

No Marker List

Incomplete burial records for Rural Hill Cemetery make it impossible to know exactly how many individuals are buried in the cemetery without a grave marker. This list is an attempt to identify as many of these individuals as possible. Combining information from existing cemetery records, obituaries, death certificates and other sources, we have compiled a list of over 800 people who were most likely (and probably still are) interred at Rural Hill. (See Statements and Disclaimers for further comments.)

The resources referenced in this list are as follows:

Death Certificate: The entry in the “Place of Burial or Removal” or “Burial, Cremation, or Removal” field of the certificate was included here. This space was left blank if no death certificate was found, or if we were unable to view it. Note that when many death certificates were filled out, it was not properly indicated whether the location listed was the burial location or the removal (to) location. A person could have died in one location and was removed to a second location for the funeral, but their actual burial location is not listed on the death certificate.

Obituary: When a burial location was listed in an individual’s obituary, it was included here. When an obituary was found with no burial location mentioned, this was indicated as “not specified.” If no obituary was found for an individual, this space was left blank. Note that most of the obituaries are from the Northville Record, but other local newspapers and out-of-state papers were also consulted.

BATC (Burton Abstract and Title Company): For a full explanation of this resource, see Sources. A “yes” in this space means that the individual appeared in the burial records for Rural Hill Cemetery between 1886 and early 1908. A “no” means that the person died during this time period, but for some reason their name was not in the burial records. An “n/a” means that the person died after the 1908 cutoff date for this resource.

City Records: See “Northville City Records” in Sources for a full listing of the records consulted for this category. If an individual’s burial was recorded in any of these records, a “yes” appears in this space. In many cases, an exact burial location for the person was indicated, but sometimes only a name was recorded. A “no” means that this individual was not found in any of the records in the City’s possession.

Cemetery Connections / Comments: If a person’s exact burial location was recorded in the City Records, it is indicated here. For cases of an unknown burial location, an effort was made to determine the deceased’s connection to Rural Hill. They may have had family members who purchased a lot and/or were also buried at Rural Hill themselves. Using this evidence, we were occasionally able to deduce an individual’s location in a specific family lot. Other individuals died at one of Northville’s institutions (like Maybury Sanitarium, Eastlawn Sanitarium, Sessions Hospital or Northville State Hospital) and perhaps had nowhere else to be buried. If no specific reason could be found for a person’s burial at Rural Hill, “no known connections” was indicated.
