Ryder Cup format

Kensington Junior Tour ends summer season

M.B. Dillon Correspondent

The Kensington Junior Golf Tour hosted its season-ending Ryder Cup tourney format on Aug. 8 at Moose Ridge Golf Club in South Lyon, while also staging its traditional county competition and expanding this year's tourney to include collegiate and caddy championship play.

Livingston County junior golfers seized the cup by edging out Oakland County in the best-ball tourney with 31 points

Trailing runner-up Oakland (30 points) were Wayne County (27) followed by 2014 and 2015 defending champion Washtenaw County (21).

Moose Ridge's capacity field of 88 competed in twoand four-person squads. Points were awarded on each hole based on lowest individual scores.

"We saw very close competition amongst all four counties with only one point separating our winner and runner-up teams," Kensington Tour director Nathan Oake said. "Special congratulations go to Wayne County. It was their first year out and they made it very close. The Wayne County girls are a powerhouse. They made it very exciting."

Austin Carter, 20, fired two rare eagles to propel Saginaw Valley State University to victory in the men's collegiate division. Teammate Mason Motte, also 20, turned in an impressive performance as well.

The duo, both hailing from Port Huron's Bluewater area where they competed on rival high school teams, carded a best-ball, 4-under-par 67.

Carter's first eagle came on the par-4, No. 7 hole.

"If you gave me 100 balls, I wouldn't be able to recreate that shot again," said Carter, who sank an uphill putt. "My drive ended up on the back portion of the green. I hit it to 3 feet (from the pin) from 286 yards. Everything lined up perfectly,"

M.B. DILLO

Austin Dillon and Michael Blaesser of Western Golf & Country Club, and runners-up Travis Tubbs and Alex Opiteck of Walnut Creek C.C.

M.B. DILLON

Virginia Gilton (left) and Megan Baumgartner combined for an 83 to win Kensington's best-ball Collegiate Championship at Moose Ridge.

His second eagle came on the the par-5, No. 18.

"I drove it out there, had 150 yards to the hole and pulled out a 9-iron," he said. "I stuck it to within 3 feet and made the putt again. I went for it and I was rewarded very well."

Virginia Gilton and Megan Baumgartner, both entering their junior seasons, swept the women's division for Cleary College.

They combined for 83, despite Baumgartner forgetting her clubs at home.

"Luckily, my old irons were in my car," Baumgartner said. "Virginia let me borrow a hybrid driver and a putter. My putting was pretty good. We had a couple of good pars and Virginia birdied a hole by herself."

Austin Dillon, 22, and Michael Blaesser, 21, of Western Golf & Country Club in Redford shot an even-par 71 to capture the Kensington Tour's Caddy Championship.

Travis Tubbs and Alex Opiteck of Walnut Creek Country Club were runners-up.

"We hit the ball really well," Dillon said. "Both of us had a lot of opportunities for birdies, which made it easier for one of us to go at it. We both lipped out on a couple birdie putts."

Blaesser, who like Austin hails from Redford, birdied the par-3. No. 6.

"I hit my 8-iron and landed above the hole," Blaesser said.

"Austin gave me a good read and I tapped it in from 8 feet. It felt good. We were even par at the time, so it was good to get it going."

Dillon, who birdied a par-3 on the back nine, enjoyed the format.

"It's fun, because if you or your partner aren't having a great hole, you don't necessarily have to keep playing," he said. 'He can carry you through for that hole and you can step up on the next one and make up for it. The event was well-organized and all the golfers had fun. Meeting kids from other clubs and talking to them was another good part about playing in it."

Of the Ryder Cup best-ball play, Oake said, "It's a new format of competitive golf that we want to teach the younger players. They all really seem to enjoy it. Any team can expect to win it, from top to bottom."

Northville's Sara Haupt, who spent her 13th birthday on the course, experienced just that contributing to her Wayne County squad's total and ending her season on a high note.

"It's been fun playing this summer to see if I do OK," she said. "I started out with 140 and at the Whispering Willows tournament I went down to 115."

Sara's sister Anna Haupt

also put points on the Moose Ridge leaderboard. Winning closest-to-the-pin honors in their divisions were Michael Hermann, 11, of Canton; Kristen Szabelski, 16, of Livonia; Blaesser; and Gilton.

Longest drive hitters included Emily Keyser of Cleary, Kyle Kozler of Barton Hills C.C., Jack Kamsickas of Northville, Sydney Bradford of Brighton Township, and Jeremy Gould of Belleville.

Oake saluted all those who competed. "What's noticeable is how much improvement everyone has shown this summer. This being our culminating event, it's very clear that working hard and competing all summer leads to improvement in your scores," Oake said.

The KJGT division champions also stood out.

Northville's Andrew Lackswept three of the Boys 15-18 age titles (Wayne, Oakland and Washtenaw), while Brighton's Brendan Britz conquered the Livingston County championship

In the Girls 15-18, Howell's Alyssa Snider earned both the Livingston and Washtenaw crowns. Livonian Madison Maurier captured the Oakland County title, while University of Detroit Mercy-bound Kendall Payne (Livonia Franklin grad) captured the Wayne County championship.

In the Boys 12-14, Novi's Dhruv Kumar captured the Wayne County championship, while Ashrith Mummadi, also of Novi, topped the Oakland division.

Other county champis include Ypsilanti Township's Vimal Alokam (Washtenaw) and Highland's Zach Piroli (Livingston County).

Ann Arbor's Ieuan Jones dominated both the Livingston and Washtenaw 9-hole divisions. Ypsilanti's Vibhav Alokam took the Wayne County title, while Westland's Damo Watson was the Oakland winner.

The Kensington Junior Golf Tour staged 27 tournaments at courses in Livingston, Washtenaw, Oakland and Wayne in its 11th season.

To support junior golf, the charitable Livonia-based Dinan Foundation offers academic college scholarships in conjunction with the tour. For more information, visit kensingtonjuniorgolf.com.

How to avoid heat illness during exercise

ow I'm certainly not a meteorologist, but I think it's safe to say that the hot weather is here to stay for a while. That's why it's the right time to let you and your kids know how to beat the heat.

From a medical standpoint, when it comes to the summer heat, it's not only about staying cool - it's also about avoiding things like heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heatstroke. Collectively, these entities are referred to as heat illness. The temperatures have really heated up lately and that makes it a good time to tell you how to avoid heat illness this summer when you are exercising, practicing, playing or simply working in the heat.

Many people think heat illnesses like heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heat-stroke are problems that they will never have to face. However, as we have seen in the news over the past couple of years, summer time heat has the potential to affect any one of us during our outdoor activities.

On a hot, humid Michigan day, an active person can lose up to two quarts of fluid in an hour. The combination of heat and humidity is particularly troublesome, because humidity hinders sweat from evaporating (this is the primary way our body temperature stays cool and under control). Believe it or not, heatstroke is the second leading cause of death among athletes in the United States. The good news is that most heat illnesses are treatable and preventable.

All heat illnesses are caused by dehydration and excessive loss of salt and fluids.

The mildest form of heat illness is known as heat cramps, which occur when athletes do not drink enough fluids while exercising. Heat exhaustion is a more serious condition that is triggered by excessive sweating and inadequate fluid replacement.

Heatstroke is the most serious heat illness and can be life-threatening. During heatstroke, the body's sweating mechanisms shut down, the skin becomes hot and dry and the body becomes depleted of fluids.

Preventing heat illness

» Drink plenty of water when participating in all sports activities, even if you don't feel thirsty. By the time you do get thirsty, it might be too late.

» Take many breaks during activities in hot weather.

» Participate in your activity in the morning or early evening, when the temperatures are cooler. It's important to avoid the sun's most potent heat rays between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

» Eat citrus fruits or bananas, especially if you are participating for longer times, because they are rich in potassium and sodium. On the other hand, you should avoid drinking alcohol and sodas that contain caffeine, because they actually work to dehydrate you faster.

» Wear lightweight and light-colored clothing that is made of porous materials.

» Cool water is the best fluid to keep you hydrated during workouts or events that last an hour or less. Sports drinks containing 6-10 percent carbohydrates are useful for longer events. Most sports drinks should be diluted with approximately 50 percent water.

» Drink small amounts of fluid frequently, rather than large amounts less often.

» Drink cold beverages to cool your core body temperature.

» If you have the apportu-

» If you have the opportunity, weigh yourself after exercising and drink two to three cups of water for every pound lost. Your body weight should be back to normal before the next workout.

» Pay attention to the amount and color of your urine. You should excrete a large volume that is nearly colorless. Small amounts of urine or dark yellow-colored urine can indicate dehydration.

When in trouble

If you are suffering from overexposure to heat or believe someone else is, take steps immediately. If the symptoms include cramping or mild fatigue, the two basic steps are to replenish the body's lost fluids and to cool the body's temperature. Here are some good tips:

» Move to a cool place out of the sun.

» Loosen any tight-fitting clothing and remove any extra layers of clothing.

» Drink fluids, such as water or sports drinks. Do not offer drinks that contain alcohol or caffeine. Try to drink about one-half glass of fluid every 15-20 minutes.

» Try to cool off by sponging with cool water or by applying cool, wet cloths, such as towels or sheets.

» In most cases, symptoms should improve within a few minutes.

If symptoms do not clear up quickly or if a person is seriously fatigued, cramping, disoriented or beginning to lose consciousness, call for emergency medical assistance immediately.

The bottom line is that if you stay properly hydrated and avoid over-exposure to the sun and heat, you should be able to beat the heat and enjoy another hot Michigan summer.

Novi's Jenna Schluter, who will be a junior this fall at Farmington Hills Mercy High School, recently committed to play soccer at Valparaiso University (Ind.). The central defender, who plays for under-16 Vardar in the Elite Club National League, is also a two-time basketball letter winner at Mercy. "What I specifically like about Valparaiso's soccer program is the coaching staff, the players' chemistry and how successful the soccer program has been under coach (John) Marovich's leadership," Schluter told Todd Clark of Top Drawer Soccer. "I wanted to attend to a private university that offers a variety of academic options. I'm leaning towards a business degree and Valparaiso has a premier business program with many opportunities for the future."

NYC Marathon — former sprinter going long, longer

unning has treated Brad-ley Koback, 29, of Royal Oak very well in 2016. From the grueling scenic vistas of the Sierra Nevada Mountains in July for the 274participant Tahoe Rim Trail 50 Mile Endurance Run to the 50,000-plus entrants in the world's largest marathon through New York City in November, Koback is making the most of his two lottery-accepted races in 2016.

And a special honor in October makes for a banner year for the former Wisconsin high school and college sprinter.

'Is it feasible when I finish a marathon, could I get to the finish line and then turn around and go all the way back to the start?" It is a question Koback started asking himself after completing his first marathons in 2013-14.

"Why not give it a shot?" He said leading up to his first ultra in April 2015. "So I signed up for the American River 50. ... When I did all my research, that was the most beginnerfriendly course — even though after doing it, it was really not easy by any means.'

Running 400 meters very fast was Koback's specialty in high school and college. After graduating from Amherst High School in Wisconsin, he attended and ran track for the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, where he was part of the 1,600-meter relay team that won a Division III national championship in 2008.

However it was a ruptured Achilles, along with fellow high school running buddy Tim Olson, that eventually got Koback running 40,000-plus meters instead of 400.

After graduating from college, moving to Los Angeles and following ultra-marathoner Olson's career, Koback ran his first marathon in 2013.

"I needed to get competitive again. ... As far as racing, I couldn't do sprints anymore," he said. "I had done 10Ks and upwards of half-marathons before so I was, like, OK, let's try something longer, so I did the L.A. Marathon.'

Dan Dean STAFF WRITER

Koback, a lab technician at Royal Oak Beaumont Hospital, talked as we dodged light rain under a Market Fresh store canopy at 13 Mile and Southfield roads, interrupting a recent run through the Birmingham area.

Fueling his competitive nature and a new-found way to experience places he had never been, Koback followed his first L.A. Marathon by running it again in 2014, along with the San Diego and San Francisco marathons.

"It is an amazing thing. I had never been to any of these places," he said. "It gives me the perfect opportunity to go visit and actually immerse myself and run through all these areas that a lot people even when they go and visit never get a chance to.

Immerse himself he will July 16, when he attempts his second 50-miler in Nevada. According to the race website, the event is located on the northeast side of Lake Tahoe, with the highest point of the run just below the 9,214-foot Snow Valley Peak.

The 2016 TCS New York City Marathon is about as opposite an experience one could find compared to the running events at Tahoe.

"I got an email for it. I thought, well, I have never been to New York, I will give it a shot," he said. "I got the email and it said congratulations you got in. I was just amazed, I didn't expect to get

Bradley Koback of Royal Oak runs north along Southfield Road between 14 Mile and Maple in Birmingham during

in. I knew I did not qualify, but it was amazing. I am superstoked."

Before heading to New York in November, Koback has some business to attend to in Wisconsin. On Oct. 15, he will skip his planned running of the Detroit Free Press Talmer Bank Marathon and will instead reunite with his collegiate 1,600-meter relay teammates as they are inducted into the UW-Stevens Point Hall of Fame, honoring the foursome's national championship.

If you are in a runner signed up for the TCS New York City Marathon, drop me an email. I would love to profile others from Michigan and maybe even go for a run together as we prepare for this iconic

Area sailors seize yet another Port Huron-to-Mackinaw title

Dan O'Meara Staff Writer

Chris Benedict and his team of sailors have done it again, adding to their impressive record of success in the Bell's Beer Bayview Mackinac Race.

The veteran crew aboard the Shape sailed to its fourth consecutive in-class championship and fifth win in six years July 16-18 during the annual event on Lake Huron.

Winning never gets old for Plymouth's Benedict, who co-owns the sailboat with longtime friend Win Cooper III of

"It's an unusual stat to have four wins in a row," Benedict said. "There are very few boats that have ever done that. Part of me feels a little selfish.

Should we back away from the race and let other people have an opportunity to win? The competitive side of me says, 'You need to go out there to defend and be the boat to

"I think the competition feels the same. The right thing to do is to stick my nose in there and go at it again."

A major advantage for the Shape is the consistency of the crew. Eight of the nine members have sailed in the last seven races and represent 222 years of experience.

The newcomer was Benedict's 21-year-old son Everett. His oldest son, Cameron, 23, participated in his 12th consecutive Port Huron-to-Mackinac Island event.

Before the race starts, we have a team lunch down below," Benedict said. "We talk about strategy, team shifts and things that have been successful in the past.

We didn't do any of that this year. It was like we were really comfortable with what we've been doing. We just went out there and said: 'Let's go at

'Unfortunately for Everett, the first year he comes with us, we don't do it. He had to fly by the seat of his pants, but he adapted to it and did well on his first race."

The other members of the crew are Steven Bradley, Ed Ely, Dale McNabb, Richard Birdsall and Win Cooper Sr., who taught Benedict, 50, how to sail as a teen.

'The diversity in personalities among the crew is a good thing," Benedict said. "It stimulates a lot of debate. We don't always agree. The diversity of opinion helps us make good decisions.

Co-owner Chris Benedict and the other members of the crew onboard the "Shape" sailed to a fourth straight Mackinac victory.

Bad weather hits

The experience factor came into play Sunday night as the Shape neared the Straits of Mackinac. A huge storm was blowing through the area, and the worst part was on the southern end.

"It nailed us," Benedict said, adding the wind reached 55 mph and overloaded the instruments. "We blanked out. The mast was shaking like made. You almost go into savethe-boat mode.

"The entire crew grew up on small boats as kids, so we were used to sailing without instruments. We went to work like a normal day of sailing. We emerged from that and gained on the other boats during the storm."

Up to the task

Benedict, who was in charge of the team sailing the boat at that time, loves the challenge of doing so in rough weather.

"We were enjoying the radical sail and the ride," he said. "This is what we tried to do as much as we could as kids. The harder the wind was the more we wanted to be out there in the beach boats. That's where we really learned how to sail.

We were having the time of our lives in very bad conditions. It's an opportunity to put your skills to work, and we've done it several times in those conditions.'

As the Shape neared the north end of Bois Blanc Island, the storm abated about five miles from the finish line

"It was raining and hailing so hard it hurt your face," Benedict said. "We were getting pelted. All of a sudden, the storm blows east of us. We can see Mackinac Island; we can see the bridge and the lights in the distance.'

Late move is key

Benedict and his team were pretty confident of victory at that time, but it almost didn't happen. The sharp eye of Cameron Benedict helped to save the day – or rather the night.

"Cam says, 'There's a boat at the tip of Bois Blanc that's much better positioned, so we need to get to that end of the course," Benedict said.

We tacked our boat and covered that boat. Cam informed us and thank goodness he did, because we wouldn't have finished first if he

Makes good time

The Shape, a 35-foot Santana that was made in 1979, finished the race at 1:05 a.m. Monday with an elapsed time of 36 hours, 5 minutes and 35 seconds.

It was the fastest time in a long time, according to Benedict. Shape finished in 39:46:25 last year and 37:53:47 two years ago.

"Until about 6:30 or 7 o'clock that night, we were on pace to have one of the fastest races we've had," Benedict said, adding his team would have reached the harbor about 8 p.m. if not for the storm and a period of light wind.

"There was a time we finished about 11:30 at night, which we like because you can still make last call at the Pink Pony. That's a very common first stop when jumping off the boat."

'Good camaraderie' Shape reached the island less than two minutes ahead of the Avatar. Since all boats in the Shore Course Class K have the same handicap rating, corrected time becomes a

It was the 30th consecutive start for Shape, which has 12 in-class victories and also won the overall Division II Shore Course title in 2014. Shape was 19th among 88 boats this year.

"It's a boat-for-boat thing," Benedict said. "You know everybody in-class has the same rating. If you beat them, you win. We were really bunched in there well. There's a fun element to that.

'Yeah, you'd like to blow away your competition, but the reality is that shouldn't happen because the boats are so similar. When the race is tight, it's exciting. That means everybody is sailing well. "It's a really good fraternity of guvs in the boats. We all compete hard against each other and want to win, but there's really good camaraderie and friendship when we're on shore and talking about the

Staying fit to sail

Being serious sailors, Benedict and his crewmates are disciplined during the race, making sure they sleep, drink and eat enough.

'In good weather and bad, your body is consuming tons of energy," Benedict said. "Your body is constantly working to be balanced, so the core muscles are working. The motion is zapping up energy and depleting you. It's very easy to become dehydrated.

"If you can't fight it off, you make sure to hydrate beforehand. Water comes out easily, so you're not taxing your system if you do get sick. It's important to have something to give up. That's why we eat and drink as much as we can.

'We have it down to a science — the food and beverage we take. We don't want to carry any extra weight than is

Finishing tradition

Consumption of alcohol during the race is a no-no, but the crew is ready to unwind when it's over. Birdsall opens a bottle of cognac when the boat

"It's a fun tradition he's brought to the boat," Benedict said. "Thank goodness we've had a pretty solid record in those years, so we don't feel the least bit guilty breaking it

Given the recent string of victories, that tradition is likely to continue, too.

Cigar bar looks to relocate to Livonia

David Veselenak

Livonia could see a new spot for cigar smokers to spend some time with an adult beverage.

The City Council will decide at its next meeting whether to approve a waiver petition to use a Class C liquor license to allow for Smoky's Cigar Bar and Lounge to operate in the space formerly occupied by InkStop at 37298 Six Mile in Northbrook Plaza, just east of Newburgh.

The bar, which had operated in Northville Township for many years, seeks to move to Livonia to improve the Teresa Essa, the bar's owner, said the former location in Northville Township made it difficult for customers to find and locate her establishment. The new facility, she said, would have greater visibility.

"The location I was at, we were really far off the road. Really far,' she said. "At the end of the road, there's a fence. By the fence, there's really, really tall bushes that, if you're sitting on Seven Mile and you look over, you know there's a plaza but you can't tell what's in there.'

The proposed bar would be about 1,400 square feet with about 22 seats inside. The bar would not be in compliance with regulations that require 1,000 feet separation between Class C liquor license holders, as two other restaurants in that area also currently operate in that radius.

'That separation can be waived by you, City Council, but that is the only thing it does not comply with," said Scott Miller, a zoning manager with the city.

Issues with smoke

While Michigan banned smoking in indoor places back in 2010, the law allows smoking inside of existing cigar bars that serve food and drink provided 10 percent of their gross income comes from the on-site sale of cigars and the rental of on-site humidors. Essa said her bar was grandfathered in under that law. Only cigars would be allowed to be smoked in the cigar bar; no other tobacco products would be allowed.

Councilwoman Cathy White said she knows a business owner in Northville who owns a shop near another cigar bar, and said she had some concerns regarding odors coming from the business if it were to open up in that location.

She said her acquaintance told her odors have been an issue for him, and wanted to raise the issue with Essa over what she plans to do with odors.

'He's indicated to me that the cigar bar next to his business does ventilate to the outdoors, and there are many times that he and his customers can smell cigar odors," she said. "Sometimes, he indicates you can smell them a block

Peter Tzilos, an architect who is working on the cigar bar, said the planned Smoke Eaters for the bar are designed to handle cigar smoke odors from the inside without sending the smell outside.

"Those devices are indoor devices that are used to clean the air. They're not necessarily exhausting air to the outside," he said. The City Council will take up the petition at its next regular meeting, currently scheduled for Aug. 22.

Several council members voiced support for the project, saying it was in the city's best interest to house this kind of business so those customers don't need to leave the city for them.

Councilman Brian Meakin said he would support the petition, saying it was a good option for Livonia to have.

"I think this is an item that's been needed in this city," he said. "When you want a cigar, you don't have to go to Birmingham or West Bloomfield, so, having one in the neighborhood is going to be helpful."

Make cooking simple while celebrating summer's bounty

here is no better time to take admer's vibrant bounty from farmers markets, local farm stands or even your own backyard. At the Bistro, we're happily into that full bounty that warm weather brings.

Our summer menu is lighter and showcases much more produce and creative ways to use it. For instance, cauliflower can be roasted and pureed into a delicious "hummus" of sorts. Just dug up from the garden carrots are stellar in a ginger scented soup which can be served chilled or hot. I love a lobster potato salad made with Yukon gold fingerlings or a platter of heirloom tomatoes layered with fresh mozzarella and just picked basil that can be drizzled with a tad of truffle oil — can't be beat. Serve the two together and dinner is as simple as pie.

Speaking of which, my rhubarb continues to be at its peak every day so a rhubarb dessert will be a must.

cooking outdoors, any firm vegetable grills easily but my absolute favorite to grill is sweet corn on the cob with sage butter.

Home grown garlic is the best and will last the winter if stored properly, and garlic scapes — the lime colored green stems and unopened flower buds of hard neck garlic garden varieties make a mean pesto that also freezes well. The key is it must be cut back before flowering so that the bulbs can mature.

Fennel this time of year has a delicate licorice flavor that makes a great slaw when finely shaved. A long time favorite on our summer menu is our original Diamond Jim Brady's Bistro summer gazpacho made with garden fresh tomatoes. I've included our special recipe for you to make at home.

"When you get the right lender, VA loans are actually exceptional," says Rich Eisiminger of RichRealty Group of Plymouth.

Plymouth Realtor, Livonia mortgage lender: Veterans can get loans, move into homes

Julie Brown Staff Writer

In his 25 years in the real estate field, Rich Eisiminger of RichRealty Group of Plymouth has handled many Veterans Affairs loans.

When you get the right lender, VA loans are actually exceptional," Realtor Eisiminger said. "They are a great way to help out our military people.

He's seeing veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan service come home in need of mortgages for home purchases. Eisiminger handles double digits of veteran loans annually along with colleagues at RichRealty Group, and also does seminars on the topic.

'Understanding them is the best thing, obviously, continuing education," he said. In the past, military veteran appraisals were handled differently from other buyers.

RichRealty Group was founded in 2005, and in his career Eisiminger has seen VA loans improve. "They sure have. More streamlined. They're there to help veterans get in the home, contrary to a lot of old thought processes,' he said.

The time frame to get approval may be a bit longer, he added, but not much. Appraising for veteran loans is now done the same as others.

"You would get an appraisal that came from a pool," Eisiminger recalled of past days with the VA certifying certain ones. That's changed now with all buyers using a pool.

"The conventional loan is done the same way," Eisiminger said. "Sometimes it's nerve-wracking and it's frustrating, but it's to the good."

He cites time frames and ease. "Communications are much better," Eisiminger said. "Lenders that are versed in it know it well."

Agreeing is Bruce Piper, Livonia branch manager for Ross Mortgage, based in Troy. "The VA loans are not really any different," Piper said. Ross Mortgage is a VA-automatic lender, as most are, he

That means underwriting and processing are done by Ross Mortgage, with appraisal also out of VA hands. "It's probably the very best way to buy a home," said Piper, noting it's zero-percent down for a qualified veteran without mortgage insurance.

The VA guarantees the loan, Piper said, unlike other buyers who purchase the PMI private insurance with the 20 percent down payment.

Noted Piper of veterans, "There's a very big demand, absolutely. We're doing a lot of VA loans.

Ross Mortgage has been in business since 1949, with Piper having 31 years of experience. He finds too often military veterans don't know they can qualify, with no cost for asking on pre-qualification.

'If they don't (qualify), we'll advise them what to do on getting into a home," Piper said. "I think a lot of people don't check because they think they won't qualify."

Back in Plymouth, Realtor Eisiminger said of veterans buying homes, "I think it's just a great thing. We should do all we can to protect our freedoms. I treasure our freedoms."

National Association of Realtors: Inventory of homes issue decreases affordability a bit

Home prices maintained their robust, upward trajectory in a vast majority of metro areas during the second quarter, causing affordability to slightly decline despite mortgage rates hovering at lows not seen in over three years, according to the latest quarterly report by the National Association of Realtors. The report also revealed that for the first time ever, a metro area — San Jose, California - had a median single-family home price above $1 million.

The median existing singlefamily home price increased in 83 percent of measured markets, with 148 out of 178 metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs) showing gains based on closed sales in the second quarter compared with the second quarter of 2015. Twenty-nine areas (16 percent) recorded lower median prices from a year earlier.

There were slightly fewer rising markets in the second quarter compared to the first three months of this year, when price gains were recorded in 87 percent of metro areas. Twenty-five metro areas in the second quarter (14 percent) experienced double-digit increases — a small decrease from the 28 metro areas in the first quarter. A year ago, 34 metro areas (19 percent) experienced doubledigit price gains.

Lawrence Yun, NAR chief economist, says a faster pace of home sales amidst languishing inventory levels pushed home prices higher in most metro areas during the second quarter. "Steadily improving local job markets and mortgage rates teetering close to all-time lows brought buyers out in force in many large and middle-tier cities," he said. "However, with home-building activity still failing to keep up with demand and not enough current homeowners putting their home up for sale, prices continued their strong ascent and in many markets at a rate well above income growth.'

The national median existing single-family home price in the second quarter was $240,700, up 4.9 percent from the second quarter of 2015 ($229,400), which was previously the peak quarterly median sales price. The median price during the first quarter of this year increased 6.1 percent from the first quarter of 2015. Total existing-home sales, including single family and condos, rose 3.8 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.50 million in the second quarter from 5.30 million in the first quarter of this year, and are 4.2 percent higher than the 5.28 million pace during the second quarter of 2015.

'Primarily from repeat buyers moving up or trading down, existing sales increased each month last quarter and could've been even higher if not for a few speed bumps," Yun said. "Closings were slowed a bit by meager supply levels and home prices in many areas that are still rising too fast."

At the end of the second quarter, there were 2.12 million existing homes available for sale, which was below the 2.25 million homes for sale at the end of the second quarter in 2015. The average supply during the second quarter was 4.7 months — down from 5.1 months a year ago.

According to Yun, without enough new construction being built, existing inventory seriously failed to keep up with the growing demand for buying. As a result, homes typically stayed on the market for around a month throughout the second quarter, and over 40 percent of listings sold at or above list price, with June being the highest share since NAR began tracking in December 2012 (43 percent).

"Many listings in a majority of markets - and especially those in lower price ranges - had multiple offers and went under contract quickly because of severely inade-quate supply," Yun said. "This in turn dented affordability and without a doubt priced out a segment of buyers attempting to seek relief from fast-growing rents. Despite falling mortgage rates and a small increase in the national family median income ($68,774), swiftly rising home prices caused affordability to decline in the second quarter compared to a year ago. To purchase a single-family home at the national median price, a buyer making a 5-percent down payment would need an income of $52,255, a 10-percent down payment would require an income of $49,504, and $44,004 would be needed for a 20-percent down payment.

The five most expensive housing markets in the second quarter were the San Jose, California, metro area, where the median existing singlefamily price was $1,085,000; San Francisco, $885,600; Anaheim-Santa Ana, California, $742,200; urban Honolulu, $725,200; and San Diego, $589,900.

The five lowest-cost metro areas in the second quarter were Youngstown-Warren-Boardman, Ohio, $85,400; Cumberland, Maryland, $94,900; Decatur, Illinois, $95,600; Binghamton, New York, $105,500; and Rockford, Illinois, $109,000.

Metro area condominium and cooperative prices covering changes in 59 metro areas — showed the national median existing-condo price was $227,200 in the second quarter, up 4.8 percent from the second quarter of 2015 ($216,700). Forty-four metro areas (75 percent) showed gains in their median condo price from a year ago; 14 areas had declines. NAR President Tom Salomone, broker-owner of Real Estate II Inc. in Coral Springs, Florida, says Realtors in most areas say market conditions have remained competitive well into the sum-

Regional breakdown

Total existing-home sales in the Northeast jumped 7.6 percent in the second quarter and are 11.3 percent above the second quarter of 2015. The median existing single-family home price in the Northeast was $273,600 in the second quarter, up 1.6 percent from a vear ago.

In the Midwest, existinghome sales leaped 10.4 percent in the second quarter and are 6.6 percent higher than a year ago. The median existing single-family home price in the Midwest increased 5.1 percent to $191,300 in the second quarter from the same quarter a year ago. Existing-home sales in the South inched forward 0.3 percent in the second quarter and are 4.2 percent higher than the second quarter of 2015. The median existing single-family home price in the South was $214,900 in the second quarter, 5.9 percent above a year earlier.

In the West, existing-home sales climbed 1.4 percent in the second quarter but are 2.2 percent below a year ago. The median existing single-family home price in the West increased 6.5 percent to $346,500 in the second quarter from the second quarter of

Condo association treasurer vexed over audit request letter

Q: I am the treasurer of our condominium association and received a letter from a homeowner requesting to conduct an independent audit of the association's books and records. The homeowner is claiming that the association has refused to give him the documents he needed. He is threatening to sue the association but has not given an identification of exactly what records he wants to look at. He has also made previous requests for records but they have been vague.

What do you think? A: I think that he is obviously looking to require you to produce records for an improper purpose. In a recent case out of Texas, the Appeals Court agreed with the trial court that the homeowner's request on similar facts had not been specific enough as to which records he wanted. However, in that case, some of the requests were verbal, were either unclear or sought records that had already been provided to the person. It may also be relevant as was in this case that the homeowner was angry with, and rude to the members of the Board of Directors and refused to acknowledge that he lost his position when another treasurer won that seat on the board after election. Frequently, people who are disgruntled use a request for documents as an excuse to punish the association. Your lawyer should be problem successfully. Q: I read about a recent case concerning riparian rights on artificial bodies of water. Can you clarify that

able to lead you through this

A: The black letter common law rule is that riparian rights do not attach to artificial bodies of water So if a pond was created artificially, for example, in a case where the prior owner had installed a dam, the court has held that there were no riparian rights. The court in that case said that the dam turned the natural water course into an artificial one, defeating the claim of riparian rights. To be sure, you should review your case with an experienced real estate attorney.

Morning routines can set you up for success

BY DEANNA HARTLEY CAREERBUILDER

aking up early and getting a head start on the day can be an uphill climb — but mornings don't always have to be so cumbersome. Some professionals stick to specific morning routines that help them get the most out of their workdays.

Here are some practical tips you can try to turn your morning around and set you up for a more productive day.

Wake up early. This can be difficult if you're not a morning person, but a lot of successful professionals wake up early to maximize their time. "An extra hour in the morning allows me to squeeze more into my day, especially while the office is still fairly empty," says Arsineh Ghazarian, co-founder and CEO of Zveil, a bridal veil design company and online retailer.

Get some exercise. One of the last things you may feel like doing when you wake up is working out, but some professionals swear by it.

Daisy Jing, founder of the beauty product line Banish, says she has found a way to make herself accountable and help her stick with her plan. "Book early morning fitness classes. I actually pay ahead of time — (for example,) I pay $20 to book the 7 a.m. class," she says. "Once you invest in something — even $20 you are afraid to lose it. I have never missed a morning fitness class I've already paid for. It's my way of giving myself an artificial deadline so I don't waste time in the morning, go to sleep earlier

Get your daily dose of news. Paige Arnof-Fenn,

the night before and accomplish more things throughout founder and CEO of strategic marketing firm Mavens & Moguls, says she listens to NPR on the radio while getting ready for work so she can catch up on the latest news around the world.

Similarly, other professionals find it helpful to consume the news as part of their morning routines, "Upon getting to my office around 8:20 a.m., I spend 30 minutes reading news sites and business blogs to catch up with current developments and remove any temptation to be distracted later on," says Noel

McCann, a marketing analyst at HomeSuite, an online marketplace dedicated to short-term furnished rentals.

Strategize and organize your day. One way to get the good ideas flowing is to plan and strategize the rest of your day to be more efficient and productive.

"I am in the office every day usually by 7 a.m., so I am able to chart out my schedule for the day uninterrupted," says Lukas Krause, CEO of Real Property Management. "I prioritize the things I know

I have to get done based on our strategic objectives and key milestone dates, and then jump right into the day."

Check work email — or not. There are mixed feelings on whether you should check your work email before arriving at the office.

Some say it's a good practice because it helps avoid surprises. "The very first thing I do is check my work email inbox. This helps me plan for the upcoming workday, not to mention avoid surprises that could disrupt my productivity," McCann says.

On the other hand, there is a case for saving this task for

"No work-related emails first thing — the day will have plenty of opportunities for work," says Marty Fukuda, chief operating officer at N2 Publishing, a company that produces custom magazines. "I prefer to ease into the day by catching up on news or sports while eating breakfast. It helps to minimize stress by taking a few moments just to relax first thing."

Here's How It Works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 arid, broken into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the shows that the

Ford Explorer Sport—with stickers starting at about $45,000 versus the low $30,000s for a standard version of the vehicle—has the highest percentage of Gen X buyers of any non-luxury SUV in the United States, reflecting what the company calls a generational preference "for exclusivity and performance at a great value.'

The sporty version of Explorer delivers 365 horsepower versus about 275 for the standard version, and it has grabbed a significant 15 percent of total nameplate sales since its debut in 2014. Nearly 40 percent of Explorer Sport buyers were born between 1965 and 1978 compared with 23 percent of buyers of other midsize SUVs, Ford said.

These buyers "highly rate such attributes as 'power and pickup,' 'fun to drive' and 'overall performance," Omar Odeh, Ford Explorer marketing manager, told me. "The best part is

At least with they represent incremental buyers for us, in that some don't even set out looking at the Ford brand."

GenXers might feel fortunate that the Ford brand is looking at them. Auto marketers demonstrate a lot of anxiety, of course, about what kind of customer the car-shunning, ridesharing Generation Y will become. And baby boomers still represent their most reliable cohort for luxury sales.

A simple glance at the numbers shows why it's easy for auto brands and most other marketers to overlook the GenX generation: Americans in that demographic, now ages 35 to 50, number only about 66 million compared with about 75 million each of baby boomers and millennials. And at this point, the boomer generation still retains the largest concentration of wealth, while Gen Y is setting the

But Generation X presents some compelling opportunities nonetheless. Boomers felt the need to display their status in more obvious ways than Gen Xers do," according to Sheryl Connelly, Ford's manager of global trends and futuring. "While both groups are hugely important, automakers need to pay special attention to Gen Xers. Our Explorer Sport fits the profile of the successful member of Generation X."

Specifically, for instance, the US household income for a buyer of Explorer Sport is $175,000 versus $112,000 for the average midsize SUV buyer, revealed a study for Ford by MaritzCX. And those Explorer Sport customers who do trade in a vehicle are twice as likely as average midsize SUV buyers (12 percent versus 6 percent) to trade in a premium one. and they're more willing to give a

"The reason they're so important," Odeh told me about GenX-ers, "is unlike boomers, who are drawn to

"Part of the reason is education levels: Gen Xers are highly educated and able to look at brands like Ford and realize that, for the same money, they're able to get more value, performance and styling without having to step up an extra $10,000 to $20,000."

In that regard, he explained, Explorer Sport is particularly attractive because 'for about $45,000, Generation X buyers can get a 365-horsepower SUV. If they want anything like that in the premium segment, they'd have to pay close to $65,000. They can get everything they want without having to compromise financially.

"And Explorer Sport delivers

more on their sense of adventure. More than previous generations, they want to go out and experience life—camping, spending time with their children outside—rather than just having something parked on their driveway. They're more experiential." Moreover, Explorer and Ford's other SUVs, Edge and Escape, are dramatically more fuel-efficient than just a few years ago, especially those versions that feature EcoBoost engines. "Once you reach more than 20 MPG, most consumers are very comfortable with the fuel economy, and in the mid- to upper-20s, they're extremely comfortable," Odeh said.

'We see this across our lineup.'

Auto insurance through AAA. From the peace of mind experts.

For generations, AAA has been providing its customers with peace of mind. But recently, drivers who switched to auto insurance through AAA got something more – savings of up to 35%, with additional discounts available for bundling with home insurance, being a member of AAA, safe driving records, air bags, car alarms and more.

This office is a locally owned and operated business and a proud supporter of our community. Let me show you how you can have real peace of mind with insurance through AAA.
